PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:2 living God. No idol of metal or wood, but the giver of life. appear before God? Israel's worship was entry into God's presence, located in His earthly sanctuary. All male Israelites were required to worship together three times each year (Ex 23:17; Dt 16:16). See ESV note.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:3 they. Enemies who ridicule both God and His people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:4 lead them in procession. Suggests past leadership in the temple liturgy that he longs to repeat. festival. Cf Dt 16.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:5–6 This refrain captures the reality of faith: sorrow amid trials, yet certainty in God's care.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:5 cast down. Conversing with his soul, the psalmist recognizes intense grief (v v 6, 11; 43:5). Consider Christ in Gethsemane (Mt 26:38). Jerome: "Never let suggestions of evil grow on you … Slay the enemy while he is small … nip the evil in the bud" (NPNF 2 6:24). Hope in God. Self-admonition to trust in God during exile and sorrows. my salvation. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:6 land of Jordan … Hermon. Psalmist's temporary home (he may be in exile) at the source of the Jordan River, beyond the northern border of Israel. See color map 2. Mount Mizar. Lit, "hill of littleness"; location unknown.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:7 Deep calls to deep. Imagery of thirsting for water in v v 1–2 changes to that of God-sent floods that overwhelm.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:8 commands His steadfast love. See p 843. Psalm centers on this hope in the middle of every trouble. His song. Perhaps this very psalm, which declares the Lord's mercies.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:9 forgotten me? Desperate but confident prayer; psalmist asks if God has abandoned him, though he knows He has not.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:10 deadly wound. Blasphemous mockery cuts the psalmist painfully.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 42:11 Hope in God. Emphatic repetition of v v 5–6; through sorrow and turmoil, our God is the true Savior.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 42 The psalmist experiences despair at the seeming victory of the godless and his separation from God's merciful presence at the temple. We, too, should desire God's presence, hear His Word in public worship, and receive the salvation that He gives in the Word. In the midst of our suffering and troubles, and against all appearances to the contrary, our Lord Jesus is our Savior and dwells among us in preaching and Communion to save us. • O living God, I thirst for Your mercy. Answer my prayer, for You are my salvation. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 43 See Ps 42 intro.

Format: V v 1–2, plea for vindication; v v 3–4, guidance back to the temple; v 5, refrain of hope.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 43:1 Vindicate. Courtroom language. Psalmist appeals to God as a just judge. ungodly. All who set themselves against God and His people, whether ancient or modern.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 43:2 rejected me? See note, 42:9. The oppressed psalmist makes his complaint against God, yet takes refuge in Him by prayer. enemy. See note, v 1.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 43:3 Send out. God is source of all light and truth, which come from Him as gifts. E.g., Jesus is incarnate light (Jn 8:12; Ps 27:1) and truth (Jn 14:6). holy hill. Mount Zion, the place of the temple in Jerusalem. There God, who is present everywhere, mercifully located Himself for His people. See "Zion," p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 43:4 altar of God. Either the altar of incense in the Holy Place or the burnt offering altar. See notes, Ex 27:1–8; 30:1–10. Though any Israelite might bring a sacrifice, it was presented by the priests alone. The author may have performed liturgical duties in the temple. See note, 42:4. lyre. Levites who were sons of Korah played stringed instruments for temple worship. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 43:5 See note, 42:5.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 43 The psalmist desires vindication for the cause of his sufferings. He asks God for the light and truth that come from His dwelling so that he might return to His sanctuary in joyful worship. In an ungodly world, you, too, are assailed by sin, death, and the devil. Yet God will comfort you by His life-sustaining Word. • Lead me to Your dwelling, O God, my God, and open my mouth with Your praise and song. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 44 Lament in which Israel complains to God after suffering some national calamity and/or military defeat. They are chastened and confused that God has permitted this to befall them. Maskil. See p 841. Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro.

Format: V v 1–8, God has helped in the past; v v 9–16, where is God now?; v v 17–22, God's people declare their innocence; v v 23–26, bold prayer for relief.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:1 our fathers have told us. Fathers were responsible for teaching the faith (Dt 6:7), as well as general education. See note, Pr 1:8; see also pp 775–78. deeds … in their days. God's mighty acts of deliverance for His people; deliverance of the 12 tribes from slavery in Egypt and the giving of the Promised Land when He made them a nation (Ex 10:2; Dt 6:20–25; Ps 78:3–4).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:2 drove out the nations. Not human might, but God alone gave the land by driving out Israel's enemies (Jsh 3:10; Ps 78:55). peoples. Former inhabitants of Canaan.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:3 right hand and Your arm. See p 843. light of Your face. Biblical expression for the Lord's gracious favor shining on us like a bright, storm-free sky (4:6; Nu 6:25–26). Psalmist describes God in human terms as having "hand," "arm," and "face." In Christ, God has taken flesh fully. delighted. "All this [giving] He does only out of fatherly, divine goodness and mercy, without any merit or worthiness in me" (SC, First Article, p xxxvi).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:4 my King. See "I," "me" in v v 6, 15. Even under a human king, the psalmist recognizes God personally as the true King. See pp 1565–66. Jacob! The human father of Israel (Gn 32:28) for whom, and through whom, God ordains salvation in the promise of blessing, fulfilled in Christ.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:5 through Your name. The Lord's name (Hbr yahweh) is not just a label by which He is known. Every attribute of His divine, saving character stands behind this name. Cf Ex 3:14–15. See "name," p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:8 boasted. When Israel was attacked in the past, God won the victory and was the ground for their boasting. thanks to Your name. God made Himself accessible through His name in the place where He resided on earth for His people: the tabernacle and Jerusalem temple (cf Dt 12:5, 11). The psalm switches between the singular ("my," v 4) and plural ("we," v 5) as the psalmist speaks for the nation but also prays as an individual within the nation. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:9 not gone out. From the nation's perspective, God's behavior has changed: Israel's armies now go into battle without God. His absence causes their defeat.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:10 spoil. As Israel retreats, their abandoned camp becomes booty for the enemy.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:11 among the nations. Israel's defeat makes many Israelites slaves to other nations.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:12 Complaint that God has cheaply sold His people to their enemies. He has made a bad bargain, dishonoring His own name among the nations.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:14 byword … laughingstock. Because their God seems powerless to help, they are held in contempt, the butt of jokes.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:16 avenger. Vengeful enemy holding up defeated Israel to scorn.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:17 Your covenant. Without explicitly accusing God of being unfaithful, Israel maintains their faithfulness to the covenant given in Ex 19–24.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:19 place of jackals. Desolate place, suitable only for scavenging animals, which eat the bodies of the fallen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:20 spread out our hands. Posture of prayer. See p 1277.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:21 He knows. Psalmist calls God as witness to their faithfulness.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:22 for Your sake we are killed. Cry of God's people, who charge that God is hostile and indifferent. Although God allows suffering for reasons known to Him alone, we can yet be certain of His steadfast love (v 26; Rm 8:36). A great reversal: for our sake, He is killed! The innocent One who suffered all things, even death for us, then rose as Conqueror (Rm 8:31–39).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:23 sleeping. Charge against God for His slowness to help the pious, while the godless escape. The Lord rests (Gn 2:2), but He does not sleep as we do.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:24 hide … forget. God is accused of withholding mercy and refusing to answer prayer (13:1).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 44:26 Rise up … Redeem. Final appeal that their Redeemer God deliver them. steadfast love! See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 44 The psalmist recounts God's past faithfulness but complains that God is now against His people, letting them suffer defeat despite their faithfulness to Him. They petition Him to help them once more. As we undergo affliction, we are tempted to believe that God has deserted us or is unfairly punishing us. God is always "for you" despite everything you see, feel, or think to the contrary. God is not sleeping but helps, redeems, and loves—indeed, "He … did not spare His own Son but gave Him up for us all" (Rm 8:32). • Awake, O Lord, and come to our side. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 45 Royal psalm celebrating the marriage of the ideal king to his bride. Shows the close connection between the song of the temple, where God dwelled, and the royal court, where His king sat enthroned. It enlarges the scope of the messianic prophecy recorded in Ps 2 (cf 2:1–11; 2Sm 7). The prayer addressed to God (v v 3, 6), as well as this king (v v 1, 7), depicts the "anointed" in a way that would have exceeded any Davidic king. Whoever the king of the original setting is, he foreshadows that future One "greater than Solomon" (Mt 12:42). Our Lord Jesus Christ gave Himself up for, and is intimately united to, His Bride, the Church (cf Eph 5:25–27). Luth: "[This] is a prophecy of the Gospel and the kingdom of Christ, adorned with magnificent, splendid, and powerful words. For it portrays Christ as a king—with all kingly splendor, … having likewise a fine castle, a grand host of ladies-in-waiting, a beautiful queen and children forever. This is all nothing else than a spiritual picture of the Gospel of Christ, His Spirit, grace, church, and eternal life, of war against sin, death, law, devil, flesh, world, and all evil" (PILM, p 62). according to Lilies. Probably a name for a specific melody (cf the likewise Christological Ps 69). Maskil. See p 841. Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro. a love song. Luth: "wedding lyric" (AE 12:200). Actually plural, "a song of loves," that refers to bridal virgins or maidens, including the bride herself, or possibly a reference to accompaniment for the female vocal range, namely, the soprano key. The psalm likely contains features of the wedding ceremony.

Format: V 1, announcement; v v 2–3, address to king; v v 4–5, appeal for action; v v 6–9, the king's splendor; v v 10–12, address to bride; v v 13–15, the bride's splendor; v v 16–17, the couple's future.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:1 a pleasing theme. Lit, "a good word." Ambr: "He is the Word given forth from the heart of the Father, because He came forth from the Father" (NPNF 2 10:279). king. No specific ruler of the Davidic house is named, but each Davidic king foreshadows the great King, the coming Messiah. ready scribe. His expert "tongue" faithfully speaks the "verses" of this psalm as one inspired to write and speak from the Holy Spirit.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:2 grace is poured upon Your lips. This king is a man, but more than an ordinary man by the "grace" that pours out in His speech. blessed. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:3 Gird Your sword on Your thigh. Like a true king, He is a warrior ready to battle for His people. O mighty one. Hbr gibbor, divine name, messianic title (cf Is 9:6; Lk 1:49).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:4 right hand. This kingly hero and groom inspires awe by His victorious acts. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:6 Your throne, O God. This king is thoroughly human, a son of David, and therefore subject to death. Yet He is also addressed as, and must be, none other than the true God. scepter. Heb 1:8–9 applies 45:6–7 to prove Christ's divinity by His superiority over the angels as His rule extends over all things.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:7 anointed You. Verbal form of the word "Messiah." As in a coronation ceremony (cf 1Sm 10:1; 16:3). God anoints and sends Him forth. The Anointed is addressed as, and truly is, God worthy of all worship. Iren: "The Spirit designates both [of them] by the name of God—both Him who is anointed as Son, and Him who does anoint, that is, the Father" (ANF 1:419). Jn D: "Scripture often uses the past tense instead of the future…. For as yet God was not seen nor did He dwell among men when this was said [prophetically]" (NPNF 2 9:76b). oil of gladness. Joy and abundance of the Holy Spirit (Is 61:1, 3). companions. Guests who have come from every place for this royal occasion.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:8 myrrh and aloes and cassia. Expensive perfumes and spices. Cf Pr 7:17; Sg 4:14. ivory palaces. Describes richest of royal dwellings, decorated with ivory inlay or carvings. Neighboring Phoenicians were famous for their ivory work, which they exported to Israel. Carvings include depictions of plants, animals, humans, and sphinxes. See diagram, p 544. instruments. Festive music and songs praise the exalted King. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:9 ladies of honor. Ladies-in-waiting and "daughters of kings" join the wedding procession. queen. Hus: "This Jerusalem, our mother, the temple of the Lord, the kingdom of heaven and the city of the Great King; and this whole church" (The Church, p 5). gold of Ophir. Gifts of gold adorn the chosen queen (source of Solomon's gold; cf 1Ki 9:26–28).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:10 daughter. King calls to his bride just as Christ calls and regenerates His Bride, the Church, by the Gospel. father's house. The bride leaves her former life and relationships to be joined with her adoring husband.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:11 your lord. The royal wife submits to her husband's love and care, just as the Church submits to Christ, her Lord and Savior (Eph 5:22–24). bow. Possibly part of the marriage rite. On Israelite weddings, see pp 54–55.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:12 Tyre. Ancient Phoenician city on the Great Sea known for its wealth. Its king was the first to officially recognize David's reign (2Sm 5:11). Representing all nations, it is here a shadow of the King and His kingdom's universal reach. gifts. Seeking the favor of this desirable bride.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:13–15 Bride and her maids would dress richly and be led to the groom's home. Such garments were often dyed scarlet and embroidered with gold thread (2Sm 1:24; Ezk 16:13). See note, Sg 2:4.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:13 princess. The "daughter" of v 10, the bride. her chamber. Wherein she prepared for the wedding call. interwoven with gold. Her clothing is majestically embroidered, just as the Church is clothed by the grace and perfect righteousness of her Christ.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:14 many-colored. Embroidered. Further describing the bride's beauty, which symbolizes the unsurpassed beauty of God's true people. virgin companions. As the King has "companions" (v 7), so does the bride have bridesmaids. Cf Mt 25:1–13.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:15 palace of the king. Bride and her attendants depart from her father's house and joyfully process to the home of the king for marriage and the consummation. (For betrothal language and the heavenly joys of life with Christ, cf 2Co 11:2.)

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:16 all the earth. The royal "sons" of this marriage will share in the expansive rule of this kingdom (cf 1Pt 2:9; Rv 5:10, which talk of believers as royalty).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 45:17 Your name. Psalmist's song will extol our great God and King into eternity.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 45 The psalmist uses a royal wedding to portray our King, who is God, and the fulfillment of His kingdom in His Son. The grand picture of this King and this marriage—illustrating Christ and His Bride, the Church—stands in contrast to the hard realities of suffering and death that we continue to see in the Church and endure in life. Behind the weak appearances of our life in the Church, Jesus Christ forgives, cleanses, and nourishes us by the baptismal washing and holy food He gives for His Bride (Eph 5:26, 29). • Though our lives are yet hidden with Christ in God, Your throne and reign, O God, are forever and ever. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 46 Song of complete trust in God as a strong refuge, particularly in the face of crisis, and the basis of Luther's best-known hymn. The "Most High" (v 4), the "LORD of hosts … [and] the God of Jacob" (v 7) has chosen to dwell in an earthly location. By God's grace, "the city of God" (v 4) was among His people Israel (v v 5, 7) in Jerusalem on little Mount Zion. Luther paraphrased this psalm in the hymn "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," asking the question, "Ask ye, Who is this?" and answering boldly, "Jesus Christ it is, Of Sabaoth Lord, And there's none other God" (LSB 656:2). See the related theme of Ps 48. To the choirmaster. See p 993. Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro. A Song. Suggests vocal arrangement, without instrumental accompaniment.

Format: V v 1–3, confidence in God; v v 4–7, the Lord is with us; v v 8–9, the Lord settles the matter; v v 10–11, the Lord is with us.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:1 God is our refuge and strength. As we experience fear or trouble, we can remember that God is identified as "very present" and a "well proved" (see ESV note) place of protection.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:2 earth gives way. Any turmoil that threatens body or soul (e.g., a tsunami, cancer, death of a loved one, satanic assaults). Ultimately, it is a glimpse of the final judgment.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:3 Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:4 river. Located on a mountain, Jerusalem has no literal river, though it does have springs. The imagery depicts a source of never-ending refreshment or inner strength. Ambr: "The Holy Spirit is the River [Is 66:12]" (NPNF 2 10:113). Cf Rv 22:1–3; Jn 4:10; and 7:37–39, where out of Christ flow rivers of living water that "make glad" by bringing life. Note that with God the chaotic waters (v 3) have calmed and changed to be a source of life and gladness. Bern: "All joy from other sources is sorrow, all pleasure is pain, all sweetness is bitter, all beauty is mean, everything else, in fine, whatever may have power to please, is irksome" (SLSB, p 223). city of God. Occurs only in Korah psalms (46:4; 48:1; 87:3). The mighty ruler of the universe makes the odd but marvelous choice to reside on earth with His people. This located presence is different than omnipresence, by which God fills all things. In His Church—the NT "city of God"—the Lord dwells as a refuge for sinners in the flesh-and-blood Jesus (cf Heb 12:22–26).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:5 in the midst. God is located in the place under assault, where fear and trouble try to rule.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:6 He utters His voice, the earth melts. Depicts thunder and lightning. God's "voice" is His Word, which renders judgment but also creates (Gn 1), raises from the dead (Jn 11:43), and absolves (Mt 9:2).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:7 Lord of hosts. Not Hbr 'elohim, as expected in Book Two of the Psalter, but yahweh, the almighty commander of heaven's armies and defender against all enemies (see p 1291). God of Jacob. Recalls the promise (Gn 28:11–16; 32:22–30) and grace by which God chose Jacob (Mal 1:2–3; Rm 9:13). The refrain sings of both God's might and grace (v 11).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:8 desolations. The Lord carries out mighty works of judgment that ultimately bring peace (v v 9–10).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:9 makes wars cease. Only God, not people, can do this, even as Christ alone defeated our enemies of sin, death, and the devil. Cf Is 65:17–25.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:10 Be still. God's rebuke to a restless, raging world that must obey, just as wind and sea obeyed Christ's identical word during a storm (Mk 4:39).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 46:11 Repetition of v 7, emphasizing both the reason and source of our confidence.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 46 The almighty and Most High God controls nature, safeguards His chosen city against attacking foes, and stands over all nations at war. He is our sure fortress. In mercy, He makes Himself accessible and is, therefore, "God with us." We as individuals, and as the Church, experience many troubles in this life on account of the devil, the world, and our own sinful nature. Yet amid every crisis of body or soul, God is with us in His Son so that we may face every upheaval. • O Lord, make us to know You as our refuge and strength, our very present help in every trouble. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 47 Psalm in praise of both the kingship of the Lord and the universal reign of the "God of Abraham" (v 9). The psalmist addresses no less than "all peoples," insisting that all should praise the Lord for what He has done in Israel. Luth: "The 47th psalm is a prophecy of Christ, that He shall rise up and become king over all the world, without a battle, simply through shouts, songs, and trumpet calls, that is, through the joyful preaching of the Gospel, just as the walls of Jericho fell by trumpet blasts and shouts, without any weapons at all" (PIML, p 64). The psalm indicates a liturgical procession ("gone up" to the temple mount, v 5) and was possibly used in the temple worship during a chief festival, such as the Feast of Tabernacles, Weeks, or Booths, which included the "sound of a trumpet" (v 5; cf Lv 23:34). Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro.

Format: V v 1–4, praise the great king; v v 5–7, God ascends to His throne; v v 8–9, God reigns.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 47:1 loud songs of joy! Excitement greets the great king, who is God (v v 2, 6–7). Joash was acclaimed with loud clapping at his enthronement (2Ki 11:12).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 47:2 feared. See p 842. The great king, not merely over some local tribe but over all the earth. See pp 1565–66.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 47:3 subdued. The conquest of Canaan, when God delivered the Promised Land to His chosen people by fighting for them.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 47:4 chose our heritage. Inheritance by which God made them a people with a land and gave the promise of the coming Messiah (Gn 12:2–3; Dt 7:6–9). He does all this out of mercy, without any merit or worthiness in Jacob. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 47:5 gone up with a shout. Height and center of the psalm, where the King who came down has, so to speak, completed His task and "gone up" to reign on His holy throne (v 8). Yet He is with His people. The same words are used in 2Sm 6:15 to recall the ark of the Lord going up to the city of David, making it the place of God's dwelling. Christ ascended to "fill all things" (Eph 4:9–10) after once coming down to atone for sins when He ascended the throne of the cross. Chem: "Christ, having completed the work of redemption and having defeated death and the devil, ascended into heaven. Therefore Christ is truly God" (LTh 1:98).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 47:7 King of all the earth. See note, v 2. He is transcendent, but also present with His people. psalm. A title for 13 psalms (Hbr maskil), here it refers to a special song of praise. See p 841.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 47:9 God of Abraham. Countless princes of the non-Israelite peoples are to be included in the covenant. God brings worldwide blessing through the exclusive promise given Abraham, through whom "all the families of the earth shall be blessed" (Gn 12:3; Rm 4; Gal 3:7–9). Believers are true children of Abraham (Jn 8:39). shields. The princes, so called because they were to protect their subjects.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 47 All nations are called to praise God for what He has done for and in Israel. Israel is called to praise Him as their great King, demonstrating His universal rule and salvation. God's promised salvation is for all nations and has been carried out in time and history by His Son, who became man precisely to be "lifted up" on the cross and so "draw all people" to Himself (Jn 12:32). • Sing praises to our God, for He is the King of all the earth, which He has saved through His Son. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 48 Song of Zion (v v 2, 11–12; cf 76; 84; 87) that, like previous psalms (46–47), takes up the theme that the Lord Most High, the "great king over all the earth" (47:2) dwells in little Jerusalem, "the city of our God" (48:1, 2, 8; cf 46:4; 87:3). No specific event or attack is named; the psalm breathes a setting greater than just a local conflict. Accordingly, this place is the "joy of all the earth" (v 2), a "fortress" against every enemy (v v 3–4), and the place of His "steadfast love" (v 9) for His congregation. Jewish writings collected in the Mishnah indicate that the Levitical choir sang Ps 48 (LXX Ps 47) as the assigned psalm for the second day of the week for the morning and evening sacrifices (cf 2Ch 2:4) before the temple was destroyed in AD 70 (Tamid 7:4). Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro.

Format: V v 1–3, royal Zion; v v 4–8, the king's panic; v v 9–11, joy in God's love and righteousness; v v 12–14, God will guide us forever.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:1 city of our God! See Ps 48 intro; see also note, 46:4. The phrase "our God" appears as a frame (v v 1, 14) and as thematic center for the psalm (v 8).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:2 joy of all the earth. Jerusalem is only an earthly city. Yet God is present to save sinners by His service in the temple sacrifice and later by His Son, who is to be crucified just outside the walls.

This brings the joy of salvation to all the earth. Zion. See p 844. far north. Moriah, north of Zion. It rejected the Canaanite notion that the seat of the gods on Mount Zaphon was the center of the universe (Ezk 28:2; Is 14:13). See map, p 493. city of the great King. Cf 47:2.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:4–8 The nations fear God's present wrath but are not driven to repentance by it.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:4 kings. Not identified. Perhaps Sennacherib, who took the name "great king" (2Ki 18:19), and "kings" under him (Is 10:8) who were defeated in the days of Hezekiah (2Ki 19:35–36). Regardless, God's people of any time can sing this psalm with the victory of Christ and even the final judgment in mind.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:7 Psalmist shifts and speaks to God directly here and in v v 9–11. east wind … shattered. Notorious gale. God shows that even the mighty cannot withstand His power. ships of Tarshish. Great merchant ships. Tarshish. May be Phoenician colony of Tartessus in Spain.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:8 As we have heard, so have we seen. What they had heard of God's greatness from their fathers (cf 44:1), they now see "in the city of the LORD" where the God of Jerusalem delivers them. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:9 steadfast love. See p 843. temple. Earthly location of God's love and mercy (e.g., 2Ch 5:13), as demonstrated by the blood sacrifices He commands and gives (pointing to Christ).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:10 name … reaches to the ends of the earth. It reveals Him to His people and the whole world (cf 44:5, 8; 45:17). By it, He graciously "reaches" out from His temple to all peoples. right hand. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:11 daughters of Judah. Pictures towns clustering about a city as its "daughters."

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:12–13 towers … ramparts … citadels. Although the city was less imposing than other great cities, Jerusalem was a formidable fortress in its day.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 48:14 this is God. His dwelling is in Jerusalem, evidenced by His saving deeds. See Ps 48 intro.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 48 The Lord of heaven and earth makes His abode with humankind, where He is a strong fortress that shatters every enemy. He is, therefore, worthy of all praise, and we rightly "tell the next generation" (v 13) what He has done. What Mount Zion and temple worship were for ancient Israel, Christ's Church at worship is for us—the place where God mercifully dwells to save by His Word. • May we consider well Your steadfast love, O God, in the midst of Your temple. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 49 Wisdom psalm that instructs on the futility of wealth and worldliness, which stand in contrast to God's power to redeem from death. The refrain "Man in his pomp … is like the beasts that perish" (v v 12, 20) points to the certainty of death (v 9, "pit"; v 15, "Sheol"). The psalm teaches God's power to ransom the soul out of death (v 15). Wisdom (cf Pr 8:22–31) is ultimately fulfilled in and personified by Jesus Christ (cf Mt 11:19; Lk 11:49; also 1Co 1:24, 30). Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro.

Format: V v 1–4, appeal to hear wisdom; v v 5–9, insights about preciousness of human life; v v 10–12, everyone dies; v v 13–15, God rescues me from Sheol; v v 16–20, the proud are like beasts.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:1 all peoples! Not only Israel, but "all inhabitants of the world," who exist for a brief lifetime do well to hear this message.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:3 meditation. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:4 proverb … riddle. This wisdom saying from God promises also to answer the vexing question that only God can reveal. lyre. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:5 People trust in wealth as though it could bring happiness and immunity from death (cf v v 6–7). cheat. They use their wealth to make this life miserable.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:7–9 Wisdom sees that death is the great leveler of rich and poor. Truly no man. Only the God-man Jesus, "who gave Himself as a ransom for all" (1Tm 2:6; cf Mt 20:28), can fully pay the debt so that they "live on forever." These verses reveal the flaw of every false religion that seeks salvation through human effort.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:7 another. Lit, "brother."

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:9 pit. See p 792.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:10 he. Everyone can observe that no one escapes death. leave their wealth. Status does not follow people into death.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:11 homes forever. Narrow grave site is permanent.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:12 like the beasts. People, created in God's image but pompously strutting in sin and wealth, die like brutish animals. Cf v 20. Iren: "Having been created a rational being, he lost the true rationality, and living irrationally, opposed the righteousness of God" (ANF 1:466).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:13 people approve of their boasts. The foolish who admire and follow their confidence in riches will eventually join in death also. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:14 sheep … shepherd. They are like sheep herded away by death as their shepherd. appointed for Sheol. Destination of all. See p 792. death. See note, Jb 18:13. upright shall rule. Formerly oppressed, now they prevail. consumed. Death eats up flesh as it rots away.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:15 ransom my soul. God's solution for the universal human problem of v v 7–9. God can pay the ransom no person can raise to redeem his or her soul. Christ's victory swallowed death and paid the ransom in full (1Co 15:54; Is 25:7–8). See "redeem," p 843. receive. Same verb used of God's action when He took Enoch and Elijah (Gn 5:24; 2Ki 2:3, 5).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:17 he will carry nothing away. Cf Lk 12:16–21. his glory will not go down after him. See notes, v v 13–14.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:18 Switches from "he" to "you." Psalmist rhetorically reminds everyone—even you, dear reader—about the ultimate folly of trusting in wealth. Bern: "One man praises the Lord because He is mighty; another because He is good unto him; and again, another simply because He is good. The first is a slave, and fears for himself; the second mercenary, and desires somewhat for himself; but the third is a son, and gives praises to his Father" (SLSB, p 196).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:19 go to the generation. All people will die as their ancestors did before. never again. Both the artificial "light" of wealth and the light of life eternal are gone.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 49:20 See note, v 12.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 49 Wealth and earthly goods cannot buy off death. Those who foolishly rely on them find a very different end than those whose fortune and trust is in the Lord. In a culture saturated with great personal and national prosperity, our own relative wealth and advantage easily become false "gods" to which we look for all good things. Neither the god of money nor any person can pay the ransom price for sin or overcome death. Christ alone has done this for us by His death and resurrection. • Thanks be to God, who has ransomed my soul from the power of the grave and made me rich in blessings. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 50 This Asaph psalm is separated from the rest of the Asaph psalms (73–83) that begin Book Three of the Psalter. God speaks in the first person (v v 5, 7–15, 16b–23). Note the piling up of divine names from the beginning: v 1, "The Mighty One" ('El), "God" ('elohim), "the LORD" (yahweh), a combination found elsewhere only in Jsh 22:22; v 6 "judge"; v 14, "Most High"; v 21, "I Am" (see ESV note); v 22, "God" (rare Hbr word 'eloah). The divine judge is calling His people to account! See p 1227. Asaph. One of the Levites appointed by David to provide music for the temple services (1Ch 15:16–24; 25:1; 2Ch 29:30). The psalm gives an almost visionary scene that depicts a past, present, and future theophany (see p 39).

Format: V v 1–6, God the Lord comes to judge; v v 7–11, all belongs to Him; v v 12–15, God wants thanksgiving, fulfilled vows, and prayer; v v 16–18, neglect of God's Word; v v 19–21, evil speech; v v 22–23, God's threat and promise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:1 summons the earth. Israel's Lord, the covenant God, has a grievous complaint to make against His unfaithful people. But the whole world will hear it.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:2 Zion. See p 844. God shines forth. Manifests His glory in both power and mercy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:3 God comes. He is present at the temple as on Sinai. devouring fire … mighty tempest. Recalls Mount Sinai, where God first delivered His covenant to the frightened nation (Ex 19:18, 20; 20:18–19).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:4 He calls to the heavens. God issues a subpoena for all creation to appear as witnesses when He judges His people (cf Dt 31:28; 32:1; 1Pt 4:17).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:5 covenant. Israel stands in a special relationship to God by virtue of the first sacrifices (Ex 24:5–8; cf Gn 15:9–18), which the covenant worship forms kept in effect.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:6 heavens declare. Bearing witness to His righteousness. God Himself is judge! God alone is just and the judge, whether this visionary scene takes place in the past, present, or on the Last Day. See p 792. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:7 testify against you. God acts as prosecuting attorney as well as judge (see p 792). There will be no rebuttal witnesses against His truth.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:8 sacrifices. Daily temple services are done by rote, suggesting that God depends on such works. "Such passages do not condemn works, which God certainly had commanded as outward exercises in this government. They condemn the godless opinion that people thought, that by their works they appeased God's wrath, and so cast away faith" (Ap V 86).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:8–9 God's Law and sacrifices are not obsolete, but God's people are perverting the purpose of sacrifices and burnt offerings if they think they can put God under obligation to them by giving Him what He already owns (v v 7–11). Sacrifices are not magic, automatically bending God to grant wishes.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:10 every beast. Nothing that already belongs to our Creator can be "given" to Him! Right sacrifice is trust that acknowledges our need for His deliverance (v v 14–15).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:12 hungry. Priests received food portions from the temple sacrifices, but God does not hunger.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:13–14 Slain animals are an insult to God unless the sacrifice is offered to Him in humble recognition of total dependence on His unearned mercy (cf Lv 7:12–13). vows. Payment of vows (Lv 7:16) likewise is a sign of gratitude to God for answering prayer. See p 7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:15 call upon Me. See p 842. All our acts of worship and our entire lives are now offered to and accepted by God through His Son, the personal Savior whom we call upon in times of trouble, and who, without condition, promises to deliver us (cf Heb 13:15). glorify Me. Glorifying is never our work, but calling upon God and receiving His deliverance in thanksgiving (faith!) is the worship that glorifies Him. (See note, v v 13–14.) "God wants Himself to be known, He wants Himself to be worshiped, so that we receive benefits from Him and receive them because of His mercy, not because of our merits" (Ap IV 60; see XXIV 29).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:16 recite My statutes … covenant on your lips? God shifts from addressing the mindlessly religious (v v 7–15) to the outright "wicked" of Israel (v v 16–21). They could rattle off the statutes and the covenant as at the reading of the Law (Dt 31:10–13) or during covenant renewal (2Ki 23:1–3). Public allegiance hides private evil.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:17 hate discipline. Ignoring God's covenant and the instruction of His Word. cast My words behind you. Defying God as described in v v 18–20.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:18 thief … adulterers. Ter: "It is not enough that we do no such things ourselves, unless we break all connection also with those who do" (ANF 3:86). Cf Rm 1:32; 2:21–24.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:19 your tongue. Lies and slander are condemned in the Eighth Commandment.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:20 your own mother's son. Slander of the closest blood relative was considered the most heartless kind of betrayal.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:21 have been silent. God is not deaf, dumb, and blind to wickedness. He patiently awaits our repentance! Cf Rm 2:3–4. one like yourself. They show their contempt for God by viewing Him as tolerant of evil like themselves.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 50:23 orders his way. Shows the fruit of faith. Bern: "When your breasts are beaten with penitent hands, and your pavements worn with your knees, your altars heaped with vows and devout prayers, your cheeks furrowed with tears; when groan and sighs resound on all sides and the sacred roofs echo with spiritual songs instead of worldly pleadings, there is nothing which the citizens of heaven more love to look upon, nothing is more agreeable to the eyes of the Heavenly King" (SLSB, p 77). salvation. See p 843. Luth: "The last verse teaches us that to call upon God in distress and thank Him is the true worship, the most pleasing offering, and the right way to salvation" (PIML, p 68).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 50 God comes as a judge to reprimand His people for the unbelief that hides behind careless ritualism and hypocritical religiosity. We mask our sin by hiding behind false piety, or merely "going through the motions" of Christian worship (confessing, hearing, communing), ignoring the deadly seriousness of sin. Sin is not magically waved away; true repentance turns away from sin as the horror and poison that it is, and clings to the perfect, once for all sacrifice of God's Son dying on the cross. • O Lord, we receive Jesus and all the benefits of His sacrifice in Word and Sacrament. We praise and glorify You for this great salvation! Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 51 Fourth of seven penitential psalms (cf 6; 32; 38; 102; 130; 143). David confesses his sin with Bathsheba in this intensely personal lament that has become significant for the Church's liturgy (v v 10–12 in the Offertory, v 15 in the opening sentences of Matins and Vespers and as the Introit for Ash Wednesday). David not only explains sin and its deadly consequences as powerfully present in all people, but he also unfolds God's re-creative mercy as He works repentance and forgiveness. To the choirmaster … gone in to Bathsheba. David's confession (cf 2Sm 11:1–12:25) is intended for public worship, for the whole nation to pray (cf v v 18–19).

Format: V v 1–2, opening appeal for mercy; v v 3–6, confession of sin; v v 7–12, prayers for cleansing; v v 13–17, willing service of a contrite heart; v v 18–19, prayer for Zion.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:1 steadfast love … abundant mercy. David appeals not to God's justice but to His loving-kindness. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:2 Wash me. Filthy with evil deeds, David petitions God as the only one who can cleanse him (cf v 7).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:4 You only. Sin against our neighbors is ultimately against God, who created neighbors and put them there for us to love. justified. God (e.g. in condemning David through Nathan, 2Sm 12:7) always declares the right judgment: evil must be called evil. Like the thief on the cross (Lk 23:41), David accepts God's verdict. Cited in Rm 3:4 as Paul describes God alone as "true" and everyone else a "liar." See Ap XIIB 11.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:5 brought forth in iniquity, and in sin did my mother conceive me. Sexual union of husband and wife, which initiates life, is not itself sinful but commanded by God (Gn 1:28). David knows that it is not only what he occasionally does wrong that he must confess. His evil act brought to the surface the depth of his sinfulness (Gn 8:21; Ps 58:3). "This hereditary sin is such a deep corruption of nature that no reason can understand it. Rather, it must be believed from the revelation of Scripture. (See Psalm 51:5; Romans 6:12–13; Exodus 33:3; Genesis 3:7–19)" (SA III I 3). Mel: "He does not deplore the sin of [his] mother, but his own…. There was born with me an aversion away from God and a corrupted tendency. Therefore he testifies that there is sin in human beings which they bring with them when they are born" (Chem, LTh 1:272).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:6 inward being. More than just the soul (139:13–16; Jb 38:36).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:7 Purge … wash me. By God's hand alone, the stain of sin is removed. Chem: "He indicates that this is the proper use of these ceremonies, namely, that through them the merits of the Messiah are applied, and faith confirmed and sealed, as happens with us in the case of the sacraments" (LTh 2:649).hyssop. Plant with hairy branches, used to apply blood on doorposts at Passover, to sprinkle water for purification on those who had touched a corpse, and to cleanse leprosy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:8 You have broken. Even the body felt the crush of spiritual anguish (which can include physical illness) and relief by the joy of God's absolution.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:10 Create in me a clean heart. As God called "the heavens and the earth" into existence (Gn 1:1), so the coming into being of a clean heart requires the Word of the Creator. Chem: "[He means] a heart which rightly believes that it has been purified by God through faith" (LTh 2:572). Gr Naz: "The first wisdom is a life worthy of praise, and kept pure for God, or [rather] being purified for Him Who is all-pure and all-luminous, Who demands of us, as His only sacrifice, purification—that is, a contrite heart and the sacrifice of praise, and a new creation in Christ, and the new man…. By this a crew of fishermen have taken the whole world in the meshes of the Gospel-net" (NPNF 2 7:247). In the liturgy, v v 10–12 are the Offertory sung in response to God's Word and preaching. See p 959; see also FC SD II 26.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:11–12 Your presence. To be denied access to the earthly tabernacle of God's mercy is the worst of all possibilities to David. take not. The tragic example of Saul's rejection (1Sm 16:14) might have motivated this urgent request as David contemplated the ultimate end of a hardened heart: separation from God. "When holy people—still having and feeling original sin and daily repenting and striving against it—happen to fall into manifest sins (as David did into adultery, murder, and blasphemy [2 Samuel 11]), then faith and the Holy Spirit have left them. The Holy Spirit does not permit sin to have dominion, to gain the upper hand so it can be carried out, but represses and restrains it from doing what it wants [Romans 6:14]. If sin does what it wants, the Holy Spirit and faith are not present" (SA III III 43–44). Holy Spirit … willing spirit. Bas: "It is called 'Spirit of God,' 'Spirit of truth which proceeds from the Father,' 'right Spirit,' 'a leading Spirit.' … Names are borne by the Spirit in common with the Father and the Son, and He gets these titles from His natural and close relationship" (NPNF 2 8:15, 30).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:13 I will teach. God's forgiveness transforms the sinner as it does this king. A fruit of repentance is leading others to mercy as this psalm has done for generations. Cf Lk 22:32, Jesus' command to Peter.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:14 bloodguiltiness. Lit, "bloods"; Hbr expression for guilt. David's plot to cover up his adultery led to the bloody death of Uriah and others (cf 2Sm 11:17; 12:9), adding also this guilt to David.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:15 open my lips. David asks to now joyfully declare God's praise. Prayed in the liturgy, this verse is a profound part of the Christian's sacrifice of prayer and praise. "Such promises certainly ought to encourage and kindle our hearts to pray with pleasure and delight. For He testifies with His own Word that our prayer is heartily pleasing to Him. Furthermore, it shall certainly be heard and granted, in order that we may not despise it or think lightly of it and pray based on chance" (LC III 20).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:16 not be pleased with a burnt offering. God commanded ritual sacrifice for sins but not for empty formalism. The sincere heart trusts in the blood and sacrifice of the Lamb, who "takes away the sin of the world!" (Jn 1:29). Cf v 19, which does not contradict but interprets this verse.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:17 a broken spirit. Even the best sacrifice is nothing if done without a contrite heart, which knows it owes everything to God, deserves nothing from Him, and has forgiveness, life, and salvation in Him alone.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 51:19 right sacrifices. Rejected burnt offerings (v 16) give place to right ones offered by sinners transformed and accepted by God's grace. They are now offered with a contrite heart, which God creates by His Word.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 51 This anguished cry of confession from the depths of guilt finds God's absolution and renewal on the certain footing of grace alone (sola gratia). Sin is an inheritance, born in us, ever damaging us. None of our works can ever set us free from terror, despair, or death. However, God has blotted out even the worst of our sins—adultery and murder—by Jesus' sacrifice. • Holy Spirit, create me new again, giving joy for sadness. Have mercy on me, O God, and cleanse me from my sin. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 52 Deeply personal lament of David as he speaks directly to a vicious enemy (v v 1–7). He fearlessly faces this evil one, who has a twisted moral sense ("you love evil … and lying" [v 3]). David announces God's judgment (v 5) and comforts himself in God's "steadfast love" (v 8 echoes v 1). The tone is similar to that of Is 22:15–19. Maskil. See p 841. Doeg … Ahimelech. Chief of Saul's herdsmen, Doeg denounced Ahimelech the priest to Saul after he saw the fugitive David receive aid from him (1Sm 21:1–9). Bloodthirsty Saul declared Ahimelech guilty by association with David and ordered Doeg to slaughter Ahimelech, his family, 85 priests, and the whole city of Nob (1Sm 22:6–23).

Format: V v 1–4, deceitful tongue; v v 5–7, end of the deceitful; v v 8–9, life of the godly.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 52:1 mighty man? Specifically Doeg, but ultimately all who stand as self-satisfied liars against God and "boast of evil." David employs sarcasm; this is no heroic warrior but only Saul's shepherd acting big. David likely speaks this psalm against Saul, the chief culprit, since Doeg is only a secondary figure.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 52:2 sharp razor. Like the traitorous tongue whose testimony doomed Ahimelech, or the very sword that Doeg used to strike him down (1Sm 22:18–19).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 52:3 Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 52:5 tent. God will "snatch" and "tear" the evil man from his dwelling. from the land of the living. In contrast, the psalmist dwells securely like a deeply rooted "tree" in the "house of God" (v 8).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 52:6 laugh. Not simple vengeful glee but the assurance that God frustrates the evil designs of the "worker of deceit" (v 2).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 52:8 green olive tree. David finds refuge in God's steadfast love, even thriving like a firmly rooted, long-living tree. house of God. The temple in Jerusalem was not yet built, but God was accessible in His tabernacle.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 52:9 wait for Your name. God has not only revealed His name but also locates it, and so Himself and His mercy, for His people. See notes, 44:5, 8; 48:10; see also "name," p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 52 Confident prayer remembers God's promises, and it trusts and waits on God's justice and love. In an unbelieving world, the wicked attack what is good, boast, and even thrive in their evil. Does God care? Yes! God has overruled the way of the wicked by sending His own Son to suffer and even die at the hand of evil people so that, by His death and resurrection, He might comfort us by His enduring love. • I will thank You forever because You have done it! I will wait upon Your good name. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 53 Almost identical to Ps 14. In v v 2, 4, 5, and 6, the divine name Lord (Yahweh) is replaced, as one would expect in Book Two of the Psalter, by the term God (Elohim). In v 5, the content of 14:5–6 is recast. The superscription of Ps 53 is more elaborate than that of Ps 14. The order of the stories about men in 1Sm (ch 22 for Doeg; ch 25 for Nabal; and ch 26 for the Ziphites) is duplicated in three psalms: Ps 52 for Doeg; Ps 53 for the "fool" (Hbr nabal); and Ps 54 for the Ziphites. Mahalath. May mean a musical setting or a melody about sorrow. Appears also in Ps 88. Maskil. See p 841.

Format: Each verse is a separate stanza.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 53:1–3 (also 14:1–3) Cited by Paul in Rm 3:10–12 to make his case about the universal corruption of all people and thus their universal need for Christ's salvation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 53:1 There is no God. By nature, all people act as if there were no God. none who does good. David and the other psalmists also count themselves as unrighteous (e.g., 130:3; 143:2).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 53:2 seek after God. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 53:4 eat up my people. Evildoers satisfy their voracious appetites at the expense of others without any qualms or inhibitions.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 53:5 no terror! These words begin the chief difference between this and the nearly identical Ps 14, which may have been recast for this specific situation. God addresses His people by saying that there is no real cause for terror, for He will destroy the enemy "who encamps against" them. scatters the bones. God is already scattering their bones! They will not have the dignity of burial.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 53:6 Zion. See p 844; see also intros, Ps 46; 48. fortunes. God's deliverance from the present evil, pointing to that ultimate restoration by His messianic rule. Jacob. See note, 44:4. With its synonym, "Israel," Jacob designates not only God's people of the OT but the Church of all times.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 53 When evil fools encamp against God's people, He saves and restores them. We are all foolishly corrupt, doing iniquity and not good. We do not understand or seek after God where He gives Himself. We all fall away from Him. The salvation that comes for us out of Zion is Jesus, who took our foolishness—our iniquity and corruption, our sin and death—and saved us by the seeming foolishness of His cross (1Co 1:18–25). • Though we have all alike become corrupt, O God, send Your salvation and restore our fortunes in Christ. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 54 Brief lament of David during another experience of betrayal (cf Ps 52) that nonetheless ends with thanksgiving and confidence in God's sure deliverance. Luth: "A psalm of prayer against the persecutors who seek the life of the godly on account of the Word of God. Thus Saul and those in Ziph had attempted to kill David on account of the Word of God, through which he had been called and consecrated to be king. He prays for deliverance from his enemies and vengeance upon them" (PIML, p 72). As David fled from Saul's murderous intent, he hid in the wilderness of Ziph in the southern part of Judah. In order to gain favor from Saul, the Ziphites betrayed David's whereabouts (1Sm 23:15–24; 26:1). choirmaster. See p 993. stringed instruments. See p 993. Maskil. See p 841.

Format: V v 1–2, appeal for salvation; v 3, ruthless attack; v v 4–5, God is my helper; v v 6–7, thanks for deliverance.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 54:1 by Your name … by Your might. Parallel phrases. God's name is synonymous with God Himself, who welcomes this prayer and will save from this treachery. Cf v 6.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 54:3 strangers. Ziphites, from whom David did not expect such a murderous threat. The Ziphites were a clan, or family, descended from noble Caleb (Jsh 15:24; 1Ch 2:42; 4:16). set God before themselves. Acting like those outside Israel who do not keep God in mind (cf 53). Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 54:4 my helper. David looks to none but God. This centerpiece of the psalm expresses confidence in God, even as enemies attack. See note, Gn 2:18.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 54:5 put an end to them. God will redress the situation and mete out proper punishment for their evil. See p 879.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 54:6 freewill offering. Expression of gratitude, not required by the Law (Ex 35:29; 36:3–5; Lv 7:16). Pledged as confidently as if the deliverance were an accomplished fact. thanks to Your name, O LORD, for it is good. With the spontaneous offering, a vow to praise God, whose goodness is seen in this pleasing outcome.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 54 The psalmist prays for deliverance amidst persecution by family and even strangers! He is confident that God will help as He always has. In times of sudden testing and unexpected trouble, we easily become disillusioned and wonder if God has abandoned us. However, in every trouble, God is our sure helper. The deliverance He provides in Christ, who Himself knew persecution unto death, makes us triumphant despite every appearance to the contrary. • God, thank You for being my helper, the upholder of my life. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 55 Author asks God for help because he finds himself in a dangerous city, betrayed by a close friend, and in great peril. He shares his situation in order to teach wisdom. Some have seen in this psalm a reference to Ahithophel's betrayal of David (2Sm 16:20–23) during the revolt led by David's son Absalom (2Sm 15–17). Due to a lack of specific reference in the psalm, no certain identification of the historical context is possible. choirmaster. See p 993. stringed instruments. See p 993. Maskil. See p 841.

Format: V v 1–3, appeal for God to hear; v v 4–8, terror; v v 9–11, violence in the city; v v 12–15, betrayal by a friend; v v 16–19, call on the Redeemer; v v 20–21, deception by a companion; v v 22–23, God treats the righteous and the wicked in different ways.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:1 hide not. Translated as "ignore" in Dt 22:4. A vivid way of asking for help.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:3 drop trouble. His enemies are like clouds that rain down trouble and affliction upon him. In 140:10, David turns the figure of speech around, wishing that hot coals would fall upon his enemies.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:4 terrors of death. Psalmist finds himself in such great peril that his life is clearly in jeopardy. The dread of death and the grave weigh heavily on his heart.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:6 I would fly away. David longs to escape his predicament but, for whatever reason, cannot flee. Jerome records this verse used as an early Christian prayer when facing death: "When the pain which she [Paula] bore with such wonderful patience darted through her, as if she saw the heavens opened she would say: 'Oh that I had wings like a dove!'" (NPNF 2 6:196).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:7 Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:9 Destroy. See p 879. divide their tongues. God divided the people of earth into different languages at Babel (Gn 11:5–9) in order to stop their plans to build together in pride and power. The psalmist asks God to do the same thing to his enemies who are conspiring against him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:10 they go around it on its walls. Violence and strife (v 9) are described as guards that walk along their assigned routes on the city wall.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:12–14 not an enemy … my equal, my companion. The cruelest blow—a close friend, a man of equal social stature, and a companion in thick and thin, has betrayed him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:12 Note the sevenfold description of the city's character: violence, strife (v 9); iniquity, trouble (v 10); ruin, oppression, fraud (v 11). Seven, as in all the days of the week, often symbolized fullness. See p 217.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:14 God's house … throng. Close fellowship he enjoyed with this (formerly) close friend extended even to matters of faith. Together, they had worshiped at God's house with the others who had gathered for feast days and holy assemblies.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:15 Sheol alive. See p 792. Psalmist calls for swift judgment against his enemies, including his former friend. He wishes the earth would open and swallow his adversaries immediately, as it did the sons of Korah (cf Nu 16).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:17 Evening and morning. Hours of sacrifice and prayer at the tabernacle. People in the OT considered evening to be the beginning of the new day (cf Gn 1:5, 8, 13, 19, 23, and 31). noon. Like Daniel (Dn 6:10), this psalmist offers prayer three times each day. He prays to the Lord from the beginning to the end of each day, entrusting his life to God's care.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:18 battle that I wage. Author focuses on the physical danger and conflict he faces in the evil city, but his trust and confidence in God transcends every danger, physical or spiritual, that he may experience.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:19 do not change. Psalmist's enemies refuse to change their attitude toward him or repent of their sin before God. As a result, God will respond to them with discipline and judgment.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:20 My companion … his covenant. Traitor of v v 12–14 broke the bond (covenant) of peace not only with the psalmist but also with all his previous friends when he turned against him. See p 127.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:22 Cast your burden on the LORD. God does not promise to keep His people from all harm. He does promise, however, to be with His children and work all things together for their good (Rm 8:28). The psalmist reminds himself and us to give to the Lord all burdens, cares, and troubles because He faithfully keeps His promise (1Pt 5:7). never … moved. Hbr construction expresses the certainty of the believer and the dependability of God when troubles come.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 55:23 pit of destruction. See p 792. half their days. Those who live by the sword will die by the sword (Mt 26:52), living out only part of their natural life span. But I will trust in You. No matter how the current situation plays out, the author will confidently rely on God for his safety and security.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 55 The author finds himself in a town full of wickedness and violence, betrayed by a trusted friend and colleague, with no one to help except God. He turns to the Lord in prayer, entrusting his life to God's hand with confidence. When troubles press hard, we may find it easy to give in to our feelings and give up on God. The psalmist's steadfastness challenges us to trust in God's mercy. Our Lord Jesus Christ, the Righteous One, faced a city full of violence and plots against His life. Betrayed by Judas, He endured the cross, where He turned to the Father with confidence and gave His life as the ransom price for ours. • Lord, inscribe and keep Your promises in my heart. Hold me firm in faith and confidence, even if terror and distress befall me. In Christ, I am unafraid, and I look to You for help, for I know You will come and rescue me. Amen. (See AE 24:16.)

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 56 Psalmist finds himself in great peril from enemies and turns to God with confidence. In 1Sm 21:10–15, David flees from King Saul (who wants to kill him) to the Philistine city of Gath. Since David had killed a great many Philistines, he feared for his life. He survived by pretending to be crazy until he was able to escape back into safe territory. The Dove on Far-off Terebinths. Directions to the choirmaster for musical accompaniment. Miktam. See p 841.

Format: V v 1–4, trust in God; v v 5–7, ill will of the attackers; v v 8–11, God is for me; v v 12–13, thanks to God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 56:1–2 Be gracious. See p 842. man … attacker … enemies. David refers specifically to the Philistines who seek his life. They wait in ambush, carefully watching for a time to strike.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 56:4 What can flesh do to me? God's people should not fear mere human beings—all they can harm is the physical self (cf Mt 10:28).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 56:5 injure my cause. David's enemies say things that make his precarious situation worse, planning together and conspiring against him. David often felt himself the target of verbal attacks (cf 5:9).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 56:7 In wrath cast down. David prays that God will turn the tables on those who plot against him, speak against him, and seek his life (cf 5:10). peoples. Those who have one thing in common—their enmity toward David.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 56:8 tossings. God cares for His people and pays attention to their pain, fear, and grief. Though David tossed and turned in the night, stressed with anxiety, God has taken careful note of every single moment. my tears in Your bottle. God does not forget a single tear shed in grief (cf Rv 21:4). bottle. An animal hide prepared to hold wine, milk, or water. in Your book? Permanently recorded on a scroll or tablet. Such is the comforting depth of God's love for His children.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 56:9 I know, that God is for me. David knows that God is with him because God chose him to be king (1Sm 16:1–13), empowered him to defeat Goliath (1Sm 17), gave him victory in many battles, and protected him from King Saul and other enemies. In short, David and we know God loves us regardless of the circumstances in which we find ourselves.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 56:10 God … Lord. In poetic fashion, David confesses his faith in the one true God, who has rescued His people time and again (Yahweh, the great "I AM" of Ex 3:14). See p 1227.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 56:12 my vows … thank offerings. David will return to the tabernacle to fulfill his commitments in joy and thanksgiving, publicly proclaiming God's salvation. See p 7. "Sacrifices of praise … are the preaching of the Gospel, faith, prayer, thanksgiving, confession, the troubles of saints, yes, all good works of saints. These sacrifices are not satisfactions for those making them, nor can they be applied to others to merit the forgiveness of sins or reconciliation" (Ap XXIV 25).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 56:13 walk before God. See p 7; see also "way," p 844. light of life. David anticipates living a life pleasing to God, in the light of His love and salvation. Luth: "[Christ] ushers in the morning and the day. He teaches us how to be saved and how to be delivered from death and sin.

Therefore He says: 'I am the Light which illumines the whole world'; for He alone liberates from sin, death, the devil, and hell" (AE 23:324).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 56 Even in the midst of danger, David rejoices in God's love and His certain deliverance from death. When we face trials, we may be tempted to worry about our own welfare or feel like giving up in hopelessness. Instead, we can remember that our problems are nothing new and that God is able to help in every situation. Through these experiences, He strengthens our faith and draws us closer to Jesus Christ, our Savior. • Father, by Your Spirit, help us walk before You in faith, joy, and humble obedience. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 57 choirmaster. See p 993. Do Not Destroy. May be a popular tune; also mentioned in Ps 58; 59; 75. Associated with prayer to God to save someone and bring blessing out of trouble (cf Is 65:8). Miktam. See p 841. cave. In 1Sm 22:1–2, David found refuge in the cave of Adullam. King Saul was after him (cf 1Sm 24), and he had only narrowly escaped from the Philistine city of Gath (1Sm 21:10–15; cf Ps 56). Since his life was in danger from a variety of enemies, David turned to God for help.

Format: V v 1–3, confident plea for God's mercy; v 4, in the midst of lions; v 5, a refrain exalting God; v v 6–10, praise to the Lord; v 11, a refrain exalting God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:1 shadow of Your wings … storms of destruction. When storms come, a bird gathers her chicks under her protective wing until the danger is past. Using this vivid picture, the psalmist portrays God's secure love and powerful protection (cf Mt 23:37). See note, 17:8–9.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:2 fulfills His purpose for me. David submits to God's will, knowing that God works for his good (cf Rm 8:28).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:3 send from heaven … God will send out. As a king sends powerful servants to help his people, so God sends His mercy and faithfulness, more powerful than any other force in the universe. steadfast love and His faithfulness! See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:4 midst of lions … fiery beasts … teeth … tongues. Though confident in God for help, David still finds himself in the midst of danger. He characterizes his enemies as lions stalking their prey (cf 7; 22; 35), burning with desire to destroy him. (Cf 1Pt 5:8.)

PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:5 Refrain; high note of praise (cf v 11). David does not wait for God to deliver him before praising Him; in the midst of his trouble, and confident of God's love, David glorifies God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:7 heart is steadfast. Psalmist confidently expects God to intervene. Repetition surrounds the source of his confidence: God. Luth: "So then, before a person begins to pray, he should examine and probe himself to ascertain whether he believes or doubts that his prayer will be fulfilled. If he finds that he doubts or is uncertain, or that he prays at random, the prayer is nothing" (AE 42:76).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:8 my glory! Equivalent to "myself" (as also "my heart," v 7). Hbr has no reflexive pronoun ("myself"), so writers use phrases such as these to refer to their whole being. harp and lyre! See p 993. awake the dawn! His joy rouses him before the sun; his praise and adoration of God awaken the sun, so great is his exultation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:9 the peoples … the nations. David will not limit his public praise and thanksgiving to an audience of Israel alone. He will shout God's glory to all the world so all nations and peoples know the God who saves.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:10 steadfast love. See p 843. great to the heavens. God and His mercy are not limited to Israel—they reach over all the earth and as high as the heavens themselves.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 57:11 See note, v 5.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 57 David turns to God for help. Chased by Saul, his king and father-in-law, David flees for his life and hides in a cave to avoid discovery. He confidently asks God for deliverance and praises God for rescuing him even before it happens (cf 2Sm 22). We often pray with uncertainty and hesitation, doubting God's love and interest in our lives. Trusting in Jesus, we have confidence that God listens to us as a loving father listens to his beloved children. • Exalted Savior, make my heart steadfast in faith and prayer. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 58 choirmaster. See p 993. Do Not Destroy. See Ps 57 intro. Miktam. See p 841. David does not refer to a concrete historical situation as he does in Ps 51; 52; 54; 56; 57; 59; and 60. See p 879.

Format: V v 1–2, judgment against gods; v v 3–5, state of the wicked; v v 6–9, condemnation of the wicked; v v 10–11, rejoicing of the righteous.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:1 you gods? Sometimes used to describe earthly rulers. Rulers and judges have great power over ordinary people ("children of man"). Unlike the supreme judge (God), human leaders may distort justice and pervert righteousness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:2 in your hearts. Cf Mt 15:19.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:3 estranged from the womb. All people begin life as sinners, rebels against God and self-centered (even David, 51:5). In the case of the "wicked," this becomes a way of life, unrestrained by love for God or people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:4–5 deaf adder … charmers … enchanter. Snake charmers seem to control deadly serpents by their music (although snakes actually follow the motion of the musical instrument). Wicked people, like serpents, have sealed their ears against God's warnings and the pleas of people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:6 teeth in their mouths. Shifting metaphors from snakes to lions (both serious dangers in ancient Israel), David asks God to render the wicked powerless, unable to harm him or anyone else.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:7 vanish like water. Like water flowing into the hot sand, leaving no trace behind. blunted. Like a dull blade, their selfish schemes and wicked plans are ineffective.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:8 dissolves into slime. According to popular tradition, a snail or slug dissolves to form its slimy path. stillborn child. Or, miscarriage. Author hopes the wicked have no more future and no greater accomplishments in life than a stillborn child. See p 879.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:9 heat of thorns. Thorns (dry or green) burn very quickly, almost in an instant. He prays that God will frustrate their plans even more quickly than the time it would take for a flame to reach the cooking pot above it.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:10 rejoice when he sees the vengeance … bathe his feet in the blood of the wicked. Graphically depicted, the ultimate outcome of the wicked under the administration of a just and righteous God will be their defeat and the exoneration of the righteous. See p 879.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 58:11 reward. Just as sin produces fruit that leads to condemnation (cf Gal 5:19–21), so faith shows itself through action and ultimately receives God's approval (cf Mt 25:31–46). It might look as though people get away with all kinds of wickedness on earth, but God's justice will finally prevail.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 58 David challenges the leaders of the people (judges and rulers) by condemning the unjust and dishonest. When you find yourself in a position of power over someone, treat that person as one precious to God, purchased by the blood of Christ. Jesus suffered unjustly before the Jewish Council (the Sanhedrin) and the Roman governor. The plans of both sets of judges came to nothing; ultimate justice was served on the cross (condemnation of sin) and at the empty tomb (public vindication of Jesus as our Savior). • Heavenly Father, lead us to do the right thing, even when it seems no one notices. Lead us to live for You and remember that You set all things right in the end. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 59 V v 1–7 are a prayer for help in time of need; v v 8–17 reflect the author's assurance of deliverance. Both end on a note of praise for God, our strength and security (v v 9, 17). choirmaster. See p 993. Do Not Destroy. See Ps 57 intro. Miktam. See p 841. Scripture does not record a specific event that fits this superscription. However, Saul's hatred of David is well attested (1Sm 19–31).

Format: V v 1–2, prayer for deliverance; v v 3–5, faultless; v v 6–7, my enemies are like dogs; v v 8–10, God's protection; v v 11–13, appeal to trap but not kill enemies; v v 14–15, my enemies are like wandering dogs; v v 16–17, God is a fortress and refuge.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:3 lie in wait. Saul sent men to spy on David to catch him in some "crime" for which execution would be the remedy. no transgression. David pleads innocence. He has given Saul no reason to seek his life.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:5 Lord God of hosts. Yahweh ("I AM," Ex 3:14) is God's personal, covenant name. "God" is a general term, but when coupled with "hosts" (Hbr tseba'oth), it depicts God as the commanding general of all the angelic armies. See p 1227. God of Israel. Recalls the personal connection between God and His people. David calls upon God, who has committed Himself to His people and has the power to intervene anywhere and at any time. the nations. Not only did God's chosen leaders face enemies from within God's own people, but Gentiles also often plotted Israel's ruin. The personal relationship between God and David extends to God's faithful people. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:6 like dogs. Dogs were unsavory, half-wild, and vicious scavengers that lay low during the day but hunted the cities at night for food. Any city in the Near East hosted such packs (cf v v 14–15).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:7 swords in their lips. Pictures words as weapons. hear us. David's enemies mock God, thinking He does not notice their lies (cf 3:2).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:10 meet me. God will come to his aid and stand beside him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:11 Kill them not. People forget easily. If all enemies are swept away, God's people will be tempted to forget God. Cf 1Sm 24; 26. O Lord, our shield! Psalm is both personal and corporate, including all of God's faithful people. Cf 28:7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:12 trapped. Dogs (v 6) may be caught and domesticated. cursing. Calling down misfortune on another by magical incantations or other supernatural means (cf 10:7; curses, lies, and threats were used as weapons by the enemy).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:13 rules over Jacob to the ends of the earth. Special covenant relationship between God and Israel ("Jacob") foreshadows special relationship God has with His people that forms the foundation for the Good News of a Savior who will give His life for all people of every nation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:14–15 dogs. See note, v 6.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 59:16 steadfast love. See p 843. day of my distress. Time of trouble, danger, and fear.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 59 When surrounded by enemies (or difficult circumstances), we turn to God in confidence and trust. Whatever He wills for us is best, even if we don't understand it at the time. The world and all that is in it is passing away. Empires come and go. Only God and His promise of salvation in Jesus Christ stand firm, stand fast, and stand forever.
• O mighty Fortress, our trusty Shield and Weapon, deliver us from the snaps and snarls of the wicked. Trap them with Your Law and turn their hearts by Your Gospel. Let Your people know peace amid strife. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 60 Israel faced many enemies throughout her long history. During David's reign, wars were fought with Syria to the north and with Edom to the southeast (as well as other countries). Of course, biblical writers do not record every battle or even every war. Apparently a hostile nation defeated Israel (Edom?), and David turned to the Lord for help. 2Sm 8 and 1Ch 18 record God's gracious answer and the victorious outcome. Though God has seemingly turned a deaf ear to His people (v v 1–3), David prays for God's help in battle (v v 4–8) and ends this psalm on a note of confidence (v v 10–12). choirmaster. See p 993. Shushan Eduth. May mean "The Lily of the Testimony." A tune or a type of musical accompaniment for the psalm. Miktam. See p 841. for instruction. Hbr lamad, "to teach." Probably means that the reader should use this psalm to encourage and uplift when suffering defeat or another type of setback. Songs were also used to instruct the young and the nation. See note, Pr 1:8.

Format: V v 1–3, the Lord rejects Israel; v v 4–5, Israel's banner; v v 6–8, Israel is the Lord's chosen army; v v 9–12, plea for victory.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:1 rejected us. Defeat in battle testified to a break in the covenant relationship between God and Israel. As a result of some sin, God had given victory to the enemy (cf Jsh 7). However, not all suffering is punishment for sin. See p 837. restore us. David prays for God to grant victory in battle.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:2 quake. Metaphor describing effect of defeat on national confidence.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:3 made us stagger. God's people are dazed and discouraged by the defeat they have suffered. See note, Is 51:17.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:4 banner. Flag or standard to rally retreating troops for a victorious counterattack. The Lord Himself raises such a flag for those who trust Him (cf Ex 17:14–16; Sg 2:4). fear. See p 842. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:5 right hand. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:6 in His holiness. God keeps His promises and threats. He has promised all the land of Canaan to His people (Gn 15:18–21) and, despite this defeat, He will deliver it to them. Shechem … Vale of Succoth. From the west (Shechem) to east of the Jordan (Vale of Succoth), across the center of Israel. See color map 1.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:7 Gilead … Manasseh … Ephraim … Judah. Locations east, west, north, and south in Israel. God rules as sovereign over all of the Promised Land. helmet … scepter. Ephraim and other tribes lay north of Judah, forming a protective buffer from invading armies. From Judah would come the Messiah, the eternal King, symbolized by the royal scepter.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:8 Moab … Edom. People southeast of Israel, related to God's people (Moab from Lot, Abraham's nephew; Edom from Esau, Jacob's twin brother). Sadly, both were traditional enemies of Israel. cast my shoe. Perhaps to step on the property as a claim to ownership or as a sign of redemption (cf Ru 4:7–9). Philistia. Located west and south of Israel, also a traditional enemy (cf 1Sm 17). See color map 2.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:9 fortified city? Capital city of Edom, Sela, was almost impregnable.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:10 You do not go forth. Only God can accomplish the overthrow of Israel's enemies, yet He has refused to do so.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 60:11 vain is the salvation of man! Human help is worthless against such enemies. Salvation comes only from God. See "salvation," p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 60 God disciplines those He loves, and He tests His people to build their faith and strengthen the relationship of grace. Whether you experience victory or defeat, persist in prayer and service to your Lord. In His care, you "shall do valiantly" (v 12). • When we face defeat, O Lord, keep our eyes on Your promises. When we experience loss, keep our hearts filled with Your peace. When we don't understand Your plan for us, keep the cross of Christ always before us—the depth and breadth and height of Your love for us. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 61 David may have written this psalm when he "fled" during Absalom's attempted coup (as he says explicitly in Ps 3; cf 2Sm 15–17). choirmaster. See p 993. stringed instruments. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–3, God is my refuge; v v 4–5, dwelling with God; v v 6–7, preserve the king; v 8, constant praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 61:2 the end of the earth. Exaggeration or reference to border of Israel, to convey the isolation and loneliness David feels. heart is faint. Having exhausted his own physical and emotional resources, the psalmist turns to God for help. the rock. See p 843. Luth: "It is the purpose of the cross and adversities of all kinds to enable one to differentiate between the false and the true faith. God afflicts us in this way in order that our faith may be proved and made manifest before the world, with the result that others are attracted to the faith" (AE 30:17).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 61:4 Your tent. Perhaps the tabernacle in Jerusalem (God's embassy on earth), but it may be more general—to live with God and enjoy His blessing forever (cf 23:6; 27:5; Heb 9:11–12). Your wings. Figurative for God's protection and providence. See note, 57:1. "He has taken us as His own property under His shelter and protection so that He may govern us by His righteousness, wisdom, power, life, and blessedness" (LC II 30). Selah. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 61:5 vows. Promises to God. See p 7. heritage. The Promised Land, its people, and ultimately salvation (cf Heb 11:8–10). See "portion," p 7. fear Your name. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 61:6 the king. David. may his years endure to all generations! God promised David that his descendant would rule forever (2Sm 7:16, fulfilled in Jesus, the messianic King).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 61:7 steadfast love and faithfulness. Attributes personified as guardian angels. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 61:8 my vows. See p 7. The right response to God's saving acts is praise, which David promises to do every day (cf 7:17).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 61 David turns once more to God for help in time of need, asking God to restore him to his throne in Jerusalem and bless him in the years and generations ahead. God often uses difficult times to strengthen our faith and redefine our priorities. If we have drifted away from the Lord, He can use a reversal of fortune in our earthly circumstance to make us aware of our precarious spiritual situation and bring us back to Him. David's prayer that the King would reign forever (v 7) is ultimately fulfilled in Christ Jesus, who embodies God's steadfast love and faithfulness forever. • O God, let me take refuge under the shelter of Your wings. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 62 Hymn of peace and confidence in God, who alone provides security and hope. David does not identify the historical context, but the wisdom embodied in the psalm and the hint of weakness in v 3 suggest a time late in David's life (cf 2Sm 23:1–7). choirmaster. See p 993. Jeduthun. Either the name of a musician (or his family; cf 1Ch 25:1; Ps 39 intro) or a tune associated with him (cf 77:1).

Format: V v 1–2, only God brings salvation; v v 3–4, enemy plan; v v 5–7, on God rests salvation; v 8, appeal to trust God; v v 9–10, life is unsure; v v 11–12, power and love belong to God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:1 my soul waits in silence. Calm attitude produced by confidence and peace in the Lord.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:2 rock. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:3 leaning wall. Stone walls and fences are weakened by the passing seasons; so, too, are rulers.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:4 high position. The rich and powerful suffer the same fate as the weak and vulnerable. If anything, by virtue of their high position the powerful attract even more enemies than do common people. bless … curse. Enemies speak well of their victims to their face while seeking their destruction. See note, 59:12. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:5 Psalmist addresses his soul, based on v v 1–2.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:7 glory. David's honor and reputation rest in God's powerful hands just as his life and throne do.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:8 pour out your heart. Author calls upon God's people to pray openly and honestly, turning to God for help in every need. Fran: "Do not therefore keep back anything for yourselves that He may receive you entirely who gives Himself up entirely to you" (WSFA 115).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:9 low estate … high estate. Lit, "sons of man … sons of [a noble] man." Whether from the lower or upper classes, poor or rich, unknown or famous, our time on earth is fleeting. What the world thinks is important is a waste of time. balances. If accurately measured, the priorities and values of the world are worthless. Ancient scales had two pans balanced against each other (Jb 31:6).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:10 Material goods, acquired legally or illegally, must pass away. "You can't take it with you."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:11 Once … twice. Vivid way of emphasizing the certainty of the statement that follows. See Pr 30 intro. God has spoken. Throughout David's life, God spoke to him and through him by the Holy Spirit (cf 2Sm 23:2).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:11–12 power … steadfast love. God has the power to condemn or to save, and, because He loves us, He wants to save us.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 62:12 render to a man. See note, 18:21–24.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 62 Wealth deceives people by promising happiness. In the end, wealth, power, and fame turn out to be lies because they do not deliver what they seem to promise. Even when our lives fall apart, our center and foundation hold firm: Nothing can separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord (Rm 8:38–39). • "The Church's one foundation Is Jesus Christ, her Lord; She is His new creation By water and the Word. From heav'n He came and sought her To be His holy bride; With His own blood He bought her, And for her life He died." Amen. (LSB 644:1)
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 63 Psalm reflecting David's faith in the Lord and his willing submission to God's plans. Most likely, the psalm refers to David's flight from Absalom into the wilderness of Judea (2Sm 15–17), a time when the king fled Jerusalem and left his fate in the Lord's hands (2Sm 15:24–26).

Format: V v 1–4, longing for God; v v 5–8, contentment with God; v v 9–11, God will defeat the king's enemies.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:1 my God. Even in the wilderness and on the run, David expresses his faith and trust in God. dry and weary land. Either the arid place where David has taken refuge, or figurative for the difficult times in life when God seems far off. Luth: "With our own concerns and thoughts we torture ourselves and stew over trying to pull this off our neck and to get rid of it. There is an evil and clever devil riding me and other people and frequently playing these tricks on me in my temptation or anxiety, whether it has to do with spiritual or with secular affairs. He immediately butts in and makes you start stewing over it. In this way he snatches us from our prayer and makes us so dizzy that we do not even think of praying…. We should develop the habit, whenever we see anguish or need, to fall on our knees immediately and to spread the need before God, on the basis of this admonition and promise" (AE 21:232).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:2 sanctuary. David has the tabernacle and the ark of the covenant in mind, the "embassy" of heaven on earth. beholding. God's presence, perhaps similar to Isaiah's vision at his call to prophetic office in Is 6.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:3 better than life. God's love is precious on earth but leads to eternal life (cf 23:6).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:4 bless. See p 842. lift up my hands. See p 1276. Common posture of prayer was standing, with face raised to the heavens, arms held out and up with palms upward.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:5 satisfied. Metaphor for calm heart and quiet soul of a believer even in times of trouble and danger. fat and rich food. The most flavorful and therefore the best, which David left behind at his palace (cf 2Sm 15:13–16). God is not stingy when He gives His gifts.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:6 meditate. Hbr hagah, "ponder" by speaking to oneself. To remember God's gracious saving acts and apply the lessons of the past to the present situation. See p 842. watches of the night. The night was divided into several watches, segments of three or four hours, for sentry duty. See notes, Is 21:6–12.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:7 shadow of Your wings. See notes, 17:8–9; 57:1.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:8 right hand. See p 843; cf Jn 10:27–29.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:9 those. Probably Absalom's fellow conspirators. depths of the earth. See p 792.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:10 jackals. Doglike scavengers.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 63:11 swear by Him. Such oath-taking served as a confession of faith and an acknowledgment of the Lord as the one true God. See p 7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 63 On the run, cut off from God's tabernacle and the capital city, Jerusalem, David turns to God in prayer and praise for His love and salvation. When we are in the "wilderness" and God seems distant, we may find ourselves tempted to focus on our troubles rather than turning to God in faith and confidence. David shows us the way to handle disaster and doubt: meditate on the Lord in prayer and thanksgiving (cf Php 4:4–7). Faith looks beyond the circumstances to the cross of Christ and sees God's love, holding fast to His promises to His children. • "My soul clings to You; Your right hand upholds me" (v 8). Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 64 choirmaster. See p 993.

Format: V v 1–6, the enemies' plots; v v 7–9, God defeats the enemies; v 10, rejoice in the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 64:1–2 enemy … wicked … evildoers. Psalmist's unnamed enemies, who plot against him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 64:3 whet. To sharpen a sword or knife by drawing its edge along a fine-grained stone. The Hbr expression for blade is "mouth"; the tongue is the blade of the mouth. bitter words. Accusations. Luth: "Christian suffering … requires not merely all sorts of tortures and troubles, but more; their good name must be spit upon and slandered, and the world must boast loudly that in murdering the Christians it has executed the worst kind of criminal, whom the earth could no longer carry, and that it has done God the greatest and most acceptable service, as Christ says (John 16:2). Thus no name has ever appeared on earth so slanderous and disreputable as the name 'Christian.' No nation has ever experienced so much bitter opposition and attack by wicked and poisonous tongues as have the Christians" (AE 21:49).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 64:4 blameless. Innocent of any action that would justify the hostility of his enemies. See note, Jb 1:1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 64:5 snares. Traps for small animals. People think they won't get caught in their lies and conspiracy (cf Jer 20:10).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 64:6 inward mind and heart … are deep! People's motives and secret thoughts cannot be easily fathomed (cf Pr 20:5).

People's capacity for evil is great, but God's capacity for love and mercy is greater (cf Ps 92:5; Is 55:6–9).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 64:7 God shoots His arrow. A surprise attack. Like a distant archer, God will suddenly act to rescue.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 64:8 wag their heads. Near Eastern gesture of contempt and derision (prophesied also of the Messiah at His crucifixion; cf 22:7). See p 1277.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 64:10 righteous one. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 64 The psalmist's enemies conspire against him and seek his destruction, but he turns to the Lord in prayer and receives deliverance. When false rumors fly and your reputation suffers, seek divine justice. Turn to the Lord and put the situation in His hands. Do not try to "get even," but leave the outcome to God. Jesus also endured all kinds of plots against His life and slander during His ministry (Mk 15, especially v v 29–32). He knows how to justify you. • Lord, I exalt in You, my refuge. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 65 Given the beauty of the psalm and its close connection to Ps 66–68, it may well have been written for a festival or as a liturgical praise song. choirmaster. See p 993. Song. See Ps 46 intro.

Format: V v 1–4, God draws us to Himself; v v 5–8, He governs creation; v v 9–13, He makes creation flourish.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:1 Zion. See p 844. vows be performed. Appropriate response to God's faithfulness, offering vows can be in the form of a thank offering, a public act of worship and praise, or some other demonstration of joyful trust in God, who answers prayer. See p 7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:2 all flesh. All humanity.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:3 atone. Penalty for sin is death (Ezk 18:4; Rm 6:23). God "atones" (pays for) our sin through the death of the messianic King (cf Rm 3:24–25). See p 5.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:4 the one You choose. Faith is God's gift, not a human choice. God draws a person to Him by grace (cf Eph 2:8–9). dwell in Your courts! All believers continue to live in fellowship with God. See "courts of the Lord," p 842. temple! The tabernacle; the temple of Solomon was not yet built. See note, 5:7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:5 awesome deeds. Deeds that create fear and terror in the hearts of God's enemies but inspire joy and celebration in His people (e.g., saving acts, such as the exodus, cf 66:5–6). righteousness. See p 843. the hope of all the ends of the earth. God makes atonement for the sin of the whole world, vividly pictured as the "ends of the earth." God is the only hope for humanity.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:6 girded. As a person puts on a belt or other article of clothing for work or war, so God is portrayed as putting on almighty power to do the awesome deed of salvation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:8 ends of the earth. See note, v 5. You make the going out of the morning and the evening to shout for joy. Wherever the sun rises and sets, God works wonders. God blesses believers and unbelievers alike with peace and prosperity (Mt 5:45).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:9 visit the earth. To take care of it (Jas 1:27). river of God. Vivid way of referring to rain, which falls over all the earth and brings forth crops (cf Ps 36:8). Luth: "Is it a small thing just because it happens every day? If the sun did not shine for ten days, then it would be a great thing. If there were no fire on earth except at one place, then, I think, it would be more precious than all the gold and silver in the world. If there were only one well in all the world, then I imagine that a drop of water would be worth more than a hundred thousand gulden, and in comparison beer and wine would be so much garbage…. God showers upon them such great and rich miracles, and they do not consider even one of them or thank Him for it! But if some clown shows up who can walk a tightrope or who has monkeys to display, him they admire, praise, and exalt. Therefore the psalmist says here that the works of God are great, but only in the eyes of the upright" (AE 13:367).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:10 The Lord orchestrates the rains and other natural phenomena that produce food for people. The planting and rains of v 10 are followed by the bountiful harvest of v 11.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:11 crown. Metaphorical for "bless," "bestow." wagon tracks overflow. Abundant rain fills the tracks (cf v v 9–10). Wherever the Lord passes by (pictured as riding in a wagon or chariot), abundance follows (cf 104:3).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:12–13 pastures … hills … meadows. Emphasis on herding. The psalmist paints a wonderful picture of lush vegetation sprouting up everywhere, almost like the Garden of Eden.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 65:13 The beauty of a hillside covered with sheep or a field waving in the wind inspires those who see it to praise God. grain.

One reference to crops. shout and sing together for joy. Perhaps the psalm was composed for a harvest festival, similar to a Thanksgiving service.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 65 David praises God for the forgiveness of sins, peace in the world, and prosperity in the land—a straightforward song of praise to God for His awesome grace. We have nothing except what God gives us, and the appropriate response to such amazing generosity, both spiritual and physical, is praise. David begins the list of gifts with the most important, the forgiveness of sins and the gift of faith. • "Blessed is the one You choose and bring near," O Lord! (v 4) Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 66 Psalm that can be offered by any believer in any time of hardship. The Lord's deliverance at the time of Hezekiah (2Ki 19:8–37; Is 37:8–38) may have been the original occasion that gave rise to this psalm. Song. See Ps 46 intro.

Format: V v 1–4, all the earth worships; v v 5–7, God's awesome deeds; v v 8–12, God tests His people; v v 13–15, offerings; v v 16–19, God hears me; v 20, closing blessing.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:1 all the earth. God is so great, all humanity and all creation are invited to praise Him (148:1–4, 7–12). All creation will acknowledge Him in eternity, though the unbelieving will do so only by compulsion (Is 45:23; Rm 14:11–12; Php 2:10–11; Col 2:15). Cf v 4.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:2 name. See p 843. God's name is not to be taken in vain (Ex 20:7) but is to be used to bless (Nu 6:22–27). "That is the true honor of His name, to look to it and call upon it for all consolation [Psalm 66:2; 105:1]" (LC I 70).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:3 enemies come cringing to You. It often appears that God's enemies triumph, but He has won the victory, and in eternity that will be clear to all (see notes, v 1; Php 2:10).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:4 All the earth worships. Or, "let all the earth worship" (cf v 1). Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:6 sea into dry land. Refers to both Israel's crossing of the Red Sea at the exodus and the people's crossing the Jordan into the Promised Land.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:7 rules. God's rule may be hidden at present; it will be clearly seen in eternity. See pp 1565–66. the rebellious. All who reject God through unbelief.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:8 Bless. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:9 kept our soul among the living. God delivers us from death.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:10 tested. The Lord uses hardship to test the faith of His people, just as He tested the faith of Abraham (Gn 22:1–14). Believers should look upon all their hardships in this light. See p 837.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:11 net … burden. Their testing of faith is compared to the capture and domestication of an animal.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:12 brought us out. The exodus, and also a more general application to any hardship from which God delivers His people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:13 house. The Lord's temple or tabernacle. burnt offerings. Kings usually offered whole burnt offerings (Lv 1), a sign of total devotion to the Lord. vows. The whole burnt offering would have been a visible expression of a vow of loyalty. See p 7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:14 when I was in trouble. See Ps 66 intro.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:15 burnt offerings. See note, v 13.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:16 Come and hear. Possibly a public proclamation by the Israelite king, perhaps Hezekiah, in his official role as one who was to promote right faith and worship within Israel (cf 1Ki 8:12–21).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 66:18 the Lord would not have listened. Cf Pr 15:29; Is 1:15; 59:2–3. The Lord listened to the psalmist's prayer not because of the psalmist's worthiness but out of God's own "steadfast love" (v v 19–20).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 66 The Lord's deeds of salvation, culminating in the ministry of Christ, assure His people that He will make all things, even hardships, work out for their ultimate good (Rm 8:28–29). Hardships may tempt us to abandon the faith, yet knowing that the Lord uses hardship to test our faith will strengthen us to hold on to our faith. • Bless You Lord, for Your saving deeds and promises. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 67 Perhaps intended for corporate worship, before or after the benediction; v 6 suggests the possibility of its use in connection with the harvest. choirmaster. See p 993. stringed instruments. See p 993. Song. See Ps 46 intro.

Format: V v 1–3, a prayer for grace; v v 4–5, the Lord is fair to the nations; v v 6–7, a promise of blessing.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 67:1 Virtual quotation of the Aaronic benediction (Nu 6:24–26). Through His Word, such as the benediction, God bestows

His blessings. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 67:2 Your way … Your saving power. God's way of salvation through faith. This verse expresses a purpose of God's word of blessing: that God's salvation might be "known," i.e., received, through faith. See p 844. all nations. God's salvation is for all (1Tm 2:3–4), and He appointed Israel to bring that salvation to all nations.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 67:3 Refrain; cf v 5. Since the saved cannot help but praise their Savior, the psalmist is in effect praying for the salvation of the nations.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 67:4 glad … joy. God's salvation also brings genuine gladness and joy to the believer. judge the peoples with equity. Courtroom language. God judges us to be justified (not guilty), not because of our merit but because of what He has done for us by grace (Mi 6:1–8; Rm 3:23–25). See p 792.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 67:5 Refrain; cf v 3. Suggests that this psalm was used in corporate worship (cf v v 1, 3).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 67:6 earth. May refer to the "land" of Israel; God's blessing of a good harvest serves as a witness for Israel's God to the other nations. bless. See p 842. The faith of God's people in times of poor harvest can also serve as a witness (Hab 3:17–19). This verse may be read as a prayer.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 67:7 let all the ends of the earth fear Him! God's salvation is for all people. fear. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 67 There is only one way of salvation, which Israel's God provided in the work of His Son, Jesus Christ. Thus, we believe in God's salvation through Christ and proclaim it to all the world. • "Thine over all shall be the praise And thanks of ev'ry nation; And all the world with joy shall raise The voice of exultation." Amen. (LSB 823:2)

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 68 Psalm seems to be an "order of service" for a procession at the Jerusalem temple (or at the tabernacle). Parts of the psalm use imagery similar to that used by the Canaanites when describing their god Baal, which is ironic because the psalm describes the defeat of Canaanite kings. choirmaster. See p 993. Song. See Ps 46 intro.

Format: V v 1–6, the Lord has brought salvation to Israel in the exodus; v v 7–10, wilderness wanderings; v v 11–14, conquest of the Promised Land; v v 15–18; dwelling in God's sanctuary; v v 19–23, God dispenses forgiveness and salvation for all who trust in Him; v v

24–27, God is worthy of praise at His sanctuary; v v 28–31, all the nations praise God; v v 32–35, God empowers Israel.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:1 arise. God acts on behalf of His people (12:5). enemies. Any (human or demonic) who reject Him by unbelief.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:3 righteous. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:4 to His name. God's name reveals His very being and identity (Ex 3:13–15). See p 843. rides through the deserts. Alludes to the Lord leading Israel out of Egypt at the time of the exodus.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:5 holy habitation. See note, v v 28–31.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:6 Another way of saying that "God opposes the proud but gives grace to the humble" (1Pt 5:5).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:7 Recalls that the Lord led Israel through the wilderness in safety and salvation. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:8 May refer to God's giving of His covenant to Israel at Sinai (Ex 19:16).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:9–10 The Lord provided for Israel during the wilderness wanderings (Ex 16–17; Nu 11).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:11–13 With v 14, refers to the Lord leading Israel in the conquest of the Promised Land. The women announce the happy events and divide the spoil (v 13).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:14 snow. Figurative for sun-bleached bones or glittering equipment of slain enemies lying on the darker hillsides.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:15–16 Bashan. This region east and north of the Sea of Chinnereth was home to impressive Mount Hermon, more than 9,000 ft above sea level. Zion, though much lower in height, is more significant. See color map 2. In the services there, God made Himself present to forgive.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:17 chariots of God. Refers to God's angels. See note, Ezk 10:1. Sinai is now in the sanctuary. The divine majesty displayed in giving the Law at Sinai is now on display in forgiveness at the tabernacle, which points to God's forgiveness in Christ (Jn 2:19–22).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:18 host of captives. Tabernacle points to the risen and ascended Christ. "Christ has overcome the devil, and has given to us the promise and the Holy Spirit, in order that—by divine aid—we ourselves may also overcome" (Ap V 18).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:19–23 The God revealed at the OT tabernacle brings salvation to those who trust in Him and judgment to those who oppose Him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:21 hairy crown. Cf Dt 32:42. Enemy soldiers may have taken an oath not to cut their hair until they had victory.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:23 strike your feet in their blood. Illustrated by 1Ki 21:23; 22:38; 2Ki 9:36.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:24–25 procession. Evidently a procession to the temple or tabernacle (sanctuary) was a part of Israel's worship; it acknowledged the Lord as the true King of Israel. Perhaps this psalm was composed specifically for such a procession and describes its arrangement. See p 959.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:26 fountain! Patriarch Jacob.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:27 Two southern tribes and two northern tribes are mentioned to represent all of Israel.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:28–31 Tabernacle worship is seen to have worldwide significance. Even non-Israelites will come to this forgiveness (cf Is 2:1–5; 60:1–6; Eph 2:11–22).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 68:32–35 Procession concludes with all nations invited to join the Israelites in praising the Lord, who is enthroned in His temple. The OT tabernacle was an earthly counterpart to God's heavenly throne (v v 33–34), from which He rules the universe.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 68 In His sanctuary, God provides His salvation. Without this sanctuary, there is only judgment. Thus, we turn to the Lord and His Word in faith, and we give Him praise. • Summon Your power, O God, by which You have worked among us. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 69 David offers this prayer for help in the midst of attacks and sufferings imposed on him by his enemies. As Jesus is the promised Son of David (2Sm 7:8–16), these afflictions of David foreshadow the even greater afflictions of Christ; hence, this psalm is quoted in the NT with reference to Christ (see center-column notes in v v 4, 9, 22, 25). choirmaster. See p 993. Lilies. Probably the melody to which this psalm was sung.

Format: V v 1–3, waiting for God; v v 4–5, my suffering and folly; v v 6–8, dishonor; v v 9–12, zeal for God's house; v v 13–15, prayer for deliverance; v v 16–18, plea for quick answer; v v 19–21, no comforters; v v 22–28, anger against the wicked; v 29, affliction; v v 30–33, honor God with praise; v v 34–36, God will save Zion.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:1–2 David's afflictions are so severe, he feels as though he is drowning in them (cf v v 14–15). neck. Hbr nephesh, "throat, life." A person's breath of life can be described as residing in the throat. Cf Gn 2:7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:3 dim. Distress can cloud one's vision of God (cf v v 16–17).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:4 hate … lies. Enemies impose these unjust sufferings; the psalmist is unjustly accused of stealing.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:5 folly. David confesses that he is a sinner. See p 1016.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:6 shame … dishonor through me. Psalmist prays that his sin may not cause any to stumble in their faith.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:7 for Your sake. Although he has sinned (v 5), David's sufferings are not punishment or discipline from God but persecution imposed by unbelievers.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:8 stranger to my brothers. Suffering for the faith can even include alienation from one's own family (Mt 10:34–39).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:9 zeal for Your house. Psalmist is suffering on account of his zealous faith in the Lord, who reveals Himself at the tabernacle. Ambr: "Faith … must not be a mere matter of performance" (NPNF 2 10:203). Because Jesus displayed perfect zeal for the Lord of the temple, His enemies persecuted Him to death.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:10–11 fasting … sackcloth … a byword to them. His enemies mock him for his faith and piety. See note, Jb 16:15.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:12 gate. Place for legal matters (Ru 4:1; Ps 127:5) as well as malicious gossip (2Sm 15:2–3). See p 792. songs about me. Songs of contempt and ridicule.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:13 acceptable time. A way of praying according to God's will (Lk 22:42; 1Jn 5:14–15).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:17 face. David prays for what God has promised in the priestly benediction (Nu 6:24–26).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:18 redeem … ransom. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:19–20 reproach … shame … dishonor … despair. In some form or another, these come into the life of every believer: Mk 8:34–35; Rm 8:17; 2Tm 3:12; 1Pt 4:12–14.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:21 poison … sour wine. Hostility led to actual physical harm.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:22–28 Psalmist is here inspired to speak God's words of judgment against the evildoers; see p 879.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:22–23 Cited by the apostle Paul about his fellow Israelites who do not put their faith in Christ for salvation (Rm 11:9–10).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:25 Referred to by Peter when he speaks of what befell Judas for having betrayed Jesus (Ac 1:20).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:28 blotted out of the book of the living. God's judgment; may refer to eternal damnation (Rv 21:27) and/or to death as the end of this life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:29 salvation. As before, David appeals to God's work for deliverance. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:30–31 Sacrifice was a divinely ordained part of Israel's worship, yet some people were simply going through the motions when they brought an offering. The psalmist's songs of praise and thanksgiving will be sincere. 1 Clem: "The Lord, brethren, stands in need of nothing; and He desires nothing of anyone, except that confession be made to Him" (ANF 1:19).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:31 horns and hoofs. Animals acceptable for sacrifice had to be mature (horns) and be classified as clean (cloven hoofed; Lv 11:3).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:32 humble. Those who trust in the Lord; see note, 37:10–11.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:35 save Zion. This phrase, alongside v 33, makes it plain that David's prayer is one that all God's people may make their own. See "Zion," p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 69:36 inherit. Cf 37:11; see "portion," p 7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 69 Though afflicted, we still confess our sins before God. We also turn to Him in faith for deliverance from those who persecute us, asking for His strength and deliverance, lest we fail to remain faithful to Him. • Save me, O God! I will praise the name of God with a song. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 70 choirmaster. See p 993. memorial offering. Parts of certain offerings were burned as a "memorial portion" for a pleasing aroma to the Lord (Lv 2:2, 9, 16; 6:15). In this way, God would remember the worshiper (Ps 8:4) and would remember his sins no more (Jer 31:34). In this psalm, the worshiper asks God for such "remembrance."

Format: V v 1–3, turn back the wicked; v v 4–5, hasten to help.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 70:1–5 Virtually identical with 40:13–17. David may have made this psalm more general so that it could be prayed by other worshipers.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 70:1 Used by the Church at the beginning of Matins and Vespers to pray for God's temporal and eternal deliverance.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 70:2 them. In contrast to the believers of v 4, these are people hostile to God and His servants; ultimately, they serve the purposes of Satan. seek my life! Not just physical harm, but also spiritual and eternal harm (Eph 6:12; 1Pt 5:8).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 70:3 Aha, Aha! An expression of malicious joy.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 70:4 seek You. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 70:5 poor and needy. Not necessarily economically; these words often refer to the humble and repentant attitude of God's people (e.g., Mt 5:3; Lk 6:20). help. Hbr 'ezer, "ally." The same term describes Eve in Gn 2:18, 20. do not delay! The worshiper expresses the fervent longing of his faith; he is acutely aware of how helpless and hopeless he is without God's salvation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 70 With the psalmist, we acknowledge our spiritual poverty before God. Part of that acknowledgment is being watchful, lest through pride or faithlessness we ourselves turn away from Him. We seek God in His Word and Sacraments; He remembers us by forgiving our sins (Mt 26:28; 1Co 11:25). In this way, He will provide deliverance—if not in this life, then certainly in the life to come. • "Make haste, O God, to deliver me!" (v 1). You are great in Your forgiveness. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 71 A psalm for an older believer struggling with assaults on his faith, including temptations to think that his faith was in vain. Since Ps 70 is "of David" and Ps 72 is "of Solomon," perhaps this is a Davidic psalm composed near the end of his life. By proclaiming the saving deeds of the Lord, he meets the challenges of old age with faith, hope, faithfulness, witness, and praise. In Hbr, this psalm lacks poetic artistry, yet richly proclaims the faith.

Format: V v 1–3, take refuge in the Lord; v v 4–6, trust since youth; v v 7–11, do not forsake God, even in old age; v v 12–16, tell of God's acts; v v 17–21, God's righteousness knows no bounds; v v 22–24, praise to God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:1 Statement of supreme trust in the Lord, a theme that emerges at many points in this psalm.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:2 righteousness. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:3 rock. See p 843. The Lord's righteousness makes our trust firm.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:4 the grasp of the unjust. Believers are often subjected to unjust suffering by others.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:6 before my birth. God wills our salvation from eternity (Jer 1:5; Gal 1:15).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:7 portent. Sign (cf Ex 7:3; Dt 6:22). Psalmist has been an example of faith, but now his troubles seem to be proof of the uselessness of his faith, as seen also in the enemies' comments, v 11. He calls on God to rescue him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:9 Author holds to his faith despite the temptations of old age to forsake the Lord. Cf v 18; Ec 12:1–8.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:12 far from me. Psalmist's difficult circumstances seem to prove that God is far away. Therefore, he prays for the Lord to help him and to vindicate his faith.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:13 Human accusers echo the accusations of the accuser, Satan (Rv 12:10–11). The condemnation of Satan means condemnation for all who serve his purposes, whether intentionally or unintentionally. See note, Jb 42:7.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:14–15 Psalmist's life of faith and hope will show itself in witness and praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:16 I will come. Psalmist will carry on his way of life with witness and praise. Bern: "When he entered into the spiritual powers of God he would be freed from all the infirmities of the flesh, and would have no longer to think of them, but would be occupied only with the perfections of God" (SLSB, p 203). them. His enemies.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:17–18 Mel: "The royal psalmist King David, in that golden jewel of his psalms … prays this earnest and ardent prayer for the church in its old age" (LTh 2:560).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:17 You have taught me. God's Word sustains us in faith and hope, from youth to old age (v v 9, 18).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:18 might. Lit, "arm." See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:19 reaches the high heavens. God's acts of righteousness and salvation make Him worthy of the highest praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:20 revive … depths of the earth. In his old age, the psalmist confidently anticipates his resurrection from the grave; cf Jb 19:23–27; Is 25:8; 26:19; Dn 12:2–3.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:21 increase my greatness. Our future in heaven surpasses anything in this life.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:22 harp … lyre. Stringed musical instruments, perhaps an indication that David is the author (1Sm 16:14–23). See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 71:24 they. Psalmist's accusers; cf v 13.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 71 Truths of the faith learned in childhood are of no advantage if they are forsaken later in life. The Lord is faithful in His righteous, saving deeds. They are always the source of our eternal life. Let us cling to these in faith and faithfully give witness and praise. • "My mouth will tell of Your righteous acts" (v 15). "I will remind them of Your righteousness, Yours alone" (v 16). Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 72 Of Solomon. Hbr could mean "for Solomon" or "by Solomon" (or perhaps both) for the occasion of his coronation; it may well have been used at the coronation of other kings from David's line. In accord with the promise of 2Sm 7:8–17, the line of Davidic kings prophetically pointed to the ultimate Son of David, Jesus. Just: "It [Ps 72] refers also to our Christ" (ANF 1:211).

Format: V v 1–4, prayer for the king; v v 5–7, may the righteous flourish; v v 8–11, may all other kings serve the king; v v 12–14, the king has pity; v v 15–17, may the king's name endure forever; v v 18–19, bless the Lord; v 20, colophon for an early edition of the Psalter (Books One and Two; Ps 1–72).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:1 Give the king Your justice … Your righteousness. Justice and righteousness would be desirable attributes of a king's rule. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:2 your poor. Faithful followers of the one true God (see note, 70:5).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:3 King's rule is so extraordinary that it has a positive effect on the entire land, even the whole creation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:5–7 Figurative depiction of the splendor of eternity. Ambr: "The divine Scriptures promised us this rain upon the whole earth, to water the world with the dew of the Divine Spirit at the coming of the Savior…. So now we drink, who before were thirsty" (NPNF 2 10:94).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:8 sea to sea … the River. See ESV note. The farthest geographical extent of the land of Israel (achieved under the reign of Solomon). Even as the land promised to Israel pointed beyond itself to life in heaven (Heb 11:14–16), so the expression here points to the universal extent of Christ's dominion (Mt 28:18), seen also from v 11.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:9 desert tribes. Unruly tribes in the wilderness of the Arabian Peninsula. lick the dust! Description of submission. See note, Gn 3:14.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:10 Tarshish. See note, Jnh 1:3. Sheba and Seba. Kingdoms south of Egypt or on the southern Arabian Peninsula, known for their riches. gifts! Hbr term was found written on a potsherd at Kadesh-barnea, an oasis south of Judah in the Negeb, from which trade could go toward Egypt or toward the Red Sea. The inscription may have marked tribute to Israel or from Israel. Ezk 27:15 tells of a similar "payment." See color map 3.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:12–14 Describes an ideal rule; the Israelites pray that their king might rule this way.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:15 prayer … blessings. Cf 1Tm 2:1–2.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:17 These words point to Jesus as the fulfillment of the promise of 2Sm 7:8–17.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:18–19 Doxology concludes not merely this psalm but the entire Book Two of the Psalter (Ps 42–72). See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 72:20 Editorial note may indicate that at one time the entire Psalter ended here. In Book Three (Ps 73–89), only Ps 86 is attributed to David. See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 72 The psalmist realizes that even the best of the Davidic kings fell short of the ideal. So we also often fail to live as we should. Yet our hope is in David's Son and Lord, Jesus Christ, who has brought us eternal salvation. • "Hail to the Lord's anointed, Great David's greater Son! Hail, in the time appointed, His reign on earth begun! He comes to break oppression, To set the captive free, To take away transgression And rule in equity." Amen. (LSB 398:1)

PSALMS—NOTE ON Book Three Ps 73–89; difficult to date. See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 73 Deals with the same issues as the Book of Job (Jb 21:7–15 bears many similarities to v v 3–14). The psalmist expresses his doubts and struggles, yet passes through them to a faith renewed by God's faithfulness and promises. Asaph. One of the tabernacle song leaders appointed by David (1Ch 6:31, 39). His work, including that of composing songs or psalms, may have been carried on by his descendants and/or successors. (See Ps 74 intro.)

Format: V v 1–3, envy of the arrogant; v v 4–15, the arrogant prosper; v v 16–17, struggle to understand; v v 18–22, the end of the arrogant; v v 23–26, God is our strength and portion; v v 27–28, be near God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:1 Israel … pure in heart. Those genuine in their faith and life toward the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:2 slipped. Figurative description of psalmist's struggles of faith and doubt.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:3 Believers struggle when the wicked and unbelieving seem to fare as well if not better than those who sincerely believe; cf Mt 13:24–30, 36–43. Prosperity, of itself, is not evil or righteous.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:4–12 The wicked seem to have no pain (v 4) and no trouble or pangs of conscience (v 5); they are arrogant (v 6), prosperous and happy (v 7), and enjoy popularity (v 10), ease, and riches (v 12) despite their arrogant and even blasphemous attitude toward God (v v 8–9), whom they treat as though He were a naive fool (v 11).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:13 washed my hands in innocence. Language of true faith and piety based on the ritual of sacrifice (26:6–7; see pp 170–71); the psalmist thinks that his faith and piety have brought him no advantage.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:14 I have been stricken. Cf Mt 10:24–25; 16:24–25.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:15 Psalmist begins to turn from his envy to God's truth.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:16 Answer he seeks is beyond human grasp.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:17 I went into the sanctuary of God. The tabernacle or temple as the place where God reveals Himself and His ways through His Word. See diagram, p 541. discerned their end. The glory of the believing and judgment on the unbelieving are often hidden in this life but are revealed at the end of all things (cf Mt 13:24–30, 36–43).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:18 slippery places. The wicked's seeming advantages actually are dangers; if they do not repent, they are destined to fall into judgment.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:19–20 God's judgment is swift and thorough, whether in this life (e.g., Nu 16:31–33) or in the life to come (1Th 5:3).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:21–22 Psalmist repents of his thoughts and feelings, for they have been more like those of a brute rather than one possessing the wisdom of faith (cf Jb 40:3–5; 42:1–6).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:23 Even when we struggle with doubt, God will never let us go. right hand. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:24–25 True value of what we have as believers is known only in light of the glory of eternity (Rm 8:18).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:26 my portion forever. This life will end; the life to come when Christ returns will never end. See p 7. Jerome: "Christ is all, that he who has left all for Christ may find One in place of all" (NPNF 2 6:138).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 73:27–28 Psalmist has passed through his struggles with doubt, and his faith is stronger for it. that I may tell. Strengthened faith will express itself by witnessing (perhaps to others struggling with similar doubts).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 73 Being troubled by doubt and envy does not mean that we have lost our faith. We are called to struggle against doubt and envy. We find strength to do so in the certainty of the final outcome of God's promises. • Lord, forgive me for the times I have been envious and ungrateful, and strengthen me to believe Your promises and to seek Your eternal kingdom. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 74 Seems to have been written after the destruction of Jerusalem and the temple in 587 BC. The absence of a prophet (v 9) would reflect the time after Jeremiah was carried into Egypt (Jer 43), with the ministries of Ezekiel and Daniel being confined to Babylon. Maskil. See p 841. Asaph. Family name, referring to "sons of Asaph," who were active in Israelite worship at least as late as the time of Josiah (2Ch 35:15; see Ps 73 intro).

Format: V v 1–3, remember Your flock; v v 4–8, the sanctuary burned; v v 9–11, how long will the foe scoff?; v v 12–17, God conquered and created; v v 18–19, do not forget Your people; v v 20–21, remember Your covenant; v v 22–23, defend against the scoffers.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:1 cast us off. Describes divine judgment; cf 2Th 1:9.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:2 redeemed. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:3 perpetual. Apparently, the temple has been in ruins for a number of years.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:4–6 The temple was desecrated by the presence of unbelievers, their symbols of pagan religion, or their military standards.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:8 meeting places. Likely refers to the temple courts rather than the high places.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:9 our signs … prophet. Real tragedy is that God's Word through prophets and His forgiveness in the sacrifices ("signs") of the temple worship had been removed; cf Am 8:11.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:11 hand. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:12–17 Psalmist points to God's mighty works in both creation and the exodus (the act of creating Israel); God's gracious deeds are the reason why the Almighty should grant the psalmist's prayers for deliverance. These mighty acts included the crossing of the Red Sea (v 13) and the defeat of Egypt (v 14), providing water during the wilderness wanderings (v 15), the crossing of the Jordan (v 15), and the creation of days and seasons (v v 16–17).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:12 Gr Nys: "Of God's eternity … we have heard from prophecy…. We define Him to be earlier than any beginning, and exceeding any end" (NPNF 2 5:97–98). working salvation. See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:18 Cf v 22.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:19 soul of your dove. Pictures how precious Israel is to the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:20 covenant. God's covenant (Gn 12:1–3; 15; 17:1–14; Ex 19:4–6; Dt 4:10–13; Ps 89:3–4) is His promise of blessing and salvation. The psalmist entreats the Lord to forgive and deliver Israel on account of this covenant. Cf Mt 26:28.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:21 poor and needy. See note, 70:5.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 74:22–23 Psalmist entreats the Lord to defend His honor by keeping His promises to save His people; cf Ex 32:11–14; Nu 14:13–19; Dt 9:26–29.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 74 When calamity strikes, we ought to see God calling us to repentance in it (Lk 13:1–5). In repentance, we flee to God for mercy, not because of anything in us but by what He Himself has done for our redemption. • You, O Lord, are my Redeemer; deliver my life. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 75 Seems to have been written when Israel was assaulted by unbelieving enemies (e.g., 2Ki 18–19). choirmaster. See p 993. Do Not Destroy. See Ps 57 intro. Asaph. See intros, Ps 73; 74. Song. See Ps 46 intro.

Format: V 1, giving thanks; v v 2–3, God will judge; v v 4–5, do not be proud; v v 6–8, recounting God's judgment; v v 9–10, God promises justice.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 75:1 Cf 9:1. Your name is near. God's name often means God Himself (Ex 3:14); cf Mt 28:19–20; see p 843. wondrous deeds. Cf 1Pt 2:9, where "excellencies" could be rendered "wonderful deeds."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 75:2 set time that I appoint. The Lord acts according to His own timetable, also with respect to judging the wicked. judge with equity. Cf Rm 12:19.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 75:3 earth totters. Crises often make everything about this life uncertain. steady its pillars. Figurative way of referring to the Creator's ability to preserve the world and hence keep His people in His care. Selah. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 75:4 lift up your horn. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 75:5 haughty neck. Symbol of arrogance.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 75:6 east … west … wilderness. "Wilderness" may refer to the area south of Jerusalem; if the original occasion of this psalm was the event of 2Ki 18–19, then the attackers would have come from the north. Hence, the other directions would be potential avenues for help; however, all help comes from the Lord (cf v v 7–8).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 75:8 cup with foaming wine. Thick wine was mixed with water. The cup of God's wrath is a common and vivid biblical picture of divine judgment. See note, Is 51:17.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 75:9 Believers respond to God's judgment with proclamation and praise.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 75:10 By proclaiming God's Word, believers become agents of God's work (of both judging the wicked and exalting the believing). horns. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 75 God judges the wicked and delivers the believer according to His timetable, not ours. His seeming delay in this should not cause us to lose heart but to continue in repentance and faith. As He has fulfilled all His promises in the past, so He will act in both judgment and salvation. • We give thanks to You, O God, and recount Your wondrous deeds. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 76 May be compared with Ps 46; 48; 87. Many have conjectured that the deliverance from the invasion of Sennacherib (Is 36–37) may have been the occasion for its composition. choirmaster. See p 993. stringed instruments. See p 993. Asaph. See intros, Ps 73; 74. Song. See Ps 46 intro.

Format: V v 1–3, God dwells in Zion; v v 4–6, victory over warmongers; v v 7–9, God roused in anger; v v 10–12, vows and gifts to the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 76:1 Judah … Israel. Names for God's people, the Northern and Southern Kingdoms (see map, p 558). known … great. God's mighty deeds (described in the following verses) reveal His majesty and saving power.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 76:2 abode. The temple. Salem. Lit, "peace." Like Zion, Salem is another name for Jerusalem.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 76:3 There He broke … weapons of war. May be a reference to Is 37:36. Selah. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 76:4 mountains of prey. Unusual phrase that seems to indicate that the Lord has won a great victory in a mountainous region (Jerusalem itself is situated on a hilltop).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 76:5–6 Portrays the utter defeat of the opposing army.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 76:6 rebuke. Denotes the power in God's Word; cf Is 55:10–11; Jn 18:6; Rm 1:16–17. See "uttered," v 8.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 76:7–9 feared … judgment … save … humble. God's deeds portend judgment for those who oppose Him and therefore make them afraid. The "humble" are those who trust in the Lord (cf 25:9; 37:9; Mt 5:3, 5). His mighty deeds save them; hence, their fear of Him is one of faith and reverent awe (cf v 11). See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 76:10 wrath of man. Even those who oppose the Lord will one day praise Him; if they do not do so willingly, out of faith, then in eternity they will be compelled to acknowledge His power and righteousness (Is 45:23; Rm 14:11–12; Php 2:10–11; Col 2:15).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 76:11 vows … gifts. One form of worship in OT Israel consisted of gifts and offerings vowed to the Lord (Dt 12:6, 11, 17, 26). See p 7.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 76 God is majestic in both judgment and salvation. We must tremble in fear before His judgment over our sins. Yet we also trust in and rejoice in His mighty deeds for our salvation, by which He has delivered us from those who would seek our eternal, spiritual harm (Col 2:15). • Glorious are You, O God, when You judge and when You save. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 77 Similarities of thought between v v 16–19 and Hab 3:8–10 suggest that this psalm comes from the time of Habakkuk. The author expresses certain struggles of faith and doubt, which plague many believers. choirmaster. See p 993. Jeduthun. See Ps 62 intro. Asaph. See intros, Ps 73; 74.

Format: V v 1–3, crying to the Lord; v v 4–9, sleeplessness and doubt; v 10, an appeal; v v 11–15, God's way is holy; v v 16–20, a path through the storm.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:1–3 cry aloud … my hand is stretched out … refuses to be comforted … I moan … my spirit faints. Psalmist's impassioned words express the anguish he is experiencing. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:4 hold my eyelids open. The distress has produced insomnia.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:5–6 consider … my song … meditate … search. Even leaders of worship may be troubled by challenges to their faith. The psalmist seeks refuge in God's Word, in particular, God's Word regarding His past deeds of rescue, also as those recounted in Israel's psalms, some of which the psalmist himself may have written. Yet there remain challenges to his faith, as related in v v 7–9.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:7–9 Psalmist feels that God has abandoned him and broken His promises. He feels tempted to abandon the faith altogether. The details may change, but all believers may find themselves from time to time struggling with similar thoughts that tempt them to forsake the faith; cf Lk 8:13.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:10–20 Even in the midst of doubting God, the psalmist finds strength to believe God's Word regarding His mighty, saving deeds (cf Rm 1:16–17; 1Co 1:23–24).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:10 years … right hand. See p 843. Reflection (cf v 12) on the Lord's saving deeds would provide the power to rekindle and strengthen faith.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:11 deeds of the LORD … wonders of old. The exodus (v v 16, 19).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:13–14 Similar to the celebration of the Red Sea crossing in Ex 15:11. Such wonderful, mighty deeds show that the Lord alone is holy and is God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:15 arm redeemed. See pp 842–43.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:16–19 Cf Hab 3:8–10.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:16 waters saw You. Personification gives a vivid description of Israel crossing the sea (Ex 14–15).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:17–18 Ex 14:19–20 speaks of darkness and of a pillar of cloud that "lit up the night"; these verses describe the same event as a tremendous thunderstorm. "When he reflected on his own lust and desire for revenge, the poor sinner might have laughed rather than wept—unless he had either been truly struck by the lightning of the Law [Psalm 77:18] or had been tormented by the devil with a sorrowful spirit [1 Samuel 16:14]" (SA III III 18).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:19 The unseen Lord led Israel through the sea.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 77:20 God's redemptive acts in the exodus give the believer a sense of calm and trust.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 77 Even strong believers and spiritual leaders among God's people may find themselves troubled by times of weakness in their faith. But God's powerful Word strengthens us. As we focus on the Gospel, the message of God's mighty deeds for our redemption, He will strengthen our faith. • Lord, "I believe; help my unbelief!" (Mk 9:24). Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 78 Second-longest psalm in the Psalter. Seems to have originated during the days of the division of the land between the Northern (Israel) and Southern (Judah) Kingdoms (v 67, recounted in 1Ki 12), after the construction of Solomon's temple (v 69). Thus, it may have been written by a descendant of Asaph. The psalm culminates in God's deeds to and through David, highlighting the importance of the covenant with David (2Sm 7:1–17) and its fulfillment in Christ. Maskil. See p 841. Asaph. See intros, Ps 73; 74.

Format: V v 1–4, teaching for the next generation; v v 5–8, God appointed a Law; v v 9–16, the exodus; v v 17–20, rebellion in the wilderness; v v 21–31, God is just, yet gracious; v v 32–55, testing God again and again; v v 56–66, the Lord punishes His people and His adversaries; v v 67–72, Judah and David chosen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:1–2 teaching … parable … dark sayings. Psalmist is teaching the meaning of Israel's salvation history, a meaning unknown when not revealed by God. Mt 13:35 quotes v 2 to indicate that Jesus' parables, which were "dark sayings" to those who did not receive them through faith, also proclaimed God's saving acts. See also "Enigmatic Sayings," p 1775.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:3–4 fathers … tell to the coming generation. The faith is to be taught as much by the leaders of each family (Eph 6:4) as it is by the leaders of the community of faith (clergy); cf v 6. See note, Pr 1:8; see also pp 775–78. deeds … might … wonders. Object of the teaching is God's mighty deeds for our salvation (Ac 2:11, 22–36).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:5 testimony. The covenant, e.g., Ex 19:3–6; 24; hence, the entire exodus is God's mighty deed. See p 971.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:7 set their hope in God. God's saving works are taught so that the hearers may believe. Cf Ac 2:11, 38, 44; Rm 10:17.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:8 stubborn and rebellious generation. Because Israel had a long history of unfaithfulness to the Lord and His covenant, the psalmist warns about the dangers of unfaithfulness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:9–11 Symbolic reference to the faithlessness of Israel. Ephraimites. One of the larger Israelite tribes. Often refers to all of Israel or, after the division, to the Northern Kingdom.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:12 Zoan. City in the eastern part of the Nile Delta, known in Gk as Tanis (cf Nu 13:22). See map, p 609.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:13–16 Psalmist relates God's saving deeds in the exodus; cf Ex 13:21–15:21; 17:1–7; Nu 20:1–13.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:17–31 Israel responded to the Lord's saving acts with ingratitude; they brought God's wrath upon themselves; cf Ex 15:22–16:36; Nu 11:4–34. Their ingratitude arose from a lack of faith and trust (cf v 22).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:24–25 manna … grain of heaven … bread of the angels. Poetic ways of indicating that this bread was provided in a miraculous fashion. angels. Lit, "powerful ones," though translated by rabbis as "angels."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:32 they still sinned. They did not believe God would give them the land He promised; cf Nu 13:25–14:10.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:33 Decriptive of their death in the wilderness (Nu 14:21–38).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:34–37 Israel's repentance was often insincere and superficial. "We must examine our heart and conscience [1 Corinthians 11:28; 2 Corinthians 13:5], and we must act like people who desire to be right with God [Psalm 78:37]. The more this is done, the more the heart will be warmed and enkindled, so it may not become entirely cold" (LC V 54).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:38–39 Cf Ex 34:6–7; Ps 103:2–5, 14. God's forgiveness accomplishes what we cannot do for ourselves by any means.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:38 restrained. Chem: "God did not pour out His total wrath in these punishments" (LTh 1:112).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:40–55 Israel continued to be disobedient and unbelieving despite God's repeated acts of mercy and salvation. Six of the ten plagues recorded in Ex 7–12 are mentioned here: the first, fourth, second, eighth, seventh, and tenth.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:49 destroying angels. Agents of God's wrath.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:50 path for His anger. Describes God's judgment against Egypt by the slaying of all their firstborn.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:51 Ham. Another name for Egypt, as the Egyptians were among the descendants of Noah's son Ham (see notes, Gn 10:6–20).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:52 led out His people like sheep. Cf Nu 27:17; Is 63:11.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:53–55 The exodus (v 53) and taking of the Promised Land (v v 54–55, recounted in the Book of Joshua) were the climax of God's deeds of salvation early in the OT. right hand. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:56–57 Faithlessness continued to be a problem within Israel, as attested esp in Jgs. twisted like a deceitful bow. As in v 9, a symbolic depiction of faithlessness.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:58 high places. Where false gods were worshiped. See p 526.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:59 utterly rejected. As the subsequent history of Israel proves, this does not mean that God permanently rejected all the Israelites. He preserved a remnant.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:60–61 dwelling at Shiloh. The tabernacle at Shiloh was bereft of the ark of the covenant by Israel's enemies as a judgment from God. In fact, the entire tabernacle at Shiloh may have been destroyed by the Philistine attack, which started at Aphek, 25 mi W. See map, p 558. According to archaeologists, the Israelite settlement at Shiloh was violently destroyed c 1060 BC. captivity. Refers to the capture of the ark of the covenant. See p 495.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:65 Lord awoke. Depicts God's care and rescue of His people, though He had ignored them due to their unfaithfulness. like a strong man shouting because of wine. The anger of a drunken brawler describes God's wild response to Israel's enemies.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:67 Joseph … Ephraim. Both names refer to the Northern Kingdom of Israel after the division of the tribes into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah. God rejected the Northern Kingdom on account of its persistent unbelief and idolatry. The ark was not returned to Shiloh in the territory of Joseph (Ephraim) but was taken to Jerusalem in the territory of Judah.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:68–70 Judah … David. God's saving deeds reach a high point with David, whose family led the Southern Kingdom of Israel. The Lord chose the lowliest son of Jesse (1Sm 16:1, 11–13) to be the leader of His people. With David, the Lord made a covenant (2Sm 7:1–17), promising that a son of David will rule forever. This covenant promise is fulfilled in Jesus' birth and ministry (Rm 1:3–4).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:68 Mount Zion. See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:69 sanctuary. David's son Solomon built the temple as a part of the fulfillment of God's covenant with David; this temple itself points to Christ and His redemptive ministry (Jn 2:19–22).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 78:71–72 shepherd. David had been a shepherd (1Sm 16:11), but as God's anointed king, he became another kind of shepherd, the leader of God's people in right faith and worship. This aspect of David's life pointed to his descendant Jesus (Ezk 34:23–24; 37:24; Mi 5:2–4), whose ministry provides us with the ultimate shepherd's care and deliverance (Mt 2:6; Jn 10:11, 17–18; Rv 7:17). He continues to provide for us through the work of ministers of the Gospel ("pastor" lit means "shepherd"; Ac 20:28; 1Pt 5:2–4).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 78 God's dealings with Israel of old point to His acts toward us today. Israel's history teaches us to see and to repent of our own lack of faith. Also, God's saving deeds in Israel's history, especially in His acts toward and through David, point us to what Christ has done so that we may have God's ongoing forgiveness and salvation. • "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for He has … raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of His servant David" (Lk 1:68–69). Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 79 Perhaps written during the Babylonian exile, this psalm may lament the destruction of Jerusalem in 587 BC. Asaph. Perhaps not the one who served during David's reign (2Ch 35:15). Perhaps the writer is a descendant, or is of the "school" of Asaph. See intros, Ps 73; 74. Recognizing the invasion as divine judgment (v v 5, 8), he begs for God's mercy and restoration.

Format: V v 1–4, Jerusalem destroyed; v v 5–7, appeal to God's anger; v v 8–10, prayer for atonement; v v 11–13, save the prisoners, take revenge on our enemies.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 79:1 inheritance. Either the land God promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (e.g., Gn 50:24) or God's people themselves (e.g., Ps 78:62). Here it likely refers to the land. See "portion," p 7. defiled. No Gentile was allowed into the temple (cf Ezk 44:9).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 79:2–3 Unburied bodies of Israel's slain litter the streets, left exposed to scavenging animals. No one remained to bury them. Normally, even executed criminals were buried (Dt 21:22–23).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 79:4 neighbors. Gentile nations bordering Israel who taunted and mocked the sufferers.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 79:6 Pour out. Wordplay (cf v 3). Just as the Babylonians "poured out" Israel's blood, so Israel calls upon God to "pour out" His avenging wrath. See p 879. call upon Your name! See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 79:8 former iniquities. Lit, "iniquities of forefathers," referring collectively to those in Israel's history as being guilty before God. But the psalmist does not blame his ancestors for God's judgment. He realizes that the present generation participates in the same sins.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 79:9 deliver … atone. "Deliver us" may refer to the present captivity, but "atone for our sins" anticipates the much greater deliverance that only Christ can give (1Jn 2:2; see "deliver," p 842; see "atone," p 5).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 79:11 prisoners. After the Babylonians destroyed Israel, the most promising of Israel's youth were taken into captivity. Cf Dn 1:1–4.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 79:12 Return. Asking God to completely repay those who have destroyed Israel. This is a "give them everything they have coming" prayer. sevenfold. See p 217.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 79:13 people, the sheep of Your pasture. Favorite image for God's people (Ezk 34:11–17; Mi 2:12; Heb 13:20), particularly in the Psalms (23:1–4; 74:1; 95:7; 100:3).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 79 Originally written as a lament over Babylon's destruction of Israel, this psalm remains applicable to all Christians who suffer hardship and struggle at the hands of unbelievers. Christians throughout the world become the taunt of the unbelievers around them, as they are either explicitly derided or condescendingly treated because of their faith and trust in God. This psalm is well-prayed by such sufferers, as it assures us that God is reliable and His deliverance is trustworthy. • Give me steadfastness and strength, O Lord, to wait upon You in every difficulty and trial. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 80 References to Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh (v 2), representing the Northern Kingdom of Israel, suggest that this psalm may have been written in response to the Assyrian campaign of 2Ki 17:1–6. Refugees from the Northern Kingdom have come to the Jerusalem sanctuary in the Southern Kingdom to pray for restoration and peace. choirmaster. See p 993. Lilies. See Ps 45 intro. Asaph. See intros, Ps 73; 74.

Format: V v 1–2, appeal to the Shepherd of Israel; v 3, refrain of restoration; v v 4–6, full of tears; v 7, refrain of restoration; v v 8–13,

Israel as a vine; v v 14–18, prayer for the vine; v 19, refrain of restoration.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:1 Shepherd of Israel. Image for God that speaks not only of protection (cf 23:4) but also of divine self-sacrifice for the sheep (Mt 9:36; Jn 10:11–15). enthroned upon the cherubim. A reference to the lid of the ark of the covenant, upon which God promised to dwell among His people (Ex 25:22). See note, Ezk 10:1.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:2 Ephraim and Benjamin and Manasseh. See Ps 80 intro.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:3 face shine. Comparison of the warm, shining sun to the face of God (Nu 6:24–26).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:4 Lord God of hosts. He is God of both the armies of Israel and the angelic armies of heaven. See p 1291.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:5 bread of tears … tears to drink. Poetic expressions found also in Canaanite literature. Their sorrow and grief have become so great that it seems every part of their lives is defiled by tears.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:7 God of hosts. See note, v 4. face shine. Cf v 3. With v v 14, 19, a variation of v v 3–4. Repetition is common in Hbr poetry. See pp 777–78.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:8–10 Notice Israel's dependence upon God's careful nurture: He transplanted the vine, cleared its ground, and provided for its continued growth, which was so great that it began to influence the nations (i.e., "mountains") around it.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:8 a vine. OT describes God's people as a vine (Jer 2:21; Hos 10:1); Jesus appropriated the image for Himself (Jn 15:1, 5). out of Egypt … drove out the nations. Reference to Israel's exodus from Egypt and subsequent entry into Canaan.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:11 the sea. Likely the Great [Mediterranean] Sea.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:12 walls. A vinedresser protects his vineyard by building a protective wall around it (cf Mt 21:33), so that enemies or wild animals cannot enter it. God has broken down Israel's protective wall, so to speak, so that the "boar from the forest ravages it" (v 13).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:13 boar. The Assyrians. See Ps 80 intro.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:14 God of hosts! See note, v 4. Look down from heaven. Reminiscent of the prayer offered at the time of giving an offering (Dt 26:15), this prayer does not speak of God as far away, but as all-powerful. vine. See note, v 8.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:15 stock. Lit, "son." the son. Refers to the Davidic king of Israel; this word also anticipates the coming of the Messiah (cf Gn 3:15).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:16 rebuke of Your face! Unrighteousness of Israel's enemies cannot stand before God's righteousness. Cf Is 6:5.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:17 man of Your right hand … son of man. With v 15, these phrases speak about the king of Israel from David's line, pointing toward the coming of the Messiah. Jesus is the true "son of man" who sits at God's "right hand." See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:18 give us life, and we will call upon Your name! Psalmist describes his people's forsaken condition as lifeless, reminiscent of the clay into which God breathed life while making Adam (Gn 2:7).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 80:19 LORD God of hosts! See p 1291. face shine. See note, v 3.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 80 This psalm begs God to restore His people after their fall before foreign armies. The psalmist recognizes that God's acts of salvation in the past speak assurances for His salvation in the future. Israel repeatedly turned away from the Lord, thus incurring His judgment as a call to repentance. In what ways have we suffered as a result of our turning away? God's pattern of salvation through history provides reliable assurances: God has saved us before; He shall yet save again! • As You have delivered Your people of old, dear Lord, so also deliver me for the sake of Your Son, Jesus. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 81 Possibly written for tabernacle festival usage (v 3), this psalm of unknown date speaks about a time when Israel's worship practices were not impeded by war or exile. References to the exodus (v v 5, 10) and wilderness journey (v 7) illustrate how Israel's worship focused on God's past deeds of deliverance, anticipating the coming of the Messiah and the greater, future deliverance He would bring (v 15). choirmaster. See p 993. Gittith. See Ps 8 intro. Asaph. See intros, Ps 73; 74.

Format: V v 1–3, sing with instruments; v v 4–7, deliverance; v v 8–10, no idolatry; v v 11–16, God delivers those who listen to Him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:1 Jacob! Both a forefather and a synonym for Israel (Gn 32:28).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:2–3 See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:3 new moon … full moon. Celebrations from the Israelite liturgical calendar. See calendar, p 262.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:4–5 statute … rule … decree. Repetition for emphasis. See p 971.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:5 went out over. Reference to Ex 12:29–30, if not to the entire period of Israel's exodus. See ESV note. language. Reference to God's people living in the foreign land of Egypt.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:6 God now speaks.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:7 In distress you called, and I delivered you. Cf Ex 3:7–8. secret place of thunder. Refers to the abode of God in heaven. Cf 18:11–12. tested. Cf Ex 17:1–7. Selah. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:8–9 admonish. God subjected Israel to distress because of their continual flirtations with idolatry (e.g., Ex 32). Although He had delivered them from the bondage of Egypt, they felt continually tempted by the strange and foreign gods of the Canaanites.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:10 fill it. Just as God provided for Israel during the exodus (e.g., Ex 16) and after their entry into Canaan (cf Jsh 5:12), so also shall He gladly provide daily bread to His people, filling their every need.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:12 gave them over. God gave them the desires of their unfaithful hearts, just as He had given them the king they demanded (1Sm 8). Similarly, Moses allowed divorce because the people would have it no other way (Mt 19:1–8).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:13 God reveals His heart's desire.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:15–16 As in v v 1–5a, the psalmist speaks about God. But God has the final word in 16b ("and with honey …").
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:15 cringe. Expecting not a blessing, but only wrath. forever. Term of their punishment.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 81:16 honey from the rock. Miraculous nourishment. God satisfies a "hunger" that people cannot. Cf Dt 32:13.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 81 Even while worshiping the one true God, His people were not listening to His Word. Here God laments the plugging of their ears (v 11), longing for the day they will turn again in repentance. God loves to speak to His people! He especially loves to tell you repeatedly of His great love for you, shown to you in the death and resurrection of His Son. With His Word God feeds His people (v 16), nourishing them with eternal life. • Let me never grow sated, dear heavenly Father, but allow me always to hunger for Your Word and to listen attentively to it. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 82 This psalm alerts faithful Israelites and all believers that God concerns Himself with the care of individuals. The "gods" of v 1 have been charged with the duty of administering justice on God's behalf. However, rather than faithfully acting as divine representatives, these "gods" have thwarted justice (v v 2–4). Asaph. See intros, Ps 73; 74.

Format: V v 1–2, divine council; v v 3–4, justice; v 5, leaders lack understanding; v v 6–7, verdict of the leaders; v 8, plea for God to judge.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 82:1 God … gods. Hbr 'elohim used in both cases (see p 1227). Most commentators agree that the second use of the word in this verse refers to the earthly judges and rulers whom God has established (cf Rm 13:1–17). Luth: "For we are all the children of God [v 6], … and therefore we are gods" (AE 11:111). the divine council. Also translated "congregation" or "assembly," this refers ultimately to the Church.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 82:2–4 God speaks to the "gods" of v 1. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 82:2 you. Refers to the "gods" of v 1. show partiality. Cf Jas 2:1–13.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 82:5 darkness. Gr Nys: "He who has been rendered hostile to the true Light cannot keep his soul in light" (NPNF 2 5:226). foundations of the earth. Not a reference to creation, but to the foundations upon which community life is built. When neighbor fails to treat neighbor in the manner prescribed in v v 2–4, society begins to disintegrate.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 82:6 sons. Believers. See note, v 1. "To God above all you owe the duty to preserve sound teaching and hand it down to future generations, to defend those who teach what is right. For God demands this when He honors kings with His own name, calling them gods, saying, 'I said, "You are gods"'" (Ap XXI 44).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 82:7 like men you shall die. Because of the persistence of sinful flesh, believers enter the grave just like unbelievers do. The good news is that when God judges the earth on the Last Day, they shall yet be His inheritance (v 8) and in His council (v 1).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 82:8 judge the earth. Cf Mt 25:31–46. inherit. See "portion," p 7; cf Heb 1:2.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 82 Our Father in heaven carefully looks after each believer. No believer who suffers injustice in the world will be overlooked by God. Injustice, weakness, exploitation, continued trial and suffering—such afflictions can make the believer feel isolated and forgotten by God. Your heavenly Father has already judged you impartially by laying all of your sins upon Jesus. This provides you with salvation and endurance, even in the face of worldly injustice. • Thank You, dear Jesus, that You fully bore the justice that was once due to me. Give me Your Holy Spirit so that I may bear the injustices that are visited upon me. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 83 Likely written after King Solomon's death (1Ki 11:41–43) but before the Assyrian invasion (2Ki 17:1–6). The psalmist prays that God would destroy the nations that have conspired against Israel (v v 6–8), just as He previously destroyed those who opposed Israel during the days of the judges (v v 10–11). Song. See Ps 46 intro. Asaph. See intros, Ps 73; 74.

Format: V v 1–8, plans of the nations; v v 9–12, prayer for the nations' defeat; v v 13–18, shame the nations.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:2 enemies. Nations of v v 6–8. raised their heads. In defiance against God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:3 treasured ones. God's people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:5 covenant. Here, a military alliance.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:6–8 Ten of Israel's closest neighbors and constant adversaries are listed as making a covenant against God's covenant people. Edom. Esau's descendants. Cf Gn 25:30. Ishmaelites. Descendants of Ishmael, Abraham's son through Hagar. Cf Gn 25:12–18. Moab … Ammon. Lot's descendants through incest. Cf Gn 19:36–38. Hagrites. Possibly descendants of Hagar, Abraham's concubine. Gebal. City of Phoenicia. Amalek. Descendants of Esau through his son Eliphaz. Cf Gn 36:12. Philistia. Descendants of Ham through his son Egypt. Cf Gn 10:6, 13. Philistines were Israel's persistent enemy, living on a small strip of land between Israel and the Great Sea. See p 345. See also color map 2. Tyre. See note, 45:12. Asshur. Assyria.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:8 children of Lot. Moabites and Ammonites, Lot's descendants (Gn 19:36–38) who later turned away from the faith of Lot. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:9–11 Psalmist recalls some of God's stunning victories for Israel during the days of the exodus and the conquest of Canaan. Midian. Defeated by Moses and Gideon. Cf Nu 31:1–12; Jgs 7. Sisera. Canaanite military commander under Jabin. Jabin. Canaanite king. Sisera and Jabin were killed in the days of Deborah. Cf Jgs 4. Oreb and Zeeb. Canaanite kings defeated by Gideon. Cf Jgs 7:25. Zebah and Zalmunna. Canaanite kings defeated by Gideon. Cf Jgs 8:11–12.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:10 dung for the ground. Their bodies decayed into the earth.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:12 pastures of God. Land promised to Abraham, in which God's people live like a flock. Cf Gn 15:18–20.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:14 flame sets the mountains ablaze. Mountaintops were tree covered, so one spark could cause a huge fire. See note, Jsh 17:15.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:15 Your tempest … Your hurricane! Pictures the "storm" of God's judgment and wrath.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:16 Your name. References to God's name often signify His presence (see p 843).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 83:18 name is the LORD. See p 1227. Most High. See p 1227.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 83 The psalmist feels overwhelmed by his enemies, who plot against him. His only recourse is to run to God Most High, whose great deeds he remembers in prayer. God's children do not stop praying, even when He appears to keep silent. God is faithful. He answers your prayers in His time and according to His good pleasure, yet always acting for your benefit and eternal life (Rm 8:28). • Act on my behalf, O God, as You have acted so many times before. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 84 References to "dwelling places" (plural, v 1), "courts" (v 2), and "altars" (v 3) might suggest that this psalm was written fairly late, and the psalmist could be referencing God's dwelling both in the Jerusalem temple and in the tabernacle that preceded it. This is the prayer of someone separated from the sanctuary, longing to stand within its precincts in God's presence (v 2). The unknown reason for the separation makes the psalm more universal, aptly prayed by shut-ins, prisoners, travelers, Sunday workers, and all who have been temporarily separated from congregational worship. choirmaster. See p 993. Gittith. See Ps 8 intro. Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro.

Format: V v 1–2, longing for the temple; v v 3–4, the blessed dwell there; v v 5–7, travel to Zion; v 8, appeal for God to hear; v 9, appeal for God to see; v v 10–12, God's temple courts are blessed.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:1 lovely. Not merely beautiful, but dear to the psalmist's heart. dwelling place. Lit, "dwelling places." O LORD of hosts! See p 1291.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:2 courts of the LORD. See p 842; see also Ps 84 intro.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:3 at Your altars. See Ps 84 intro. O LORD of hosts. See p 1291.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:4 those who dwell in Your house. Not only priests and Levites, but all those who dwell with the Lord in spiritual fellowship are gathered in the sanctuary. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:5 highways to Zion. They have memorized the route; they travel through life by faith and trust in God (cf 116:9). Zion. See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:6 Valley of Baca. Also translated "valley of tears"; it is not known whether this is a literal place or a symbolic place, similar to Luther's "valley of sorrow" (SC, Seventh Petition, p xxxix). early rain. Spring rains. See calendar, p 262.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:7 appears before God. God keeps careful track of each of His beloved people (cf 34:15; Mt 10:29–31).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:8 O LORD God of hosts. See p 1291.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:9 our shield … Your anointed! The Messiah. God Himself is our shield (cf v 11), and the psalmist asks God to look upon "our shield." This prayer asks the Father to look on His people graciously, for the sake of the Son. The Son's righteousness shields our unrighteousness before the Father (cf Gal 3:27) because He has been anointed by the Father for the work of salvation. anointed. See note, 2:2.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:10 better than a thousand elsewhere … doorkeeper. A lowly place in salvation is much better than a lavish life ending in eternal condemnation. Cf Mt 5:3, 5.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:11 sun and shield. See note, v 9. No good … withhold. God faithfully provides His people with everything they need. Cf Php 1:6; 4:19.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 84:12 O LORD of hosts. See p 1291. blessed. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 84 Someone who has been separated from the sanctuary, where God is rightly worshiped, now longs to return. Many homebound and shut-in Christians long for worship in God's house, yearning for the days they were strong enough to go. Meanwhile, many other Christians, especially those in the height of their strength, neglect the worship of the Lord to their own detriment. God gives strength to His people (v v 5–7) through the hearing of His Word, specifically through His Gospel promises of salvation on account of Christ. • Teach me to love the hearing of Your Word, O Lord, and the reception of Your gifts, that I may carry them to those in need. When I am separated from Your congregation, stir my desire to return again according to Your mercy. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 85 Possibly written soon after the return of the exiles from Babylon (v v 1–3), this psalm expresses the psalmist's feelings of distress and exposure to danger (cf the opposition to rebuilding Jerusalem's walls after the return, Ne 4:16–23). choirmaster. See p 993. Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro.

Format: V v 1–3, restoration; v v 4–7, plea to restore again; v v 8–9, God will speak peace; v v 10–13, the Lord gives what is good.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:1 restored the fortunes. God returned to His people what they lost in the Babylonian exile. See p 1080.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:2 covered all their sin. Explains the first half of this verse. God does not forgive by dismissing sin, but by covering it, or atoning for it. Later, God the Son would atone for the world's sin in the same way—by covering it with His blood. See "atonement," p 5. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:4 Restore us again. First restoration of v v 1–2 may refer to the return from Babylonian exile; the second restoration mentioned here may be a reference to the hard labor of rebuilding Israel after the return.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:6 revive us again. See note, v 4.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:7 steadfast love. See p 843. Whether God disciplines harshly or tenderly speaks to His people, both arise out of His unchanging love.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:8 will speak. Possibly a reference to Ne 8:2–3. saints. All of God's holy people; in the same way, "communion of saints" is used in the Apostles' Creed (SC, p xxxvii). See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:9 fear Him. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:10–11 steadfast love … faithfulness … righteousness … peace. See pp 842–43. Through His steadfast love, God gives us faith and makes us righteous so we may live in peace.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:12 land will yield its increase. Even the earth rejoices in God's goodness.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 85:13 make His footsteps a way. Personification of righteousness similar to that in Pr 14:34. Here God's righteousness creates a pathway for His saints to follow.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 85 The psalmist feels distress and fear at his exposure to his enemies. Many people, even Christians, suffer from deep fears and insecurities. Rightly heeded, these fears chase us to Jesus. When we are overcome by fears, though, they threaten us with despair and unbelief. When God forgave your iniquity and covered your sin (v 2) through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, He destroyed your enemies of sin, death, and hell. Having defeated these great enemies for you, He will surely protect you from all other enemies. • Help me, Lord, in the midst of my fears, to trust solely in You. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 86 Only Davidic psalm included in Book Three (Ps 73–89). Similar to the others in this book, it asks God for protection against enemies (v 14) and expresses confidence that the Lord shall indeed act (v v 5, 15–17). This is a personal psalm, apparently originating as a prayer of David before God.

Format: V v 1–7, plea for grace; v v 8–13, You alone are God; v v 14–17, show a sign of Your favor.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:1 Incline Your ear. Stoop down and listen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:4 lift up my soul. From the depths of despair, the psalmist cries out to God for help. See note, 24:4.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:5 steadfast love. See p 843. call upon You. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:6 grace. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:7 trouble … call. See note, 50:15.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:8 among the gods. Idols to which pagan religions pray (cf 1Co 8:4–6). works like Yours. Works of the demons stand behind the false gods (1Co 10:19–20), but God's works are greater and more powerful.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:11 way … walk. OT way of describing faith and living by faith. See p 7. unite my heart. Lit, "make my heart one."

Undivided between competing loyalties (cf Mt 6:24). fear Your name. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:13 steadfast love. See p 843. depths of Sheol. Not a reference to hell, but the grave. Jacob, e.g., spoke of dying as going to Sheol (Gn 37:35). See p 792.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:14 insolent men. People who do not accept David's royal authority over them. do not set You before them. They do not keep the First Commandment of loving God above all things (cf Ex 20:3; Mt 22:37–38).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:15 Very close parallel with Ex 34:6–7. God's nature is one of patience and mercy. He does not deal hastily with His people on account of their sins, but He forbears, awaiting their repentance.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:16 Turn to me. See p 1080. Your maidservant. David's mother, apparently, was also a believer in God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 86:17 sign of Your favor. David seeks assurances of God's grace. See p 6.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 86 Ascribed to King David, this psalm points to God's steadfast love (v v 5, 13, 15) as the reason why prayers are answered. Rather than feeling overwhelmed by the obstacles that confront us (v 14), keep the eyes of your faith focused upon the Lord, for He alone is God (v 10). Because of the Lord's steadfast love, He cannot overlook or neglect His children. Their care and preservation is part of His very nature —He cannot and will not fail to act according to His mercy and grace. • Lord, help me and comfort me so that I may enjoy peace of mind and spirit. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 87 Psalm includes Gentiles in God's salvation (v 4). Also, the Lord carefully records the name of each person born in Zion (v v 5–6). Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro. Song. See Ps 46 intro.

Format: V v 1–3, Zion; v v 4–6, the Lord established Zion and His people; v 7, dancing in Zion.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 87:1 holy mount. Lit, "hills of holiness"; Jerusalem covers a number of hills. city He founded. Zion. Cf Gn 28:10–17; Rv 21:1–4; see p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 87:2 the gates of Zion. Referring to the temple, where God dwells among people. Zion. See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 87:3 O city of God. Cf v 1; see note, 46:4. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 87:4 Me. God is speaking. Rahab. Name of a mythological monster used to describe Egypt (cf Is 30:7). Babylon … Philistia … Tyre … Cush. Collection of nations representing Gentile converts from all over the world. This one. Individual Gentile who by faith is included among the saints.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 87:5 of Zion … born in her. God's people are described here as a family into which believers are "born." Jesus later used birth imagery to describe the miracle of Baptism (Jn 3:3–8).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 87:6 registers. God is pictured as keeping a record of people who are granted the privilege of citizenship in His holy city (cf Php 4:3; Rv 20:15).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 87:7 Singing and dancing are rooted in the joy that results from God's acts of salvation (Cf Ex 15:1–21; 1Sm 18:6; 2Sm 6:12–15).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 87 God includes people of all nations among His believers, all of whom may claim to be born in Zion (v 5). Your true identity before God is not rooted in your nationality, your language, your family ties, your wealth, or any other earthly thing. God claims you to be His own in Baptism, through which you become His own child (v v 5–6), no matter who you are or from where you came (v 4). • Thank You, dear heavenly Father, that You regard me as Your child through Jesus Christ. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 88 Personal psalm, prayed by someone whose suffering sounds a lot like Christ's own suffering. Lamenting the troubles that God has visited upon him (v v 7–8, 16, 18), the psalmist clings to the hope that God shall yet save him (v 1). Cyr Jer: "Christ speaks in the Prophets … see how they show the exact point of the Hour, and of the Passion, and of the Resurrection?" (NPNF 2 7:96). Song. See Ps 46 intro. Sons of Korah. See Ps 42 intro. choirmaster. See p 993. Mahalath Leannoth. May refer to the tune; see Ps 53 intro. Maskil. See p 841. Ezrahite. Possibly referring to a descendant of Zerah (1Ch 2:6), whose sons included Heman and Ethan (cf Ps 89 intro).

Format: V v 1–2, appeal to God to hear; v v 3–7, depth of the pit; v v 8–12, questions about the grave; v v 13–18, suffering God's terrors.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:1 day and night before You. Not necessarily a reference to continual worship in the temple, as in the case of Anna (Lk 2:36–37), but more likely a reference to continual prayer, as in 1Th 5:17.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:3–4 Sheol … pit. Death. See note, 86:13; see also p 792.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:5 set loose among the dead … You remember no more. Unbelievers under God's judgment and abandonment.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:6–7 Psalmist realizes that God has allowed this suffering (cf Jb 2).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:7 Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:8 shun. Perhaps implying that the psalmist's physical afflictions are such that his friends find it difficult to look at him. shut in. With no escape except that which God provides.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:9 spread out my hands. Posture of prayer and supplication. See p 1277.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:10–12 Not a reference to the resurrection, but rhetorical questions to God, essentially asking, "If You let me die, how will I be able to praise You?"
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:11 steadfast love. See p 843. Abaddon. Lit, "ruin"; Hbr name for the "angel of the bottomless pit" (Rv 9:11). Here, it is another reference to the pit (v 4) itself.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:12 land of forgetfulness. Cf v 5.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:14 Although God has not done these things, the psalmist feels lonely and abandoned, as if God truly has cast him away.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:15 Your terrors. The accusations of the Law terrorize sinners. "Contrition is the true terror of conscience, which feels that God is angry with sin and grieves that it has sinned" (Ap XIIA 29). helpless. Unable to defend against the righteous and accurate accusations of God's Law.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 88:18 my beloved and my friend. People closest to the psalmist. my companions have become darkness. Psalmist cannot perceive the comforting presence and support of his friends and family. He feels alone.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 88 This psalm evokes feelings of sadness and abandonment. The psalmist is so overcome by troubles that he wonders if God will hear him. Surely the loneliness spoken of here has been felt by many suffering Christians! Yet even in sorrow and suffering, God inclines His ear (v 2) toward His people, always ready to hear and answer us according to His mercy. • Thank You, O Lord, that no matter how low I sink, I never disappear from Your sight. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 89 Speaks of the rise and fall of David's kingdom, suggesting a date during the time of the kings. Because David's sons, the kings of Judah, did not remain faithful to God (v 30), God has visited judgment upon His people (v v 38–45). Lamenting this harsh treatment, the psalmist calls upon God to relent and to restore His people once again. Maskil. See p 841. Ezrahite. See Ps 88 intro.

Format: V v 1–4, God's steadfast love; v v 5–18, God's wonders; v v 19–37, God's word to David; v v 38–45, rejection by God; v v 46–48, how long?; v v 49–51, appeal to God to remember His faithfulness to David; v 52, closing blessing.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:1 steadfast love … faithfulness. See p 843. Cf 2Tm 2:13, where Paul quotes an ancient poem or hymn with similar wording.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:3 covenant. Defined in v 4. The promise was spoken to David in 2Sm 7:8–16, to Judah before him (Gn 49:10), and is repeated here in v 4. chosen one … David My servant. Samuel referred to David as a king after God's own heart (1Sm 13:14).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:4 offspring. Singular. Similar to the promise God spoke to Adam and Eve and to Abraham (see notes, Gn 3:15; Gal 3:16). This promise looks past David's son Solomon toward his greater Son, Jesus Christ (cf Mt 1:1). See note, v 3. Selah. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:5 assembly of the holy ones! Worshipers of God, including angels.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:6 heavenly beings. Stars or angels.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:7 council of the holy ones. See note, v 5. See notes, Jb 1:6; 15:8.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:8 O LORD God of hosts. See p 1291.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:10 Rahab. Refers to neither the famous Gentile believer of Jsh 2, nor Egypt (Is 30:7), but possibly is another name for Leviathan, monster of the deep (see note, Jb 9:13).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:11 Yours. God has right of ownership as Creator.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:12–13 Tabor. Mountain near the site of Deborah and Barak's victory over the Canaanite king Jabon (Jgs 4:6). Hermon. Mountain once ruled by Og, King of Bashan (Jsh 13:11–12), whom Moses defeated. In both cases, God's "mighty arm" gave the Israelites the victory.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:14 Your throne. God's reign. steadfast love and faithfulness. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:15 festal shout. Joyful reaction to the good news of God's salvation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:17 favor. See p 6. horn is exalted. Israel's king. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:18 shield. Israel's king, who protects God's people from harm.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:19 godly one. Samuel, who anointed David as king (1Sm 16).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:20 Cf v 3.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:21 My hand. Expression of God's power; Jesus is later described as sitting at God's right hand (Lk 22:69). See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:24 horn. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:25 Reference to the extent of David's rule, which stretched from the Great Sea, going beyond the Jordan to the Euphrates River. See map, p 534.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:26 Father … Rock of my salvation. David lived by faith and trust in God. See "rock," p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:27 firstborn. A title. The man of God's own choosing, David was granted preeminence above all monarchs on earth.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:28 covenant. Cf v 3.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:29 offspring. See note, v 4.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:30–31 law … rules … statutes … commandments. Repetition to emphasize the point that David's successors are to keep the Word of the Lord. See p 971.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:32–33 rod … stripes. Both refer to God's acts of judgment, executed by the Gentile nations. Chem: "Because the regenerate still have sinned against the Law, therefore these punishments also remain, e.g., physical death; but because their sins have been forgiven and covered, the punishments are mitigated" (LTh 2:358).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:33–35 faithfulness … holiness. God swears by His attributes that He will keep His promises. See p 842; see also "holy," p 7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:36 offspring. See note, v 4. as the sun. Cyr Jer: "See that the discourse is of Christ, not of Solomon. For Solomon's throne endured not as the sun" (NPNF 2 7:78).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:37 witness. The moon is a reliable witness to God's faithfulness in that God has never failed to keep it in its patterns and seasons.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:38 You. Psalmist now speaks directly to God, lamenting the judgment brought upon Israel.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:39 God's punishment makes it seem as though He has forgotten His promises, even though He remains faithful always.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:41 neighbors. Nations.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:42 foes. Rivals in Israel. The king's enemies have become powerful against him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:45 covered him with shame. The king's guilt is undeniable.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:47 Psalmist longs to see Israel quickly restored. For … vanity. Human existence is brief and weak.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:48 Only Jesus Christ, the God-man, can do this. Sheol. See p 792.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:49 steadfast love. See p 843. of old. Extending into the most ancient days of creation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:50 Remember … bear in my heart the insults. See ESV note. Speaker feels the weight of Israel's troubles and sins.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:51 mock the footsteps. The king's enemies mock his repentance and his desire to follow God's Word.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 89:52 This doxology ends Book Three of the Psalter. Blessed. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 89 Speaks primarily of David, who enjoyed God's faithfulness (v v 2, 24) and promises. Even when David sinned and felt the weight of God's Law (v v 38–47), he still relied completely upon God. "How long, O LORD?" (v 46) easily comes to the lips of all who, because of their sins, have suffered under the weight of God's Law. God's steadfast love of old (v 49) and His faithfulness (v v 2, 24) are shown most clearly in Christ, whose death and resurrection provide the remedy for all troubles (v 48). • "Blessed be the LORD forever!" Preserve the faithful, O Lord, and provide for their future security and service. Amen and Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Book Four Ps 90–106; see p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 90 Does not name any specific event or crisis, so this psalm is suited for any time of lament, when the frailty of life stands in stark contrast to God's eternal strength.

Format: V v 1–2, God's eternal nature; v v 3–6, brevity of human life; v v 7–11, human sinfulness causes the dismal state of the human race; v v 12–17, prayer for wisdom and grace.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:1 dwelling place. In contrast to the temporary and uncertain nature of human life, God is a refuge for all generations (see ESV note). He is the One to go to for security, for He is before creation and will be for eternity (cf Heb 13:8).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:2 earth … world. Repetition emphasizes that the everlasting God made all things.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:3 return man to dust. As punishment for the first sin in Eden, death now runs through the whole human race, indeed, the whole creation. In Gn 3:19, death is pictured as a return to the dust out of which God created Adam. The focus in this psalm, however, is not so much on death, but on the shortness of life and, in v v 7–11, the difficulties of life under this divine sentence.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:4 thousand years. God is beyond time. Psalmist contrasts God's permanence with human life. From God's perspective, a thousand years is fleeting. Some rabbis later concluded that God had a "day" that lasted a thousand years. This conclusion led to speculation and computation about the ages of the earth and God's timing for Judgment Day. Such speculation cannot be based on this text. Aug: "No one may imagine a thousand years are reckoned by God as one day, as if with God days were so long, when this is only said in contempt of the extent of time: he adds, 'and as a watch in the night:' which only lasts three hours" (NPNF 1 8:442). watch. See note, Is 21:6 –12. night. Suggests sleep, where there is no sense of time passing.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:5–6 Human frailty and mortality are like a dream quickly forgotten or grass withering in a day's heat. Time carries life away like a raging flood sweeps away everything in its path. Taken with v v 3–4, we face the harsh and despairing reality that life is too quickly gone.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:7–11 It's not just the brevity of life that brings such despair. God's anger over sin causes life's transient nature (Gn 3). Just to survive is burdensome, characterized by toil and trouble as sin wreaks havoc in the whole creation. Life comes to an end with a sigh, probably referring to the somber sounds of mourning. Worse, though, is God's wrath, which consumes human life and consigns the sinful to eternal death.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:8 secret sins. Sins that are "hidden from our thinking unless it be revealed in the law of God" (Chem, LTh 1:276). God's wrath brings to light every violation of His holy will.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:10 years of our life. Different cultures describe ideal ages. E.g., in Egypt the ideal life span was 110 years. Archaeologists conclude that a typical life span for this era was c 40 years. fly away. Poetic language that again evokes the despair of life's all-too-rapid flight into death and God's everlasting punishment.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:12 This request for wisdom leads to a series of petitions, beginning with a true understanding of human life, that we realize how few are the days we actually have and how we need to turn to God for security and refuge. wisdom. See pp 775–78.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:12–17 Prayer for God to turn His anger into steadfast love.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:13–16 Return, O Lord! The plea is for God's punishment to last no longer and to end the despair that goes with it; the psalmist longs to see God's glorious power. morning. A picturesque reversal from grass withering in the evening (v 6) to the renewal God brings in the morning.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:15 Prayer that life's joys will balance out life's sorrows. God's answer to this prayer goes much further (Rm 8:18–39).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:16 Your work be shown. God's work of salvation (cf 96:2–3). The psalmist seeks deliverance from crisis, whether famine, enemies, sickness, or injustice. Ultimately, the answer to the prayer is Jesus, who shows God's glorious works of salvation in loving and merciful fullness.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 90:17 favor. See p 6; see also ESV note. establish the work. Burden of work that comes from the first sin is replaced with enduring service in the Lord's wisdom and name.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 90 How quickly life flies by: grass withering in the summer heat, leaves falling and blowing away in autumn, trees standing bare in winter. Even more heartbreaking is to stand by a casket and stare at a lifeless body or to look in a mirror and see age steal youth and energy. Yet in spring the flowers bloom and the grass turns green. The grave is empty on Easter morning. Jesus has risen! God has taken pity on us and given us everlasting life in Christ. • Lord, give us wisdom to number our days as Your servants, so we will look forward to dwelling with You from everlasting to everlasting. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 91 This strong confession of faith and example of a life entrusted to God's protective safety urges all readers to seek the Lord's refuge when fearful times arise.

Format: V v 1–2, God as our protection; v v 3–13, God's power over the many perils of life; v v 14–16, God's promises for anyone who trusts in Him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:1–2 shelter … shadow … refuge … fortress. These metaphors depict the sure defense found in the Lord God. The shadow is not ominous, but comforting, as that of the shadow of a mother bird's wings (v 4; 17:8). Four names for God correspond to the metaphors, and each gives the basis for the strong confession of faith in God's protection. "Almighty" and "Most High" esp depict God's incomparable power over any threat or danger. See p 1227.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:3 you. Not specified; the psalm can be read as personal encouragement to every believer. snare of the fowler. A trap to catch birds, referring to hidden dangers or sudden lethal attacks. deadly pestilence. A general term for illness and deadly diseases. At its worst, the pestilence is an epidemic. The Hbr consonants of "pestilence" also spell "word," which the enemy used for snaring God's people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:4 wings. Possible reference to the wings of the cherubim over the ark of the covenant in the temple (symbolizing a protective shield in a sacred place; see note, Ezk 10:1) or more broadly to any mother bird protecting her chicks. buckler. A bowed, round shield.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:5–6 God's security surrounds us whenever danger comes. terror of the night. The demonic realm could cause this fear, but it includes all unseen danger lurking in the darkness. arrow. Danger also comes from war. An arrow is a silent and deadly attack weapon.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:7 thousand … ten thousand. In Hbr poetry, the larger number follows the smaller as a way to emphasize the amount. The psalmist confesses the Lord's protection no matter how many are affected by war or plague.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:8 recompense. God will punish those judged wicked. the wicked. Those who have rebelled against God and cut themselves off from His steadfast love and mercy (1:1).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:10 Those who take refuge in the Lord are not exempt from these dangers, but will be protected in the midst of them. God will not let these threats separate us from Him so that we end up like the wicked (Rm 8:31–39).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:11–12 In answer to demonic terrors of the night, God sends His angels to watch over His people. Satan used this psalm to tempt Jesus (Mt 4:5–7). Jesus welcomed the angelic help when He needed strength during His redemptive suffering and sacrifice for the lost (Mt 4:11). However, He would not test the Father's love for Him by forcing

God to protect Him as Satan proposed (Mt 26:53–54). Chem: "With one hand they [the angels] protect the believers … and with the other they pursue and attack Satan and godless men…. As you go about your daily work, the angels carry you in their hands" (LTh 1:178).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:13 tread … trample. Dangerous animals are often used to symbolize adversaries who attack unexpectedly. In addition to protection, God gives strength to stomp these enemies in victory.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 91:14–16 Promises from God. God assures all who trust in Him that He will be an ever-present help, fulfilled in Jesus (Jn 10:28–29).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 91 How quickly life can go from smooth and routine to troubled and fearful! How encouraging it is to know of God's protection. Our security comes from His promises kept. Jesus trampled Satan once and for all when He gloriously rose from the dead. We walk in victory even during dangerous times because He is with us and will not let us be separated from His love. • Thank You, Lord, for Your security and strength in this perilous world. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 92 Only psalm tied specifically to the Sabbath. While the Sabbath could be described by what could not be done on that day, this psalm shows what should be done: praise and celebration of God's great works.

Format: V v 1–4, it is good to praise God; v v 5–9, fate of God's foolish enemies; v v 10–11, psalmist enjoys victory; v v 12–15, flourishing of God's faithful people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:1–3 morning … night. Praise is continuously sung and accompanied by a variety of musical instruments. lute … harp … lyre. See p 993. steadfast love … faithfulness. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:4 works of Your hands. God as Creator is also reason for praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:5 deep! Profound, mysterious, at times beyond human understanding. Aug: "Verily, my brethren, there is no sea so deep as these thoughts of God, who makes the wicked flourish, and the good suffer: nothing so profound, nothing so deep: therein every unbelieving soul is wrecked, in that depth, in that profundity. Do you wish to cross this depth? Remove not from the wood of Christ's cross: you shall not sink: hold yourself fast to Christ" (NPNF 1 8:454).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:6 stupid. Morally corrupt. The fool lacks discernment of God's power and majesty, rejecting His wisdom and rule over life. See p 1016.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:7 doomed to destruction forever. Although the wicked may do well in this life, their end is determined by God's justice.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:9 enemies. Those who stand as foolish evildoers before God bring His judgment; they are totally destroyed as they perish in eternal death.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:10 exalted my horn … wild ox. To be made strong and powerful. horn. See p 842. poured over me fresh oil. Anointing could express great joy, such as a victory over enemies, or it could signify consecration to serve the Lord in a special way. See note, 1Sm 10:1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:12–13 palm tree. Grows tall and graceful at an oasis in the desert; its fruit is valuable for food, and its deep roots seek out water. cedar. Grows tall; prime source of fine wood. Palms and cedars convey a picture of strength, majesty, and dignity. planted in the house of the LORD. Gardens may have been planted in the inner and outer courts of the temple. flourish. While the wicked are like the withering grass (v 7), the righteous flourish in God's presence.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:14 Youthful vigor even in old age. Maturity and wisdom that come with age are retained, then combined with the fresh vitality of youth.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 92:15 upright … no unrighteousness. The Lord is just. No wrong is found in Him. So the wicked will be judged and punished, while the righteous will flourish forever with God. See note, Jb 1:1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 92 In worship, you receive the strength of God's steadfast love and faithfulness. No doubt, there are days you wonder if going to worship is worth the effort. But focus on what God has done for you in Jesus, who is faithful to His promises. One day justice will be served on the wicked, but we who believe will flourish in the strength of Christ's resurrection. • Lord, bring forth praises out of our hearts, for the works of Your hands make us glad indeed. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 93 Many religions celebrated the enthronement of their gods. Here, the writer affirms that the Lord has always reigned and will do so forever. This confident confession celebrates God's almighty and eternal reign over even the most chaotic powers of creation. The fall Festival of Booths or Tabernacles may have used this psalm. Cf 47; 95–99.

Format: V v 1–2, God's power over the world; v v 3–4, God's rule over destructive forces; v 5, praise for God's holiness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 93:1–2 world. All creation. throne. God's power and rule. The psalm focuses on the Lord's everlasting reign. The repetition of themes (robed, belt, throne) here and in v v 3–4 (floods, waters, waves) emphasize, much like exclamation marks, the Lord's eternal and unshakable sovereignty.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 93:1 robed … belt. Magnificent clothes worn only by a king, which depict God's strength and splendor.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 93:3–4 Imagery of waves pounding against rocks or a flood relentlessly attacking whatever is in its path. Even these destructive forces are no match for God's power (cf Mk 4:35–41).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 93:5 decrees. God's promises, warnings, and commands by which He reveals Himself. holiness befits Your house. God's holy presence adorns the temple, making it beautiful. Since His holiness is everlasting, that holiness now adorns the Church today (1Co 3:17) and heaven itself. It also calls those who worship to holiness: "You shall be holy, for I the LORD Your God am holy" (Lv 19:2).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 93 The Lord reigns! Yet a storm may still crash into a church. The members may come back to see destruction, not beauty. Does the Lord reign? Indeed, He does. Many years ago, Jesus spoke, and a deadly storm was silenced. Wind and waves were calmed in an instant. Such is God's power. And more! By His resurrection, He rules over our lives now and forever. • Lord, despite the evil we see and the destruction around us, lead us to confess that Your words are trustworthy. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 94 Ps 93; 95; 96; 97; 99 declare that the Lord reigns! However, the social and political situation seems to say that the wicked reign. Tension between trust that the Lord is in control and agony of seeing injustice and evil prevail dominates the beginning of Ps 94. Worse, that wickedness could very well be from Israel's religious and political leaders, not merely a foreign power attacking the people. Internal corruption in the highest places has made life oppressive. Ps 94 is a plea for God to repay these oppressors so that justice returns (see p 879); it trusts that God will be victorious and will discipline and care for His faithful people.

Format: V v 1–7, calls for God to act; v v 8–11, ridicule for unbelievers; v v 12–16, praise for those who trust the Lord; v v 17–19, the writer's struggles; v v 20–23, confidence that God's justice will prevail.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:1 God of vengeance, shine forth! In Dt 32:35, God tells of His responsibility to judge and avenge the wicked. This psalm pleas for God to show that righteous judgment so His name and people will be vindicated.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:2–4 proud … wicked … evildoers. Foreign powers or Israel's own leaders, misusing their offices for personal gain. how long. Question affirms God's rule on earth but shows the psalmist's struggle as he waits for God to silence the haughty arrogance of the wicked (v 4).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:5 heritage. See "portion," p 7. Hbr poetry often takes one line and repeats it with slightly different words to amplify the thought. See pp 777–78; cf 33:12.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:6 widow … sojourner … fatherless. Ps 68:5–6 shows that God has special concern for those who are poor, helpless, and vulnerable. He is their Father. Dt 10:17–19 calls for God's people likewise to protect and care for those who are not able to defend themselves.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:8–11 Of course, the Lord hears, sees, rebukes, knows. These verses denounce the foolish assertion made by the wicked that the Lord doesn't care or know what's happening to His people (v 7).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:8 dullest. Lacking spiritual discernment (cf 92:6).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:11 thoughts … but a breath. Ability to think and reason is a gift from God and is not disparaged here. Rather, the wicked schemes and thoughts of those who rebel against God's wisdom, esp in terms of justice for those in need, are nothing more than puffs of air. Cf 92:5–6; 1Co 3:20.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:12 Blessed. See p 842. Your law. See p 971.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:13 rest. Inner quietness and peace despite outward difficulties. This rest arises from the confidence that the wicked will be judged. pit. The grave. See p 792.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:14 heritage. God will not abandon His people (cf v 5). The psalmist firmly believes that God's justice will prevail, thereby blessing those who follow the Lord's Law (torah; see p 971).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:16–19 Personal testimony that the Lord does not forsake His people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:17 land of silence. Place of death.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:18 foot slips. Signaling imminent death, indicating the serious nature of the threats to the psalmist. steadfast love. See p 843. Aug: "See how God loves confession…. The moment you begin to slip or waver, confess that slip, that you may not bewail your total fall" (NPNF 1 8:465).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:19 consolations. Hbr word connected in Is 66:10–13 with the tender image of a mother nursing her child. Aug: "Many sorrows, but many consolations: bitter wounds, and sweet remedies" (NPNF 1 8:465).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:20 Another rhetorical question. In no way can the God of justice be aligned with those who pervert the legal system against the righteous.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:22 Psalmist finishes with one last strong confession of faith. stronghold … rock. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 94:23 God will silence the gloating arrogance (v v 4, 7) and justly punish those who did such evil. The separation of the just from the unjust will one day happen, and it will have eternal consequences. In Mt 13:40–43, Jesus says the righteous will shine like the sun in God's kingdom, but the wicked will be left weeping and gnashing their teeth in the fires of hell.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 94 The psalmist pleads for God to take vengeance on His enemies. Jesus, however, says to pray for our enemies, even love them (Mt 5:43–44). What are we to do? Final judgment will bring vengeance on those who arrogantly reject the Lord. Meanwhile, we pray that all will see the glory of God's justice in Jesus on the cross, turn from their wicked ways, and join with us in the life of righteousness, which includes caring for and protecting widows, orphans, and others who are helpless and oppressed. • Lord, help us to pray—even for our enemies! Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 95 In the midst of national crisis, this psalm would assure people that God is King over all, even when they suffer defeat and death (cf Ps 90). The psalm references temple practices such as procession and bowing. See p 959. The text may have prepared people to hear the reading of God's Word, such as at the Festival of Booths or Tabernacles.

Format: V v 1–5, call to exuberant and joyful worship because God still reigns; v v 6–11, stern warning not to rebel as the Israelites did.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:1–7 Oh come. Lat Venite. See canticle in LSB, pp 220–21.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:1 rock. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:2 come into His presence. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:3 gods. There is only one true God. See note, 96:5.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:4 In His hand. God's hands are pictured as holding what He has made (v 5) and caring for His people (v 7). See p 842. depths … heights. Along with vast expanses of the sea and dry land in v 5, these images picture all the earth as God's possession; indeed, the whole universe is His.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:6 bow … kneel. See p 1276.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:7 people of His pasture … sheep of His hand. As a shepherd protects and provides for his flock, a good king cares for the people of his nation. (Kings were often referred to as shepherds.) David, Israel's great king, was a shepherd in his youth. God is the great King (v 3) who protects and provides for His people. Jesus would later say He is the Good Shepherd (Jn 10:11–17). Aug: "See how elegantly he has transposed the order of the words … that we may understand these very same to be the sheep, who are also His people" (NPNF 1 8:469). hear. Includes both listening to the words and obeying what is said.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:8–11 Recalls Israel's 40 years of wilderness wandering, when the people often complained and rebelled against Moses and God's provision for them.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:8 harden your hearts. To stubbornly rebel against what God has said. See notes, Ex 4:21; 9:12. Meribah. "Dispute." Massah. "Testing." Cf Ex 17:7. Even after God had brought them out of Egyptian slavery, the people still questioned whether God was with them. In Heb 3:7–4:12, this stubborn refusal to take God at His word is applied to all who hear God's Word but reject it. The "today" of v 7 is every day (Heb 3:13), and the warning is that we not become hardened by the deceitfulness of sin as the Israelites had, but listen and obey God's voice in His Word.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:9 My work. God's rescue of Israel, which included such awesome works as the plagues, the parting of the Red Sea, the pillars of fire and cloud to lead them in safety, and food and drink for all the people (Ex 1–19).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:10 loathed. God's reaction to rebellion is one of disgust and revulsion. My ways. See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 95:11 swore. What God says, He will do. He said that the exodus generation would not enter the Promised Land, so they wandered for 40 years until a new generation had grown up. His warning still stands. My rest. For those coming out of slavery in Egypt, God's rest was the Promised Land, a place to live in peace. But Heb 3–4 expands that rest to include salvation: our eternal rest in God's presence.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 95 The opening verses have been sung in the Church for centuries as the Venite (Latin for "O come"). Some days we struggle to come into God's presence with such exuberance and humility. Thankfully, the psalmist directs us not to self-generated emotions, but to remember the God we worship. He is our Creator, who has formed and protected us by His strong hands. And wonderfully more—He is our Good Shepherd, who has made us the sheep of His loving hand. • Shepherd and King, lead us into Your presence with thanksgiving and joy. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 96 A psalm for two joyous occasions. In 1Ch 16:23–34, David uses this song of praise as he brings the ark of the covenant into Jerusalem in victory. Also, the LXX titles this psalm as the one used when the temple was rebuilt after the Babylonian captivity. God is the King who reigns, and His glorious victories call for all nations, indeed all creation, to join in the joyful exaltation of His holy name.

Format: V v 1–6, praise for God's greatness; v v 7–10, call for all nations to worship at the temple; v v 11–13, call for all creation to worship.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:1 a new song. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:2–3 tell … Declare. Psalmist first directs our singing to God, then has us speak to others. Evangelism is proclaiming to others this message of grace: God shows His glory through His wonderful deeds of salvation on behalf of all people (cf Ac 2:11). Chem: "These passages … unquestionably foretell the future preaching in the era of the new covenant" (LTh 2:446).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:2 bless His name. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:4 feared. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:5 worthless idols. Contempt for the unreal gods made by human hands. How useless to worship some element of creation, when the Creator God is alone worthy of all adoration and praise!
PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:6 His sanctuary. The temple in ancient Jerusalem was an earthly copy, a shadow, of the heavenly temple (Heb 8:5). The psalm could refer to both temples, because God's presence is both on earth and in heaven. The description of God depicts His attributes as King.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:8 bring an offering, and come into His courts. It could be any type of offering given in the open areas of the temple. With songs and prayers, an offering gives glory to God. See "courts of the Lord," p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:9 splendor of holiness. Three possible meanings: the temple's beauty, the worshipers' and priests' garb (see ESV note), or God's radiant glory. Cf 29:2. tremble. Not so much physical shaking as an attitude of awe and reverence similar to "feared" in v 4.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:10 never be moved. God set the earth in motion at creation, and nothing can stop His rule over all that He has made.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:11–12 Psalmist calls creation to join in the praise and exultation along with all the nations. Rm 8:19 says all creation waits for the final day of redemption. When the Lord returns on the Last Day, all effects of sin will be gone, and the created realm will enjoy the new heavens and earth.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 96:13 to judge. On Judgment Day. The Lord certainly reigns now, but a day will come when He will decisively judge the unbelievers in equity, righteousness, and faithfulness. It will be a day of joy for God's chosen people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 96 Proclaim the marvelous deeds of God's salvation to all nations! In our world, too many people see faith in God as a relic of the past with little to say about life today. People turn away from the true God in idolatrous pursuits of money and success; they trust in technology or revel in pleasure. Do we give up? No! First, sing to the Lord. Join with others in worshiping the splendor and majesty of the Creator. Then, speak of His salvation in Jesus day after day, until the resurrected Savior returns to judge all nations in faithfulness. • The Lord still reigns! O Lord, through us proclaim Your glory. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 97 Joins Ps 93; 95; 96; 98; 99 in joyfully proclaiming the power and majesty of God's rule over all creation. However, in this psalm we glimpse a fearsome side to God's rule as He comes with destructive power against those who worship false gods.

Format: V v 1–5, God's awesome majesty; v v 6–9, contrast idolaters with God's faithful children; v v 10–12, praise God, who defends His people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 97:1 coastlands. Even the most remote areas of the world are to praise God. His reign is universal.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 97:2–5 Clouds and thick darkness … Fire … lightnings … melt like wax. Acts of nature that give us a peek at God's awesome power. To meet God as His adversary is horrifying. To speak of mountains—figures of stability and permanence—melting like wax is to show that no one can stand against the Lord's anger.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 97:6 righteousness. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 97:7 put to shame. Those who worship false gods will be humiliated and dismayed at God's judgment. worship Him, all you gods! Perhaps ironic satire. Even worthless idols will worship God, exposing the folly of worshiping anyone except the true God. Cf 1Sm 5:1–4.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 97:8 daughters of Judah. Towns and villages surrounding Zion (Jerusalem).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 97:9 exalted far above all gods. In contrast to the utter worthlessness of worshiping false gods, the God above all is praised for His righteous judgments (cf Ps 48).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 97:10 hate evil! See note, 5:5. saints. See p 843. They rejoice because He protects them from the wicked and preserves their lives for all eternity.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 97:11 Light is sown. Metaphor for salvation (cf 27:1).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 97 When people stand before God to be judged, only two responses are possible: terrified humiliation or joyful thanksgiving. Which will it be for us? The cross is where God's justice is served and His anger appeased on our behalf. The empty tomb is the assurance that we are preserved for life everlasting. We rejoice because His judgment is that we are His saints, the upright in heart, through faith. •

Lord, smash the idols we are tempted to revere. Let us worship You alone. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 98 Focuses exclusively on the Lord. Similar to Ps 96. Other gods or enemies are absent. The psalm's sole purpose is to praise the victorious God and His marvelous works.

Format: V v 1–3, joyous worship begins with Israel; v v 4–6, it expands to all the earth; v v 7–9, it includes the whole creation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 98:1 a new song. See p 843. marvelous things! One word in Hbr; also translated as "wonders" (Ex 3:20). right hand and His holy arm. See p 843; cf Ex 15:6, 12. salvation. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 98:3 remembered. See p 843. steadfast love and faithfulness. See p 843. salvation. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 98:4–6 Praises of worship are joyous, unrestrained, and exuberant. The psalmist calls for outburst of song and music, words and acclamation for God's marvelous victories on behalf of His people. Aug: "Praise Him not with the voice only; take up works, that you may not only sing, but work also" (NPNF 1 8:481).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 98:5–6 lyre … melody … trumpets … horn. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 98:7–8 See note, 96:11–12 for creation joining in praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 98:9 judge. See note, 96:13.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 98 The defeats of life are discouraging. Thanks be to God that He is victorious for us! Sin and death are conquered. Satan's head is crushed. Eternally, we are God's children. All creation is waiting for that final day of redemption. For the Lord's victory is an empty tomb on Easter morning. • Thank You, Lord, for the glorious victory of our salvation, which only You could give us! Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 99 Like Ps 93 and 97, this psalm begins with "The LORD reigns." It proclaims Him King over all creation; it highlights God's holiness, which evokes awe, reverence, even fear. He alone is worthy of worship, prayer, and devotion. Although Moses, Aaron, and Samuel are mentioned, the psalm cannot be dated or identified with any particular historical event. These men represent the priestly and prophetic offices of ancient Israel and demonstrate both God's justice and forgiveness for His people.

Format: Three sections correspond to "holy"; v v 1–3, God's holiness in all the earth; v v 4–5, His holiness in His justice; v v 6–9, His holiness in restoring His people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 99:1 cherubim. See notes, Ezk 1:5–15; 10:1. In Ps 18:7–15, the sight of these beings is fearful and majestic. The awesome power and mobility of God's rule makes people, indeed, all creation shake in reverent fear.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 99:2 Zion … all the peoples. God is exalted, supreme, not only over Jerusalem (and all those who are His people) but over the whole world. See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 99:3 Holy. God's holiness is His essential difference from the created realm. He is unique, totally unlike anything else that has been made. He is pure; we are not. Cf Is 6:3–5. See p 7.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 99:4 equity … justice … righteousness. Poetic repetition of nearly synonymous words emphasizes that God's justice will be done. His laws are for the good of all, and He orders the social world so the needs of everyone are protected. He wants people to do what is right according to His wisdom and revelation. See p 843. Jacob. Refers to Israel the nation, God's chosen people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 99:5 His footstool! Could refer to the temple or to the ark of the covenant. As a king would sit on his throne and have a footstool for his feet, so God's reign was symbolized by the ark as His earthly throne or the footstool to His throne. See p 495. Holy. See note, v 3.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 99:6 called upon. Moses, Aaron, and Samuel interceded for the people. In a time of national crisis (see note, 90:16), the psalm recalls God's powerful answers to their prayers for help.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 99:7 pillar of the cloud. Cf Ex 33:9; Nu 12:5. Showed God's presence among His people in the wilderness. testimonies … statute. See p 971. kept. Held on in faith to His salvation and, consequently, responded in obedience because of God's forgiveness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 99:8 forgiving God … avenger of their wrongdoings. Even Moses, Aaron, and Samuel had sinned before God. The distance sin brings between God and His creation is bridged only by His justice (sin is taken seriously and must be punished) and forgiveness (that sin is taken away by someone else bearing the punishment). God's justice and forgiveness merge in the death of the Savior, Jesus Christ.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 99:9 holy mountain. Site of the temple. Cf 2:6. the LORD our God is holy! Climactic praise confesses "our" God is holy (see note, v 3), asserting the close relationship between the holy Lord and His people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 99 Despite the psalmist's confidence that God in all His holiness reigns, we see an ordinary world ruled by powers and people who are too often distant from God's ways and words. Yet the holy Savior is present just as He was in the Most Holy Place when we, His people, gather together to praise His holy name. • O Lord, You tabernacle in ordinary bread and wine, where Your holy body and blood are given for our forgiveness. We see God's holiness in Jesus, the Holy One of God! Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 100 Ps 93; 95–99 proclaim "The LORD reigns." Ps 100 is the thankful doxology named Jubilate (Lat "O be joyful").

Format: V v 1–2, call to worship; v 3, God's flock; v 4, enter the temple courts; v 5, who Yahweh is.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 100:1 all the earth! Cf 96:11–12; 98:7–8. Thanksgiving is not limited to God's chosen people, but all creation is to praise Him. Nor is praise limited to singing, but includes joyfully serving Him (v 2).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 100:2 Come into His presence. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 100:3 sheep of His pasture. See note, 95:7. Mel: "We are not born by accident, nor do we live … by our own thoughts and powers, but we live with God, who gives us life and preserves us" (Chem, LTh 1:152).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 100:4 His gates … courts. While the temple in ancient Jerusalem is pictured, the emphasis is that these gates and courts are the Lord's. He will be there for His people. See "courts of the Lord," p 842. praise! Aug: "Your praise of Him is like food: the more you praise Him, the more you acquire strength, and He whom you praise becomes the more sweet" (NPNF 1 8:491). bless. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 100:5 steadfast love … faithfulness. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 100 The text of the common Doxology (LSB 805), sung to the tune "Old Hundredth." Forever joined together are the Church's much-loved song of praise and the psalm that calls for such praise. How unfortunate when we fail to make a joyful noise to the Lord. Yet even then, we know that He is good. In fact, He gave His Good Shepherd, Jesus, to make one day particularly good. We call it Good Friday. • We are the sheep of Your hand, O Lord. Fill us with joyful praise as we seek to serve You. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 101 Promises made by the king fit a coronation ceremony. Perhaps used at an annual celebration of the king's enthronement. David is named as author, but even this greatest of Israel's kings could not live up to these lofty standards. Only David's greatest Son, Jesus Christ, perfectly fulfills the promises.

Format: The high ideals break into two sections: v v 1–4, the king's pledges; v v 5–8, the king's demands.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 101:1 steadfast love … justice. See p 843. Aug: "God neither loses the severity of judgment in the bounty of mercy, nor in judging with severity loses the bounty of mercy" (NPNF 1 8:491).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 101:2 First vow given is for personal integrity. way that is blameless. The king will study diligently what is the wise and right way for him to live. when will You come to me? The king asks the Lord to grant wisdom. within my house. Not just within the king's own family, but in his rule over the whole nation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 101:3–4 The king denounces what does not belong in his reign. hate. See note, 5:5. perverse heart. Opposite of the blameless integrity sought by the king in v 2. While humans may promise such integrity, sinful hearts make it impossible, except by the ideal King—Jesus Christ.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 101:5–8 The king pledges to lead the people to live with the same just and loyal integrity as will characterize his rule. destroy … not endure. Such harsh punishments for cited misdeeds reveal the king's deep desire for only God's justice to be known in the land. way that is blameless. Those who study this (v 2) are the very people the king wants in his courts and as citizens. Morning by morning. The hour to try cases and dispense justice. This indicates the king's diligence. Cf 122:5; Jer 21:12.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 101 No nation has the kind of political leaders described here. Even King David failed miserably, as his many sins involving Bathsheba demonstrate (2Sm 11). No nation has the kind of citizens described here. Even we in the Church know we have not always been people of integrity. But Jesus was blameless, a man of perfect integrity. He comes to us with His royal and loyal love, shown perfectly on the cross. He brings us into the one "nation" made blameless in Christ's blood—the Church. • We pray, Lord, come to us and make us people of integrity in Your Church and in our nation. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 102 Writer of this penitential psalm (cf Ps 6; 32; 38; 51; 130; 143) is not identified, but his condition is. faint. Weariness that envelops heart, body, and soul. He is near despair. Much has gone wrong in his personal life, including the humiliation of his nation (v v 14, 17, 20). The lament still confesses a deep faith in the Lord's care and the security that comes from God's creative and eternal strength.

Format: V v 1–2, cry for help; v v 3–11, the individual's miserable state; v v 12–17, the psalmist calls God to hear the cries of the destitute; v v 18–22, praises for the Savior; v v 23–28, confession of God's eternal nature.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:2 hide. God seems absent from His people (cf 13:1). See note, Is 45:15.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:3–11 Section captures the agony of anyone in deep distress.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:3 bones burn. Perhaps a high fever or the heat of arthritis.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:4 heart. Not just the emotions involved, but the whole person. Every fiber of one's being is affected—physically, emotionally, spiritually, and mentally. I forget to eat. He has lost his appetite or is too weak to eat.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:5 bones cling. He is emaciated; similar to the saying "nothing but skin and bones."

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:6–7 desert owl … sparrow. Though the exact species are unknown, they are separated from the rest of the flock, an allusion to someone wasting away in loneliness, unable even to sleep.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:8 use my name for a curse. His condition is so horrendous that others can simply use his name as a way to wish the same misery on someone else.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:9 ashes … tears. Both typically accompany humiliation and mourning (Is 61:3; Ps 42:3).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:10 thrown me down. Despair deepens in that now he claims that he suffers because God's anger has thrown him away as something worthless.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:11–17 His mood changes drastically as hope replaces despair. God hears his prayer.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:12 enthroned. Many preceding psalms (Ps 93; 95–99) declare "The LORD reigns." The basis of hope is God remembering His people with both almighty power and loving pity.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:14 stones … dust. Broad description of Israel's national crisis, not just the individual's suffering. Though once great Jerusalem ("Zion") has been reduced to rubble, the psalmist is confident that the Lord will reveal His glory by restoring the nation, bringing fear to other nations, and listening to the destitute. God brings Israel out of exile, and Jerusalem is rebuilt. But the greater answer to this prayer is the new Jerusalem awaiting God's people at the end of time, because Jesus has restored hope (Gal 4:26; Heb 12:22).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:18 Let this be recorded. Future generations can read what God will do as if it had already happened.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:19 holy height … heaven. Hbr poetic device to emphasize the thought. Both words picture God looking down to see those in desperate need. He enters their lives with love and favor.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:20 prisoners. Israelites in exile or perhaps any prisoners of war. set free. Rv 21:3–4 pictures the ultimate freedom from tears, pain, and death that comes from Jesus stepping into human life and bringing His chosen nation (1Pt 2:9–10) into the heavenly Jerusalem.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:21–22 declare … praise … gather … worship. In heaven, God's people worship the Lord in endless praise.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:23 my. The individual returns to his misery. midcourse. Prime of life. Emphasis is still on the Lord, contrasting His permanence to the fleeting nature of all created life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:25–27 Heb 1:10–12 uses these verses to show Jesus' superiority to the angels. He is Creator of the heavens and earth (cf Jn 1:1–3).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:27 You are the same. Cf 90:1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 102:28 offspring shall be established. Because God is eternal, His people are assured that they, too, will be eternally safe (2Sm 7:24).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 102 The tears, fever, lost appetite, despair, and doubt in this psalm are eerily identical to what we go through when a personal crisis erupts in our life or a disaster rips through our town or nation. Yet it is written with confident hope because attention is turned to the God who listens to the pleas of the destitute. When you lament, turn your attention to God's answer to these prayers: Jesus Christ. He stepped into our world and took on our groans and death, restoring confident hope at the appointed time on Easter morning. • Risen Lord, establish the new Jerusalem for us forever. Answer our prayers, in Your dear name. Alleluia! Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 103 Ps 103–6 are united by their calls to praise the Lord and are a fitting conclusion to Book Four of the Psalter (see p 844). While Ps 103 is ascribed to King David, we cannot determine its particular time or situation.

Format: V v 1–5, the individual praises the Lord; v v 6–14, whole community called to praise; v v 15–19, human life contrasted with God's eternal nature; v v 20–22, call for all creation to honor the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:1–2 Bless. See p 842. Threefold emphasis. soul. More than just the spiritual center; refers to whole person ("all that is within me")—body, mind, emotions, will, personality. benefits. Cf v v 3–14, but also whatever good God has done.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:3–5 your. I.e., "my soul" (v 1). Psalmist names personal blessings for which he is thankful. Forgiveness tops the list.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:3 heals. The Lord can and does heal His people, according to His good and gracious will.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:4 redeems … crowns. See p 843. Could simply refer to God's delivering the psalmist from a premature death. When reading this verse from the perspective of Christ's empty tomb, the redemption encompasses deliverance from the grave through the final resurrection. pit. Death or Sheol. See p 792.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:5 like the eagle's. Describes a strength that is renewed and even soaring.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:6–8 righteousness … justice … ways. See pp 843–44.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:8 God used these adjectives in Ex 34:6–7 to describe Himself to Moses; here they are the basis of praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:9 God should punish for sin, but instead He shows limitless compassion to forgive and remove iniquity. chide. Offer a rebuke or accusation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:11–12 as high as … as far as. Too vast to measure. Cf Is 55:8–9. God's removal of transgressions knows no bounds.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:13 As a father. Family imagery adds warmth to this picture of God's forgiveness.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:14 frame … dust. Cf Gn 2:7. God knows who we are because He formed us out of the dust.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:15–16 wind. Cf Jb 27:21.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:17 steadfast love … everlasting. In contrast with the brief and frail nature of human life. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:18 keep His covenant. Show faith in God's redeeming forgiveness and love. do His commandments. Obedience that flows from faith follows, worked by God's grace (cf Rm 1:1–5, esp v 5).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:19 throne in the heavens … kingdom rules. Cf 93:2; 102:12. God's power and authority over all creation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:20–22 This final call urges all creation, including the heavenly creatures, to give glory to God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:20 angels … mighty ones. Possibly a military image: God's mighty warriors or His angelic army.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:21 hosts … ministers. Those who carry out God's will from heaven (cf Heb 1:14), much as officials in a royal court carry out the commands of a human king. See p 1291.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 103:22 works. Hbr "created ones," usually describing human beings. People and angels will praise God in all times and places.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 103 How many times do we need God's forgiveness? It's impossible to count. Day after day, our transgressions should bring His anger. But over and over again, He removes our iniquities. Where are they sent? To the cross, where Jesus takes the anger and gives us compassion instead. • "Bless the LORD, O my soul!" (v 1). I thank You for redeeming me from death so that I may join the angelic hosts in praising Your holy name from everlasting to everlasting. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 104 As in Ps 103, the psalmist summons himself to praise the Lord. The focus, however, is on God as Creator and Preserver of creation. Gn 1 is background, but the orderly description of creation from Gn becomes a more spontaneous display of the wonders of God's creation. "He causes all created things to serve for the uses and necessities of life" (LC II 14). The psalm became part of the temple worship and could have been used on a festival day, such as the New Year. (Similar themes are found in the Egyptian Hymn to the Aten.) Chem: "There is a progression in creation, as indicated by the distinction noted in Genesis 1. No more appropriate division of the process of creation can be developed than the six day cycle of Moses" (LTh 1:162; comparison between Gn 1 and Ps 104 follows, pp 162–64).

Format: V v 1–4, extol the wondrous God; v v 5–13, God set the waters into place; v v 14–23, human life crowns creation; v v 24–26, God's creative power on both land and sea; v v 27–30, a confident confession; v v 31–35, joyous praise for God's glory revealed in creation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:1 Bless … my soul! See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:2–4 Poetic imagery and vivid comparisons give a glimpse of God's majesty.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:2 light as with a garment. People wear clothes; God is dressed in dazzling light. Cf Rv 21:23; Mt 17:2. tent. God creates the heavenly realm as easily as lifting the flaps of a tent.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:3–4 clouds … wind. A king may ride in a chariot, but God's majesty is portrayed by His riding these high and lofty elements of nature. chariot … messengers … ministers. Each can refer to the cherubim or angels. Some rabbis concluded from these verses that angels were created along with other elements, prior to the creation of Adam and Eve on the sixth day. ministers. See note, 103:21. flaming fire. Possibly lightning bolts.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:5–9 Cf Gn 1:6–10. Mighty waters rush with chaotic and devastating power at the beginning of creation. Here, the psalm pictures that same time of creation, as God controls even the "deep" (waters) to "set the earth on its foundations." Continents and land formations are not eternal, but God has so securely and firmly built them that even the chaos of the waters must stay in their designated places. Cf Mk 4:39.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:10–13 God's power turns the waters to beneficial uses, watering the earth to sustain life. Though gravity was not fully understood, its force was recognized and attributed to God's care for the earth.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:13 the fruit of Your work. Aug: "Let no man glory in his own works…. With Your grace he is satisfied, when he is satisfied: let him not say that grace was given for his own merits" (NPNF 1 8:513).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:14–23 In Gn 1, creation proceeds with vegetation on day 3; stars, sun, moon, and other heavenly lights on day 4; birds and sea creatures on day 5; and animals and humans on day 6. The psalm pictures these days of creation in everyday scenes. A man cultivating the fields, birds building nests, goats in the mountains, and the other scenes from these verses all show God's creation in its beauty and activity. God's sustaining and ordering hand is behind the interrelatedness of creation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:15 wine. See note, Pr 21:17. oil. Olive oil was used to clean and restore the face as we use lotion or ointment today.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:16 cedars of Lebanon. See note, 92:12–13. Tall and strong due to extensive rainfall. Pictures a place bursting with life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:20 make darkness. Along with "the sun rises" in v 22, the rhythms of daily life as marked by day and night are portrayed (Gn 1:14–19).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:23 People generally lived in walled villages and worked during the day in the surrounding fields.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:24–26 In wisdom. Creation is not by chance or randomness. God's wisdom alone has made such an intricate world teeming with life. See note, Pr 8:30. Leviathan. Frightening sea creature (cf Jb 41), seen here as just one more created life, made by God to play in the ocean. The alternate reading (see ESV note) has God playing with Leviathan, much like a pet.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:27–28 all look to You. All are dependent on God for food and everything else needed to sustain life. Ps 145:15–16 repeats this firm conviction. See Luther's Daily Prayers (SC, p xli–xlii). "Creatures are only the hands, channels, and means by which God gives all things. So He gives to the mother breasts and milk to offer to her child, and He gives corn and all kinds of produce from the earth for nourishment [Psalm 104:27–28; 147:8–9]. None of these blessings could be produced by any creature of itself" (LC I 26).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:29–30 You take away their breath. As in Gn 2:7, God gives and sustains life. His Spirit creates and renews each generation of all that lives. All living things would "return to their dust" if God were to withdraw from His creation. Hence, God also holds every individual's life and death in His wise and caring hands.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:31–32 This prayer, that all creation will continue to show God's glory so that He is pleased with it, reflects Gn 1, when God first saw His creation and proclaimed it good. In addition, the psalmist confesses that God's power is so incomparably beyond creation that a simple look or touch overwhelms even the mighty mountains.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:33–34 meditation. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 104:35 Let sinners … be no more! Somber note at the end of a high hymn of praise. Every evil, wickedness, and sinful disobedience that mars God's creation needs to be eradicated so that only joyful praise is heard from God's creation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 104 More and more, we hear about nature with no mention of the Creator. Visit a museum, read a science textbook, or watch a nature program, and you will see everything explained as some incredibly long process by which all life has evolved into what we see today. Yet God is indeed Creator of all. He continues to care for His world. Remember the word Jesus spoke over a violent storm: "Peace! Be still!" (Mk 4:39). And all was calm. Even death cannot compare to God's power, as a stone obeyed His command and rolled away from the tomb on Easter morning. • Lord, we make the bold confession that You in Your wisdom made the earth and all its creatures and continue to sustain it. Praise the Lord. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 105 Ps 105 and 106 stand together as they recall God's promise to Abraham to bring Israel into the Promised Land and the mighty ways He kept that promise. Ps 105 focuses on God's grace, while Ps 106 describes the people's rebellion and their continued need for mercy. Ps 105:1–15 appears in 1Ch 16:8–22 at the joyous occasion of David's bringing the ark to Jerusalem, indicating it was used in worship on festival occasions celebrating the covenant God made with His people.

Format: V v 1–6, call to praise; v v 7–11, God's promise of a land; v v 12–15, the Lord's care for the patriarchs; v v 16–25, Joseph; v v 26–36, Moses and the plagues; v v 37–42, the exodus; v v 43–45, conquest of Canaan.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:1–6 call … make known … Sing … Glory … seek His presence. "That is the true honor of His name, to look to it and call upon it for all consolation" (LC I 70). seek. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:1 Aug: "This confession is to be understood as praise, … whence the Lord's Prayer itself has at the commencement a very brief praise, in these words, 'Our Father which art in Heaven.' The things prayed for, then follow" (NPNF 1 8:520).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:2 Aug: "Praise Him both by word and deed; for we sing with the voice, while we play with an instrument, that is, with our hands" (NPNF 1 8:520).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:5 Remember … works … miracles. Basis for this joyful worship, particularly God's rescuing His people from slavery and giving them the Promised Land. judgments He uttered. Righteous decisions God rendered for the benefit of His people and against those who had oppressed Israel (cf 48:11).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:7–11 covenant … word … promise … statute. Words built on one another to stress that God will remember His pledge to His people. The covenant is entirely God's initiative. See p 971. God chooses Israel as His people, delivers them, and reveals to them how they are to respond both in faith to Him and in trusting obedience to His Law. forever … thousand generations … everlasting. Emphasizes that God will never forget the promises He made to Abraham (Gn 17:8), Isaac (Gn 26:3–4), and Jacob (Gn 28:13–14).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:12–15 they. Patriarchs Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Although the promise had been given, the land was not yet theirs.

Israel's humble beginnings are as seminomads, wandering from place to place, chosen (Dt 7:7) and protected (Gn 20:2–7) by God's grace.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:15 My anointed … My prophets. The patriarchs spoke for God to His people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:16–22 Summary of Gn 37–50.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:16 summoned a famine. Joseph's rise to greatness is not attributed to his own efforts but to God's direction. The Lord uses disasters and what was intended for evil (Gn 50:20) to save His people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:18 Aug: "That Joseph was put in irons, we do not indeed read; but we ought no ways to doubt that it was so. For some things might be passed over in that history, which nevertheless would not escape the Holy Spirit, who speaks in these Psalms" (NPNF 1 8:523).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:19 he. Joseph, interpreter of Pharaoh's dreams.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:22 to bind. Dramatic reversal. The one once bound (Gn 39:20) now binds or rules those who had imprisoned him. elders wisdom. Old age and wisdom are strongly associated in Scripture.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:23–25 Ham. Egypt (see note, 78:51). Israel comes to Egypt during the famine (Gn 46), rapidly increases in numbers (Ex 1:7), and a new pharaoh enslaves them (Ex 1:8–16).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:25 turned their hearts. Aug: "It was not then by making their hearts evil, but by doing good to His people, that He turned [the Egyptians'] hearts, that were evil of their own accord, to hatred" (NPNF 1 8:524).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:26–36 Poetic summary of Ex 1–12. The order of plagues is treated with some liberty as the ninth plague, darkness, is mentioned first (emphasizes the thought of Ex 11:3). The plagues of flies and gnats are reversed. Two plagues, cattle sickness and boils, are omitted. Aug: "Praisegiving is free from the law which binds one who is relating or composing a history" (NPNF 1 8:524).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:37–42 God richly keeps His promise by leading His people out of Egypt (Ex 12:33–36) and giving His divine protection (Dt 8:4). He guides and provides for His people as they travel through the wilderness (Ex 13:21–22; 16:13–15; 17:1–7).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:43–44 Echo of the great songs of thanksgiving when God led Israel to the victories that would give them the Promised Land (Jsh 11:23).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 105:45 keep His statutes and observe His laws. See p 971. The focus has been almost exclusively on what God has done for His people. Now, the people respond with obedience. Keeping God's laws flows from faith, out of the relationship God gave to these people when He chose them as His own.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 105 God frees His people from slavery. Christ has rescued us from sin and its eternal punishment. All God's promises find their fulfillment in Jesus, who hung on the cross and then ushered in a new era by rising from the grave. Abraham's true descendants are those whose faith in Christ is counted to them as righteousness (Gal 3:6–9). Gathered together by Jesus, we now belong to the Church, which knows no geographical boundaries. • Praise the Lord, for in Christ we received the blessings promised to Abraham. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 106 Last psalm in Book Four. (See p 844.) Ps 105 and 106 begin and end with praise to the Lord. Although Ps 106 begins with praise and thanksgiving, it moves to confession. Luth: "This psalm teaches the true praise of divine goodness, namely, that to confess one's own evil to God is to give thanks to the Lord, for He is good" (AE 11:345). Ps 106 covers many of the same historical events as Ps 105, but it praises the Lord for His wonderful salvation of a sinful people. Since v 47 appeals to the Lord to gather His people from among the nations, many think Ps 106 was written after the exile. However, v v 1b–c and 47–48 are included in David's hymn of thanksgiving (1Ch 16:34–36), when the ark was returned to Israel. This, along with its place at the conclusion of Book Four, indicates that it might be an earlier composition.

Format: V v 1–3, call to praise; v v 4–5, call to remember; v v 6–12, confession of sins during the exodus; v v 13–15, confession of sins in the wilderness; v v 16–18, jealousy of Dathan and Abiram; v v 19–23, the golden calf; v v 24–31, rebellion at Canaan's border; v v 32–33, Meribah; v v 34–39, failures after the conquest; v v 40–43, the Lord's anger during the time of the judges; v v 44–46, the Lord remembered the covenant; v v 47–48, appeal for salvation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:1 give thanks. Hbr yadah can mean "to give thanks" or "to confess." steadfast love. See p 843. God is faithful and just to forgive our sins. Cf 118:1; 119:41; 136:1; 1Jn 1:9.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:2 The true believer, as described in v 3, praises God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:3 Blessed. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:4 help me when You save them. See ESV note. As the psalmist considers God's promises to all of Israel for salvation, he also looks directly to the Lord for his personal salvation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:5 chosen. The Lord chose Israel because He loved them, not because of something in them (Dt 7:7–8; 9:4–5). inheritance. Israel is the Lord's "possession."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:6–46 Confession of sin.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:6 we ... have sinned. See note, v 1, where the Hbr yadah can mean "to confess."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:7 rebelled by the sea. Could be understood as they rebelled "concerning the sea," wondering why Moses led them there (Ex 14:10–11). The historian Josephus records that the Israelites wanted to stone Moses by the sea (Ant 2:327). The Hbr verb form is used only for rebellion against God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:8 for His name's sake. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:10 redeemed. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:12 Then they believed His words. Though God's marvelous works are important, ultimately it is God's Word that converts a person (Lk 16:19–29).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:13 counsel. Israel's greatest problem—and ours—is turning away from God's Word.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:14 wanton craving. Such craving seeks and loves the things of the world and ignores the things of God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:15 wasting disease. Lit, "leanness." In Nu 11:33, God satisfied the people's craving with quail but punished them with disease so that the nourishment did nothing for them. Though they ate, they were wasting away.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:16 holy one. Aaron was called by God to serve as high priest. As such, he wore a plate that was engraved "Holy to the LORD" (Ex 28:36).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:17 Dathan … Abiram. Cf Nu 16. Along with Korah, these men accused Moses of foisting his leadership upon Israel. God destroyed their company with an earthquake, fire, and plague.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:19 Horeb. Mount Sinai. See map, p 120.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:20 At Sinai, God had revealed His glory. The people turned that glory into a miserable idol.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:22 Ham. Descendants of the second son of Noah are associated with Egypt and Africa. See notes, Gn 10:6–20.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:23 chosen one. Moses was specifically called by God (Nu 16:5). stood in the breach. Ex 32:11–14. Moses pleaded for the people of Israel.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:24 pleasant land. At Kadesh, Israel refused to enter the Promised Land because they feared the inhabitants (Nu 13:26–14:4; Dt 1:26–27).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:28 yoked. Metaphor describing working together and marriage (2Co 6:14). People joined themselves in the sexually immoral worship of Baal of Peor (Nu 25). Baal. See note, Nu 25:3.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:30 Phinehas. Grandson of Aaron and high priest during the time of Joshua. As Israel was preparing to cross the Jordan, many among them were tempted to the false religion and immorality of Baal of Peor. Phinehas drove a spear through an adulterous Israelite named Zimri and his Midianite lover as they were entwined, an act that appeased God's wrath (Nu 25:10–18).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:31 righteousness. See p 843. forever. Each generation would learn of Phinehas's faith and zeal. Through faith, the Lord would grant everlasting life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:32 Meribah. Means "quarreling." Twice, Israel complained about the lack of water, and God provided water from a rock. However, the second time, Moses' patience had run out. Instead of speaking to the rock to generate the water, he struck it twice. This disobedience prevented Moses from entering the Promised Land (cf Ex 17:1–7; Nu 20:2–13).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:34 destroy the peoples. God commanded the destruction of the Canaanites because of their wickedness (Dt 7:1–6; 9:1–4; 20:16–18).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:36 idols. See note, Is 44:6. snare. Joshua warned that the Canaanites would ensnare the Israelites if they mixed with them (Jsh 23:13).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:37 demons. Dt 32:17 uses the same Hbr term to relate idolatry and demon worship.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:38 innocent. Chem: "The blood is innocent because they were not killed on account of crimes that they had committed, as thieves are, but at an age which cannot deserve civil punishment for any action" (LTh 1:300).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:39 unclean. Cf Lv 18:24. Canaanites were removed from the land because they had defiled it with false worship. Israel would commit the same sin (Jer 2:23–25; Ezk 20:30–31; 22:3–4).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:40 abhorred. God promised severe repercussions for Israel's disobedience (Lv 26:25–26, 33, 38–39; Dt 28:25, 36–37, 48–57, 64–68). heritage. See note, v 5.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:44 heard their cry. Cf Ex 2:23–24; 3:7–9; Nu 20:16; 1Sm 9:16; 2Ch 20:6–12; Ne 9:27–28.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:45 steadfast love. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:46–47 pitied. Israel eventually found pity from her captors and was allowed to return to the Promised Land (1Ki 8:50; 2Ch 30:9; Ezr 9:9; Jer 42:12).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 106:48 Blessed. See p 842. let all the people say, "Amen!" Psalms are the prayers and praises of Israel; they are not only to be studied but also to be used in worship!

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 106 One of the most important words in this psalm is "nevertheless" (v 44). Despite Israel's persistent disobedience, God consistently upheld His promises and saved them. As we struggle with temptation (Gal 5:17), we can be sure that God will remain faithful (2Tm 2:13), granting us true repentance and new life in Christ. • O Lord, we must also confess with ancient Israel that we have sinned. Nevertheless, You have faithfully saved us through Jesus' obedience, suffering, death, and resurrection. Praise to the Lord! Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Book Five Ps 107–150, the last section of the Psalter. See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 107 Ps 105–7 are related by their focus on different aspects of Israel's history: Ps 105 focuses on the early history of Israel; Ps 106 focuses on Israel from the time of the exodus to the exile; Ps 107 focuses on the time of restoration from the exile.

Format: V v 1–3, call to worship; v v 4–9, wanderers in the desert; v v 10–16, those in darkness and prison; v v 17–22, the foolish; v v 23–32, those in a storm at sea; v v 33–38, the Lord grants water and fruitfulness; v v 39–42, the weak are delivered and the mighty humbled; v 43, appeal to wisdom.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:1–3 Call for the redeemed to praise the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:1 steadfast love. See p 843. Ps 106:1; 118:1 begin the same way.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:2 redeemed … say so. See p 843. Four examples of people redeemed from trouble: those lost in the wilderness, prisoners, the foolish, and sailors facing storms. All cry out to the Lord, and He delivers them. Those redeemed from trouble are encouraged to thank the Lord. In a sense, we all experience some aspect of these four perils. They probably reflect the overall peril of the captivity rather than any particular situation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:3 gathered in. Israel had been scattered first by the Assyrians (2Ki 17:6) and then by the Babylonians (2Ki 24:14, 16; 25:11; Jer 52:28–30). See maps, pp 609, 717.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:4 First of four examples of those redeemed (see note, v 2). Some wandered. Hbr simply says, "They wandered."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:6 they cried. Israel's history involved many situations in which they cried out to the Lord. See note, 106:44.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:8 Let them thank the LORD. Each section is followed by the same refrain of praise (v v 15, 21, 31).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:9 longing. Hbr also means "to run or rush about."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:10 shadow of death. It seemed to Israel that their captivity was their end; their despair was deep. (Cf 23:4.)
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:11 Their imprisonment was not due to any civil violation. Rather, they had rebelled against God by ignoring His Word. (Cf Zec 1:4.)
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:12 bowed their hearts down with hard labor. The labor broke their will to resist (cf 31:10; Ne 4:10; Is 40:30; Zec 12:8).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:13 cried. See notes, v 6; 106:44.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:14 shadow of death. See note, v 10.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:16 Either this verse is quoted from Is 45:2 or both verses quote an established saying. doors of bronze. City gates are normally made of wood; here proverbially they are bronze, the strongest gates then imaginable (Jer 1:18). bars of iron. Bars that secured the city gates (Dt 3:5; Jer 51:30) were usually made of wood (Na 3:13) but sometimes of bronze (1Ki 4:13). (Iron denotes strength, cf Jer 15:12.)
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:17 fools. See p 1016; cf 38:5.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:18 gates of death. Cf 9:13; Mt 16:18.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:20 sent out His word and healed them. God's Word gives life.See notes, 147:15, 18; cf Is 55:11; Mal 4:2.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:23–32 To the Israelites, the sea was a perilous place, symbolic of trouble (32:6).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:27 Israel is compared to sailors suffering seasickness and helplessness against the sea's ravages.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:31 Let them thank the LORD. Last of four refrains (cf v v 8, 15, 21); underscores the psalm's theme.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:32 extol Him in the congregation. Suggests a national assembly where the chiefs of the nation sit—perhaps in the temple—in order to praise God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:33 Psalmist changes his approach and uses two different images to show that success and failure, prosperity and calamity are in God's control. thirsty ground. Many streams ("wadis") are empty during the dry season, but this psalm describes extreme drought.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:41 God's will ultimately serves the purposes He has for His people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 107:43 Psalm's conclusion echoes Hos 14:9: evil will be overcome by God's providence.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 107 History unfolds the prevailing deeds of God's steadfast love. Because of sin, this world is chaotic and inhospitable. But in Jesus God has restored the peace we long for. Our sins are forgiven, and where there is forgiveness of sins, there is life and every blessing. • O Lord, do not let us be overwhelmed by the confusion around us. Remind us of Your steadfast love that delivers us. Thank You, Jesus. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 108 Drawn from 57:7–11 and 60:5–12, with a few variations. Each of these psalms of David was a response to stress (being hunted in 57 and being defeated in 60). Ps 108 combines the sections that emphasize God's help. See notes, 57:7–11; 60:5–11. Interpreters are not sure why these two psalms are pieced together here. The psalm may reflect an unresolved problem with Edom following the exile. Edom had rejoiced at the downfall of Judah (137:7).

Format: V v 1–4, intent to praise God's steadfast love; v v 5–6, call for deliverance; v v 7–9, triumph for Israel; v v 10–13, prayer for help for the armies.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 108 From time to time, old defeats come back to haunt us. Perhaps a future challenge reminds us of a past failure. At times like this, we remember that God, who delivered us in the past, is with us in the present and the future. • O Lord, Satan would remind me of my past failures. Forgive all my sins—past, present, and future. "Keep steady my steps according to Your promise, and let no iniquity get dominion over me" (119:133). Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 109 Falsely accused, David responds by calling for judgment and punishment. Imprecatory (cursing) psalms (see p 879) can be difficult to harmonize with Jesus' command to "love your enemies" (Mt 5:44). However, we do not know the hearts of David's enemies. His calls for destruction are his prayers for salvation. If he is to be saved, and if they refuse to repent, then they must be defeated. He believes that his enemies have removed themselves beyond the reach of God's grace. Ultimately, all who persecute Christ and His followers and refuse to repent will experience God's judgment.

Format: V v 1–5, David's suffering; v v 6–15, prayer for the defeat of the wicked; v v 16–20, curse turned back to the one who curses; v v 21–25, appeal for the Lord's help; v v 26–29, appeal for blessing; v v 30–31, praise for the Savior.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 109:2 These words may apply to certain people who betrayed David, such as Ahithophel (2Sm 15:31; 16:20–17:23) and Doeg (1Sm 22:6–23).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 109:4 I give myself to prayer. David's typical response when put into a stressful situation. See note, 1Sm 30:6.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 109:6 accuser. Hbr satan is prominent in this psalm and is the biblical name for the devil (Rv 12:10).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 109:7 prayer be counted as sin! When people are motivated by evil, everything they do is sinful.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 109:8 office! Appointed duty. Peter applies this verse to Judas in Ac 1:20.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 109:9 David prays for an untimely death, assuming the accuser is incorrigible.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 109:10 children wander. Punishments upon the accuser's family are difficult to understand, because children are not to be punished for a parent's sin (Ezk 18). But punishment is understandable if the children continue in the sins of their parents (Ex 20:5). See p 879.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 109:26 steadfast love! See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 109:28 Let them curse, but You will bless! Reminder of God's covenant with Abraham (Gn 12:3). See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 109 As we look to God for salvation, we know His justice will prevail upon our enemies who remain in sin. He declares us justified and His dear children through Jesus. • In the face of the "mystery of lawlessness" (2Th 2:7), we must sometimes cry out with the saints in heaven, "O Sovereign Lord, holy and true, how long before You will judge and avenge our blood on those who dwell on the earth?" (Rv 6:10). Have mercy for Jesus' sake. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 110 One the most quoted of all psalms, used 17 times in the NT. Jesus quoted it (Mk 12:36) to show that He was the Messiah—David's Lord, not just David's descendant. Critics have complained that its meaning is hindered by textual problems. Yet Christ and the apostles interpret and apply the psalm boldly. Aug: "We are utterly unable to doubt that Christ is announced in the Psalm, since we are now Christians, and believe the Gospel" (NPNF 1 8:541).

Format: V 1, the Lord addresses the king; v v 2–4, the king commissioned; v v 5–7, the Lord gives the king victory.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 110:1 LORD says to my Lord. The second Lord is greater than David and has both divine (sits at the Lord's right hand) and human characteristics (earthly enemies). my Lord. Hbr 'adonai, a respected or superior person, used for kings and dignitaries. Your footstool. In biblical times, the conqueror placed his foot on his enemies to indicate triumph. Mel: "Christ argues that He is not only the Son but also the Lord of David. Now both in the political realm and in nature a son or a successor is never the lord of the father or of the previous king" (Chem, LTh 1:87).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 110:2 Zion. See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 110:3 offer themselves freely. Lit, "are freewill offerings." See note, Ex 35:29; cf 119:106. "The converted person does good spontaneously" (FC SD II 64). day of Your power. While v 2 describes His universal rule over all, even His enemies, this verse describes His gracious rule with those who join Him in battle.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 110:4 sworn. God had promised the eternal reign of David's line (2Sm 7:5–16; Ps 89:35–37). You are a priest … Melchizedek. Office of king and priest are joined. These offices were kept separate in the Law of Moses. However, Melchizedek represents a different order of priesthood, established long before the Law of Moses (Gn 14:17–20). Heb 4–10 explains and applies this unique arrangement to Jesus. See note, Lk 3:23–38.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 110:5 right hand. Jesus the king-priest will not be frustrated by opposing forces of evil, because He sits at the Lord's right hand. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 110:6 execute judgment. While the priestly office is acknowledged, the focus is on the kingly office. In Rv 19, we have a similar picture of God's judgment.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 110:7 Complete victory of this king is emphasized by this picture of Him being refreshed and lifting up His head. A ritual act may be described (bowing to drink and rising up again). Luther associates His drinking from the brook with the humiliation of Jesus and the lifting up of His head with Jesus' exaltation (AE 13:345–46).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 110 The world looks for the visible manifestation of God. David sees that manifestation prophetically in one of his future descendants. In this second Lord, the divine and the human become one in order to destroy the enemies of God and of His creation. • Dear Jesus, David's Lord and mine, I thank You that You have come to be my Priest who sacrifices all for my sins and to be my King to deliver me from evil. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 111 Praises the Lord for His words and works.

Format: Ps 111–12 are acrostic, or alphabetical. Each line begins with a sequential letter of the Hbr alphabet. See Ps 119 intro.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 111:1 Praise the LORD*!* Introduces a series of hallelujah psalms (Ps 111–18). See p 843. company of the upright. Other psalms also commend us to corporate praise (26:12; 107:32; 68:26).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 111:2–4, 6–7 work. God's works include creation, the exodus from Egypt, and entrance into the Promised Land.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 111:2 Great are the works of the LORD. Cf Jn 6:28–29. Luther said God's greatest work is the creation of believers (AE 11:374–75). Cf also v v 4, 9.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 111:5 remembers His covenant. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 111:6 inheritance. Canaan was occupied by 12 nations, which were displaced by Israel. See p 345.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 111:10 fear. See p 842. wisdom … practice it. When people believe the words of God (His covenant) proven by the works of God (creation, redemption, provision), they have wisdom. But wisdom also proves itself in the practice of living by faith. See pp 775–78.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 111 Luther suggested that the words of v 4, "the LORD is gracious and merciful," should be painted in golden letters around a portrait of the Lord's Supper (AE 13:375), for in this Supper Christians continue to remember both the words and works of the Lord. • Gracious and merciful Lord, we look to You for the remission of our sins in Jesus, who speaks Your faithful words and performs the mighty work of our salvation. Hallelujah! Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 112 Emphasis is on the person who fears the Lord by keeping in mind His words and works.

Format: Alphabetic acrostic; Ps 112 takes up where Ps 111 leaves off. See Ps 111 intro.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 112:1 Blessed. See p 842. fears … delights. Luth: "A childlike and loving fear, of the sort with which a friend fears to offend a friend, or a son his father…. The Law did not have this fear, but the Spirit of fear gave it" (AE 11:384).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 112:2 generation of the upright. Descendants of believers. All humankind is corrupted by sin, but by God's gift of faith, we are created anew.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 112:3 The blessed person not only receives earthly gifts from God to varying degrees but also the right attitude to enjoy them and use them in God's service.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 112:4 Light dawns in the darkness. The upright see through this dark world by faith. They imitate God's attributes (Ex 34:6).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 112:5 lends. The upright use their blessings to help others as God has helped them.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 112:6 never be moved. Supported and sustained by God, the upright cannot be moved from their beliefs or forgotten. See note, 121:3.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 112:7 bad news. Upright people do not fear setbacks and do not constantly worry about what could be lost. They know God will never lose them.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 112:10 gnashes his teeth. Extreme anguish. See p 1276.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 112 Paul quotes v 9 in 2Co 9:9, the great stewardship chapter. The fear of the Lord leads us in the wisdom of generosity and contentment. • O Lord, give us a firm heart to trust in You, subduing our selfish nature in repentance and reviving us in Your righteousness. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 113–18 Known as the "Egyptian Hallel," the six hallelujah ("praise the LORD") psalms sung before (113–14) and after (115–18) Passover. See p 840.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 113 Begins the Hallel. It is a general call to praise, echoing Hannah's song of praise and anticipating Mary's Magnificat (1Sm 2:1–10; Lk 1:46–55).

Format: V 1, call to praise; v v 2–3, praise continuously; v v 4–9, no one compares to the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 113:1 the LORD. Triple repetition of the divine name was a common feature in the call to worship, just as believers today worship in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 113:3 rising … setting. Those who worship the Lord do so at all times and places. Morning and evening were also the times of sacrifice and prayer.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 113:4–6 The uniqueness of God is that He is exalted to the highest heaven, yet He cares for those in the lowest places.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 113:7 raises the poor. The Lord has always made provision for the poor (Lv 19:10; 1Sm 2:8; Pr 19:17; Is 25:4; Lk 4:18).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 113:9 gives the barren woman a home. Israelite women who did not have children had no social network to care for them. See pp 54–55.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 113 Sometimes it might seem to us that the good things of this world are overwhelmed by the bad. But the Lord is not overwhelmed. He is exalted on high, and He reaches down low with His salvation. • We praise You, O Lord, because You come down to save us in Christ. Hallelujah! Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 114 Of the six hallelujah psalms (113–18) sung at Passover, only this one points directly back to the exodus. Ps 113 taught that the Lord lifts the needy. Ps 114 shows how the Lord did this in the exodus and conquest.

Format: V v 1–2, Israel is the Lord's sanctuary; v v 3–4, creation reacts; v v 5–6, the psalmist questions creation; v v 7–8, the presence of the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 114:2 sanctuary. Israel became a "kingdom of priests and a holy nation" (Ex 19:6) with God in their midst (Dt 23:14).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 114:3–6 Personifies the sea and the mountains to show that all creation obeyed God's will.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 114:7 presence of the Lord. See p 843; cf Rv 20:11.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 114 "Tremble" in v 7 could also be translated "dance." On the one hand, we tremble before the presence of the Lord because of our sins. Yet, since He comes to save, it is also true that we can dance with joy. • Lord Jesus, we praise You as You come to us to lead us out of death and sin into life eternal. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 115 Many date this psalm to after the exile, when Israel was at its lowest point. The psalmist encouraged Israel not to look to the outward manifestations of strength as did the idol worshipers, but to remember God's steadfast love.

Format: V 1, glory to God; v v 2–3, God's freedom; v v 4–8, idols' weaknesses; v v 9–11, call to trust the Lord; v v 12–15, the Lord's blessings; v v 16–18, the living bless the Lord. Changes between singular and plural pronouns likely represent antiphonal speaking or singing in the temple liturgy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:1 glory. Psalmist responds to the taunt in v 2. Mankind glorifies itself in its idolatry. steadfast love … faithfulness. See p 843. Luth: "The coming of Christ into the flesh was given out of the pure mercy of the promising God, and was neither bestowed by the merits of human nature nor denied by demerits" (AE 11:396).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:3 in the heavens. The true God cannot be contained in human works. all that He pleases. Chem: "He absolutely does foreknow what is going to happen, and yet He is a totally free agent. For all things which He wills He does" (LTh 1:207).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:4 silver and gold. Substance of idols is natural, but their form is the mere reflection of human false teaching. See note, Ps 135:15–18; cf Jer 10:8.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:8 Those who make them become like them. Luth: "A remarkable love of one's own powers does all these things, a love which changes the lover into the beloved" (AE 11:399).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:9–11 Israel, her priests, and even proselytes (first mentioned in 1Ki 8:41–43) fear the Lord and trust in Him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:12–13 God's promise to bless those who trust in Him is affirmed. These verses may have been chanted by the people.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:14–15 A blessing is pronounced. These verses may have been chanted by the priests. See "Versicle and Response," p 959.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:16 Lord's heavens. People exist on earth and have some understanding of it. Human idols are bound to earth. God's existence covers all realms, even the realm of heaven, where His perfect will operates without hindrance.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:17 Death ends our bodily life as God intended it; our mouths, intended for praise, fall silent.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 115:18 forevermore. Our praise of God will continue somehow forever. Rv explains this more fully in its teaching of the resurrection of the Last Day.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 115 Idols are essentially an outward representation of human imagination. Nothing could be more fleeting or self-glorifying. Through the promises of His blessings, God calls His people beyond imagination to the truth of His existence. • Lord, we praise You for revealing Yourself to us in Your Word. Give us faith to hold fast to the truth, and grant us Your blessings. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 116 Although originally generating from one person's experience, this psalm was appropriate for Israel's celebration of the Passover, as the whole nation nearly succumbed to extinction in Egypt (Ex 1:22). Luther viewed this psalm as referring to Christ throughout (AE 11:400). It is awesome to think that this was one of the last hymns our Lord sang before His "exodus" (Lk 9:31) on the cross.

Format: V v 1–4, love for the deliverer; v v 5–7, the deliverer's character; v v 8–9, the deliverer's deeds; v v 10–14, the psalmist's faith and thanks; v v 15–19, the Lord's servant at the temple.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:1–2 I. Simply states the reason for the psalm: the Lord answered his cry for help. The rest of the psalm elaborates the details of an individual who has been rescued from death.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:3 snares of death … pangs of Sheol. Psalmist was helpless in the grip of death. See p 792.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:4 called on the name. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:5 Gracious … righteous … merciful. God's undeserved love, His perfect love, and His tender love are captured in one short sentence.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:6 the simple. Those open to instruction. Cf Pr 1:4. brought low. Aug: "The pain which the physician causes by his knife is not penal, but salutary" (NPNF 1 8:555).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:7 your rest. Anxiety of impending death is removed. bountifully. See note, 119:17.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:9 before the LORD. In the presence of the Lord. See "presence," p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:10 Paul quotes this verse from the LXX in 2Co 4:13 to explain his motivation for proclaiming the Gospel. He speaks of the entire psalm and of God's deliverance from death in general. In the narrow sense, this particular verse stresses that the psalmist held on in faith even while suffering affliction.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:11 All mankind are liars. "They do not think correctly about God" (Ap II 34). All who do not believe are liars. Luth: "People become truthful only by the truth of faith" (AE 11:403). The psalmist recognizes that he will find no help in mankind.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:12 Psalmist ponders what God really wants. Aug: "This man seeks what he might return unto the Lord, and finds not, save out of those things which the Lord Himself returns [to him]" (NPNF 1 8:556).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:13 the cup of salvation. May refer specifically to one of the cups of the Passover used by Christ in His Last Supper (Mt 26:27), or it may refer to the drink offering (Nu 15:10). The words "of salvation" do not suggest an offering but the receiving of God's gifts (Ps 23:5). call on the name. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:14 vows. Luth: "For we can return nothing to God except the vows of praise and confession, for we have all things from Him and He needs nothing of our goods" (AE 11:404; see p 7). presence of all His people. Public worship is important so believers can be mutually encouraged.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:15 Precious … is the death. A saint is one made holy by God's grace. All that happens to such a person is very important, esp suffering and death. This thought suggests the singing of this verse at funerals. Bern: "Let your soul die the death of the righteous, that your last end also may be like [Christ's]…. How can you live where you dare not die?" (SLSB, p 214).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:16 son of Your maidservant. Psalmist rejoices in his opportunity to serve the Lord and thanks Him for the faithful service of his own mother.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:17 "He asks us to hope, and says that this is a righteous sacrifice, meaning that other sacrifices are not true and righteous sacrifices" (Ap XXIV 29).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:18 Repetition (cf v 14) for emphasis. See "Parallelism," p 778.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 116:19 courts of the house. Temple courts. See "courts of the Lord," p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 116 All people are at some point "frightened to death." Death's grip is terrible because it is the result of our sin and separation from God. But this psalm reminds us that God cares deeply about our mortality and has released us from its permanent bonds through the suffering, death, and resurrection of His Son. • Let me walk in integrity, O Lord, and show forth Your love. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 117 Only two verses, this shortest of all psalms has an unlimited range of vision. It celebrates God's grace, which began in Israel but is extended to all nations through Christ.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 117:1 all nations. Luther and Augustine refer to the Gentile saints who believed and praised God, even though they did not follow the Law of Moses: Job, Lot, Naaman, and the widow of Zarephath (AE 14:19; NPNF 1 2:389–90). St Paul quotes this psalm together with other passages from the OT to proclaim that God's plan of salvation became a full reality in Christ Jesus (Rm 15:9–12; cf Gal 3:28; Col 3:11).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 117 If God's love had to be merited, there would be no reason to praise Him. His love would also be severely limited. But because His love is His alone to give, it is great, and it reaches to people of all nations. • O Lord, I praise You for Your steadfast love for me and for all people. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 118 Luth: "This is my own beloved psalm. Although the entire Psalter and all of Holy Scripture are dear to me as my only comfort and source of life, I fell in love with this psalm especially. Therefore I call it my own" (AE 14:45). It may have been written for celebrations at the time of David or for the celebrations of the second temple. As the last song of the Hallel (see Ps 113–18 intro), it was used as thanksgiving for national deliverance. However, it was destined to find greater fulfillment when sung at the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem (v 26; Jn 12:13) and when He Himself referred to it regarding His death and resurrection (v v 22–23; Mt 21:42–44).

Format: V 1, call to give thanks; v v 2–4, the Lord's everlasting love; v v 5–7, the Lord is on my side; v v 8–9, refuge in the Lord; v v 10–13, enemies cut off; v v 14–16, the Lord's right hand; v v 17–18, the Lord's discipline; v v 19–21, the gate of righteousness; v v 22–24, the cornerstone; v 25, prayer for salvation; v v 26–27, entering the temple; v v 28–29, giving thanks.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:1–4 Call to praise found in other passages (Ps 105–7; 136; 1Ch 16:8, 34; 2Ch 20:21).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:1 steadfast love. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:2–4 Threefold appeal (cf 115:9–13)

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:5–21 I. Best understood to be a representative of Israel or the Messiah.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:5 distress. V v 10–21 indicate that the nation of Israel is threatened with extermination.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:6 What can man do to me? David's cry in 56:11 and ours in Heb 13:6.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:10 cut them off! God did not permit Israel to be destroyed by her earthly enemies, nor did He allow His Messiah to be overwhelmed by the forces of evil.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:12 like bees. Luther says that persecutors of Christ were like bees that stung His humanity but could not touch His divinity. Believers can also be stung in the same way, but they cannot be destroyed. like a fire among thorns. Bees die when they lose their stingers. The thorns burn quickly, and soon the fire is out. So it is with persecution; its heat cannot last. (See AE 11:412–13.)

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:13 I was pushed hard. See ESV note, although here the "you" might refer to the Lord, who allowed the chastening (Dt 8:2– 5; Is 54:8). Aug: "Those who fall away from piety do so not by the work of God but by their own will, and they are not forced to fall" (Chem, LTh 1:217).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:14 Quoted from the victory song at the Red Sea (Ex 15:2a).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:17 Luther's personal motto (AE 14:45, n 4).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:18 disciplined me severely. Israel understood the chastening of the Lord (Dt 8:5), as must we (Heb 12:6). However, Jesus endured the ultimate chastening for the sins of the whole world (1Pt 2:24). "Here, contrition is contained in the first clause, and how we are revived in contrition is clearly described in the second. We are revived by God's Word, which offers grace" (Ap XIIA 49). Cf 119:28.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:19–21 Ritual approach and entry into the temple, perhaps between temple workers and a gatekeeper. See "courts of the Lord," p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:19 gates of righteousness. In its original setting, this psalm pictures priests, or Levites, approaching the Lord, who alone is righteous and gives righteousness to those who believe in Him. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:20 Aug: "Cursed, therefore, is he that comes in his own name" (NPNF 1 8:559).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:22 cornerstone. Or, keystone on which the building depends. Israel was rejected by her neighbors. But little, insignificant Israel was destined for greatness as God determined. The cornerstone foreshadows the Messiah, whom God would send through Israel. Even the leaders of Israel would reject this cornerstone. Yet God would build His "nation" of believers upon it (Mt 21:42; Rm 9:32–33; Eph 2:20; 1Pt 2:6–8). Hus: "Christ Himself is the foundation of the apostles and the whole Church, and in Him it is fitly framed together" (The Church, p 77).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:23 This is the LORD's doing. God reminds us that the plan of salvation through the rejected stone was His idea. marvelous. The Bible is replete with "marvelous acts" of God, but the sending of the Messiah is the greatest of all.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:24 This is the day. When the cornerstone of salvation is laid (i.e., Easter).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:25 Save us. Hbr hoshi'ah na, "Hosanna," sung by the crowds on Palm Sunday (Mt 21:9; Mk 11:9; Jn 12:13). See

"salvation," p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:26 bless you. Plural in Hbr, indicating that the King/Messiah and all who join Him in His victory are blessed. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:27 Cf Ex 34:6. The Lord reveals His steadfast love and salvation in the Messiah, enabling His people to worship. Although the last phrase is difficult to translate, it obviously points to worship.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 118:29 Psalm closes as it began, as a prayer of thanksgiving.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 118 We may sometimes wonder, "Where is the steadfast love of God?" Where is that "good action" of God for His people? He revealed His steadfast love in humble Israel, in the Child of the Virgin Mary. He veiled His greatest gift in what is least among people so that His gift might be received by all. • O Lord, when I cry, "Hosanna! Save now!" I know that I do not have to rise up to You, for You have lowered Yourself to save me. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 119 Difficult to date, as no author is given. However, the Law's central role in the author's life and the opposition he faced fit well with the sixth or fifth century BC. (Daniel also knew conflict over his faith [Dn 6]. See note, v 141.) The psalmist likely intends that his words of devotion be as timeless as the Word of God, which he loves. "By this very act [of prayer] they declare that they cannot get those things that they ask of God from their own natural powers. For example, in Psalm 119 alone, David prays more than ten times that God would give him understanding, that he might rightly comprehend and learn the divine teaching" (FC SD II 15). Hbr berith, "covenant," does not appear in Ps 119. The idea of a covenant as a promise from God to His people may be understood in the use of words such as 'imrah ("promise") or the broader torah ("God's Law"). Also, the concept of a covenant, if it is understood as God's distinct agreement with one people at one time, might be too narrow for the scope of Ps 119. The psalm describes God's universal actions and nature, which are offered to all people in His Word.

Format: Structured by the 22 letters of the Hbr alphabet, having eight-line stanzas in which all eight lines begin with the same letter. Ps 119 is the longest instance of the acrostic pattern. Cf Ps 9–10; 25; 34; 37; 111–12; and 145. See pp 777–78. By using the acrostic pattern, the psalmist shows how God's Word commands every part of language and life.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:1 Blessed. See p 842. walk in the law. The blessing of the Law encompasses all the believer does. Dt 6:6–7 commands the Law to be remembered when sitting, walking, lying, and rising. law. See p 971.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:2 seek Him. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:4 diligently. God's precepts are observed more intensely than other interests.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:8 utterly forsake me! Confronted with God's commands, the psalmist knows his own failings but appeals to God's merciful promises to preserve him. Far from being self-righteous, he depends on God's help alone.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:9 young man. Hbr na'ar, perhaps in his teens or early twenties (e.g., Isaac [Gn 22:5, 12] and Joseph [Gn 37:2]). way. See p 844. guarding it according to Your word. God's Word, like a sword (Eph 6:17), enables believers to guard and keep their life. See note, v 170.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:10 seek. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:11 stored up. God's Word is treasured through memorization; it is brought out through action so that, by thought and deed, the believer may be kept before God. "We should daily be engaged with God's Word and carry it in our hearts and upon our lips" (LC I 89).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:12 Blessed. Luth: "Because You, the Blessed One, bestow blessing, I want to be taught by You, for You are such a lawgiver who gives blessing" (AE 11:419). See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:13 lips. Words from God's mouth are graciously allowed on our lips to savor, recount, and rehearse. declare. Hbr saphar, related to the noun sapher, "book."

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:15 meditate. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:17 bountifully. God deals graciously with His servants, rescuing them and giving them far more than they deserve. See note, 13:6; cf 116:7; 142:7.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:18 Open my eyes. Psalmist asks that God would enlighten his eyes to see the goodness that God declares, His goodness out of evil, and His mercy from His Law. Paul prays similarly for the Ephesians (Eph 1:18).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:19 sojourner on the earth. Recalls the wandering of Moses and the people following the exodus. Though this present life is not yet the Promised Land to come, the Commandments contain that promise of a gracious rest. Aug: "We are tenants or strangers upon earth, because we have found our country above, whence we have received a pledge, and where when we have arrived we shall never depart" (NPNF 1 8:563).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:20 consumed with longing. Continuing the theme from v 19 of a wandering sojourner, the psalmist longs for the refreshing clarity of the direction of the Law. rules. See p 971.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:21 insolent. The scornful seethe in their rebellion against God. Rather than allowing them to wander, God finally rebukes their insolence. See note, v 51.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:23 princes. See note, v 161. meditate. See p 842. If he listens to what princes say of him, the psalmist will hear only their slander. Instead, he strains to hear God's quiet voice in His guiding and gracious statutes. Notice how the image of the psalmist as God's servant begins the stanza (v 17) and returns now near the end.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:24 counselors. God's Word has become a personal witness and confidant to the psalmist. His wisdom promises a home to the sojourning servant (73:24).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:25 clings to the dust. Not only is the psalmist a sojourner on the earth (v 19), but he is also reduced to the earth. He is dust drawing nearer to dust (44:25). give me life according to Your word! As Adam was dust enlivened by God's breath, so the psalmist is revived by God's Word. The Word gives life and righteousness (v v 28, 37, 40). See note, v 170.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:26 told of my ways. Even when the psalmist recounts his deeds, God is not put off. He forgives the missteps, which He already knows (56:8). Aug: "I have confessed my sins, and You have heard me; that is, so that You would remit them" (NPNF 1 8:564). ways. Hbr derek, used five times in this stanza (v v 26, 27, 29, 30, 32), contrasting the psalmist's way with God's perfect path. See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:27 meditate. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:28 strengthen me according to Your word! Left only to itself in its body of dust (v 25), the soul trembles. However, God's Word strongly establishes the psalmist and us by confirming all of God's promises (v v 25, 37, 40). See note, v 170.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:30 I have chosen. Psalmist chooses God's way because God shows Himself to be trustworthy and gracious. faithfulness. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:32 run. In this stanza focused on life as a "way," it is fitting to end by running. The psalmist no longer clings to the dust (v 25), but dashes forward on the certainty of God's way. enlarge my heart! The heart is opened by insight (v 18), freed from the weight of guilt (v 31), and able to trust in the path marked by God. Aug: "The widening of the heart is the delight we take in righteousness. This is the gift of God, the effect of which is, that we are not straitened in His commandments through the fear of punishment, but widened through love, and the delight we have in righteousness" (NPNF 1 8:564–65).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:33 way … it. See p 844. Psalmist wishes God to establish a single, clear path through the maze of possible human laws.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:34 Give me understanding. See note, v 73. Chem: "The prayers of the faithful clearly give testimony to the captivity and bondage of free choice" (LTh 1:240).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:35 Chem: "The benefits of the Holy Spirit are demonstrated … for those who walk in newness of life, by directing their will and heart toward obedience, by His contending against the flesh, by leading those who have been converted into His way of thinking" (LTh 1:148).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:37 give me life in Your ways. A familiar theme in v v 25, 28, and 40 is that life and strength are found in the way of God's Word. In the context of v v 35–37, the psalmist asks that his attention be turned solely to the good that lasts. See note, v 50. ways. V v 3, 14, 27, 30, 32, 33 also speak of God's Word as a way or path. See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:38 Your promise. See p 971. The promise of this verse, and also v v 41, 50, is the whole counsel of God's Word and Law along with the certainty of His action (Nu 23:19).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:40 in Your righteousness give me life! See p 843. Aug: "And in Him [Christ] I find Your commandments, which I have coveted, that in Your righteousness, that is, in Him, You may quicken me" (NPNF 1 8:566). See note, v 50.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:41 steadfast love. See p 843. according to Your promise. See notes, v v 38, 170.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:42 him. The one who taunts the psalmist, cutting him with reproach, is defeated with the sharper sword of God's Word (Eph 6:17; Heb 4:12).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:45 wide place. Related to the Hbr words for "enlarge" (v 32) and "exceedingly broad" (v 96), giving the image of security and prosperity (cf Eph 3:18–19).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:46 The keeping of God's Word opens even palace doors. The psalmist can speak God's truth, which is beyond any reproach (Lk 21:15). See note, v 161.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:47 delight … love. Psalmist loves the Commandments because they are a connection with the God who loves him. The Commandments can be loved, first, because God has kept them for us through Christ, and, second, because God's indwelling strengthens us to keep them still today (Eph 2:10). See the attitude toward the Law in Jn 13:34–35; 14:15.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:48 lift up my hands. Likely in praise of the Commandments, which, like the temple, are the connection between God and His people. Also may be an act of prayer (Lm 2:19), signifying the truth of what one says (Dt 32:40), or an act of blessing (Lv 9:22). Ps 28:2 speaks of hands lifted to the temple's sanctuary, and Ps 134:2 urges hands be lifted to the holy place. See p 1276. meditate. See p 842. As one could study the beauty of the temple's stones and gold, so the psalmist studies God's whole counsel for its intricate design.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:49 Remember. See p 843. Aug: "The desire of him who prays is displayed, because he asks for what was promised; God is not admonished, as if the promise had escaped from His mind" (NPNF 1 8:568). made me hope. God's Word creates hope based on God's promises and character (33:22). Frequently in Ps 119, the psalmist says that he has hope in God's Word (v v 74, 81, 114, 147). Luther explains that the Church in distress learns to live by unseen faith: "For hope which is seen is not hope (Rom. 8:24), therefore hope is in the Word, not immediately in demonstration" (AE 11:453).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:50 Your promise gives me life. Appeals for life occur frequently in Ps 119 (v v 17, 25, 37, 40, 77, 88, 107, 116, 144, 149, 154, 156, 159). See p 971. life. Cf v v 25, 37, 40.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:51 insolent. Those who scorn the psalmist are also rebelling against God. The insolent lie against the psalmist (v 69) and prepare traps for him (v 85), but God can be depended upon to defend the psalmist against them (v v 21, 78, 122). See note, v v 155–58. Luth: "I have not therefore turned away; indeed, being contemptuous of their contempt and mocking their mockery, I have drawn near all the more" (AE 11:453).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:52 Psalmist turns to the eternal consolation of God's Word and character (25:6; Is 63:16). See p 971.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:53 Hot indignation. A rare word that can refer to raging heat or scorching wind (11:6). Righteous zeal burns against those opposing God (69:9; 119:139; Jn 2:17).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:54 my songs. God's statutes are joyous songs (95:2). house of my sojourning. In v 19, the psalmist declares he is a sojourner. While the house of the psalmist may be temporary, he fills it with songs of God's permanent statutes.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:55 remember Your name. Songs of the day (v 54) turn to the quiet, prayerful remembrance of God's name in the night. God's promises (v 50) comfort the psalmist in the dark. See note, v 147.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:56 Blessings outlined in the preceding verses have come from devotion to God's Word (16:6).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:57 portion. The Lord was the portion given to the Levites when the Promised Land was divided and given to the 12 tribes (Nu 18:20). God graciously allows His servants to claim Him as their portion, their life's lot (73:26; 142:5). See p 7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:58 according to Your promise. See notes, v v 38, 170.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:61 cords. Figuratively describes the restraints of evil people and their attempt to bring pain to the psalmist. Elsewhere in Scripture, the evil person is described as the one "held fast in the cords of his sin" (Pr 5:22), one who draws "iniquity with cords of falsehood" (Is 5:18). Contrast this attempted restriction by evil with the breadth described in v 45.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:62 midnight. Darkness becomes a time to remember and glorify God. While many wake to nightmares, the psalmist's heart is so turned to God's grace that he wakes with praise (cf 63:5–6). See note, v 147.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:63 companion. In contrast to the solitude of midnight (v 62), the psalmist is now among those of similar character. His devotion to God is genuine in private and bold in public. fear You. See p 842. He joins those who reverence God. In v v 74 and 79, he invites others to see and join him as one who honors God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:64 is full. God's Word of love is like the sun, filling and brightening everything it touches. In light of God's mercy, the world might still hear an echo of God's description of Eden (Gn 1:31). steadfast love. See p 843; see also note, v 41.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:65 according to Your word. See note, v 170.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:67 Psalmist sees the humbling as a discipline from God that restores him to God's Word (v 75; cf v v 71, 107).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:70 unfeeling like fat. Hearts of the insolent have no more feeling than the fat that surrounds them.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:71 It is good for me that I was afflicted. See note, v 67. Luth: "It is good that You took my wisdom away from me so that You might give me Yours" (AE 11:464–65). Affliction sensitized the psalmist in heart and mind so he could learn God's Word. "God's truly believing, elect, and regenerate children need the daily instruction and admonition, warning, and threatening of the Law in this life" (FC SD VI 9).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:73 Psalmist wants God to complete His handiwork. understanding. Hbr bin, "to be attentive," "to have discernment and insight." Used frequently in Ps 119; cf v v 27, 34, 100, 104, 125, 130, 144, 169. Understanding brings insight into God's continued direction for our life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:74 fear. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:75 in faithfulness You have afflicted me. God's humbling afflictions are those of a faithful Father, who draws His child closer (Pr 3:11–12; Heb 12:5–11). See note, v 67. faithfulness. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:76 steadfast love. See p 843. See note, v 159. according to Your promise. See notes, v v 38, 170.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:78 insolent. See notes, v v 51, 155–58. meditate. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:81–88 Psalmist longs for deliverance.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:83 wineskin in the smoke. Items stored in crossbeams of the roof could be ruined if hung too close to the hearth's heat and smoke. The psalmist says he has become shriveled and darkened from the heat and smoke, forgotten by others and even, seemingly, by God. But he has not forgotten God's Word.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:85 according to. See note, v 170.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:88 steadfast love. See p 843. In v v 84–87, the psalmist described his enemies. Now he looks to God's constant love as his sole source of life. See note, v 159. give me life. See note, v 50.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:89 firmly fixed in the heavens. God's Word preceded the visible heavens, created the heavens ("And God said" [Gn 1:6]), and will outlast the visible heavens (Mt 24:35). The heavens are a framework around a more precious, lasting Word.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:91 they. Luther suggests that "they" are "the founding of the earth, the continuance of days, and the service of all" (AE 11:477–78). These are the things created by God's Word that continue to serve Him. all things are Your servants. God controls creation, despite sin's rebellion. Cf Col 1:16–17.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:93 by them You have given me life. Similar to the psalmist's appeal for God to give life (v 50); here, God's precepts are the unforgettable support of life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:94 I am Yours; save me. Luther learned to use this as a motto from John Staupitz, his Father-Confessor. Hbr hoshi'eni, "save me," is the basis for "Hosanna." God's creation of all (v v 90–91) makes the psalmist bold to expect God's salvation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:95 wicked. Cf 1:1; 119:119; see note, 155–58. Psalmist is at peace in God's promises about the wicked (1:6).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:96 The most that human wisdom can see is still blinded to God's wisdom, power, and grace in Christ (1Co 1:20–30; Jb 38:1–42:6). Human wisdom will end (1Co 13:8–12), but God's Commandments are a limitless wisdom (Rm 11:33).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:97 meditation. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:99 all my teachers. The Law gives prudent understanding and more insight than any teacher can find apart from it. Cf Dt 4:6. meditation. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:100 aged. Elders were respected for their wisdom, but even they are surpassed by the Law's wisdom. If the aged depend only on traditions, they miss the Word's eternal and divine wisdom.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:102 Aug: "You have laid down a law within my heart by Your Spirit, as it were by Your fingers, that I might not fear it as a slave without love, but might love it with a chaste fear as a son, and fear it with a chaste love" (NPNF 1 8:577).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:103 How sweet. Sweeter even than honey, the Law is a pleasant, agreeable food. Joy in the Word is fresh, abundant, and freely given (19:10; Jer 15:16; Ezk 3:3; Pr 16:24; 24:13–14). words. Both God's Commandments (Law) and His promises (Gospel).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:104 hate. In contrast to the love that begins this stanza (v 97), the psalmist hates the deception and bitterness of every way other than God's Law. Cf v 128.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:105 Luther notes that the Word's light is not for our eyes and our seeing but for our feet and path. But our feet cannot be lit and our paths cannot see. So this verse describes the Word's work of faith. "It guides the feet and the heart, and faith does not require understanding…. Thus faith does not enlighten the understanding, indeed, it blinds it, but rather the heart. Faith leads it where it will be saved, and it does so through the hearing of the Word" (AE 11:485). See note, Pr 6:23; cf 2Pt 1:19. "We believe, teach, and confess that the only rule and norm according to which all teachings, together with 'all' teachers, should be evaluated and judged [2 Timothy 3:15–17] are the prophetic and apostolic Scriptures of the Old and New Testament alone" (FC Ep Sum 1).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:106 sworn an oath. Luther recalls here the promise in Baptism by which one renounces the devil and his evil deeds (AE 11:486). The psalmist has begun a journey (v v 105–12) and promises to finish it in God's Word.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:107 according to Your word! See note, v 170.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:108 freewill offerings of praise. Praises come voluntarily and will be acceptable if God instructs him. Cf 110:3.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:109 Psalmist's life is endangered. Rather than guarding it, he offers it openly to God and the direction of His Law. Cf 19:14; 25:1–2.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:111 my heritage. The believer's adoption by grace into God's family brings the inheritance of the Father's Word. Cf Eph 1:5–6; Ps 37:18.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:113 double-minded. Psalmist hates those who are divided in their thinking and allegiance. See note, 1Ki 18:17–40; cf Rv 3:15–16.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:115 evildoers. Those who would tempt the psalmist away from the Law. See note, v v 155–58; cf Mt 23:1–35.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:119 wicked. Rebels, guilty in God's judgment. Cf v v 53, 95; see note, v v 155–58. discard like dross. Dross is worthless metal slag removed from valuable molten metal. Cf v 140; Is 1:22.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:120 Psalmist tingles and quivers in fear of the judgment of his holy God. Luth: "My hairs have bristled and stood on end from the judgments of condemnation" (AE 11:494, n 86).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:121 oppressors. Oppressors would surround the psalmist except for the protection of God and His Word. See note, v v 155–58.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:122, 124–25 servant. Hbr 'ebed. The servant depends on God's mercy (v 124) against his enemies (v 122). Cf Is 65:8–9, 13–15. according to Your steadfast love. See notes, v v 159, 170.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:122 insolent. God's pledge of protection is the psalmist's hope against the rebellious and insolent. The psalmist will survive only if God will speak for him. See notes, v v 51, 155–58. The insolent are well-defined in Pr 21:24.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:126 It is time for the LORD to act. Psalmist sees the Law's relationship between people and God as broken. The time for action has come. Defend Your people and Your Law!
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:128 consider. Hbr yashar, also translated "make straight" in Is 40:3. I hate every false way. Psalmist has esteemed God's commands to be the only true path; he despises the temptations of falsehood. See note, v 104.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:130 unfolding of Your words. God's Word is a doorway opening to the believer. A welcoming light pours out from these gracious words (cf Lk 15:11–32). understanding to the simple. Cf 19:7; Mt 11:25.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:131 pant. Like an exhausted runner, the psalmist gasps for the reviving of God's Commandments. They are his breath and God's very breath within him. Luth: "'So,' he says, 'I have opened my mouth, that I might not want to offer what is mine, but desire to receive what is Yours'" (AE 11:500). Cf Ps 42:1.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:133 according to Your promise. See notes, v v 38, 170. dominion over me. Psalmist could easily misstep into the evil that wishes to master him. He pleads for God's protection and clear direction. Cf Est 9:1; Ec 8:9.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:134 Redeem. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:135 make Your face shine. Psalmist echoes the blessing of Aaron (Nu 6:24–26), asking God to allow him to see His face through the Word. He asks that this clear view of God's face would bless him rather than scorch him. Cf Gn 32:30; Ps 11:7; 17:15.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:136 Rejection of God's Law saddens the psalmist. One might expect him to rejoice in his enemies' rejection of the Law and God's approaching judgment over them (cf Jnh 4). However, he is sorrowful both for the sake of the Law and for those who break it. Eventually, they will be punished and the Law vindicated, but now he is impatient during this time of waiting. His sorrow is paired with the "hot indignation" of v 53. The psalmist has both anger over the wicked and tears over their destruction. See note, v v 155–58.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:139 Psalmist's impatience for the keeping of God's Word is a burning fire, a jealousy for God's honor. This fire feeds on the careless forgetting of the Word by the wicked. Cf v 53; Jn 2:17.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:140 well tried. Often refers to the smelting of precious metals (66:10; Zec 13:9; cf Ps 119:72, 119, 127). God's promises are both pure and repeatedly tested. Precious as gold, unbreakable as steel, they are the perfect end of God's refining. See the parallel thought in v 151.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:141 I am small and despised. Psalmist appears to be a young man (v v 9, 100), familiar with teachers (v 99), and often persecuted for his zeal (v v 23, 42, 51, 69, 85–87, 95, 110, 150, 157). He contrasts his relatively low position with that of the nobility who plot against him and before whom he will appear (v v 23, 46, 161). Although he knows his own weaknesses (v v 67, 176), he frequently boasts of his keeping of the Law, both as a promise (v v 57, 106) and as what he has already accomplished (v v 112, 121, 129).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:142 Your law is true. Psalmist is perhaps continuing the theme of God's promises being tested and refined (v 140), showing the certainty of God's righteousness and affirming that all of God's Law is true. true. Hbr 'emeth can also be translated "faithfulness" or "reliability." God's truthfulness is a certainty (71:22; 86:15; 91:4; 117:2; Jer 10:10).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:147 I rise before dawn and cry for help. Psalmist uses the entire day to hear and speak with God. Seven times a day (v 164), he praises, including before the night watches (v 148), at night (v 55), at midnight (v 62), and at dawn (v 147). In this verse, he eagerly anticipates the dawn, pushing back the dark and hurrying the sun with his prayer for help. (Cf 18:6; 22:25.)
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:148 As in v 147 (which begins with the same Hbr verb), the psalmist shows eagerness to ponder God's promises. The slow passage of the night watch allows him to meditate on God's Word in a lingering way. Cf 63:6. Luth: "You have promised Christ and His grace … but no matter how unworthy I am, You are truthful, who made the promise…. Your mercy, as of the One promising, has made me bold to pray before merits and out of season" (AE 11:511). meditate. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:149 according to Your steadfast love. See notes, v v 159, 170.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:150–51 draw near … are near. Same Hbr verb, qarab. Although the enemies come closer, they remain distant from God. However, the psalmist draws near to God through the Law. Your commandments are true. See the parallel thought in v 140.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:154 Plead my cause and redeem me. In Hbr, this verse begins with two similar words, the verb rib ("plead" or "contend, strive") followed by the noun ribi ("cause" or "strife, dispute"). "Strive for my strife," the psalmist is asking. Cf 35:1; 43:1; 74:22. give me life according to Your promise! Here and in v 156, the psalmist sees the Word with its promises and rules as a fountain of life. One remembers Jesus' promise in Jn 10:10. See notes, v v 38, 40, 50, 170.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:155–58 Psalmist's enemies are the "wicked" (v v 53, 61, 95, 110, 119, 155), "persecutors" (v v 157, 150), "adversaries" (v 157), and the "faithless" (v 158). Other enemies noted earlier included the "insolent" (v v 51, 69, 78, 85, 122); "evildoers" (v 115); and "oppressors" (v 121). Just as there are several words used to describe the different facets of the Law, so these seven words describe the different aspects of rebellion against God and His Word. His enemies drive the psalmist nearer to God's Word as his one refuge and dependable hope.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:156 give me life according to Your rules. While there are many enemies listed in v 157, there are equal saving multitudes of mercies in God's rules. See notes, v v 40, 50, 154, 170. Aug: "Even our seeking out Your righteousness, then, comes of Your mercies" (NPNF 1 8:585–86). rules. See p 971.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:159 Give me life according to Your steadfast love. Psalmist does not exchange his love for God's love, thereby expecting a reward of life. He loves—and lives—because of God's loving Word and action, which come first. Cf 1Jn 4:10, 19. See note, v 170.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:160 sum. Hbr ro'sh, "head," "top," "chief."

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:161 Princes persecute me. Despite opposition from princes and kings, the psalmist fears only God. Cf v 46. stands in awe. Hbr pachad, "dread," "thrill," "fear." Cf 27:1; Is 60:5.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:162 like one who finds great spoil. God's Word is the hidden treasure, the fortune reserved both on earth and in heaven. Cf Mt 6:19–20; 13:44–46. Aug: "Many spoils were found, when, admiring the endurance of the Martyrs, even the persecutors believed" (NPNF 1 8:587).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:164 Seven times. Psalmist regularly praises God, regardless of the outcome of each hour and day. Augustine notes that the number seven suggests completion, as in the number of days in the week (NPNF 1 8:587). See p 217. This verse, Luther notes, is foundational for the practice of seven worship services in a day: Matins, Prime, Terce, Sext, Nones, Vespers, and Compline (AE 11:525). See note, v 147.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:165 Aug: "He who loves the law of God, honors in it even what he does not understand; and what seems to him to sound absurd, he judges rather that he does not understand, and that there is some great meaning hidden: thus the law of God is not an offense to him" (NPNF 1 8:587).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:168 all my ways are before You. Psalmist keeps God's commands, because every turn in his life is known before God. Cf 139:1–16; Eph 1:4–5. See note, v 26.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:169 according to Your word! See note, v 170.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:170 deliver me. See p 842. according to. Used frequently and in various ways in Ps 119. Psalmist asks for God's help in accord with many aspects of God's Word and character. Generally, this phrase comes at the end of a verse, clinching the request with the certainty of God's previous promise. He asks according to "Your word" (v v 9, 25, 28, 65, 107, 169, 170), "Your promise" (v v 41, 58, 76, 133, 154), "Your rules" (or "judgments," v 156), and "Your steadfast love" (v v 124, 149, 159). He also notes that the insolent do not live according to the Law (v 85).

According to God's Word, the psalmist asks for direction in life (v 9), for life itself (v v 25, 107), for strength (v 28), for understanding (v 169), for deliverance (v 170), and he acknowledges God's blessings (v 65).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:174 Your law is my delight. Psalmist finds joy in the Lord's teaching. Cf v v 16, 47, 70, 77.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 119:176 Psalmist modestly acknowledges his errors but depends on God's gracious search as his Shepherd. The final verse contrasts with the blessings promised to those whose way is blameless (v 1). However, God's Word brings blessings by grace for those who have faltered. While the psalm repeatedly urges a close devotion to the Word, blessings come according to the Word and not according to the righteousness of the believer's life. Luth: "Thus this verse is extremely emotional and full of tears, for truly we are all thus going astray, so that we must pray to be visited, sought, and carried over by the most godly Shepherd, the Lord Jesus Christ, who is God blessed forever. Amen" (AE 11:534). See note, v 141.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 119 God's Word is our beloved guide to life. It reveals God's trustworthy promises and eternal mercy. The psalm's length presents God's Word like a diamond with 22 facets, each displaying a distinct light. By exhausting every letter of the alphabet, the psalmist demonstrates the breadth of the Word and his own boundless dedication to it. Luther spoke of the making of a theologian on the basis of Ps 119. A theologian, he held, came from three actions: prayer (oratio), reading or study (meditatio), and affliction (tentatio). Ps 119 is an excellent expression of all three. The Gospel radiates through the psalm as the psalmist describes God's promises, which save His people (e.g., v v 41, 58). God's Word is loved because of its message of steadfast love (e.g., v v 76, 88, 159). God is merciful, and this mercy brings life (e.g., v 156). • Lord, give us the spirit of Ps 119. Teach us to love Your Word. Show us Your steadfast mercy in every verse. Give us the faith to believe that all You have said is true and that all Your promises will be fulfilled in Christ. Let us seek You with our whole heart and find You in Your Word. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 120–34 Known as the "Psalms of Ascents," based on their titles. Exact meaning of the title is unknown, but two possibilities are likely. "Ascents" could refer to the 15 steps in the temple between the Court of the Women and the Court of the Israelites. See "courts of the Lord," p 842. The psalms were perhaps read or sung on the steps during the great festivals. The title could also refer to the religious pilgrimages each year going up to Jerusalem. These psalms would be sung as the worshipers approached Jerusalem's hills (121:1; 122:1–2). The Psalms of Ascents have no single theme, though they are all short and frequently mention Zion and Jerusalem.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 120 Historic background uncertain; no specific author or setting is given. Perhaps it was written after the exile (587 BC), when enemies oppressed God's people.

Format: V v 1–2, the Lord's deliverance; v v 3–7, a warrior's wanderings.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 120:1 distress. Psalmist appears to have traveled extensively (v 5) under the threat of war (v 7). He answered me. General statement of God's rescue, as in 18:6.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 120:2 Contrast the truth of God's Word in Ps 119 with the deceitful tongue of the people in Ps 120. The psalmist's enemies speak lies concerning him and call for war. Cf 5:9; 31:18.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 120:4 broom tree! Desert shrub, reaching as high as 12 ft. Its wood burns particularly hot and long. The psalmist wishes this enduring heat would descend on the deceitful tongue.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 120:5 Meshech. Generally identified as a nation or tribe in the far north, perhaps near the Black Sea. Kedar! Area south of Damascus in the Syrian desert. See map, p 717. Surrounded by slanderers, the psalmist feels as though he is far from home among a heathen people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 120:6 those who hate peace. Psalmist dwells among those who enjoy ravaging others, perhaps reflecting the situation of refugees living among their captors. Aug: "The body wanders in places, the soul wanders in its affections. If you love the earth, you wander from God: if you love God, you rise unto God" (NPNF 1 8:590).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 120:7 when I speak. Returning to the theme of the tongue and speech, a war of words erupts whenever he speaks. He would counsel peace, but his enemies reflexively know only war.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 120 The tongue is a powerful tool of peace or war. We can use it to call on God for help, but we might be surrounded by others who use the tongue for deceit. God warns us of His approaching judgment on lying lips that are eager for war. However, He also invites us to call on Him for peace and salvation. • O Lord, answer us with Your sure Word and rescue us by its power. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 121 Written for a pilgrim viewing Jerusalem's hills, or by a psalmist when he is feeling overwhelmed. He finds that God, who created all things, is his helper.

Format: V v 1–2, search for help; v v 3–4, the Lord keeps Israel; v v 5–6, the Lord protects at all times; v v 7–8, the Lord will keep you forevermore.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 121:1 to the hills. Psalmist may be looking up to the hills of Jerusalem as he approaches for one of the festivals. Also, the hills or mountains frequently symbolize God's creation, command, and power. Cf Gn 22:2; Ex 3:1–2; 19:2–3; 1Ki 18:20; Ps 125:2; 133:3. See intro, Ps 120–34. See map, p 971.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 121:2 help. The Lord is our ally (cf Gn 2:20).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 121:3 foot be moved. To totter and slip. Psalms often speak of God's protection, which keeps the righteous from moving or falling. Cf 15:5; 16:8; 21:7; 62:6; 112:6.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 121:4 slumber nor sleep. God does not become drowsy and inattentive. He does not sleep while His people struggle.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 121:5 keeper. God is a keeper, a watchman who preserves His people when they cannot see their own danger. See note, 127:1. shade on your right hand. God's help is like sitting in the shade at noon. As seen also in v 6, His protection is timeless. For other uses of this word for "shade" or "shadow," cf 17:8; 57:1; 63:7; Is 4:6; 25:4.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 121:6 sun … moon. People rightly feared the sun's heat, but they may also have feared the moon's eerie light.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 121:8 Final verse includes both distance, "going … coming" and time, "this time forth and forevermore." God's protection always covers a person.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 121 We are pilgrims on a journey to our heavenly home (Php 3:20–21). This psalm reminds us to focus on the Lord, who oversees our journey. Do not allow the mountains, moon, sun, or anything else in creation to frighten you. Our God is eternally alert and goes above and before us. • O Lord, we trust in Your vigilant love. You will preserve us in order to bring us home. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 122 Focuses on the entry to Jerusalem as the place of God's judgment and the peaceful gathering of His people (cf Ps 121). From the time of David on, Jerusalem served as the center of worship and justice. Peace with God and peace between the people of Israel are both found in Jerusalem.

Format: V v 1–2, going to the Lord's house; v v 3–5, the tribes go to Jerusalem; v v 6–9, prayer of peace for Jerusalem.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 122:1 house of the LORD! Given the Davidic attribution, this is likely the tabernacle, particularly once the ark of the covenant had come into Jerusalem (2Sm 6:12–15). The tabernacle was called the "house of the LORD" elsewhere (Jgs 19:18; 1Sm 1:7; 2Sm 12:20).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 122:3 bound firmly. May refer to the city wall, which brought together settlements on the eastern hill and the western hill.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 122:4 tribes go up. In Jerusalem, the tribes have a single city in which to meet. This gathering fulfills God's command that all Israel should gather three times a year (Ex 23:17; 34:23; Dt 16:16).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 122:5 thrones for judgment. Beginning with David, the king of Israel in Jerusalem provided the courts of justice. Cf 2Sm 8:15; Ps 101:8. house of David. David's kingly line was to bring justice (Jer 21:12). Is 16:5 prophesies that a just judge will sit on the throne in David's tent. Jesus' final judgment fulfills this hope.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 122:6–9 In Hbr, these verses use wordplay on the sounds of shalom ("salem," "peace"), which forms the last part of "Jerusalem."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 122:8 brothers and companions'. David sees the gathering of relatives among the 12 tribes. There is also a return to the pilgrimage idea of v 1, as the traveling companions going to Jerusalem come into view. Peace be within you! The travelers may have greeted one another with "Peace be to you," and now this greeting is extended to Jerusalem. Recall also Jesus' weeping over Jerusalem, wishing to gather it to Himself (Mt 23:37–39; Lk 13:34–35).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 122:9 your good. A wish for peace on Jerusalem, where God and His people meet. Cf Heb 12:22–24.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 122 Like David, we are welcomed to the Lord's house and can rejoice at the invitation. We are drawn to a heavenly Jerusalem (Heb 12:22). At the throne of Christ, the eternal Son of David, we find a place of peace (Rm 5:1; 8:1). • May God give us a place among all His people who walk by faith in Christ (Gal 6:16). Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 123 Lacks the travel imagery of Ps 121–22. Could describe pilgrims who act as servants, following God's direction to appear annually before Him. During the time of Ezra and Nehemiah, refugees returning to Jerusalem were esp mocked for their hope in the Lord and His plans (Ne 2:10, 19; 4:1–4).
Format: V v 1–2, looking to God; v v 3–4, appeal for mercy.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 123:2 as the eyes of servants … mistress. Servants watch their master's hand both for the good that comes and for the direction that puts them into action. our eyes … God. We watch God's hand for His good and direction (Ezr 7:6, 9, 28; 8:18, 22, 31). till He has mercy upon us.

Believers trust that God's mercy will come in its time, sent from His timeless grace. Cf Lk 18:1–8.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 123:3–4 for we have had more than enough of contempt. Tired, the psalmist looks for his Master to protect him. He is an attentive servant, but others mock him for his devotion to God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 123:3 Have mercy. See pp 842–43.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 123 Our eyes are to be upon God, both to receive His blessings and to do His bidding. We are servants of a merciful Lord. However, when our time of service is filled with contempt from others, we grow tired of waiting for God's justice. The Lord does indeed have mercy for us in Christ Jesus. • I do not despair, O Lord, but pray to the One who sees my service and my enemies. May Your reward and Your justice come. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 124 Ascription to David suggests a time of his own conflicts with Saul and the Philistines. Might also recall the struggles of the exodus and the entry into the Promised Land. If used by the pilgrims going up to Jerusalem, along with the other Psalms of Ascents (120–134), then it recalls all that God did in leading Israel to their land.

Format: V v 1–5, a threat to the Lord's people; v v 6–7, their escape; v 8, help in the Lord's name.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 124:1 let Israel now say. Likely said responsively. The lector could read v v 1–5; the response could be v v 6–8. Or, the cantor could have simply introduced the psalm with v 1 and the remainder could have been said by the people. The invitation for speech in v 1 and the repetition of the opening phrase in v 2 support this second option. now. Hbr expresses urgency.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 124:2 people rose up against us. Recalls the proud, contemptuous enemies of 123:4. From David's time on, Israel's enemies often outnumbered its people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 124:4–5 flood … torrent … raging waters. Imagery could refer to David's experiences with the Philistines or to the opposition he faced from Saul (18:4; 2Sm 5:20). Also, the psalm could refer to the crossing of the Red Sea by the Israelites.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 124:6 Blessed. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 124:7 snare of the fowlers. Imagery of earthbound people nearly drowned in the flood (v v 4–5) is followed by a comparison of people to birds caught in the subtlety of a snare. The flood's danger is open and frightening; the snare is hidden and tempting. But God delivers from both extremes.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 124:8 name. See p 843. God's providence "includes both God's creation and His watchful care" (Chem, LTh 1:166).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 124 We need this psalm's reminder that our strength and safety come only by God's hand. We are in danger from flood and snare, the overwhelming and the enticing. But God is faithful for His name's sake. He rescues us so that we will continue to bless and call on His name. • Lead us safely, Lord, so we may always give glory to Your name. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 125 Possibly written at the time of Nehemiah, following the exile. The mountains surrounding Jerusalem (v 2) are reminders of the lasting apportionment of the land and the promise that God will be gracious to the righteous.

Format: V v 1–3, security of Zion; v v 4–5, prayer for goodness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 125:1 Mount Zion. See p 844. The mountains and the city are immovable due to God's protection (cf 46; 48; 128:5; 132:13–17).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 125:2 mountains surround Jerusalem. The hills encompassing Jerusalem are like sentinels, reminders of God's watchfulness. See note, 121:1.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 125:3 scepter of wickedness. The scepter is the symbol of authority. The evil rule over Jerusalem, following the exile, will not continue forever. allotted. Allotment of the land (Jsh 18–19) was God's directive, which will displace the temporary reign of foreign kings.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 125:4 Do good, O LORD, to those who are good. God has promised to bless the upright and to turn against the evil (cf Ps 1). Although God needs no reminder, His people need to remember Him as the source of this goodness.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 125 God's blessing transforms us into mountains surrounding His dwelling place. We are built on His Word as an unchanging rock, and we become pillars by His grace. • Make us upright in heart, Lord, that we might be preserved before You. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 126 Likely written after the captives returned from the Babylonian exile. See note, v 1.

Format: V v 1–3, celebrating restoration; v v 4–6, reaping joy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 126:1 restored the fortunes of Zion. Restoration of the captives after the Babylonian exile may well be the setting for this psalm (cf Ezr, Ne). See p 1080. dream. Like dreaming sleepwalkers, who wake to find that the dream is true, the captives return to Jerusalem.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 126:4 like streams in the Negeb! Sudden storms turn dry riverbeds into flowing streams, causing flowers to appear. So God's mercy overflows to the people caught in the barren life of exile. Cf Is 41:17–20.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 126:6 Beginning of the exile was in tears, but the seeds sown then bring this joyful harvest as the captives return home. First comes struggle as they support one another in the midst of hardship, then comes relief. Aug: "What shall we sow? Good works. Works of mercy are our seeds…. [The farmer] looks to the sky, sees it lowering, shivers with cold, nevertheless goes forth, and sows … [not] awaiting sunshine" (NPNF 1 8:605).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 126 May God give us the expectation that times of sudden refreshing will come from Him. Perhaps now you are in a time of sowing with bitter tears; do not despair of His grace. Trust in His power to do the unimaginable through overflowing kindness. • By faith we rejoice, O Lord, in the sowing of Jesus' body on Good Friday and the harvest of blessings He prepared on Easter morn. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 127 Credited to Solomon; may well be read with his advice in Pr concerning the building of the home and the value of children. May refer to his building of the temple. Solomon was considered the master builder in Israel.

Format: V v 1–2, without the Lord, our labor is in vain; v v 3–5, the Lord blesses us with children.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 127:1 builds the house. Lit, "a house." Houses or households built apart from the blessing and foundation of God and His Word will stand only until the first storm. Cf Mt 7:24–27. watchman. The Lord is the only watchman who is always alert in His duty and is able to overwhelm all enemies. He is never surprised, nor does He ever call for help. Cf 121:3–8.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 127:2 He gives to His beloved sleep. Under His watchful care, His children can rest, committing their cares to His loving hand. Cf 1Pt 5:7.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 127:3 children are a heritage. Children filling a house (v 1) are God's continued blessing. reward. Children are God's inheritance given by grace. The ongoing family line continued to receive the inheritance of the land (Nu 27:8–11).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 127:4–5 In Bible times, the man with several sons was well defended. Though he aged, his youth lived on through his vigorous sons, who spoke for him against his enemies.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 127 Our houses and the families within them are God's gifts. However, our walls are fragile and our rooms are empty without His blessing. The Lord leads us to value His gifts and to commit them to His watchful care. He will preserve us unto life everlasting. • Fill our homes with devout children, our heritage from You. Give us this faith and help us build our homes and families on the security of Your Word. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 128 Likely a pilgrim song, recited by the travelers in the company of their families as the mountains of Jerusalem come into view.

Format: V v 1–2, blessed are those who fear the Lord; v v 3–4, a family that fears the Lord is blessed; v v 5–6, blessings from Zion.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 128:1 fears the LORD. See p 842. His ways! See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 128:2 blessed … well. As the psalm begins with blessing, so this first pair of verses ends with an assurance of blessing. See p 842. Rabbis associated "blessed" with this life and "well" with the life to come.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 128:3 within your house. Hbr refers to the most private chamber, reserved for marital relations. The blessings of a wife and children are compared to the most important fruit-bearing plants, which fill the house with life. Cf 127:4. table. Ancient tables commonly stood no more than a foot above the floor, where families sat or reclined on cushions during meals.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 128:4 fears the LORD. The blessing of the fear of the Lord, which began the psalm, returns here. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 128:5–6 May you see the prosperity … your children's children! The extent of the blessings promised in v v 1 and 4 is to be seen both within the house and family of the one blessed and in the larger setting of Jerusalem, God's dwelling place.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 128:5 Zion. See p 844.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 128 May God grant us the blessings of a life lived under the fear and respect of God. May we see our families as the kindness of God. In our relationships with our children and our grandchildren, God shows His power and mercy. • O Lord, open our eyes to appreciate Your gifts and praise You for their richness. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 129 Likely written after the Babylonian exile, though any time of oppression against Israel is possible. Some measure of God's protection and justice has already been seen (v v 2–4), but a more complete judgment is still looked for (v v 5–8).

Format: V 1, lifelong affliction; v v 2–3, affliction continues; v v 4–8, the Lord's judgment.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 129:1 they. This psalm gives the Israelites a single voice. Their oppressors could be any nation from Assyria on through Babylon. let Israel now say. See note, 124:1.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 129:3 Image is more severe even than that of a whip scourging someone's back. Like a plow's furrows, the cuts made upon Israel are deep and long.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 129:4 cut the cords. The Lord cuts the harness of the oxen pulling the scourging plow of v 3. Israel's oppression is stopped.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 129:5 all who hate Zion. Enemies of Israel, but perhaps esp the Babylonians, who destroyed Jerusalem in the sixth century BC. turned backward! Turned back to their own land.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 129:6 grass on the housetops. The wicked are like worthless grass, without grain, growing thinly on the meager soil of a rooftop. Cf 1:4; Is 40:6–8.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 129:8 Although pilgrims say this blessing to one another, let no such kindness come onto those who hate Zion and have spurned the Lord's name. The psalmist leads the people in a prayer that the Lord would deliver them from evil.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 129 We may feel some part of the afflictions of this psalm. Yet, the afflictions shall not prevail! The blessings of the Lord are with us through Christ. • Lord, show Your power and justice over our enemies. Lead us to call on Your name and receive the blessings that come from You. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 130 Sixth of the seven penitential psalms (cf Ps 6; 32; 38; 51; 102; 143). Because of its eloquent expression of desperate sorrow, the Church has often used it in the funeral liturgy. When Luther was asked what were the best psalms of all, he cited Ps 130—along with 32, 51, and 143—calling them the "Pauline Psalms." For Luther, these are like Paul's Epistles in setting forth the realities of human sin, God's grace, and Christ's redemption.

Format: V v 1–2, appeal to the Lord; v v 3–4, forgiveness; v v 5–6, waiting on the Lord; v v 7–8, appeal to Israel.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 130:1 the depths. We speak of "depression" or "being down," spatial metaphors that express the feeling of emotional desolation. The Hbr here is even more graphic, referring to deep waters, to the sense of being overwhelmed and sinking into the depths of the sea.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 130:2 hear my voice! Even from the depths of suffering, God hears our cries and is "attentive" to our "pleas for mercy."

PSALMS—NOTE ON 130:3 mark iniquities. Remembering, preserving, and recording our sins for future punishment. Imagery is of writing down our offenses as a legal record. The speaker is in the depths of guilt. "Here [the psalmist] confesses his sins and does not list his merits…. He comforts himself by his trust in God's mercy" (Ap IV 58).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 130:4 Knowing God's forgiveness increases our sense of awe before Him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 130:5 wait. Luth: "Those who wait for the Lord ask … for mercy; but they leave it to God's gracious will when, how, where, and by what means He helps them" (AE 14:192). "Because You have promised the forgiveness of sins, I am sustained by Your promise" (Ap IV 58).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 130:6 watchmen. Guards who watch over the city. for the morning. The soul waits in darkness, anticipating the dawning of God's light. The repetition emphasizes the sense of yearning and protracted waiting.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 130:7 steadfast love. See p 843. plentiful redemption. See "redeem," p 843. Luth: "Although our sin is great, yet His redemption is greater" (AE 14:194). See SA III III 8.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 130 The psalmist is in a state of emotional desolation, overwhelmed with misery and guilt. Yet, as he realizes God hears his pleas and grants him full forgiveness, his darkness slowly gives way to light and the hope of "plentiful redemption" (v 7). If we are honest with ourselves, we must admit the depths of our sinfulness. When we are overwhelmed, God hears our pleas for mercy. He does not remember our sins, but rather grants us free forgiveness through the work of Christ, who gives us hope. Christ plunges into our depths to raise us in salvation. • O Lord, in our happy times we often forget You, but in our suffering we turn to You, and in our weakness we find Your strength. Speak to us the word of Your promise. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 131 Because Ps 132 refers to David's triumphant entry with the ark of the covenant, some scholars relate this song of David to his expression of humility in 2Sm 6:20–22.

Format: V v 1–2, humility and quietness; v 3, hope in the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 131:1 not lifted up. He does not exalt himself. He has given up on pride. things too great. The human mind is small and limited, a vessel too small to take in the mysteries of life or to understand the workings of the infinite God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 131:2 like a weaned child. Not a nursing baby, whose fretting and crying are only stilled by the mother's milk, but a weaned child (see note, Gn 21:8), who is content simply to be with its mother. Likewise, the soul is calmed and quieted simply by being in the Lord's presence.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 131:3 hope in the LORD. The individual's childlike humility and trust is applied to God's people. The Church must always remain humble and rest in Christ, the ground of its hope.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 131 Before God and the mysteries of existence, we are like little children. And like little children, we can find solace in God's love for us in Jesus Christ, who likewise became a little child on our behalf. While some believe that a child cannot have faith, Christ points to children as models for faith. • Give us the faith of children, Lord. Calm us and quiet us by Your presence in Word and Sacrament. In the name of the Christ Child. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 132 Remembers how David brought the ark of the covenant into Jerusalem (2Sm 6–7). Likely written by Solomon to underscore the significance of his bringing the ark out of the tabernacle and into the new temple he had built (2Ch 5; cf 2Ch 6:41, when Solomon uses v v 8–11). The psalm is also a meditation on God's promises to David and his descendants.

Format: V v 1–5, a place for the Lord; v v 6–7, a place found; v v 8–10, procession with the ark; v v 11–12, David's throne; v v 13–18, Zion chosen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:1 in David's favor. See Ps 132 intro.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:2 swore … vowed. Interplay between what David swore to God and what God swore to David. See "oath," p 7.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:3–5 Psalm is about David's vow to the Lord, but it is not specifically ascribed to David, as he is referred to in past tense (v 1). See Ps 132 intro.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:5 dwelling place. God was specially present above the mercy seat of the ark of the covenant (Ex 25:17–22). In bringing the ark and the sacrificial service of the tabernacle to Jerusalem, David understood that the Lord would dwell with His people. See p 495.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:6 we. The Israelites, who heard about the ark of the covenant, came from far and near to witness its installation in Jerusalem and to worship where God dwells. Ephrathah. Bethlehem, where both David and Jesus were born. fields of Jaar. Kiriath-jearim (cf 1Sm 6:21). The ark of the covenant had been kept here before David brought it to Jerusalem.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:7 dwelling place. The tabernacle. His footstool! The ark, as the point of contact between heaven and earth (cf Is 66:1).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:8 ark of Your might. Where God is present in His holiness is a place of power, as poor Uzzah discovered (2Sm 6:5–8).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:9 clothed with righteousness. See p 843. Imagery is often used in Scripture (e.g., Gn 3:21; Jb 29:14; Eph 6:14; Rv 7:13–14) and is reflected in the white garments of the priests (Ex 28:39). saints. See p 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:10 anointed one. A king was installed by being anointed with oil (e.g., 1Sm 10:1; 2Sm 2:4; 5:3; 2Ki 9:3). Christ means "the Anointed One." The anointed kings in David's line point forward to their descendant Jesus, who was anointed by the Holy Spirit to be Savior and King. He will not turn away His face from those who call on Him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:11 The LORD swore. God's promise to David is given in 2Sm 7:12. sons of your body. Not just the establishment of David's lineage as the true kings of Israel, but a prophecy of the "one" who will hold the throne "forever"; i.e., Christ.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:12 keep My covenant. A treaty, usually between a greater king and a lesser, establishing the terms of the relationship. Many kings in David's dynasty fell away from God. Jesus, the Son of David, fulfilled all of God's Law on our behalf, thus establishing this promise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:13 Zion. See p 844.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:15 God will "abundantly" provide for Jerusalem's physical needs, and the temple will supply spiritual nourishment. Looks forward to the Church and the "bread" of the Sacrament.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:16 clothe with salvation. Parallels v 9, making it clear that righteousness comes only from salvation, both of which must be "put on" (Eph 4:22–24; Col 3:10–14), as we are robed in Christ. saints. The blessing goes from David, to the priests, to all the people. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:17 horn. See p 842. David will have a descendant of unusually great power (cf Lk 1:69). a lamp for My anointed. Cf 119:105.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 132:18 clothe with shame. Ironic parallel to v v 9, 16; God's enemies are clothed not with righteousness and salvation but with the shame of their own guilt. crown. Diadem, a thin gold circlet.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 132 One of David's sons, the Anointed One, will be enthroned forever. He will clothe His people with righteousness and salvation. This psalm curses the enemies of God's Anointed, and He will "clothe [them] with shame" (v 18). Our sins would make us God's enemies. And yet, God dwells with us and clothes us with His righteousness and salvation. In David's Son, Jesus Christ, the incarnate God tabernacles with His people. He is still actually present in His Church through His Word and Sacraments. God swore an oath to work this salvation, and, like David, we can trust His promises. • O, Lord, we praise You for dwelling with us. Clothe us with the righteousness and salvation of Your Anointed One, Jesus Christ, our King. In His name. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 133 All of the Israelites would come from far and near to Mount Zion to offer their sacrifices (Dt 12). The psalm celebrates the unity the people felt with one another as they gathered to worship the one God and to receive His blessings.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 133:1 brothers dwell in unity! References to the Levitical priesthood (v 2) and to Zion, the site of the sacrificial worship in the tabernacle and then the temple (v 3), indicate that the emphasis is on religious unity. Agreement in spirit, doctrine, and practice is objectively "good" to achieve and inwardly "pleasant" to experience.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 133:2 oil. Pressed from olives and used medicinally to eliminate or prevent lice and soothe the skin (as we would use lotion). Anointing was probably associated with mutual care and a kindness extended to visitors at one's home. running down. Vivid description of what it felt like to be anointed by oil, here referring specifically to Aaron and thus to the ordination of priests (Ex 30:22–33). As the priest felt the oil pouring over him in the presence of the congregation, he must have felt a great sense of unity with the people he was ordained to represent.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 133:3 dew of Hermon … Zion! Mount Hermon is a tall, snow-covered mountain at the northern-most border of the Promised Land, part of the range that is the source of the Jordan River. Moisture comes from those mountains to fall on the dry land of Israel. The imagery of dew falling on the mountains of Jerusalem is one of refreshing moisture falling on dry ground. Such is the blessing of spiritual unity. the blessing, life forevermore. From Jerusalem comes the promise of everlasting salvation, symbolized on the temple mount but fulfilled on that other mountain of Zion—Calvary, where Christ was crucified.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 133 Living in unity is as soothing as being anointed with oil, as refreshing as dew from the mountains on a parched desert. Descriptions of the goodness and pleasure of unity and brotherhood remind us that we often experience discord, strife, and disunity instead. This is true of our families, our communities, and our churches. Yet Christ's prayer is "that they may be one, even as We are one" (Jn 17:11). He bestows that unity through the Holy Spirit in the refreshing waters of Baptism. • We praise You, Lord, for the unity we have through You with all our fellow Christians. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 134 Last and shortest of the Psalms of Ascents.

Format: V v 1–2, possibly recited as a call at the changing of the night watch in the temple; v 3, response.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 134:1 bless the LORD. See p 842. servants. General reference to God's "servants" is made specific in the parallel line, referring to the priests and Levites who guard the temple during the night. stand by night. The night watch, during which time the priests on duty, carrying torches, would make things ready for the ministry of the coming day.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 134:2 Lift up your hands. Gesture of prayer and supplication. See note, 119:48; see also p 1276. holy place. The first chamber of the tabernacle or temple, where the altar of incense and the table for the bread of the Presence were kept. The gesture of the worshipers directs their praise toward God, enthroned in His temple.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 134:3 bless you from Zion. "You" is singular. Liturgical blessing. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 134 The priests on duty at the temple during the night are urged to bless the Lord, and yet the Lord blesses us. The night is an emblem of darkness and sorrow. Yet Christ is present in the darkness. He gives His blessing from the sacrificial mountain in Jerusalem by the continual ministry of the Church through Word and Sacrament. • We bless You, Lord, even in the darkness. And You bless us through Your Son, who went into the darkness of death to bring us into His light. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 135 Evidently sung as a celebration in the temple by the whole worshiping community.

Format: V v 1–4, opening praise; v v 5–7, God's greatness in creation; v v 8–12, the exodus and conquest; v v 13–14, the Lord's renown; v v 15–18, worthless idols; v v 19–21, Israel blesses the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:1 servants. Refers to priests and Levites standing at their posts and to the whole worshiping community present in the temple courts.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:2 house of the LORD … courts. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:3 for it is pleasant! May refer to God's name or to the pleasure of singing His praises.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:4 chosen Jacob. The patriarch, his descendants, and, by extension, those who share his faith (Heb 11). possession. God's people belong to Him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:6 Vivid statement of God's omnipotence, which makes Him incomparably greater than everything. His power is limitless, contingent only upon His will.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:7 makes the clouds rise. The power of the storm is His creation. storehouses. The metaphor refers to the potentialities of God's power, the source of all the impulses of nature.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:8–12 God's greatness lies not only in His acts of creation but also in His acts of redemption, as He intervenes in history to deliver His people and fulfill His promises. Cf Ex 7–15; Nu 21:21–35; Dt 4:38.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:12 heritage. See "portion," p 7.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:14 vindicate His people. God's judgment will be in their favor, due to His grace and mercy.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:15–18 The true God is contrasted with the false gods manufactured by human beings. Those who worship idols come to share their lack of sense and reason. See note, 115:4–8.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:19–20 house of Israel … house of Aaron … house of Levi. Each group in the temple—the congregation, the priests, the worship assistants—is urged to unite in the praise of God.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:19 bless the LORD! See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:20 fear the LORD. See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 135:21 dwells in Jerusalem! God is truly present in the temple.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 135 God's almighty power is evident in His creation and in His acts of redemption. The true God is contrasted with the man-made deities of false religions. When we know God only through His creation—the lightning and the storm—He can be terrifying. And in His dealings with human beings, He punishes sin, as He did with Pharaoh, the Canaanite kings, and worshipers of false gods. Yet God has compassion on His people, those whom He has chosen and claims as His own. The true God was incarnate in Jesus Christ as true man, one with us. In Baptism, He makes us His possession. • O Lord, we praise You for redeeming us and all Your people throughout history. May pastors, teachers, musicians, choirs, and the whole congregation bless You for Your presence in Your Church. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 136 The Lord's steadfast love endures.

Format: V v 1–3, the God of gods; v v 4–9, wonders of creation; v v 10–16, wonders of the exodus; v v 17–22, wonders of the conquest; v v 23–25, God's loving care; v 26, closing. The psalm's refrain suggests that it was used liturgically in the temple, with a solo voice recounting God's works in the first half of the verse and the whole community responding with the recognition of His mercy in the second half. Simple oral responses were probably common, since many participants could not read written responses. See pp 1081–83.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:1–3 Note the threefold naming of the Lord. See notes, Nu 6:22–27.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:1 Give thanks. The community is exhorted to give thankful praise to God for His goodness in Himself and as expressed in His works of creation and redemption detailed in this psalm. steadfast love. See p 843. The refrain, repeated in every verse, emphasizes God's grace that is manifest with all of His works.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:2 God of gods. The true God is above all the deities of false religions.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:3 Lord of lords. The true God is above all other authorities.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:4–9 Praises the goodness and steadfast love of God as expressed in His creation.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:10–16 Describes God's work of redemption in delivering His people from slavery in Egypt.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:17–22 Describes God's work of redemption in giving His people the Promised Land in their conquest of Canaan.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:23 low estate. When God's people were slaves in Egypt. By extension, this also describes our fallen, sinful condition.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:23–26 Describes God's works of redemption in His people's lives during their slavery, the exodus, the conquest, and today.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 136:26 God of heaven. Transcending everything mundane. Comprehensive listing of God's works and mercies culminates with His rule in heaven, where all His saints will enjoy His steadfast love forever.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 136 This great psalm of thanksgiving praises God for His acts of creation and redemption, both in history and in the lives of His people. Every detail, at every stage, is a sign of God's steadfast love, which, throughout human history, endures forever. The psalm is all about God's action, not ours. • O, Lord, we thank You that as we live our lives, with all the highs and lows, joys and trials, Your steadfast love is there for us at every moment; it endures forever. Through Christ, our redemption. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 137 Imprecatory psalm; see p 879. Generation after generation, God's unfaithful people practiced idolatry. They refused to heed the warnings of God's prophets, choosing instead to conform to the dominant cultures of the pagan world, including infant sacrifice. At last, God's people experienced His judgment. In the Babylonian captivity, God's people mourned for their sin and its consequences. They learned to cling to God's promises of deliverance in His Word as delivered by the prophets.

Format: V v 1–3, captive in Babylon; v v 4–6, remember Jerusalem; v v 7–9, vengeance on Edom and Babylon.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:1 waters of Babylon. The exiles, who either live by the rivers and canals of Babylon or gather there to mourn, are weeping at the memories of what they have lost.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:2 hung up our lyres. In no mood to sing, the exiles hung their musical instruments in the trees beside the water. lyres. See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:3 captors … required of us songs. Babylonian victors mock the exiles, forcing them to sing the joyous songs of the temple —such as the preceding psalms—while they are in abject defeat.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:4 LORD's song. Answer to captors' requests in v 3. How can the people sing the songs of the temple worship in Jerusalem when both the temple and Jerusalem have been destroyed?

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:5 Though Jerusalem is gone, its people can, at least, remember all that it meant. right hand forget its skill! Unable to play the lyre, which was used for healing troubled spirits (cf 1Sm 16:23).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:6 tongue stick. Let my mouth be unable to sing.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:7 Edomites. Judah's neighbors and kinsmen, the people of Edom, went over to the Babylonian side and rejoiced in the destruction of Jerusalem (cf Ob). day of Jerusalem. When the holy city was destroyed.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:8–9 Blessed. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:8 doomed. God had promised to bring judgment on the tormentors, the mighty empire of Babylon (Is 13; 47). blessed shall he be who repays you. What the Babylonians did to the people of Jerusalem, including the killing of children, will be done to Babylon (Is 47:6–9). The text is not clear whether "he" refers to God or to a nation He chooses to administer judgment.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 137:9 Bitter passage is a horrific expression of the psalmist's craving for unrepentant Babylon to be utterly annihilated, with no new generation possible to restore its power. That the conquering Medes would do this to Babylonian infants is specifically prophesied in Is 13:16. See p 879.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 137 By abandoning God for false religions and the evil ways of the surrounding cultures, the people lost everything. Now, in their exile, they appreciate what they threw away. We, too, are exiles in the new Babylon—the world system with its abominations and its beast (Rv 18)—and must endure its temptations and tribulations. We, too, know that sin brings regret, grief, self-loathing, and bitterness. (Such emotions are signs of repentance.) Yet we can also look for our deliverance, clinging to God's promises of redemption delivered by one wholly innocent, Jesus, God's own Child. • O Lord, as we, too, are exiles in this ungodly world, teach us to mourn for our sins. Give us the gift of repentance, so that we may escape the judgment we deserve. Deliver us from our captivity to sin, through Your Son, Jesus Christ. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 138 A psalm of David, who exults in how God delivered him from one of the many crises he endured.

Format: V v 1–3, calling on the Lord; v v 4–6, kings shall call on the Lord; v v 7–8, the Lord preserves us.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 138:1 gods. Hbr 'elohim; could refer to angelic hosts (see note, 8:5) or the deities of the surrounding nations.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 138:2 bow down. Wherever they were, ancient Israelites faced in the direction of the temple in Jerusalem to pray. Cf Dn 6:10. steadfast love and Your faithfulness. See p 843. exalted … Your name and Your word. In keeping His word of promise, God exceeded previous deeds done in His name (Ex 33:18–34:9).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 138:3 answered. God answered David's prayer and gave him inner strength to deal with his trials. God promises the same for us.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 138:4 kings of the earth. God, who is above all earthly authorities, will make Himself known to all nations and their rulers. This is a prophecy of the conversion of the Gentiles. At the last judgment, everyone will acknowledge the Lord. Cf Php 2:9–11; Rv 21:24. heard the words. God's Word preached by the prophets and written in Scripture.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 138:5 sing of the ways. All kings will join in the worship and praise of God. glory. God's dealings with us demonstrate His immeasurable exaltation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 138:6 the lowly. God attends those who approach Him in a spirit of repentance and humility. This is true even of the kings of the earth. knows from afar. The arrogant can only know God at a distance. They have separated themselves far from God's mercy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 138:7 right hand delivers. See pp 843, 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 138:8 The Lord will fulfill His purpose for me. Just as God has kept His promises in the past, so He will never forsake us and will bring His plans for us to fruition. work of Your hands. We are God's creation.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 138 God's name and Word are above everything, including all of the claims of the false gods. He cares for His children, the work of His hands, and His hands will protect them and bring His plans for them to completion. God's hand is against His enemies. David's victories prefigure the victories of David's Son, Jesus Christ, and the victories of those who have been baptized into Him. Salvation is not only for David or for the Israelites but for all nations who will come to faith through God's Word. • O Lord, we thank You that in Your Word You extend to us such great promises. Grant us full assurance of Your grace, protection, and spiritual care. Fulfill Your purpose in our lives through Jesus Christ. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 139 Though the notation "to the choirmaster" suggests a use in public worship, this psalm of David is deeply personal and contemplative.

Format: V v 1–6, the Lord knows His people; v v 7–12, the Lord is everywhere present; v v 13–16, the Lord created every person; v v 17–18, God's thoughts are vast; v v 19–22, the Lord's enemies; v v 23–24, the Lord leads.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:1 searched me and known me! God is omniscient; i.e., He knows everything. This includes knowing us—our actions, our thoughts, even our future—with perfect intimacy.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:5 hem me in. God surrounds us. We cannot escape Him. lay Your hand. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:7 Spirit? Chem: "Lest anyone argue that the Holy Spirit is called God and Lord in only a metaphorical sense, we should examine also the passages which attribute to the Holy Spirit those qualities which belong only to the true God, such as the work of creation and preservation of all things" (LTh 1:139). presence? God is omnipresent. Wherever we go, God is there.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:8 Sheol. See p 792. God's presence spans the greatest polarities, from the highest skies to the depths of the earth, from heaven to hell.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:9 wings of the morning. Pictures the sun's rays coming up over the horizon. Similar poetic language describes other poles of God's presence, from the horizon to the depths of the sea, from light to darkness (v 11).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:10 right hand. God is not only present but also providentially cares for and directs us. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:11 light about me be night. God sees through darkness as if it were light.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:13 inward parts. Our very bodies, with their inner organs and biological complexity, as we developed in the womb, are the work of God. knitted. Connotes plaiting and interweaving, as with muscles, nerves, and veins. The human body is described as an artistically designed network. See p 983.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:14 "God created the body and soul of Adam and Eve before the fall. But He also created our bodies and souls after the fall. Even though they are corrupt, God still acknowledges them as His work" (FC Ep I 4).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:15 My frame. The skeleton and, by extension, the state of being. woven in the depths of the earth. This metaphor for the womb recalls that God shaped us as He shaped Adam, and that we, too, are dust and to dust we will return (Gn 3:19).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:16 unformed substance. An embryo. Your book. Some have seen a parallel with the way the genetic "language" encoded in DNA directs the development of the child in the womb. More broadly, God has written out the course of our days, from our conception to our death. written. "All things, whether they are past or future, are clear and present before God" (FC SD XI 4).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:17 thoughts. The mind of God is unfathomable, but the psalmist cherishes being able to contemplate God's wisdom in creation and revelation. sum. Hbr ro'sh, "head," "top," "chief."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:18 I awake, and I am still with You. Imagery is of someone counting God's thoughts, which are more numerous than the grains of sand, until falling asleep. Upon awakening, the person is still contemplating God's thoughts and enjoying His presence. The Hbr for "to awake" and "come to an end" are similar, so wordplay may be intended.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:19 wicked. Though God is wise, loving, and good, many people hate Him, blaspheme His name, and rebel against Him.

men of blood. People who cause others to shed blood, destroying the lives of those God has so lovingly made! See p 879.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:21 May refer to the oaths used in covenants, forming allegiance between parties. To love righteousness is to hate unrighteousness. To love God is to hate whatever opposes Him. See note, 5:5.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:22 complete hatred. God hates sin; the psalmist shares that complete abhorrence.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:23 Search me. Psalmist applies God's stringent standards to himself. Returning to the theme of v 1, he asks God to extend His omniscience to his inner life, to search out the traces of sin in his life, so that God's presence might lead him to everlasting life.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 139:24 grievous way. That which causes the pain and misery that is punishment for sin.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 139 A meditation on God's attributes: His omniscience, His omnipresence, His omnipotence, and His holiness. The psalmist's wonder segues into anger at those who hate God and destroy His gift of life. That God knows our every thought, word, and deed can be terrifying to a sinner. This psalm also gives a clear answer to today's controversy about the value of human life and when life begins, clearly condemning abortion and other assaults on developing children. And yet, this psalm, above all, proclaims God's love, which He expresses in His personal care and involvement in all of His creation. God's knowledge, power, and presence were manifest most fully when He Himself assumed our substance, with a human body knit together in the womb of the Virgin Mary, and grew up to bear in that body God's hatred of sin at the cross. • O Lord, thank You for knowing us so completely! Confound the abortionists, the "men of blood" (v 19) and others who would abuse and harm the bodies You have made. Lead us to agree with Your judgment against sin, especially with the sin in our own lives. Cleanse us with Christ's blood, born of the Virgin Mary, who is present for our salvation in His Word and Sacraments. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 140 Imprecatory psalm; see p 879. David was the target of the plots and slanders of "evil men" throughout his life. King Saul tried to kill him (1Sm 19). David's own son Absalom usurped his throne (2Sm 15). Shimei cursed him (2Sm 16:5–13). Sheba persuaded his subjects to reject his kingship (2Sm 20).

Format: V v 1–3, violent men; v v 4–5, guard and preserve; v v 6–8, the Lord saves; v v 9–11, prayer against the violent men; v v 12–13, the Lord's care.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 140:1 evil men. "Enemies" referred to in the Psalms often signify our spiritual enemies, namely, Satan and his devils. But here, they are clearly evil "men." Believers can expect opposition, slander, and even physical assault from other people in this sinful world (Jn 15:20).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 140:3 tongue sharp. Words of evil people sting. venom of asps. Their words are poisonous.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 140:5 Evil, arrogant people lay traps, such as the nets and snares designed to catch animals.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 140:7 O LORD, my Lord. Expression of true personal faith. covered my head. Metaphor is of a helmet, protecting one from a deadly blow. See "helmet of salvation" (Is 59:17; Eph 6:17).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 140:9 head. God protects the psalmist's head (v 7), but the head of his enemies will be subject to God's judgment.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 140:10 into fire, into miry pits. Judgment is expressed in terms of both fire and water, perils that cannot be escaped. Raining fire from the heavens and being swallowed up by the earth are common images of judgment in Scripture (Gn 19:24; Ex 9:23; 15:12; Nu 16:28–32).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 140:12–13 Expresses assurance that God indeed has intervened, both for Himself and for those in need.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 140:13 dwell in Your presence. See p 843; cf Jn 14:2–3.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 140 God's judgment is harsh against those who use their words to harm others—through lies, gossip, slander, or other "poisonous" speech—as well as those who harm others through violence or subtle traps. God is on the side of the poor, the weak, and the oppressed. Those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake are blessed with the kingdom of heaven (Mt 5:10–11). They are bearing the cross, in that Jesus too—the Son of David prefigured in this psalm—endured the vicious words and violent actions of "evil men" (v 1; Mt 26:57–68; 27:32–44). In Christ, we receive our vindication, our forgiveness, and assurance. • O Lord, protect us from "evil men." Protect us, too, from being evil ourselves—forgive us for hurting other people through our words or deeds. We turn to Christ, who was despised and afflicted, for our refuge and healing. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 141 May reflect the time when David, driven out of Jerusalem by his son Absalom, could not worship on Mount Zion, where sacrifices were held. Yet, he associates his prayers with the evening service, with its incense and sacrifices (v 2).

Format: V v 1–2, O Lord, listen; v v 3–4, guard me from wickedness; v v 5–7, contrast between the righteous and the wicked; v v 8–10, God, the refuge.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 141:2 as incense. Clouds of fragrant incense rise to the heavens, signifying prayers pleasing to God. lifting up of my hands. A posture of prayer. See p 1276. evening sacrifice! Incense was mixed with the grain that was burned as part of the final sacrifice of the day (Lv 2:1–11). The external details of worship are related to personal prayers of the worshiper.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 141:3–4 mouth … heart. The mouth reveals what is in the heart (cf Mt 15:18–19; Rm 10:8–10; Ps 19:14; 49:3).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 141:3 Asks God to prevent bad speech from coming out of his mouth, like a guard regulating who passes through a door.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 141:4 men who work iniquity. Psalmist prays for delivery from the temptations that come from keeping company with people engaged in sin. delicacies! Sensual pleasures that sin can offer.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 141:5 righteous man. See p 843. Better to be chastised by a good person than praised by a bad one. strike me. Even severe admonitions from a fellow believer should be welcomed because they help keep us from sin. oil for my head. The rebuke is soothing, healing, an anointing that contributes to sanctification. See note, 133:2.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 141:6 When authorities who govern evil people are overthrown—casting off a cliff being an ancient means of execution, sometimes called "stoning" (cf Ac 4:29)—they will appreciate what the psalmist is saying.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 141:7 In physical death, our bones are scattered above the realm of the dead. But our death and burial are like plowing a field in preparation for the new life to rise from the earth (1Co 15:42–44). Sheol. See p 792.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 141:9–10 snares … nets. May evildoers fall into their own traps, while the righteous escape from them.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 141 Sinners will fall into the traps they have made for themselves and will ultimately be cast down. God, through the Office of the Ministry and other authorities, rebukes us for our sins. These are all to bring us to repentance. The "evening sacrifice" (v 2) of Christ's final atonement for sin makes our prayers acceptable before God. In Him, we will "pass by" (v 10) the snares and punishments of the wicked, and He will be our refuge. • O Lord, keep me from sinning! Guard my mouth, lest I say something I should not. Keep me away from people who would lead me into sin. Make me open to correction and utterly dependent on Your grace in Christ. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 142 When David was pursued by King Saul, he hid in a cave, both in Adullam (1Sm 22:1–2) and at Engedi (1Sm 24). A sense of imprisonment, of being buried, of being in the depths—both literally and emotionally—provoked fervent and honest prayer. Since his persecutors were too strong for him, David could only depend on God, who indeed did deliver and exalt him.

Format: V v 1–2, David's cry to the Lord; v v 3–4, there is no refuge; v v 5–7, the Lord is the refuge.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 142:2 complaint … trouble. David is praying out loud, giving voice to his inward distress, pouring out his emotions before God.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 142:3 spirit faints. David is utterly exhausted, worn down to his lowest point. they. His persecutors.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 142:5 my portion. See p 7. Here, the earthly inheritance is spiritualized to encompass "the land of the living"—i.e., life itself—in which God is our true inheritance.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 142:6 persecutors. David's enemies—such as Saul and his forces, from whom he is hiding in the cave—have the upper hand; he cannot save himself with his own strength.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 142:7 prison. Most likely the cave to which David has fled. Some think this could apply to an actual prison, where David is confined unjustly. Or, by extension, it could be a symbol of inescapable trouble. righteous. David is not completely alone, as it had seemed. Rather, he is part of a community of faith who await his deliverance. bountifully. See note, 119:17.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 142 David prays to the Lord, pouring out his complaints and troubles. God restores him to the fellowship of faith. We often find ourselves in a "prison" of our own making. Our sins isolate us from others. We are shut out of the community of the righteous. These words of David are even more true of David's Son, Jesus Christ. He, more than anyone, was persecuted, deserted, imprisoned, and tormented. At His burial, He was imprisoned in a cave. But His Father raised Him from the dead to live in the company of those made righteous through His blood. • Heavenly Father, when I have no one to turn to, help me realize that I can turn to You. Be my defender, my refuge, my portion in Christ. Bring me out of my prison and into the company of Your Church, now on earth and in eternity. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 143 Original context of this penitential psalm (cf Ps 6; 32; 38; 51; 102; 130) is thought to be David's desolation after being driven from his throne by his son Absalom. The last of the seven penitential psalms, it has historically been used in the Church during Lent. See Ps 130 intro. Luth: "Every psalm, all Scripture, calls to grace, extols grace, searches for Christ, and praises only God's work, while rejecting all the works of man…. The life of a saint is more a taking from God than a giving; more a desiring than a having; more a becoming pious than a being pious…. Not on account of the work I do, but on account of the faith Thou givest me" (AE 14:196).

Format: V v 1–2, call for the Lord's righteous answer; v v 3–4, crushed by the enemy; v v 5–6, meditation on God's works; v v 7–8, call for the Lord to answer quickly; v v 9–10, asking for the Lord to lead; v v 11–12, the Lord's servant.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:1 faithfulness … righteousness! Not our faithfulness and righteousness, observes Luther, but God's, which He bestows on us (AE 14:196). See pp 842, 843.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:2 no one living is righteous before You. The accused usually protest their innocence and ask for justice, but here the psalmist admits that he cannot stand before God's judgment. "This passage denies absolutely—even to all saints and servants of God—the glory of righteousness, if God does not forgive, but judges and convicts their hearts" (Ap V 205).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:3 enemy. Psalmist's persecutor, and so, by extension, the enemy of the "soul," namely, Satan.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:4 spirit faints. Psalmist is at such a low point, his inmost life is fading.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:5 days of old. Psalmist remembers the past, when it was evident that God was with him, including God's great redemptive acts in the history of His people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:6 stretch out my hands. Gesture of prayer turns into a reaching, a sign of thirst and longing. See p 1277.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:7 spirit fails! Luth: "The disconsolate soul which finds nothing in itself is God's most cherished sacrifice, especially when it cries for His grace" (AE 14:200). Hide. Someone who is hiding is present but not seen. The psalmist pleads with God not to hide His face in anger against his sin. See note, Is 45:15. the pit. Pointing to condemnation in Sheol. See p 792.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:8 steadfast love. See p 843. Luth: "Thus God speaks peace to the hearts of His people, and He does this 'early,' that is, speedily" (AE 14:201). lift up my soul. Luth: "A man can say to his God: 'Behold, take my heart, and lead me according to Thy will. I surrender myself wholly to Thee'" (AE 14:202).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:9 enemies. Now plural; cf v 3. Luth: "The enemies of the righteous are trying only to mislead them and clutch them to themselves, into their way of life" (AE 14:22).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:10 lead me. Chem: "[The Spirit] directs and governs our course, so that we do not stumble or go astray … just as a horseman guides his horse" (LTh 1:246). level ground! Easy, pleasant way.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:11 For Your name's sake. That God's name be honored, as opposed to "the self-righteous [who] honor their own names" (Luth, AE 14:203). See p 842.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 143:12 steadfast love. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 143 The psalmist pleads for God's mercy, admitting that neither he nor anyone else can stand before God's judgment. He trusts in God's righteousness and in His name, not his own. This penitential psalm is a profound description of a repentant heart, which receives God's grace. The psalmist, giving up on himself, trusts in God's "steadfast love" (v 8). • O Lord, I confess that I am sinful and unclean. By Your steadfast love, take away from me every shred of pride and self-righteousness. Trusting in Your grace, I come before You not in my own righteousness, but clothed in Jesus' righteousness. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 144 Joyful song of victory by King David—who mentions his own name in v 10—after defeating enemies in battle.

Format: V v 1–2, the Lord as trainer for war; v v 3–4, the people are like a breath; v v 5–8, call for the Lord to come down; v v 9–11, song for victory; v v 12–15, blessings.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:1 Blessed. See p 842. my rock. See p 843. for war. God is the source of the abilities we exercise in our various callings. God has achieved the victory by means of the warrior-king.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:3–4 Despite his victory, the king feels his insignificance, marveling at God's gracious regard for a mere human being, whose life is short and insubstantial. Cf Heb 2:6–8, which ties "the son of man" to Christ. Bern: "Because he has a foretaste of Your love he does not blush to make return of love. Now in Your brightness it becomes clear, Oh! Light … [the psalmist] loves not undeservedly, because he was loved without deserving it; and his love is for everlasting, because he knows that he has been loved from everlasting" (SLSB, p 155).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:5 Bow Your heavens. The king prays for a theophany (see p 39), that God would descend to the earth and appear in His holiness; he asks for an event, as at Sinai (Ex 19:16–18), that would be accompanied by terrifying storms and volcano-like eruptions.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:6 lightning … arrows. This poetry, with parallelism and figurative language, speaks of the bolts of lightning as God's arrows.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:7 foreigners. Hostile nations that surround Israel and with which the king is at war.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:8 right hand of falsehood. As a parallel to "lies," these words picture those who raise their hand in an oath, but swear falsely.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:9 new song. See p 843. ten-stringed harp. David was a skilled harpist (1Sm 16:23). See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:11 foreigners … right hand of falsehood. Repetition of v v 7–8, emphasizing the need for God's intervention.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:12 Prayer that their children may reach their full stature and potential, as the chief blessing of prosperity for God's people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:13 thousands … ten thousands. Poetic for the idea of multiplying without number.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 144:15 People with material prosperity are blessed, but even more blessed are those who know God, the source of every blessing. See "blessed," p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 144 We are indeed like a breath, a shadow, before God. In our sins—such as our propensity for lying and swearing falsely, as mentioned here—we are God's enemies. And yet, God shows us His favor, despite our insignificance, particularly through the Son of Man, the Son of David, Jesus Christ. The Church has historically seen this psalm as foreshadowing Christ, our true King. • Blessed are You, Lord Christ, our King! You have come down to us, not in Your glory, but as one of us. You have won the victory over sin, the devil, and death itself. May we share Your victory and its blessings as we cling to You in faith. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 145 A Song of Praise. Lit, a word translated "psalm." This is the only poem so labeled, though the entire collection goes by that name. It is a poetic acrostic, each line beginning with one of the letters in the Hbr alphabet (though one letter, nun, is mysteriously left out). Cf 9; 10; 25; 34; 37; 111; 112; 119; 146. As a psalm of David, we have a king paying homage to his King, whose dominion goes beyond Israel, to "all flesh" (v 21) and to the universe itself. This "Mission Psalm" describes the calling of God's people to proclaim His Word.

Format: V v 1–3, the Lord is great; v v 4–7, declare His works; v v 8–9, the Lord is good to all; v v 10–13a, the glory of God's kingdom; v v 13b–20, the Lord's works; v 21, speaking about the Lord.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:1 King. It is one thing to believe God exists, but another to acknowledge Him as your King, to acknowledge His authority over you. bless Your name. See p 843. forever and ever. Psalmist's praise will never cease, but will continue both now and into eternity. This is an OT example of belief in eternal life.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:3 unsearchable. We can never plumb the depths of God's greatness; it is inexhaustible, beyond our comprehension. (Cf Rm 11:33–35.)

PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:4 What God has done is to be told by parents to their children, passed down from one generation to another. "We saw how the declaration of the pure Christian doctrine we sent could be fortified and strengthened by the testimonies of Holy Scripture against corruptions and perversions. Then, in time, godless doctrines would not be concealed under its name. Instead, a completely unvarnished declaration of the pure truth might be passed on to future generations" (Concordia, Preface 13).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:5 meditate. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:8 Profound statement of God's grace, found throughout the OT; cf Ex 34:6; Nu 14:18; Ne 9:17; Ps 86:15; 103:8. See notes, Ex 34:6–7.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:10 works shall give thanks. Everything God made is a witness to His love. saints. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:11–12 God's people tell others of His glory and His redeeming acts, spreading His kingdom throughout the world. Chem: "Although the heathen can see the works of God, the creation and the sustaining of the universe, yet they fail to recognize the true God, because they neglect the Word" (LTh 1:55).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:13–20 Celebrates what the King does for His subjects.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:13 kingdom … dominion. God is the King (v 1), and His kingdom is universal, extending to all of His creation, through all generations and into eternity. See pp 1565–66.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:15 eyes of all. Metaphor recalls hungry pets or farm animals looking up to their master to be fed. Chem: "Even brutes and creatures which act by natural instinct or some other form of reasoning perceive or in some way acknowledge His preservation and sustenance" (LTh 1:169). due season. God provides food at the proper time; i.e., as His creatures need it. See Luther's Daily Prayers (SC, p xli–xlii).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:16 open Your hand. God provides for and sustains His creation. The image is of a person feeding doves. This King providentially cares for and sustains each of His creatures, from the amoeba to the angels.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:17 righteous. See p 843.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:18 near. God will draw close to those who pray to Him "in truth," i.e., in sincerity, honesty, and fidelity to His Word.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:19–20 those who fear Him … all who love Him. Both phrases refer to the same people, who trust in the Lord.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:20 but all the wicked He will destroy. God's justice manifests itself in His destruction of evildoers.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 145:21 all flesh … forever. Psalmist wants everyone to praise God for eternity.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 145 God is our King, and all generations and all the earth must hear about Him. He abounds in mercy, which extends to all His works. The Lord will draw near to those who fear Him (who have been broken by the Law). He drew near to us in Christ, our King. His Word resounds from generation to generation, bringing the kingdom of God to all the world and to us. • O Christ, our King, Your righteousness is unsearchable. Though I should be counted among the wicked, You have redeemed me. Proclaim this good news to all the world through me. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 146 First of five hallelujah psalms (hallelujah means "praise the LORD!") that conclude the Psalter. Also known as the final Hallel. An acrostic poem, each line begins with the next letter in the Hbr alphabet. See pp 777–78. LXX notations associate this psalm with the postexilic prophets Haggai and Zechariah.

Format: V v 1–2, lifelong praise; v v 3–4, unreliable princes; v v 5–7a, God's blessings; v v 7b–9, the Lord's deeds; v 10, the Lord reigns forever.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 146:2 while I have my being. Psalmist's continued life will be a constant praising.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 146:3 son of man. See p 2098.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 146:4 When descendants of Adam no longer breathe, they die; their bodies are buried and decay into dust (cf Gn 3:19).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 146:5 Blessed. See p 842.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 146:6 keeps faith. God keeps His promises.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 146:7 executes justice. As in a courtroom. prisoners. God gives a verdict of acquittal.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 146:7b–9 List of the disadvantaged, whom the Lord protects. Cf Lk 4:17–21; Is 61:1–2.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 146:8 bowed down. Weighed down by burdens of life.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 146:9 sojourners. Resident aliens, usually treated with scorn. See note, 94:6. "Since [the poor man] can complain to no one else, he will cry and call to heaven (Psalm 20:6; 146:8–9). Then beware (I say again) as of the devil himself. For such groaning and calling will be no joke. It will have a weight that will prove too heavy for you and all the world. For it will reach Him who takes care of the poor, sorrowful hearts" (LC I 247).

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 146 Do not put your faith in human beings—in politicians, social elites, or individuals, none of whom can save and all of whom will die. Rather, put your trust in God. Your Lord is Christ, the Son of Man in whom there is salvation, who on earth fed the hungry, healed the blind, and ministered to everyone in need. You were buried with Him in Baptism so you can share His new life and claim all of these promises. • O Lord, help us not to put our trust in people, but in You alone. Forgive us for mistreating others and for looking down on people different from ourselves. Thank You for keeping all of Your promises through Christ. Amen.

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 147 Second of five hallelujah psalms (see Ps 146 intro). Jerusalem had been destroyed and God's people sent into exile in Babylon. But, as recorded in Ezr and Ne, God brought His people back to the land He had promised them. Jerusalem and its walls were rebuilt, and the temple reestablished. This psalm was perhaps composed to celebrate this restoration. LXX notations associate this psalm with the postexilic prophets Haggai and Zechariah.

Format: V v 1–6, praise the Lord for His great works; v v 7–11, sing the wonders of His creation; v v 12–20, praise the Lord for His love for His people.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:2 outcasts. God's people have been exiles, but now He has restored Jerusalem and brought them back (cf Ezr 1–3).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:3 brokenhearted. God heals His people's pain, both physical and emotional.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:4 their names. God alone knows the stars' true nature. Naming something involves knowledge and assertion of authority over it, the right of lordship.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:7 lyre! When Jerusalem was rededicated, musicians of the Levites played David's musical instruments (Ne 12:36). See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:9–11 See Luther's Daily Prayers (SC, pp xli–xlii).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:13 bars. Newly built gates of Jerusalem, which could be closed and bolted for the security of the city.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:15 word runs swiftly. Bern: "His Word … which burdened and weighed down the hands of Moses himself, when lightened by Grace, and placed upon the wheels of the Gospel, ran swiftly over the whole earth" (SLSB, pp 63–64). Luth: "Everything that God wills happens quickly, instantly…. 'His Word,' not 'our technique,' makes and accomplishes all things" (AE 14:124, 125).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:18 God's creative Word controls nature (see note, v 15).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:19 word … statutes … rules. See p 971.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 147:20 God chose the nation of Israel and revealed to them His Word. Cf Rm 9:4–5. Luth: "Let it happen that others are rich and we poor, they powerful and we weak, they happy and we sad, they admired and we despised, they alive and we dead, they everything and we nothing—what of it? … You have God's Word; they don't!" (AE 14:134).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 147 God has built Jerusalem and brought the exiles home. His Word that governs nature has been given to the children of Israel in Scripture. The Lord has forgiven those whom He had punished, gathered them from exile, and restored the Holy City. We need not depend on our strength, but we can "hope in His steadfast love" (v 11). The same Word that called the universe into existence and still governs its every detail is manifest in the Holy Scriptures and proclaimed in the Church for our salvation. • O Lord, You have made the crystals of ice, and You have made the stars. And yet, You show Your love for us. You have forgiven our sins and gathered us to Yourself. Above all of Your other blessings, You have given us Your Word. And that Word became flesh and dwelt among us. In His name we come before You. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 148 Third of five hallelujah psalms (see Ps 146 intro). LXX notations associate this psalm with the postexilic prophets Haggai and Zechariah. Moving from the heavens to the earth, it catalogs the whole range of the created order, from angels to children, from stars to snowflakes. The praise of creation culminates with praise for God's own redeemed people.

Format: V v 1–2, angelic praise; v v 3–4, heavenly praise; v v 5–6, God's creative power; v v 7–8, God created the sea and sky; v v 9–10, He created earth and life; v v 11–12, kings and commoners praise Him; v v 13–14, Israel belongs to Him.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 148:1 heights! Heights of heaven. Lit, "the heaven of heavens."
PSALMS—NOTE ON 148:2 hosts! Lit, "army." See p 1291.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 148:3–4 Asking inanimate objects to "praise" God, even though they have no voice or consciousness, uses the poetic device of apostrophe, or addressing a personified object rhetorically. And yet, the created order does testify to God's glory (cf Rm 8:21).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 148:4 waters above the heavens! Celestial waters beyond the sky (see note, Gn 1:7).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 148:5 He commanded and they were created. God created the universe by means of His Word. Chem: "The matter or material from which creation took place did not exist from eternity, but all things were created out of nothing, that is, since there was nothing which was in existence, when God spoke, then things began to exist" (LTh 1:157).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 148:6 God establishes each entity as it is. Laws of nature are set by God's Word, and His creatures cannot change them.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 148:7 great sea creatures. Whales, giant squid, and other huge denizens of the ocean. See note, Jb 7:12.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 148:8 stormy wind fulfilling His word! Chem: "Such things as snow, hail, and tempests … fulfill His Word" (LTh 1:186).
PSALMS—NOTE ON 148:14 horn. See p 842. Indicates not only a king, but points to Christ (Lk 1:69). saints. See p 843. near. God's people are close to His presence.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 148 Our insensibility to God's goodness and glory is a sign of how far we have fallen. In all of His manifold creation, God has "raised up a horn for His people" (v 14). This is a prophecy of Christ, as evident in the words of Zechariah, John the Baptist's father (Lk 1:68–69). Through Christ, God has gathered together His own people into the Church, declaring them to be His saints and dwelling near them with His very presence in Word and Sacrament. • O Lord, may the nebulas of outer space and each atom that You have crafted praise You! May everything living praise You, from archangels to microorganisms! May men and women, old and young, from every nation and culture praise You! O Christ, come quickly, and bring all things to their fulfillment. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 149 Fourth of five hallelujah psalms (see Ps 146 intro). Describes a festival procession to the Temple Mount, apparently in celebration of a victory. Date uncertain.

Format: V v 1–4, praising the Lord for His care; v v 5–9, victory for the godly.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 149:1 new song. See p 843. assembly. See "great congregation," p 842. Mel: "There is no greater or better work of man than to have true knowledge of God, to pray to Him, and to proclaim Him" (LTh 1:49). "Our churches teach that one holy Church is to remain forever. The Church is the congregation of saints" (AC VII I).

PSALMS—NOTE ON 149:2 Zion. See p 844. King. On Zion, God is the King.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 149:3 dancing. Though there are no indications of dancing in temple worship, it was employed in festival processions. People would go up to Mount Zion dancing, as David did when he brought the ark of the covenant to Jerusalem (2Sm 6:14–15; see p 959). tambourine … lyre! Musical instruments also used in festive processions. See p 993.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 149:5 on their beds. Not only in festive worship with others, but alone—as they are about to go to sleep—God's people should rejoice in Him.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 149:6–9 In Luther's time, Thomas Münzer used these verses to ignite the Peasants' War, urging the peasants to rise up and kill their masters to bring in God's kingdom. A few generations later, Caspar Scloppius used the same text in the Thirty Years' War to urge Roman Catholics to overthrow the Lutheran princes. But the Church must remember that "the weapons of our warfare are not of the flesh" (2Co 10:4). The sword Christians wield is God's Word (Eph 6:17; Heb 4:12). Lutherans traditionally have interpreted the two edges of God's Word-sword as the Law and the Gospel. See note, Lk 3:14.
PSALMS—NOTE ON 149:9 judgment written! God used the children of Israel to execute His judgment on the Canaanites (Nu 33:50–56). In the last days, the Church will play some role in judging the earth (1Co 6:2–3). Today, God's Word takes captive even the mighty of this world. honor. All Christians have the glory of being soldiers of the cross (2Tm 2:3).
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 149 Joyous praise of God is interrupted with invocations for God's "vengeance" and "punishments" (v 7). And yet, despite God's judgment, He "adorns the humble with salvation" (v 4). Salvation is a gift, a kind of clothing, and the pleasure the Lord takes in His people is not on account of their works. They rejoice in their King, who was bound and suffered the punishment due to the nations. We have fellowship with Him in the Church. • O Christ, our King, we praise You in the Church! When we worship and when we are alone, we adore You. Give us courage to engage in spiritual warfare—against the world, our flesh, and the devil—with the two-edged sword of Your Word, and grant us the victory. Amen.
PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 150 Final hallelujah psalm (see Ps 146 intro). Sacred music played an important role in ancient worship. This seems to describe a festival procession.

Format: V v 1–2, earth and heaven join in praise; v v 3–6, all musicians join in praise.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 150:1 sanctuary … heavens! Earthly and heavenly places of worship and God's dwelling are mentioned together.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 150:3–5 Instruments listed here are given English names for ancient equivalents. Most have been identified through archaeological research. They probably did not have modern tuning capabilities that would allow them to accompany singing, so they surely would sound like a "joyful noise" (98:4–6). See p 993.

PSALMS—NOTE ON 150:6 has breath. Not just the children of Israel but everyone living should praise the Lord. Musical instruments also, in creating soundwaves in the air, can be said to have "breath."

PSALMS—NOTE ON Ps 150 A tenfold "hallelujah!" in the heavens and in the place of worship, with every musical instrument; everything that breathes should praise the Lord because of His mighty deeds and His "excellent greatness"! Of the many reasons to praise God, for us the most joyous are "His mighty deeds" (v 2) by which He has redeemed us in Christ and brought us to faith. • O Lord, may the praises in the Psalms, the praises in the Church, and the praises in heaven equip me to join in praising You! Amen.

The Beginning of Knowledge

1 [1] The proverbs of Solomon, son of David, king of Israel:

[2] To know wisdom and instruction,
to understand words of insight, [3] to receive instruction in wise dealing,
in righteousness, justice, and equity;
[4] to give prudence to the simple,
knowledge and discretion to the youth—
[5] Let the wise hear and increase in learning, and the one who understands obtain guidance,
[6] to understand a proverb and a saying,
the words of the wise and their riddles.

[7] The fear of the Lord is the beginning of
knowledge;
fools despise wisdom and instruction.

The Enticement of Sinners

8 Hear, my son, your father's instruction,
and forsake not your mother's teaching,
9 for they are a graceful garland for your head and pendants for your neck.
10 My son, if sinners entice you,
do not consent.
11 If they say, "Come with us, let us lie in wait
for blood;
let us ambush the innocent without reason; 12 like Sheol let us swallow them alive,
and whole, like those who go down to the pit;
13 we shall find all precious goods,
we shall fill our houses with plunder;
14 throw in your lot among us;
we will all have one purse"— 15 my son, do not walk in the way with them;
hold back your foot from their paths, 16 for their feet run to evil,
and they make haste to shed blood.
17 For in vain is a net spread
in the sight of any bird, 18 but these men lie in wait for their own blood;
they set an ambush for their own lives.
19 Such are the ways of everyone who is greedy
for unjust gain;
it takes away the life of its possessors.

The Call of Wisdom

20 Wisdom cries aloud in the street,
in the markets she raises her voice;
21 at the head of the noisy streets she cries out;
at the entrance of the city gates she speaks:
22 "How long, O simple ones, will you love
being simple?
How long will scoffers delight in their scoffing
and fools hate knowledge?
23 If you turn at my reproof,[1]
behold, I will pour out my spirit to you;
I will make my words known to you.
24 Because I have called and you refused to listen,
have stretched out my hand and no one
has heeded,
25 because you have ignored all my counsel
and would have none of my reproof, 26 I also will laugh at your calamity;
I will mock when terror strikes you,
27 when terror strikes you like a storm
and your calamity comes like a whirlwind,
when distress and anguish come upon you.
28 Then they will call upon me, but I will not answer;
they will seek me diligently but will not find me.
29 Because they hated knowledge
and did not choose the fear of the LORD, 30 would have none of my counsel
and despised all my reproof, 31 therefore they shall eat the fruit of their way,

and have their fill of their own devices.
32 For the simple are killed by their turning away,
and the complacency of fools destroys
them;
33 but whoever listens to me will dwell secure and will be at ease, without dread of disaster.”

The Value of Wisdom

2 [1] † My son, if you receive my words and treasure up my commandments with you,

[2] making your ear attentive to wisdom
and inclining your heart to understanding; [3] yes, if you call out for insight and raise your voice for understanding, [4]† if you seek it like silver and search for it as for hidden treasures, [5]† then you will understand the fear of
the Lord
and find the knowledge of God.
[6]† For the Lord gives wisdom;
from his mouth come knowledge and
understanding;
[7]† he stores up sound wisdom for the upright;
he is a shield to those who walk in
integrity,
[8]† guarding the paths of justice
and watching over the way of his saints.
[9]† Then you will understand righteousness and justice
and equity, every good path;
[10]† for wisdom will come into your heart,
and knowledge will be pleasant to your soul;
[11]† discretion will watch over you,
understanding will guard you, [12]† delivering you from the way of evil,
from men of perverted speech, [13] who forsake the paths of uprightness
to walk in the ways of darkness,

14 who rejoice in doing evil
and delight in the perverseness of evil, 15 men whose paths are crooked,
and who are devious in their ways.

16 So you will be delivered from the forbidden[1]
woman,
from the adulteress[2] with her smooth
words,
17 who forsakes the companion of her youth
and forgets the covenant of her God; 18 for her house sinks down to death,
and her paths to the departed;[3] 19 none who go to her come back,
nor do they regain the paths of life.

20 So you will walk in the way of the good and keep to the paths of the righteous.
21 For the upright will inhabit the land,
and those with integrity will remain in it, 22 but the wicked will be cut off from
the land,
and the treacherous will be rooted
out of it.

Trust in the Lord with All Your Heart

3 [1]‡‡‡My son, do not forget my teaching, but let your heart keep my commandments,

[2]† for length of days and years of life
and peace they will add to you.

[3]† Let not steadfast love and faithfulness
forsake you;
bind them around your neck;
write them on the tablet of your heart.
[4]† So you will find favor and good success[1]
in the sight of God and man.

[5]† Trust in the Lord with all your heart,
and do not lean on your own
understanding.
[6]† In all your ways acknowledge him,
and he will make straight your paths.
[7]† Be not wise in your own eyes;
fear the Lord, and turn away from evil.
[8]† It will be healing to your flesh[2]
and refreshment[3] to your bones.

[9]‡‡ Honor the Lord with your wealth
and with the firstfruits of all your produce; [10]† then your barns will be filled with plenty,
and your vats will be bursting with wine.

[11] My son, do not despise the Lord's discipline
or be weary of his reproof, [12] for the Lord reproves him whom he loves,
as a father the son in whom he delights.

Blessed Is the One Who Finds Wisdom

13 Blessed is the one who finds wisdom,
and the one who gets understanding, 14 for the gain from her is better than gain from silver and her profit better than gold.
15 She is more precious than jewels,
and nothing you desire can compare with her.
16 Long life is in her right hand;
in her left hand are riches and honor.
17 Her ways are ways of pleasantness,
and all her paths are peace.
18 She is a tree of life to those who lay hold of her;
those who hold her fast are called blessed.

19 The Lord by wisdom founded the earth;
by understanding he established the heavens;
20 by his knowledge the deeps broke open,
and the clouds drop down the dew.

21 My son, do not lose sight of these—
keep sound wisdom and discretion, 22 and they will be life for your soul
and adornment for your neck.
23 Then you will walk on your way securely,
and your foot will not stumble.
24 If you lie down, you will not be afraid;
when you lie down, your sleep will be sweet.
25 Do not be afraid of sudden terror or of the ruin[1] of the wicked, when it comes,

26 for the Lord will be your confidence and will keep your foot from being caught.
27 Do not withhold good from those to whom it is due,[2]
when it is in your power to do it.

28 Do not say to your neighbor, “Go, and come again, tomorrow I will give it”—when you have it with you.
29 Do not plan evil against your neighbor,
who dwells trustingly beside you.
30 Do not contend with a man for no reason,
when he has done you no harm.
31 Do not envy a man of violence
and do not choose any of his ways, 32 for the devious person is an abomination to the Lord,
but the upright are in his confidence.
33 The Lord’s curse is on the house of the wicked,
but he blesses the dwelling of the righteous.
34 Toward the scorners he is scornful,
but to the humble he gives favor.[3] 35 The wise will inherit honor, but fools get[4] disgrace.

A Father’s Wise Instruction

4 [1] Hear, O sons, a father’s instruction, and be attentive, that you may gain[5] insight,

[2] for I give you good precepts;
do not forsake my teaching.
[3] When I was a son with my father, tender, the only one in the sight of my mother,
[4] he taught me and said to me,
“Let your heart hold fast my words;
keep my commandments, and live.
[5] Get wisdom; get insight;
do not forget, and do not turn away from the words of my mouth.
[6] Do not forsake her, and she will keep you;
love her, and she will guard you.
[7] The beginning of wisdom is this: Get wisdom,
and whatever you get, get insight.
[8] Prize her highly, and she will exalt you;
she will honor you if you embrace her.
[9] She will place on your head a graceful garland;
she will bestow on you a beautiful crown.”

[10] Hear, my son, and accept my words, that the years of your life may be many.
[11] I have taught you the way of wisdom;
I have led you in the paths of uprightness.
[12] When you walk, your step will not be hampered,
and if you run, you will not stumble.
[13] Keep hold of instruction; do not let go;

guard her, for she is your life.
14 Do not enter the path of the wicked,
and do not walk in the way of the evil.
15 Avoid it; do not go on it;
turn away from it and pass on.
16 For they cannot sleep unless they have done wrong;
they are robbed of sleep unless they have made someone stumble.
17 For they eat the bread of wickedness
and drink the wine of violence.
18 But the path of the righteous is like the light of dawn,
which shines brighter and brighter
until full day.
19 The way of the wicked is like deep darkness;
they do not know over what they stumble.

20 My son, be attentive to my words;
incline your ear to my sayings.
21 Let them not escape from your sight;
keep them within your heart.
22 For they are life to those who find them,
and healing to all their[1] flesh.
23 Keep your heart with all vigilance,
for from it flow the springs of life.
24 Put away from you crooked speech,
and put devious talk far from you.
25 Let your eyes look directly forward,
and your gaze be straight before you.
26 Ponder[1] the path of your feet;
then all your ways will be sure.
27 Do not swerve to the right or to the left;
turn your foot away from evil.

Warning Against Adultery

5 [1]My son, be attentive to my wisdom; incline your ear to my understanding,

[2]† that you may keep discretion,
and your lips may guard knowledge.
[3]† For the lips of a forbidden[2] woman drip honey,
and her speech[3] is smoother than oil, [4]† but in the end she is bitter as wormwood,
sharp as a two-edged sword.
[5]† Her feet go down to death;
her steps follow the path to[4] Sheol;
[6]† she does not ponder the path of life;
her ways wander, and she does not know it.

[7]† And now, O sons, listen to me,
and do not depart from the words of my mouth.
[8]† Keep your way far from her,
and do not go near the door of her house, [9]† lest you give your honor to others
and your years to the merciless, [10]† lest strangers take their fill of your strength,
and your labors go to the house of a foreigner, [11]† and at the end of your life you groan,
when your flesh and body are consumed, [12] and you say, “How I hated discipline,
and my heart despised reproof!
[13]† I did not listen to the voice of my teachers or incline my ear to my instructors.

14 I am at the brink of utter ruin
in the assembled congregation.”

15 Drink water from your own cistern, flowing water from your own well.
16 Should your springs be scattered abroad,
streams of water in the streets?
17 Let them be for yourself alone,
and not for strangers with you.
18 Let your fountain be blessed,
and rejoice in the wife of your youth,
19 a lovely deer, a graceful doe.
Let her breasts fill you at all times with delight;
be intoxicated[1] always in her love.
20 Why should you be intoxicated, my son,
with a forbidden woman
and embrace the bosom of an adulteress?[2]
21 For a man’s ways are before the eyes of the Lord,
and he ponders[3] all his paths.
22 The iniquities of the wicked ensnare
him,
and he is held fast in the cords of his sin.
23 He dies for lack of discipline, and because of his great folly he is led astray.

Practical Warnings

6 [1]My son, if you have put up security for your neighbor, have given your pledge for a stranger,

[2] if you are snared in the words of your mouth,
caught in the words of your mouth,
[3] then do this, my son, and save yourself,
for you have come into the hand of your neighbor:
go, hasten,[4] and plead urgently with your
neighbor.
[4] Give your eyes no sleep and your eyelids no slumber;
[5] save yourself like a gazelle from the hand of the hunter,[5]
like a bird from the hand of the fowler.

[6] Go to the ant, O sluggard;
consider her ways, and be wise.
[7] Without having any chief,
officer, or ruler,
[8] she prepares her bread in summer
and gathers her food in harvest.
[9] How long will you lie there, O sluggard?
When will you arise from your sleep?
[10] A little sleep, a little slumber,
a little folding of the hands to rest,
[11] and poverty will come upon you like a robber,
and want like an armed man.

12 A worthless person, a wicked man,
goes about with crooked speech, 13 winks with his eyes, signals[1] with his feet,
points with his finger, 14 with perverted heart devises evil,
continually sowing discord;
15 therefore calamity will come upon him
suddenly;
in a moment he will be broken beyond
healing.

16 There are six things that the Lord hates,
seven that are an abomination to him:
17 haughty eyes, a lying tongue,
and hands that shed innocent blood, 18 a heart that devises wicked plans,
feet that make haste to run to evil, 19 a false witness who breathes out lies,
and one who sows discord among brothers.

Warnings Against Adultery

20 My son, keep your father's commandment,
and forsake not your mother's teaching.
21 Bind them on your heart always;
tie them around your neck.
22 When you walk, they[2] will lead you;
when you lie down, they will watch over you;
and when you awake, they will talk with you.
23 For the commandment is a lamp and the teaching a light,
and the reproofs of discipline are the way of life, 24 to preserve you from the evil woman,[3]
from the smooth tongue of the adulteress.[4] 25 Do not desire her beauty in your heart,
and do not let her capture you with her eyelashes;
26 for the price of a prostitute is only a loaf of bread,[1]
but a married woman[2] hunts down a precious life.
27 Can a man carry fire next to his chest
and his clothes not be burned?
28 Or can one walk on hot coals
and his feet not be scorched?
29 So is he who goes in to his neighbor's wife;
none who touches her will go unpunished.
30 People do not despise a thief if he steals to satisfy his appetite when he is hungry, 31 but if he is caught, he will pay sevenfold;
he will give all the goods of his house.

32 He who commits adultery lacks sense;
he who does it destroys himself.
33 He will get wounds and dishonor,
and his disgrace will not be wiped away.
34 For jealousy makes a man furious,
and he will not spare when he takes revenge.
35 He will accept no compensation;
he will refuse though you multiply gifts.

Warning Against the Adulteress

7 [1]†My son, keep my words and treasure up my commandments with you;

[2]† keep my commandments and live;
keep my teaching as the apple of your eye;
[3] bind them on your fingers;
write them on the tablet of your heart.
[4]† Say to wisdom, “You are my sister,”
and call insight your intimate friend, [5] to keep you from the forbidden[3] woman,
from the adulteress[4] with her smooth words.

[6]† For at the window of my house
I have looked out through my lattice,
[7]† and I have seen among the simple,
I have perceived among the youths,
a young man lacking sense,
[8]† passing along the street near her corner,
taking the road to her house [9]† in the twilight, in the evening, at the time of night and darkness.

[10] And behold, the woman meets him,
dressed as a prostitute, wily of heart.[5] [11]† She is loud and wayward;
her feet do not stay at home;
[12] now in the street, now in the market,
and at every corner she lies in wait.
[13]† She seizes him and kisses him,
and with bold face she says to him,

14 “I had to offer sacrifices,[1]
and today I have paid my vows;
15 so now I have come out to meet you,
to seek you eagerly, and I have found you.
16 I have spread my couch with coverings,
colored linens from Egyptian linen;
17 I have perfumed my bed with myrrh,
aloes, and cinnamon.
18 Come, let us take our fill of love till morning;
let us delight ourselves with love.
19 For my husband is not at home;
he has gone on a long journey;
20 he took a bag of money with him;
at full moon he will come home.”

21 With much seductive speech she persuades
him;
with her smooth talk she compels him.
22 All at once he follows her,
as an ox goes to the slaughter,
or as a stag is caught fast[2] 23 till an arrow pierces its liver;
as a bird rushes into a snare;
he does not know that it will cost him his life.

24 And now, O sons, listen to me,
and be attentive to the words of my mouth.
25 Let not your heart turn aside to her ways;
do not stray into her paths, 26 for many a victim has she laid low,
and all her slain are a mighty throng.
27 Her house is the way to Sheol,
going down to the chambers of death.

The Blessings of Wisdom

8 [1]†Does not wisdom call? Does not understanding raise her voice?

[2]† On the heights beside the way,
at the crossroads she takes her stand;
[3] beside the gates in front of the town,
at the entrance of the portals she cries
aloud:
[4]† "To you, O men, I call,
and my cry is to the children of man.
[5]† O simple ones, learn prudence;
O fools, learn sense.
[6]† Hear, for I will speak noble things,
and from my lips will come what is right, [7]† for my mouth will utter truth;
wickedness is an abomination to my lips.
[8] All the words of my mouth are righteous;
there is nothing twisted or crooked in
them.
[9]† They are all straight to him who understands,
and right to those who find knowledge.
[10]† Take my instruction instead of silver,
and knowledge rather than choice gold, [11] for wisdom is better than jewels,
and all that you may desire cannot compare with her.

[12]† "I, wisdom, dwell with prudence,
and I find knowledge and discretion.
[13]† The fear of the Lord is hatred of evil.
Pride and arrogance and the way of evil

and perverted speech I hate.
14 I have counsel and sound wisdom;
I have insight; I have strength.
15 By me kings reign,
and rulers decree what is just;
16 by me princes rule,
and nobles, all who govern justly.[1] 17 I love those who love me,
and those who seek me diligently find me.
18 Riches and honor are with me,
enduring wealth and righteousness.
19 My fruit is better than gold, even fine gold,
and my yield than choice silver.
20 I walk in the way of righteousness,
in the paths of justice, 21 granting an inheritance to those who love me,
and filling their treasuries.

22 "The LORD possessed[2] me at the beginning of his work,[3]
the first of his acts of old.
23 Ages ago I was set up,
at the first, before the beginning of the earth.
24 When there were no depths I was brought forth,
when there were no springs abounding with water.
25 Before the mountains had been shaped,
before the hills, I was brought forth, 26 before he had made the earth with its fields,
or the first of the dust of the world.
27 When he established the heavens, I was there;
when he drew a circle on the face of the deep,
28 when he made firm the skies above,

when he established[1] the fountains of the
deep,
29 when he assigned to the sea its limit,
so that the waters might not transgress his command,
when he marked out the foundations of the
earth,
30 then I was beside him, like a master workman,
and I was daily his[2] delight,
rejoicing before him always,
31 rejoicing in his inhabited world
and delighting in the children of man.

32 "And now, O sons, listen to me:
blessed are those who keep my ways.
33 Hear instruction and be wise,
and do not neglect it.
34 Blessed is the one who listens to me,
watching daily at my gates,
waiting beside my doors.
35 For whoever finds me finds life
and obtains favor from the LORD, 36 but he who fails to find me injures himself;
all who hate me love death."

The Way of Wisdom

9 [1]†††Wisdom has built her house; she has hewn her seven pillars.

[2]† She has slaughtered her beasts; she has mixed her wine;
she has also set her table.
[3]† She has sent out her young women to call from the highest places in the town,
[4]† "Whoever is simple, let him turn in here!"
To him who lacks sense she says,
[5]† "Come, eat of my bread
and drink of the wine I have mixed.
[6]† Leave your simple ways,[1] and live,
and walk in the way of insight."

[7]†† Whoever corrects a scoffer gets himself abuse, and he who reproves a wicked man incurs injury.
[8]† Do not reprove a scoffer, or he will hate you;
reprove a wise man, and he will love you.
[9]† Give instruction[2] to a wise man, and he will be still wiser;
teach a righteous man, and he will increase
in learning.
[10]† The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom,
and the knowledge of the Holy One is insight.
[11]† For by me your days will be multiplied,
and years will be added to your life.
[12]† If you are wise, you are wise for yourself;
if you scoff, you alone will bear it.

The Way of Folly

13 The woman Folly is loud;
she is seductive[3] and knows nothing.
14 She sits at the door of her house;
she takes a seat on the highest places of the town, 15 calling to those who pass by,
who are going straight on their way,
16 “Whoever is simple, let him turn in here!”
And to him who lacks sense she says, 17 “Stolen water is sweet,
and bread eaten in secret is pleasant.”
18 But he does not know that the dead[4] are there,
that her guests are in the depths of Sheol.

The Proverbs of Solomon

10 [1]†††††The proverbs of Solomon. A wise son makes a glad father, but a foolish son is a sorrow to his mother.

[2]† Treasures gained by wickedness do not profit,
but righteousness delivers from death.
[3]† The Lord does not let the righteous go hungry,
but he thwarts the craving of the wicked.
[4] A slack hand causes poverty,
but the hand of the diligent makes rich.
[5] He who gathers in summer is a prudent son,
but he who sleeps in harvest is a son who brings shame.
[6]††† Blessings are on the head of the righteous,
but the mouth of the wicked conceals
violence.
[7]† The memory of the righteous is a blessing,
but the name of the wicked will rot.
[8] The wise of heart will receive
commandments,
but a babbling fool will come to ruin.
[9] Whoever walks in integrity walks securely,
but he who makes his ways crooked will be found out.
[10]† Whoever winks the eye causes trouble,
but a babbling fool will come to ruin.
[11]† The mouth of the righteous is a fountain of life,
but the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.
[12]† Hatred stirs up strife,
but love covers all offenses.
[13]† On the lips of him who has understanding,
wisdom is found,
but a rod is for the back of him who lacks

sense.
14 The wise lay up knowledge,
but the mouth of a fool brings ruin near.
15 A rich man's wealth is his strong city;
the poverty of the poor is their ruin.
16† The wage of the righteous leads to life,
the gain of the wicked to sin.
17 Whoever heeds instruction is on the path to life,
but he who rejects reproof leads others astray.
18† The one who conceals hatred has lying lips,
and whoever utters slander is a fool.
19 When words are many, transgression is not lacking,
but whoever restrains his lips is prudent.
20† The tongue of the righteous is choice silver;
the heart of the wicked is of little worth.
21 The lips of the righteous feed many,
but fools die for lack of sense.
22† The blessing of the LORD makes rich,
and he adds no sorrow with it.[1] 23 Doing wrong is like a joke to a fool, but wisdom is pleasure to a man of
understanding.
24††† What the wicked dreads will come upon
him,
but the desire of the righteous will be granted.
25† When the tempest passes, the wicked is no
more,
but the righteous is established forever.
26† Like vinegar to the teeth and smoke to the eyes,
so is the sluggard to those who send him.
27† The fear of the LORD prolongs life,

but the years of the wicked will be short.
28 † The hope of the righteous brings joy, but the expectation of the wicked will perish.
29 † The way of the Lord is a stronghold to the blameless,
but destruction to evildoers.
30 The righteous will never be removed,
but the wicked will not dwell in the land.
31 † The mouth of the righteous brings forth wisdom,
but the perverse tongue will be cut off.
32 The lips of the righteous know what is acceptable,
but the mouth of the wicked, what is perverse.

11 1 ††A false balance is an abomination to the Lord, but a just weight is his delight.

2 † When pride comes, then comes disgrace,
but with the humble is wisdom.
3 † The integrity of the upright guides them,
but the crookedness of the treacherous destroys them.
4 † Riches do not profit in the day of wrath,
but righteousness delivers from death.
5 The righteousness of the blameless keeps his way straight,
but the wicked falls by his own wickedness.
6 † The righteousness of the upright delivers
them,
but the treacherous are taken captive by their lust.
7 † When the wicked dies, his hope will perish,
and the expectation of wealth[1] perishes

too.
8 The righteous is delivered from trouble,
and the wicked walks into it instead.
9† With his mouth the godless man would destroy his neighbor,
but by knowledge the righteous are
delivered.
10† When it goes well with the righteous, the city
rejoices,
and when the wicked perish there are shouts of gladness.
11† By the blessing of the upright a city is exalted,
but by the mouth of the wicked it is
overthrown.
12† Whoever belittles his neighbor lacks sense,
but a man of understanding remains silent.
13† Whoever goes about slandering reveals
secrets,
but he who is trustworthy in spirit keeps a thing covered.
14 Where there is no guidance, a people falls,
but in an abundance of counselors there is safety.
15† Whoever puts up security for a stranger will surely suffer harm,
but he who hates striking hands in pledge is secure.
16† A gracious woman gets honor,
and violent men get riches.
17 A man who is kind benefits himself,
but a cruel man hurts himself.
18 The wicked earns deceptive wages,
but one who sows righteousness gets a sure reward.
19† Whoever is steadfast in righteousness will live,

but he who pursues evil will die.
20† Those of crooked heart are an abomination
to the LORD,
but those of blameless ways are his delight.
21 Be assured, an evil person will not go
unpunished,
but the offspring of the righteous will be delivered.
22† Like a gold ring in a pig's snout
is a beautiful woman without discretion.
23† The desire of the righteous ends only in good;
the expectation of the wicked in wrath.
24† One gives freely, yet grows all the richer;
another withholds what he should give, and only suffers want.
25† Whoever brings blessing will be enriched,
and one who waters will himself be watered.
26† The people curse him who holds back grain,
but a blessing is on the head of him who sells it.
27 Whoever diligently seeks good seeks favor,[1]
but evil comes to him who searches for it.
28 Whoever trusts in his riches will fall,
but the righteous will flourish like a green leaf.
29 Whoever troubles his own household will inherit the wind,
and the fool will be servant to the wise of
heart.
30† The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life,
and whoever captures souls is wise.
31† If the righteous is repaid on earth,
how much more the wicked and the sinner!

12 [1] † Whoever loves discipline loves knowledge, but he who hates reproof is stupid.

[2] A good man obtains favor from the LORD,
but a man of evil devices he condemns.
[3] † No one is established by wickedness, but the root of the righteous will never be moved.
[4] † An excellent wife is the crown of her husband,
but she who brings shame is like rottenness in his bones.
[5] The thoughts of the righteous are just;
the counsels of the wicked are deceitful.
[6] † The words of the wicked lie in wait for blood,
but the mouth of the upright delivers them.
[7] † The wicked are overthrown and are no
more,
but the house of the righteous will stand.
[8] A man is commended according to his good
sense,
but one of twisted mind is despised.
[9] † Better to be lowly and have a servant
than to play the great man and lack bread.
[10] † Whoever is righteous has regard for the life of his beast,
but the mercy of the wicked is cruel.
[11] Whoever works his land will have plenty of
bread,
but he who follows worthless pursuits lacks sense.
[12] †† Whoever is wicked covets the spoil of evildoers,
but the root of the righteous bears fruit.
[13] An evil man is ensnared by the transgression
of his lips,

but the righteous escapes from trouble.
14 From the fruit of his mouth a man is satisfied with good,
and the work of a man's hand comes back
to him.
15 The way of a fool is right in his own eyes,
but a wise man listens to advice.
16† The vexation of a fool is known at once,
but the prudent ignores an insult.
17 Whoever speaks[1] the truth gives honest evidence,
but a false witness utters deceit.
18† There is one whose rash words are like sword
thrusts,
but the tongue of the wise brings healing.
19 Truthful lips endure forever,
but a lying tongue is but for a moment.
20† Deceit is in the heart of those who devise evil,
but those who plan peace have joy.
21† No ill befalls the righteous,
but the wicked are filled with trouble.
22† Lying lips are an abomination to the LORD, but those who act faithfully are his
delight.
23† A prudent man conceals knowledge,
but the heart of fools proclaims folly.
24 The hand of the diligent will rule,
while the slothful will be put to forced labor.
25† Anxiety in a man's heart weighs him down,
but a good word makes him glad.
26 One who is righteous is a guide to his
neighbor,[1]
but the way of the wicked leads them astray.
27† Whoever is slothful will not roast his game,

but the diligent man will get precious
wealth.[2]
28 In the path of righteousness is life,
and in its pathway there is no death.

13 1 † A wise son hears his father's instruction, but a scoffer does not listen to rebuke.

2 † From the fruit of his mouth a man eats what is good,
but the desire of the treacherous is for
violence.
3 Whoever guards his mouth preserves his life;
he who opens wide his lips comes to ruin.
4 The soul of the sluggard craves and gets
nothing,
while the soul of the diligent is richly supplied.
5 † The righteous hates falsehood,
but the wicked brings shame[3] and disgrace.
6 Righteousness guards him whose way is
blameless,
but sin overthrows the wicked.
7 † One pretends to be rich, yet has nothing;
another pretends to be poor, yet has great
wealth.
8 † The ransom of a man's life is his wealth,
but a poor man hears no threat.
9 † The light of the righteous rejoices,
but the lamp of the wicked will be put out.
10 By insolence comes nothing but strife,
but with those who take advice is wisdom.
11 Wealth gained hastily[4] will dwindle, but whoever gathers little by little will increase it.

12 † Hope deferred makes the heart sick,
but a desire fulfilled is a tree of life.
13 † Whoever despises the word brings destruction on himself, but he who reveres the commandment will be rewarded.
14 † The teaching of the wise is a fountain of life,
that one may turn away from the snares of
death.
15 Good sense wins favor,
but the way of the treacherous is their ruin.[5] 16 † In everything the prudent acts with
knowledge,
but a fool flaunts his folly.
17 A wicked messenger falls into trouble,
but a faithful envoy brings healing.
18 † Poverty and disgrace come to him who ignores instruction,
but whoever heeds reproof is honored.
19 A desire fulfilled is sweet to the soul,
but to turn away from evil is an abomination
to fools.
20 † Whoever walks with the wise becomes wise,
but the companion of fools will suffer harm.
21 † Disaster[1] pursues sinners,
but the righteous are rewarded with good.
22 A good man leaves an inheritance to his children's children,
but the sinner's wealth is laid up for the
righteous.
23 † The fallow ground of the poor would yield much food,
but it is swept away through injustice.
24 † Whoever spares the rod hates his son,
but he who loves him is diligent to discipline

him.[2]
25 The righteous has enough to satisfy his appetite,
but the belly of the wicked suffers want.

14 1 †The wisest of women builds her house, but folly with her own hands tears it down.

2† Whoever walks in uprightness fears the Lord,
but he who is devious in his ways despises
him.
3 By the mouth of a fool comes a rod for his back,[3]
but the lips of the wise will preserve them.
4† Where there are no oxen, the manger is clean,
but abundant crops come by the strength of the ox.
5 A faithful witness does not lie,
but a false witness breathes out lies.
6† A scoffer seeks wisdom in vain, but knowledge is easy for a man of
understanding.
7 Leave the presence of a fool,
for there you do not meet words of
knowledge.
8 The wisdom of the prudent is to discern his
way,
but the folly of fools is deceiving.
9† Fools mock at the guilt offering,
but the upright enjoy acceptance.[4] 10† The heart knows its own bitterness,
and no stranger shares its joy.
11 The house of the wicked will be destroyed,

but the tent of the upright will flourish.
12 There is a way that seems right to a man,
but its end is the way to death.[5]
13 Even in laughter the heart may ache,
and the end of joy may be grief.
14 The backslider in heart will be filled with the fruit of his ways,
and a good man will be filled with the fruit
of his ways.
15 The simple believes everything,
but the prudent gives thought to his steps.
16 One who is wise is cautious[1] and turns away
from evil,
but a fool is reckless and careless.
17 A man of quick temper acts foolishly,
and a man of evil devices is hated.
18 The simple inherit folly, but the prudent are crowned with
knowledge.
19 The evil bow down before the good,
the wicked at the gates of the righteous.
20 The poor is disliked even by his neighbor,
but the rich has many friends.
21 Whoever despises his neighbor is a sinner,
but blessed is he who is generous to the poor.
22 Do they not go astray who devise evil?
Those who devise good meet[2] steadfast love and faithfulness.
23 In all toil there is profit,
but mere talk tends only to poverty.
24 The crown of the wise is their wealth,
but the folly of fools brings folly.
25 A truthful witness saves lives,
but one who breathes out lies is deceitful.

26 † In the fear of the Lord one has strong confidence,
and his children will have a refuge.
27 † The fear of the Lord is a fountain of life,
that one may turn away from the snares of
death.
28 In a multitude of people is the glory of a king,
but without people a prince is ruined.
29 Whoever is slow to anger has great
understanding,
but he who has a hasty temper exalts folly.
30 † A tranquil[3] heart gives life to the flesh,
but envy[4] makes the bones rot.
31 † Whoever oppresses a poor man insults
his Maker,
but he who is generous to the needy honors him.
32 † The wicked is overthrown through his evildoing,
but the righteous finds refuge in his death.
33 † Wisdom rests in the heart of a man of
understanding,
but it makes itself known even in the midst of fools.[5]
34 † Righteousness exalts a nation,
but sin is a reproach to any people.
35 A servant who deals wisely has the king's favor,
but his wrath falls on one who acts
shamefully.

15 [1]† A soft answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger.

[2] The tongue of the wise commends knowledge,
but the mouths of fools pour out folly.
[3]† The eyes of the Lord are in every place,
keeping watch on the evil and the good.
[4]† A gentle[6] tongue is a tree of life,
but perverseness in it breaks the spirit.
[5] A fool despises his father's instruction,
but whoever heeds reproof is prudent.
[6]† In the house of the righteous there is much treasure,
but trouble befalls the income of the wicked.
[7] The lips of the wise spread knowledge;
not so the hearts of fools.[1] [8]† The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination
to the Lord,
but the prayer of the upright is acceptable to him.
[9] The way of the wicked is an abomination to
the Lord,
but he loves him who pursues righteousness.
[10]† There is severe discipline for him who forsakes the way;
whoever hates reproof will die.
[11]† Sheol and Abaddon lie open before the Lord;
how much more the hearts of the children
of man!
[12] A scoffer does not like to be reproved;
he will not go to the wise.
[13] A glad heart makes a cheerful face,
but by sorrow of heart the spirit is crushed.
[14] The heart of him who has understanding seeks knowledge,
but the mouths of fools feed on folly.
[15]† All the days of the afflicted are evil,

but the cheerful of heart has a continual feast.
16 † Better is a little with the fear of the Lord
than great treasure and trouble with it.
17 † Better is a dinner of herbs where love is than a fattened ox and hatred with it.
18 A hot-tempered man stirs up strife,
but he who is slow to anger quiets contention.
19 † The way of a sluggard is like a hedge
of thorns,
but the path of the upright is a level highway.
20 † A wise son makes a glad father,
but a foolish man despises his mother.
21 † Folly is a joy to him who lacks sense,
but a man of understanding walks straight ahead.
22 Without counsel plans fail,
but with many advisers they succeed.
23 To make an apt answer is a joy to a man, and a word in season, how good it is!
24 † The path of life leads upward for the prudent,
that he may turn away from Sheol beneath.
25 † The Lord tears down the house of the proud
but maintains the widow's boundaries.
26 † The thoughts of the wicked are an abomination to the Lord,
but gracious words are pure.
27 Whoever is greedy for unjust gain troubles
his own household,
but he who hates bribes will live.
28 The heart of the righteous ponders how to answer,
but the mouth of the wicked pours out evil
things.

29 † The Lord is far from the wicked,
but he hears the prayer of the righteous.
30 † The light of the eyes rejoices the heart,
and good news refreshes[1] the bones.
31 The ear that listens to life-giving reproof
will dwell among the wise.
32 Whoever ignores instruction despises
himself,
but he who listens to reproof gains
intelligence.
33 † The fear of the Lord is instruction in wisdom,
and humility comes before honor.

16 1 † † The plans of the heart belong to man, but the answer of the tongue is from the Lord.

2 † All the ways of a man are pure in his own eyes,
but the Lord weighs the spirit.
3 † Commit your work to the Lord,
and your plans will be established.
4 † The Lord has made everything for its purpose,
even the wicked for the day of trouble.
5 † Everyone who is arrogant in heart is an
abomination to the Lord;
be assured, he will not go unpunished.
6 † By steadfast love and faithfulness iniquity is atoned for,
and by the fear of the Lord one turns away
from evil.
7 When a man's ways please the Lord,
he makes even his enemies to be at peace
with him.
8 Better is a little with righteousness
than great revenues with injustice.

9 The heart of man plans his way,
but the Lord establishes his steps.
10 An oracle is on the lips of a king;
his mouth does not sin in judgment.
11 A just balance and scales are the Lord's;
all the weights in the bag are his work.
12 It is an abomination to kings to do evil,
for the throne is established by righteousness.
13 Righteous lips are the delight of a king,
and he loves him who speaks what is right.
14 A king's wrath is a messenger of death,
and a wise man will appease it.
15 In the light of a king's face there is life,
and his favor is like the clouds that bring
the spring rain.
16 How much better to get wisdom than gold!
To get understanding is to be chosen rather than silver.
17 The highway of the upright turns aside from
evil;
whoever guards his way preserves his life.
18 Pride goes before destruction,
and a haughty spirit before a fall.
19 It is better to be of a lowly spirit with the poor
than to divide the spoil with the proud.
20 Whoever gives thought to the word[2] will discover good,
and blessed is he who trusts in the Lord.
21 The wise of heart is called discerning,
and sweetness of speech increases
persuasiveness.
22 Good sense is a fountain of life to him who has it,
but the instruction of fools is folly.

23 The heart of the wise makes his speech judicious and adds persuasiveness to his lips.
24 Gracious words are like a honeycomb,
sweetness to the soul and health to the body.
25† There is a way that seems right to a man,
but its end is the way to death.[1] 26† A worker's appetite works for him;
his mouth urges him on.
27 A worthless man plots evil,
and his speech[2] is like a scorching fire.
28† A dishonest man spreads strife,
and a whisperer separates close friends.
29 A man of violence entices his neighbor
and leads him in a way that is not good.
30† Whoever winks his eyes plans[3] dishonest
things;
he who purses his lips brings evil to pass.
31† Gray hair is a crown of glory;
it is gained in a righteous life.
32† Whoever is slow to anger is better than the mighty,
and he who rules his spirit than he who takes a city.
33† The lot is cast into the lap,
but its every decision is from the Lord.

17 1 ††Better is a dry morsel with quiet than a house full of feasting[4] with strife.

2† A servant who deals wisely will rule over a son who acts shamefully
and will share the inheritance as one of the brothers.
3† The crucible is for silver, and the furnace is for
gold,
and the Lord tests hearts.

4 An evildoer listens to wicked lips,
and a liar gives ear to a mischievous tongue.
5 Whoever mocks the poor insults his Maker;
he who is glad at calamity will not go unpunished.
6† Grandchildren are the crown of the aged,
and the glory of children is their fathers.
7†† Fine speech is not becoming to a fool;
still less is false speech to a prince.
8† A bribe is like a magic stone in the eyes of the one who gives it;
wherever he turns he prospers.
9 Whoever covers an offense seeks love,
but he who repeats a matter separates close friends.
10 A rebuke goes deeper into a man of
understanding
than a hundred blows into a fool.
11 An evil man seeks only rebellion, and a cruel messenger will be sent against
him.
12† Let a man meet a she-bear robbed of her cubs
rather than a fool in his folly.
13 If anyone returns evil for good,
evil will not depart from his house.
14† The beginning of strife is like letting out water,
so quit before the quarrel breaks out.
15† He who justifies the wicked and he who condemns the righteous
are both alike an abomination to the LORD.
16† Why should a fool have money in his hand to buy wisdom
when he has no sense?
17† A friend loves at all times,
and a brother is born for adversity.

18 † One who lacks sense gives a pledge and puts up security in the presence of his neighbor.
19 † Whoever loves transgression loves strife;
he who makes his door high seeks destruction.
20 A man of crooked heart does not discover good,
and one with a dishonest tongue falls into calamity.
21 † He who sires a fool gets himself sorrow,
and the father of a fool has no joy.
22 † A joyful heart is good medicine,
but a crushed spirit dries up the bones.
23 † The wicked accepts a bribe in secret[1]
to pervert the ways of justice.
24 † The discerning sets his face toward wisdom,
but the eyes of a fool are on the ends of the earth.
25 †† A foolish son is a grief to his father and bitterness to her who bore him.
26 To impose a fine on a righteous man is not good,
nor to strike the noble for their uprightness.
27 † Whoever restrains his words has knowledge,
and he who has a cool spirit is a man of understanding.
28 Even a fool who keeps silent is considered wise;
when he closes his lips, he is deemed intelligent.

18 1 † Whoever isolates himself seeks his own desire; he breaks out against all sound judgment.

2 A fool takes no pleasure in understanding,
but only in expressing his opinion.
3 When wickedness comes, contempt comes also,
and with dishonor comes disgrace.
4 The words of a man's mouth are deep waters;
the fountain of wisdom is a bubbling brook.
5 It is not good to be partial to[1] the wicked
or to deprive the righteous of justice.
6 A fool's lips walk into a fight,
and his mouth invites a beating.
7 A fool's mouth is his ruin,
and his lips are a snare to his soul.
8 The words of a whisperer are like delicious
morsels;
they go down into the inner parts of the
body.
9 Whoever is slack in his work is a brother to him who destroys.
10 The name of the Lord is a strong tower;
the righteous man runs into it and is safe.
11 A rich man's wealth is his strong city,
and like a high wall in his imagination.
12 Before destruction a man's heart is haughty,
but humility comes before honor.
13 If one gives an answer before he hears,
it is his folly and shame.
14 A man's spirit will endure sickness,
but a crushed spirit who can bear?
15 An intelligent heart acquires knowledge,
and the ear of the wise seeks knowledge.
16 A man's gift makes room for him
and brings him before the great.
17 The one who states his case first seems right,

until the other comes and examines him.
18† The lot puts an end to quarrels and decides between powerful contenders.
19† A brother offended is more unyielding than a strong city,
and quarreling is like the bars of a castle.
20† From the fruit of a man's mouth his stomach
is satisfied;
he is satisfied by the yield of his lips.
21 Death and life are in the power of the tongue,
and those who love it will eat its fruits.
22† He who finds a wife finds a good thing
and obtains favor from the Lord.
23† The poor use entreaties,
but the rich answer roughly.
24† A man of many companions may come to ruin,
but there is a friend who sticks closer than
a brother.

19 1†Better is a poor person who walks in his integrity than one who is crooked in speech and is a fool.

2 Desire[1] without knowledge is not good,
and whoever makes haste with his feet
misses his way.
3† When a man's folly brings his way to ruin,
his heart rages against the Lord.
4† Wealth brings many new friends,
but a poor man is deserted by his friend.
5 A false witness will not go unpunished,
and he who breathes out lies will not escape.

6† Many seek the favor of a generous man,[2]
and everyone is a friend to a man who gives gifts.
7† All a poor man's brothers hate him;
how much more do his friends go far from
him!
He pursues them with words, but does not have them.[3] 8† Whoever gets sense loves his own soul;
he who keeps understanding will discover good.
9 A false witness will not go unpunished,
and he who breathes out lies will perish.
10† It is not fitting for a fool to live in luxury,
much less for a slave to rule over princes.
11 Good sense makes one slow to anger,
and it is his glory to overlook an offense.
12† A king's wrath is like the growling of a lion,
but his favor is like dew on the grass.
13†††† A foolish son is ruin to his father,
and a wife's quarreling is a continual dripping of rain.
14† House and wealth are inherited from fathers,
but a prudent wife is from the Lord.
15 Slothfulness casts into a deep sleep,
and an idle person will suffer hunger.
16 Whoever keeps the commandment keeps his
life;
he who despises his ways will die.
17† Whoever is generous to the poor lends to the Lord,
and he will repay him for his deed.
18† Discipline your son, for there is hope;
do not set your heart on putting him to death.
19† A man of great wrath will pay the penalty,

for if you deliver him, you will only have to do it again.
20 Listen to advice and accept instruction,
that you may gain wisdom in the future.
21 Many are the plans in the mind of a man,
but it is the purpose of the LORD that will stand.
22† What is desired in a man is steadfast love,
and a poor man is better than a liar.
23† The fear of the LORD leads to life,
and whoever has it rests satisfied;
he will not be visited by harm.
24† The sluggard buries his hand in the dish
and will not even bring it back to his mouth.
25† Strike a scoffer, and the simple will learn prudence;
reprove a man of understanding, and he will gain knowledge.
26 He who does violence to his father and chases away his mother
is a son who brings shame and reproach.
27 Cease to hear instruction, my son,
and you will stray from the words of
knowledge.
28 A worthless witness mocks at justice,
and the mouth of the wicked devours
iniquity.
29 Condemnation is ready for scoffers,
and beating for the backs of fools.

20 1 †Wine is a mocker, strong drink a brawler, and whoever is led astray by it is not wise.[1]

2 The terror of a king is like the growling of a lion;
whoever provokes him to anger forfeits his
life.
3 It is an honor for a man to keep aloof from strife,
but every fool will be quarreling.
4† The sluggard does not plow in the autumn;
he will seek at harvest and have nothing.
5† The purpose in a man's heart is like deep water,
but a man of understanding will draw it out.
6† Many a man proclaims his own steadfast
love,
but a faithful man who can find?
7 The righteous who walks in his integrity—
blessed are his children after him!
8† A king who sits on the throne of judgment
winnows all evil with his eyes.
9† Who can say, "I have made my heart pure;
I am clean from my sin"?
10 Unequal[2] weights and unequal measures
are both alike an abomination to the LORD.
11† Even a child makes himself known by his acts,
by whether his conduct is pure and upright.[3] 12† The hearing ear and the seeing eye,
the LORD has made them both.
13 Love not sleep, lest you come to poverty;
open your eyes, and you will have plenty of
bread.
14† "Bad, bad," says the buyer,
but when he goes away, then he boasts.
15 There is gold and abundance of costly stones,
but the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel.

16 † Take a man's garment when he has put up
security for a stranger,
and hold it in pledge when he puts up
security for foreigners.[4] 17 † Bread gained by deceit is sweet to a man, but afterward his mouth will be full of gravel.
18 † Plans are established by counsel;
by wise guidance wage war.
19 Whoever goes about slandering reveals
secrets;
therefore do not associate with a simple
babbler.[1] 20 If one curses his father or his mother,
his lamp will be put out in utter darkness.
21 † An inheritance gained hastily in the beginning will not be blessed in the end.
22 † Do not say, "I will repay evil";
wait for the Lord, and he will deliver you.
23 Unequal weights are an abomination to the Lord,
and false scales are not good.
24 † A man's steps are from the Lord;
how then can man understand his way?
25 † It is a snare to say rashly, "It is holy,"
and to reflect only after making vows.
26 † A wise king winnows the wicked
and drives the wheel over them.
27 † The spirit[2] of man is the lamp of the Lord,
searching all his innermost parts.
28 Steadfast love and faithfulness preserve the
king,
and by steadfast love his throne is upheld.
29 The glory of young men is their strength,
but the splendor of old men is their gray hair.

30† Blows that wound cleanse away evil;
strokes make clean the innermost parts.

21 1†† The king's heart is a stream of water in the hand of the Lord;
he turns it wherever he will.

2† Every way of a man is right in his own eyes,
but the Lord weighs the heart.
3† To do righteousness and justice is more acceptable to the Lord than sacrifice.
4† Haughty eyes and a proud heart,
the lamp[3] of the wicked, are sin.
5 The plans of the diligent lead surely to
abundance,
but everyone who is hasty comes only to poverty.
6 The getting of treasures by a lying tongue
is a fleeting vapor and a snare of death.[4] 7 The violence of the wicked will sweep them
away,
because they refuse to do what is just.
8 The way of the guilty is crooked,
but the conduct of the pure is upright.
9† It is better to live in a corner of the housetop
than in a house shared with a quarrelsome wife.
10 The soul of the wicked desires evil;
his neighbor finds no mercy in his eyes.
11 When a scoffer is punished, the simple becomes wise;
when a wise man is instructed, he gains
knowledge.
12 The Righteous One observes the house of
the wicked;

he throws the wicked down to ruin.
13 Whoever closes his ear to the cry of the poor
will himself call out and not be answered.
14† A gift in secret averts anger,
and a concealed bribe,[1] strong wrath.
15 When justice is done, it is a joy to the righteous
but terror to evildoers.
16† One who wanders from the way of good
sense
will rest in the assembly of the dead.
17† Whoever loves pleasure will be a poor
man;
he who loves wine and oil will not be rich.
18† The wicked is a ransom for the righteous,
and the traitor for the upright.
19 It is better to live in a desert land than with a quarrelsome and fretful woman.
20† Precious treasure and oil are in a wise man's dwelling,
but a foolish man devours it.
21 Whoever pursues righteousness and kindness
will find life, righteousness, and honor.
22 A wise man scales the city of the mighty and brings down the stronghold in which they trust.
23 Whoever keeps his mouth and his tongue keeps himself out of trouble.
24 "Scoffer" is the name of the arrogant, haughty man
who acts with arrogant pride.
25† The desire of the sluggard kills him,

for his hands refuse to labor.
26 All day long he craves and craves,
but the righteous gives and does not hold back.
27† The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination;
how much more when he brings it with evil intent.
28 A false witness will perish,
but the word of a man who hears will endure.
29 A wicked man puts on a bold face,
but the upright gives thought to[2] his ways.
30 No wisdom, no understanding, no counsel
can avail against the Lord.
31† The horse is made ready for the day of battle,
but the victory belongs to the Lord.

22 1†A good name is to be chosen rather than great riches, and favor is better than silver or gold.

2† The rich and the poor meet together;
the Lord is the maker of them all.
3† The prudent sees danger and hides himself,
but the simple go on and suffer for it.
4† The reward for humility and fear of the Lord is riches and honor and life.[1] 5† Thorns and snares are in the way of the crooked;
whoever guards his soul will keep far from them.
6† Train up a child in the way he should go;
even when he is old he will not depart

from it.

7 † The rich rules over the poor,
and the borrower is the slave of the lender.

8 † Whoever sows injustice will reap calamity,
and the rod of his fury will fail.

9 † Whoever has a bountiful[2] eye will be blessed,
for he shares his bread with the poor.

10 † Drive out a scoffer, and strife will go out,
and quarreling and abuse will cease.

11 † He who loves purity of heart, and whose speech is gracious, will have the king as his friend.

12 † The eyes of the Lord keep watch over
knowledge,
but he overthrows the words of the traitor.

13 † The sluggard says, “There is a lion outside!
I shall be killed in the streets!”

14 † The mouth of forbidden[3] women is a deep pit;
he with whom the Lord is angry will fall into it.

15 † Folly is bound up in the heart of a child,
but the rod of discipline drives it far from
him.

16 † Whoever oppresses the poor to increase his own wealth,
or gives to the rich, will only come to poverty.

Words of the Wise

17 Incline your ear, and hear the words of the wise,
and apply your heart to my knowledge, 18 for it will be pleasant if you keep them within
you,
if all of them are ready on your lips.
19 That your trust may be in the Lord,
I have made them known to you today,
even to you.
20 Have I not written for you thirty sayings
of counsel and knowledge, 21 to make you know what is right and true,
that you may give a true answer to those who sent you?

22 Do not rob the poor, because he is poor,
or crush the afflicted at the gate, 23 for the Lord will plead their cause
and rob of life those who rob them.
24 Make no friendship with a man given to anger,
nor go with a wrathful man, 25 lest you learn his ways
and entangle yourself in a snare.
26 Be not one of those who give pledges,
who put up security for debts.
27 If you have nothing with which to pay,
why should your bed be taken from under
you?
28 Do not move the ancient landmark that your fathers have set.
29 Do you see a man skillful in his work?
He will stand before kings;
he will not stand before obscure men.

23 [1]When you sit down to eat with a ruler, observe carefully what[1]
is before you,

[2] and put a knife to your throat
if you are given to appetite.
[3] Do not desire his delicacies,
for they are deceptive food.
[4] Do not toil to acquire wealth;
be discerning enough to desist.
[5] When your eyes light on it, it is gone,
for suddenly it sprouts wings,
flying like an eagle toward heaven.
[6] Do not eat the bread of a man who is stingy;[1]
do not desire his delicacies,
[7] for he is like one who is inwardly
calculating.[2]
"Eat and drink!" he says to you,
but his heart is not with you.
[8] You will vomit up the morsels that you have eaten,
and waste your pleasant words.
[9] Do not speak in the hearing of a fool,
for he will despise the good sense of your
words.
[10] Do not move an ancient landmark or enter the fields of the fatherless, [11] for their Redeemer is strong;
he will plead their cause against you.
[12] Apply your heart to instruction
and your ear to words of knowledge.
[13] Do not withhold discipline from a child;
if you strike him with a rod, he will not die.
[14] If you strike him with the rod,

you will save his soul from Sheol.
15 My son, if your heart is wise,
my heart too will be glad.
16 My inmost being[3] will exult
when your lips speak what is right.
17 Let not your heart envy sinners,
but continue in the fear of the Lord all the day.
18 Surely there is a future,
and your hope will not be cut off.

19 Hear, my son, and be wise,
and direct your heart in the way.
20 Be not among drunkards[4]
or among gluttonous eaters of meat, 21 for the drunkard and the glutton will come to poverty,
and slumber will clothe them with rags.

22 Listen to your father who gave you life,
and do not despise your mother when she is old.
23 Buy truth, and do not sell it;
buy wisdom, instruction, and understanding.
24 The father of the righteous will greatly rejoice;
he who fathers a wise son will be glad in him.
25 Let your father and mother be glad;
let her who bore you rejoice.

26 My son, give me your heart,
and let your eyes observe[1] my ways.
27 For a prostitute is a deep pit;
an adulteress[2] is a narrow well.
28 She lies in wait like a robber and increases the traitors among mankind.

29 Who has woe? Who has sorrow?
Who has strife? Who has complaining?

Who has wounds without cause?
Who has redness of eyes?
30 Those who tarry long over wine;
those who go to try mixed wine.
31 Do not look at wine when it is red,
when it sparkles in the cup
and goes down smoothly.
32 In the end it bites like a serpent
and stings like an adder.
33 Your eyes will see strange things,
and your heart utter perverse things.
34 You will be like one who lies down in the midst of the sea,
like one who lies on the top of a mast.[3] 35 "They struck me," you will say,[4] "but I was not hurt;
they beat me, but I did not feel it.
When shall I awake?
I must have another drink."

24 1 Be not envious of evil men, nor desire to be with them,

2 for their hearts devise violence,
and their lips talk of trouble.

3 By wisdom a house is built,
and by understanding it is established;
4 by knowledge the rooms are filled with all precious and pleasant riches.
5 A wise man is full of strength, and a man of knowledge enhances his
might,
6 for by wise guidance you can wage your war,
and in abundance of counselors there is victory.
7 Wisdom is too high for a fool;
in the gate he does not open his mouth.

8 Whoever plans to do evil
will be called a schemer.
9 The devising[5] of folly is sin,
and the scoffer is an abomination to
mankind.

10 If you faint in the day of adversity,
your strength is small.
11 Rescue those who are being taken away to
death;
hold back those who are stumbling to the
slaughter.
12 If you say, “Behold, we did not know this,”
does not he who weighs the heart perceive it?
Does not he who keeps watch over your soul know it,
and will he not repay man according to his work?

13 My son, eat honey, for it is good,
and the drippings of the honeycomb are sweet to your taste.
14 Know that wisdom is such to your soul;
if you find it, there will be a future,
and your hope will not be cut off.

15 Lie not in wait as a wicked man against the dwelling of the righteous;
do no violence to his home;
16 for the righteous falls seven times and rises
again,
but the wicked stumble in times of
calamity.

17 Do not rejoice when your enemy falls,
and let not your heart be glad when he stumbles,
18 lest the Lord see it and be displeased,
and turn away his anger from him.

19 Fret not yourself because of evildoers,
and be not envious of the wicked, 20 for the evil man has no future;
the lamp of the wicked will be put out.

21 My son, fear the Lord and the king, and do not join with those who do otherwise,
22 for disaster will arise suddenly from
them,

and who knows the ruin that will come from them both?

More Sayings of the Wise

23 These also are sayings of the wise.
Partiality in judging is not good.

24 Whoever says to the wicked, “You are in the right,”
will be cursed by peoples, abhorred by nations,
25 but those who rebuke the wicked will have
delight,
and a good blessing will come upon them.
26 Whoever gives an honest answer
kisses the lips.

27 Prepare your work outside;
get everything ready for yourself in the field,
and after that build your house.

28 Be not a witness against your neighbor
without cause,
and do not deceive with your lips.
29 Do not say, “I will do to him as he has done
to me;
I will pay the man back for what he has done.”

30 I passed by the field of a sluggard,
by the vineyard of a man lacking sense, 31 and behold, it was all overgrown with thorns;
the ground was covered with nettles,
and its stone wall was broken down.
32 Then I saw and considered it;

I looked and received instruction.
33 A little sleep, a little slumber,
a little folding of the hands to rest, 34 and poverty will come upon you like a robber,
and want like an armed man.

More Proverbs of Solomon

25 1 These also are proverbs of Solomon which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah copied.

2 It is the glory of God to conceal things,
but the glory of kings is to search things out.
3 As the heavens for height, and the earth for depth,
so the heart of kings is unsearchable.
4 Take away the dross from the silver,
and the smith has material for a vessel;
5 take away the wicked from the presence of the king,
and his throne will be established in
righteousness.
6 Do not put yourself forward in the king's presence
or stand in the place of the great,
7 for it is better to be told, "Come up here," than to be put lower in the presence of a noble.

What your eyes have seen
8 do not hastily bring into court,
for[1] what will you do in the end,
when your neighbor puts you to shame?
9 Argue your case with your neighbor himself,
and do not reveal another's secret, 10 lest he who hears you bring shame upon you,
and your ill repute have no end.

11 A word fitly spoken
is like apples of gold in a setting of silver.
12 Like a gold ring or an ornament of gold is a wise reprover to a listening ear.
13 Like the cold of snow in the time of harvest is a faithful messenger to those who send him;
he refreshes the soul of his masters.
14 Like clouds and wind without rain is a man who boasts of a gift he does not give.

15 With patience a ruler may be persuaded,
and a soft tongue will break a bone.
16 If you have found honey, eat only enough for you,
lest you have your fill of it and vomit it.
17 Let your foot be seldom in your neighbor's house,
lest he have his fill of you and hate you.
18 A man who bears false witness against his neighbor is like a war club, or a sword, or a sharp arrow.
19 Trusting in a treacherous man in time of trouble is like a bad tooth or a foot that slips.
20 Whoever sings songs to a heavy heart is like one who takes off a garment on a cold day,
and like vinegar on soda.
21 If your enemy is hungry, give him bread to eat,
and if he is thirsty, give him water to drink, 22 for you will heap burning coals on his head,
and the LORD will reward you.

23 The north wind brings forth rain,
and a backbiting tongue, angry looks.
24 It is better to live in a corner of the housetop than in a house shared with a quarrelsome wife.
25 Like cold water to a thirsty soul,
so is good news from a far country.
26 Like a muddied spring or a polluted fountain is a righteous man who gives way before
the wicked.
27 It is not good to eat much honey,
nor is it glorious to seek one's own glory.[2] 28 A man without self-control is like a city broken into and left without walls.

26 1 Like snow in summer or rain in harvest, so honor is not fitting for a fool.

2 Like a sparrow in its flitting, like a swallow
in its flying,
a curse that is causeless does not alight.
3 A whip for the horse, a bridle for the donkey,
and a rod for the back of fools.
4 Answer not a fool according to his folly,
lest you be like him yourself.
5 Answer a fool according to his folly,
lest he be wise in his own eyes.
6 Whoever sends a message by the hand of a fool cuts off his own feet and drinks violence.
7 Like a lame man's legs, which hang useless,
is a proverb in the mouth of fools.
8 Like one who binds the stone in the sling
is one who gives honor to a fool.
9 Like a thorn that goes up into the hand of a drunkard

is a proverb in the mouth of fools.
10 Like an archer who wounds everyone is one who hires a passing fool or drunkard.[1] 11 Like a dog that returns to his vomit is a fool who repeats his folly.
12 Do you see a man who is wise in his own
eyes?
There is more hope for a fool than for him.
13 The sluggard says, “There is a lion in the road!
There is a lion in the streets!”
14 As a door turns on its hinges,
so does a sluggard on his bed.
15 The sluggard buries his hand in the dish;
it wears him out to bring it back to his mouth.
16 The sluggard is wiser in his own eyes
than seven men who can answer sensibly.
17 Whoever meddles in a quarrel not his own is like one who takes a passing dog by the ears.
18 Like a madman who throws firebrands,
arrows, and death
19 is the man who deceives his neighbor
and says, “I am only joking!”
20 For lack of wood the fire goes out,
and where there is no whisperer,
quarreling ceases.
21 As charcoal to hot embers and wood to fire,
so is a quarrelsome man for kindling strife.
22 The words of a whisperer are like delicious
morsels;
they go down into the inner parts of the
body.
23 Like the glaze[2] covering an earthen vessel are fervent lips with an evil heart.

24 Whoever hates disguises himself with his lips
and harbors deceit in his heart; 25† when he speaks graciously, believe him not,
for there are seven abominations in his
heart;
26† though his hatred be covered with deception,
his wickedness will be exposed in the assembly.
27 Whoever digs a pit will fall into it,
and a stone will come back on him who starts it rolling.
28 A lying tongue hates its victims,
and a flattering mouth works ruin.

27 1†Do not boast about tomorrow, for you do not know what a day may bring.

2† Let another praise you, and not your own
mouth;
a stranger, and not your own lips.
3 A stone is heavy, and sand is weighty,
but a fool's provocation is heavier than both.
4† Wrath is cruel, anger is overwhelming,
but who can stand before jealousy?
5†† Better is open rebuke
than hidden love.
6† Faithful are the wounds of a friend;
profuse are the kisses of an enemy.
7† One who is full loathes honey,
but to one who is hungry everything bitter is sweet.
8† Like a bird that strays from its nest
is a man who strays from his home.
9† Oil and perfume make the heart glad,
and the sweetness of a friend comes from his earnest counsel.[1]

10 Do not forsake your friend and your father's friend,
and do not go to your brother's house in the day of your calamity.
Better is a neighbor who is near
than a brother who is far away.

11 Be wise, my son, and make my heart glad,
that I may answer him who reproaches me.

12 The prudent sees danger and hides himself,
but the simple go on and suffer for it.

13 Take a man's garment when he has put up
security for a stranger,
and hold it in pledge when he puts up
security for an adulteress.[2]

14 Whoever blesses his neighbor with a loud voice,
rising early in the morning,
will be counted as cursing.

15 A continual dripping on a rainy day
and a quarrelsome wife are alike;

16 to restrain her is to restrain the wind
or to grasp[3] oil in one's right hand.

17 Iron sharpens iron,
and one man sharpens another.[4]

18 Whoever tends a fig tree will eat its fruit, and he who guards his master will be honored.

19 As in water face reflects face,
so the heart of man reflects the man.

20 Sheol and Abaddon are never satisfied,
and never satisfied are the eyes of man.

21 The crucible is for silver, and the furnace is for
gold,
and a man is tested by his praise.

22 Crush a fool in a mortar with a pestle
along with crushed grain,
yet his folly will not depart from him.

23 Know well the condition of your flocks,
and give attention to your herds, 24 for riches do not last forever;
and does a crown endure to all generations?
25 When the grass is gone and the new growth appears
and the vegetation of the mountains is gathered,
26 the lambs will provide your clothing,
and the goats the price of a field.
27 There will be enough goats' milk for your food,
for the food of your household
and maintenance for your girls.

28 1 The wicked flee when no one pursues, but the righteous are bold as a lion.

2 When a land transgresses, it has many rulers, but with a man of understanding and
knowledge,
its stability will long continue.
3 A poor man who oppresses the poor
is a beating rain that leaves no food.
4 Those who forsake the law praise the
wicked,
but those who keep the law strive against
them.
5 Evil men do not understand justice,
but those who seek the LORD understand it completely.

6 Better is a poor man who walks in his
integrity
than a rich man who is crooked in his ways.
7 The one who keeps the law is a son with
understanding,
but a companion of gluttons shames his
father.
8† Whoever multiplies his wealth by interest and profit[1]
gathers it for him who is generous to the poor.
9† If one turns away his ear from hearing the law,
even his prayer is an abomination.
10 Whoever misleads the upright into an evil
way
will fall into his own pit,
but the blameless will have a goodly inheritance.
11† A rich man is wise in his own eyes,
but a poor man who has understanding will find him out.
12 When the righteous triumph, there is great
glory,
but when the wicked rise, people hide
themselves.
13† Whoever conceals his transgressions will not prosper,
but he who confesses and forsakes them
will obtain mercy.
14† Blessed is the one who fears the Lord always, but whoever hardens his heart will fall into
calamity.
15 Like a roaring lion or a charging bear
is a wicked ruler over a poor people.
16† A ruler who lacks understanding is a cruel oppressor,

but he who hates unjust gain will prolong
his days.
17 If one is burdened with the blood of another,
he will be a fugitive until death;[2]
let no one help him.
18 Whoever walks in integrity will be delivered,
but he who is crooked in his ways will suddenly fall.
19 Whoever works his land will have plenty of
bread,
but he who follows worthless pursuits will have plenty of poverty.
20 A faithful man will abound with blessings, but whoever hastens to be rich will not
go unpunished.
21 To show partiality is not good,
but for a piece of bread a man will do wrong.
22 A stingy man[1] hastens after wealth and does not know that poverty will come upon him.
23 Whoever rebukes a man will afterward find more favor
than he who flatters with his tongue.
24 Whoever robs his father or his mother and says, “That is no transgression,”
is a companion to a man who destroys.
25 A greedy man stirs up strife, but the one who trusts in the Lord will be enriched.
26 Whoever trusts in his own mind is a fool,
but he who walks in wisdom will be delivered.
27 Whoever gives to the poor will not want,
but he who hides his eyes will get many a curse.

28 † When the wicked rise, people hide
themselves,
but when they perish, the righteous increase.

29 1 †He who is often reproved, yet stiffens his neck, will suddenly be broken beyond healing.

2 When the righteous increase, the people rejoice,
but when the wicked rule, the people groan.
3 He who loves wisdom makes his father glad,
but a companion of prostitutes squanders
his wealth.
4 † By justice a king builds up the land,
but he who exacts gifts[2] tears it down.
5 † A man who flatters his neighbor spreads a net for his feet.
6 An evil man is ensnared in his transgression,
but a righteous man sings and rejoices.
7 A righteous man knows the rights of the poor;
a wicked man does not understand such
knowledge.
8 † Scoffers set a city aflame,
but the wise turn away wrath.
9 † If a wise man has an argument with a fool,
the fool only rages and laughs, and there is no quiet.
10 Bloodthirsty men hate one who is blameless
and seek the life of the upright.[3] 11 † A fool gives full vent to his spirit,
but a wise man quietly holds it back.
12 If a ruler listens to falsehood,
all his officials will be wicked.
13 † The poor man and the oppressor meet
together;

the LORD gives light to the eyes of both.
14 If a king faithfully judges the poor,
his throne will be established forever.
15 The rod and reproof give wisdom, but a child left to himself brings shame to his mother.
16 When the wicked increase, transgression
increases,
but the righteous will look upon their downfall.
17 Discipline your son, and he will give you rest;
he will give delight to your heart.
18 Where there is no prophetic vision the people cast off restraint,[1]
but blessed is he who keeps the law.
19 By mere words a servant is not disciplined, for though he understands, he will not respond.
20 Do you see a man who is hasty in his words?
There is more hope for a fool than for him.
21 Whoever pampers his servant from childhood will in the end find him his heir.[2] 22 A man of wrath stirs up strife, and one given to anger causes much transgression.
23 One's pride will bring him low,
but he who is lowly in spirit will obtain honor.
24 The partner of a thief hates his own life;
he hears the curse, but discloses nothing.
25 The fear of man lays a snare,
but whoever trusts in the LORD is safe.
26 Many seek the face of a ruler, but it is from the LORD that a man gets
justice.

27 An unjust man is an abomination to the
righteous,
but one whose way is straight is an abomination to the wicked.

The Words of Agur

30 1 † The words of Agur son of Jakeh. The oracle.[3] The man declares, I am weary, O God; I am weary, O God, and worn out.[4]

2 Surely I am too stupid to be a man.
I have not the understanding of a man.
3 I have not learned wisdom,
nor have I knowledge of the Holy One.
4† Who has ascended to heaven and come down?
Who has gathered the wind in his fists?
Who has wrapped up the waters in a garment?
Who has established all the ends of the
earth?
What is his name, and what is his son's name?
Surely you know!

5† Every word of God proves true;
he is a shield to those who take refuge in
him.
6† Do not add to his words,
lest he rebuke you and you be found a liar.

7 Two things I ask of you;
deny them not to me before I die:
8 Remove far from me falsehood and lying;
give me neither poverty nor riches;
feed me with the food that is needful for me,
9† lest I be full and deny you and say, "Who is the Lord?"
or lest I be poor and steal
and profane the name of my God.

10 Do not slander a servant to his master,
lest he curse you, and you be held guilty.

11 There are those[1] who curse their fathers and do not bless their mothers.
12 There are those who are clean in their own
eyes
but are not washed of their filth.
13 There are those—how lofty are their eyes,
how high their eyelids lift!
14 There are those whose teeth are swords,
whose fangs are knives,
to devour the poor from off the earth,
the needy from among mankind.

15 The leech has two daughters:
Give and Give.[2]
Three things are never satisfied;
four never say, “Enough”:
16 Sheol, the barren womb,
the land never satisfied with water,
and the fire that never says, “Enough.”

17 The eye that mocks a father and scorns to obey a mother will be picked out by the ravens of the valley and eaten by the vultures.

18 Three things are too wonderful for me;
four I do not understand:
19 the way of an eagle in the sky,

the way of a serpent on a rock,
the way of a ship on the high seas,
and the way of a man with a virgin.

20 This is the way of an adulteress:
she eats and wipes her mouth
and says, “I have done no wrong.”

21 Under three things the earth trembles;
under four it cannot bear up:
22 a slave when he becomes king,
and a fool when he is filled with food;
23 an unloved woman when she gets a husband,
and a maidservant when she displaces her mistress.

24 Four things on earth are small,
but they are exceedingly wise:
25 the ants are a people not strong,
yet they provide their food in the summer;
26 the rock badgers are a people not mighty,
yet they make their homes in the cliffs;
27 the locusts have no king,
yet all of them march in rank; 28 the lizard you can take in your hands,
yet it is in kings’ palaces.

29 Three things are stately in their tread;
four are stately in their stride:
30 the lion, which is mightiest among beasts
and does not turn back before any;
31 the strutting rooster,[1] the he-goat,
and a king whose army is with him.[2]

32 If you have been foolish, exalting yourself, or if you have been devising evil,
put your hand on your mouth.
33 For pressing milk produces curds,
pressing the nose produces blood,
and pressing anger produces strife.

The Words of King Lemuel

31 [1]†† The words of King Lemuel. An oracle that his mother taught him:

[2]† What are you doing, my son?[3] What are you doing, son of my womb?
What are you doing, son of my vows?
[3]† Do not give your strength to women,
your ways to those who destroy kings.
[4]† It is not for kings, O Lemuel,
it is not for kings to drink wine,
or for rulers to take strong drink, [5] lest they drink and forget what has been decreed
and pervert the rights of all the afflicted.
[6]† Give strong drink to the one who is perishing,
and wine to those in bitter distress;[4] [7] let them drink and forget their poverty and remember their misery no more.
[8] Open your mouth for the mute,
for the rights of all who are destitute.[5] [9] Open your mouth, judge righteously, defend the rights of the poor and needy.

The Woman Who Fears the Lord

10 [6] An excellent wife who can find?
She is far more precious than jewels.
11 The heart of her husband trusts in her,
and he will have no lack of gain.
12 She does him good, and not harm,
all the days of her life.
13 She seeks wool and flax,
and works with willing hands.
14 She is like the ships of the merchant;
she brings her food from afar.
15 She rises while it is yet night
and provides food for her household and portions for her maidens.
16 She considers a field and buys it;
with the fruit of her hands she plants a vineyard.
17 She dresses herself[1] with strength and makes her arms strong.
18 She perceives that her merchandise is profitable.
Her lamp does not go out at night.
19 She puts her hands to the distaff,
and her hands hold the spindle.
20 She opens her hand to the poor and reaches out her hands to the needy.
21 She is not afraid of snow for her household,
for all her household are clothed in scarlet.[2] 22 She makes bed coverings for herself;
her clothing is fine linen and purple.
23 Her husband is known in the gates
when he sits among the elders of the land.

24 † She makes linen garments and sells them;
she delivers sashes to the merchant.
25 † Strength and dignity are her clothing,
and she laughs at the time to come.
26 She opens her mouth with wisdom,
and the teaching of kindness is on her tongue.
27 She looks well to the ways of her household and does not eat the bread of idleness.
28 Her children rise up and call her blessed;
her husband also, and he praises her:
29 "Many women have done excellently,
but you surpass them all."
30 †† Charm is deceitful, and beauty is vain, but a woman who fears the LORD is to be praised.
31 Give her of the fruit of her hands,
and let her works praise her in the gates.

Introduction to Proverbs

Reading Proverbs

Clinking bits of silver, shouting merchants, and bleating herds distract a young man as he passes through the streets of Jerusalem. He pauses to wonder at the piles of goods on display, bartered wildly by shoppers and shopkeepers. At the corner, he catches a whiff of myrrh and cinnamon from where a sultry woman caresses the doorframe of her house. She winks and smiles. From the city gate, the young man hears the voice of one calling, "The LORD gives wisdom; from His mouth come knowledge and understanding" (2:6).

Above the clamor of Jerusalem's streets, King Solomon could see and reflect on the temptations of his subjects—temptations to which he himself succumbed. He saw clearly the need for instruction, for wisdom that parents could pass on to their children and teachers could share with their students. The Book of Proverbs is the result of Solomon's God-given wisdom, experience, and concern (1Ki 3:5–15).

Central Theme

Proverbs emphasizes the central theme of Israelite wisdom: "The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge; fools despise wisdom and instruction" (1:7). This thought appears throughout the Book (1:7; 2:5; 8:13; 9:10; 10:27; 14:27; 15:33; 19:23; 22:4; 31:30), especially in the portions contributed by Solomon. In the proverbs that the men of Hezekiah collected (chs 25–29), the fear of the Lord is not the central theme. Instead, this portion of the collection focuses on the contrast between the righteous and the wicked, preparing young men for service in the royal court.

In Proverbs, wisdom is an attribute of God and of His people. God alone can give wisdom. It is His great gift to His people. Wisdom is frequently portrayed as a woman—a dear mother or beloved bride. (See "Supposed Remnants of Goddess Worship," p 997.) This feminine imagery does not prevent Solomon from describing wisdom as God's "master workman," who is God the Son, begotten in eternity and working with the Father at creation (Pr 8:22–31; Jn 1:1–18; 1Co 1:24, 30; Col 2:2–3). See pp 775–78.

Though "wisdom" and "righteous" stand together only in one proverb (10:31), the Book equates wise people with the righteous (e.g., 9:8–10). As a result, these proverbs are always more than practical advice on proper morals. They illustrate the faith and life of one made righteous through faith in the Lord, the giver of wisdom.

For more on biblical wisdom, see pp 775–78.

Luther on Proverbs

He pays special attention to the young people. In fatherly fashion he instructs them in God's commandments, with reassuring promises of how well things shall be with the righteous, and threats as to how the wicked will have to be punished. For young people are of themselves inclined to all evil. Because of their inexperience, they do not understand the wiles and wickedness of the world and the devil. They are far too weak to withstand bad examples and the causes of offense, neither are they able to govern themselves. If they are not instructed, they are ruined and lost even before they get their bearings.

Therefore young people need and must have teachers and rulers who will exhort, warn, rebuke, and chastise them, who will hold them constantly to the fear of God and to his commandments in order to ward off the devil, the world, and the flesh. This, then, is what Solomon does abundantly and with all diligence in this book. He puts his teaching into proverbs, so that it can be grasped the more easily and kept the more readily. Anyone who intends to become righteous might well take this as a handbook or prayerbook for his daily use, read it often, and ponder his own life in it.

For a man must go one of two ways: either he must let his father chastise him or he must let the executioner punish him. As they say, "You may escape me, but you will not escape the hangman." And it would be good to impress this constantly on the young people, so that they might know without any doubt that they must suffer either the father's rod or the executioner's sword, just as, in this book, Solomon is constantly threatening the disobedient with death. There is no other way out, for God leaves nothing unpunished. We see in our own experience that disobedient knaves perish in strange ways; they finally come into the executioner's hands just when they least expect it and feel most secure. Public testimony and signs of all this are the gallows, wheels, and places of execution at the gates of all the cities. Through his temporal government God has put them there to terrify all those who will not obey their elders and let themselves be instructed in God's word.

Therefore in this book Solomon calls all those who despise God's word "fools," and all those who deport themselves according to God's commandments "wise." This does not apply solely to young people—though it is primarily they whom he has undertaken to teach—but to people of all stations from the highest to the very lowest. For just as youth has its own particular offenses against God's commandments, so every other group has its vices as well; and these are worse than the vices of youth. As they say, "The older they are, the worse they get"; and again, "Age is no cure for folly."

Even if there were nothing evil in the other and higher stations, no greed, pride, hatred, envy, etc., nevertheless this one vice would be bad enough, namely, that they try to be shrewd and smart when they ought not to be; everybody is inclined to do something else than what is committed to him, and to leave undone that which is committed to him. For example, whoever is in the spiritual office tries to be wise and active in the worldly office, and there is no end to his wisdom in this regard; in turn, whoever is in the worldly office has a head too small to hold all his superfluous knowledge about the conduct of the spiritual office.

Of such fools all lands, all cities, all homes are full, and in this book they are diligently rebuked. Everyone is exhorted to take care of his own affairs and to do faithfully and diligently that which is committed to him; there is indeed no virtue beyond that of obedience, attending to that which is given him to do. Such people are called wise men; the disobedient are called fools, even though they do not want to be, or be called, disobedient men or fools. (AE 35:258–60)

Types of Proverbs

Though the first part of Proverbs is a carefully crafted speech delivered by a father to his son (chs 1–9), much of Proverbs is a collection of wise sayings. These sayings come in different forms. Here are a few common examples:

Complete Sentences. Some proverbs state things in a straightforward way. For example, "Whoever trusts in his riches will fall, but the righteous will flourish like a green leaf" (11:28). The grammar is complete and the meaning is clear.

Juxtaposition. Many proverbs simply place two things or persons alongside each other without any verb. Here is a literal translation of one example: "A gold ring in a pig's snout—a beautiful woman without discretion" (11:22). Translators supply words such as is and like to render the passage clearly for us. Other verses include words such as like or but so the reader may easily determine that they present a comparison or a contrast. Some juxtapositions are very difficult to interpret and require great reflection.

Better and Worse Sayings. This is a special form of comparison in which the parts compare the benefits or detriments of someone or something. For example, "Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues with injustice" (16:8).

Numerical Sayings. Some sayings give lists of examples (30:24–28). Others grade the list by adding the final example as supreme (30:29–31). This is a common device in Israelite literature. See note, ch 30.

Challenges for Readers

Certain features of Proverbs have confused readers. Likewise, critics have challenged various features of the Book.

Moralistic Instruction. Proverbs does not frequently describe God's gift of righteousness or His mercy. As a result, some regard Proverbs as legalistic or human centered. However, careful reading of the Book demonstrates that a person's success in life stems from the Lord's mercy alone. Proverbs emphasizes wisdom's ability to curb violent outbursts of sin (theologians call this the first use of the Law) and what a wise person should or should not do to please the Lord. All our ways "are before the eyes of the LORD" (5:21). The ability to fear and love God in these ways comes from Him who gives wisdom (1:7; 2:6).

Application. A common struggle readers experience with Proverbs is that the outcome a proverb describes may not always be fulfilled. For example, parents have remarked regarding 22:6, "I trained my children to do what is right, but now they no longer come to church or listen to reason. Where did I go wrong?" Readers should note that Proverbs often gives observations about life and common outcomes for behavior. Generally speaking, children raised well will live well. This is a sound observation. However, there are exceptions, otherwise some admonitions in Proverbs would also not apply (e.g., 5:1–2, which emphasizes the child's responsibility to listen). Proverbs can give specific commandments or prohibitions, which the reader is simply expected to accept. However, most proverbs include an observation about life and a conclusion for the reader to ponder and act on.

Authorship. Some critics regard attribution of authorship to Solomon as only honorary. They have proposed late dates for the writing of Proverbs, after Israel returned from exile. However, according to the Book itself, several authors wrote or compiled Proverbs from the tenth century to about the seventh century BC. Studies of the vocabulary, thought, and expression in the sections attributed to Solomon show great unity. Also, sections attributed to other authors are distinct in these features ("The Wise," 22:17–24:34; Agur, ch 30; Lemuel, 31:1–9; Unknown author, 31:10–31). These findings bear out what the Book itself states about authorship. The dates and authorship proposed by critics stem from their mistrust of biblical history rather than the Book's content. Because the text addresses

Solomon's "son" (likely Rehoboam), the earliest date Solomon could have written his portion is c 971 BC. The latest Solomon could have written is 931 BC, when his reign ended. These dates provide the biblical boundaries for Solomon's work. The reign of Hezekiah (715–686 BC) provides a second important boundary for the Book's composition.

Elitism. Others have criticized Proverbs as reflecting the worldview and values of the intellectually elite in Israel rather than typical Israelites. For example, chs 25–29 are clearly associated with the concerns of King Hezekiah's court. However, much of the wisdom of the Book happens at "street level," where Israelites interacted with one another at the market or in the home. Though Proverbs certainly gives counsel on how to ascend in society, it emphasizes the blessings of wisdom and goodness for all people.

Supposed Remnants of Goddess Worship. Solomon frequently describes wisdom as a dear mother or beloved bride (e.g., 1:20–33; 3:13–18; 8:1–11; 9:1–6). This should not be interpreted to mean that "Lady Wisdom" in Proverbs is a remnant of a goddess or consort for Yahweh, similar to the goddesses associated with the god Baal in Canaanite culture. There is a better explanation. Like most languages, Hebrew categorizes nouns as feminine or masculine (English does not do this). The Hebrew word for "wisdom" (chokmah) is grammatically feminine. By characterizing wisdom as a woman, Solomon uses this grammar for a play on words, which is simply a feature of Solomon's writing style. But he also breaks away from the feminine imagery. For example, in 8:22–31 he writes a first-person address of wisdom as the Lord's "master workman."

Organization. For people reading Proverbs in English, the Book may seem disorganized. The connections between various sayings—where the same or similar Hebrew words unite a collection of sayings—are not always clear. The outline below and the study notes will highlight thematic collections of proverbs.

Blessings for Readers

As you read Proverbs, bear in mind the central theme of the Book: "The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge" (1:7). Proverbs promises that you will not face life alone or without good counsel. When you face the practical dilemmas of life, the Lord is with you to establish your steps (16:9). Call on His name (18:10), and wisdom will answer (1:33; 2:4–6). "You are in Christ Jesus, who became to us wisdom from God, righteousness and sanctification and redemption" (1Co 1:30).

The Fear of the Lord

Each of us knows what it's like to have a friend or family member suddenly pop in on us and make us jump right out of our skin. The fear evoked by the sudden appearance of the angel of the Lord is repeatedly mentioned in the Scriptures, from the prophet Moses to the Virgin Mary. But "the fear of the Lord" is something more than surprise or terror.

Proverbs teaches that, far from cowering in dread before the Lord, the person who fears the Lord clings to Him. Solomon's father, King David (reigned 1009–970 BC), summed it up well:

> I sought the Lord, and He answered me and delivered me from all my fears. … The angel of the Lord encamps around those who fear Him, and delivers them. … Oh, fear the Lord, you His saints, for those who fear Him have no lack! (Ps 34:4, 7, 9)

In other words, when we fear God, there is nothing to be afraid of!

Appropriate Fear

"The fear of the LORD" is a key concept throughout the OT. Unfortunately, the Hebrew noun yir'ah that is translated "fear" (or the verb "to fear") does not communicate itself through any single word in English translation. What does "the fear of the LORD" really mean?

For us, the word fear often has a negative connotation, namely, to be afraid of something or someone. The Hebrew term can mean that. For example, when Jacob prepared to meet his brother, Esau, he feared. Jacob had fled from Esau years before because he had tricked Esau out of his birthright. Jacob prayed to God, "Please deliver me from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau, for I fear him, that he may come and attack me, the mothers with the children" (Gn 32:11). But the word fear can have other shades of meaning. When referring to a person of high position, it takes on the idea of standing in awe or reverence before that individual. God wants us to fear Him in this sense. He is our Creator, and He is our Savior. How can we ever think of God with indifference or treat Him lightly?

Abraham illustrates a proper "fear of the LORD." When Abraham traveled into the region ruled by Abimelech, he sensed that the king and his people were ruthless and would kill him just to get his beautiful wife Sarah. "Abraham said, 'I did it because I thought, There is no fear of God at all in this place, and they will kill me because of my wife' " (Gn 20:11). The Lord God wants us to have a healthy reverence of Him so that we respect Him and His Word as Abraham did.

Fear in Proverbs

Proverbs points out that true wisdom begins with such fear. The opening verses sum up the entire Book:

> The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge; fools despise wisdom and instruction. (Pr 1:7)

This fear is closely related to trust because we can truly respect and reverence God only when we believe that He is truly everything that His Word, the Bible, says He is. Understanding "fear of the LORD" as trust helps us understand other enigmatic Bible passages such as Ps 130:4:

> But with You there is forgiveness, that You may be feared.

The idea of fearing God occurs repeatedly throughout the Book of Proverbs: 1:7, 29; 2:5; 3:7; 8:13; 9:10; 10:27; 14:2, 16, 26, 27; 15:16, 33; 16:6; 19:23; 22:4; 23:17; 24:21; 28:14; 31:30. See note, 2:5.

Christ as Wisdom

According to Proverbs, Wisdom was present already in eternity, before the creation of the world and, consequently, before there even was such a thing as time. Along the same lines, Jesus said, “And now, Father, glorify Me in Your own presence with the glory that I had with You before the world existed” (Jn 17:5). In Pr 8, Wisdom is given birth by God, even though Wisdom was present from eternity. Likewise, Jesus is God’s only-begotten Son; that is, “His only Son” (Jn 3:16).

John’s Gospel begins with a description of Jesus as “the Word.” This description connects Jesus with the Wisdom of Proverbs, which calls out and makes its appeals. John declares, “In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God” (Jn 1:1–2). Wisdom was also present with God in the beginning (Pr 8:22).

An Ancient Yet Modern Controversy

In the fourth century after Christ, a controversy broke out in the Christian churches. Focusing on this portion of Proverbs, the followers of the priest Arius argued that the Son of God was a created being and not eternal God. They argued that there was a time when the Son of God did not exist. Much of their argument rested on a faulty Greek translation of Pr 8:22: "The LORD created Me," instead of "The LORD possessed Me."

In our day, the Jehovah's Witnesses have taken up this ancient heresy and contend that Jesus, the Son of God, is not true God. To support their false doctrine, they even mistranslate Scripture, such as Jn 1:1. Their New World Translation says, "The Word was a god," instead of, "The Word was God." Their false translation makes Jesus a second-level god alongside the heavenly Father. Clearly, this teaching does not fit with Holy Scripture, which teaches that there is only one God! (Cf Is 45:18–21; see p 1815.)

At the time of creation, Wisdom said, "I was beside [God], like a master workman" (Pr 8:30). Passages in the NT attribute this to Christ, e.g., Col 1:15–17; firstborn in this passage is used in a specific sense. It does not mean the first child born into a family. Rather, it refers to the inheritance rights of the one who held the honors of a firstborn son. (E.g., King David is called "firstborn" in Ps 89:27, even though he was the youngest son in his family [1Sm 16:11–13]. In view of this, when Paul calls Jesus "the firstborn of all creation," he means that Jesus rules all creation, not that He was created, for "all things were created through Him and for Him.")

Faithful Christians in the Early Church, led by the great Church Father Athanasius, carefully studied Pr 8 and other passages of Holy Scripture. They recognized that while the Son of God is begotten, He is also co-eternal with God the Father. Out of this research into God's Word came the Nicene Creed, by which Christians still confess faith in Jesus Christ as "the only-begotten Son of God, begotten of His Father before all worlds, God of God, Light of Light, very God of very God, begotten, not made, being of one substance with the Father, by whom all things were made."

When we come face-to-face with the eternally begotten Son and other mysteries concerning the triune God, we are in realms beyond human comprehension. We can no more capture the eternal, omnipotent God within our minds than we can hold the ocean in a bucket. The wonder of it all is that the almighty Creator has come to us to save us. Jesus is God. He is also our Brother (Heb 2:11) who has suffered, died, and risen for us.

Clear through Christ

It is often said that the OT is revealed in the NT, while the NT is concealed in the OT. In other words, what is not entirely clear in the OT becomes clear in the light of the coming of Jesus the Christ. That is what has happened with Pr 8.

The NT explicitly states that Jesus is the one “in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge” (Col 2:3). Or, as St Paul puts it in 1Co 1:24, Christ is “the wisdom of God.” As you read Proverbs, hear the voice of your Redeemer. As the “Word of God,” these are His words for you.

Fools in Proverbs

God often teaches the way of wisdom by using contrast. As a skilled artist sets his or her subject matter against a contrasting background, so the Lord, through His inspired writers, sets the bright gem of wisdom against the dismal backdrop of foolishness.

When the Bible in general—and Proverbs in particular—speaks of foolishness, the first and most important point to remember is that it describes a moral and spiritual condition. We should not confuse foolishness with lack of academic prowess or a low IQ. Some people who are brilliant may, in God's eyes, be fools. For example, Ps 14:1 and 53:1 state, "The fool says in his heart, 'There is no God.'" In Proverbs, the fool is one who does not have a proper fear of the Lord. Consequently, such a person is likely to deny God's Word.

The Hebrew language in which Proverbs was originally written makes a distinction among different kinds of foolishness or fools. Awareness of these differences will help you more fully appreciate the message of Proverbs.

The simple: Hbr pethi, the person who is easily lured or deceived; gullible. Of the various types of fools, this one is the least hardened in his or her foolishness. These naive and inexperienced people drift along aimlessly, until they fall easy prey to temptation (14:15). Such gullibility, of course, is not an excuse for sinning. Gullible people are responsible for their actions and may even end up killing themselves (1:32). In Pr 7, Solomon observes the gullible people and notes one who is drifting along aimlessly, ripe for a prostitute's picking. If they are to escape their ways "and live," the gullible need wisdom (9:4–6). Indeed, wisdom invites them by calling out, "Whoever is gullible, turn in here!"

The fool: Hbr kesil; if the gullible person doesn't learn, he or she may well move to the next level of foolishness and become a regular fool. This Hbr word is used 50 times in Proverbs and is the Book's most common term for fool. In the end, "fools die for lack of sense" (10:21).

Stubborn fool: Hbr 'ewil, occurs 20 times in Proverbs. What can be said about the "generic fool" can also be said about this fool. As the term "stubborn" implies, however, the individual at this level of foolishness is more hardened and persistent. “Fools mock at the guilt offering, but the upright enjoy acceptance” (14:9). This category of fool is connected to the word for foolishness and stupidity, or folly. Sadly, it’s a trait often found in children: “Folly is bound up in the heart of a child, but the rod of discipline drives it far from him” (22:15). As the child becomes a grown-up, the trait is even more difficult to correct: “Crush a fool in a mortar with a pestle along with crushed grain, yet his folly will not depart from him” (27:22).

The godless fool: Hbr nabal, appears only three times in Proverbs. This is the word used in the psalms quoted earlier in this article. Those people who say to themselves, “There is no God.” Their mind is closed; they have rejected the Lord. This word is used in Pr 30:21–23, which states that one of four things under which the earth trembles is “a fool when he is filled with food.” Once such a person’s physical needs are satisfied, who knows what havoc he or she will bring to others? We find the epitome of this boorish and domineering fool in the man named Nabal (1Sm 25). He was “harsh and badly behaved” (v 3), and one of his own servants said of him, “He is such a worthless man that one cannot speak to him” (v 17).

Scripture and the Fool

As we look closely at the fool in Proverbs and the rest of Scripture, we come face-to-face with sinful human beings and with the "natural man." In other words, we see ourselves. The believer realizes, "There but for the grace of God go I." Even the author and compiler of Proverbs, wise King Solomon, became such a fool that he fell into idolatry (1Ki 11:4–11). As long as we are in this world, we will struggle against giving in to our sinful, foolish tendencies.

The remedy for foolishness is for God's Word to remain our daily companion (Pr 2:1). The foolishness of the world is overcome by the foolishness of Christ. As the apostle Paul says, "If anyone among you thinks that he is wise in this age, let him become a fool that he may become wise" (1Co 3:18). It comes down to this: to know Christ and Him crucified is to know God's wisdom (1Co 1:23–25). His forgiveness destroys our sinful foolishness. Through the Savior, we become truly wise and able to offer that wisdom to others as well.

Study Notes

PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 1 The title of the Book (v 1) is expanded into five verses (2–6) that, in heaped synonyms and parallel statements, provide the purpose of these collections of proverbs: to teach wisdom. Immediately following the introductory statement of purpose, the course gets under way. The remaining verses (8–33) and chs 2–9 present versified units of instruction. They are not proverbs in our sense of the term but poems of varying length praising wisdom and urging everyone to pursue it. The individual lessons are not always clearly marked off. They treat a variety of subjects, using the pedagogical principle of repetition.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:1 Solomon … David. The greatest kings of Israel, who each reigned for 40 years. King Solomon was the son of the warrior-king David by Bathsheba, with whom David had committed adultery. God gave Solomon wisdom and a keen intellect (see pp 995–97); Solomon wrote 3,000 proverbs and 1,005 songs, as well as works on botany and zoology (1Ki 4:32–33).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:2 wisdom. Hbr chokmah, appears 37 times in Pr. Elsewhere in OT, it may refer to an artisan's skills. Wisdom is practical truth revealed by God. To know wisdom is to know of God Himself. God's people receive and apply wisdom through the working of the Holy Spirit (1Co 2:13). instruction. Hbr musar, "discipline," "chastisement." Education is inherently a moral activity, a worthy goal for all who belong to God through faith in Christ Jesus.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:3 equity. Hbr root means "level" or "straight," therefore, "just."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:4 simple. Root meaning is "to be open," depicting those ready to receive direction, i.e., those in need of God's guidance (Ps 19:7; 116:6), esp the young.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:5 wise … one who understands. One with emerging maturity in knowing, perceiving, and discerning. (Cf 1Co 13:12.) learning. See note, 4:2.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:6 proverb. See pp 777–78. riddles. Puzzles or mysteries requiring complex applications of knowledge and understanding (e.g., 23:29–30).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:7 fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge. The First Commandment teaches that "We should fear, love, and trust in God above all things" (SC, p xxxv). God is the giver of all human comprehensions; He desires for His people to regard Him in awe, respect, and love. Ter: "Fear has its origin in knowledge, for how will a man fear that of which he knows nothing?" (ANF 3:130). "So childlike fear can be clearly defined as anxiety that has been connected with faith, that is, where faith comforts and sustains the anxious heart" (Ap XIIA 38). Ambr: "First stands faith, which is a sign of wisdom, as Solomon says" (NPNF 2 10:42). Such wisdom—given by God through Word and Sacrament, making us His children—is the theme for the Book of Proverbs. True wisdom begins with an individual's apprehension in knowledge and trust of Jesus Christ as the Son of God and Savior. See note, 2:5; see also p 1001. fools. Those who hatefully reject God and the wisdom and instruction He freely offers through faith. See p 1016.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:1–7 Solomon's introduction reminds us of the difference between true wisdom and the wisdom of the world. True wisdom is from the Lord, a message that is foolishness to those who reject it but God's very power to us who are being saved (1Co 1:18). • Lord, teach us true wisdom and give us its power to love and serve You. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:8–19 The first address to a son.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:8 Hear, my son. A mature generation, including both fathers and mothers, encourages the next generation to follow the treasures of true wisdom, esp the knowledge of salvation by grace through faith. Note: In the ancient Near East, the term "son" was often applied to a student, signifying the closeness of the relationship between teacher and pupil. The OT emphasizes the duty of parents to teach children (Dt 6:6–9). The address "my son" in Pr may often be regarded as indicating chapter headings. It is used 13 times for this purpose (1:8; 2:1; 3:1, 11, 21; 4:1, 10, 20; 5:1; 6:1, 20; 7:1, 24). "For this purpose He has given us children and issued this command: we should train and govern them according to His will. Otherwise, He would have no purpose for a father and a mother. Therefore, let everyone know that it is his duty, on peril of losing the divine favor, to bring up his children in the fear and knowledge of God above all things" (LC I 173–74). teaching. See note, 28:4.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:9 garland … pendants. Possibly alludes to an award for achievement. Two silver scroll amulets (c mid-seventh century BC) bearing the Aaronic Benediction (Nu 6:24–26) were found in cave 25 of Ketef Hinnom, Jerusalem. Like decorations and jewelry, instruction and teaching are attractive when recognized among youth; the wisdom of the boy Jesus possessed this kind of appeal (Lk 2:52).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:10 if sinners entice. Peers hold ready influence among the young. The intensive form of the Hbr word for sinners shows that there are people for whom sin has become a habit.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:11 Temptations toward reckless evil, without regard for consequences, entice the young with the promise of adventure, gain, and belonging.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:12 Sheol. The grave. See p 792.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:14 one purse. Promise of acceptance and camaraderie by sharing wealth. The head of the family controlled the wealth, so youth were tempted to gain some money illegally outside family constraints.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:15 hold back your foot. Resist by God's power, which is the Gospel (Ti 2:11–12).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:17 Through instruction, God's people can flee entrapment, like birds aware of a net.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:18 their own blood. All sin leads to punishment. Sin is often its own punishment.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:19 everyone who is greedy. First counsel regarding the pursuit of easy money and violence. Greed and covetousness characterize the fallen human condition.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:8–19 Solomon warns against joining sinners in their adventurous plots, cautioning that the greedy and violent finally receive their punishment. Through the means of grace, God in Christ strengthens and preserves His people, just as He forgives all our sins for Jesus' sake. • O Lord, lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:20–33 First poem about wisdom.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:20 Wisdom, personified as a woman, freely, clearly, and directly proclaims to all, excluding no one. See "Supposed Remnants of Goddess Worship," p 997.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:21 noisy streets … city gates. Gathering places in ancient communities. See p 792. In social situations, godly wisdom is often challenged.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:22 simple … scoffers … fools. A cry against those content in their immaturity, those who delight in scoffing, and those who resist the way of the Lord.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:23 turn. Hbr shub, common OT word for repentance. Wisdom does not simply compel us to get an education but to repent and trust in the Lord (cf v 29b). See p 1080. I will pour out my spirit to you. The Law is pronounced (v 22) so that the Good News of God's love and grace might be proclaimed to receptive hearers. spirit. Hbr ruach, here the Spirit of the Lord, who works through the Word.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:26 laugh at your calamity. Words expressing righteous recognition of the true consequences for failing to listen to wisdom's call.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:27 storm. Hbr signifies a crashing storm that results in great devastation.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:28 I will not answer. God comes to us; we cannot come to Him. Those who consistently reject God and His grace finally shut out the Holy Spirit entirely; this is the unforgivable sin (Mt 12:31–32). seek. See p 843.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:29 fear of the LORD. Theme of Pr. See notes, v 7; 2:5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:32 Those who deny and reject God so they may continue in sin have plotted their own destruction.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:33 whoever listens. God's grace gives peace and security to His own.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 1:20–33 God's will is freely proclaimed and may be universally received. His Law and His grace are for all people, for He desires all to be saved (1Tm 2:4). Those who turn their backs on God and His will face condemnation. But those who believe in Jesus as their Savior can rest secure, now and forever, in His love and care. • Lord, keep us steadfast in Your Word and faith. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 2 The second address to a son.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:1 treasure up. Store, guard, value. commandments. Refers not only to the Ten Commandments but to all of God's words, which "are able to make you wise for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus" (2Tm 3:15). See p 971.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:4 seek … search. Wisdom remains hidden from those who do not request it by prayer and faith. The search for wisdom is lifelong.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:5 fear of the LORD. Luth: "The fear of God is reverence for God and spiritual worship of Him, for in this meaning Scripture everywhere uses the expression 'the fear of God.' For the truest worship of God does not consist in works, no matter how great and holy they may be, but in true and proper respect" (AE 19:13). knowledge. Always means more than mere cognitive awareness. It means an intimate relationship as well. God promises to give understanding and knowledge to those who revere Him as their God and Father. See note, 1:7; see also p 1001.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:6 His mouth. God equips and enlightens us through His Word.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:7 walk. See p 7. integrity. Hbr tom, "perfection," "completeness," "innocence." God enables His people to make sound judgments rooted in His wisdom rather than in the wisdom and norms of the world.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:8 way of His saints. God guards and guides. Pr contrasts two paths—the way of righteousness and the way of evil (v 12). Did: "There are two ways, one of life and one of death; but a great difference between the two ways" (ANF 7:377). See p 844.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:9 equity. See note, 1:3.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:10 heart. In Hbr thought, the heart is the center not only of emotions but also of capacities such as insight, critical evaluation, and human will.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:11 discretion. Adeptness at good decision making. God guides and empowers this ability through the reading and studying of His Word.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:12 way of evil. Pr often teaches a "two ways" theology: the way of goodness, followed by those who trust in the Lord for salvation (see note, v 8), and the way of evil, followed by the ungodly.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:14 Those who leave the right path for the way of evil eventually come to rejoice and delight in the way they have chosen. Through the effective working of the devil, what repulses at first becomes interesting, then acceptable, and finally a source of sinful delight. Cf Is 5:20.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:16 forbidden woman … adulteress. See ESV notes. Examples of women outside the realm of acceptability for God's child, yet appealing, attractive, and enticing. Solomon's instruction here is sadly ironic because he was born of the union of King David and Bathsheba, a relationship that began with adultery. Also, sadly, Solomon "loved many foreign women" (1Ki 11:1–8).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:17 covenant of her God. Her marriage vow—part of her vow to remain faithful to God. God made a "marriage" covenant with His people when He brought them out of Egypt (Jer 31:32). They were to remain faithful to Him, just as husband and wife are to remain faithful to each other.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:18–19 Realities intended to inform and warn. Warnings about unfaithfulness to God in issues of sexuality also apply to other aspects of unfaithfulness to God.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:18 house. Her very house is death, because of the deadly entrapment a young man would certainly find there.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:19 go to her. A common euphemism for sex.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 2:20 way of the good. See note, v 8.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 2 Two roads exist for every person—the way of righteousness and the way of evil. The way of evil is populated with those who reject God and His good and gracious will. The way of evil leads to certain and eternal death. The way of righteousness is traveled by God's forgiven children through faith in Christ Jesus, kept on the narrow path (Mt 7:13–14) by the working of the Holy Spirit through the means of grace. The path of righteousness leads to certain and eternal life. • Lord, keep us faithful in reading and studying Your Word and in receiving Your grace through the Sacraments. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:1–20 The third address to a son.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:1 heart. See note, 2:10. commandments. In keeping with the Fourth Commandment, Solomon asks his son to honor him by adhering to the wisdom he has been taught, God's holy will (the Ten Commandments).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:2 peace. Hbr shalom. Everything that provides wholesomeness, completeness, satisfaction. See note, 1Ch 22:9; see also p 1903.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:3 steadfast love. Hbr chesed. See p 843. around your neck. See note, 1:9. tablet. Can describe the tablets of the Ten Commandments (Ex 24:12). God's Spirit, working through the father's inspired words, tells the son to internalize God's commands (steadfast love and faithfulness). This internalization takes place as the Spirit works through the same Word of God, guiding people to identify with and act according to God's will. The commands and the Word of God are closely associated with the working of the Spirit: "No prophet, neither Elijah nor Elisha, received the Spirit without the Ten Commandments 'or the spoken Word'" (SA III VIII 11).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:4 favor. Hbr chen, "approval" or "affection." See p 6. good success. A recognizable effect of the Word in the lives of those who follow God's instruction.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:5 Trust. Hbr batach, "feel safe," "confident." Demonstrates complete reliance on God's grace and guidance.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:6 acknowledge. Apply what you have learned from the Lord in everything you do.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:7 fear the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:8 Complete wholeness and well-being.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:9–10 In agricultural societies, even young children understand the connection between producing and storing crops. The language of sacrifice and offerings reflects the agricultural heritage of Israel.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:9 firstfruits. The Israelites were to sacrifice to the Lord the first fruit and grain of their harvests (Ex 23:16). See p 6.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:10 filled … bursting. God promises abundance to those who honor Him with their wealth and possessions. Cf Mal 3:10; Lk 6:38. Generally, those who live wisely before the Lord will prosper. However, the Lord also tells us to expect struggle and suffering in this sinful world (Ac 14:22).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:11 do not despise. Solomon's instructions tell what to do and what not to do in order to lead a God-pleasing life. See "Law," p 971. discipline. Hbr musar, "correction," "instruction." Through punishment and correction, parents chasten their children with the goal of teaching them. This is evidence of love and distinguishes discipline from simple punishment, which may only have the goal of curbing or preventing bad behavior.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:12 him whom He loves. Not all of God's training is pleasant at the time. Sometimes, in retrospect, God's love is most clearly evident in times of severe reproof and discipline. (Cf Heb 12:5–6.)

Ter: “O blessed servant, on whose amendment the Lord is intent! with whom He deigns to be wroth!” (ANF 3:714).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:1–12 God punishes those who stubbornly resist His mercy and refuse to follow His commands. But He promises abundant blessings to all who, in faith, receive His gracious love and salvation through the merits of Jesus Christ. • Heavenly Father, lead me to dedicate myself to You and to trust in You with my whole heart, to know and live according to Your will. Send me Your Spirit to bless the use of my time, abilities, and possessions so that I may serve You faithfully and effectually. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:13 one who finds wisdom. Cf the “finding” in v 4. True wisdom and understanding come only from God.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:14–15 better than … silver … gold … more precious than jewels. According to 1Ki, during Solomon’s reign, Israel enjoyed peaceful trade relations with the seafaring city of Tyre (9:10–14), caravan traders of Arabian Sheba (Yemen; 10:1–10), Ophir, in Arabia or on the Horn of Africa (Somalia; 10:11–12), and the Hittite kingdom in Asia Minor (Turkey; 10:29). Solomon’s wealth through trade became legendary (10:14–29). Yet treasures of true wisdom are far better than earthly valuables. Jesus encourages believers to store up treasure in heaven rather than on earth (Mt 6:19–21).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:16 Long life. Blessings of fulfilling and satisfying existence are connected here and elsewhere in Scripture with obedience to God’s commands. Cf Ex 20:12. right hand … left. Some see this as a reference to a wisdom goddess figurine, such as the Egyptian goddess Maat. However, similar language is used for invisible Yahweh (Ps 16:11; Hbr “at Your right hand”).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:18 tree of life. First of four such references in Pr (11:30; 13:12; 15:4). The tree of life found in Eden was able to impart eternal life to those who ate its fruit (Gn 2:9). Cherubim guarded the tree so fallen people would not eat of it and live forever in their sin (Gn 3:22, 24). For believers, the tree of life signifies the eternal salvation Jesus freely offers. Aug: “The tree of life would seem to have been in the [earthly] Paradise what the wisdom of God is in the spiritual [Paradise]” (NPNF 1 2:256).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:19 founded the earth. Wisdom was an instrument of God, the Creator. Cf 8:22–31. Iren: “The Word, namely the Son, was always with the Father; and that Wisdom also, which is the Spirit, was present with Him, [before all] creation" (ANF 1:488). In early trinitarian theology, the Word and Wisdom are often closely associated. See p 1012.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:20 deeps … dew. Water is essential for life, a most basic element of creation. God gives all life. Today, through the waters of Baptism, God gives us new life through faith in Him (Mk 16:16).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:21–35 The fourth address to a son. Keeping wisdom and discretion is explained in human relationships, introduced by "do not" in vv 21, 25–31.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:22 Wisdom and discretion are inwardly received and outwardly evidenced. adornment. Hbr chen. See notes, v 4; 1:9.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:23 God's Word makes us secure and steady as we walk in His path (Ps 119:105).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:26 confidence. The righteous have confidence rooted and originating in the Lord. Cf 2Co 3:4–5. They do not miss a step, though they see others suffer consequences of sin.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:27 those to whom it is due. Those in need. We sin not only when we do wrong (sin of commission) but also when we fail to do what is right when the opportunity presents itself (sin of omission).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:30 no reason. There are times when contention is necessary, when one has just cause.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:32 devious person. A malicious, unrepentant sinner is an abomination to the Holy God. The end of such a person is everlasting torment because he or she has rejected God's gift of salvation. confidence. Translated as "friendship" in Ps 25:14 ("secret counsel" in ESV note). God reveals certain knowledge and understandings only to the faithful, while withholding them from unbelievers (Mt 13:11–17).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:33 Lord's curse. Punishment and torment, ultimately eternal damnation for disobedience to God's Law (Dt 27:26). (See SC, Close of the Commandments, p xxxvi.) house. Household; family.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:34 Quoted in Jas 4:6 and 1Pt 5:5 as "God opposes the proud, but gives grace to the humble." Mary, the mother of our Lord, expresses a similar thought in the Magnificat (Lk 1:52). Humility in this context describes contrite sinners, who are declared holy and righteous by the Lord's mercy. favor. See p 6.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:35 Ultimately, the wise, rejected and scoffed by those who are evil, will be exalted through their inheritance as God's children. In contrast, those without spiritual wisdom will receive eternal punishment and disgrace.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 3:13–35 Solomon, parent and teacher, emphasizes the blessings God gives through the wisdom He imparts. These blessings include the treasures of peace, security, and confidence, apportioned to those who trust in the Lord for forgiveness, new life, and eternal salvation. The blessings of those possessing true wisdom contrast with the condemnation accorded those who resist and scorn God's favor. • Triune God, make us humble before You so that we may receive and ever hold fast the treasures of Your grace. Enable us to live according to the wisdom that comes only from You. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:1–9 An address to sons.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:1 sons. Solomon now addresses several sons instead of an individual child. Though instruction may be delivered to a group, wisdom must be acquired individually.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:2 precepts. Hbr lekach. Translated "learning" in 1:5. Root means to "take" or "receive." These are not new or untried concepts, but rather a collection of truths passed from generation to generation among God's people.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:3 my father … my mother. David and Bathsheba (cf 1:8; 6:20).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:4–9 Solomon's direct and simple statement encourages his offspring to acquire, retain, and cherish that which has true and enduring value. No truth is of greater value and consequence than knowing and believing in the Savior.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:7 The beginning. What is truly important. Cf 1:7.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:8 Hipp: "There are virtues in our power which exalt the knowledge of God … practice, study, and the whole chain of other virtues. And the man who observes these, honors wisdom. And the reward is, to be exalted to be with her, and to be embraced by her in the chamber of heaven" (ANF 5:172).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:9 graceful garland … beautiful crown. See note, 1:9. Metaphors for honor, signifying a praiseworthy accomplishment or position.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:10–19 The fifth address to a son builds on the previous words directed to sons, making a personal application of wisdom.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:11 Recipient is no longer a young child. Much teaching and learning has already taken place.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:12 walk … run. Whatever the pace of life, even during harried and frantic times, God's Spirit will guard our progress.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:13 she is your life. Possessing faith in the Lord and obtaining the Spirit's power to obey God's will through the means of grace are key to a full, complete, and eternal life. Wise teachers impart this truth; wise students receive it.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:14 path … way. Lifestyle. See p 844.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:16 Description of the misdirected zeal of the ungodly.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:17 eat … drink. Those who go the way of evil are sustained and nourished by a diet of wickedness and violence.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:18–19 light of dawn … deep darkness. The Lord is both the path and the light of the world (Jn 8:12). Those without the Lord know only darkness. Those in darkness try to make others stumble (4:16), but they themselves stumble because they are in the dark and do not even know what caused them to stumble. In contrast, those who walk in the light of the Lord enjoy not only His love and forgiveness but also the support and friendship (fellowship) of other believers (1Jn 1:5–7).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:18 brighter and brighter. Enlightened as the Spirit works through the Word, God's people grow in grace, coming more fully into the light (Jn 3:20–21).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:19 The way of the wicked is the natural human condition. Those who do evil do not want the light to expose them. Rather, they are content to stumble without light in the darkness of evil. Cf Jn 3:19–20.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:20–27 The sixth address to a son refers to serving and honoring God with the parts of our body. Cf Rm 12:1.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:20 incline your ear. Pay attention.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:22 life … healing. God promises eternal life as well as temporal healing.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:23 from it flow the springs. As water gushes from an underground spring, so wise action originates in inner convictions and drives. Through God's Word, the Holy Spirit dwells in the heart of the believer, from which flows life-giving power (Jn 7:38–39). Only by God's power will the young man be able to follow his father's advice.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:24 The two parts of this verse may have slightly different meanings: (1) God desires that His people do not speak sinfully; and (2) that they avoid those who utter sinful speech.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:25 Focus on God and things of God. It is not enough to have wisdom begun; it must be sustained. God sustains wisdom in His people through the means of grace.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:26 Ponder. See ESV note. Weigh, consider, examine. The root word can describe the pointer on a balance scale (16:11).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 4:27 Do not swerve to the right or to the left. The youth is advised to remain upright, to remain focused on God and the things of God, and with intentionality and certitude to turn away from evil.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 4 Little or no formal education existed in OT times. Instead, the head of the household taught his family, including small children, in the ways of the Lord. Through this instruction, Israelites came to understand their identity as God's chosen people, to know God's saving love and promises, and to anticipate the coming of the Savior (e.g., Ex 12:24–27; Dt 4:6–7). Godly parents warn their children of the temporal and eternal consequences of wickedness. The heavenly Father assures us of the grace and blessings God offers to those who love and trust in their Savior and who, relying on His Spirit's power, seek to walk in His light.
• Lord, forgive our sins and help us each day to walk in the bright light of the new life You have given us in Baptism. Help us correctly and appropriately to teach others of Your will and love. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 5 The seventh address to a son, in which a new lesson in wisdom begins; this one focuses on withstanding the seduction of an adulteress, who is likely also a prostitute. Cf 7:13–14, 19–20.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:2 Discretion or good judgment is a goal when seduction is the enemy. your lips may guard knowledge. Knowledge of God's truth is to be spoken aloud in real-life situations. Cf Ps 119:43–48. A similar description is made of a priest in Mal 2:7. The lips of the faithful student here will be contrasted with the lips of the adulteress.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:3 lips. Her lips carry the appeal of both kisses and seductive speech. The imagery here of honey and oil shows them to be both sweet and smooth. forbidden woman. Lit, "strange." This is a woman who does not belong with the one she seduces. She is foreign and therefore forbidden to him. She is also living outside the moral boundaries God has set for His people.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:4 wormwood. Artemisia judaica, one of several artemisia plant varieties native to Israel. Its juices have a bitter taste. two-edged sword. This violent weapon can bring death and destruction, as in Dt 32:25. Clearly, the adulteress's promises (v 3) differ from what she delivers.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:5 death … Sheol. The immoral life leads to its ultimate consequence: death, both physical and spiritual. See p 792.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:6 ponder. See note, 4:26. In contrast, this woman gives no thought to where her sin might take her. Solomon describes the consequences of sinful behavior to keep his son from sinning. He shows the end of this woman's road, revealing the tragedy of her ignorance for herself and anyone who sins with her.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:7 sons. See note, 4:1.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:8 Avoidance remains one of the wisest strategies when facing temptation. Joseph used the strategy (Gn 39:11–12), and Paul counseled Timothy in the same way (2Tm 2:22).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:9 honor. Reputation in the community. Solomon begins a list showing the high price to be paid in the future for a moment of moral weakness. to others. People will mercilessly use blackmail and extortion until all wealth is gone.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:10 strangers … foreigner. The reference here may be to the husband of the foreign adulteress who might demand and exact compensation for his "loss."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:11–14 Solomon takes his son to old age and to the regrets that follow moral compromise, long past. See conclusion in v 23.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:13 teachers … instructors. May refer to an array of wisdom teachers. More likely, though, they are the son's primary teachers, his own father and mother (1:8; 4:3–4; 6:20).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:14 assembled congregation. Though he stands amid God's people, he stands as a hypocrite who consorted with strangers and foreigners (v 10). In the Law, adultery is a capital offense (Lv 20:10).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:15–20 Having shown the costs of yielding to sexual temptation outside marriage, Solomon turns to a vivid celebration of the gift of sexual intimacy within marriage.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:15 your own cistern … your own well. In an arid climate, having one's own source of water is a blessing. So having one's own wife is a blessing to be cherished—like a cistern, well, spring, stream, or fountain. For another use of water imagery to show the blessing of one's wife, cf Sg 4:12, 15.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:16 springs. One's wife and children, who are under a husband's protection (Sg 4:12). in the streets? Keep sexual intimacy within the bonds of marriage, where it belongs. Guard the honor of your spouse and your offspring. The implication is that the adulteress does not truly belong to anyone (7:12).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:17 for yourself alone … not for strangers with you. God clearly intends for faithfulness within marriage between one man and one woman. Cf Mal 2:13–16.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:18 blessed. Sexual delight in marriage is God given. Years of growing intimacy characterize God's design for the estate of marriage.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:19 deer. Illustrates the beauty and gracefulness of one's wife as in Sg 8:14. doe. Lit, a female mountain goat or ibex. The dark eyes of these animals would resemble a woman's eyes adorned with black eye makeup. always in her love. Solomon presents the rich intimacy within marriage characterized by constant love. He points his son to the beauty and fulfillment of God's design for marriage.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:20 intoxicated. See ESV note, v 19. Contrasting the blessing of v 19 is the mere physical intoxication (minus the love) that characterizes adultery.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:21 a man's ways are before the eyes of the LORD. We are accountable for our decisions not only to the faith community in which we live (v 14) but also to God Himself. When we sin, we sin against God (Gn 39:9). ponders. See note, 4:26.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:22 Solomon shows how sinners become caught in a trap of their own making. David provided the same insight in Ps 7:14–16. Solomon exposes here both the habitual nature of particular sins and their accompanying tangled web of deception and destructive consequences.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 5:23 dies for lack of discipline. Once again, Solomon takes his son to the end of the road of moral compromise and lack of discipline. (Cf vv 11–14.)

PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 5 So much of God's teaching of the Law is exposé. God shows us what sin looks like, why we sin, and where sin takes us. That is what Solomon does with his son. He gives him a vivid look at the road to and from adultery. What's more, he shows the sheer joy of deep, lasting intimacy within marriage. Sin is never just a moral lapse or isolated infraction of one of God's Commandments; its consequences lead ultimately to death (Rm 6:23). How many of us might have been spared the horrific aftermath of sin if only we had looked beyond the sin to its consequences! The Gospel of Jesus Christ motivates us to take the higher road. We honor faithfulness in marriage and in all our relationships because of Him who was faithful to us in all things. • Wise Father, You have given us marriage as an estate in which we can know the blessings of lifelong faithfulness between a man and a woman. In Your grace, You have shown us faithfulness in Jesus, Your Son. Confirm in us, O Lord, a desire to do what pleases You in all of our relationships, that we may be faithful as husbands and wives, parents and children, friends and neighbors. In Jesus' name. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:1–19 The eighth address to a son focuses on practices that threaten living by God's wisdom: guaranteeing another's loan, laziness, and lying.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:1 put up security for your neighbor. Guaranteeing another's loan in case of default is discouraged elsewhere in Pr (11:15; 17:18; 20:16; 22:26; 27:13). The practice may be motivated by the promise of an easy profit in return for risk. given your pledge. Similar to our handshake, people would strike their hands to mark a binding agreement in front of witnesses.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:2 snared … caught. Entering into such an obligation is like an animal entering a trap. The trap here is not merely a potential liability but a desire for more and more easy money. Love of money, rather than wisdom, can take hold of a person's heart (Heb 13:5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:3–5 The one held captive by the debts of another must do everything possible, and immediately, to urge the debtor to pay off the debts.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:6–11 Solomon shows the dangers of laziness.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:6 ant. The harvester ant, common in Israel, gathers grain to its nests for winter. Chem: "Does God will that we seek and consider these marks of His divinity in our own minds and in the entire nature of things? The answer is yes. … Solomon in Prov. 6:6 directs the lazy man to the ant" (LTh 1:53–54). sluggard. Hbr "idle," "lazy." We would say "lazybones."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:7 Without … chief. The ant does not have to be ordered or motivated by authority as a parent must often motivate a lazy child. The ant is a picture of motivation from within—a picture of wisdom.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:8 LXX includes additional verses after v 8 describing the hard work of the bee, considered by ancient Greek culture to be wise and productive, despite its small size.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:9 How long will you lie there, O sluggard? Question catches the waiting mode of those who lie with the lazy.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:10 A little … little … little. Laziness works in small increments, in lame excuses that value present comforts at the risk of future calamity.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:11 poverty. Crucial to understanding sin is a look at its consequences. One consequence of laziness is finding oneself suddenly and unexpectedly poor, as if having been robbed. Cf 2Th 3:6–12, where Christ is the motivation to be productive.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:12–19 Lesson on the dangers of lies and deception.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:12 A worthless person … with crooked speech. Solomon labels the deceptive person as one who is good for nothing and whose mouth is corrupt. The corrupt speech here can include slander, gossip, misrepresentation, or schemes that call for fast talk with skilled deception. Cf Jas 4:11–12 for an understanding of speaking evil of another as playing judge, a role belonging only to God.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:13–14 Not only does the mouth participate in deceit but also the winking eye, pointing finger, scraping (shuffling) feet, and perverted heart. Hbr here points to continual, habitual body language. These could be signals to others who are scheming or to looks and gestures that give away the insincerity behind the words.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:14 continually sowing discord. Ripping at people's reputations, passing rumors, or scheming toward a hidden end can lead to conflict in any community.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:15 calamity … suddenly … in a moment … broken. Emphasizing that, once found out, the deceiver is ruined.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:16–19 Solomon presents the first of the numerical sayings in Pr. The move from six to seven indicates comprehensiveness. See notes, ch 30; Jb 5:19. The seventh abomination is the deceiving lies and resulting conflict discussed in vv 12–15, making it the most memorable.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:16 abomination. Hbr is plural; it indicates religious or cultural taboos. Expression used 12 times in Pr to denote evil acts that will bring God's wrath on those who do them. to Him. Lit, "of His soul."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:17 hands that shed innocent blood. That the flagrant sin of murder is listed amid other sins more subtle and often hard to prove and punish seems surprising. All sins are hated by God, even the ones missed or camouflaged by humans. Solomon's student will learn that God sees into the heart of the sinner.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:1–19 God's Law shows us not only our sins but also their motivations and consequences. Consider a thought, an action, or a word by asking, Why am I doing this? Where could it take me? Can I do this in the name of the Lord? God hates sin so deeply that He sent His Son to take away sin's power—its curses and its eternal consequences. In Christ, we are forgiven and empowered to overcome sin. Good-for-nothings are made into God's precious and valuable sons and daughters. • Lord, You know my heart. Forgive those times when sin, not Your grace and Spirit, has motivated me. Take my words, Lord, my hands, and my feet, and use them for Your good purposes. May all who follow You speak well of one another and know the peace that comes with wisdom rooted in Your Word. In Jesus' name. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:20–35 Solomon returns to the topic of adultery as he begins a ninth address to his son.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:20–24 Reflects God's commands regarding His Law in Dt 6:4–9 and culminates in specific warnings against adultery.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:21 See note, 1:9.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:23 a lamp … a light … the way. These metaphors reveal the use of God's Commandments to teach us, to show us the good way to go. The Law shows us a way of life. Jesus, the Word and the Way (Jn 1:14; 14:6), takes us there.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:24 evil woman … adulteress. See ESV notes. Often in chs 1–9, wisdom is contrasted with adultery. Cf 7:4–5. When this topic is discussed, it is often a contrast involving two women (here, "your mother" [v 20] and the adulteress).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:25 beauty … eyelashes. A first caution: do not let her beauty take you in. Israelite women painted their eyelids to accent their beauty.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:26 loaf of bread. Another caution against the prostitute: her price may be as cheap as a loaf of bread because she may merely seek to survive on the street. precious life. Adultery has a double threat: the husband's revenge, and capital punishment under the Law (Dt 22:22).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:27–29 Two fiery metaphors—carrying fire and walking on coals—point to the inevitability of getting "burned" by fornication.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:30–31 Metaphor that likens fornication to theft. If a thief steals food out of hunger, people may sympathize with his situation, but if he is caught, he will have to make compensation anyway—far beyond the cost of the items (Ex 22:1–9). Again, fornication and adultery are costly sins, demanding consequences.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:32–35 lacks sense. Physical harm (disease), disgrace, and the insatiable jealousy and revenge of the adulterer's spouse all make adultery not just unwise but downright stupid.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 6:20–35 The Sixth Commandment, "You shall not commit adultery," holds high God's institution of marriage and protects us from the deadly consequences of sexual immorality. Pr teaches us to weigh the heavy consequences of sexual immorality before we act. Personal health, reputation, family, and career are at stake—and our relationship with God. Wisdom weighs the consequences and counts the costs. Wisdom, who is Jesus Christ, brings us the power and motivation to live worthy of our holy calling, especially where sexual purity is concerned. • Father, in Your wisdom You call Your people to purity, reserving sexual intimacy for marriage. Give me the wisdom to walk away from temptation and to overcome it by Your Word and Spirit; through Jesus Christ, Your Son, my Lord. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 7 The tenth and final address to a son also concerns adultery. This includes an object lesson (vv 6–23) framed by cautions (vv 1–5, 24–27).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:1 with you. Keeping God's Law is not mere obedience to external commands; it is a matter of the heart (v 3). When we store God's words within us, God keeps us from sinning (Ps 119:11).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:2 live. Life at its fullest comes to those who fear, love, and trust in God and His commands and promises. the apple of your eye. Lit, "the little man of the eye"; refers to the reflection that appears on the eye as a person watches what is precious to him or her.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:4–5 Once again, wisdom is contrasted with the adulteress. When we keep intimate company with God's wisdom ("my sister … intimate friend"), we will be kept from adultery.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:6 lattice. Windows in ancient Israel had no glass. To keep birds out and air flowing, wooden lattices covered the openings.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:7 a young man lacking sense. Echoing 6:32, Solomon singles out one young man who shows his lack of wisdom by approaching the haunts of an adulteress.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:8 passing along the street near her corner. In 1:20, wisdom was personified as a woman crying out in the streets. Here, Solomon shows that in those same streets, sexual temptation cries out. He presents the struggle between the two in the heart of one young man.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:9 night and darkness. Practically, the darkness provides cover for the young man's approach to sin. Spiritually, it symbolizes his lack of wisdom, for wisdom is walking in the light (Ps 119:105).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:11 loud and wayward. The woman is depicted as brash and aggressive toward the young man, oblivious to social customs requiring public modesty by a woman, who should have been home at night.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:13 seizes him and kisses him. The bold greeting stirs the young man's sexual appetite. With that aroused, she will help him make excuses for his sin.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:14 I had to offer sacrifices … paid my vows. The woman presents herself as religious, as having just made a peace offering in connection with a vow. (Cf Lv 7:12–16.) Some of the meat in a peace offering could be eaten by the person making the offering, but it had to be eaten within two days. What a wily invitation! The woman turns her temptation to sin into an invitation to a fellowship meal. Her brashness probably also shows that these religious meals had been secularized over time (e.g., the secularization of the Christmas feast into Christmas parties).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:15 you … you … you. She emphasizes that she has been seeking him in particular, appealing to his pride and prowess. In truth, any unwitting "trick" would have satisfied her.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:16 colored linens from Egyptian linen. Very expensive (Ezk 27:7). In what follows, she offers the young man not a cheap thrill but an experience in lavish living, befitting the rich and famous.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:17 myrrh. Imported, highly fragrant gum extracted from burseraceae trees. aloes. Costly imported products made from aromatic resin secreted by older eaglewood trees. cinnamon. Imported spice made from the inner bark of a tropical evergreen tree in the laurel family. See note, Sg 4:13–15.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:18 let us take our fill of love. She makes her proposition, inviting the man to sexual pleasures likened to a sumptuous meal (cf Sg 4:10–5:1).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:19 my husband is not at home. Lest the young man fear being caught by the woman's husband, she assures him that he is gone on a long business journey. She continues to anticipate his reasons for rejecting her offer.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:20 money. Lit, "silver." See note, Jsh 24:32. at full moon. No doubt that was days away.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:21 smooth talk. Lit, "smooth lips"; may also refer to her kisses. Her mouth breathes seduction. In v 5, her words were said to be smooth.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:22 All at once. The downfall of the young man is immediate; he is unwittingly trapped and killed.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:23 cost him his life. See note, 6:26. The young man has left behind the life God's wisdom brings. To choose sin is to choose the way that leads to death (14:12; 16:25; Rm 6:23).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:24–27 Solomon summarizes the point of the illustration, describing the deadly consequences of a turn off wisdom's path. The repetition enhances learning, as Solomon restates from 2:18 and 5:5 that this woman's road leads to death.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 7:27 Sheol. See p 792.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 7 Whether male or female, husband or wife, the one who commits adultery chooses immediate gratification over faithfully keeping one's commitments to God and spouse. The breaking of the Sixth Commandment has repeatedly brought death to marriage, family, friendships, and career. More significant, this willful sin walks away from God and God's order in His creation, in which He reserves sexual intimacy for the marriage of one man and one woman. No talk of love, youthful naiveté, or even shared religious values can camouflage the destructive force of the sin of sexual intimacy outside marriage. The One who is faithful in all things offers forgiveness for all who have taken this deadly turn. The apostle Paul likens God's relationship with us to a marriage characterized by service and sacrifice (Eph 5:22–27). God's Word and wisdom light the way to sexual purity and marital faithfulness. • Lord Christ, Wisdom of God, plant Your Word in my heart that I may be faithful in my sexuality. Save me from wanton sins of immediate pleasure, which make no sense for those who live by Your light and truth. Lord Jesus, be for me the way that leads from death to life. In Your strong name. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 8 Second poem about wisdom. The first poem was 1:20–33.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:1 Does not wisdom call? Opening rhetorical question assumes that everyone reading is aware of wisdom's invitation. her. Wisdom is personified as a good woman, in stark contrast to the adulterous woman of ch 7. See "Supposed Remnants of Goddess Worship," p 997.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:2 at the crossroads she takes her stand. Here and in vv 3–4, wisdom stations herself to be heard in the midst of life. She calls out for travelers on their way in and out of the town.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:4 men … children of man. Wisdom's invitation is for all; her call is universal.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:5 simple ones … fools. Here, as elsewhere in Pr, wisdom offers her message and benefits to those who are unschooled and vulnerable. Because sin taints every human mind and heart, all people meet her description.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:6 noble … right. Wisdom's message fills the mind and heart with all good things. Paul reflects this call to things noble and true in Php 4:8. To these, add truth (v 7) and righteousness (v 8). This is the first time these virtuous descriptors are clearly tied to wisdom's message. Solomon is bringing his students to a new level of understanding wisdom.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:7–8 wickedness. Solomon contrasts the virtues of wisdom's message with its opposites. The parallelism of the contrasting realities clarifies and heightens the value of wisdom's virtues.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:9 Wisdom's message is grasped rightly by those who have the knowledge of God (2:5).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:10–11 instead of silver … rather than choice gold. Unlike Lady Folly, wisdom asks no money. The riches she offers surpass any object of human desire.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:12–14 Wisdom's attributes parallel the gifts of the Spirit of the Messiah in Is 11:1–3, clearly identifying Christ as our wisdom.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:13 The fear of the LORD is hatred of evil. See notes, 1:7; 2:5. The more we lovingly revere God, trusting exclusively in His wisdom, the more we will hate and shun evil. In this sense, we take on God's own character in detesting what is evil in His sight (6:16–19). See note, Ps 5:5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:15–16 kings … rulers … princes … nobles. Wisdom is a crucial asset for those who govern. Their just government evidences the wisdom of God, who sets governments in place and uses them for His purposes (Rm 13:4).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:17 I love those who love me. Wisdom is set into the context of an intimate relationship. The verse's second line adds to the thought of the first, promising that those who love and seek Wisdom will find her. Cf 1Co 12:8, 31. seek … find. Words used often in Proverbs for the quest for wisdom (2:4–5; 3:13; 4:22).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:18–19 enduring wealth … fruit … yield. Agricultural language accents Wisdom as a renewing resource, promising future blessings, in contrast with the stagnant wealth of precious metals and gems.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:20 the way … the paths. Wisdom walks with those who seek righteousness and justice. See p 844. Jesus described Himself as the way (Jn 14:6).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:21 granting an inheritance to those who love me. Riches that come to those who follow God's Wisdom, the Christ, are celebrated in several NT passages: Eph 2:7; 3:8–10; Php 4:19; Col 1:27; 2:2. granting an inheritance. Paul celebrates the rich inheritance of those who are in Christ (Eph 1:13–14; Col 1:10–12).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:22–31 Poem about God's use of wisdom in creation.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:22 possessed Me at the beginning. See ESV note. Just as Solomon's students are encouraged to acquire or possess Wisdom (1:5; 4:5, 7), so the Lord possesses Wisdom in eternity, even before His act of creation. This personification of wisdom points to the eternal nature of the pre-incarnate Christ, present at creation (Jn 1:1–3). Just: "The Word of Wisdom, who is Himself this God begotten of the Father of all things, and Word, and Wisdom, and Power, and the Glory of the Begetter, will bear evidence to me, when He speaks by Solomon" (ANF 1:227).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:23 set up. Hbr word here is used elsewhere in the Bible only for God's coronation of a king (Ps 2:6). Variant of the word can also mean "to weave," as woven or knit in the womb (Ps 139:13), here then referring to Wisdom begotten of God. For Christ as appointed Messiah before creation, cf Mi 5:2; Jn 17:5.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:24–26 brought forth … brought forth. Special form of Hbr verb chul. Term can describe various forms of movement, such as dancing or writhing in pain (as in giving birth). This anticipates the NT language describing Jesus as "begotten," the eternal generation of the Son from the Father, before time and space were created. Before … before … before. Threefold repetition shows Wisdom to be eternal (cf "before all things" [Col 1:17], clearly not a part of creation).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:26 dust. Plural in Hbr. The countless particles that make up the world.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:27–29 Provides a picture of the first three days of creation (Gn 1:3–10), placing Wisdom there from the creation of the heavens to the creation of the earth's foundations. Wisdom saw it all, from the heights to the depths of creation.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:27 circle. Cf Gn 1:7–8.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:30–31 delight … rejoicing … rejoicing … delighting. Chiastic arrangement links the joy between the Lord and Wisdom to the joy between the Lord and humanity at creation. Ath: "In whom does the Father rejoice, except as seeing Himself in His own Image, which is His Word?" (NPNF 2 4:393).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:30 beside Him. The universe was created by God's Word, a powerful companion to His presence. God said, "Let there be," and there was (Gn 1:3, 6, 9, 11, 14, 20, 24, 26). God spoke (wisdom), and things that never were came to be (Heb 11:3). like a master workman. More than just an observer, Wisdom crafted creation. Earlier, wisdom is depicted as a woman. However, in this poem (vv 22–31), the feminine imagery is replaced by a first-person address ("Me," "I") and depiction of wisdom as a "workman." This points forward to the description of the man Jesus as God's Wisdom in the NT. I was daily His delight. Wisdom, Christ, the Son of God, was and is an object of delight and pleasure for the Father (Mt 3:17). rejoicing before Him always. As the Father finds pleasure in the Son, the Son delights in His Father. The reciprocity within the Trinity is evident here as the close mutual relationship between Father and Son is clear (Mt 11:27; Lk 10:22; Jn 5:19–21). This could also refer to the Son's daily pleasure in creation, which His Father declared good (Gn 1:31).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:31 delighting in the children of man. As the creation account ends with the creation of mankind (Gn 1:26–28), so this poetic presentation of creation recalls Wisdom's pleasure in seeing human beings created in God's image (Gn 1:31; Ps 8:3–5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:32–36 Concluding address returns to the appeal of vv 1–21.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:34 waiting beside my doors. In 5:8, Solomon counseled students not to go near the door of the adulterous woman. Here, though, they are encouraged to wait eagerly at Wisdom's doorstep. Wisdom alone grants entry into her home.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:35 life. The adulterous woman brings death (5:5; 7:27); Wisdom brings life (cf promises in Jn 3:16; 8:51; 10:10). favor. See p 6. Wisdom's invitation, like that of Christ, is one that offers God's favor (2Co 6:1–2; Lk 4:19).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 8:36 all who hate me love death. Stakes are high where following Wisdom is concerned.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 8 The Lord is our Wisdom. His words and atoning works call from the heights and the crossroads of life for all humanity to hear. Like Wisdom in ch 8, Christ calls us from worldly foolishness, judgment, and death to obedience, God's favor, and abundant life. Christ's eternal nature, His relationship with the Father, and His work in creation all mark Him as the very wisdom of God. As such, He hates the sins of pride, arrogance, evil, and perverted speech (v 13). He calls us to do the same (Rm 12:9). He reaches out in love to all who love Him and diligently seek Him. In Christ, our Wisdom, we are rich beyond any human measure! • Lord Christ, Your wisdom brings life. You favor both the great and the humble, rulers and children, calling us from foolish sins to righteousness and truth. When we have lost our way, You are the door to all that is good and right, noble and true. Lord, make us wise unto Your salvation, that by Your gracious wisdom we may truly live. In Your name. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 9 Third poem about wisdom.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:1–6 Wisdom, again personified as a woman, prepares a house and a feast for all who answer her invitation.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:1 Wisdom. Plural in Hbr, perhaps to amplify wisdom's honor. seven pillars. Israelite houses were built with pillars on the ground floor to support the upper room, where the family dwelt. As seven is often a sacred number (see p 217), the house with seven pillars or foundations may refer to the whole earth. (Pillars or foundations are said to support the earth in Jb 38:6; Ps 104:5.) In Pr 8, Wisdom's call is universal. Here, her house may be worldwide. Cf 14:1.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:2 set her table. Wisdom prepares for her feast as if by checklist.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:3 her young women. Wisdom's servant girls remind one of the servants announcing the wedding feast in Jesus' parable (Mt 22:2–4). highest places in the town. As in 8:2, the invitation goes out for all to hear.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:4 simple … lacks sense. The audience for Wisdom's invitation is all who lack wisdom but have not yet rejected her. They may not be seeking Wisdom, but she seeks their attention.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:5 wine I have mixed. Wine was often mixed with spices.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:6 live. Wisdom promises life to all who share her feast, which gives life (8:35). The way of Wisdom leads to abundant life.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:7–12 These verses bridge between Wisdom's banquet (vv 1–6) and Folly's banquet (vv 13–18).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:7 Foolish people are not open to correction and may respond to admonition with defensiveness and counterattack.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:8 reprove a wise man. Those who are wise are open to correction and reproof. They know the value of wisdom, even when it hurts.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:9 wiser. Wisdom is not simply attained all at once. Eager for growth, wise people are teachable. The more they learn, the wiser they are.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:10 fear of the LORD … knowledge. See notes, 1:7; 2:5. Iren: "The sense of sin leads to repentance, and God bestows His compassion upon those who are penitent" (ANF 1:457). Holy One. Used for God in Pr only here and in 30:3.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:11 As in 3:1–2, those who live by Wisdom will be blessed with a long life.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:12 God gives wisdom, and the wise are blessed. Those who reject Wisdom's invitation have no one to blame but themselves for the sad plight of their lives. The wise receive grace's gift, deliverance from the way of death. Those on their way with Folly will get what they deserve and bear it all alone.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:1–12 The gracious invitation of Wisdom extends to all who live apart from the life she longs to bring. Jesus Christ calls the world to His banquet (Jn 6:32–59). Those who respond in faith will live forever in the company of Christ and His banqueting guests. Those who foolishly reject Him are dead in their sins. • Lord Jesus, save me from the folly of rejecting You. Make me wise to the truth of Your love. Help me to know You and love You so deeply that in Your life-giving presence I will grow more like You. For Your name's sake. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:13 woman Folly. Lit, "the woman of foolishness." This feminine form appears only here; someone who is the embodiment of simple-minded gullibility, the opposite of wisdom.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:14 sits at the door of her house. Unlike Wisdom, busy with banquet preparations, Folly just sits and waits for the next gullible victim. Cf 5:8. takes a seat on the highest places. Cf v 3. Here Folly, perhaps mocking Wisdom, calls to those far and near. Note that lazy Folly also sits on the heights. Ironically, she enthrones herself where she does not belong.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:16 Same appeal as v 4, revealing that one must distinguish between the invitations of these two opposing women.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:17 Stolen water … bread eaten in secret. Folly's banquet of water and bread does not compare with Wisdom's banquet of wine and meat. What's worse, Folly's food and drink are stolen goods, symbolizing the stolen pleasures of adultery.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:18 the dead are there. Wisdom brings life (9:6, 11). Folly brings death. Her banquet is cheap and phony, a stolen parody. Once again, Solomon presents a horrible picture of dead people eating, meant to shock the foolish into seeing folly for what it is—a way to death (2:18–19). Rm 6:23 presents a similar stark contrast between death and life in terms of our justification. Sheol. See p 792.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 9:13–18 God's Law warns against the deadly foolishness all around us. Life in the Gospel saves us from a naive gullibility that sets us up for moral and spiritual disaster. The Law is the light that shows us the dirt in the house of our lives. The Gospel is the broom that sweeps it clean. The Gospel moves us from lazy moral laxity to wise discipline. The folly of sin gets a just punishment—death. The wisdom of our God-given faith brings eternal life. • Lord, save me from the folly of going my own way, for in the end folly abandons me in the company of the dead. Give me a discerning mind to know how folly's call would take me from wisdom to a table for the dead. Then, by Your grace and Spirit, bring me to a feast of life, rich with Your presence, lasting forever. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:1–22:16 The proverbs of Solomon. General collection of Solomon's proverbs. This "royal" collection reflects only a portion of the proverbs spoken by Solomon (1Ki 4:32). Unlike the first nine chs, which consist of several tightly organized addresses, these 12½ chapters are less closely knit together. The purpose of these sections accounts for the difference. Chs 1–9 encourage the reader to turn from sin and folly and pursue wisdom and the fear of the Lord; 10:1–22:16 demonstrates what wisdom and folly look like in practice. Reading 10:1–22:16 reminds us of our own folly, our own rebellion against God. Most of the proverbs in chs 10–15 are two lines long, expressing a contrast designed to give instruction in wisdom.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:1–5 son. Links this collection with the 10 sections of chs 1–9 also addressed to a son. The use of this term in vv 1 and 5 frames this section as a literary unit, emphasizing the blessings that come to a family through diligent and honest labor. father … mother. Many proverbs connect a son's behavior or character with the well-being of his parents (15:20; 17:25; 19:13; 23:24–25; 28:7; 29:3). The good works of Jesus' followers likewise reflect the glory of their heavenly Father (Mt 5:16).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:2 Treasures gained by wickedness. Not only by outright theft but also by acts of fraud and dishonesty that may appear to be right on the surface. Both the Seventh and Ninth Commandments forbid this type of stealing. righteousness delivers from death. Not the outward righteousness evidenced by honest labor but the righteousness that comes through faith in the Lord. It is a gift of God through faith and is not earned through obedience to the Law. See p 843.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:3 The Lord does not let … thwarts. Because it is the Lord who ultimately delivers the righteous and who frustrates the wicked, a person's relationship with Him will always figure more prominently than any human works in the reception of spiritual or material blessing.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:1–5 The material blessings enjoyed by families should be pursued by prudent and diligent work done honestly. God blesses such labor and uses it to provide for the needs of His people. We should be careful not to forget that it is God who provides us with all that we need to support our body and life. Likewise, we must never resort to wickedness or dishonesty in an attempt to secure a better profit for ourselves. The righteousness that comes through faith in Jesus not only delivers from death, but it also ensures that our heavenly Father will provide us with everything we need. • Heavenly Father, grant me to believe that because You did not spare Your own Son, You will now graciously give me every needed thing (Rm 8:32). Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:6–23 mouth. Most of these proverbs have to do with the use of the mouth.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:6 Blessings are on the head. Much as a crown is worn on the head, bringing honor to the one on whom it rests. See note, 1:9.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:7 wicked will rot. Like the repugnance of rotting and decaying matter, the very names of the wicked reek with the offensiveness of their evil deeds (e.g., the names Cain, Jezebel, and Judas).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:10 winks the eye. Gesture connected to evil intent (6:13; 16:30), perhaps as a signal between those involved in sinful schemes.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:11 fountain of life. Powerful imagery for readers in the arid Near East. The words of the righteous are like life-giving water for those who hear them. Jesus attributed this flow of "living water" to the work of the Holy Spirit among believers (Jn 7:37–39).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:12 love covers all offenses. Instead of escalating strife by speaking words of hatred, the righteous speak words of forgiveness, prompted by love (Col 3:13; 1Pt 4:8). "Even though these offenses occur, love overlooks, forgives, and yields to them, not carrying all things to the extremity of justice" (Ap V 121).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:13 rod. Flogging was a common form of punishment. The ceremonial scepter held by rulers symbolized their authority to judge and discipline. Children are best "trained with kindness and delight. For children who must be forced with rods and blows will not develop into a good generation" (LC I 76).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:16 Wealth can be a blessing from God for the righteous and can strengthen their ability to serve God's purposes, but it only contributes to the downfall of those who lack faith and godliness.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:18 lying lips … slander. Sins specifically forbidden by the Eighth Commandment (SC, p xxxvi).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:20 choice. Hbr "tested." The best quality, purified or tested by fire.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:22 blessing of the LORD. Both spiritual and material riches come from God. Thanksgiving, rather than pride, should accompany the acquisition of any riches.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:6–23 The words we speak can be either a source of life and comfort, edifying those around us, or a source of strife and wickedness, stirring up hatred and division. Always choose your words prudently, being careful never to speak gossip, lies, or slander about another person. Defend those whose reputation is under assault and forgive those who sin against you. Jesus was a victim of false accusations; the blood He shed on the cross covers all of our offenses. • Lord, may Your saving love and forgiveness always be expressed through our lips. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:24–32 the wicked … the righteous. The contrast between these two groups is the central theme through the end of ch 10.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:24 What the wicked dreads. Terror, calamity, distress, and anguish (1:27).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:25 established forever. Like the wise man who built his house on the rock (Mt 7:24–27), the righteous are immovable and steadfast even amidst raging tempests. Solomon expresses hope in eternal life.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:26 vinegar to the teeth. An irritant. Hbr term for vinegar means "sharp." Vinegar was sour wine, which was diluted with water and drunk by peasants.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:27 fear of the LORD. The theme of wisdom; a reverence for the Lord prompted by love. See notes, 1:7; 2:5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:28 joy. Not the absence of pain or other daily hardships but the ability to see beyond them and to look to the Lord in confident expectation (1Pt 1:6–9). Aspirations of the wicked, by contrast, amount to little more than wishful thinking.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:29 way. An important and prevalent figure of speech in Solomon's proverbs, used here to express both Law and Gospel. The evildoer who does not walk in this way, or deviates from it, can expect only destruction. Yet those who are blameless through faith know that to walk in the way of the Lord is a gift from God Himself and not a result of human effort (16:9; 20:24). See note, 2:12.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:31 cut off. Not implying physical mutilation but indicating a complete silencing of all ungodly speech. "If you meet an idle tongue that betrays and slanders someone, contradict such a person promptly to his face (Proverbs 10:31), so he may blush" (LC I 273).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:24–32 Both the righteous and the wicked face tempests and challenges. Yet the righteous, who travel the way of the Lord and who live in the fear of the Lord, are blessed with stability, joy, and the promise of everlasting life. The Lord is your hope, health, stronghold, and way. • Lord Jesus, keep us from straying from the path You have set before us, and renew our hope in You. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:1 false balance. Using dishonest weights and measures to commit fraud, a prevalent form of theft in ancient Israel. abomination. See note, 6:16.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:2 pride. Elevation of self over God, breaking the First Commandment.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:3 integrity … guides. Integrity does not ensure the absence of trouble or hardship in one's life, but it does guide one away from the ultimate destruction that awaits the wicked.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:4 righteousness delivers from death. See note, 10:2.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:6 righteousness … delivers. See note, 10:2.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:7 his hope will perish. Wealth or other worldly power and influence have no effect for those who die in their sin. Cf Heb 9:27.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:9 With his mouth … destroy. Highlights the powerfully destructive force of words; forbidden by Jas 3:5 and the Eighth Commandment.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:10 the city rejoices. Even civil society is often able to distinguish between the righteous and the wicked. God also uses civic leaders as His servants to punish evildoers and to commend those who do what is right. Cf Rm 13:1–7.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:11 exalted … overthrown. Character of public discourse can either edify a society or tear it down by inciting strife and violence.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:1–11 The distinction between the righteous and the wicked is not confined to the private or spiritual realms of life but also manifests itself in public words and actions. As you seek to live with integrity that reflects the righteousness we have received, express your righteousness in public ways—among your neighbors, in matters of commerce, and in your community. Although we may sometimes feel reluctant or unqualified to do this, by grace Jesus calls us the "salt of the earth" and the "light of the world" (Mt 5:13–16). • Lord Jesus, give us courage to shine the light of Your truth in every area of our lives. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:12 silent. Cf 10:19. Merciful silence concerning the faults and sins of one's neighbor fulfills the Eighth Commandment.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:13 keeps a thing covered. By holding one's tongue. "There is a great difference between these two things: judging sin and knowing about sin. You may indeed know about it, but you are not to judge it (Matthew 7:1–5). I can indeed see and hear that my neighbor sins. But I have no command to report it to others. Now, if I rush in, judging and passing sentence, I fall into a sin that is greater than his. But if you know about it, do nothing other than turn your ears into a grave and cover it, until you are appointed to be judge and to punish by virtue of your office" (LC I 266).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:15 puts up security. Taking responsibility for the debt of another. See note, 6:1. striking hands. See note, 6:1.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:16 A gracious woman. Cf 31:10–31. violent men get riches. Riches can be acquired through any number of means, including violence. But honor comes to those who are gracious, i.e., kind and forgiving.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:19 will live … will die. Unlike those who sow righteousness and receive a sure reward (v 18), those who pursue evil will find the very thing they seek to evade, that is, death.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:20 abomination. See note, 6:16.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:22 gold ring. Worn by women on the finger, ear, or nose (25:12; Gn 24:22; Is 3:21). in a pig's snout. A vivid comparison designed to help both men and women distinguish between mere outward beauty (the gold ring) and an inner lack of discretion (the pig). In Israel, the pig was considered an "unclean" animal to be scrupulously avoided. discretion. The ability to make God-pleasing moral and ethical decisions. Cf 1Pt 3:3–5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:23 desire of the righteous ends only in good. A general promise that God is able to fulfill in specific ways.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:24 gives freely … grows all the richer. St Paul encourages the same generosity in 2Co 9:6–9.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:25 waters. Reference to irrigation and its fruitfulness. The Kidron Valley, east of Jerusalem, was irrigated by the Gihon Spring.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:26 holds back grain. Selfishly hoarding it, perhaps intending to drive up the price.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:30 tree of life. As the righteous bear the fruit of good deeds, they become a source of life and blessing for all. See note, 3:18. Hipp: "The fruit of righteousness and the tree of life is Christ. He alone, as man, fulfilled all righteousness. And with His own underived life He has brought forth the fruits of knowledge and virtue like a tree" (ANF 5:173). captures. Hbr lakach, "to pick or harvest fruit" when used in connection with a tree or plant. The righteous are not only passive instruments for blessing but are also active in leading other souls to receive the righteousness of God through faith.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 11:31 the righteous is repaid on earth. General observation; does not mean that the righteous can always expect to be repaid on earth. They will indeed be paid back according to God's good pleasure in this life, and esp in the life to come.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:1 stupid. Hbr root of this word is closely related to the Hbr term for cattle. One who rejects correction is like a beast.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:3 root of the righteous. Righteous are rooted in God and in His promises fulfilled in Jesus Christ. Cf Ps 1:3; Is 61:3.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:4 crown. Evidence of honor. Cf 31:10–31.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:6 lie in wait for blood. Words of the wicked are likened to a band of murderers, waiting to ambush the unsuspecting.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:7 house … will stand. Cf Mt 7:24–27.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:9 have a servant. Describes someone of moderate means who could afford a servant.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:10 the life of his beast. Compassion of the righteous extends even to animals. Our heavenly Father also cares for all living things. Cf Mt 6:26.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:12 covets. To have a sinful desire for someone or something that belongs to one's neighbor. Coveting is forbidden by both the Ninth and Tenth Commandments.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:16 vexation of a fool. Fools lack a calm, measured response to insults. Prudent people are more skilled at managing their emotions when attacked.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:18 like sword thrusts. Thoughtless, reckless words have the power to wound others, even if they are not intended to cause harm. brings healing. Because those who are wise know God through faith, their words can be a source of healing and life.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:20 have joy. Could refer either to joy in the heart or to the anticipatory joy that accompanies plans for peace.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:21 No ill befalls the righteous. The righteous do suffer. But for them even long-term earthly suffering will eventually resolve into eternal joy in the presence of the Lord. The righteous are guarded from the ultimate ill—eternal separation from God (Jn 10:28).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:22 abomination. See note, 6:16.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:23 A prudent man conceals knowledge. Prudent people are capable managers of their words and emotions (v 16). They are able to distinguish between "a time to keep silence, and a time to speak" (Ec 3:7).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:25 Anxiety … weighs … down. Luth: "We should let God do the worrying. Your labor and effort are not contrary to faith; they are useful for the curbing of the flesh. But worrying is opposition to God" (WLS § 5003). Cf 1Pt 5:6–7. a good word makes him glad. Esp when that "good word" expresses the "good news" of God's promises.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:27 will not roast his game. He is too lazy to prepare the game he has successfully hunted. Cf 19:24.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON Chs 11–12 Pr teaches the wisdom of living by righteousness as taught by the Lord. Worldly logic tells us that we become wealthy by hoarding what we have. But God's Word tells us that true riches come to those who give generously. We should always return a portion of our income to the service of God (who gives us all things) and support our neighbors according to their need. After all, this is God's wonderful way of dealing with His children. He has generously given us all that we need, including the life of His one and only Son for our salvation. • Lord, we rejoice in the great blessings You have given us. Lead us to believe that with You as our God, we will never suffer want. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:1 hears. Verb is supplied from the second line and does not actually appear in the Hbr text. See "Juxtaposition," p 996. This proverb accentuates the responsibilities of both son and father. To the same degree that a son must heed his father's instruction, a father is also responsible for imparting wise instruction to his son. rebuke. Correction that is expressed passionately and loudly. But the scoffer ignores all correction, no matter how forcefully it is expressed.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:2 fruit of his mouth. Wise words of correction and encouragement.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:5 hates falsehood. In contrast to the attitude of indifference so prevalent today, the righteous, like their Lord, hate all falsehood (Jn 8:43–44).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:7 pretends. Concise observation that things are not always as they appear.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:8 Could mean that the rich are often victims of blackmail or kidnapping because they are able to pay a ransom to their tormentors who, however, do not find it profitable to make threatening demands of the poor. Cf Ec 5:12–13. ransom. Hbr kopher, commonly used for atoning for or covering sins, but here it refers to a bribe or a ransom paid to a kidnapper. hears no threat. The Hbr words are identical with the close of v 1: "does not listen to rebuke."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:9 light … lamp. Metaphorical expressions denoting the eternal condition of the righteous and the wicked. Cf Dn 12:2–3.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:12 desire fulfilled. Not just random wish fulfillment, but here reflecting the ultimate desire of all the righteous for the gift of eternal life with God, which corresponds to the "tree of life" in paradise (Rv 2:7). tree of life. See note, 3:18. Compare to "fountain of life" in v 14.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:13 the word. Including esp God's Word, the Holy Scriptures. God's Word and breath create and sustain life (Gn 1:3; 2:7). Cf Lk 11:28.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:14 fountain of life. Cf v 12; see note, 10:11.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:16 flaunts his folly. Spreads it out like a merchant displaying his wares.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:18 Cf v 1.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:20 The company one keeps, whether wise or foolish, is always influential. Companions should be chosen carefully.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:21 General observation concerning the consequences of behavior. Timing of both disaster and reward is left to God.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:23 swept away through injustice. As king of Israel, Solomon would have been concerned with abolishing all forms of injustice, as injustice most frequently victimizes the poor and powerless.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 13:24 Appropriate discipline from parents is always an expression of love. Conversely, parents who do not discipline create lasting pain and difficulty for their children. "We must hold the commandment before them, and constantly teach it, so that we bring them up not only with punishment, but also in reverence and fear of God (Ephesians 6:4)" (LC I 61). Although giving and receiving discipline is sometimes difficult, parents and children can look to our heavenly Father, who also disciplines those He loves (3:11–12). Cf Heb 12:4–11.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:1 builds her house. Task of running the household was primarily fulfilled by women in Solomon's time (9:1; 31:10–31). This was a great responsibility, which included not only domestic chores but also the nurture and instruction of their children in the faith (31:26).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:2 fears the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:4 Oxen were used for plowing and threshing. Enjoying the benefits of life (such as an abundant harvest) requires that certain expenses be paid (such as the cost of filling the manger to feed the oxen). Such resources and investments should be managed wisely.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:6 A scoffer. His own arrogance will not allow him to receive wise instruction from others. Cf 13:1.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:9 guilt offering. One of several offerings prescribed by God in the OT. An act of confession may have preceded the guilt offering. Cf Lv 5:14–6:7. upright. Not those without sin but, as this proverb implies, those who confess their sin and rely on God's mercy (see note, Jb 1:1). Through faith, they enjoy God's acceptance.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:10 no stranger shares its joy. The deepest emotions of the heart cannot always be fully shared with others. Jesus, however, always knows exactly how we feel. (Cf Jn 10:14–15.)
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:12 way to death. Plural (see ESV note). There are many ways leading off the one straight way of the Lord.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:13 Do not let outward expressions deceive you.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:14 backslider. Hbr sug, "to deviate," "be disloyal." One who turns from God, undoing repentance (cf 1:23).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:15 believes everything. Ambr: "They know not what deceit is, they gladly believe of others what they themselves are, while they cannot suspect others to be what they themselves are not" (NPNF 2 10:78).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:21 blessed. Honored recipients of God's favor. Their faith in Christ is expressed by their trust in God (16:20), by their observance of His Word (29:18), and here by their generosity to the poor. See p 842.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:22 meet. See ESV note. Hbr text is unclear. Those who do good can either "receive" steadfast love for themselves or "show" that love to others.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:24 crown of the wise is their wealth. Does not mean that all the wise are wealthy but contrasts the benefits of wisdom (monetary or spiritual) with the folly of fools, which never offers any reward.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:26 fear of the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:27 This verse is nearly identical to 13:14. fountain of life. See note, 10:11.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:30 makes the bones rot. Like a cancer, envy destroys from the inside.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:31 insults his Maker … honors Him. Jesus accords similar importance to the good works we do, or fail to do, for the needy (Mt 25:40, 45).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:32 but the righteous finds refuge in his death. Because God gives eternal life. Luth: "For if death is feared on account of sin, it should be desired much more on account of sins, because death alone puts an end to sin and slays it. Therefore death, the murderer of sin, should be loved as much as sin is feared" (AE 29:138).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:33 makes itself known. So-called wisdom will be greatly discussed among fools but will never be allowed to settle and provide its benefits.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 14:34 Righteousness. See p 843. exalts a nation. Reminder aimed esp at rulers and other public servants that their good example is beneficial to the entire nation. Their sin, likewise, affects and disgraces all who live under their rule. Israel received blessings from the Lord through faithfulness. The Canaanites were cursed and cast out. See note, Gn 9:25.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:1 Answers are received favorably, not only because of their content but also because of the manner in which they are offered.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:3 God is both omniscient (all-knowing) and omnipresent (present everywhere). While these attributes are a source of comfort and joy for those made righteous through faith, they strike fear in the hearts of those who are evil. Cf 1Pt 3:12.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:4 tree of life. See note, 3:18. The tongue is a source of life, esp as it is used to apply the Gospel to human souls.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:6 house of the righteous. The righteous always enjoy the enduring wealth of God's love and blessing, regardless of fluctuating income and possessions.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:8 Although God hears all and knows all, only those who trust Him may pray and confidently expect to be heard.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:10 the way. The way of righteousness. See note, 10:29.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:11 Sheol and Abaddon. Represent the end of temporal life and what lies beyond it. See p 792. The point of the proverb concerns God's omniscience. If He is knowledgeable even about Sheol and Abaddon, then He also knows the human heart perfectly.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:15 the afflicted. Perhaps referring to those who are oppressed by their own lack of contentment.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:16 fear of the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:17 dinner of herbs. An unsatisfying meal when compared to a more luxurious entrée such as fattened ox.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:19 hedge of thorns. The sluggard's progress is impeded by his own laziness. He finds diligent work to be painful, similar to the pain inflicted by thorns.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 12:12–15:19 In these proverbs, the characteristics of foolish and wise people are contrasted. The foolish are gullible and believe everything. They are reckless, careless, and quick-tempered. But because wise people thoughtfully evaluate everything on the basis of God's Word, their words and actions are always prudent and cautious. • Lord God, temper our rash and impetuous urges. Lead us, instead, to walk by faith, always expressing ourselves with the gentleness and self-control that come from You. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:20 father … mother. See note, 10:1–5. despises his mother. The Fourth Commandment tells us to honor our parents (see p xxxv).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:21 walks straight ahead. Could be understood figuratively, i.e., "stays straight on course" or "walks aright."
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:24 upward. Refers to heavenly life after death, in contrast with "Sheol beneath."
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:25 widow's boundaries. In Solomon's time, property boundaries were marked by stones. It was relatively easy for unscrupulous people to move the boundary stones of helpless widows, thus stealing some of their property. Cf Dt 19:14.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:26 gracious words. Pleasant, God-pleasing words, which stand in sharp contrast to the thoughts of the wicked. Such words often convey God's truth. Cf 23:8.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:29 hears the prayer. See note, v 8.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:30 light of the eyes. A twinkle of the eyes, which can bring joy to another's heart. See note, Jb 17:7.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 15:33 fear of the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:1–22:16 Made up mostly of complementary proverbs; the second half of a verse usually completes the idea set forth by the first half. Cf 16:3: "Commit your work to the LORD, and your plans will be established." This is different from chs 10–15, where most proverbs describe contrasting behaviors. Pr 10:1, e.g., contrasts the pride of a wise son's father with the grief of a foolish son's mother.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:1 plans. Chem: "The thoughts, deliberations, and desires in men which are subject to the reason and senses" (LTh 1:243). the answer … is from the LORD. People may make plans, but truth comes from the Lord (e.g., the words of Caiaphas in Jn 11:49–52).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:2 weighs the spirit. The Lord evaluates humans differently from their methods of self-evaluation, considering even hidden motives and agendas.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:3 Commit your work. Human work is committed to the Lord when it is undertaken in faith and when it is accompanied by the prayer that God's will should be done on earth as in heaven. Cf 1Co 10:31; Heb 11:6.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:4 Chem: "He is not speaking about guilt, as if God for His own sake wills or brings about ungodliness; but he is speaking of the punishment … because the ungodly has ignored His justice and judgment" (LTh 1:198). God earnestly desires that all people be saved (Ezk 33:11; 2Pt 3:9). Yet, see note, Ex 4:21.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:5 Mel: "This evil can more clearly be seen in heroic people, yet all are subject to the disease" (Chem, LTh 2:367).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:6 fear of the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:10 An oracle. Hbr term could be translated "divination," and usually has negative connotations (1Sm 28:8; 2Ki 17:17). May refer to making decisions by casting lots (see note, 18:18). Given such background, this proverb may be sarcastic. king. Rulers are God's representatives. As such, they should judge well and so be honored and obeyed (Rm 13:1–7).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:11 weights in the bag. In Solomon's time, merchants often strapped to their belts a bag of stones, which were used as measuring weights. In matters of both commerce and justice, God desires impartiality and fairness.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:15 light of a king's face. Brightening countenance signifies the king's favor. Like the needed spring rain, such favor is always beneficial.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:18 Pride. See note, 11:2.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:19 divide the spoil. To share in the abundance of newly acquired goods or treasure.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:20 word. God's Word of Law and Gospel is always a source of good and blessing. See note, Ps 1:2. blessed. See p 842.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:21 sweetness of speech. Pleasant speech enables one's words to be well received.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:10–21 These proverbs are especially directed to kings and other public servants. Their authority has been instituted by God (Rm 13:1), and for that reason we owe them honor and obedience. God uses them for the welfare of those who act righteously and as agents of wrath for those who do evil. • Lord God, give Your wisdom to our leaders, that they might always carry out their duties in justice and mercy. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:25 Identical to 14:12.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:26 appetite … mouth. Parallel in meaning.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:28 a whisperer. One who causes discord through gossip—a transgression of the Eighth Commandment. God's people are called to be agents of peace (Mt 5:9) and reconciliation (2Co 5:18).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:30 winks his eyes. See note, 10:10.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:31 Gray hair. Long life. Promise connected to the Fourth Commandment. Cf Ex 20:12; Dt 5:16; Eph 6:2–3.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:32 slow to anger is better. Ambr: "He who wishes to prove his anger is righteous only gets the more inflamed, and quickly falls into sin" (NPNF 2 10:17).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 16:33 Casting lots among God's people was not a random method for choosing action but a way to leave the matter in God's hands because He controlled the outcome. See note, 18:18.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:1 feasting with strife. Lit, "sacrifices with strife." Sacrificial meat that was to be eaten in the home made the meal a festive occasion because meat was in short supply. Only a rich man could afford a house full of feasting.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:2 will rule. A wise servant could be given authority and even freed by his or her master. Slaves in the ancient world often had oversight of young heirs (Gal 4:1–2) and might inherit a master's estate in the absence of a biological son (Gn 15:2). If an existent heir proved unworthy, a faithful slave might either become responsible for managing the estate at the master's death or share in the inheritance with the master's children. This proverb cautions the reader not to rely on privilege and position. See p 101.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:3 crucible … furnace. Cf Ps 7:9; 17:3; 66:10; Jer 6:27; 9:7; 1Pt 1:7. Both were used for refining and testing gold and silver. tests. Hbr bachan; could also be translated "tempts." God tempts no one (Jas 1:13) in the way that Satan tries to achieve our fall. But God tests and tries us. He tested Abraham to teach him (Heb 11:17), and it is through many trials that we enter God's kingdom (Ac 14:22). Scripture assures us that we will not be tested beyond what we can endure (1Co 10:13). Peter speaks of testing and refining the genuineness of faith (1Pt 1:6–7).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:6 glory of children is their fathers. A large family is regarded as a blessing. Old age crowns the righteous life with the blessings of children and grandchildren (16:31). Godly parents and grandparents are likewise God's precious gifts to children (Eph 6:4). E.g., Timothy had both Eunice and Lois to teach him the faith (2Tm 1:5). We have such cherished "fathers" as Abraham, Isaac, Moses and the prophets, the holy apostles and evangelists, and other faithful teachers.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:1–6 The Fourth Commandment not only teaches children to honor their parents but also teaches parents to cherish and take seriously God's gift of raising their children. God did not give us "children for our pleasure or amusement" (LC I 170) but that we would train them up in the way they should go (22:6). Parents, are you taking seriously your responsibility to instruct your children in the Scriptures and the catechism (Dt 6:6–8)? Children, are you respecting your parents, holding them in the highest esteem, recognizing what good gifts God has provided you through them (Ex 20:12)? Our heavenly Father has given us His highest good in His Son, Jesus, and because Jesus delighted to do His Father's will, God now delights in you and me. In Jesus, we will receive the true crown of righteousness (2Tm 4:8), and by Him we call God our Father.

• Dear Father, teach us to cherish the gifts You provide in our families—both as parents and as children—and lead us to dutifully carry out the responsibilities You give us. In Jesus' name. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:7 One should not expect words excelling in wisdom on the lips of a fool. Still more out of place is deception on the lips of a noble character.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:8 magic stone. Lit, "stone of favor." A bribe works like magic on the wicked (v 23).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:12 a she-bear robbed of her cubs. Expression of deadliness. Image is also used of fierce warriors in 2Sm 17:8 and of God's merciless wrath in Hos 13:8. God used the wrath of she-bears to punish boys who mocked His prophet in 2Ki 2:24. Nevertheless, the proverb teaches that even such merciless destruction is more bearable than the mayhem of a fool. robbed of her cubs. Lit, "childless."
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:14 letting out water. Greg: "To let out water is to let loose the tongue to a flux of speech" (NPNF 2 12:38). The breaching of a dam begins with a trickle, after which a raging flood sweeps a wide path of destruction. Backing away before a quarrel breaks out is like plugging the proverbial hole in the dike.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:15 justifies the wicked. This does not apply to God's work of justifying sinners but describes the acts of "an unjust judge in justifying or acquitting a guilty man" (Chem, LTh 2:479). Only God can truly acquit the guilty, charging our sins against His innocent Son. In His mercy, God chose to look upon Jesus as the only sinner there is, while considering us as innocent as Jesus (2Co 5:21).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:16 buy wisdom. Wisdom cannot be gained by money alone (see note, 23:23). Only an inner desire for it is an acceptable price.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:17 loves at all times. Description of true friendship, which does not change based on circumstances. brother is born for adversity. A brother will offer support even in the worst of times.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:18 pledge. Lit, "clasps hands," as when shaking hands to confirm a deal. See note, 6:1. Hastily made promises entrap the foolish, who commit themselves to vows they have neither the ability nor determination to keep (Ec 5:4). Obviously, the person is not being taught to refuse help or to ignore the command to lend to someone in need, even without interest (Lv 25:35–36; Mt 5:42). security. To guarantee another's debt or obligation. While God's people should be generous, esp in matters of forgiveness and love, we are to exercise wisdom and prudence in temporal affairs (e.g., Ex 22:14).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:19 makes his door high. Difficult and disputed phrase. May mean that the one who builds a high and impressive fortress gate invites an attack. It may also condemn those who raise the "door" of their mouth in boasting and pride.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:21 He who sires a fool. The risk every parent takes! When parents ignore their duty under the Fourth Commandment, "Because this matter is disregarded, God so fearfully punishes the world that there is no discipline, government, or peace. We all complain about this but do not see that it is our own fault. The way we train children and subjects spoils them and makes them disobedient." (LC I 177).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:22 spirit. Chem: "Refers to the created emotions or impulses of men" (LTh 1:134).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:23 in secret. See ESV note. The folds of the garment serving as a pocket (6:27).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:24 on the ends of the earth. The thoughts of fools wander. St Paul says that a time is coming when people will not put up with sound doctrine but will go wherever their "itching ears" lead them (2Tm 4:3). This proverb reminds us to remain in the Word and not to be led away by other "gospels" that are no Gospel at all (Gal 1:6–9).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:7–24 God's people are not to use the Gospel as grounds for partiality in judging (24:23–24), for calling good evil or evil good (Is 5:20), or for failing to protect the innocent. The Father is our goodness and glory, whom we honor by faith. • Dear Father, give us life always by the Gospel, being sure of our forgiveness for Jesus' sake and looking past the sins of those who repent. As we carry out our individual responsibilities within this world, guide us to judge rightly between good and evil, upholding what pleases You and condemning what does not. In Jesus' name. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:25–19:12 Section shows how fools bring grief to others.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:27 cool spirit. Patient, restrained; opposite of being hot-tempered. Self-control ultimately comes from the knowledge that God Himself vindicates us in Christ Jesus.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:1 isolates himself. Those who declare themselves independent of community restraints, particularly from the congregation of the Lord, will give free rein to selfish drives and, as a result, make peaceful relations with others impossible. God's Word calls us away from our own opinions (18:2). Not only is it selfish to remove ourselves from the fellowship of God's people, but it is also inconsistent with true faith and love (Ac 2:42–47).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:2 his opinion. Fools do not know enough to hide their lack of discrimination by silence. They reveal their stupidity by talking nonsense.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:3 Chem: "The Lord puts to shame those who despise Him because their sins are their punishments for sins until finally the sinner comes into the abyss" (LTh 1:198).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:4 deep waters. Indicates the obscure nature of what lies within and proceeds out of sinful humans. The psalmist asks, "Who can discern his errors?" (Ps 19:12), indicating that a person's faults are more than even he or she can fathom (Mt 7:22–23; 1Co 2:11). In contrast, God has spoken clearly (Heb 1:1–2). In Him, we have the living water that wells up to eternal life in all who believe (Jn 4:10; 7:38; Rv 7:17).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:5 partial. See ESV note. To favor those who do evil while depriving the righteous of justice. Representatives of God's authority must be impartial (Rm 2:11). To absolve the unrepentant is to make a mockery of both the Law, which aims to call sinners to repentance, and the Gospel, which forgives those who repent and want to do better.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:8 inner parts. Choice bits of slander, eagerly gobbled up, leave a deep-seated impression. Gossip is a threat to the hearer who swallows it.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:10 Only here does Pr use the phrase "the name of the LORD [Yahweh]."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:11 As walls of a fortified city provide safety against invasion, so wealth is protection against the hardships resulting from poverty. But when the rich put their trust in wealth rather than in the Lord (v 10), the protection they seek may turn out to exist only in their imagination.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:12 humility. One must first learn to bow under the Lord's discipline if one is to have the right attitude to receive honor from others.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:14 People can stand up under physical suffering; but once their spirit is broken, they collapse.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:16 makes room. Generous people make friends. The good will they create opens avenues for their advancement.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:18 The lot. Though cast by human hands, God determines the decision it is to effect. Casting lots was a common way of making decisions. At certain times, God approved such a method of decision making. E.g., the high priest had the Urim and the Thummim (Ex 28:30). By the casting of lots, God instructed Aaron to divide the goats on the Day of Atonement (Lv 16:8). Casting lots was used for choosing in matters that were morally equal (using lots to choose whether to sin or not would be inappropriate). Lots were not a matter of chance but a divinely appointed means by which the Lord revealed His will (Jsh 18:8, 10; Ac 1:24–26). The NT does not give a promise that the Lord will operate through the same means today. He has given us His external Word by which to know His good and gracious will.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:19 A brother offended. In a feud, reconciliation gets more difficult the closer the parties are related to one another. quarreling is like the bars of a castle. As bars of a castle prove unyielding, so do quarreling friends. In the heat of anger, repentance and forgiveness are often not sought, even among God's people. Cf Eph 4:26–27.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:20 We reap what our words sow (12:14; 13:2; 18:21). Oratory skill, esp in a media-driven age, often brings profit and success. To speak well is a valuable gift. We may hear in this proverb a caution against those who would lie and deceive by God's name, profiteering by the Gospel or from false teaching. It is also true that laborers deserve their wages (1Tm 5:18), and godly and faithful pastors should receive their living from speaking the Gospel (1Co 9:14). Christians ought to share all good things with their instructors (Gal 6:6–7), adequately providing for the continuation of the ministry of Word and Sacraments in their midst.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:22 good thing. "Every good gift and perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights" (Jas 1:17). Here is high esteem for God's favor received through a godly spouse; a recognition that in marriage God provides to a husband a wife to be defended with his life, and to a wife a husband in whom she may see the caring, tender headship of the Lord Himself (Eph 5:22–33).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:23 entreaties. Supplications for favor. The poor can do nothing but beg, while the rich have a boastful air. It is the poor in spirit who are blessed by the Lord with the gift of His kingdom (Mt 5:3), not because poverty is a virtue, but because they have no hope but that God is gracious and merciful and will give them the kingdom freely. Thus, the man who could not even raise his eyes to heaven was declared righteous, while the man who had something to boast about was declared unrighteous (Lk 18:10–14).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 18:24 companions. Some people will cut a friend to pieces if it is to their advantage. Such an experience, however, should not lead to cynicism. It is possible to find a friend who will remain loyal, no matter the cost (17:17; 1Sm 18:1–3). Popularity does not always win friends in hard times. Even our Lord, who attracted crowds by feeding them fish and bread, watched them turn away from His hard saying regarding the eating and drinking of His body and blood (Jn 6:66). Not only the crowds but also His closest disciples abandoned Him in His hour of need. Although sinful people prove untrustworthy, our Lord remains faithful. He is our friend who sticks closer than any blood relation, who died for those who abandoned Him, and who prayed for the forgiveness of His enemies.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:1 poor person. Poor people who refuse to violate their integrity are better than those who stoop to deception in order to get rich. Poverty itself is no virtue, but neither is it to be abhorred. Poverty is preferable to a life of sin (16:19; 19:22). One may be honorable in poverty; God's people may demonstrate faithfulness and generosity with their wealth (2Co 8:2). Our Lord's parents were both godly and poor (Lk 2:24; cf Lv 12:8), and it is out of His poverty in expending Himself completely for our sake on the cross that we are rich in God's mercy (2Co 8:9). walks in his integrity. See note, 2:7.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:3 We may blame God for the disaster we foolishly bring on ourselves. We may ask, "Why is God doing this to me?" when we should learn to repent of our own folly and look to Him for forgiveness. Aug: "Whenever you read in the Scriptures of Truth, that men are led aside, or that their hearts are blunted and hardened by God, never doubt that some ill deserts of their own have first occurred, so that they justly suffer these things" (NPNF 1 5:463). However, note well that not all suffering is the result of a particular sin. See p 837.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:4 friends. Cf 18:24. Wealth has its earthly advantages, and the money of the rich often gains them many associates (14:20; 19:6). However, since the poor are abandoned by fair-weather friends (19:7), this proverb warns against relying too heavily on friendships gained by wealth.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:6 generous man. One word in Hbr, also translated "prince" and "noble" (8:16; 17:7, 26; 25:7). Such a person can buy favor and allegiance with gifts.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:7 hate him. People who constantly implore for help are not tolerated long. V 7 consists of three lines, whereas all other proverbs in this section are limited to two. but does not have them. May be rendered "but they are not," i.e., people flee to escape a person's persistent begging.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:8 gets sense. Lit, "buys" or "seeks heart." The heart was considered the organ of understanding.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:10 live in luxury. Affluence only makes a more flamboyant display of a fool's folly. a slave to rule over princes. Most slaves were uneducated and not accustomed to handling wealth, which was starkly different from the training and means available to princes. Scripture often refers to practices such as slavery without specifically advocating or condemning them. Headship and authority may be abused, but they are not evil in themselves. See p 101.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:12 A king's wrath and a lion's growl both spell disaster, but a king's favor is as refreshing as the dew that waters the grass in the morning. Here, Law and Gospel, anger and mercy, are contrasted.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 17:25–19:12 The Eighth Commandment warns against false testimony against our neighbor. We should put a stop to gossip before it begins, not only by defending the reputation of the one spoken about but also by calling the gossiper to repentance and safeguarding ourselves from what may do irreparable damage. How have you been at keeping yourself from listening to the juicy tidbits sinners have to say about one another? What a difference between us and God! Our Lord has blessedly promised to put our sins as far from us as the east is from the west (Ps 103:12) and to remember our sins no more (Jer 31:34; Heb 8:12; 10:17). He will entertain no charge against us, now that there is no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus (Rm 8:1). What joy it would be if we let our Lord's forgiveness teach us to be as silent about the sins and shortcomings of our neighbor as God is pleased to be toward ours for Jesus' sake! • Heavenly Father, teach us by Your Holy Absolution to keep both our lips and our ears from the evil that may be spoken of others. In Jesus' name. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:13–20:30 Warns about a foolish son, esp how fools bring ruin to themselves and others.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:13 continual dripping. Cf Ec 10:18.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:14 A man may get much from his parents, but he gets something even more precious from the Lord when he gets a wise and reasonable wife. Pr 31:10–31 teaches us about a godly wife's prudence. A godly and devout husband is equally a treasure from the Lord. Ultimately, the husband-wife relationship is a reflection of that between the Lord and His people (Eph 5:22–33).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:17 lends to the LORD. Using the Lord's earthly gifts for the good of others has the promise of temporal reward (LC I 252). We may gain friends for ourselves (Lk 16:9) and reap many other benefits, both bodily and spiritual (1Co 3:8; 2Co 9:6; Ap V 245). Eternal life, however, comes only because of God's promise to be generous to poor, miserable sinners for Jesus' sake. Iren: "We make offering to Him, not as though He stood in need of it, but rendering thanks for His gift, and thus sanctifying what has been created" (ANF 1:486).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:18 Parents who do not discipline their children are, in effect, signing a death warrant for them. Parents are not to let up on discipline, thinking that their children can no longer be turned from wrong. When parents fail to carry out their duty under the Fourth Commandment, other authorities, whose judgment may be even more severe, step in (Rm 13:1–4), maybe even costing the child his life. Likewise, God lovingly disciplines us in this life (Heb 12:5–11) so that we do not suffer the greater judgment of eternal death.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:19 do it again. People who have a bad temper are incurable. They will only get into trouble again.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:22 better than a liar. Though poor people lack the resources to prove their desire to help, they are more faithful friends than people of means whose promises of aid prove to be lies.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:23 fear of the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5. leads to life. Those who fear the Lord go to sleep well-fed and without fear of harm. From faith in the promise of the Gospel comes security (Php 4:7).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:24 bring it back. Touch of ironic humor: some people are too lazy even to put food into their mouth (26:15).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:25 scoffer. Someone who stubbornly scorns God's wisdom. the simple will learn prudence. Punishment is a deterrent for the simple (see note, 1:4), who take warning from the fate of the wicked. Simple people must actually see what consequences come from disobedience. This is an indictment to us all—we may know well enough that lawlessness has its price, but we change our behavior only when the threat of punishment is near!
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:1 a mocker. Wine has a stupefying affect in the drunk's mockery of God and brawling (23:29–35). strong drink. Not a distilled liquor but an alcoholic beverage fermented from grain, primarily barley. Sometimes translated "beer." Forms of this word are used negatively in Scripture to condemn drunkenness. However, several occurrences of strong drink (31:6; Gn 43:34; Nu 28:7; Dt 14:26) remind us that it is not alcoholic beverages themselves that Scripture condemns, but the abuse of them. Ambr: "It is a mark of liberality to receive the stranger, to clothe the naked, to redeem the captives, to help the needy. It is wasteful to spend money on expensive banquets and much wine" (NPNF 2 10:60).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:4 plow in the autumn. Plowing fields following the harvest was important to prepare for the next planting, which occurred before the winter rains. The sluggard does not sow in due season and so reaps nothing at harvest.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:5 draw it out. Some people may use careful language in order to keep their real intentions hidden in deep secrecy, but "a man of understanding" knows how to uncover them by probing beneath the surface of the schemer's words.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:6 proclaims. Professions of loyalty to others are plentiful, but people are rarely faithful to their promises to help.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:8 winnows. Scatters or fans in the air, the means of separating grain from the worthless chaff. Tossing both in the air allowed the breeze to carry away the lighter chaff, leaving the heavier grain to fall back to the ground and be collected. A king separates truth from falsehood, good from evil, innocent from guilty, by the examination of his eye. This proverb serves as a reminder that if standing before such earthly authority is frightening, how much more ought we to fear the heavenly king who sees all (Ps 33:13–15)?

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:9 Who can say. The self-evident answer is no one (Ap V 205–6). This confession of universal human failure to keep the heart clean of sin applies also to "a righteous man who walks in his integrity" (v 7; cf Ps 14:3; see notes, Jb 14:4; Ps 51:5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:11 Even a child. The kind of character training an individual needs is apparent at an early age. Those who deny original sin are missing the witness borne by children's selfishness, disobedience, bickering, temper tantrums, lying, and rebellion. See note, Ps 51:5.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:12 hearing … seeing. Senses with which the Creator has endowed us are to make us aware of the way of life that conforms to God's revealed will (Jer 5:21; Ezk 12:2). See SC, First Article, p xxxvi.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:14 when he goes away, then he boasts. Humorously reveals how buyers try to cheat sellers, devaluing the merchandise when negotiating a price, but later boasting of the bargain they made. Cheating happens on both sides of the counter.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:16 garment. Clothing had much greater value in ancient times because everything had to be made by hand. The outer garment was deposited by the borrower as security for a loan (Ex 22:25–27). See note, 6:1. This proverb seems to say with subtle irony that once you have made a speculative investment with unknown foreigners, all you can do is vainly hold them to their contract, which will likely prove worthless. We should be wary of lending to those who are likely to default. What better security than to take a person's clothing?

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:17 Warning against dishonest gain.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:18 If plans are not to go wrong, they should be reviewed by "many advisers" (15:22; 11:14). The disastrous results of an ill-advised war demonstrate the need for counsel on a large scale.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:21 Impatience with respect to gaining riches often leads to wastefulness, poverty, and desperation. The parable of the prodigal son is a classic example (Lk 15:11–32).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:22 Vengeance belongs to God, and so God's people are counseled against private revenge (25:21–22; Dt 32:35; Rm 12:17–21). We are not thereby forbidden from reasonable self-defense or from using a godly means of redress when we are injured by another. We may serve in law enforcement, the armed forces, and as agents of the judicial process, since earthly government is God's means of punishing wrongdoers and protecting those who keep the law (Rm 13:1–5; AC XVI).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:24 By His Word, God directs the path of His people (Ps 1:1–2, 6; 119:97–105). He is not the author of sin (AC XIX), so we may not blame God for our wayward steps. Chem: "The human mind, to be sure, has a residue of that gift of free choice in civil matters, but how can man see all of these things and take care that he not be deceived in his choices? Thus there is need for divine guidance and aid" (LTh 1:235).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:25 In a momentary rapture of emotions, people sometimes make a rash vow in sacred things. They may find themselves caught in the predicament of being unable to pay for or do what they have pledged. holy. To consecrate or devote something to the Lord. making vows. Sacred vows should not be made hastily, since God expects us to keep them. See note, Nu 30:2. We should prepare carefully before taking vows, such as in marriage, confirmation, ordination, and in a court of law.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:26 winnows. See note, v 8. drives the wheel. First step in winnowing was to roll a heavy weight over the stalks of grain, separating the grain from its stalks and hulls (Jb 21:18; Ps 1:4; Is 28:27–28; Am 1:3). Lawful governments will use sound jurisprudence to separate the guilty from the innocent and apply firm judgment to punish lawbreakers.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:27 spirit. "The breath of life" God breathed into Adam's nostrils distinguishes humankind from all other creatures (Gn 2:7). It penetrates, illumines, and energizes every human faculty. God judges the heart and knows who are His (1Sm 16:7; 2Tm 2:19). It is a terrible prospect for God to look at our hearts, considering what lies therein (Mt 15:19; Rm 7:18).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 20:30 Blows that wound. See note, 13:24. In educating His adult children, the heavenly Father also resorts to "strokes" of adversity to "cleanse away evil" entrenched in "the innermost parts" of our being.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 19:13–20:30 Children are born fools, since they are born sinful. No one should be surprised by their excesses and ill manners. Yet no one should abandon them to their sinfulness but nurture and admonish them through God's Word. God's dear Son became a fool for our sakes, pierced and lashed to rescue us from foolishness and to deliver us into the arms of our dear Father. • O Father, welcome me now—Your prodigal child—for Brother Jesus has borne the blows and strokes of my cleansing. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:1–22:16 Describes the Lord's control over both wise and foolish people.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:1 A stream of water has no mind of its own. In the hand of the Lord, even a king's thoughts are like water in an irrigation canal, which farmers can divert into the channels they select. However, we are not to blame God for the abuse of power. But neither are we to despair that wicked people are in control, thinking that God's hand is not at work. The specifics of His work remain hidden, and the atrocities perpetrated seem confounding. Yet even through rulers like Pharaoh, God is glorified (Ex 14:4) and His will is done.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:2 weighs the heart. Cf Dn 5:27. The Egyptian Book of the Dead uses similar imagery.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:3 sacrifice. Cf Ps 40:6; Is 1:10–17; Am 5:21–24. Outward ceremonies as such are not useless; sacrificial offerings of various kinds were required by the Law of Moses. We lay on God's altar the sacrifice of self-will and the offering of wholehearted consecration. Cf Ps 51:16–17; Jer 6:20; 7:22–23; Hos 6:6. True worship does not begin with giving to God but with receiving from Him in humble faith. Then we live in fervent love toward one another, esp toward those in need (Mi 6:8; Jas 1:27).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:4 the lamp. See ESV note. Some Hbr manuscripts read "land ready to be farmed." Pride and arrogance are sin, producing a wicked harvest and leading down blind paths.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:9 corner of the housetop. Lonely and cramped space in which to live. This verse is repeated at 25:24. Cf 21:19. Flat roofs were common in the ancient world, and people often slept on them when weather permitted. Constant exposure to the elements—mild or severe—is preferable to living in a house where the storms of bickering are always brewing. While limited separation may be necessary in a troubled marriage, this proverb underscores both the importance of living at peace with one another (2Co 13:11) and the self-sacrifice and patience spouses may need to exercise for the sake of the union.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:14 concealed bribe. Cf 17:23. Does not endorse bribery but points out the effectiveness of worldly and sinful methods, which God's people should not encourage (Rm 12:1–2).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:16 See p 792.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:17 loves wine and oil. Wine and oil are symbolic of luxury and leisure, by which many people ruin themselves. While all good gifts come from God, we are to use them in moderation, to God's glory, and in service to others.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:18 ransom. Cf Is 43:3, where the catastrophes inflicted on the Egyptians are said to be the ransom that freed Israel from slavery. See "redeem," p 843.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:20 Precious treasure. Because wise people do not squander their money on "pleasure" (v 17), they always have on hand a store of things their family desires for comfort. oil. A staple in Near Eastern households, it also served to make life pleasant (Ps 104:15).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:25 desire. Because sluggards desire always to be at ease, they die of privation (6:6–11; 19:24; 26:13–16).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:27 brings it with evil intent. It is an abomination to offer a sacrifice to God in hope of gaining His favor. Apart from faith, nothing is pleasing to God (Heb 11:6). Condemned is all worship that is done hypocritically or in an effort to appease God (Ps 50:9–23), to gain the praises of others (Mt 6:1–2), or heedless of our need for repentance and forgiveness (Mt 5:23–24).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 21:31 horse. Used for war, not farming or travel. victory belongs to the LORD. Outcomes of human conflict are guided by the Lord. Luth: "Histories are nothing else than a demonstration, recollection, and sign of divine action and judgment, how He upholds, rules, obstructs, prospers, punishes, and honors the world, and especially men, each according to his just desert, evil or good" (AE 34:275–76).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:1 favor. Hbr chen, "approval," "affection." Here, human favor. silver
… gold. Wisdom is also compared to silver and gold (2:4; 3:14; 8:10, 19; 16:16).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:2 Does not directly address the question of who is responsible for differences in economic standing, only that all people share a common Creator. The implications here include respect for those of a different economic class.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:3 Same as 27:12. The prudent … hides himself. To be prudent is not to be blindly optimistic, but sensible; foolishness equates optimism with faith.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:4 riches and honor and life. Cf 3:16, where these gifts are the reward for wisdom. Throughout Pr, wisdom is to be thought of as the life of faith in Christ, who is Wisdom Incarnate. Wisdom leads one to be humble before God and to fear Him above all things. God may reward this faith with temporal goods, such as wealth, honor, and life. However, the godly are not to sin when they see the wicked prosper (cf 23:17–18).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:5 Thorns and snares. Ancient roads could become overgrown at times with thorns. Snares were often placed on paths to capture animals and even people. Here, thorns and snares refer to the problems that result from sin.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:6 Train up. Hbr term has the sense of "dedicate." (Cf LC I 75–77.) in the way he should go. Scholars debate whether this phrase refers to the moral route or to the child's career path. The child's training as a whole is in view.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:7 "Rich" is singular and "poor" plural, since the wealthy are fewer in number and have power over many people. This verse does not argue that the wealthy are better or more pleasing to God. Nor does it justify any oppression on the part of a lender. It simply states a fact of economic life, one that a potential borrower would do well to heed.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:8 sows … reap. The Bible often speaks of reaping and sowing as a metaphor for cause and effect. Cf Ps 126:5; Ec 11:4; Hos 8:7; 10:12; 2Co 9:6; Gal 6:7–8. rod of his fury. The unjust will be unable to inflict punishment on those whom they seek to harm.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:9 bountiful eye. Lit, "good eye." Generous people not only give bountifully with their hand, but their eye is always eager to see those in need. The eye directs the body (cf Lk 11:34).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:10 scoffer. Scoffers can stir up trouble out of nothing. Because they mock everything and do not fear God, they are always discontent. Scoffers stir up dissensions even among people who would otherwise have been at peace.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:11 Scoffers may stir up trouble, but people who are pure of heart and of gracious speech will be well-liked by kings. Truthful speech that is also gracious is rare.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:12 knowledge. Human beings cannot always discern the truth of the situation, but God knows all things. overthrows the words of the traitor. God makes sure that those who would lie to or betray their neighbor will not succeed in the end.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:13 sluggard. Lazy person. See note, 6:6. "There is a lion outside!" Asian lions would not be found on a city street but in the remote wooded areas of Israel; the excuse is ridiculous. Lazy people will use the most unreasonable fears to excuse their behavior. I shall be killed. Lit, "I will be murdered"—as if a person who asked him to go to work had criminal intent. These words further undercut the sluggard's credibility.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:14 forbidden women. See note, 5:3. Chs 1–9 were full of admonitions to avoid them (cf 2:16; 5:3; 5:20; 7:5). deep pit. One would fall in but be unable to climb out. So too those who commit adultery can end up trapping themselves.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:15 heart of a child. We tend to think of children as morally neutral at worst. The Bible does not. It knows that we are born with a sinful nature—folly, in other words. Godly education means not merely bringing the child's good talents to light but also driving out the bad. rod. The Bible approves of corporal punishment. However, as 23:13 makes clear, it does not envision the sort of abuse that would maim or kill a child, but rather it promotes discipline that instructs.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:16 gives to the rich. Bribes them.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 10:1–22:16 Folly is more than mere stupidity. It is an act of rebellion against God. It not only brings bad consequences in this life but also damns us for eternity. True wisdom does not come from studying hard in school or even from having much life experience. True wisdom flows out of trust in the Lord ("the fear of the LORD"). By putting our trust in God and in His Son—Jesus Christ, Wisdom in human flesh—we are delivered from the consequences of our folly and we grow in the righteous behavior marked by wisdom. • Dear heavenly Father, forgive us for the many ways that we have shown the folly of our hearts. Drive from us the folly that results whenever we fear, love, and trust idols rather than You. Strengthen our trust in You and in Your Son's death and resurrection so that we will grow in wisdom, grace, and the knowledge of our Savior. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:17–23:14 Since the "Wisdom of Amenemope" was discovered in Egypt in 1922, scholars have noted a number of parallels between Amenemope's sayings and these verses of Pr. More recently it has become clear that Amenemope's work was written at least a century before Solomon lived. This would imply that Solomon borrowed from the Egyptian, rather than the other way around. Moreover, Solomon seems to have structured 22:17–24:22 into 30 sayings. Amenemope had structured his work with 30 divisions. Does this mean that this portion of Holy Scripture is but a copy of pagan Egyptian thought? Not at all. Solomon did not slavishly copy the "Wisdom of Amenemope." In fact, only 22 of the 63 verses have any parallel with a statement found in "Amenemope" and all are to be found in the first section of the 30 sayings (22:17–23:14). Even the thoughts Solomon quoted have been altered significantly. Solomon had urged his readers to learn from other wise people (1:6). See pp 775–78.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:17 wise. Hbr noun is plural here and in 24:23. Solomon himself had stated that we can learn from other wise people (1:6). In putting together these sayings of the wise, Solomon's primary concern is to teach his readers to trust the Lord (v 19). The verses most heavily influenced by the "Wisdom of Amenemope" are filled with commands such as "do not" (cf 22:22, 24, 26, 28; 23:3, 4, 6, 9, 10, 13)—a clear exposition of God's Law.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:18 within you … on your lips. Lit, "in your heart, on your lips." Biblical way of saying "both inwardly and outwardly." ready on your lips. Able to recite them and explain the connections between them.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:20 thirty sayings. A spelling variance in the Hbr has confused translators over the centuries. Some see the words as a reference to repetition or excellence (e.g., see KJV). However, as Amenemope had written a book with 30 chapters of proverbs, Solomon may have liked the idea of collecting 30 sayings here. He used some of Amenemope's ideas, but he also incorporated the sayings of other wise people (cf v 17) and has reworked these sayings to apply to the Israelites. E.g., Amenemope warns against oppressing the poor, but Solomon adds that the Lord will defend the poor against their oppressors (v 23).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:21 a true answer to those who sent you? Wise people will be able to do their tasks honestly and justly, whatever they might be. Solomon assumes that most of his readers will be under other people's authority and need wisdom in the performance of their work.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:22 at the gate. City walls were many feet thick—big enough to serve as homes for people (Jsh 2:15; 2Ki 18:26–27)—and the gates equally massive. When the powerful citizens would gather there, they might easily complain about the poor who would not typically attend a gathering of the wealthy and influential. See p 792.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:24–25 Angry people tend to exploit others; if we associate with them, we learn to think as they do.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:27 bed be taken from under you? God's Law did not permit people's cloaks (which doubled as bed linens) to be held overnight as collateral (Ex 22:26–27). However, not everyone would operate ethically. It would not be wise to put oneself at the mercy of unscrupulous lenders.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:28 ancient landmark. There were no title deeds or surveyors' equipment in common usage in ancient Israel. Property boundaries were marked by stones. A dishonest neighbor could stealthily move the landmark farther and farther into his neighbor's property, stealing farm ground that was the basis of their existence. Such dishonesty would be hard to prove in court. fathers have set. Some rabbis later viewed such passages as referring to respect for traditions, not just to landmarks.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:29 skillful in his work? Lit, "quick in his work." The competent individual is recognized and rewarded.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:1–8 As the previous proverb indicated, competence raises one's station in life, but the proverbs that begin this chapter warn about the dangers of climbing the social ladder foolishly. The mighty are not always as welcoming as they appear (vv 1–3). Wealth is not all there is to life (vv 4–5). The stingy feign generosity, but their hospitality will cost you in the long run (vv 6–8).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:2 put a knife to your throat. Curb your appetite.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:3 deceptive food. The king appears to have put a lavish fare in front of you, but this is only to test you, to see whether you have the discipline to eat moderately.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:5 eyes light on it. I.e., as soon as your eyes fall upon the wealth. Hbr has a play on words: "When your eyes fly over to it, it flies away."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:6 stingy. Lit, "evil of eye." Just as a generous giver was described as having "a bountiful eye" (22:9; see ESV note), a stingy person is called "evil of eye." "The eye is the lamp of the body," Jesus warned in Mt 6:22. How we look at life determines how we live.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:7 inwardly calculating. He is adding up the value of the food his guests are consuming and intends to make them pay for it later.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:8 vomit up the morsels. Figuratively; stingy hosts will make their guests wish that they had never eaten at their house. pleasant words. As the guests become aware of the host's true character, they realize that the exchange of pleasantries was a waste of breath.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:9 he will despise the good sense of your words. Fools only want to hear their own "wisdom" (18:2). One cannot directly correct a fool and expect to make headway.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:10 ancient landmark. See note, 22:28. enter the fields of the fatherless. Fatherless and widows often fell victim to predators, since there was no male adult to protect them. God warned those who thought to harm these vulnerable people that He esp protected widows and the fatherless (Dt 10:18; 27:19).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:11 Redeemer. See note, Jb 19:25.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:13 if you strike him with a rod, he will not die. Can be understood in two ways. First, a child will not die from the blows inflicted. Second, a child will learn wisdom from being disciplined and so will not come to an early grave, as the next verse makes clear.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:14 Sheol. See p 792; cf Dt 21:18–21.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:15–28 Teaching about parents and children. These verses contain three direct appeals of a father to his son (vv 15, 19, 26), much as Solomon had addressed his son directly 15 times in chs 1–9 (e.g., 1:8; 2:1; 3:1). These proverbs give pointed advice that the young need to hear: do not envy sinners (vv 17–18) and their drunken orgies (vv 19–21); instead, listen to your parents and make them happy (vv 22–25); do not give in to youthful passions (vv 26–28). The admonition on wine (vv 29–35) can be seen as a continuation of this appeal to avoid the sins of youth.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:15 My son. Vv 13–14 instructed parents about how they were to raise their children. This verse and the ones that follow ask children to take their parents' instruction seriously.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:16 inmost being. Lit, "kidneys." Israelites spoke of the kidneys as the seat of extreme emotions, while the heart was the seat of both the intellect and less intense emotions. what is right. Lit, "straight" or "level" things.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:17 envy sinners. See note, 24:1–2. fear of the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:20–21 drunkards … gluttonous eaters. Drunkenness and gluttony are linked here as well as in other passages of Scripture (Dt 21:20; Mt 11:19; Lk 7:34) because they are both sins of overindulgence that attempt to satisfy through food and drink the God-sized hole in the human heart. This warning follows shortly after the warning not to envy sinners but to fear the Lord. We are most tempted to envy sinners when we see how they indulge themselves in alcohol and food. come to poverty. True wisdom allows us to see beyond momentary pleasure and discern the long-term consequence of overindulgence: poverty.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:23 Buy truth. Could refer to payment for education. Although truth and wisdom cannot be bought outright, they have a cost: the diligence of those who pursue them. truth … wisdom, instruction, and understanding. We should not understand these items as only abstract pieces of knowledge or merely practical information. Jesus Christ is the Truth (Jn 14:6) and He is Wisdom (Pr 8:22; see p 1012). The invitation to learn and grow in understanding is an invitation to deepen one's faith.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:24–25 Good parents rejoice when they see their children growing wisely. This brings them more joy than if their children become rich or successful in school or work.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:27–28 deep pit. Deep pits were frequently used to capture wild animals. adulteress. Described at length in ch 7. See note, 2:16. narrow well. A person who fell down a narrow well might sink into the mud and die. Cf Jer 38:6. In the same way, adultery traps a person. lies in wait. Cf 7:12, where the adulteress also lurks to see whom she may snare.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:29–35 This teaching about wine is the longest series of verses devoted to any one topic in Pr since chs 1–9 and the most comprehensive exposition on drunkenness found in the Scriptures. The passage begins with a riddle (v 29), followed by its answer (v 30). After a warning (v 31), the rest of the passage looks at the consequences of drunkenness (vv 32–35).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:30 mixed wine. Wine was often mixed with spices.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:31 when it is red. Wine was usually diluted, but some preferred to drink it straight (i.e., when it was pure red). The Hbr for "when the eye of the wine is red" is a play on words with "Who has redness of eyes?" (v 29).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:32 adder. Poisonous snake of the Near East.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:33 see strange things. Those who abuse alcohol may see hallucinations. utter perverse things. Often, people who are drunk say things that they would never say when sober.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:34 midst of the sea. Israel lacks natural ports; few people were sailors. Drunkenness makes one as unsteady as a novice at sea.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 23:35 I was not hurt. So drunk they do not feel the blows. When shall I awake? People who are drunk sleep fitfully. They often wait until they are sober enough to rise and then drink away their headache.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:1–2 Earlier, Solomon had warned against envying sinners (23:17–18), then he warned against drunkenness (23:19–21). Now he follows his teaching about drunkenness (23:29–35) with another warning against envying sinners. Whereas his earlier warning had emphasized the future that awaited those who feared the Lord, here Solomon shows the consequences of evil deeds.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:3–22 Strength and courage of wisdom. These verses explore how the wise are mightier than brute force (vv 5–6) and how wisdom equips one for action (vv 10–12). Fools are not taken seriously in the public arena (v 7). Although evil people can plot as shrewdly as the wise, their schemes ultimately come to naught (vv 8–9, 15–16). Knowing this keeps the wise from brooding about the wicked (vv 1–2, 17–20).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:3–4 By wisdom a house is built. The house serves as a metaphor for life. Rooms filled up by knowledge refer to the various activities and pursuits of life.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:5–6 A wise man is full of strength. Brute force can be defeated by lesser force, if wisely employed. As any general can tell, it is not merely the size of the armies that determines the outcome of the battle, but how those armies are used.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:7 in the gate. See p 792.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:8 schemer. One who is as shrewd as a wise person (cf Lk 16:8) but uses knowledge for evil.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:9 devising of folly. Sin is the opposite of fearing, loving, and trusting in God above all things. The fact that people devote much time, energy, and brainpower to planning defiant behavior against God does not hide the truth that such behavior is folly. the scoffer is an abomination. Since scoffers are always stirring up trouble (cf 22:10), nobody really likes them. See note, 6:16.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:10 faint. Or, "fail to act." This same word is used to describe the failure of the Israelites to take over the Promised Land (Jsh 18:3). Of course, even the bravest feel fear, but it does not prevent them from taking action. adversity … small. Wordplay; Hbr for these words is similar.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:11 taken away to death. Ap Const: "Sums of money as are collected … appoint [them] to be laid out in the redemption of the saints, the deliverance of slaves, and of captives, and of prisoners, and of those that have been abused, and of those that have been condemned by tyrants to single combat and death on account of the name of Christ" (ANF 7:435). stumbling to the slaughter. Although this may refer to people under the threat of an unjust execution, it most likely refers to victims of street crime.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:12 we did not know this. Some people pretend not to see muggings and other forms of violence, much as the priest and the Levite pretended not to see the man who was robbed in the parable of the Good Samaritan (Lk 10:31–32). But claiming ignorance will not work with God, who knows whether or not we saw people in need and refused to help them. He who weighs. See note, 21:2.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:13 eat honey. Gathered from wild bees, which built their hives in the rocks (Dt 32:13). Chiefly used as a sweetener in baked goods. However, this is not dietary advice; it sets up the next proverb. Wisdom, like honey, is equally sweet. Hipp: "He uses 'honey' figuratively, meaning divine doctrine, which restores the spiritual knowledge of the soul" (ANF 5:172). See note, Ps 119:103.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:15–16 Solomon does not appeal to any sense of right and wrong held by the wicked but describes the futility of their plots. as a wicked man. Direct address ("O wicked man") to anyone tempted to harm a righteous person.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:16 Though the righteous fall daily, God always raises them up again. The righteous also look forward to an eternity of bliss. Meanwhile, the wicked stumble just once and are down for good, since God does not help them back up again. seven times. See note, Ps 119:164.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:17 Warning to the godly, who might be tempted to rejoice when the wicked suffer. God does not desire the death of sinners but rather their repentance (Ezk 18:23). Passages of Scripture that celebrate the defeat of enemies (e.g., Ex 15) usually praise God for His deliverance rather than focusing on the destruction of the enemy. your enemy. Your personal enemy rather than a national foe.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:18 from him. Toward the one who rejoiced at his enemy's fall (v 17).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:19 envious of the wicked. Cf 23:17; see note, 24:1–2.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:20 the lamp. Symbol of joy and life (cf 13:9). When the lamp of the wicked is extinguished, they, unlike the righteous, have no future (cf 23:18).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:21–22 Both the Lord and the king inflict punishment on those who disobey them.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:21 fear the Lord. See notes, 1:7; 2:5. and the king. Kings and rulers are servants of God and are, therefore, to be honored as such (Rm 13:1–2, 5–6; 1Pt 2:17). Moreover, the kings of ancient Israel were to be governed by God's Law and to implement it (Dt 17:18–20). Just as Pr 1–9 begins and ends with an appeal to fear the Lord (1:7 and 9:10), so this section ends with the same appeal. The advice of these chs is to be understood from the viewpoint of faith in the Lord.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 22:17–24:22 Solomon knows that true piety is more than simply avoiding evil but is based on trust in God. Thus, he urges us not to envy sinners but to fear the Lord, for the Lord has graciously promised us a glorious future (23:17–18; 24:1–4, 13–14). • Lord, as we learn in secular institutions and from pagan neighbors, may we be moved to grow in godliness, while ever remembering that true righteousness is ours through Christ alone. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:23–34 Seems to be a second compilation of proverbs of other wise men collected by Solomon and are distinct from the first compilation (22:17–24:22). These two compilations serve as appendixes to Solomon's preface (chs 1–9) and the collections of his own proverbs (10:1–22:16).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:23 the wise. Plural, as in 22:17. Sayings in vv 23–34 are Solomon's collection of proverbs from unnamed wise men. Partiality. Favoritism is evil because God judges justly (2Ch 19:7), and judges are God's representatives in the courts.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:24 God abhors injustice, esp when people call wickedness good. Even when God justifies us sinners, He does not ignore the evil we have done. Only because Christ paid the penalty for our sins can we be declared righteous.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:26 kisses. Symbolize friendship and love. An honest answer, even if it contains a rebuke, is a sign of true friendship and love.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:27 Prepare your work outside. Get the crops in first. Then build a house and settle permanently. This proverb has a particularly useful application to marriage. One ought to be financially and spiritually stable before getting married.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:28 Be not a witness. Warning against perjury. In biblical times, the outcome of a trial could easily be determined by one false witness supporting the lies of another. Even if someone had been maligned by a neighbor, that person should not commit perjury. (Cf v 29.) See p 792.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:29 I will do to him as he has done to me. Opposite of the Golden Rule (Mt 7:12). Settling scores with enemies is pagan morality (Mt 5:44–47).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:30 sluggard. See note, 6:6.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:31 thorns. Exact plant is unknown. nettles. Unlike thorn-bearing plants, nettles grow primarily in areas that were formerly cultivated but now neglected, as is this vineyard.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:33–34 Nearly identical to 6:10–11.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 24:23–34 These verses comprise two sets of three topics: conduct in court (23–25, 28), speaking (26, 29), and work (27, 30–34). We are told to be just in judging and honest in our testimony. We are to speak the truth to our neighbor in all circumstances. We are to work hard on the most important priorities and not shirk work like the sluggard. In short, these verses admonish us to engage in the sort of decent conduct that enables societies to flourish. While all societies recognize the value of these behaviors, we Christians seek to live in such ways because the Gospel frees us to serve our neighbors in a God-pleasing way. • Heavenly Father, grant us justice, honesty, and industrious service. Through Christ's death and resurrection change our hearts and our society. Amen.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON Chs 25–29 proverbs of Solomon. 1Ki 4:32 indicates that Solomon spoke 3,000 proverbs, which were more than likely preserved in royal archives. See "Additions," p 629. Pr 25–29 were "copied" from these sayings some 200 years later by "the men of Hezekiah," probably the king's secretary, Shebnah, and his recorder, Joah the son of Asaph (cf 2Ki 18:18, 37). Under King Hezekiah (715–686 BC) and his reforms, a renewed interest in God's Word took place.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:2–27 Content of this collection of Solomon's proverbs shows that it was intended for instructing kings and their courts. Vv 2–5 introduce the nature of kingship; vv 6–15 provide advice for dealing with kings; vv 16–26 explain the manner in which a king should deal with wicked people; v 27 concludes the section.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:2 conceal things. God's glory is manifested in many ways, e.g., creation, intervention in history, and, specifically, human redemption through His Son. Yet His ways and will are often hidden from human comprehension. search things out. The glory and greatness of kings, however, is manifested in their ability to make God's ways known to those under their rule. Solomon emphasizes wisdom as research. This would eventually lead to what we call science (see pp 775–78).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:3 A king's intentions may not always be known.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:4 dross. Impurities removed when refining silver.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:5 Luther noted that it was the duty of kings and secular officials to force "those who do not want to be good and righteous … to become good and righteous in the eyes of the world." In doing so they carry out God's will, for "although God will not reward this kind of righteousness with eternal life … he still wishes peace to be maintained among men" (AE 46:99–100). The peace that results from the removal of wickedness under the jurisdiction of rulers establishes what is called "civil righteousness."

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:6 the great. People in positions of authority (e.g., kings, elders).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:7b–10 Though lawsuits may be necessary in some cases, it is wise to settle disputes between parties involved instead of seeking out a third party for legal representation before a court of law (cf Mt 5:25; 7:1–5). See p 792.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:11 apples of gold in a setting of silver. Metaphor for jewelry. Some botanists believe the fruit was apricots.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:13 cold of snow in the time of harvest. Probably snow that was brought down from a mountain to cool and refresh workers in the harvest field, for snowfall during harvesttime would not have been a blessing but a curse.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:15 soft tongue. Kind and humble speech.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:16 vomit it. Overindulgence leads to harm.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:19 foot that slips. A lame foot.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:20 heavy heart. Someone in deep despair. Songs can provoke a fight with such a person. vinegar on soda. Pouring vinegar on soda makes it foam up.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:21–22 you will heap burning coals on his head. You will shame him. Aug: "Interpret the coals of fire as the burning groans of penitence by which a man's pride is cured who bewails that he has been the enemy of one who came to his assistance in distress" (NPNF 1 2:563). As Rm 12:14–21 indicates, treating enemies with kindness overcomes evil with good.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:23 brings forth rain. Lit, "writhes with the birth pangs of rain." The north wind signals the coming of a low-pressure system and the ensuing west wind with its rain. backbiting tongue. That of a malicious whisperer or gossiper.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:26 gives way before the wicked. Succumbs to sinful temptations.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:1–27 Righteous people who compromise their principles disappoint us. Hope remains not in the possibility of renewing their righteousness by trying harder next time but rather in God's righteousness, which is credited to all who trust in the Lord's mercy. This righteousness is passive (i.e., it is credited us apart from anything done on our part, solely through Christ's work on the cross). This passive righteousness frees, strengthens, and moves us to pursue what can be called "active" righteousness by keeping the Law to thank the Lord for His mercy.

• Merciful Lord, You hid Your power in the weakness of Your Son that we might seek it wisely by faith. Refresh us this day with the faithful message of Your love that we may search out what is glorious and pleasing to You. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 25:28–27:4 Solomon's extensive comments on the nature of fools.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:2 does not alight. A curse pronounced without provocation (i.e., not expressed in response to transgressions of God's Law) has no chance of being fulfilled. See note, Gn 12:3.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:3 a rod for the back of fools. See note, 10:13; cf 19:29.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:4–5 according to his folly. Whether a fool should be answered or not varies with circumstances. Do not let a fool take your silence as approval or inability to answer.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:6 drinks violence. Revels in violent behavior and speech; asks for trouble.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:8 binds the stone. Loads a slingshot.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:10 passing fool. Hiring someone just to fill the position inevitably leads to more harm than good.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:11 Quoted in 2Pt 2:22. Dogs were considered one of the filthiest animals in ancient Israel. These unclean animals (according to Levitical law) naturally returned to their uncleanness.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:12 wise in his own eyes? Such people are not teachable.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:13 Absurd ploy to avoid leaving the house and engaging in labor. See note, 22:13.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:14 Humorously describes the ease with which a sluggard rolls over in bed (when he or she is supposed to be awake).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:15 buries his hand in the dish. Solomon is poking fun at people who are too lazy to finish what they started, esp necessary tasks.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:16 seven. See p 217.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:17 Dogs in ancient Israel typically roamed the streets in packs (Ex 22:31; 1Ki 14:11; 16:4; 21:19–24; 22:38; 2Ki 9:10, 36; Ps 22:20; 59:6, 14–15; Jer 15:3). If you grabbed one by the ears, you would be unable to let go lest you be bitten and, at the same time, unable to hang on, since the other dogs in the pack would attack you.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:18–19 Good humor between mutual friends is not condemned, but rather the covering up of malicious deceit with a joke.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:20–22 Gossip and unsubstantiated rumors cause disputes and often sustain them. kindling. Lit, "to make hotter." Gossipy whispers linger in a person's imagination.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:23–26 Warning against those who disguise their malicious intent with the appearances of goodwill.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:25 seven abominations. See note, 6:16–19.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 26:26 assembly. Hbr qahal. General public or religious gathering; in the public eye.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:1 Cf Jas 4:13–16.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:2 True praise comes from others. See note, 27:21.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:4 Wrath … anger. Typically brief emotions. Jealousy persists for a longer period of time.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:5–22 New section; offers advice for dealing with family, friends, and other people but also contains the greatest concentration of enigmatic sayings in the entire Book.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:5 hidden love. Love that does not take action.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:6 Faithful are the wounds of a friend. Emotional wounds caused by loving concern. kisses of an enemy. Insincere signs of affection from an enemy.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:7 Those who lack the necessities of life will endure suffering to attain them.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:8 Warning against adultery. Cf ch 7. Also, counsel to those who despise their family.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:9 Oil and perfume. Scents were mixed with olive oil for anointing the body (today, perfume is usually mixed with alcohol). See note, Sg 4:14. sweetness. Value or worth.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:10 Warning against overreacting to adversity by imposing on family members.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:11 Cf Ps 127:3–5.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:13 garment … pledge … security. See note, 20:16.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:14 Poorly timed or insincere compliments are not compliments at all.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:17 Iron sharpens iron. Characteristics of the people with whom you associate will eventually shape or hone your character. While this can be positive, as this text implies, it can also be negative for those who keep bad company.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:18 Loyalty pays off in any vocation.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:20 Sheol and Abaddon. See p 792. Sheol takes one person after another.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:21 tested by his praise. How people react to praise often reveals their nature. Persons who pride themselves on flattery are self-centered. Luth: "There must be great diligence and care lest honor and good reputation puff up the heart and the heart find pleasure in them. … Few and most spiritual men must they be who, when honored and praised, remain indifferent and unchanged, so that they do not care for it, nor feel pride and pleasure in it, but remain entirely free, ascribe all their honor and fame to God, offering it to Him alone, and using it only for the glory of God and the edification of their neighbors" (WLS § 2063). May we be humble, by receiving praise without pride and by acknowledging every gift and talent as a blessing from God to be used in service to our neighbor! God, grant us such hearts for the sake of Christ!
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:22 mortar. Stone bowl. pestle. Stone tool for grinding grain in the mortar. Hardened fools cannot be separated from their foolishness.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:23–27 Exhortations for rulers regarding governance of their people.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:23 Kings were often referred to as shepherds in the OT (1Ki 22:17; Ps 78:70–71; Jer 6:3; Ezk 34:23; Mi 5:2–4). As such, they are called to guard and protect their people as a shepherd tends his flock. This mandate also applies to fathers: "He gives to the father of a family a domestic precept, that he should use what is his own and refrain from what is another's. Solomon commands the father to take good care of his own property. Yet he should do so in such a way that, with his mind occupied with the increase of his resources, he should not cast away the fear of God or faith or care in God's Word" (Ap XIIB 9).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:24 Successful governing requires constant attention. Prosperity and the right or ability to rule are not automatic.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:25–27 Kings are to watch over their people who, in return, will cause everyone to flourish.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 27:27 maintenance for your girls. Nourishment for female servants.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON Chs 28–29 Additional advice for kings.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:1 bold as a lion. Those who trust in the Lord will be vindicated.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:3 Kings need to be mindful not only of the wealthy and influential but also of those unjustly treated and neglected among the poor.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:4 law. Hbr torah, "religious instruction"; not a specific canon of statutes and regulation such as the Ten Commandments, though it does not exclude such specific laws. See p 971.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:8 Usury or the charging of interest for profit was forbidden among the Israelites (cf Ex 22:25; Lv 25:35–37; Dt 23:19–20; Ezk 22:12). Those who gathered wealth in this way could have it confiscated.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:9 law. See note, v 4. Those who disregard right religious instruction and still pray perform an idolatrous act by addressing an ill-conceived god. "If your faith and trust is right, then your god is also true. On the other hand, if your trust is false and wrong, then you do not have the true God" (LC I 3). "Even if [or: Even if we were to concede that] all people outside Christianity … believe in and worship only one true God, they still do not know what His mind toward them is and cannot expect any love or blessing from Him. Therefore, they abide in eternal wrath and damnation. For they do not have the Lord Christ, and, besides, are not illumined and favored by any gifts of the Holy Spirit [1 Corinthians 2:9–16; Hebrews 6:4–6]" (LC II 66).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:11 Wealth is not always a sign of wisdom.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:13 confesses and forsakes. Written for rulers and their subjects. The passage describes sincere repentance. mercy. Forgiveness given by God to those who acknowledge their sinfulness.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:14 fears the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5. Bern: "The fear which I wish to inspire [in you] is not that which falls into the nets of desperation, but which brings to us the hope of blessedness" (SLSB, p 99). By fearing and trusting in God, we receive His promises by faith. Today, the Lord, our King, calls us to live by His promises received at Baptism, when we hear His Word, and when we partake in His Supper. hardens his heart. Develops a stubborn rebelliousness and lack of repentance.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:16 cruel oppressor. As in v 15, the nature of such overbearing and tyrannical rulers, whose ways can only keep their people poor and impoverished, stands in stark contrast to those who stamp out the unjust treatment of the poor and oppressed.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:17 burdened with the blood of another. Either the weight of a guilty conscience or the pressures felt by the pursuit of the authorities. See note, 1Ki 2:31.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:20 Both God and fellow human beings will bless a trustworthy person. Those who are in a hurry to obtain wealth and riches do so at the expense of others. They will eventually pay for their dishonesty.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:22 See ESV note. Warning against corruption.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:23 Making guilty persons feel good about themselves will not earn the respect and fear required for good authority-subject relationships.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:24 a man who destroys. A vandal.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:25 the one who trusts in the LORD will be enriched. The wisest of all investments. Trust in wealth is faith in temporal things, rather than the eternal—the Lord. True and lasting riches can only be found in that which truly lasts.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:26 Defines precisely what a fool is: someone who trusts in his or her own abilities rather than God's wisdom and promises handed down to human beings in the Scriptures. delivered. See p 842.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:27 hides his eyes. Fails to see the needs of others.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 28:28 Under a wicked regime, people contribute less to the common good. They fear that a corrupt government will use the fruits of their labor for its own purposes, and not for all people.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:1 stiffens his neck. Is stubborn. See note, Ex 32:9.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:4 exacts gifts. Is guilty of corruption, using public resources for private purposes (see ESV note).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:5 spreads a net. Weaves a web of flattery that traps him.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:8 set a city aflame. Stir up trouble. turn away wrath. Bring peace to disputes.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:9 argument with a fool. See note, 26:4–5.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:11 Fools express their opinions and emotions whenever they please. They also commit sinful deeds without restraint.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:13 the LORD gives light to the eyes of both. All people are God's creatures and servants and, therefore, receive His blessings. As this proverb is advice for kings, it reminds those who are in a position of power that they are to be impartial in their dealings with their subjects. See note, Jb 17:7.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:14 established forever. Reputation of the ruler will continue as an example for other rulers to emulate. All will welcome the leadership of the ruler's descendants.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:15 Luth: "When a child is permitted to do what it pleases, and parents say: Whatever our little daughter does is good, that girl is certainly headed for prostitution. And later on shame rests on the father and ignominy on the mother. This is their penalty for having neglected to train their child. God wants youth to be ruled and coerced by discipline, for this age is very weak and inexperienced and thinks only of foolish, childish, and harmful things. Accordingly, [the child] cannot rule itself and cannot see what is good for itself" (WLS § 5078).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:16 Cf 28:28; 29:2.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:17 Parents who discipline their young children reap a blessing in the future, esp when their children are grown and independent.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:18 prophetic vision. Hbr chazon, revelation from God, which has been preserved in the Scriptures. The Lord moved the prophets to preach His Word lest the people circumvent and distort the moral law through sinful reasoning. Secular moral philosophy cannot sustain a nation. See pp 1077–83.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:19 Physical punishment or removal of privilege is needed.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:20 hasty in his words. Speaking without thinking of the meaning or possible consequences.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:21 will … find him his heir. See ESV note. LXX reads, "he will have grief over himself." Those who pamper their servants from their youth will cause grief to themselves later on in life, for the slaves will not possess the wisdom to serve their master well.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:24 discloses nothing. During legal proceedings, such a person is found in contempt of court for not testifying.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 29:26 Reminds rulers that many people will attempt to influence them. Also instructs subjects of human authorities that, although their secular officials are responsible for ensuring peace and justice, real justice and righteousness comes from God. God is the final arbiter over all people throughout history. A more profound truth is revealed here as well: not only is God the ultimate judge, dispensing justice when and where He sees fit, but He is also the ultimate advocate. See "The Redeemer," p 782.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON Chs 25–29 Israel was not holy, or set apart, because of their own greatness but because of God's extraordinary kindness in calling them to be His people, the people from whom the future Messiah would be born. By crushing the work of Satan, this Messiah would deliver the final blow to the catastrophic effects and consequences of sin upon humanity (Gn 3:15). This establishes the necessary context for reading these proverbs and instructions on human righteousness. For the righteousness of rulers and their subjects is borne out of the divine righteousness reckoned to human beings through faith in God's promises. The righteousness that saves is a righteousness that only comes through faith in God's promise; Christ's righteousness was substituted for our wickedness. • We thank You, O Lord, for Your greatest act of justice, the sending of Your own Son to die on our behalf! In assurance and eternal hope, enable me to freely serve my neighbor, community, and authorities. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 30 We do not know who Agur son of Jakeh was, nor do we know when he spoke these words or when they were recorded. The words of Agur feature "numerical sayings" (seven sayings in vv 11–14, 15–16, 18–19, 21–23, 24–28, 29–31, 32–33). These sayings involve a list of examples that stand together to illustrate a truth. The sayings often appear in a formula stating a number for the list and then adding one. The sayings also have the feel of a riddle, inviting the listener to guess what the uniting point of the list is or what items might appear in the list. Other such sayings appear in 6:16–19; Jb 5:19; Am 1:3–15; 1Sm 18:7; 21:11; 29:5.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:1 oracle. Prophetic message. The man. Agur. In vv 1–3, he confesses his weariness and inherent weakness in trying to attain true wisdom, understanding, and knowledge of the Holy One by his own reason and strength (cf 9:10).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:4 Agur's questions challenge his audience to acknowledge their total reliance on God for the attainment of wisdom, just as God challenged Job (Jb 38:4–39:30). son's name. Chem: "The clearest passage where He is called the Son of God without respect to His human nature" (LTh 1:92). Surely you know! Agur even uses the very same words that God used (Jb 38:5).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:5 word of God. Having demonstrated to his audience their inability to attain true wisdom, understanding, and knowledge, Agur points them to the source and purveyor of all these things. God's Word is the only tried, tested, and proven shelter from false wisdom that leads, ultimately, to damnation. Chem: "These mysteries are known from the Word and we must believe nothing else about God than what He has revealed" (LTh 1:92). May our gracious Lord, through the Holy Spirit, increase our reliance on His Holy Word! See note, Ps 18:30.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:6 Do not add. Do not change God's Word.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:9 Sometimes, people who become full or blessed with riches are tempted to rely on these things rather than God. Conversely, poor people are sometimes tempted to steal. Either sin makes a mockery of God's name.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:10 slander. Malicious falsehood told about another person. Those whose reputation is unjustly damaged by a lie may curse the slanderer, and before God the slanderer is absolutely guilty. curse. See note, Gn 12:3.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:11–14 Four kinds of people whose attitudes prevent them from obtaining true wisdom.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:13 lofty … eyes … high … eyelids. Picturing arrogance and haughtiness.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:15–16 leech. Hbr word is found only here. A leech has a sucker at each end of its body. Agur means the person is a parasite, who seems to have two mouths. daughters. Used because "leech" is grammatically feminine. "Sheol," "womb," "land," and "fire" are also feminine; the writer is using wordplay to relate all these observations.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:16 Sheol. See p 792.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:18–19 First three things move in extraordinary ways (without legs). Human love is also mysterious, particularly when expressed physically.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:20 eats and wipes her mouth. She sees no fault in taking what does not belong to her.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:21–23 three … four. See ch 30 intro.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:24–28 Four things. See ch 30 intro. the lizard you can take in your hands. While a lizard can easily be caught, because it is able to scale walls it can also find its way into the most secure of places.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:29–31 Three … four. See ch 30 intro.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 30:32–33 Wise people do not express boastful thoughts or evil schemes they may have had. Instead, they keep their mouth shut. However, wicked fools express them and, as a result, cause strife and conflict in their community by pressing the issues.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON Ch 30 Agur demonstrates the futility of life without wisdom, and also the blessings obtained from God's Word. We cannot obtain enough insight, correct every injustice, or curb some of the most common sins. It is only through knowledge of the Holy One—God's only Son, Jesus Christ, who was crucified, died, and resurrected—that we are rescued from pressure of inadequacy, failure, and, ultimately, eternal damnation. Knowledge and soundness of mind gained from the Lord enable us to approach life in this world with confidence. • O Lord, raise us up in newness of life, so that we may love and serve our neighbors. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:1 King Lemuel. Means "dedicated to God." Some biblical scholars suggest that it may be a pseudonym for King Hezekiah (2Ki 18:5) or possibly King Josiah (2Ki 23:25). his mother taught him. Mothers were expected to provide the earliest lessons for children. However, Lemuel's mother played a larger role in preparing her son to be king. She was even given words of instruction either directly from God or from a prophet. In any case, because she taught and ingrained God's Word into her son's mind, these words became his words.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:2 son of my vows? Marriage vows or perhaps a vow like Hannah's, who offered her son Samuel in service to the Lord (1Sm 1:11).

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:3 Do not give your strength to women. Warning against sexual immorality.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:4 strong drink. See note, 23:29–35.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:6–7 Does not condone the abuse of alcohol or drunkenness, just as vv 4–5 do not absolutely prohibit alcohol. Alcohol was valued as medication and for relaxation.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:1–9 King Lemuel was taught God's Word by his mother in order to equip him to serve his subjects. While we may never find ourselves in such a high position of authority, let us learn from his mother's example. Rather than focusing her teaching on how he could achieve financial and material success or how to increase his power, she taught him God's Word. God's Word from cover to cover bears witness first and foremost to another son: God's Son, who, at the appropriate time, took on human flesh and was born to a virgin mother. He did so to fulfill God's promise to bless all nations (Gn 12:2–3). Indeed, His death for the sins of the entire world (1Jn 2:2) opened up the gates to heaven. • O Christ, the Word of God, You came to serve humankind. Guide us to bring hope to others and serve even the poorest of our neighbors. Amen.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:10–31 Acrostic poem; each line begins with a letter of the Hbr alphabet. No indication who wrote this final section of Pr. See pp 777–78. On account of its different style, this poem is probably not an extension of King Lemuel's words. Yet this is a wonderful poem, praising virtuous women. It also serves to instruct men in what to look for in a potential spouse. The woman described here is truly remarkable. While it is often assumed that women played a subservient role in the home and society of ancient Israel, this woman defies such description. Not only is she the manager of the household, she is also a shrewd businesswoman (and is praised for it). Notice, however, that everything she does is for her family and, by extension, her community. She lives and works for the well-being and livelihood of others. She is not interested in promoting her own self-worth, but her worth is demonstrated by her service, which is ultimately motivated by her love for God. Such a woman should be treasured and honored. See "Standing of Women," p 213.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:13 flax. Used to make linen, a costly material worn by the wealthy.

PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:14 like the ships of the merchant. She is enterprising and industrious. In providing for her family, she supplies not only what is convenient but also adds variety and novelty.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:15 her maidens. Her servants.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:16 Activities normally associated with men in the OT. However, Israelite women enjoyed more freedom than has sometimes been granted by commentators.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:18 Her lamp does not go out at night. She could afford to have enough oil to keep the lamps burning throughout the night in case any family members awoke in the dark and had to move about in the house.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:21 clothed in scarlet. Due to her industriousness and shrewdness, she clothes her family with the highest quality and most expensive clothes.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:22 purple. Expensive dye.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:23 gates … elders. Her accomplishments and good reputation bring additional respect to her husband. See p 792.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:24 linen. See note, v 13. In addition to her household duties, she also makes a profit through the work she does, and does well, on the side.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:25 she laughs at the time to come. Her godly diligence protects her against the future. May we all, trusting that God will always provide for us, continue to work hard in our vocations and stations in life for the sake of our family, neighbors, and communities!
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:30 fears the LORD. See notes, 1:7; 2:5. Essential characteristic of an exceptional woman (and man) is fear of the Lord—for only those who fear the Lord will obtain the wisdom to accomplish all the other attributes described above.
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:30–31 Men should not take their wives for granted. Not only should they love and praise them in the home but also in public. Bern: "You have been enabled to reject the deceitful glory of the world. … you deserve to be praised for not being deceived" (SLSB, p 216).
PROVERBS—NOTE ON 31:10–31 The most basic human relationship, according to God's design, is the joining of a man and woman in holy matrimony. However, due to our active rebellion, this relationship has been undermined. In His mercy, God still blesses our marriages. Since our relationship with the Creator is restored in Christ, this likewise serves to restore our marriages and all other human relationships. • O Lord, grant a faithful and diligent spouse to Your child. Bind the hearts of all who marry in lasting love and mutual care, through Christ Jesus, who gave His life for His Bride, the Church. Amen.

All Is Vanity

1 [1]‡† The words of the Preacher,[1] the son of David, king in Jerusalem.

[2]† Vanity[2] of vanities, says the Preacher, vanity of vanities! All is vanity.
[3]‡† What does man gain by all the toil
at which he toils under the sun?
[4]† A generation goes, and a generation comes,
but the earth remains forever.
[5]† The sun rises, and the sun goes down,
and hastens[3] to the place where it rises.
[6]† The wind blows to the south
and goes around to the north;
around and around goes the wind,
and on its circuits the wind returns.
[7]† All streams run to the sea,
but the sea is not full;
to the place where the streams flow,
there they flow again.
[8]† All things are full of weariness;
a man cannot utter it;
the eye is not satisfied with seeing,
nor the ear filled with hearing.
[9]‡† What has been is what will be,
and what has been done is what will be done,
and there is nothing new under the sun.
[10]† Is there a thing of which it is said,
"See, this is new"?
It has been already
in the ages before us.
[11]† There is no remembrance of former things,[1]
nor will there be any remembrance of later things[2] yet to be among those who come after.

The Vanity of Wisdom

12 ‡ ‡ ‡ I the Preacher have been king over Israel in Jerusalem. 13 † And I applied my heart[3] to seek and to search out by wisdom all that is done under heaven. It is an unhappy business that God has given to the children of man to be busy with. 14 † I have seen everything that is done under the sun, and behold, all is vanity and a striving after wind.[4]

15 † What is crooked cannot be made straight,
and what is lacking cannot be counted.

16 † I said in my heart, “I have acquired great wisdom, surpassing all who were over Jerusalem before me, and my heart has had great experience of wisdom and knowledge.” 17 ‡ And I applied my heart to know wisdom and to know madness and folly. I perceived that this also is but a striving after wind.

18 † For in much wisdom is much vexation,
and he who increases knowledge increases sorrow.

The Vanity of Self-Indulgence

2 [1]I said in my heart, “Come now, I will test you with pleasure; enjoy yourself.” But behold, this also was vanity. [2]I said of laughter, “It is mad,” and of pleasure, “What use is it?” [3]I searched with my heart how to cheer my body with wine—my heart still guiding me with wisdom—and how to lay hold on folly, till I might see what was good for the children of man to do under heaven during the few days of their life. [4]I made great works. I built houses and planted vineyards for myself. [5]I made myself gardens and parks, and planted in them all kinds of fruit trees. [6]I made myself pools from which to water the forest of growing trees. [7]I bought male and female slaves, and had slaves who were born in my house. I had also great possessions of herds and flocks, more than any who had been before me in Jerusalem. [8]I also gathered for myself silver and gold and the treasure of kings and provinces. I got singers, both men and women, and many concubines,[1] the delight of the children of man.

[9]So I became great and surpassed all who were before me in Jerusalem.
Also my wisdom remained with me. [10]And whatever my eyes desired I did not keep from them. I kept my heart from no pleasure, for my heart found pleasure in all my toil, and this was my reward for all my toil. [11]Then I considered all that my hands had done and the toil I had expended in doing it, and behold, all was vanity and a striving after wind, and there was nothing to be gained under the sun.

The Vanity of Living Wisely

12 ‡† So I turned to consider wisdom and madness and folly. For what can the man do who comes after the king? Only what has already been done.
13 †Then I saw that there is more gain in wisdom than in folly, as there is more gain in light than in darkness. 14† The wise person has his eyes in his head, but the fool walks in darkness. And yet I perceived that the same event happens to all of them. 15†Then I said in my heart, “What happens to the fool will happen to me also. Why then have I been so very wise?” And I said in my heart that this also is vanity. 16†For of the wise as of the fool there is no enduring remembrance, seeing that in the days to come all will have been long forgotten. How the wise dies just like the fool! 17†So I hated life, because what is done under the sun was grievous to me, for all is vanity and a striving after wind.

The Vanity of Toil

18 ‡ † I hated all my toil in which I toil under the sun, seeing that I must leave it to the man who will come after me, 19 † and who knows whether he will be wise or a fool? Yet he will be master of all for which I toiled and used my wisdom under the sun. This also is vanity. 20 † So I turned about and gave my heart up to despair over all the toil of my labors under the sun, 21 † because sometimes a person who has toiled with wisdom and knowledge and skill must leave everything to be enjoyed by someone who did not toil for it. This also is vanity and a great evil. 22 ‡ What has a man from all the toil and striving of heart with which he toils beneath the sun? 23 † For all his days are full of sorrow, and his work is a vexation. Even in the night his heart does not rest. This also is vanity.

24 † There is nothing better for a person than that he should eat and drink and find enjoyment[1] in his toil. This also, I saw, is from the hand of God, 25 † for apart from him[2] who can eat or who can have enjoyment? 26 † For to the one who pleases him God has given wisdom and knowledge and joy, but to the sinner he has given the business of gathering and collecting, only to give to one who pleases God. This also is vanity and a striving after wind.

A Time for Everything

3 [1] For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven:

[2] a time to be born, and a time to die;
a time to plant, and a time to pluck up what is planted;
[3] a time to kill, and a time to heal;
a time to break down, and a time to build up;
[4] a time to weep, and a time to laugh;
a time to mourn, and a time to dance;
[5] a time to cast away stones, and a time
to gather stones together;
a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
[6] a time to seek, and a time to lose;
a time to keep, and a time to cast away;
[7] a time to tear, and a time to sew;
a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;
[8] a time to love, and a time to hate;
a time for war, and a time for peace.

The God-Given Task

9 ‡‡What gain has the worker from his toil? 10 I have seen the business that God has given to the children of man to be busy with. 11 †He has made everything beautiful in its time. Also, he has put eternity into man's heart, yet so that he cannot find out what God has done from the beginning to the end. 12 †I perceived that there is nothing better for them than to be joyful and to do good as long as they live; 13 †also that everyone should eat and drink and take pleasure in all his toil—this is God's gift to man.

14 †I perceived that whatever God does endures forever; nothing can be added to it, nor anything taken from it. God has done it, so that people fear before him. 15 †That which is, already has been; that which is to be, already has been; and God seeks what has been driven away.[1]

From Dust to Dust

16 †Moreover, I saw under the sun that in the place of justice, even there was wickedness, and in the place of righteousness, even there was wickedness. 17 †I said in my heart, God will judge the righteous and the wicked, for there is a time for every matter and for every work. 18 †I said in my heart with regard to the children of man that God is testing them that they may see that they themselves are but beasts. 19 † For what happens to the children of man and what happens to the beasts is the same; as one dies, so dies the other. They all have the same breath, and man has no advantage over the beasts, for all is vanity. 20 †All go to one place. All are from the dust, and to dust all return. 21 †Who knows whether the spirit of man goes upward and the spirit of the beast goes down into the earth? 22 †So I saw that there is nothing better than that a man should rejoice in his work, for that is his lot. Who can bring him to see what will be after him?

Evil Under the Sun

4 [1]†Again I saw all the oppressions that are done under the sun. And behold, the tears of the oppressed, and they had no one to comfort them! On the side of their oppressors there was power, and there was no one to comfort them. [2]And I thought the dead who are already dead more fortunate than the living who are still alive. [3]†But better than both is he who has not yet been and has not seen the evil deeds that are done under the sun.

[4]†Then I saw that all toil and all skill in work come from a man's envy of his neighbor. This also is vanity and a striving after wind.

[5]†The fool folds his hands and eats his own flesh.

[6]† Better is a handful of quietness than two hands full of toil and a striving after wind.

[7]† Again, I saw vanity under the sun: [8]†one person who has no other, either son or brother, yet there is no end to all his toil, and his eyes are never satisfied with riches, so that he never asks, "For whom am I toiling and depriving myself of pleasure?" This also is vanity and an unhappy business.

[9]†Two are better than one, because they have a good reward for their toil.
[10]†For if they fall, one will lift up his fellow. But woe to him who is alone when he falls and has not another to lift him up! [11]Again, if two lie together, they keep warm, but how can one keep warm alone? [12]†And though a man might prevail against one who is alone, two will withstand him—a threefold cord is not quickly broken.

[13]††Better was a poor and wise youth than an old and foolish king who no longer knew how to take advice. [14]†For he went from prison to the throne, though in his own kingdom he had been born poor. [15]†I saw all the living who move about under the sun, along with that[1] youth who was to stand in the king's[2] place. [16]†There was no end of all the people, all of whom he led. Yet those who come later will not rejoice in him. Surely this also is vanity and a striving after wind.

Fear God

5 [1] † † [3] Guard your steps when you go to the house of God. To draw near to listen is better than to offer the sacrifice of fools, for they do not know that they are doing evil. [2] † [1] Be not rash with your mouth, nor let your heart be hasty to utter a word before God, for God is in heaven and you are on earth. Therefore let your words be few. [3] † For a dream comes with much business, and a fool's voice with many words.

[4] † When you vow a vow to God, do not delay paying it, for he has no pleasure in fools. Pay what you vow. [5] It is better that you should not vow than that you should vow and not pay. [6] † Let not your mouth lead you[2] into sin, and do not say before the messenger[3] that it was a mistake. Why should God be angry at your voice and destroy the work of your hands?
[7] † For when dreams increase and words grow many, there is vanity;[4] but God is the one you must fear.

The Vanity of Wealth and Honor

8 ‡† If you see in a province the oppression of the poor and the violation of justice and righteousness, do not be amazed at the matter, for the high official is watched by a higher, and there are yet higher ones over them.
9 †But this is gain for a land in every way: a king committed to cultivated fields.[5]

10 †He who loves money will not be satisfied with money, nor he who loves wealth with his income; this also is vanity. 11 †When goods increase, they increase who eat them, and what advantage has their owner but to see them with his eyes? 12 †Sweet is the sleep of a laborer, whether he eats little or much, but the full stomach of the rich will not let him sleep.

13 † There is a grievous evil that I have seen under the sun: riches were kept by their owner to his hurt, 14 †and those riches were lost in a bad venture. And he is father of a son, but he has nothing in his hand. 15 † As he came from his mother's womb he shall go again, naked as he came, and shall take nothing for his toil that he may carry away in his hand. 16 †This also is a grievous evil: just as he came, so shall he go, and what gain is there to him who toils for the wind? 17 †Moreover, all his days he eats in darkness in much vexation and sickness and anger.

18 †Behold, what I have seen to be good and fitting is to eat and drink and find enjoyment[6] in all the toil with which one toils under the sun the few days of his life that God has given him, for this is his lot. 19 †Everyone also to whom God has given wealth and possessions and power to enjoy them, and to accept his lot and rejoice in his toil—this is the gift of God. 20 †For he will not much remember the days of his life because God keeps him occupied with joy in his heart.

6 1 †There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, and it lies heavy on mankind: 2 †a man to whom God gives wealth, possessions, and honor, so that he lacks nothing of all that he desires, yet God does not give him power to enjoy them, but a stranger enjoys them. This is vanity; it is a grievous evil. 3 †If a man fathers a hundred children and lives many years, so that the days of his years are many, but his soul is not satisfied with life's good things, and he also has no burial, I say that a stillborn child is better off than

he. 4 †For it comes in vanity and goes in darkness, and in darkness its name is covered. 5 †Moreover, it has not seen the sun or known anything, yet it finds rest rather than he. 6 †Even though he should live a thousand years twice over, yet enjoy[1] no good—do not all go to the one place?

7 † All the toil of man is for his mouth, yet his appetite is not satisfied.[2] 8 For what advantage has the wise man over the fool? And what does the poor man have who knows how to conduct himself before the living?
9 †Better is the sight of the eyes than the wandering of the appetite: this also is vanity and a striving after wind.

10 †Whatever has come to be has already been named, and it is known what man is, and that he is not able to dispute with one stronger than he.
11 †The more words, the more vanity, and what is the advantage to man?
12 †For who knows what is good for man while he lives the few days of his vain life, which he passes like a shadow? For who can tell man what will be after him under the sun?

The Contrast of Wisdom and Folly

7 [1] A good name is better than precious ointment,
and the day of death than the day of birth.

[2] It is better to go to the house of mourning
than to go to the house of feasting,
for this is the end of all mankind,
and the living will lay it to heart.
[3] Sorrow is better than laughter,
for by sadness of face the heart is made glad.
[4] The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning,
but the heart of fools is in the house of mirth.
[5] It is better for a man to hear the rebuke of the wise
than to hear the song of fools.
[6] For as the crackling of thorns under a pot,
so is the laughter of the fools;
this also is vanity.
[7] Surely oppression drives the wise into madness,
and a bribe corrupts the heart.
[8] Better is the end of a thing than its beginning,
and the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit.
[9] Be not quick in your spirit to become angry,
for anger lodges in the bosom of fools.
[10] Say not, “Why were the former days better than these?”
For it is not from wisdom that you ask this.
[11] Wisdom is good with an inheritance,
an advantage to those who see the sun.

[12]† For the protection of wisdom is like the protection of money,
and the advantage of knowledge is that wisdom preserves the life of him who has it.
[13]† Consider the work of God:
who can make straight what he has made crooked?

[14] † In the day of prosperity be joyful, and in the day of adversity consider: God has made the one as well as the other, so that man may not find out anything that will be after him.

[15]In my vain life I have seen everything. There is a righteous man who perishes in his righteousness, and there is a wicked man who prolongs his life in his evildoing. [16]††Be not overly righteous, and do not make yourself too wise. Why should you destroy yourself? [17] †Be not overly wicked, neither be a fool. Why should you die before your time? [18]†It is good that you should take hold of this, and from that withhold not your hand, for the one who fears God shall come out from both of them.

[19]† Wisdom gives strength to the wise man more than ten rulers who are in a city.

[20]†Surely there is not a righteous man on earth who does good and never sins.

[21]†Do not take to heart all the things that people say, lest you hear your servant cursing you. [22]Your heart knows that many times you yourself have cursed others.

[23]†All this I have tested by wisdom. I said, “I will be wise,” but it was far from me. [24]†That which has been is far off, and deep, very deep; who can find it out?

[25]† I turned my heart to know and to search out and to seek wisdom and the scheme of things, and to know the wickedness of folly and the foolishness that is madness. [26]†And I find something more bitter than death: the woman whose heart is snares and nets, and whose hands are fetters. He who pleases God escapes her, but the sinner is taken by her. [27]Behold, this is what I found, says the Preacher, while adding one thing to another to find the scheme of things— [28]† which my soul has sought repeatedly, but I have not found. One man among a thousand I found, but a woman among all these I have not found. [29]† See, this alone I found, that God made man upright, but they have sought out many schemes.

Keep the King’s Command

8 [1]Who is like the wise?

And who knows the interpretation of a thing?
A man’s wisdom makes his face shine,
and the hardness of his face is changed.

[2] I say:[1] Keep the king’s command, because of God’s oath to him.[2] [3]Be not hasty to go from his presence. Do not take your stand in an evil cause, for he does whatever he pleases. [4]For the word of the king is supreme, and who may say to him, “What are you doing?” [5]Whoever keeps a command will know no evil thing, and the wise heart will know the proper time and the just way. [6]For there is a time and a way for everything, although man’s trouble[3] lies heavy on him. [7]For he does not know what is to be, for who can tell him how it will be? [8]No man has power to retain the spirit, or power over the day of death. There is no discharge from war, nor will wickedness deliver those who are given to it. [9] All this I observed while applying my heart to all that is done under the sun, when man had power over man to his hurt.

Those Who Fear God Will Do Well

10 ††Then I saw the wicked buried. They used to go in and out of the holy place and were praised[4] in the city where they had done such things. This also is vanity. 11 †Because the sentence against an evil deed is not executed speedily, the heart of the children of man is fully set to do evil. 12 †Though a sinner does evil a hundred times and prolongs his life, yet I know that it will be well with those who fear God, because they fear before him. 13 †But it will not be well with the wicked, neither will he prolong his days like a shadow, because he does not fear before God.

Man Cannot Know God’s Ways

14 ‡ † There is a vanity that takes place on earth, that there are righteous people to whom it happens according to the deeds of the wicked, and there are wicked people to whom it happens according to the deeds of the righteous. I said that this also is vanity. 15 † And I commend joy, for man has no good thing under the sun but to eat and drink and be joyful, for this will go with him in his toil through the days of his life that God has given him under the sun.

16 When I applied my heart to know wisdom, and to see the business that is done on earth, how neither day nor night do one’s eyes see sleep, 17 † then
I saw all the work of God, that man cannot find out the work that is done under the sun. However much man may toil in seeking, he will not find it out. Even though a wise man claims to know, he cannot find it out.

Death Comes to All

9 [1]†† But all this I laid to heart, examining it all, how the righteous and the wise and their deeds are in the hand of God. Whether it is love or hate, man does not know; both are before him. [2]† It is the same for all, since the same event happens to the righteous and the wicked, to the good and the evil,[1] to the clean and the unclean, to him who sacrifices and him who does not sacrifice. As the good one is, so is the sinner, and he who swears is as he who shuns an oath. [3]† This is an evil in all that is done under the sun, that the same event happens to all. Also, the hearts of the children of man are full of evil, and madness is in their hearts while they live, and after that they go to the dead. [4]† But he who is joined with all the living has hope, for a living dog is better than a dead lion. [5]† For the living know that they will die, but the dead know nothing, and they have no more reward, for the memory of them is forgotten. [6]Their love and their hate and their envy have already perished, and forever they have no more share in all that is done
under the sun.

Enjoy Life with the One You Love

7 ‡† Go, eat your bread with joy, and drink your wine with a merry heart, for God has already approved what you do.
8 ‡† Let your garments be always white. Let not oil be lacking on your head.
9 † Enjoy life with the wife whom you love, all the days of your vain life that he has given you under the sun, because that is your portion in life and in your toil at which you toil under the sun. 10 † Whatever your hand finds to do, do it with your might,[1] for there is no work or thought or knowledge or wisdom in Sheol, to which you are going.

Wisdom Better than Folly

11 Again I saw that under the sun the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor bread to the wise, nor riches to the intelligent, nor favor to those with knowledge, but time and chance happen to them all.
12 For man does not know his time. Like fish that are taken in an evil net, and like birds that are caught in a snare, so the children of man are snared at an evil time, when it suddenly falls upon them.
13 I have also seen this example of wisdom under the sun, and it seemed great to me. 14 There was a little city with few men in it, and a great king came against it and besieged it, building great siegeworks against it. 15 But there was found in it a poor, wise man, and he by his wisdom delivered the city. Yet no one remembered that poor man. 16 But I say that wisdom is better than might, though the poor man's wisdom is despised and his words are not heard.
17 The words of the wise heard in quiet are better than the shouting of a ruler among fools. 18 Wisdom is better than weapons of war, but one sinner destroys much good.

10 1 Dead flies make the perfumer's ointment give off a stench;
so a little folly outweighs wisdom and honor.

2 A wise man's heart inclines him to the right,
but a fool's heart to the left.
3 Even when the fool walks on the road, he lacks sense,
and he says to everyone that he is a fool.
4 If the anger of the ruler rises against you, do not leave your place,
for calmness[2] will lay great offenses to rest.

5 There is an evil that I have seen under the sun, as it were an error proceeding from the ruler: 6 folly is set in many high places, and the rich sit in a low place. 7 I have seen slaves on horses, and princes walking on the ground like slaves.

8 He who digs a pit will fall into it,
and a serpent will bite him who breaks
through a wall.
9 He who quarries stones is hurt by them,
and he who splits logs is endangered by
them.
10 If the iron is blunt, and one does not sharpen
the edge,
he must use more strength,
but wisdom helps one to succeed.[1] 11 If the serpent bites before it is charmed,
there is no advantage to the charmer.

12 The words of a wise man's mouth win him
favor,[2]
but the lips of a fool consume him.
13 The beginning of the words of his mouth is foolishness,
and the end of his talk is evil madness.
14 A fool multiplies words,
though no man knows what is to be,
and who can tell him what will be after
him?
15 The toil of a fool wearies him,
for he does not know the way to the city.

16 Woe to you, O land, when your king is a child,
and your princes feast in the morning!
17 Happy are you, O land, when your king is the son of the nobility,
and your princes feast at the proper time,
for strength, and not for drunkenness!

18 Through sloth the roof sinks in,
and through indolence the house leaks.
19† Bread is made for laughter,
and wine gladdens life,
and money answers everything.
20† Even in your thoughts, do not curse the king,
nor in your bedroom curse the rich,
for a bird of the air will carry your voice,
or some winged creature tell the matter.

Cast Your Bread upon the Waters

11 [1]†Cast your bread upon the waters, for you will find it after many days.

[2]† Give a portion to seven, or even to eight,
for you know not what disaster may happen
on earth.
[3] If the clouds are full of rain,
they empty themselves on the earth,
and if a tree falls to the south or to the north,
in the place where the tree falls, there it will lie.
[4]† He who observes the wind will not sow,
and he who regards the clouds will not reap.

[5]†As you do not know the way the spirit comes to the bones in the womb[3] of a woman with child, so you do not know the work of God who makes everything.

[6]†In the morning sow your seed, and at evening withhold not your hand, for you do not know which will prosper, this or that, or whether both alike will be good.

[7]Light is sweet, and it is pleasant for the eyes to see the sun.

[8]†So if a person lives many years, let him rejoice in them all; but let him remember that the days of darkness will be many. All that comes is vanity.

[9]† Rejoice, O young man, in your youth, and let your heart cheer you in the days of your youth. Walk in the ways of your heart and the sight of your eyes. But know that for all these things God will bring you into judgment.

[10]†Remove vexation from your heart, and put away pain[1] from your body, for youth and the dawn of life are vanity.

Remember Your Creator in Your Youth

12 [1]‡†Remember also your Creator in the days of your youth, before the evil days come and the years draw near of which you will say, “I have no pleasure in them”; [2]‡†before the sun and the light and the moon and the stars are darkened and the clouds return after the rain, [3]†in the day when the keepers of the house tremble, and the strong men are bent, and the grinders cease because they are few, and those who look through the windows are dimmed, [4]† and the doors on the street are shut—when the sound of the grinding is low, and one rises up at the sound of a bird, and all the daughters of song are brought low— [5]†they are afraid also of what is high, and terrors are in the way; the almond tree blossoms, the grasshopper drags itself along,[2] and desire fails, because man is going to his eternal home, and the mourners go about the streets— [6]‡before the silver cord is snapped, or the golden bowl is broken, or the pitcher is shattered at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the cistern, [7]†and the dust returns to the earth as it was, and the spirit returns to God who gave it. [8]† Vanity of vanities, says the Preacher; all is vanity.

Fear God and Keep His Commandments

9 ‡‡Besides being wise, the Preacher also taught the people knowledge, weighing and studying and arranging many proverbs with great care. 10 The Preacher sought to find words of delight, and uprightly he wrote words of truth.

11 † The words of the wise are like goads, and like nails firmly fixed are the collected sayings; they are given by one Shepherd. 12 †My son, beware of anything beyond these. Of making many books there is no end, and much study is a weariness of the flesh.

13 †The end of the matter; all has been heard. Fear God and keep his commandments, for this is the whole duty of man.[1] 14 †For God will bring every deed into judgment, with[2] every secret thing, whether good or evil.

Ecclesiastes

OVERVIEW

Author
King Solomon

Date
c 931 BC (end of Solomon's reign)

Places
Kingdom of Israel; Jerusalem; the temple

People
The "Preacher" (Solomon); King David; the wise and the foolish; "the messenger" (5:6); high officials and laborers; the Creator

Purpose
Life without God (i.e., "under the sun") is empty; the only rescue from such emptiness comes from God as He brings us to fear, love, and trust in Him and His Word

Law Themes
For natural man, life and success have no real significance; foolishness hastens destruction; life is dissatisfying

Gospel Themes
Favoring us on account of Christ, the Creator graciously provides for us in every season and time; by bringing us to fear, love, and trust in Him, He gives us true wisdom

Memory Verses
Vanity (1:2–3; 2:9–11); seasons and times under heaven (3:1–8); the end of the matter (12:13–14)

Introduction to Ecclesiastes

Reading Ecclesiastes

His whole body was filled with delight. The aroma was so good, so tempting, it merited a closer look. At the jar's edge, the scent overwhelmed him. He settled upon it and gorged himself with sticky sweetness. But then he could not pull away. Although he beat his wings until they buzzed, the ointment clung to him and drew him down to silence.

Similarly, Solomon's pursuits and experiences drew him down like a fly stuck in the proverbial ointment (10:1). Though he had greater wisdom than all, and greater wealth than most, in the end he could not enjoy them. Ecclesiastes records how Solomon viewed life and its pleasures as a trap that brings deadly silence. Yet, Solomon breaks this silence by calling out "the end of the matter" (12:13), wisdom's abiding treasure: the fear of the Lord. He even anticipates the hope of the resurrection (12:7).

Writing, Setting, and Perspective

According to Christian and Jewish tradition, Solomon wrote his Song early in his reign, Proverbs toward the middle of his reign, and Ecclesiastes at the end. Statements from these Books and from 1Ki 1–11 fit well with themes in Ecclesiastes. For example, Solomon strayed from the Lord later in his life because he allowed his many idolatrous wives and concubines to lead him into idolatry (1Ki 11). The writer crassly describes his pursuit of power and pleasure, which only led to emptiness. This could explain the desperation, even unbelief, expressed repeatedly in Ecclesiastes, which seems depressing with its droning, negative outlook.

This negative outlook rings true with our bitter experiences and is a key feature of Ecclesiastes. However, the Book's conclusion pulls the reader back from the brink of despair with firm confessions of God's care and wisdom (12:7, 13–14). Solomon offers hope that there is more to life, and, in the one "greater than Solomon" (Mt 12:42), readers can find the fullness of wisdom and life embodied. Jesus Christ is the answer to the questions and mysteries that Ecclesiastes poses about life.

Luther on Ecclesiastes

> This book is called in Hebrew Qoheleth, that is, "One who speaks publicly in a congregation." For Qahal means a congregation assembled together, that which in Greek is called ekklesia…. Now this book ought really to have a title [to indicate] that it was written against the free will. For the entire book tends to show that the counsels, plans, and undertakings of men are all in vain and fruitless, and that they always have a different outcome from that which we will and purpose. Thus Solomon would teach us to wait in confident trust and to let God alone do everything, above and against and without our knowledge and counsel. Therefore you must not understand this book to be reviling God's creatures when it says, "All is vanity and a striving after wind." For God's creatures are all good, Genesis 1[:31] and II Timothy 4 [I Tim. 4:4]; and this book itself says that a man shall be happy with his wife and enjoy life, etc. [Eccles. 9:9]. It teaches, rather, that the plans and undertakings of men in their dealings with the creatures all go wrong and are in vain, if one is not satisfied with what is presently at hand but wants to be their master and ruler for the future. That's how it always goes—backward—so that a man has had nothing but wasted toil and anxiety; things turn out anyway as God wills and purposes, not as we will and purpose.
> To put it briefly, Christ says in Matthew 6[:34], "Do not be anxious about tomorrow, for tomorrow will have its own anxiety; it is enough that every day has its own evil." This saying is really the interpretation and content of this book. Anxiety about us is God's affair; our anxiety goes wrong anyhow, and produces nothing but wasted toil. (AE 35:263–64)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Notes on Ecclesiastes (AE 15:1–187).

Challenges for Readers

Dating and Authorship. Some critics challenge the traditional view that King Solomon wrote Ecclesiastes. They point out that Solomon is never actually named in the Book and that references to the "king over Israel in Jerusalem" (1:12) do not appear after ch 1. They conclude that Ecclesiastes must be from a later author. (See "Loan Words" below.) However, the Book's content fits well with what we know of Solomon's life and reign (see pp 1048–49). The Book also has clearly unified language, content, and themes.

Loan Words. Some scholars believe the form of Hebrew in Ecclesiastes is from a time well after that of Solomon. They refer to terms they regard as Persian and date the Book from the time of Judah's exile (sixth century BC) or later. However, the Solomonic era was known for its peaceful, international trade, so the appearance of foreign terms or unusual forms in Solomon's Hebrew is understandable. Also, biblical Hebrew shows northern and southern dialectical differences. Northern Hebrew was influenced by nations on its northern borders.

Expressions of Wisdom. Certain terms preferred in Wisdom Literature can be confusing for English readers. See pp 1001, 971.

The Epilogue. Critics have maintained that a later editor added 12:9–14. However, the opening (1:1–11) and the conclusion reflect similar themes and unity.

Blessings for Readers

Whereas much of Scripture describes life from the viewpoint of heaven, Solomon provides a very earthy, human perspective in Ecclesiastes ("under the sun"). The Book connects powerfully with our frustrations and disappointments as well as our fears about life now and eternally. Despite all the sad points of wisdom and experiences, Solomon ends on a clear word of hope. In this way, the Book illustrates the unconquerable good news of God's care and mercy. It affirms the meaningfulness of life's basics: the pleasure of youth and good health, honest work, the love of a faithful spouse, and the hope of eternal life with God.

Study Notes

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON Ch 1 Solomon burns at the injustice and disappointment of life and mourns the passing of youth and the universality of inescapable death even as he bids us not to set our hearts on earthly things but on God, in whom alone is "eternity" and "forever" (3:11, 14; cf Mt 6:19–21; 7:7–8).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:1 Preacher. Hbr qoheleth, "teacher" or "leader of the assembly." son of David. King Solomon (1Ki 8; cf 1Ki 11:42). Luth: "I think that these words were spoken by Solomon in some assembly of his retinue, perhaps after dinner or even during dinner to some great and prominent men who were present. He spoke this way after he had thought long and hard to himself about the condition and the vanity of human affairs, or rather of human affections. Then he poured this out to those who were present, as usually happens, and afterwards what he said was put down and assembled by the leaders of the community or of the church. Therefore they also acknowledge at the end (12:11) that they have received and gathered these things from one Shepherd. In the same way it could happen that one of us would discourse about human affairs while seated at table and others would take it down. This is, then, a public sermon which they heard from Solomon" (AE 15:12).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:2 Vanity. Hbr hebel, "mere breath" (cf Jas 4:13–14). By repetition, he describes life that drones on and on until death, life that is empty apart from the Lord. Luth: "This is a Hebraism…. They say "Song of Songs," that is, the supreme and most excellent song that Solomon composed. Vanity of vanities, that is, the greatest and highest vanity of all, total and utter vanity" (AE 15:13). Vanity is the seemingly endless loop of life searching for meaning and absolute contentment but never really finding satisfaction. Vanity of vanities. Translated in LXX as "frustration" (or "futility," Rm 8:18–22) to reflect the condition of creation, the despair of a world without God. Jesus Christ, by virtue of His cross and resurrection, has redeemed us from this meaninglessness and vanity. Luth: "Solomon introduced courtly language; and as courtiers make it a practice to avoid the simple language of their fathers, especially in writing, so Solomon does also, to avoid giving the impression that he speaks as the common people do. He departs from the simplicity not only of his father but also of Moses" (AE 15:13). All. Everything that is looked to for meaning in life, including wealth, pleasure, and philanthropy.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:3–11 Excursus indicating that human effort appears to be without benefit or purpose and demonstrates the restless cycling of human history and creation. Apart from the Lord, life is a fleeting vapor, yet by the power of God's Word, creation continues in its cyclical rhythm and souls are saved for His eternal kingdom. Ephr: "The righteousness of man is as nothing accounted. The work of men, what is it? His labor is altogether vanity. Of You, O Lord, of Your grace it is that in our nature we should become good. Of You is righteousness, that we from men should become righteous. Of You is the mercy and favor, that we from the dust should become Your image" (NPNF 2 13:331–32).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:3 toils. Hbr 'amal; toil is cyclical and dissatisfying. Generation after generation rises and falls in this broken world. We must not forget the simple pleasures of life (cf 2:24–26; 3:12–13, 22; 5:18–20; 8:15; 9:7–10; 11:7–10) that come from the gracious hand of our heavenly Father and are to be accepted gratefully (see note, 2:10–11). under the sun? I.e., on earth. The fleeting sense of this world contrasts with the permanence of heaven.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:4 When creation is compared with the vanity of life, it seems eternal and unchangeable, though all things in the world are changeable. Only almighty God is eternal and unchanging.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:5 God's Word created these things out of nothing (Gn 1:14–19), and His first Word of creation still sustains them.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:6 wind. Ever shifting, the wind and vanity are repeatedly compared.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:7 Continual movement of the water cycle: evaporation, condensation, precipitation. Dry stream beds (wadis) in Israel become uncontrollable torrents during heavy rain.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:8 eye is not satisfied … nor the ear. Eye and ear covet new and tantalizing things. The things mentioned in vv 4–7 seem never ending. Although we are to be grateful for God's gifts, we can even grow weary of His fatherly kindness toward us.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:9–11 Luth: "This passage creates very great difficulties for the sophists, because they read in Sacred Scripture that many new things have been done. For example, the nativity of Christ is something new, and it is a new thing that His mother was a virgin. Again

(Is. 65:17): ‘I create new heavens and a new earth’; also (Rev. 21:5): ‘I make all things new’; and again (Num. 16:30): ‘The Lord creates something new on the earth.’ These passages caused them to perpetrate enormous kinds of nonsense as they sought to harmonize what Solomon says here with what these passages say. But this happened because of an ignorance of Solomon’s way of speaking, because they did not pay attention to what he means when he says under the sun. For if you take this to refer to the things and works of God themselves, it is not true; for God is constantly doing new things. But it is we who do nothing new, because the same old Adam is present in all of us” (AE 15:20–21).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:9 nothing new under the sun. Generations, winds, waters, and even heavenly bodies simply repeat their circuits. We keep searching for something new with meaning and purpose, but life has meaning only through the redemption in Jesus Christ. Jn D: “God being perfect becomes perfect man, and brings to perfection the newest of all new things, the only new thing under the Sun, through which the boundless might of God is manifested. For what greater thing is there, than that God should become Man?” (NPNF 2 9:45).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:10 See, this is new? The old falls and reappears as something new to a new generation. In contrast, in Christ we become a new creation (2Co 5:17).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:11 Famous names or achievements may be discussed by new generations. Many find satisfaction in this. Yet many who were great in their age are no longer remembered.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:1–11 Our lives, no matter how well lived, will not win favor in God’s sight on the Last Day. Life is fleeting and has no meaning apart from God’s love in Christ Jesus. Faith worked in us by the power of the Gospel brings meaning to life and the certainty of forgiveness, life, and salvation. • Lord God, our heavenly Father, through Your Holy Spirit, You have enlightened the hearts of all believers by the Gospel of Your beloved Son. Through that same Spirit, grant us a right understanding that we might always rejoice in His salvation, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:12–13 Luth: “Let us learn, therefore, to submit ourselves to the counsels of God and to refrain from the cares and thoughts that God has not commanded. There is nothing safer or more acceptable to God than if we refrain from our own counsels and rely on His Word. There we shall find sufficient guidance about what we ought to do. His commands to us are faith, love, and bearing the cross. With these things, I say, we can happily occupy ourselves. Let us deal with everything else as it comes into our hands, leaving to Him the concern about its outcome" (AE 15:25).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:12 I the Preacher. The author now speaks personally about his experiences and study.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:13 an unhappy business. Politics and human affairs are complex and become a burden upon body and soul. The Preacher's exploration of wisdom was vigorous and constant as he gained insight into philosophy, mathematics, trade, merchandise, mechanics, history, kingdoms, law, etc.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:14 Wind can be used (e.g., in sailing ships), but never captured. People cannot master the world, lay bare its foundational secrets, or break the bonds of sin and death (cf Jb 38–39). Life apart from the Lord is chasing after something that cannot be captured (cf Jn 16:33).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:15 We do not know God's hidden will, so we must trust in His mercy and clearly see His will revealed in the Word.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:16 all who were over Jerusalem before me. David and the Jebusite kings prior to David. Jerusalem became the Israelite capital during David's time. See notes, 2Sm 5:5, 7, 9.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:17–18 Wisdom speaks of prudent people, madness and folly of foolish, self-aggrandizing people. See p 1016. Human wisdom alone creates madness and folly, bringing injustice and sorrow. But godly wisdom reveals the imperfection and vanity of life "under the sun." wisdom. Hbr chokmah, see pp 775–78. Wisdom naturally unveils the injustice and corruption of humankind. To see and understand such corruption due to sin is difficult apart from seeing the world in light of Holy Scripture.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:18 knowledge. Luth: "Knowledge does not refer to speculative knowledge, but to a practical and experiential insight, a discretion in the performance of actions, what we call experience and practice in human affairs, as in the psalm (Ps. 119:66): 'Teach me good judgment and knowledge.' Wisdom, on the other hand, is the insight by which I know how the state ought to be established and administered; this is then modified by knowledge or experience, in accordance with things as they are at present and with circumstances, in the manner and pattern that the facts and the times warrant" (AE 15:28).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 1:12–18 Our minds cannot fathom God's wisdom, which is hidden in Christ (cf Jas 3:13–18; 1Co 1:30). We know His mercy only through the wisdom revealed to us in Holy Scripture. • O God of all mercies, You have begun Your good work in us. Continue, we pray, to fill us with all dimensions of wisdom and knowledge. Grant that the devil would have no power over us, but that our hearts and minds might be directed to the blessed hope of the coming of our Savior Jesus Christ. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:1 Solomon examines the rewards of reason and nonreason, sensual and aesthetic pleasure, the creative enterprise, the connoisseur, the collector and activist. His goal is to explore what life might be for the ideally gifted and advantaged. Luth: "We should not find enjoyment in happiness, goods, our own counsels, or any other thing; only as God has given them should we use them. One should let God have His way. It is not up to us to prescribe the place, the person, or the manner; if we do, we shall go wrong. This does not mean that happiness is condemned as something evil or vain. What is condemned is human striving and planning, when we ourselves want or try to create happiness without respect to the will of God. But as both come from God, so let us use them…. Sorrow, happiness, and all such things, whether external or internal, must not be measured on the basis of places, times, etc.; but as they come from God in His complete freedom, so one should use them in complete freedom" (AE 15:30).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:2 Diversion can bring relief, but in excess it can bring foolishness and fruitlessness. Diversion cannot appease a guilty conscience, heal a sorrowful spirit, or satisfy the soul. pleasure. Lit, "good."

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:3 cheer my body with wine. Solomon explores the pleasures of the palate and flesh. lay hold on folly. He intentionally acquainted himself with wisdom to carefully manage his use of sensual pleasures. under heaven … few days. Wordplay in Hbr (shamayim … yeme). The brevity of life and service to the Lord should be guided by His Word, not by seeking pleasure alone. It is good to do the work of the Lord.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:4–6 Cf 1Ki 4–11; 6:38. Archaeology confirms Solomon's extensive building projects throughout Israel. See note, 1Ki 9:15.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:4 great works. Building a great empire might bring lasting satisfaction and great dignity (cf 1Ki 4–11).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:5–6 Solomon attempts to make paradise on earth. But the re-creation of all things can only happen at Christ's return in glory (Rv 21–22). gardens … pools. Orchards and timber trees were irrigated by pools through aqueducts (cf 2Sm 2:13; 4:12).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:7 slaves. Purchased and intentionally propagated to do physical labor, thousands of slaves were required. Cf 1Ki 5:13; 9:22; also p 101. herds and flocks. Signs of wealth in agrarian cultures. Solomon's family started as shepherds. He does not talk about his wife and children but about extended family, namely, slaves and concubines in his household.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:8 concubines. Hbr for "harem" occurs only here in Scripture but is similar to the Canaanite term used for concubines. Solomon had 300 concubines and 700 wives (1Ki 3:1; 11:1–13). Such marriages typically involved diplomatic, political, and business relationships.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:9 wisdom remained with me. From vv 1–9, wisdom discovered the good (v 1) and the worthwhile (v 3).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:10–11 Terms for "toil" and "work" appear more than 25 times in Ec. Work brought pleasure. But reviewing the pleasure he sought and the great accomplishments gained, Solomon gained no advantage or satisfaction because there was no profit "under the sun." Even with wisdom, toil is meaningless apart from the fear of God. See note, 1:3.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:1–11 The pursuit of pleasure can draw us away from the Lord and toward other altars, as Solomon turned to other gods and idols before returning to God (cf Mt 6:19–24). When we return thanks to God for His gracious and simple gifts—house and home, flocks and herds, spouse and children—we focus on His fatherly mercy and kindness. • O Lord Christ, help us! Strengthen our faith and trust in You. We receive all of our treasures in You alone. We are poor; You are rich. Grant us Your faith and righteousness that we might trust and remain in Your everlasting love for all eternity, through Jesus Christ. Amen.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:12 what can the man do who comes after the king? Wealth, pomp, and grandeur of Solomon's kingdom could be inherited; his wisdom could not. His heir (Rehoboam; 1Ki 12) needed to gain wisdom by study and experience. The Lord had allowed Solomon to build the temple and palace, but Solomon may still have felt insignificant in the eyes of Israel when compared with his father, King David.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:13 Pleasure of wisdom, though not enough to make people happy, is better than folly. Folly eclipses and clouds the mind.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:14 eyes in his head. Refers to wisdom, which discovers danger and advantage; it knows where to step. darkness. Makes one lose the way and perchance fall into a pit from which there is no rescue. A fool (Pr 1:22) is one who disdains knowledge. Wisdom reveres God; foolishness does not.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:15 The same dangers can overcome both the wise and foolish, and death, the great equalizer, ultimately devours both. Only faith in the Lord saves. Luth: "Wisdom is beneficial, then, if I do what I know is pleasing to God and commit to Him what He wishes to be accomplished through me. If we did this, then at last we would be truly wise" (AE 15:42).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:16 no enduring remembrance. Those who are wise and foolish by the world's standards have their names written in the dust of the earth (cf 1Co 1:20). The believer's name is written in heaven (Lk 10:20).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:17 Solomon soon became weary of his labor and looked upon it with contempt. It burdened and fatigued him as he aged and his sorrow increased. This world is a vale of tears even for the privileged. Those who are burdened are invited to come to the Lord for rest (Mt 11:28).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:12–17 In the end, life is vanity apart from faith in the Lord. The end is the same for the wise and the foolish. All that is done in the absence of faith will become chaff thrown into the devouring fire. Christ bids us to come to Him and be yoked to His light burden. Seek first His kingdom and His gifts, and all other things shall be given. • Heavenly Father, everlasting God, where would we be if You were to forsake us? How quickly the educated become infants; the prudent, simple; the wise, fools! Keep us in the fervor of faith and daily increase it through Jesus Christ, our Redeemer. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:18 Death ultimately separates from us our profits (cf Jb 8:9). They pass to the next generation (cf v 21; Lk 12:20). toil. See note, vv 10–11.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:19 A wise person increases an inheritance; a fool squanders it and undoes the master's work (cf Mt 25:14–30). Solomon is likely considering his son Rehoboam and other potential heirs. Rehoboam's high taxation (1Ki 12:1–20; 2Ch 10) led Israel to revolt.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:20 despair. Meaninglessness creates despair and depression.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:21 See notes, vv 18, 19.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:22–23 Humans cannot add a single moment to their life span (Mt 6:27; Lk 12:16–21). Disappointment is guaranteed.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:23 When overcome by daily business and hopeful for evening rest, one spends the night with eyes open, heart pounding, brain in full process worrying about things to come.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:24 find enjoyment. Theme is repeated in 3:12–13, 22; 5:18–20; 8:15; 9:7. Blatant hedonism is not suggested here. We are to receive God's gifts and use them cheerfully, knowing they will never bring absolute happiness (12:13). toil. See note, vv 10–11. from the hand of God. See SC, Fourth Petition, p xxxviii; cf Ps 145:15–16; Ac 17:28; Eph 5:20.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:25 See note, 12:13.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:26 sinner. For the sinner, gifts are easily corrupted and exploited for pleasure. They tantalize, tyrannize, and imprison. True wisdom comes from God alone (cf Ps 111:10; Pr 2:6; Christ is wise: 1Co 1:24, 30). The passage describes God's judgment over both faith and works. give to one who pleases God. Not necessarily the righteous, but whomever God allows to inherit.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 2:18–26 Toil and labor "under the sun" can drive one to the brink of grievous despair. The so-called significant things of this life can become idols that ultimately pass away and provide no lasting value in the context of forgiveness, life, and salvation in Christ (cf Mt 6:19–24). Our gracious heavenly Father extends His hand and provides all we need for this temporal life and life everlasting through His Son, our Lord. • Most precious heavenly Father, You have given us many priceless gifts by Your gracious hand. We ask not for silver or gold but for a strong and firm faith. Let us not live for pleasure in the things of the world, but comfort and refresh us in Your blessed and healing Word. Then, in right faith, we may trust in Your grace to the very end. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:1 Solomon introduces the following poem (vv 2–8) and connects it with what has appeared previously by describing changing human affairs and God's unchanging will. Throughout Ec, he frequently changes his tone, describing both the frustrations of life and the firmness of God's Word and blessing. Luth: "All human works and efforts have a certain and definite time of acting, of beginning, and of ending, beyond human control. Thus this is spoken in opposition to free will. It is not up to us to prescribe the time, the manner, or the effect of the things that are to be done; and so it is obvious that here our strivings and efforts are unreliable. Everything comes and goes at the time that God has appointed. He proves this on the basis of examples of human works whose times lie outside the choice of man" (AE 15:49).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:2–8 Note the chiastic sequence. The wise grasp the rhythms of life and live in agreement with them. Gr Naz: "Who was so pleasant when you met him … [Basil]? Who was more kindly in his stories, more refined in his wit, more tender in his rebukes? His reproofs gave rise to no arrogance, his relaxation to no dissipation, but avoiding excess in either, he made use of both in reason and season, according to the rules of Solomon, who assigns to every business a season" (NPNF 2 7:417). a time. We are subject to times and changes over which we have little control. This contrasts with God's eternity. (LXX has kairos, "a proper season.")

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:2 born … die. The appointed time is painfully short. plant … pluck. Human lives are as fleeting as the agricultural season—planted and cut off.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:3 kill. God gives rulers the authority to engage in just wars, to dispel chaos, to punish evildoers, and to protect citizens from harm (cf Rm 13:4).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:4 Contrasts wailing at a funeral with fancy-free activity. In Egypt, dancing was part of funeral ceremonies. This does not seem to be the case in Israel, where dancing expressed joy (Ps 30:11).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:5 cast away … gather. Destruction of fortifications in war, disaster, etc., and their rebuilding. embrace … refrain.

To embrace one's neighbor in friendship; to distance oneself from a person suspected of a crime.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:7 tear … sew. A time to undo what we have done and to repair what we have undone. Cf Gn 3:7. silence … speak. Slow to speak—quick to listen. A time to be silent when words violate the Eighth Commandment, and a time to speak the healing balm of God's Word. Greg: "The times for changes should be discreetly weighed, lest either, when the tongue ought to be restrained, it run loose to no profit in words, or when it might speak with profit, it slothfully restrain itself" (NPNF 2 12:38).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:8 War does not last forever, nor does peace. True peace is found only in the Lord, our peacemaker. Hatred and death are found everywhere.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:1–8 God's will is unsearchable. He will judge the living and the dead on the Last Day. Temporal things cannot satisfy God's people. Eternity and the consummation of salvation are in Christ alone (cf Rm 8:18). • Dear heavenly Father, give us our daily bread, good seasons, and health. Protect us from war, famine, disease, and drought, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:9–10 Work diverts our attention from the heartaches and struggles in life (cf Php 4:11–13). The fall required Adam and Eve to labor outside the Garden of Eden by the sweat of their brows. We produce in order to consume.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:11 beautiful. Hbr yapheh, here used as "right" or "fitting." All living things have their proper development and beauty. in its time. They mature, yet time takes their beauty away too. put eternity. The Law (written on the heart of all people [Rm 2:15] and given to Israel through Moses) confesses the enduring truth that there is one true God. cannot find out. Human reason cannot comprehend God and His purposes. E.g., when a house is being built, one can only anticipate the beauty of the finished product or its eventual collapse.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:12 to be joyful and to do good. Comfort one another, cheerfully receive God's gifts, and further benefit your neighbor by generosity. Joy and purpose come by self-giving, a lifestyle that mimics God's ways.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:13 Rejoice in the good of your labor as a gift of God and an expression of His love toward His children. Return thanks; He is the source of joy.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:14 Like God's Word, His works are perfect, and no human effort can add or detract from that perfection. We are not equal partners. This sums up the message of Ec (cf 12:13).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:15 God seeks what has been driven away. God's Word and His renewal of creation will always remain constant in a changing world.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:16 Many OT kings and priests were wicked and idolatrous. Those who were to serve as advocates for the people oppressed them. Those who judge in iniquity will be judged righteously (e.g., the Sanhedrin Council's mock trials of Christ; Mt 26:57–68).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:17 God will judge. Both in this temporal world and on the Last Day before human beings and angels (cf 12:14). The past is not meaningless to God as it often is to people, nor will sin go unnoticed.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:18 God is testing them. God's Word allows the believer to judge character and learn where, by God's grace, amendment of life should be made. beasts. The unbeliever, on the other hand, is as mortal as any animal.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:19 same breath. God breathes life into His creatures and withdraws it according to His divine will (cf Ps 104:27–30). no advantage. People and animals die in much the same way. See note, 9:1.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:20 All are from the dust. To our eyes, people die just like animals. to dust all return. All were created from the dust of the earth and shall return to dust. This is not a reference to heaven and hell but to bodily death and the grave as equalizers (cf Gn 3:19; Ps 103:14). Luth: "God, he says, permits both men and cattle to go about and live in the same manner and form. But God permits this in order to test men, whether they look only at these external things, and whether they are persuaded by these arguments, to which the wicked pay attention without believing otherwise. But the godly are exercised in this way so that they may acquire more faith. They go in the same way as the wicked and the beasts do, but inwardly, in the spirit, they receive comfort and peace" (AE 15:60).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:21 Who knows whether the spirit. Or "Who knows the spirit?" The Lord knows who. He redeems sinful humankind. Everlasting life is considered in 12:7 and fully realized in Christ.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:22 what will be after him? Independent of God's revelation, we cannot know the future. Even when we are called into the majesty of heaven, it is unlikely that we shall see what is after us (cf Jb 14:21), but in the midst of eternal blessedness, would we really care? Only when toil and labor are received as God's gifts can they be of enduring worth.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 3:9–22 We, as human beings, are hard pressed to answer eternal questions. "God will judge the righteous and the wicked, for there is a time for every matter and for every work" (3:17). The faithful in Christ will be in His glorious and immediate presence in the majesty of heaven. • Dear Lord, we have never kept Your Law. We continually sin and fear death. We know through Your Holy Gospel by faith that all Your merits are ours freely through Christ. Death cannot harm us, for it will be swallowed up in victory. Praise be to You, O Lord! Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:1–2 Oppressed are discontented and impatient (cf Hab 1:1–4). Masters oppress servants, creditors oppress debtors, landlords oppress tenants, etc. Solomon expresses supreme pessimism. Deep in oppression, death seems more favorable than life (cf Jer 20:14–18; Ac 20:24; Rm 8:35–39; 2Co 1:8; Heb 12:1–3). Consider St Paul, who desires to be with Christ, yet remains a servant of the Gospel (Php 1:23–24). Ambr: "What is more wretched than we, who are sent into this life as it were plundered and naked, with frail bodies, deceitful hearts, weak minds, anxious in respect of cares, slothful as to labor, prone to pleasures" (NPNF 2 10:178).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:3 New life holds great potential. The unborn are precious in God's sight. To be alive at any age is to glorify God.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:4 envy. The root of violating Commandments 4–10 (esp 9 and 10). Cain envied Abel, Esau envied Jacob, and Saul envied David for the blessings received through faith (cf Pr 14:30). Those who excel in virtue will always attract criticism.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:5 eats his own flesh. Ultimate result of idleness: the person wastes away. The sluggard folds his hands to keep them warm. With malice, he refuses to labor (cf 2Th 3:6–13). Luth: "This again is a Hebrew phrase, meaning, 'He torments himself.' There is a similar statement in Job (13:14): 'I will take my flesh in my teeth.' He wants to say:

‘An inept and foolish man of this kind does not do himself any good, but he harms and opposes others, he envies others and tortures himself.’ In the state such a man is a rust or a worm, harmful to himself and to others” (AE 15:66).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:6 quietness … striving. Seek a happy medium between doing nothing and doing too much.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:7 Solomon fixes his gaze on the fact that the more people gain, the more they want. Their drive for more robs them of enjoyment.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:8 The highest foolishness is to labor and gain when one has no dependent spouse or offspring. If you gain wealth, share it.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:9 Two are better. Value of companionship or friendship. God designed us as social beings (cf Gn 2:18). Consider the gifts of marriage, children, congregation, community, and nation.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:10–11 God’s people encourage one another to mercy, love, and good works (cf Mt 5:23–24; 18:15–18; Gal 6:1–2).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:12 Two or three people make work a pleasure and strengthen one another. Together, they reap greater blessings. Luth: “A certain wise father, when he was about to die, commands his sons to be present. He gives them a bundle of sticks to break. Although they could not break them all at the same time, they did break them individually. In this way he taught his sons that their riches would be secure if they were in concord with one another and mutually assisted one another. For through concord small things grow, but through discord they are scattered and brought to naught” (AE 15:69).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:13–14 The Almighty God lifts up and He deposes. He places people in positions of authority as His servants and as servants of His people.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:13 It is better to be wise, young, and unknown than to be a foolish public servant. There is no security in the crown (cf Pr 27:24), and it is foolish to reject admonition, counsel, and accountability. Titles among people do not bring absolute respect.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:14 Consider the rise of Joseph to serve Pharaoh (Gn 39–41) instead of the sovereign king born to his inheritance. The latter will not be admonished and must resign his crown.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:15 that youth. The prince. People look to the king's successor as one who will serve justly and equitably.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 4:16 will not rejoice in him. A wise ruler's success is soon forgotten.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON Ch 4 Hold sacred the gifts of marriage, children, family, and the authorities put in place among us. Do not regard the accolades and accoutrements of the world as more important than the Lord and His gracious gifts. Though we continually search for contentment in this "under the sun" existence, Christ is our eternal Lord and King of kings. • Dear God and Father, thank You for Your infinite goodness and love toward us. You keep us in Your Word, in faith, and in prayer. By this we are humbled and do not depend on our own wisdom, but glory alone in Your power, for when we are weak, You are strong. Amen.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:1 Guard. Avoid hypocritical religion and devotion. house of God. Temple built by Solomon (1Ki 5–6). The temple was not merely a place of sacrifice, but also a place of teaching. listen. Do not despise God's Word and the preaching of it, but inwardly digest and ruminate upon the Word. sacrifice of fools. Offering of the torn, sick, lame, and worthless (see pp 170–71; cf Pr 21:3, 7; Is 1:11–15; Jer 6:20). This is an abomination to the Lord. Those who cheat God cheat their own souls. Luth: "When senseless people hear this doctrine, that we should have such a quiet and peaceful heart that we commit everything to God, they draw this inference: 'If everything is in the hand of God, we shall not do any works.' In the same way others sin in the opposite direction by being excessively solicitous and wanting to measure and control everything in every way. But one should travel on the royal road. Let us work hard and do whatever we can in accordance with the Word of God; let us not, however, measure the work on the basis of our efforts, but commit every effort and plan and outcome to the wisdom of God. Therefore Solomon seems to me to be anticipating an objection here and addressing a salutary exhortation to those who are not traveling on the middle road but are either too negligent of their work or too concerned about it. He advises them to let themselves be governed by the Word of God and meanwhile to work diligently" (AE 15:74–75).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:2 a word before God. A vow (see note, Nu 30:2; cf Mt 5:33–37; 15:8–9). See note, vv 4–6. heaven … earth. Gr Nys: "He shows, I think, … by their distance, how far the divine nature is above the speculations of human reason … as high above earthly calculation as the stars are above the touch of our fingers; or rather, many times more than that" (NPNF 2 5:260).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:3 Hectic pace of labor disturbs our sleep. In prayer, a fool is known by a multiplicity of words (cf 5:7; Pr 10:8, 10).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:4–6 vow. Hbr neder. An offering expresses thanksgiving to God (Nu 21:1–3; Ps 116:14; Na 1:15). paying. Offering an animal (cf Lv 27:9–13). To make a vow and not fulfill it incurs the guilt of treachery and perjury; it is simply lying to God (see p 7; cf Dt 6:13; Heb 6:16).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:6 the messenger. Hbr mal'ak, cf Mal 2:7. The priest is to teach the Law of Moses (Lv 10:11; Zep 3:4; Hg 2:11) as one by whom the people could inquire of God.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:7 dreams. Cf v 3; Jer 23:25–40.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:1–7 The wicked and foolish sin against God in acts of religious complacency, empty devotion, and unfulfilled vows. Despite superficial religion and meaningless vows, God is faithful and just. Upon our confession, He will absolve us of our sins for the sake of Christ. • O merciful and eternal God, You speak to us of the greatest and highest things, of life eternal and blessed innocence in Your kingdom of heaven. We are dust and ashes and stand in need of Your Word constantly. Grant us Your grace and enlighten us with Your truth. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:8 amazed. Do not be surprised at such oppression and perversion of justice, for these are in the hearts of sinful people (cf Jn 2:24–25). God's eyes are on the self-exalted (cf Jb 24:22–24). watched by a higher. Presidents, governors, senators, judges, etc., are necessary for good order and all are accountable to God.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:9 Sinful leaders abuse their God-given authority and hoard instead of serve (cf Ps 68:6; Lk 12:15). gain. Income obtained on the earth for the comfort of human life. cultivated fields. In a farming economy, nothing was more important.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:10 Corrupt desires are insatiable. Consider the difference between need and desire (cf Mt 6:19–21, 24–34; 1Tm 6:9–10).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:11 Great wealth brings greater anxiety (see SC, Ninth and Tenth Commandments, p xxxvi). The more one has, the more one covets.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:12 True rest is found in the Lord, not in abundance (cf Lk 12:13–21).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:13 to his hurt. Hoarding wealth can invite charlatans, sin, pride, and love of money, thus drawing one away from the Lord and His Word.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:14 bad venture. Things are not always as they seem. Entrepreneurs often have debt that exceeds their assets, making their apparent fortune worthless. This man is even unable to provide for his child.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:15 As he came … he shall go again. Cradle to grave. We come into the world with nothing and depart the same way (cf Lk 12:14–21). The rich and the poor are equalized.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:16 grievous evil. Temporal world is fleeting and retreats from us at death.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:17 He eats the bread of sorrows. This is not a repentant sorrow before God (cf Ps 77:2) but anger in old age, where affliction and failing health beg the question as to the worthiness of laboring "under the sun."
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:18 Theme of 2:24–25; 3:12–13, 22 returns. Only in God does life have meaning and true pleasure. Without Him, nothing satisfies. True pleasure comes only when we acknowledge and revere God (12:13).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:19 gift. Cf Ps 145:15–16. Life is God's gift, as is the enjoyment of life. He appoints the number of days we have to serve Him with joy and gladness of heart (Jb 14:5).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:20 A cheerful heart is a gift of God. It allows life's most difficult experiences to pale in comparison with the inexpressible love He has first demonstrated to us by grace alone.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:1 an evil. When riches increase, there is a temptation to rest our hearts on them rather than the Lord and His gifts.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:2 God does not give him power to enjoy them. Riches, wealth, and honor are God's gifts. He desires that we serve His kingdom and our neighbors with His gifts. The ability to enjoy God's blessings is a bonus—a gift of God, not a right or guarantee. God calls that person a fool who forgets this truth.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:3 Life is not meaningless. Life is a gift of the Lord. not satisfied. Silver and gold may fill our hands but not our souls.

no burial. The burial of an unbeliever appears little different from that of a dumb animal. stillborn child. See note, Ps 58:8.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:4 A stillborn child (v 3) may have no name, no identity.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:5 Solomon asserts that the stillborn child has more rest than a covetous miser. seen the sun. Luth: "[This is] Hebrew for 'to enjoy things and take pleasure in them.' … Thus the wicked begin their hell in this life, because they are deprived of the use of all the creatures and gifts of God, so that they never see the sun, which we nevertheless have every day. In other words, they do not rejoice in the gifts of God but are always looking for something else" (AE 15:96, 97). Cf Nu 6:25.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:6 The grave is the end, no matter if the person lives a thousand years or one hour. This begs the question, "Is there life after this life?" See note, 12:7.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:7 The flesh is never satiated. The soul finds bondage, not satisfaction, in wealth.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:9 It is better to make the best of what one has (contentment) than to wander in the ways of desire (covetousness).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:10 already been named. Known by divine foreknowledge. This does not teach fatalism or determinism, which denies the God of Holy Scripture. See note, Rm 8:29. one stronger. God; cf Jb 33:12.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:11 more words, the more vanity. Most ideas prove meaningless. Without God's Word, we do not know how to advise others or how to act.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 6:12 "The Lord" is the answer to these questions. We live, move, and have our being in Him.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 5:8–6:12 In the latter part of ch 5, Solomon shows how to make a comfortable use of God's gifts. In ch 6, he shows the evil uses of wealth and asks, "Will the amassing of wealth bring happiness?" What person is better for his or her wealth, pleasure, and honor when standing before God at the final judgment? Jesus Christ is the way and the truth and the life (Jn 14:6; Ac 4:12). He is the author and perfecter of our faith, so that we do not grow weary and lose heart (cf Heb 12:2–3).
• O God of all comfort, by Your Word and Holy Spirit grant us a firm, glad, and grateful faith, that by it we may overcome every trial and at length hear the Word of Your dear Son: "Take heart; I have overcome the world" (Jn 16:33). Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:1–13 Common thread in these verses is that, in all of life's ups and downs, the wise person will trust that God works things out for good (Rm 8:28).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:1 name. One's reputation. See p 843. better than precious ointment. Expensive possessions do not make up for a bad reputation, referred to as a stench (Gn 34:30; Ex 5:21). day of death than … birth. Unusually pessimistic proverb grouped with two other comparative proverbs. Each uses repetition and similar sounds, which perhaps led Solomon to group them.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:2 lay it to heart. The living may consider what will come at the end of their lives. Death teaches them to spend their lives well.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:3 Rather than take shortcomings and failures in a lighthearted or even mocking way, one who is sorrowful over shortcomings and sins will find comfort and forgiveness from God.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:4 See note, v 2. Ambr: "He shall be saved in the future who has wept [tears of repentance] most in this age" (NPNF 2 10:352).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:6 the crackling of thorns. Thorns placed in a fire burn rapidly and make a lot of noise. The quick flash of heat does not burn long enough to cook a meal. the laughter of the fools. Even though correction may not be pleasant, it is preferred over someone making light of a situation (Ps 141:5).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:8 patient in spirit. The patient person demonstrates confidence in God's working things for our good (Heb 11). Luth: "Perseverance crowns the work; wait for the end. It is not how you begin that matters, but how you follow through" (AE 15:116).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:9 One who lashes out at injustices or hardships has likely forgotten God's promises to help in such times, and so rejects God's wisdom.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:10 not from wisdom. Wisdom lies in understanding God and how He works in our lives, knowing that He works things for good for all who love Him (Rm 8:28).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:11 Wisdom is good with an inheritance. Or, "Wisdom is as good as an inheritance."

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:12 Luth: "He who sees and hears much has a great opportunity for sorrow and indignation, because he sees and experiences the things that bring injury to the heart…. Solomon is not speaking about foolish men, who do not care at all about wisdom and human affairs, but about the best of men, those who want to help human affairs, men such as those in public office and in the management of households. For those who administer public or private business come to experience the fraud and perfidy of men. This fact has frightened many men away from public office…. Christians should be exhorted to live in the very midst of the crowd, to marry, to govern their household, etc. Moreover, when their efforts are hindered by the malice of men, they should bear it patiently and not cease their good works. Do not desert the battlefield but stick it out" (AE 15:105–6). like the protection of money. Or, "better than the protection of money." This points us toward the wisdom God provides in His Word (Pr 8:35).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:13 Jacob is a good example; God made him limp after the encounter at Jabbok (Gn 32:22–32). God also renamed him Israel and changed him from a schemer to a patriarch.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:14 All days belong to the Lord. Even from the evil that happens to us, God can work something good (Gn 50:20).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:16–17 Luth: "Forget about the highest law; measure yourself by your own foot and sing, 'Know thyself.' Then you will find in your own breast a lengthy catalog of vices, and you will say: 'Look, I myself am still unrighteous, and yet I am tolerated by God and am not banished by people. Then why am I so carried away with fury that I harshly require of others what I do not achieve myself?' This is what it means to be 'righteous overmuch' " (AE 15:122).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:16 overly righteous. Good example would be the Pharisees, who could not recognize their need for repentance. do not make yourself too wise. Adding our own "wisdom" to God's can also distort the truth and lead to our ruin.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:17 Be restrained from doing evil things, but remember you will still sin.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:18 one who fears God. See p 1001. come out from both of them. The wise person will admit the tendency to be self-righteous as well as the inability to stop sinning. Such a person will find relief in the forgiveness God offers.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:19 Having 10 proven warriors or administrators will not defend or govern a city as well as having one godly, wise person.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:20 Solomon also says this in his prayer dedicating the temple (2Ch 6:36). The OT shows that every person sins and needs a Savior (Rm 3:10–20). Those who find favor in God's sight recognize His forgiveness and undeserved love.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:21 servant cursing you. The servant may have cause to be angry at his master (cf v 9), and others may speak ill of him. But believers should look to God for a helpful assessment of their life. See note, Gn 12:3.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:23 far from me. Cf Is 55:8–9; Rm 11:33.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:24 Cf 1Co 2:9–16.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:25 wickedness of folly. Abandoning God's wisdom and love amounts to wickedness and stupidity.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:26 Pr 7:6–27 goes into detail about a loose woman, comparing the threat and risk of adultery to idolatry. Cf Col 2:8; Jas 3:15. Avoiding the temptations of following our own designs comes only through God's help.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:28 Few people possess wisdom, fewer still pursue it, and even Solomon did not hold on to it. Christ embodied wisdom and called Himself greater than Solomon (Mt 12:42). all these. All humankind, whom Solomon weighed for uprightness and wisdom. Ironically, he chastened women for lacking wisdom, though he had foolishly chased after them! Cf 1Ki 11:1–4.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 7:29 God made man upright. See note, Jb 1:1. Ath: "She [the human soul] is made to see God, and to be enlightened by Him; but of her own accord in God's stead she has sought corruptible things and darkness" (NPNF 2 4:7). schemes. Chem: "This is the same word which in Gen. 6:5 and 8:21 describes the evil figment of man's imagination" (LTh 1:257).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON Ch 7 Avoiding God's wisdom is wickedness and folly, but finding such wisdom—as God gives it—preserves our life and gives us hope in the face of all frustrations. Other sources of wisdom offer little or no hope, certainly none in the face of God's final judgment. The only way to acquire wisdom is in the revelation that God has given us of Himself. • Thank You, O God, that despite our inclination to folly and wickedness, You chose to reveal Your good and gracious will for us. The source of all wisdom is Your Son. By sending Him, You showed us infinite love and forgiveness, hope for now and eternity. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:1 hardness. Stern appearance. changed. Suggesting that in God's wisdom, one finds mercy.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:2 because of God's oath to him. Pictures the king as God's agent. See note, Rm 13:1; see also "vow," p 7.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:3 go from his presence. Kings might execute those subjects who entered or left their presence without permission (Est 4:10–11).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:6 The difficulties we encounter should not drive us to hasty action, esp to reject God or His ways.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:8 power to retain the spirit, or power over the day of death. To lengthen our life beyond what God allows, or to shorten it, is not our decision (Ps 31:15; Jas 4:13–15). discharge from war. A war is going on between God and His opponents. Believers, those joined to God's side, cannot avoid the conflict.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:1–9 No matter in which nation we dwell, we are in the service of the King of heaven and earth and do well only by heeding His Word and by being ready and willing to serve. In our King, we find the hope of things to come and can face the end of life with confidence. • Lord, help us to endure the struggle. You not only know the end already at the beginning, but You also have the outcome securely in hand. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:10 This text sets up a contrast to vv 12–13 and provides a match for v 14.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:11 A ruler may delay punishment in order to allow time for repentance, but delay may prompt even more wickedness.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:12 fear God. See p 1001.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:13 prolong his days like a shadow. Shadows can appear much longer than the person casting them. Yet, shadows vanish at sunset. The long life of the wicked is an illusion that disappears in the light of God's judgment.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:10–13 In this life, the wicked may fare better than those who do right. Although we see others getting away with doing wrong, we should not follow them. Instead, we should continue to follow God's will and commit ourselves to His judgments, which will be favorable to the believer in the end. • God, grant us patience as we see the temporary successes of the ungodly, while we struggle with difficulties and hardships. Also remind us of the final outcome You have prepared for us in Christ. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:14 This verse takes a slightly different approach from vv 10–13. Being good and doing right often seem to be useless, more a frustration than a benefit.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:15 joy. Hbr simchah, "taking pleasure" in something. joyful … will go with him. Abiding joy finds cause to give thanks to God in any situation.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:17 I saw all the work of God. Solomon strove to determine what many seek and cannot find, "What has God done in my life, and why?" the work that is done. God's involvement in our affairs. cannot find it out. Even with good speculation about God's reasons for the events in our lives, we cannot be certain of God's specific purpose behind each event.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 8:14–17 Rather than trying to make sense of everything that happens in life, recognize that God's purpose and plan prevail. Look for reasons to give thanks to Him each day, especially in the mercy He extends to you in Christ. • We thank You, God, that each day You bring evidence of Your involvement in our lives. Lead us to trust Your judgments. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:1 God is the Creator and Sustainer of life, but this passage also implies His role as Judge over the lives of all people. both are before him. The problem of 8:14 is addressed again. Chem: "We must not and cannot determine on the basis of the outcome whether we are pleasing to God" (LTh 2:513).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:2 same event. Death, followed by judgment before God's throne (cf 3:19; Ps 49:10; Heb 9:27).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:3 an evil. The fact that righteous people die like wicked people seems to us to be an injustice. madness. The human mind is hindered by irrational thinking.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:4 has hope. Is focused on what may still happen in this life. Nevertheless, the life to come is the greater hope for believers. Luth: "A good minister of the Word of God preaches the Word of God on account of the good citizens, regardless of how many people find fault with him. If a teacher has two good pupils, he should work for the sake of these, even though he may have 20 others who are lazy and hopeless. A magistrate should also do his duty even if he cannot keep the entire state in its appointed task; he will still find one or another citizen with whom he can accomplish something. Therefore Solomon is saying this to keep us from either being crushed by despair or becoming presumptuous. One should not despair about the living as one does about the dead, about whom one cannot have any hope" (AE 15:146).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:5 Those still alive can influence others, pursue their interests and passions, and make preparations for their end; those who are dead have whatever influence their memory affords them as it fades from the thoughts of those still living.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:1–6 From a human, mortal perspective, it appears unfair that all people must die, as death deals equally with evil people as well as those who follow God. We need something to counter the hopelessness that there is nothing after death. For that reason, God comforts us with His promises of love and mercy. • Thank You, God, that we do not see death as the end of our lives. Your promises, fulfilled in Christ, give us the sure and certain hope of being with You forever. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:7 Believers are reminded that God has displayed favor toward them and toward whatever deeds are done in faith.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:8–9 In Tablet 10iii of the Old Babylonian Gilgamesh Epic, the "ale-wife" expresses similar thoughts about enjoying feasting, dancing, and one's spouse. See pp 775–77.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:8 garments … white. White clothes were more expensive to make and maintain, so they were only for wealthier people. The reader is being encouraged to be indulgent. Luth: "The Romans and Greeks favor a purple garment; but the Orientals, and especially the Jews, favor a white one, on account of the washings and cleanliness which they practiced so scrupulously" (AE 15:149). oil. People anointed their heads on festive occasions.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:9 wife whom you love. Positive reference to a beloved wife contrasts with 7:26, 28. God's blessings to us in marriage, esp in expressing and experiencing love, grant comfort and encouragement in the difficulties of life.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:10 Time for growing, for learning, for receiving God's grace, for doing things that may benefit others is before we reach the grave (Jn 9:4). Sheol. See p 792.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:7–10 God looks with favor upon the one who lives by faith. When God blesses you with wealth, enjoy that blessing and be a blessing to others. Make proper use of the time God gives in life. Know that denying yourself simple pleasures does not gain God's favor. Simple and godly pleasures are only the beginning of the gifts of His love and forgiveness that He grants in Christ. • We thank You, Lord, that we can look at the simple blessings in life as a source of true joy. We receive all such things as signs of Your love and mercy. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:11 God is in control. He may allow events contrary to our expectations so we are reminded of His impending judgment upon us.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:12 an evil time. A time of calamity or distress. The person has trusted his or her abilities and gone on unaware of God's work. Luth: "A fish snaps at the bait and swallows the hook. Birds confidently enter and eat, with nothing further from their minds than a trap; and then suddenly they are captured. So it is that when we have chosen something good and hoped for it, we are deceived. And when it seems that something evil is impending, it is something good that is impending…. Experience itself teaches us that human affairs are carried out not by our plans but usually contrary to our plans. This is the source of the statement of luckless people: 'That is not what I had in mind!' " (AE 15:153).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:13–16 Cf 2Sm 20:16–22, where Solomon's Uncle Joab besieges a city for one person who has taken refuge there. One woman in the city convinced the rest to hand over the person Joab was seeking, and Joab spared the city. The woman's name is not recorded.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:15–16 No great recognition is given to the man's wisdom or the part it played in saving the city.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:17 Even a king's forceful advice cannot help those who are incompetent or unwilling to succeed. Wisdom is greater than authority.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:18 one sinner destroys much good. Cf Gn 3, Adam and Eve's fall into sin.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:1 Dead flies … stench. Dead flies would make sacred oil unfit for temple use. Cf 9:18.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:2 right … left. Terms of good versus evil, honesty versus deception and lying. (Lat "sinister" means "left.") The right-hand side is also a position of honor, prestige, or power for a ruler. See "right hand," p 843. Evil goes along with folly and arises out of the heart.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:3 walks on the road. Even in simple things, it is possible for one to be foolish.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:4 do not leave your place. Don't flee or quit, which would imply guilt. Cf 1Pt 2:13–25.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:6–7 Being rich and being wise are often paired and should further result in positions of honor, prestige, and responsibility. The author is offended about a reversal of fortune.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:7 Horses were used by those with power and authority (esp for war). Here, people who would make better princes and leaders are often the ones oppressed by those less capable, less honorable, or less noble. Such false princes often obtain their position in ways deserving punishment.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:8–10 Dangerous activities that demand wisdom in order to avoid injury or death. serpent … wall. Walls often had hollow spaces, a good habitat for snakes.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:10 Wisdom is compared to the sharpened ax, which will work better with less effort. The wise person will use wisdom to diminish the danger of hazardous occupations, as well as the overall hazards of life.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:11 Inattentive snake charmers who allow themselves to be bitten are seen as foolish. They receive no sympathy and surely no money for their performance.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:12 words. Primary means of sharing wisdom with others. Words also make it clear when someone is foolish.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:13 Folly, rooted in rejection of God's wisdom, is not neutral, but shows itself to be evil.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:15 The fool finds even the most obvious and well-known things difficult and therefore tiring (e.g., following well-marked and well-known roads).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:16–17 feast in the morning. In Israel, the proper time for feasting was later in the day, to sustain one's strength for labor. Such feasting did not include alcoholic beverages.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:16 king is a child. A child ruler or a ruler acting childishly. Such rulers seek to satisfy their own needs before attending to the needs of the people. This is not the "poor and wise youth" of 4:13.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:17 son of the nobility. Suggests a wise person capable of governing with sensible moderation and attention to the needs of all.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:19 Bread … wine. What sustains life is meant to be enjoyed. A caution against excess should not cause a person to forsake any and all pleasures of life (cf 9:7). money answers everything. The Preacher has already indicated that money is not the final solution for all things (5:10–14). Yet, money can provide relief from certain problems (e.g., protection in 7:12).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 10:20 bird of the air. Common proverb in many cultures. Be careful; others are listening.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 9:11–10:20 The twists and turns of life often tempt one to be foolish, because wisdom does not always quickly gain respect or results. Still, it is better, and possible, to follow the course of God's wisdom. No matter how much foolishness may control every level of our society and life, we are to avoid it. Because God encourages us to wisdom, we may expect something more in the outcome of our life than just death. He promises life everlasting in Christ, our Wisdom. • Lord, as we ask for Your wisdom to carry us through life, teach us also to be patient with foolish people. Keep us mindful of the outcome You have prepared for us in Your Son's death and resurrection. Amen.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:1 Do not be overly cautious due to arbitrary and unexpected outcomes in this life. This passage describes sending ships to sea with trade goods and waiting to realize a profit. V 2 encourages helping those in need, which realizes a greater profit.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:2 Second encouragement to be generous, not keeping track of how many people you help. Be generous while you have the means to do so.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:4 There will always be some uncertainty about whether the time is right. Therefore, the planting, plowing, or reaping will be put off to a better time.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:5 the spirit comes to the bones. Scientific understanding of how conception occurs may reduce the impact of this comparison. Yet conception and life remain mysteries: how does God make us something radically different from an animal?

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:6 Plant the seed and reap the harvest. Don't be paralyzed by indecision. See note, v 4.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:8 days of darkness. See note, Jb 20:26. The light of life comes to an end in death. Looking at those who have gone before us, hundreds or thousands of years ago, we see that it may also be a long time between when the light goes out in our life and when we see the new light of the resurrection. Enjoy life; make something of it while you can, and not after it's gone.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:9 Pursue life as you perceive it and understand it. Yet know that you will make mistakes and face judgment. We are accountable before God for all we do. youth. The Hbr is not very distinct here, encompassing ages from small children to unmarried adults. The Israelites saw this time as a transition to the important stage of life: adulthood, when one was most productive and had full social standing.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 11:10 Elsewhere, the Preacher discusses what vexes, angers, or frustrates us (1:18; 2:23; 5:16; 7:3, 9). We are urged here to avoid frustration over the vain things of this life. Ephr: "[However,] for your sins you should be constant in sadness [i.e., repentant]" (NPNF 2 13:334).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON Ch 11 We don't know what may come, and we will never know everything we may want to. We take advantage of our opportunities, especially those to help others. We understand, as we conduct our lives, that God has the final say. His Word to us in Christ is joy, light, and peace. He daily does us good and has prepared a joyous future for us in Christ. • Lord, Your promises abide for us. Teach us to face life cheerfully and fearlessly as we place all things in Your hands. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:1 evil days. Days of distress. no pleasure. It may be more difficult to have joy as one grows older and nearer to death.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:2–7 The Preacher gives us powerful and vivid images of old age and approaching death to rouse us from complacency or resignation due to troubles. We are to address the matter early in life, while we are able, so that failure does not sneak up on us.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:2 sun … darkened. Describing death. See note, 11:8.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:3 grinders cease. Poetic language. Teeth of an older person are compared with stones for grinding grain. those who look. Figuratively, the eyes, which in older age function less effectively.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:4 doors on the street. Describing the mouth and ability to speak or the ears and ability to hear. at the sound of a bird. Though the hearing of enjoyable sounds is reduced in the elderly, their sleep is still easily disturbed, such as early in the morning when the songs of birds begin.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:5 almond tree. One of the first to blossom and lose its petals in the spring. grasshopper drags. Formerly nimble gait is replaced with overall difficulty in movement. desire fails. Loss of appetite and impending death make it difficult to be enthusiastic about enjoying any earthly pleasure.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:6–7 Repeats theme of vv 1–2. cord … bowl … pitcher … wheel. Placement of these four images suggests they represent life in some way. Their destruction implies the end of life. We are to remember our Creator before all this happens. silver cord … golden bowl. Precious objects indicate how valuable life is. pitcher … wheel. Practical objects are needed daily. A clay pitcher was attached by a rope, which wrapped around a wheel, making it easier to draw life-giving water.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:7 dust. The body (Gn 3:19; Ps 104:29). and the spirit returns. Or "but the spirit returns." The immaterial aspect of a person is separated from the body by death. Solomon's expression anticipates everlasting life with God.
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:8 all is vanity. With this we are taken back to the beginning of Ec. Instead of being the close of this section (vv 1–7), this verse could also be the opening of the final section (vv 9–14).
ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:1–8 The aches of old age make it difficult to envision anything hopeful and positive. Such bodily changes may overwhelm any joy we still have in life. Yet, the same God who consigned us to the grave because of sin has also promised us that we will be rescued from the grave and His eternal judgment. Through hearing the Word in our youth, He will prepare us. His promises will stay with us. • Lord, we thank You for all the opportunities You give us to learn about our life: where it is going, and what You have prepared for us. Teach us Your Word early so that we may look forward to our end, not with fear or discouragement, but with hope and joy. Especially keep us ever mindful of what You have done for us in Your Son, Jesus Christ, who overcame death and the grave. Amen.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:9–10 the Preacher also taught. Not necessarily an addition by a later editor of the Book; the author also writes in the third person elsewhere. arranging many proverbs. Another indication that the author of this work is Solomon. Later, rabbis regarded Solomon as comparable to Moses in wisdom (or philosophy).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:11 words … goads. Advice from God may be like cattle prods, as we are sluggish and resistant to go the way God desires for us (Ac 2:37; 26:14). His Word is powerful to move us. nails. God's words fasten the loose parts of our lives together and make them solid. one Shepherd. God is the Shepherd of His people (Ps 23:1; 28:9; Is 40:11; Ez 34:15; Mi 7:14). These words of wisdom have come from God.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:12 My son. Possibly a personal note to the author's son (Rehoboam?), but also a general encouragement to any reader of this work. The relation between teacher and student should be like father and son. See note, Pr 1:8. beyond these. The sayings "given by one Shepherd" (v 11) should be our primary focus, for anything else would be the words of a fool. The author has strongly claimed divine assistance in what he has written. He now urges the reader not to get worn down investigating all other writings that claim to be helpful, important, and wise. Luth: "One king, who is the shepherd, has appointed wise men to acknowledge and approve books. These men, I say, recognized the Holy Spirit in this book and approved it for the people. In this way the Gospels were taken up and approved by the fathers; that is, the fathers themselves recognized the Holy Spirit. But one must not infer from this: 'Therefore the church or the fathers are above the Gospel,' any more than it is valid to say: 'I recognize the true and living God and His Word; therefore I am above God and His Word.' Just as one is not superior to a prince whom one acknowledges or to a parent whom one acknowledges, so it is here. These men do not teach this shepherd, but they receive from one shepherd" (AE 15:185).

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:13 the matter. Questions raised in ch 1. Fear God … duty of man. Everything that he had explored, all his reflections, have brought the Preacher back to consider the Creator. Everything is not in vain when God enters the picture and we recognize our relationship to Him. Fear God. Though these words include an element of being afraid, a recognition of having to stand before God's judgment, they are also a Hbr idiom for faith and trust. See p 1001. keep. Hbr shamar, "to guard or protect." The Word is precious to a believer. commandments. Hbr mitswah, God's Law. See p 971. w*hole duty of man*. Not just a duty to learn about God, but that we are complete and have met the purpose for which God created us when we have a proper relationship with Him. This is not a rejection of the ethic of pleasure Solomon described earlier, but an affirmation that our pleasure is in God and His Word.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:14 bring every deed into judgment. For condemnation or acquittal by grace.

ECCLESIASTES—NOTE ON 12:9–14 The one searching for meaning in life should have come to the conclusion offered here. To avoid a meaningless life, one needs a right relationship with God, i.e., justification based on God's favor toward us on account of Christ and received through faith. God has given His Word, and through it we have the ability to know His Commandments and promises. More important, we can know Him and how to avoid a meaningless life now and in eternity. • Heavenly Father, prepare me for Your judgment through Your Word and the marvelous news that You have already judged me as worthy of life through the death and resurrection of Your Son, our Savior. Amen.

1 [1]The Song of Songs, which is Solomon’s.

The Bride Confesses Her Love

SHE[1]

2 Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth!
For your love is better than wine;
3 your anointing oils are fragrant;
your name is oil poured out;
therefore virgins love you.
4 Draw me after you; let us run.
The king has brought me into his chambers.

OTHERS

We will exult and rejoice in you;
we will extol your love more than wine;
rightly do they love you.

SHE

5 I am very dark, but lovely,
O daughters of Jerusalem,
like the tents of Kedar,
like the curtains of Solomon.
6 Do not gaze at me because I am dark,
because the sun has looked upon me.
My mother's sons were angry with me;
they made me keeper of the vineyards,
but my own vineyard I have not kept!
7 Tell me, you whom my soul loves,
where you pasture your flock,
where you make it lie down at noon;
for why should I be like one who veils

herself
beside the flocks of your companions?

Solomon and His Bride Delight in Each Other

He

8 If you do not know,
O most beautiful among women,
follow in the tracks of the flock,
and pasture your young goats
beside the shepherds' tents.
9 I compare you, my love,
to a mare among Pharaoh's chariots.
10 Your cheeks are lovely with ornaments,
your neck with strings of jewels.

Others

11 We will make for you[1] ornaments of gold, studded with silver.

She

12 While the king was on his couch,
my nard gave forth its fragrance.
13 My beloved is to me a sachet of myrrh
that lies between my breasts.
14 My beloved is to me a cluster of henna blossoms
in the vineyards of Engedi.

He

15 Behold, you are beautiful, my love;
behold, you are beautiful;

your eyes are doves.

She

16 † Behold, you are beautiful, my beloved,
truly delightful.
Our couch is green;
17 the beams of our house are cedar;
our rafters are pine.

2 1 †I am a rose[2] of Sharon, a lily of the valleys.

He

2 As a lily among brambles,
so is my love among the young women.

She

3 As an apple tree among the trees of the forest,
so is my beloved among the young men.
With great delight I sat in his shadow,
and his fruit was sweet to my taste.
4 † He brought me to the banqueting house,[3]
and his banner over me was love.
5 † Sustain me with raisins;
refresh me with apples,
for I am sick with love.
6 His left hand is under my head,
and his right hand embraces me!
7 † I adjure you,[4] O daughters of Jerusalem,
by the gazelles or the does of the field,
that you not stir up or awaken love
until it pleases.

The Bride Adores Her Beloved

8 The voice of my beloved!
Behold, he comes,
leaping over the mountains,
bounding over the hills.
9 My beloved is like a gazelle
or a young stag.
Behold, there he stands
behind our wall,
gazing through the windows,
looking through the lattice.
10 My beloved speaks and says to me:
"Arise, my love, my beautiful one,
and come away,
11 for behold, the winter is past;
the rain is over and gone.
12 The flowers appear on the earth,
the time of singing[1] has come,
and the voice of the turtledove
is heard in our land.
13 The fig tree ripens its figs,
and the vines are in blossom;
they give forth fragrance.
Arise, my love, my beautiful one,
and come away.
14 O my dove, in the clefts of the rock,
in the crannies of the cliff,
let me see your face,
let me hear your voice,
for your voice is sweet,
and your face is lovely.
15 Catch the foxes[2] for us,
the little foxes

that spoil the vineyards,
for our vineyards are in blossom.”

16 † My beloved is mine, and I am his;
he grazes[3] among the lilies.
17 † Until the day breathes
and the shadows flee,
turn, my beloved, be like a gazelle
or a young stag on cleft mountains.[4]

The Bride's Dream

3 [1]†† On my bed by night
I sought him whom my soul loves;

I sought him, but found him not.
[2]† I will rise now and go about the city,
in the streets and in the squares;
I will seek him whom my soul loves.
I sought him, but found him not.
[3]†† The watchmen found me
as they went about in the city.
"Have you seen him whom my soul loves?"
[4]† Scarcely had I passed them
when I found him whom my soul loves.
I held him, and would not let him go until I had brought him into my mother's house,
and into the chamber of her who conceived me.
[5]† I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
by the gazelles or the does of the field,
that you not stir up or awaken love
until it pleases.

Solomon Arrives for the Wedding

6 What is that coming up from the wilderness like columns of smoke,
perfumed with myrrh and frankincense,
with all the fragrant powders of a merchant?
7 Behold, it is the litter[1] of Solomon!
Around it are sixty mighty men,
some of the mighty men of Israel, 8 all of them wearing swords
and expert in war,
each with his sword at his thigh,
against terror by night.
9 King Solomon made himself a carriage[2]
from the wood of Lebanon.
10 He made its posts of silver,
its back of gold, its seat of purple;
its interior was inlaid with love
by the daughters of Jerusalem.
11 Go out, O daughters of Zion,
and look upon King Solomon,
with the crown with which his mother crowned him
on the day of his wedding,
on the day of the gladness of his heart.

Solomon Admires His Bride's Beauty

He

4 [1]†† Behold, you are beautiful, my love,
behold, you are beautiful!

Your eyes are doves
behind your veil.
Your hair is like a flock of goats
leaping down the slopes of Gilead.
[2]† Your teeth are like a flock of shorn ewes
that have come up from the washing,
all of which bear twins,
and not one among them has lost its young.
[3]† Your lips are like a scarlet thread,
and your mouth is lovely.
Your cheeks are like halves of a pomegranate
behind your veil.
[4]† Your neck is like the tower of David,
built in rows of stone;[3]
on it hang a thousand shields,
all of them shields of warriors.
[5] Your two breasts are like two fawns,
twins of a gazelle,
that graze among the lilies.
[6]† Until the day breathes
and the shadows flee,
I will go away to the mountain of myrrh
and the hill of frankincense.
[7] You are altogether beautiful, my love;
there is no flaw in you.
[8]† Come with me from Lebanon, my bride;
come with me from Lebanon.

Depart[4] from the peak of Amana,
from the peak of Senir and Hermon,
from the dens of lions,
from the mountains of leopards.

9 † You have captivated my heart, my sister, my bride;
you have captivated my heart with one glance of your eyes,
with one jewel of your necklace.
10 How beautiful is your love, my sister, my bride!
How much better is your love than wine,
and the fragrance of your oils than any spice!
11 † Your lips drip nectar, my bride;
honey and milk are under your tongue;
the fragrance of your garments is like the fragrance of Lebanon.
12 † A garden locked is my sister, my bride,
a spring locked, a fountain sealed.
13 †† Your shoots are an orchard of pomegranates
with all choicest fruits,
henna with nard,
14 † nard and saffron, calamus and cinnamon,
with all trees of frankincense,
myrrh and aloes,
with all choice spices—
15 † a garden fountain, a well of living water, and flowing streams from Lebanon.

16 Awake, O north wind,
and come, O south wind!
Blow upon my garden,
let its spices flow.

Together in the Garden of Love

She

Let my beloved come to his garden,
and eat its choicest fruits.

He

5 [1]† I came to my garden, my sister, my bride,
I gathered my myrrh with my spice,
I ate my honeycomb with my honey,
I drank my wine with my milk.

Others

Eat, friends, drink,
and be drunk with love!

The Bride Searches for Her Beloved

She

2 I slept, but my heart was awake.
A sound! My beloved is knocking.
"Open to me, my sister, my love,
my dove, my perfect one,
for my head is wet with dew,
my locks with the drops of the night."
3 I had put off my garment;
how could I put it on?
I had bathed my feet;
how could I soil them?
4 My beloved put his hand to the latch,
and my heart was thrilled within me.
5 I arose to open to my beloved,
and my hands dripped with myrrh,
my fingers with liquid myrrh,
on the handles of the bolt.
6 I opened to my beloved,
but my beloved had turned and gone.
My soul failed me when he spoke.
I sought him, but found him not;
I called him, but he gave no answer.
7 The watchmen found me
as they went about in the city;
they beat me, they bruised me,
they took away my veil,
those watchmen of the walls.
8 I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
if you find my beloved,
that you tell him
I am sick with love.

9† What is your beloved more than another
beloved,
O most beautiful among women?
What is your beloved more than another
beloved,
that you thus adjure us?

The Bride Praises Her Beloved

She

10 ‡‡‡ My beloved is radiant and ruddy, distinguished among ten thousand.
11 His head is the finest gold;
his locks are wavy,
black as a raven.
12 † His eyes are like doves
beside streams of water,
bathed in milk,
sitting beside a full pool.[1] 13 † His cheeks are like beds of spices, mounds of sweet-smelling herbs.
His lips are lilies,
dripping liquid myrrh.
14 His arms are rods of gold,
set with jewels.
His body is polished ivory,[2]
bedecked with sapphires.[3] 15 † His legs are alabaster columns, set on bases of gold.
His appearance is like Lebanon,
choice as the cedars.
16 His mouth[4] is most sweet,
and he is altogether desirable.
This is my beloved and this is my friend,
O daughters of Jerusalem.

Others

6 [1] Where has your beloved gone,
O most beautiful among women?
Where has your beloved turned,
that we may seek him with you?

Together in the Garden of Love

SHE

2 ☩☩ My beloved has gone down to his garden
to the beds of spices,
to graze[5] in the gardens
and to gather lilies.
3 I am my beloved’s and my beloved is mine;
he grazes among the lilies.

Solomon and His Bride Delight in Each Other

He

4 † You are beautiful as Tirzah, my love,
lovely as Jerusalem,
awesome as an army with banners.
5 † Turn away your eyes from me,
for they overwhelm me—
Your hair is like a flock of goats
leaping down the slopes of Gilead.
6 † Your teeth are like a flock of ewes
that have come up from the washing;
all of them bear twins;
not one among them has lost its young.
7 † Your cheeks are like halves of a pomegranate
behind your veil.
8 † There are sixty queens and eighty concubines,
and virgins without number.
9 † My dove, my perfect one, is the only one,
the only one of her mother,
pure to her who bore her.
The young women saw her and called her
blessed;
the queens and concubines also, and they praised her.

10 "Who is this who looks down like the dawn,
beautiful as the moon, bright as the sun,
awesome as an army with banners?"

She

11 † I went down to the nut orchard
to look at the blossoms of the valley,
to see whether the vines had budded,
whether the pomegranates were in bloom.
12 † Before I was aware, my desire set me
among the chariots of my kinsman, a prince.[1]

OTHERS

13 †[2] Return, return, O Shulammite, return, return, that we may look upon you.

HE

Why should you look upon the Shulammite,
as upon a dance before two armies?[3]

7 1 How beautiful are your feet in sandals,
O noble daughter!
Your rounded thighs are like jewels,
the work of a master hand.

2 † Your navel is a rounded bowl
that never lacks mixed wine.
Your belly is a heap of wheat,
encircled with lilies.
3 Your two breasts are like two fawns,
twins of a gazelle.
4 † Your neck is like an ivory tower.
Your eyes are pools in Heshbon,
by the gate of Bath-rabbim.
Your nose is like a tower of Lebanon,
which looks toward Damascus.

5† Your head crowns you like Carmel,
and your flowing locks are like purple;
a king is held captive in the tresses.

6 How beautiful and pleasant you are,
O loved one, with all your delights![4]
7 Your stature is like a palm tree,
and your breasts are like its clusters.
8 I say I will climb the palm tree
and lay hold of its fruit.
Oh may your breasts be like clusters of the vine,
and the scent of your breath like apples,
9† and your mouth[5] like the best wine.

SHE

It goes down smoothly for my beloved,
gliding over lips and teeth.[1]

10 I am my beloved's,
and his desire is for me.

The Bride Gives Her Love

11 Come, my beloved,
let us go out into the fields
and lodge in the villages;[2] 12 let us go out early to the vineyards and see whether the vines have budded, whether the grape blossoms have opened
and the pomegranates are in bloom.
There I will give you my love.
13 The mandrakes give forth fragrance,
and beside our doors are all choice fruits,
new as well as old,
which I have laid up for you, O my beloved.

Longing for Her Beloved

8 [1] Oh that you were like a brother to me
who nursed at my mother's breasts!
If I found you outside, I would kiss you,
and none would despise me.

[2] I would lead you and bring you into the house of my mother—
she who used to teach me.
I would give you spiced wine to drink,
the juice of my pomegranate.
[3] His left hand is under my head,
and his right hand embraces me!
[4] I adjure you, O daughters of Jerusalem,
that you not stir up or awaken love
until it pleases.

[5] Who is that coming up from the wilderness,
leaning on her beloved?

Under the apple tree I awakened you.
There your mother was in labor with you;
there she who bore you was in labor.

[6] Set me as a seal upon your heart,
as a seal upon your arm,
for love is strong as death,
jealousy[3] is fierce as the grave.[4]
Its flashes are flashes of fire,
the very flame of the LORD.

7† Many waters cannot quench love,
neither can floods drown it.
If a man offered for love
all the wealth of his house,
he[5] would be utterly despised.

Final Advice

OTHERS

8 We have a little sister,
and she has no breasts.
What shall we do for our sister
on the day when she is spoken for?
9 If she is a wall,
we will build on her a battlement of silver,
but if she is a door,
we will enclose her with boards of cedar.

SHE

10 I was a wall,
and my breasts were like towers;
then I was in his eyes
as one who finds[1] peace.

11 Solomon had a vineyard at Baal-hamon;
he let out the vineyard to keepers;
each one was to bring for its fruit a thousand pieces of silver.
12 My vineyard, my very own, is before me;
you, O Solomon, may have the thousand,
and the keepers of the fruit two hundred.

HE

13 O you who dwell in the gardens,
with companions listening for your voice;
let me hear it.

SHE

14 † Make haste, my beloved,
and be like a gazelle
or a young stag
on the mountains of spices.

The Song of Solomon

OVERVIEW

Author
King Solomon

Date
c 970 BC (beginning of Solomon's reign)

Places
Jerusalem; sites throughout Israel (esp the north); Shunem

People
Solomon ("my beloved"); the Shulammite ("my sister, my bride") and her brothers; daughters of Jerusalem/Zion; the watchmen; David; Bathsheba

Purpose
God's love in Christ for you is "the very flame of the Lord," which alone conquers death and enables you to be faithful to Him and to the person with whom you are united in marital love

Law Theme
Religious promiscuity and unfaithfulness (idolatry), like sexual promiscuity and unfaithfulness, are destructive

Gospel Theme
In faithful love, God sent Christ to save the world; He grants to believers the priceless blessings of love for Him and marital love for spouses

Memory Verses
Love that pleases (2:3–7); captivated by the bride (4:9–10); the flame of the Lord (8:6–7)

Introduction to The Song of Solomon

Reading the Song of Solomon

The Song begins with the highest note of passionate excitement, with the bride entering the king's chamber (1:2–4). This is not where the relationship between the main characters began. The Song does not move in chronological order but cycles among the themes of courtship, wedding, and consummation (see outline, p 1067). (ESV translators have provided poetic divisions and headings to keep track of the movements and the messages of the characters.)

Much of the text describes the couple's longing for each other, which includes vivid imagery from God's creation and beautiful landmarks from throughout Israel and the nations Israel dominated during Solomon's reign: from Damascus and Lebanon in the north (6:4) to Pharaoh's chariots in the south (1:9). References to landmarks in northern Israel abound, and Solomon's Hebrew has elements of the northern dialect. His espoused, the Shulammite (6:13), is likely from the town of "Shulem" or "Shunem," in the region of the northern tribe of Issachar. Though Solomon reigned from Jerusalem, he supported extensive building projects in northern Israel, as 1Ki 1–11 and archaeology show. These elements provide historical context for the events described in the Book.

The Song is not mere erotic literature, as many critics argue. It wrestles with the tension between the beauty and sensuality of the human body and the wisdom of reserving the body for marriage and genuine love. Wisdom counsels the listener "[do] not stir up or awaken love until it pleases" (2:7; 3:5; 8:4). The individual and the family have a responsibility to reserve sex for the wedding night (8:8–10). The Song connects the passion of love to the power of the Lord, comparing love to "the very flame of the LORD" (8:6). Also, wisdom admonishes that love is too valuable to be bought (8:7). For these reasons, the Song fits naturally with OT Wisdom Literature (see pp 775–78). Rightly understood, the Song is especially appropriate for teaching about the goodness of marriage and love in distinction from promiscuity (cf this theme in Pr 7).

Interpreters have long recognized in this Song allusions to the Lord's love for and governance of His people. The prophets regarded Israel as the Lord's bride (Is 54:5; Jer 31:32; Hos 2:16), a theme that always describes God's gracious relationship with His people, who inherit His blessings. In this way, the Song anticipates the NT teaching that the Church is Christ's beloved Bride and family. He seals and purifies her through Holy Baptism and graciously governs her (Eph 1:11–14; 5:22–6:4; cf Sg 8:6–9).

Luther on the Song of Solomon

> The third book [the Song of Solomon] is a song of praise, in which Solomon praises God for obedience, as for a gift of God. For where God is not himself the householder and ruler, there is neither obedience nor peace in any station of life. But where there is obedience and good governing, there God dwells, he kisses and embraces his dear bride with his word, which is the kiss of his lips. Therefore when things go in a land or a home as nearly as possible according to the first two of these books [Proverbs and Ecclesiastes], then one may well sing this third book and thank God. For God has not only taught us this, but has himself also done it. Amen. (AE 35:260–61)

For more of Luther's insights on this Book, see Lectures on the Song of Solomon (AE 15:189–264).

Challenges for Readers

Difficult Poetry. The Song of Solomon is a complex work of art written in a style different from modern English poetry. Therefore, readers must carefully work through the text, keeping in mind its structure and style (see outline, p 1067; see also pp 777–78).

Sensuality. Modest readers may wonder how this Book could be included in the Holy Bible. Some interpreters hunt for explicit sexual content in every detail of the poem's imagery. A balanced approach is required for understanding and applying the poem's teachings. Solomon described the passions of love honestly and joyfully; these passions are blessed by God in the context of holy wedlock.

Canonicity. As noted above, some have wondered how the Song of Solomon was included in the Bible, given its sensual character. According to Jewish historians, some rabbis raised this issue at the Jewish Council of Jamnia (c AD 100). However, the rabbis retained the Book as Sacred Scripture. Christians accepted the Book unquestioningly; this attitude prevailed until modern criticism. The Song of Solomon, interpreted as a depiction of Christ and the Church, was one of the most commonly taught books of Scripture during the ancient and medieval eras. Rightly interpreted and applied, the Song celebrates one of the most important aspects of human life: marital love, from which human life springs anew. This important theme is deeply rooted in scriptural faith (cf Gn 1:27–28; 2:18–25; Ps 127–28).

Blessings for Readers

The Song of Solomon is not the first book people should study from the OT. Nor is it the chief book for establishing Christian doctrine. Nonetheless, it is essential reading for God's people because life is more than precepts. God created us beautiful and passionate. To celebrate these blessings is to celebrate our Creator and His passionate love for us. As you read the Song of Solomon, consider this: if earthly love and life are so wondrous and stirring, how much more wonderful will eternal love and life be?

Much of this introductory material was adapted from Christopher W. Mitchell, The Song of Songs, CC (St. Louis: Concordia, 2003).

OUTLINE

The overall structure appears to consist of four themes arranged in sections in the following order. The letters a, b, c, and d below refer to the four themes, or stages, in the relationship:

a. The longing anticipation of courtship
b. The excitement and splendor of the wedding ceremony
c. The bliss of the couple's marriage consummation
d. The infatuation and delight of married love

Within d appear three other themes, expanding the topic of marriage:

a'. Married search and courtship: Solomon and the Shulammite are apart and yearn for reunion

b'. Married appreciation of beauty: these are descriptions in praise of the beauty of the spouse, not unlike the premarriage descriptions of the beloved adorned in wedding attire for the marriage ceremony

c'. Married consummation anew: the married couple reunites in joyful bliss

Divisions of the Book	Poetic Order of Themes
I. The Union: Four Cycles (1:2–5:1)

1. Wedding-Consummation (2:1–7) b-c
2. Courtship (2:8–15) a
3. Wedding (2:16) b
4. Consummation (2:17) c

C. Third Cycle (3:1–4:7)
1. Courtship (3:1–5) a
2. Wedding (3:6–11) b
3. Wedding-Consummation (4:1–7) b-c

D. Fourth Cycle (4:8–5:1)
1. Courtship (4:8–11) a
2. Wedding (4:12–15) b
3. Consummation (4:16–5:1) c

II. The Reunion: Married Love (5:2–8:14)

A. Fifth Cycle (5:2–6:10)
1. Search (5:2–8) a’
2. Praise (5:9–16) b’
3. Garden dialogue (6:1–3) a’
4. Garden dialogue (6:4–10) b’-c’

B. Sixth Cycle (6:11–8:4)
1. Search (6:11–13) a’
2. Praise (7:1–9) b’
3. Invitation (7:10–13) a’
4. Longing (8:1–4) c’

C. Conclusion (8:5–14)
1. Love: theological highlight (8:5–7) b’-c’
2. Love: application (8:8–12) b’-c’

Study Notes

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:1 Song of Songs. Hbr expression for the best and greatest of all. See note, Ec 1:2. Solomon's. Solomon was the second son of David and Bathsheba (2Sm 12:15b–25). He prefigured our Lord, who is likewise called "the Son of David" (Mt 1:1). Solomon is said to have penned 1,005 songs (1Ki 4:32), and this poem is his greatest. Songs in the ancient world were often accompanied by instrumentation, which assisted the singing or chanting of lyrics. Luth: "I place music next to theology and give it the highest praise. And we see how David and all saints put their pious thoughts into verse, rhyme, and songs, because music reigns in times of peace" (WLS § 3091).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:1 In the Song, Solomon elevates our sensibilities to their highest level. Nothing is so worthy of praise as that which extols God's love and devotion toward His beloved, His Bride, His people. Throughout history, the songs of God's people have been of the highest caliber, inspired by the Holy Spirit Himself, with names such as the Sanctus, the Kyrie, and the Gloria in Excelsis. The highest praise is always sounding from the mouths of the baptized as well as ringing in their ears. • O Lord, continue to let the Word of Christ dwell among us as we teach and admonish one another, "singing psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, with thankfulness in [our] hearts to God" (Col 3:16). Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:2 him. Solomon, the husband and lover who is the subject of his bride's affections. me. The beloved bride of Solomon, called the Shulammite in 6:13 (see note). kisses of his mouth! More than friendly affection; the intimate kiss of married lovers. your love is better than wine. Luth: "[Wine] makes the heart glad (Ps. 104:15). Wine is thus metaphorically used for all the world's delights and gratifications" (AE 15:197).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:3 anointing oils. Used at ordination of priests, inauguration of kings, and appointment of prophets to consecrate and endow with the gifts and Spirit required for a particular calling (cf 1Sm 16:13; Is 61:1). Fragrant oils were also applied at festive occasions such as wedding feasts or in preparation for burial (Mk 14:3–9). your name is oil poured out. To hear his name was soothing.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:4 The king. Solomon. See pp 1065–66. chambers. Bedroom, bridal chamber. Plural is unusual, but may imply a large, palatial dwelling with many rooms. Others. This heading was inserted by the ESV editors throughout the Song to denote passages from a choir, most likely the daughters of Jerusalem. you. The king, but ultimately the Lord Himself. Luth: "[Solomon's] words in You are emphatic. It is as if he were saying: 'Outside Your solace and aid one experiences nothing but toils' " (AE 15:199).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:5 I am very dark, but lovely. The Song returns to the period of courtship prior to the wedding, when the Shulammite confesses her lowly state. She is darkened, perhaps by exposure to the sun, indicating a life of manual labor. Though weathered by hard work, she is beautiful in the eyes of her fiancé (cf Ru 2:2–13). Cf Is 61:10; Eph 5:27; Rv 21:2. O daughters of Jerusalem. Implied audience of the Song. Taught by the king's bride (8:2), they stand as an image of younger women learning from older women (cf 2Tm 1:5; Ti 2:3–5). tents of Kedar. Perhaps wordplay, referencing the bride's dark complexion, because nomadic tents were dark in color to diminish the desert sun's glare. Kedar may refer to a nomadic tribe of the Syrian-Arabian desert, south of Jerusalem, descendants of Ishmael (cf Gn 25:13; see note, Ps 120:5). curtains of Solomon. The curtains in Solomon's palace or temple must have also been dark, but lovely. The bride's adornment is not merely outward, but hidden, as God's glory in the tabernacle or temple, and in God's holy people throughout history (cf 1Pt 3:1–6).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:6 Do not gaze. Because the Shulammite is darkened by her labor in the sun, the daughters of Jerusalem look on her with contempt. Yet she is beautiful in the eyes of her bridegroom. angry with me … keeper. Her brothers are angry that she failed to keep the family vineyards. Instead of concerning herself with her family's well-being, she may have given all of the proceeds of her vineyard to her husband (Sg 8:11–12).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:7 you. Solomon. veils herself. Context suggests a negative sense to this veiling, as though she were covering herself for mourning or even prostitution (cf Gn 38:15).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:2–7 The Shulammite is of lowly birth. Her skin is weathered, and she is easily despised, but she is the love of her husband-king. The Church, too, is the beloved of our Bridegroom, Christ Jesus. Her sins may be obvious, even to other sinners, but her Husband-King calls her holy and forgiven, beautiful and radiant in the glory of His grace. • Lord, lead us not to judge ourselves or one another by outward appearance, but to listen to Your Word, which calls us God-pleasing in Your sight, for Jesus' sake. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:8 follow in the tracks. The Shulammite is gently rebuked by her husband, who suggests she should know where to find him. The tracks of his flock will guide her. shepherds' tents. She should care for her flock, keeping them close to the tents so the shepherds will make sure they dwell in peace and safety.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:9 mare among Pharaoh's chariots. Image of nobility. Not a stable beast, but a stately, regal creature in one of the finest armies of the ancient Near East.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:10 ornaments. Though of lowly origin, Solomon's bride is decorated in splendor for her wedding.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:12 king. The Song returns to the theme of consummated love. Solomon is on his "couch" for dining, suggesting the richness and festivity with which this regal marriage will be consummated. nard. See note, Jn 12:3. The Shulammite bride's anticipation of her husband is rich with sensory appeal. She is a pleasing aroma to her bridegroom.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:13 sachet of myrrh. Bride and groom were adorned with aromatics in ancient weddings.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:14 henna blossoms. Like nard and myrrh, henna blossoms were made into perfume. Engedi. Lit, "the spring of the goat," an oasis on the western shore of the Salt Sea, where balsam incense was produced. Seals on the pottery at Engedi suggest that the industry was owned by the royal household.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:16 couch is green. Lush, verdant, leafy. Perhaps denotes fertility or reflects the couple's union beneath the rafters of cedar and pine (1:17).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:1 rose. Hbr likely describes a crocus-type flower (meadow saffron, narcissus, or asphodel). Sharon. Fertile coastal plain extending from Joppa northward to Caesarea. "Rose of Sharon" is used as an image of the Virgin Mary, who bore and gave birth to God's Son; it is also an image of the Church. The medieval hymn "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" (LSB 359) associates the Rose of Sharon with Christ Himself.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:4 banqueting house. Lit, "house of wine," in which are enjoyed the delicacies of raisins and apples (2:5). It is a place of feasting on rich food and aged wine (Is 25:6); a place where God's people may "taste and see that the LORD is good" (Ps 34:8). banner. Usually a military banner or battle standard. The Shulammite bride is escorted safely to the banquet hall under the standard of Solomon's love, even as Israel traveled beneath standards to the Promised Land (Nu 1:52; 2:2).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:5 apples. Perhaps apricots. sick with love. Love-induced weakness.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:7 adjure. Legal term, putting someone under a vow or oath. not stir up or awaken love. God's people are to live in faith according to His love and will. We spurn that love and will when we disregard the order that pleases God. In holy matrimony, husband and wife may enjoy a God-pleasing arousal and fulfillment of love, each one pleasing the other.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 1:8–2:7 In a world of immediate gratification, it is tempting to satisfy our desires as quickly as they awaken. Such unbridled arousal of passion leads to many sorrows, complications, and sins. But God, in His passion to save us, sent forth His Son, born of a virgin, to redeem all who are under the Law's judgment and curse. In Christ, your sins have been forgiven, and now, as He told the woman caught in adultery, "Neither do I condemn you; go, and from now on sin no more" (Jn 8:11). • Father, by Your love for us in Christ Jesus, teach us that we are truly set free from condemnation and sin. Keep the banner of Your love in Christ Jesus ever between us and our enemies—sin, death, and our own flesh—who do not want us to hallow Your name or let Your kingdom come. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:9 he stands behind our wall, gazing. Return to courtship and yearning as the bridegroom comes near, but has not yet entered in to the fullness of wedded bliss—an image that develops the tension between promised love and consummation.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:10–11 Spring has come and the wedding is drawing near, so Solomon invites his bride to begin a new life with him. Grooms would often send a representative to negotiate with her family (cf Gn 24), but here, Solomon himself comes to the Shulammite. the rain is over. The rainy season (Oct–Apr) is past, and the earth is watered and springing to life. See calendar, p 262.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:12 time of singing. Or, "time of pruning." Springtime brings with it the responsibility of pruning or cutting back branches so they will produce more fruit in the fall. It also brings singing, esp the songs of love. Either meaning is possible here. turtledove. Turtledoves returned to Israel in April, after the rainy season (2:11).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:14 clefts of the rock. See "rock," p 843. God's people may be typified as doves (Mt 10:16) who take refuge in the Lord.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:15 the foxes. Real threat to vineyards by their devouring of fruit and digging. Vineyards usually had walls to keep out wild animals. Little things often eat away at and erode love in marriage. St Paul warns that even a "little leaven" can threaten "the whole lump" (1Co 5:6). Thus, Luther warns against "false brethren in the church, and also heresies" which "worm their way in" and slowly wreak havoc on God's vineyard (AE 15:221).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:16 mine, and I am his. Husband and wife belong to each other in the bonds of God's marriage covenant, where two become one flesh (Gn 2:18–25; Mt 19:4–6). There is real reciprocity in marriage (1Co 7:3–5; Eph 5:21–23), reflecting, however imperfectly, love created by God, who makes us His own in the bond of Christ (Lv 26:12; 1Pt 2:9–10).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:17 day breathes. Indicates either the early morning breezes stirred by the warming of the earth at the rising of the sun or the cooling breezes at dusk, when shadows lengthen and take their flight. gazelle. See note, 8:14.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 2:8–17 Carelessness can ruin any earthly relationship. Mutual conversation and attention to each other is essential. How much more is required in that mysterious and wonderful union between Christ and His Church! Our Lord wants to hear our confession and our prayers, and even more so, He wants to give us His consolation and forgiveness. • Lord, speak tenderly to us, and let us hear. Pour out Your love within Your Word and Sacraments, and teach us to live by all You give us. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:1 On my bed by night I sought him. The Song cycles back to the time of courtship, when the Shulammite searches for her bridegroom, longing for their wedding and its consummation. The Church father Bede compared the searching of the Shulammite with Mary Magdalene coming to the tomb while it was still dark, searching for the Christ (Jn 20:1, 11–18). whom my soul loves. Expression of deep communion.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:2 squares. Broad city plazas used for gatherings. Various gates of Jerusalem had adjacent plazas or squares.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:3–4 No reason is given for Solomon's wandering at night.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:3 watchmen. City guards who patrol at night. See note, Is 21:6–12.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:4 mother's house. Mothers of both the Shulammite and Solomon play a supportive role in their marriage (cf 3:6–11; 8:1–2, 5). chamber. The Shulammite brings Solomon to the bedchamber of her mother, as she would later arouse Solomon beneath the apple tree where his mother conceived and gave birth to him (8:5).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:5 See note, 2:7.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:1–5 The Shulammite earnestly sought her bridegroom. What occupies our dreams and aspirations, our hopes and desires? The Lord commends to us the excellent and praiseworthy. His Word sets our hearts upon our Savior. • Lord, teach us a proper and timely desire for all good, earthly gifts. Above all, teach us to find our joy in You, who sought us when we sought You not. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:6–11 Loose description of the marriage rite. Groom and friends would travel to the bride's home, where she was veiled and adorned with jewelry. The groom and a singing and dancing crowd would escort her to his home. When she entered his home, they were married. (Cf Ps 45:13–15; Is 49:18; 61:10; Jer 2:32; 7:34; Ezk 16:12–13.)

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:6 wilderness. Desert between the land of Israel and Egypt. The wedding procession of Solomon and the Shulammite is here described in terms reminiscent of Israel, as God's bride, coming up out of her wilderness wandering and entering the Promised Land. myrrh and frankincense. Perfumes worn by and associated with the Shulammite (cf 4:6, 14; 5:5), but also associated with both Solomon and Christ (1:13; 5:13; Mt 2:11). Luth: "Myrrh is a symbol of the Word, but frankincense is a symbol of prayer" (AE 15:231). fragrant powders. Spice finely ground into a powder, associated with international trade, indicating the richness that adorns this wedding procession.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:7 litter. Bier or portable couch, carried by porters. mighty men. Bodyguards.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:8 terror by night. Most likely thieves.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:9 carriage. Hbr word occurs only here; probably a chair, litter, or palanquin.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:10 inlaid with love. Solomon's carriage is described in terms reminiscent of the tabernacle, temple, and palace.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:11 Zion. See p 844. mother crowned him. This wedding is described as a coronation, inaugurating the king's reign in a new way as he consummates his union with his bride. Cf Eph 5:21–33; Rv 19:7–9.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 3:6–11 Like Solomon, our Lord spares no expense preparing for the marriage feast of the Lamb in His kingdom. In fact, with something more precious than gold and silver, with His holy, precious blood and with His innocent suffering and death, He has readied the feast! • Lord God, our heavenly Bridegroom, we seek Your face and rejoice in Your presence. Sanctify us and keep us steadfast in the foretaste of the feast to come, that we may be gathered with all the faithful on that glorious day in the heavenly banquet that is yet to come. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:1 doves. Solomon describes his bride's eyes, which he sees through her wedding veil. Gilead. Hilly region east of Jerusalem, where Jacob made a covenant with Laban (Gn 31:44–54).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:2 washing. Newly shorn sheep, smooth from sheering and then wet from washing, make an apt comparison to glistening wet teeth in the mouth. bear twins. The simile suggests that the Shulammite's teeth are well-matched and symmetrical. Cf AE 15:228–29.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:3 scarlet thread. Crimson in color and vividly eye-catching. pomegranate. Rich, red fruit; an apt description of the rosy-cheeked bride.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:4 tower of David. Probably a tower in Jerusalem built by David to fortify his defenses. shields. Polished for decoration. Perhaps indicating a necklace the Shulammite wears.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:6 day breathes. See note, 2:17. myrrh … frankincense. Here may allude to the Shulammite's breasts, esp following v 5.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:8 Lebanon. Mountainous region to the north known for its cedars and junipers, which Solomon imported for building the temple and his palace. The Shulammite's family home may have been in Shunem, near Lebanon, but still in Israel. Solomon may have escorted his bride to the lofty ranges of Lebanon to show her his kingdom. Amana. In the Anti-Lebanon range, north of Israel. Senir and Hermon. Possible synonyms for Mount Hermon, the tallest peak in the Anti-Lebanon mountain range. See color map 2. dens of lions … mountains of leopards. In the company of her bridegroom, the Shulammite will be safe, even amidst such wild creatures as lions and leopards, which may also refer to the people of that region; Solomon calls his bride out of association with them (cf Rv 18:4).
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:9 sister. Implies the intimacy of the bride and her husband, as though they were of one blood and one flesh (Gn 2:24; Eph 5:31).
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:11 lips drip nectar, my bride; honey and milk are under your tongue. May refer to the sweetness of the Shulammite's breath, her speech, or to the pleasure derived from her kiss.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:12 garden locked … a spring locked, a fountain sealed. Vivid description of her premarital virginity and chastity. Luther says this description is indicative of the Church's being sealed and set apart from all others by God's gifts of "Word, Baptism, and the Sacrament of the Altar" (AE 15:234).
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:13–15 Thorough list of Near Eastern spices, demonstrating the Shulammite's lavish virtues.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:13 shoots. Expansion of the metaphor of the Shulammite bride as a garden. Similarly, Scripture often describes God's people as a vineyard (Mt 20:1–16; Jn 15:5). henna with nard. See notes, 1:12, 14.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:14 calamus. The spice reed, an aromatic plant. cinnamon. Included with calamus and myrrh in the ingredients for anointing oil and used for consecrating the tabernacle (Ex 30:23). frankincense. Specified for use in the tabernacle (Ex 30:34–38), grain offerings (Lv 2:1–2, 15–16), and the bread of the Presence (Lv 24:7). aloes. Associated with a description of the King's robes in Ps 45:8.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:15 living water. Flowing, not stagnant.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:1–16a Like Solomon calling the Shulammite, our Lord calls us to come out of our worldliness and to reside in communion with Him. He calls us holy, beautiful, stainless, pure. He calls us forgiven in His Gospel. • Lord, teach us how much You love us, how beautiful we are in Your eyes, how washed, how clean, how holy and pure. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:1 my sister, my bride. See note, 4:9. drunk with love! Chorus describes passion as a kind of intoxication. See note, v 8.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 4:16b–5:1 We indulge heartily in the things of this world. How much greater to partake of the things of God! • Lord, teach us to enjoy the good of this life, but to consume with zeal Your Word, reading, marking, learning, and inwardly digesting the revelation of Your great love for us in Jesus. May our breath become fragrant with the message of Your salvation as we speak to others. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:2–3 The Shulammite has been asleep in bed when Solomon comes knocking. Unprepared, she is unwilling to respond.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:4 latch. Solomon eagerly desires to be with his bride. This overture of the bridegroom reaching to open the door stirs the Shulammite's heart. The door would have had a fist-sized keyhole through which one would reach with a key that matched a set of pins, which held the bolt in place.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:5 myrrh … liquid myrrh. Oil of myrrh, dripping from her hand onto the door handle. This experience (vv 2–6) may be a half-waking dream (cf v 6). the bolt. The Shulammite reaches to open the same door that Solomon had set his hand to earlier.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:7 watchmen. See note, 3:3. beat … bruised … took. Watchmen's treatment of the Shulammite is in stark contrast to their behavior during her previous search in 3:1–5. We are not explicitly told why.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:8 sick with love. Despite suffering, she remains ever focused on the one her heart desires. There is no curing her sickness except to have the one she seeks. See note, 2:5.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:9 adjure us. See note, 2:7. us. Daughters of Jerusalem.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:2–9 Life is often confusing. When our Lord comes to us, we may be slow to hear and to believe. We may look for Him and not find Him where or as we want. In such times of confusion, call on the Lord in prayer and seek Him in His Word. He promises to hear and to comfort you. • O Lord, we need You. Do not forsake us, for if we are left to ourselves, we will surely perish. Amen.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:10–16 More intimate portrait of Solomon than provided elsewhere in the Song.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:10 ruddy. Red, full of life and vigor. Solomon's father, David, is described as ruddy in 1Sm 16:12.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:12 beside streams of water, bathed in milk. His eyes are clear, reflective, bathed in the abundance of God's favor.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:13 liquid myrrh. See note, v 5.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:15 alabaster columns. White, strong, sturdy, like the magnificent pillars of a king's palace (cf Est 1:6). Lebanon. See note, 4:8.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 5:10–6:1 Pray for your spouse (even if you have not yet met your spouse). If you are or were married, consider celebrating God's gift of a spouse by describing your spouse's best qualities. Whether you are married or single, rejoice in the love of Your Lord. • O Lord, You speak well of us in Jesus! Teach us to speak well of all whom You have covered in His righteousness, especially those nearest to us. Help husbands and wives to love and honor each other, and as Christians, help us to speak well of our Bridegroom, Jesus, so that all the world would want to seek Him. Amen.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:2 beds of spices. Terraces on which spices were grown. The Shulammite reflects on the absence of her beloved, who is called away by other duties.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:4 Tirzah. Following Jeroboam's apostasy (c 922 BC), the capital city of northern Israel for over 100 years. See map, p 558.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:5 Gilead. See note, 4:1.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:6 teeth. See note, 4:2.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:7 cheeks … pomegranate. See note, 4:3.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:8 sixty queens … virgins without number. The Shulammite is a queen among queens, receiving the loftiest position among Solomon's many wives. The number 60 here indicates an earlier period in his reign; he eventually had 700 wives and 300 concubines (1Ki 11:3). See pp 54–55. The virgins are likely among those who admired Solomon (1:3), but are not yet married to him.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:9 only one of her mother. The Shulammite had brothers (1:6), but she may have been the only daughter. However, as Solomon considers her his "only one" among 60 queens, 80 concubines, and countless virgins, "the only one of her mother" may indicate a favored position among these other women. (Medieval interpreters used allegory to make this one of the chief proof texts for the unity of the Church.) queens and concubines. See note, v 8. Solomon's self-indulgence led to idolatry and casts a shadow over his serving as a type of Christ.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:11 I went down. Solomon made many royal gardens (Ec 2:5), and the Shulammite visits one of them.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:12 The Shulammite's desire has led her to a garden, seeking her beloved. Suddenly, she finds herself among the chariots and entourage of her kingly husband, beckoning her to return with him (v 13).
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:13 Shulammite. See pp 1065–66. First place the text calls the bride "the Shulammite." She may be Abishag the Shunammite, the beautiful woman chosen to care for David in his old age (1Ki 1:1–4, 15; 2:17, 21–22). Or it may also be a feminine noun formed from the name Solomon, indicating their relation as husband and wife.
THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:2 mixed wine. Wine to which was added powdered spice (and perhaps pomegranate juice), thus enhancing its flavor.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:4 Heshbon. Located c 30 mi E of Jerusalem and 21 mi E of Jericho. Bath-rabbim. Perhaps the name of a gate in Heshbon, or a place to which one could travel after going through the gate. Lebanon. See note, 4:8. Damascus. Ancient Aramaean city, east of Mount Hermon and far from Jerusalem. See color map 2.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:5 Carmel. Mountain ridge south of Haifa, along Israel's coast, lower than the peaks of Lebanon. purple. This color, associated with royalty, was produced along the coast of Israel. The Shulammite's hair, while not actually purple, evokes the image of royal allure.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:9 your mouth like the best wine. See note, 5:1.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 6:2–7:10 Out of all the queens, concubines, and virgins that Solomon had available to him, the Shulammite was his "only one." But later, Solomon turned his heart away from her and from the Lord toward other interests (1Ki 11:3–4). In marriage vows, we promise to forsake all others. Thanks be to God that He does not forsake us when our hearts or thoughts stray. • Heavenly Father, You devoted Yourself to us in sending Your Son, who spared no expense for our salvation. Deliver us from all false and divided affections, that we may live for You only, in true faith and in fervent love toward those around us. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:11 fields … villages. See ESV note; cf vv 12–13. The Shulammite envisions the exchange of marital intimacy among the flora of the field (v 12). This imagery is like the bliss encountered earlier in the Song (1:16; 2:8–13).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:12 budded. As spring approaches, plants begin to blossom. See note, 2:10–11.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:13 mandrakes. Believed to be an aphrodisiac or aid to conception (Gn 30:14–16). new as well as old. Fresh as well as dried or preserved fruit. Sign of abundance, as the previous year's harvest has not run out.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 7:11–13 Within the blessing of holy wedlock, the intimacy of husband and wife is to be cherished and not neglected (1Co 7:3–5). The Lord calls husband and wife to give each other their love and bear its fruit (Gn 1:28; Ps 127:3–5; cf Sg 7:12). • Dear

Lord, You desire to keep us close to You, tenderly caring for us with Your love in Word and Sacrament. Grant us fruitful marriages that do not neglect the physical aspects of our nature. Grant husband and wife time alone together to renew the bonds of holy, conjugal love. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:1 like a brother. The Shulammite desires unbridled public freedom to openly express her love for Solomon, as she would publicly express love for a brother. outside, I would kiss you. In ancient Israel, it was not customary to express marital intimacy publicly.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:2 teach me. The Shulammite's mother doubtlessly trained her from youth in the way she should live (Pr 22:6). Mature women are to continue to instruct and set examples for younger women (Ti 2:3–4). spiced wine. See note, 7:2.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:4 adjure. See note, 2:7.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:5 wilderness. See note, 3:6. labor with you; there she who bore you. Consummation of their marital love occurs at the place where the bridegroom was conceived, namely, beneath the apple tree.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:6 seal. Cylindrical seal or signet ring, often marked with one's name or monogram, was pressed into wax or clay as a legal mark of authentication. May have been an amulet, dangling above the heart. If the Shulammite were Solomon's "seal," then she bore his name. love. Hbr 'ahabah. The love that is personified in the Song makes one think of God's love. death. Hbr maweth was also personified at this time by pagan deities such as the Ugaritic god Mot (see note, Jb 18:13). It may also refer to the place of the dead, Sheol (see p 792). In strength, love matches death. flame of the LORD. This likely refers to the Lord's Passion (cf Heb 12:29). The fire of the Lord involves judgment, but also the purifying and cleansing work that Christ performs in His ministry (Mt 3:10–17; Lk 3:16–22), even through trials (1Pt 1:6–7).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:7 waters cannot quench love. Ultimately, it is God's love that withstands the onslaught of life's raging floods. God rescued Israel on the shores of the Red Sea, when He used water to crush the army of Egypt.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:1–7 Are we lukewarm when it comes to God's desire to save us? God loves us with a passion (Ex 20:5–6). • O Lord, You are a consuming fire. Seal us in the promise of Your Gospel, which You poured out on us generously in Christ Jesus through Holy Baptism, so that the perils of this life, the threats of the Law, the trials and tribulations that You send us for the testing of our faith might not destroy us, but always draw us near to You. Amen.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:8 has no breasts. Still very young, before breasts had formed. What shall we do … spoken for? Question is directed to her elder brothers, who have a responsibility to safeguard the chastity of their little sister. the day … spoken for. When she is betrothed to another.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:9 Families ought to curb their children's rebellion and commend them in godly living. We are to consider ourselves the keeper of our sister or brother in the faith, that the coming day of Christ's return may be a day of gladness for His people. a wall. Figurative for virginity. The girl's brothers are to continue to protect, extol, and even adorn her with all that her virtue deserves. a door. Figurative for promiscuity. A promiscuous girl's brothers are to do what they can to rescue her, calling her to repentance and putting a stop to her wicked ways.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:10 as one who finds peace. The temporal, marital peace the Shulammite finds may derive from her virtuous living.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:11–12 What Solomon has belongs to his bride; what the Shulammite has is freely given her husband (see note, 1:6). They are one flesh in marriage, sharing all things, even wealth, in common. Baal-hamon. Place-name of uncertain location. May mean "possessor of abundance" and was intended to reinforce the description of the vineyard. a thousand pieces of silver. Caretakers would bring in money from selling the vineyard's produce, and a portion of that was returned to the owner (Mt 21:33–34).

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:13 you … companions. The Shulammite and Solomon, perhaps years after their wedding day, have an abundance of gardens wherein the Shulammite and her companions gather.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:14 like a gazelle. Swift and strong.

THE SONG OF SOLOMON—NOTE ON 8:8–14 We are not to conform ourselves to the pattern of this world, but remain holy, set apart as a wall (v 10). The Lord wants to preserve His dear ones till the end. • Come, Jesus, fill the hearts of Your faithful, and kindle in them the fire of Your love. Stir up our hearts that at Your second coming we may worship You in purity and in truth. Amen.

ISAIAH THROUGH MALACHI

The Books of the Prophets

THE 17 BOOKS OF THE MAJOR AND MINOR Prophets form an important division of the Old Testament, as confirmed by early Jewish literature (Ecclus 49:10; 2Macc 15:9; 4 Maccabees 18:10) and the New Testament (cf Mt 5:17; 7:12; Lk 16:29; 24:27, 44; Ac 13:15; 24:14; 28:23). The ministry of these "Latter Prophets," as they came to be known among the Jews, spanned from the eighth century BC to the fifth century BC, after which the prophets ceased to speak (see pp 1553–58, 1081–83).

Whereas the Former Prophets wrote historically and chronologically (see "Books of History," pp 335–37), the Latter Prophets wrote what feel to us like sermons. However, even though the Latter Prophets wrote portions of their books in prose, they frequently gave their messages in poetry (see p 775–78).

At the time of the New Testament, the Sadducees held the Books of Moses as authoritative Scripture in distinction from other writings or traditions (Jos, Ant 13:297; 18:16). The Samaritans likewise had their edition of the Books of Moses but did not accept other Old Testament books. The Egyptian Jewish scholar Philo (c 20 BC–c AD 50) referred to the Psalms and the Prophets as sacred and inspired (De ebrietate 143; On the Cherubim 49). But he almost never cited them, focusing constantly on the Books of Moses. Later rabbinic Judaism regarded the Psalms and Prophets as authoritative. Yet they distinguished the Books of Moses as most important.[1] But this is not how the early Christians received the Prophets. Christians received the prophetic writings as God's very Word, of equal authority to any other part of Holy Scripture, a matter that the prophets themselves greatly emphasized (see "Thus says the LORD," p 1080).

Luther described two great contributions of the Prophetic Books: (1) their prophecies of salvation in Christ and (2) their preaching of the Commandments. He wrote:

> We Christians ought not to be such shameful, satiated, ungrateful know-it-alls, but rather read and use the prophets with earnestness and profit. For, in the first place, the prophets proclaim and bear witness to the kingdom of Christ in which we now live, and in which all believers in Christ have heretofore lived, and will live until the end of the world. For us there is strong comfort and comforting strength in having for our Christian life such mighty and ancient witnesses. By them our Christian faith is greatly comforted in the confidence that before God it is the right station or stance [stand], over against all other wrong, false, human holiness and sects. For these all are a source of great offense and affliction [anfechten] to a weak heart, because they make such a good appearance and have such a multitude of adherents, and also because of the cross and of the small number of those who hold to Christian faith….

For this, then, the prophets are useful to us, as St. Peter boasts in I Peter 1[:11–12] that the prophets were not serving themselves in the things which were revealed to them, but us. It was us, he says, that they were serving. For they have served us thus with their prophesying, in order that he who would be in Christ's kingdom might know that he himself must first suffer many things before he comes to glory, and govern himself accordingly. By this we become sure of two things: first, that the great glory of Christ's kingdom is surely ours, and will come hereafter; and, second, that it is nevertheless preceded by crosses, shame, misery, contempt, and all kinds of suffering for the sake of Christ. The purpose is that we shall not grow discouraged through impatience or unbelief, or despair of that future glory, which is to be so great that even the angels desire to see it [I Pet. 1:12].

In the second place the prophets show us many great examples and experiences which illustrate the first commandment. They explicate it in masterly fashion, in both words and examples, so as to drive us powerfully to the fear of God and to faith, and to keep us in them. For after they have prophesied of Christ's kingdom, all the rest is nothing but examples of how God has so strictly and severely confirmed his first commandment. So to read or hear the prophets is surely nothing else than to read and hear how God threatens and comforts. God threatens the godless, who feel proud and secure. And if threatening does not help, he backs it up with penalties, pestilence, famine, war, until they are destroyed. Thus does God make good his threat in the first commandment [Exod. 20:5]. But he comforts those who fear him, who are in all kinds of need, and backs it up also with aid and counsel, by means of all kinds of wonders and signs, against all the might of the devil and the world. Thus does God make good also his comfort in the first commandment [Exod. 20:6].

With sermons and examples like these the prophets repeatedly serve us more than abundantly, in order that we should not be offended when we see with what pride and assurance the godless despise God's word and pay no attention to his threatenings, as though God were an utter nonentity. For in the prophets we see that things have never turned out well for any man who has despised God's threatening, even though they were the mightiest emperors and kings or the holiest and most learned people on whom the sun ever shone. On the other hand we see that no one has ever been deserted who has dared to rely upon God's comforts and promises, even though they were the most miserable and the poorest sinners and beggars that were ever on the earth, indeed, even though it were a slain Abel and a swallowed Jonah. By this the prophets prove to us that God holds fast to his first commandment and wills to be a gracious Father to the poor and believing, and that for him no one is too small or too despised. He wills, however, to be an angry Judge to the godless and the proud; and for him no one is too great, too mighty, too wise, too holy….

To be sure, there is in the prophets more of threatening and rebuke than of comfort and promise. And it is good to observe the reason for this. The godless always outnumber the righteous. Therefore one must always inculcate the law much more than the promises. Even without the promises, the godless feel secure; they are most agile in applying the divine comforts and promises to themselves, and the threats and rebukes to others. Nor do they let themselves be turned away, by any means, from this perverted notion and false hope. For their motto is "Peace and security; all is well." They stick to that, and by it go merrily to destruction, as St. Paul says, "Destruction comes upon them suddenly [I Thess. 5:3]." (AE 35:265–68)

The Work of a Prophet

The Books of the Prophets and other portions of the Old Testament show that a prophet was not simply a preacher who explained and applied an existing text of the Bible. God delivered messages directly to the prophets.

The background of the most common Hebrew term for "prophet" (nabi') is disputed. Some believe the root word means "to pour forth," as though speaking in an ecstatic trance. These interpreters point to passages such as 1Sm 10:9–13; 1Ki 22:8; and Jer 29:26 as examples of this idea (they also point to examples of ecstatic behavior from other ancient religions). Notably, when the Hebrew verb "prophesy" is used of false prophets, it occurs in a special form and may be translated "rave" (1Sm 18:10; 1Ki 18:29). This shows that the Israelites may have distinguished the extreme behaviors of false prophets. Most commonly, "prophet" describes a spokesman for God and does not assume an ecstatic experience (see "Thus says the LORD," "declares the LORD," and "word of the LORD [that] came," pp 1079–80).

Another important term is "seer" (Hebrew chozeh, from a verb for "seeing" or "perceiving"; 1Sm 9:9). The Lord often showed or revealed things to the prophets in a dream or dreamlike state (see p 74).

Ultimately, the prophets were men sent to speak the Lord's Word. Their chief task was to confront the people's sin, to bring them to repentance, and so restore them to a right relationship with God (cf 2Ki 17:13, 23; 21:10–12).

On the service of prophetesses, see p 389.

Key Terms and Phrases in the Books of the Prophets

Though the prophets clearly build upon earlier writers such as Moses, their writings include many unique expressions. For more about the word lists in TLSB, see the introductory comments, p 5.

ah. See woe.

backsliding. From Hbr shub (see turn). Describes a person turning away from the Lord to follow his own way. ESV also translates with Eng "apostasy."

burden. Hbr massa' (cf Zec 9:1; 12:1). Also translated "oracle" (Is 13:1; Mal 1:1), emphasizing that what the prophets spoke were words of the Lord and not their own words. The translation "burden" emphasizes that the prophet must deliver a word of judgment on the Lord's enemies (Jer 23:33).

captivity. Hbr galuth. Singular noun that may describe a group of people taken into exile. Through Moses (Dt 28:41), the Lord warned that Israel would be taken from the Promised Land if they disobeyed the covenant (see "portion," p 7). The prophets later announced the captivity, and Jeremiah gave it special emphasis. The term was used almost exclusively for the Judean exiles who suffered the Babylonian captivity.

comfort. Hbr nacham, "to be sorry," "to regret," or "to pity," leading to acts of care for those who were hurt. Isaiah esp emphasizes that the Lord comforts His people (cf Is 40:1; 49:13; 51:3, 12, 19). See relent.

daughter(s) of Jerusalem/Judah/Zion. First appears chronologically in a psalm of David (Ps 9:14). Plural "daughters" occurs in Sg. Otherwise, these expressions are associated with the prophets and are very common in Lam. They may refer to the cities or towns surrounding Jerusalem (see note, Ps 97:8) but often refer to the young women in and around Jerusalem who celebrated the victories of the city or mourned its siege and destruction. The important role of women as singers may stand behind these expressions (cf Ex 15:20–21; Jgs 11:34; 1Sm 18:6; Ps 68:25; Jer 31:4; Zep 3:14; Zec 2:10; 9:9). See p 389.

day of the Lord. Refers to a time (not strictly 24 hours) in which God dramatically reveals and/or executes His judgment by condemning the wicked and delivering the righteous. The prophets often use this phrase with reference to the end of history (cf 2Pt 3:10), yet it does not always have this ultimate sense. See notes, Jl 1:15; Am 5:18–20.

declares the LORD. The second most common indicator of a prophetic statement, occurring over 340 times. See Thus says the LORD.

Ephraim. The dominant and centrally located tribe in northern Israel; it became synonymous with the 10 tribes of the Northern Kingdom of Israel after they divided from the Southern Kingdom of Judah. See map, p 558. See also Israel and Judah. Cf Gn 48:20; Dt 33:17; 2Sm 2:8–9; 1Ki 12.

exiles. See captivity.

idols. Hbr gilulim, "dung pellets" (always plural; related terms used in Jb 20:7; 1Ki 14:10; Ezk 4:12, 15; Zep 1:17). Expresses the utter derision the prophets felt toward pagan idols. One of 10 OT terms for idols; Ezk uses it repeatedly (38 of 47 appearances in the OT).

in that day. See on that day.

Israel. The name God gave to the patriarch Jacob (Gn 32:28); it became (1) the name for the 12 tribes of the nation that descended from Jacob and (2) the name of the Northern Kingdom of Israel (see Ephraim). In the NT, Israel becomes a name for the Church, which constitutes believers from all nations (Rm 9:6; Gal 6:16). God had chosen ancient Israel for His special purposes (cf Dt 7) and gave them covenant promises. The same promises do not apply to the modern political state of Israel.

Jacob. See Israel.

Judah. The royal tribe of ancient Israel (prophesied in Gn 49:8–12) that supported David in strengthening and extending the kingdom of Israel (2Sm 2–5). When Israel split under Rehoboam (1Ki 12), descendants of David continued to rule the southern tribes as the separate "kingdom of Judah." See map, p 558. After exile in Babylon, people of Judah resettled their former territory and rebuilt the temple. See note, Ezr 4:12. See also Ephraim and Israel.

know that I am the LORD. Phrase first spoken to Moses to describe a result of the exodus (Ex 6:7). However, over 80 percent of its uses are as a "recognition formula" in Ezk. When used in pronouncing judgment, it describes how the people must learn the truth through punishment (e.g., Eng expression "learn the hard way"). However, this phrase often follows announcements of God's mercy, affirming the sincerity of believers' repentance and faith.

latter days. See on that day.

on that day. Can simply mean "then," but appears often in the Prophets with reference to the "day of the LORD" (see above). Cf Is 24:18–20; 29:5–8; 66:15; Hos 3:5; Jl 2:30–3:16; Am 5:18–20; Zep 1:14–18; Zec 14:1–5.

oracle. See burden.

prophet. See pp 1077–78, 1080–83.

relent. Hbr nacham. See comfort, which translates the same term. "The LORD relented/repented" is a metaphor of the Lord changing a previous pronouncement of judgment. The metaphor appears at some key junctures in Scripture: the flood (Gn 6:6), the Sinai revelation (Ex 32:12–14), and the institution of the monarchy (1Sm 15:11, 35). It also appears in psalmody and creedal statements (cf Ps 106:45; Jer 18:7–10; Jl 2:13; Jnh 4:2). In 35 examples, the Lord is the subject of this verb. At first, these passages may appear to contradict other statements that He does not change previous decisions (Nu 23:19; 1Sm 15:29; Ps 110:4; Jer 4:28; 20:16; Ezk 24:14; Hos 13:14; Zec 8:14). However, the passages listed here divide into two types: (1) There are certain promises the Lord has made that He will never change. Five describe the Lord's refusal to change His decision concerning the judgment of 587 BC, and one (Ps 110:4) speaks of His unwillingness to change the eternal priesthood and order of Melchizedek. (2) Two passages speak of His refusal to change His will (Nu 23:19; 1Sm 15:29). These are statements of principle (i.e., God is not a man that He should go against a prior decision). He is constant with respect to His Gospel promises made to Abraham and David (cf Ezk 18:23, 32). He is unchangeable in His nature (Ps 102:27; Mal 3:6; Jas 1:17).

remnant. Hbr she'ar, "rest, remainder." A common term that gains special use in the Prophetic Books. The term may express God's condemnation (Is 10:22) or His mercy (Is 37:31). Though destruction would come upon God's chosen people, He would not annihilate them. God would keep His promises and preserve a remnant of people who would reconstitute the holy people, which becomes the Church in the NT.

repent. See turn.

restore the fortunes. Yet another use of Hbr shub. Lit, "return the things turned over [to someone]." So, this is not a request for mere luck. The idea is closely related to the blessings of the new creation depicted as the new land of Israel (Ezk 47:3–12). In the NT, restoration describes what God effects through the coming of the messianic kingdom (cf Mt 17:11; Ac 1:6; 15:16; 1Pt 5:10).

return. See turn.

shepherd. Common title for Israel's leaders (cf Jer 23; 25; Ezk 34; Mi 5; Zec 11). This title provides the NT basis for the office of pastor (cf Jn 21:15–17; 1Pt 2:25; 5:2–4). On leadership in Israel, see p 228.

son of man. Appears early in statements of non-Israelites (cf Nu 23:19; Jb 16:21; 25:6; 35:8), which may characterize their non-Hebrew language(s). However, c 85 percent of OT examples appear later in Ezk, who was exiled among Aram speakers in Babylon (cf Dn 7:13; 8:17). The expression is likely borrowed from Aram, where it simply means a human being, a person. For its transformation in the NT, see note, Dn 7:13; see also p 2098.

Thus says the LORD. The most common indicator of a prophetic statement, used over 400 times in the OT, mostly in the Books of the Prophets. Indicates a personal, supernatural communication from God to the prophet (see note, Zec 4:9). The prophets typically do not identify their statements as their own messages, nor as something resulting from a collaborative effort with the Lord. Such expressions affirm that the prophets truly spoke the Word of God, which must be fulfilled (see notes, Dt 18:15–22). See declares the LORD and word of the LORD (that) came.

turn. Hbr shub, "to turn, turn around." A very common verb, used over 1,000 times in the OT. Appropriately translated "repent" in more than 100 cases, most often in Jer (Is rarely uses the term this way). Repentance is God's work (see note, Jer 31:18) that leads a person to renounce sin—requesting God's mercy and returning to His way (see "way," p 842). For a classic OT example, see David's confession and prayer in Ps 51.

woe. Hbr 'oy and hoy, also translated "oh!" or "alas." Interjection expressing sadness or warning. The prophets frequently begin pronouncements of judgment with this term, which may introduce a series of condemnations.

woman in labor. Common metaphor in the Prophetic Books; describes the greatest distress a person can experience.

word of the Lord (that) came. Used over 100 times in the OT, mostly in the Books of the Prophets. Prophetic revelations are described as a "word" that God delivered to the prophets and through them. (Cf Jer 1:1–2; Ezk 1:3; Jl 1:1; Jnh 1:1; Mi 1:1; Zep 1:1; Hg 1:1; Zec 1:1; Mal 1:1). Sometimes the "word" is accompanied by a vision (Is 1:1; Ezk 1:1) or is somehow "seen" (Am 1:1; Mi 1:1; Hab 1:1). See Thus says the Lord and declares the Lord.

word that came ... from the Lord. Introductory statement used by Jeremiah. See word of the Lord (that) came.

Observations about Israelite Literature

Some nineteenth-century critical scholars insisted that most Israelite literature developed later than the Bible describes, or, most radically, that all the Old Testament Scriptures were written after the Babylonian exile (587 BC). However, a careful assessment of the prophets' writings shows important contradictions to such theories.

The prophets often use expressions that well fit the kingdom period of Israel's history (1048 BC–587 BC), during which the prophets were most active. These same expressions rarely or never occur in earlier Israelite literature (the Books of Moses, Jsh, Jgs, and Jb). Here are some examples:

Phrases. The prophets use "declares the Lord" more than 300 times, an expression that almost never appears in writings before the kingdom period (exceptions being Gn 22:16; Nu 14:28). "Day of the Lord" is a distinct expression of the prophets. "Daughters of Israel" appears in some earlier texts (Dt 23:17; Jgs 11:40; 2Sm 1:24), but it is eclipsed by the prophets' frequent use of "daughter(s) of Jerusalem/Judah/Zion."

Titles. " Lord of hosts" and "Holy One of Israel" do not occur in the earlier literature but are common during the time of the prophets.

Metaphors. The idea of the Lord as King appears in a few verses of the earlier literature (Nu 23:21; Dt 33:5; Jb 18:14; two of these examples are from non-Israelites). But the idea of the Lord's kingship expands greatly during the kingdom period. The prophets even develop royal titles to express this thought. Also, the prophets often use the metaphor of "a woman in labor" to describe the distress coming with God's judgment. This metaphor does not occur in the earlier texts.

Idols/Idolatry. Prophetic Books before the exile often rail against problems of idolatry or mention names of specific deities. The postexilic prophets (Ezra, Nehemiah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi) hardly mention idolatry as an issue or complain about abuse of the "high places" where pagan sacrifices often occurred (see pp 526–27). This corresponds well to what is known from archaeological remains, in which idols are frequently found prior to the exile but disappear afterward. See note, Ex 34:13.

Examples such as these show that nineteenth-century critical assumptions about the writing of the Bible did not comprehend the long history of Israelite literature or its reliability. See pp 3–7, 335–37.

Breaks and intermissions punctuated the ministry of the prophets. The charts below list the names of men in the Bible called prophets, seers, and visionaries or men participating in these activities. Use these charts to get a complete picture of the ministry of the prophets. To learn more about prophetesses and their service, see p 389. (The names of writing prophets are italic. Dates are approximate.)

There is silence for about 400 years; prophets seem to come and go throughout Israel's history. During Israel's time in Egypt, no prophets are described. At times, it seems that the ministry of the prophets goes away.

There is silence for about 300 years; after the death of Moses, a virtual silence about prophets occurs in Scripture.

There is silence for about 400 years, as described by 1 Maccabees, a Jewish book written after the time of the Old Testament. See pp 1553–58.

Throughout Scripture, you can find examples of God working through His prophets. However, you will also discover significant times when God did not speak through prophets. Sometimes the silence of the prophets was a punishment from God for the people's disobedience (Am 8:11; Mi 3:4, 7). At other times, it seems that God simply chose to deliver His Word in another way, such as preaching through the elders and pastors of the New Testament.

Today, various religious leaders claim the gifts and calling of a prophet. But many of these leaders have failed to show the accuracy and faithfulness that God expects of His prophets in Scripture (cf Dt 18:15–22; see p 307). Before you put your confidence in any self-proclaimed prophet, judge his or her teachings in view of the teachings of God's prophets as recorded in the Bible. (Note how Paul applies this in 1Co 14:32–33, 37–38.) Most important, consider whether any teacher faithfully proclaims and serves the Gospel of Jesus Christ. For, as the apostle John recorded, "the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy" (Rv 19:10; see p 1245).

Ultimately, true prophets proclaim Jesus Christ and the promise of salvation God offers through Him. While prophecies about the end times (and the rise and fall of nations and leaders) may attract attention, salvation through Christ is the heart of prophecy. Jesus guides the future and has given you His written Word as a guide for your life in these changing times. In the Word of Christ, receive the peace and satisfaction that He alone can give. Praise Him for the ministry of the prophets, recorded in Scripture for your benefit.

The Wickedness of Judah

2 † Hear, O heavens, and give ear, O earth;
for the Lord has spoken:
"Children[1] have I reared and brought up,
but they have rebelled against me.
3 † The ox knows its owner,
and the donkey its master's crib,
but Israel does not know,
my people do not understand."

4 † Ah, sinful nation,
a people laden with iniquity,
offspring of evildoers,
children who deal corruptly!
They have forsaken the Lord,
they have despised the Holy One of Israel,
they are utterly estranged.

5 † Why will you still be struck down?
Why will you continue to rebel?
The whole head is sick,
and the whole heart faint.
6 † From the sole of the foot even to the head,
there is no soundness in it,
but bruises and sores
and raw wounds;
they are not pressed out or bound up
or softened with oil.

7 † Your country lies desolate;
your cities are burned with fire;
in your very presence

foreigners devour your land;
it is desolate, as overthrown by foreigners.
8 And the daughter of Zion is left
like a booth in a vineyard,
like a lodge in a cucumber field,
like a besieged city.

9 If the Lord of hosts
had not left us a few survivors,
we should have been like Sodom,
and become like Gomorrah.

10 Hear the word of the Lord,
you rulers of Sodom!
Give ear to the teaching[2] of our God,
you people of Gomorrah!
11 "What to me is the multitude of your sacrifices?
says the Lord;
I have had enough of burnt offerings of rams
and the fat of well-fed beasts;
I do not delight in the blood of bulls,
or of lambs, or of goats.

12 "When you come to appear before me,
who has required of you
this trampling of my courts?
13 Bring no more vain offerings;
incense is an abomination to me.
New moon and Sabbath and the calling of convocations—
I cannot endure iniquity and solemn assembly.
14 Your new moons and your appointed feasts
my soul hates;

they have become a burden to me;
I am weary of bearing them.
15† When you spread out your hands,
I will hide my eyes from you;
even though you make many prayers,
I will not listen;
your hands are full of blood.
16†† Wash yourselves; make yourselves clean;
remove the evil of your deeds from before my eyes;
cease to do evil,
17† learn to do good;
seek justice,
correct oppression;
bring justice to the fatherless,
plead the widow's cause.

18† "Come now, let us reason[1] together, says the LORD:
though your sins are like scarlet,
they shall be as white as snow;
though they are red like crimson,
they shall become like wool.
19 If you are willing and obedient,
you shall eat the good of the land;
20† but if you refuse and rebel,
you shall be eaten by the sword;
for the mouth of the LORD has spoken."

The Unfaithful City

21 How the faithful city has become a whore,[1]
she who was full of justice!
Righteousness lodged in her,
but now murderers.
22 Your silver has become dross,
your best wine mixed with water.
23 Your princes are rebels
and companions of thieves.
Everyone loves a bribe
and runs after gifts.
They do not bring justice to the fatherless,
and the widow's cause does not come to
them.

24 Therefore the Lord declares,
the Lord of hosts,
the Mighty One of Israel:
"Ah, I will get relief from my enemies
and avenge myself on my foes.
25 I will turn my hand against you and will smelt away your dross as with lye
and remove all your alloy.
26 And I will restore your judges as at the first,
and your counselors as at the beginning.
Afterward you shall be called the city of
righteousness,
the faithful city."

27 Zion shall be redeemed by justice, and those in her who repent, by

righteousness.
28† But rebels and sinners shall be broken together,
and those who forsake the LORD shall be consumed.
29† For they[2] shall be ashamed of the oaks
that you desired;
and you shall blush for the gardens
that you have chosen.
30† For you shall be like an oak
whose leaf withers,
and like a garden without water.
31† And the strong shall become tinder,
and his work a spark,
and both of them shall burn together,
with none to quench them.

The Mountain of the Lord

2 [1]†† The word that Isaiah the son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

[2]† It shall come to pass in the latter days
that the mountain of the house of the Lord shall be established as the highest of the mountains,
and shall be lifted up above the hills;
and all the nations shall flow to it,
[3]† and many peoples shall come, and say:
"Come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord,
to the house of the God of Jacob,
that he may teach us his ways
and that we may walk in his paths."
For out of Zion shall go the law,[1]
and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem.
[4]† He shall judge between the nations,
and shall decide disputes for many peoples;
and they shall beat their swords into plowshares,
and their spears into pruning hooks;
nation shall not lift up sword against nation,
neither shall they learn war anymore.

[5]† O house of Jacob,
come, let us walk
in the light of the Lord.

The Day of the Lord

6 For you have rejected your people,
the house of Jacob,
because they are full of things from the east
and of fortune-tellers like the Philistines, and they strike hands with the children of foreigners.
7 Their land is filled with silver and gold,
and there is no end to their treasures;
their land is filled with horses,
and there is no end to their chariots.
8 Their land is filled with idols;
they bow down to the work of their hands,
to what their own fingers have made.
9 So man is humbled,
and each one is brought low—
do not forgive them!
10 Enter into the rock
and hide in the dust
from before the terror of the Lord,
and from the splendor of his majesty.
11 The haughty looks of man shall be brought low,
and the lofty pride of men shall be humbled,
and the Lord alone will be exalted in that day.

12 For the Lord of hosts has a day against all that is proud and lofty, against all that is lifted up—and it shall be brought low;
13 against all the cedars of Lebanon,
lofty and lifted up;
and against all the oaks of Bashan;

14 against all the lofty mountains,
and against all the uplifted hills;
15 against every high tower,
and against every fortified wall;
16† against all the ships of Tarshish,
and against all the beautiful craft.
17 And the haughtiness of man shall be humbled, and the lofty pride of men shall be brought
low,
and the Lord alone will be exalted in that day.
18 And the idols shall utterly pass away.
19† And people shall enter the caves of the rocks
and the holes of the ground,[1]
from before the terror of the Lord,
and from the splendor of his majesty,
when he rises to terrify the earth.

20† In that day mankind will cast away
their idols of silver and their idols of gold,
which they made for themselves to worship,
to the moles and to the bats, 21† to enter the caverns of the rocks
and the clefts of the cliffs,
from before the terror of the Lord,
and from the splendor of his majesty,
when he rises to terrify the earth.
22† Stop regarding man
in whose nostrils is breath,
for of what account is he?

Judgment on Judah and Judah and Jerusalem

3 [1]†††† For behold, the Lord God of hosts is taking away from Jerusalem and from Judah support and supply,[2]
all support of bread,
and all support of water;

[2]† the mighty man and the soldier,
the judge and the prophet,
the diviner and the elder,
[3]† the captain of fifty
and the man of rank,
the counselor and the skillful magician
and the expert in charms.
[4]† And I will make boys their princes,
and infants[3] shall rule over them.
[5] And the people will oppress one another,
every one his fellow
and every one his neighbor;
the youth will be insolent to the elder,
and the despised to the honorable.

[6]† For a man will take hold of his brother
in the house of his father, saying:
"You have a cloak;
you shall be our leader,
and this heap of ruins
shall be under your rule";

[7]† in that day he will speak out, saying:
"I will not be a healer;[1]
in my house there is neither bread nor cloak;

you shall not make me
leader of the people.”
8† For Jerusalem has stumbled,
and Judah has fallen,
because their speech and their deeds are against the Lord,
defying his glorious presence.[2]

9† For the look on their faces bears witness against them;
they proclaim their sin like Sodom;
they do not hide it.
Woe to them!
For they have brought evil on themselves.
10† Tell the righteous that it shall be well with them,
for they shall eat the fruit of their deeds.
11 Woe to the wicked! It shall be ill with him, for what his hands have dealt out shall be done to him.
12† My people—infants are their oppressors,
and women rule over them.
O my people, your guides mislead you and they have swallowed up[3] the course of your paths.

13† The Lord has taken his place to contend;
he stands to judge peoples.
14† The Lord will enter into judgment
with the elders and princes of his people:
“It is you who have devoured[4] the vineyard,
the spoil of the poor is in your houses.
15† What do you mean by crushing my people,
by grinding the face of the poor?”
declares the Lord God of hosts.

16 ‡† The Lord said:
Because the daughters of Zion are haughty
and walk with outstretched necks, glancing wantonly with their eyes,
mincing along as they go,
tinkling with their feet,
17 † therefore the Lord will strike with a scab
the heads of the daughters of Zion, and the Lord will lay bare their secret parts.

18 ‡In that day the Lord will take away the finery of the anklets, the headbands, and the crescents; 19the pendants, the bracelets, and the scarves; 20the headdresses, the armlets, the sashes, the perfume boxes, and the amulets; 21the signet rings and nose rings; 22the festal robes, the mantles, the cloaks, and the handbags; 23the mirrors, the linen garments, the turbans, and the veils.

24 † Instead of perfume there will be rottenness;
and instead of a belt, a rope;
and instead of well-set hair, baldness;
and instead of a rich robe, a skirt of sackcloth;
and branding instead of beauty.
25 Your men shall fall by the sword
and your mighty men in battle.
26 † And her gates shall lament and mourn;
empty, she shall sit on the ground.

4 1 †And seven women shall take hold of one man in that day, saying, “We will eat our own bread and wear our own clothes, only let us be called by your name; take away our reproach.”

The Branch of the Lord Glorified

2 ‡ †In that day the branch of the Lord shall be beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the land shall be the pride and honor of the survivors of Israel.
3 †And he who is left in Zion and remains in Jerusalem will be called holy, everyone who has been recorded for life in Jerusalem, 4 † when the Lord shall have washed away the filth of the daughters of Zion and cleansed the bloodstains of Jerusalem from its midst by a spirit of judgment and by a spirit of burning.[1] 5 †Then the Lord will create over the whole site of Mount Zion and over her assemblies a cloud by day, and smoke and the shining of a flaming fire by night; for over all the glory there will be a canopy. 6 †There will be a booth for shade by day from the heat, and for a refuge and a shelter from the storm and rain.

The Vineyard of the Lord Destroyed

5 [1]†††† Let me sing for my beloved my love song concerning his vineyard:
My beloved had a vineyard
on a very fertile hill.

[2]† He dug it and cleared it of stones,
and planted it with choice vines;
he built a watchtower in the midst of it,
and hewed out a wine vat in it;
and he looked for it to yield grapes,
but it yielded wild grapes.

[3]† And now, O inhabitants of Jerusalem and men of Judah,
judge between me and my vineyard.
[4]† What more was there to do for my vineyard,
that I have not done in it?
When I looked for it to yield grapes,
why did it yield wild grapes?

[5]† And now I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard.
I will remove its hedge,
and it shall be devoured;[1]
I will break down its wall,
and it shall be trampled down.
[6]† I will make it a waste;
it shall not be pruned or hoed,
and briers and thorns shall grow up;
I will also command the clouds
that they rain no rain upon it.

7 † For the vineyard of the Lord of hosts
is the house of Israel,
and the men of Judah
are his pleasant planting;
and he looked for justice,
but behold, bloodshed;[2]
for righteousness,
but behold, an outcry![3]

Woe to the Wicked

8 Woe to those who join house to house,
who add field to field,
until there is no more room,
and you are made to dwell alone
in the midst of the land.
9 The Lord of hosts has sworn in my hearing:
"Surely many houses shall be desolate, large and beautiful houses, without inhabitant.
10 For ten acres[4] of vineyard shall yield but one bath,
and a homer of seed shall yield but an ephah."[5]

11 Woe to those who rise early in the morning,
that they may run after strong drink,
who tarry late into the evening
as wine inflames them!
12 They have lyre and harp, tambourine and flute and wine at their feasts,
but they do not regard the deeds of the Lord,
or see the work of his hands.

13 Therefore my people go into exile
for lack of knowledge;[6]
their honored men go hungry,[7]
and their multitude is parched with thirst.
14 Therefore Sheol has enlarged its appetite and opened its mouth beyond measure, and the nobility of Jerusalem[1] and her

multitude will go down,
her revelers and he who exults in her.
15 Man is humbled, and each one is brought
low,
and the eyes of the haughty[2] are brought low.
16† But the Lord of hosts is exalted[3] in justice, and the Holy God shows himself holy in
righteousness.
17† Then shall the lambs graze as in their pasture, and nomads shall eat among the ruins of the rich.

18† Woe to those who draw iniquity with cords
of falsehood,
who draw sin as with cart ropes, 19† who say: “Let him be quick,
let him speed his work
that we may see it;
let the counsel of the Holy One of Israel draw near,
and let it come, that we may know it!”
20† Woe to those who call evil good and good evil,
who put darkness for light
and light for darkness,
who put bitter for sweet
and sweet for bitter!
21 Woe to those who are wise in their own eyes,
and shrewd in their own sight!
22† Woe to those who are heroes at drinking
wine,
and valiant men in mixing strong drink, 23† who acquit the guilty for a bribe,
and deprive the innocent of his right!

24 Therefore, as the tongue of fire devours the
stubble,
and as dry grass sinks down in the flame,
so their root will be as rottenness,
and their blossom go up like dust;
for they have rejected the law of the Lord of
hosts,
and have despised the word of the Holy
One of Israel.
25 Therefore the anger of the Lord was kindled against his people,
and he stretched out his hand against them
and struck them,
and the mountains quaked;
and their corpses were as refuse
in the midst of the streets.
For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

26 He will raise a signal for nations far away,
and whistle for them from the ends of the
earth;
and behold, quickly, speedily they come!
27 None is weary, none stumbles,
none slumbers or sleeps,
not a waistband is loose,
not a sandal strap broken; 28 their arrows are sharp,
all their bows bent,
their horses' hoofs seem like flint,
and their wheels like the whirlwind.
29 Their roaring is like a lion,
like young lions they roar;
they growl and seize their prey;
they carry it off, and none can rescue.

30 † They will growl over it on that day,
like the growling of the sea.
And if one looks to the land,
behold, darkness and distress;
and the light is darkened by its clouds.

Isaiah’s Vision of the Lord

6 [1]‡†In the year that King Uzziah died I saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up; and the train[1] of his robe filled the temple.
[2]†Above him stood the seraphim. Each had six wings: with two he covered his face, and with two he covered his feet, and with two he flew. [3]†And one called to another and said:

> “Holy, holy, holy is the Lord of hosts;
> the whole earth is full of his glory!”[2]

[4]†And the foundations of the thresholds shook at the voice of him who called, and the house was filled with smoke. [5]†And I said: “Woe is me! For I am lost; for I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for my eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts!”
[6]†Then one of the seraphim flew to me, having in his hand a burning coal that he had taken with tongs from the altar. [7]†And he touched my mouth and said: “Behold, this has touched your lips; your guilt is taken away, and your sin atoned for.”

Isaiah's Commission from the Lord

8 And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" Then I said, "Here am I! Send me." 9 And he said, "Go, and say to this people:

"'Keep on hearing,[1] but do not understand;
keep on seeing,[2] but do not perceive.'

10 Make the heart of this people dull,[3]
and their ears heavy,
and blind their eyes;
lest they see with their eyes,
and hear with their ears,
and understand with their hearts,
and turn and be healed."
11 Then I said, "How long, O Lord?"
And he said:
"Until cities lie waste
without inhabitant,
and houses without people,
and the land is a desolate waste, 12 and the Lord removes people far away,
and the forsaken places are many in the midst of the land.
13 And though a tenth remain in it,
it will be burned[4] again,
like a terebinth or an oak,
whose stump remains
when it is felled."
The holy seed[5] is its stump.

Isaiah Sent to King Ahaz

7 1 In the days of Ahaz the son of Jotham, son of Uzziah, king of Judah, Rezin the king of Syria and Pekah the son of Remaliah the king of Israel came up to Jerusalem to wage war against it, but could not yet mount an attack against it. 2 When the house of David was told, "Syria is in league with[6] Ephraim," the heart of Ahaz[7] and the heart of his people shook as the trees of the forest shake before the wind.

3 And the Lord said to Isaiah, "Go out to meet Ahaz, you and Shearjashub[8] your son, at the end of the conduit of the upper pool on the highway to the Washer's Field. 4 And say to him, 'Be careful, be quiet, do not fear, and do not let your heart be faint because of these two smoldering stumps of firebrands, at the fierce anger of Rezin and Syria and the son of Remaliah. 5 Because Syria, with Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, has devised evil against you, saying, 6 "Let us go up against Judah and terrify it, and let us conquer it[1] for ourselves, and set up the son of Tabeel as king in the midst of it," 7 thus says the Lord God:

"'It shall not stand,
and it shall not come to pass.
8 For the head of Syria is Damascus,
and the head of Damascus is Rezin.
And within sixty-five years
Ephraim will be shattered from being ay
people.
9 And the head of Ephraim is Samaria, and the head of Samaria is the son of Remaliah.
If you[2] are not firm in faith,
you will not be firm at all.'"

The Sign of Immanuel

10 †Again the Lord spoke to Ahaz, 11 †"Ask a sign of the Lord your[3] God;
let it be deep as Sheol or high as heaven." 12 †But Ahaz said, "I will not ask, and I will not put the Lord to the test." 13 †And he[4] said, "Hear then, O house of David! Is it too little for you to weary men, that you weary my God also? 14 †Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign. Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel.[5] 15 †He shall eat curds and honey when he knows how to refuse the evil and choose the good. 16 †For before the boy knows how to refuse the evil and choose the good, the land whose two kings you dread will be deserted.
17 †The Lord will bring upon you and upon your people and upon your father's house such days as have not come since the day that Ephraim departed from Judah—the king of Assyria."

18 †In that day the Lord will whistle for the fly that is at the end of the streams of Egypt, and for the bee that is in the land of Assyria. 19 And they will all come and settle in the steep ravines, and in the clefts of the rocks, and on all the thornbushes, and on all the pastures.[1]

20 †In that day the Lord will shave with a razor that is hired beyond the River—with the king of Assyria—the head and the hair of the feet, and it will sweep away the beard also.

21 †In that day a man will keep alive a young cow and two sheep, 22 and because of the abundance of milk that they give, he will eat curds, for everyone who is left in the land will eat curds and honey.

23 †In that day every place where there used to be a thousand vines, worth a thousand shekels[2] of silver, will become briers and thorns. 24 †With bow and arrows a man will come there, for all the land will be briers and thorns.
25 †And as for all the hills that used to be hoed with a hoe, you will not come there for fear of briers and thorns, but they will become a place where cattle are let loose and where sheep tread.

The Coming Assyrian Invasion

8 [1]†† Then the Lord said to me, “Take a large tablet and write on it in common characters,[3] ‘Belonging to Maher-shalal-hash-baz.’[4] [2]† And I will get reliable witnesses, Uriah the priest and Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah, to attest for me.”

[3]† And I went to the prophetess, and she conceived and bore a son. Then the Lord said to me, “Call his name Maher-shalal-hash-baz; [4]† for before the boy knows how to cry ‘My father’ or ‘My mother,’ the wealth of Damascus and the spoil of Samaria will be carried away before the king of Assyria.”

[5]The Lord spoke to me again: [6]† “Because this people has refused the waters of Shiloah that flow gently, and rejoice over Rezin and the son of Remaliah, [7]† therefore, behold, the Lord is bringing up against them the waters of the River, mighty and many, the king of Assyria and all his glory.
And it will rise over all its channels and go over all its banks, [8]† and it will sweep on into Judah, it will overflow and pass on, reaching even to the neck, and its outspread wings will fill the breadth of your land, O Immanuel.”

[9]† Be broken,[1] you peoples, and be shattered;[2]
give ear, all you far countries;
strap on your armor and be shattered;
strap on your armor and be shattered.
[10]† Take counsel together, but it will come to
nothing;
speak a word, but it will not stand,
for God is with us.[3]

Fear God, Wait for the Lord

11 ‡ †For the Lord spoke thus to me with his strong hand upon me, and warned me not to walk in the way of this people, saying: 12 †“Do not call conspiracy all that this people calls conspiracy, and do not fear what they fear, nor be in dread. 13 †But the Lord of hosts, him you shall honor as holy.
Let him be your fear, and let him be your dread. 14 †And he will become a sanctuary and a stone of offense and a rock of stumbling to both houses of Israel, a trap and a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 15 And many shall stumble on it. They shall fall and be broken; they shall be snared and taken.”

16 †Bind up the testimony; seal the teaching[4] among my disciples. 17 †I will wait for the Lord, who is hiding his face from the house of Jacob, and I will hope in him. 18 †Behold, I and the children whom the Lord has given me are signs and portents in Israel from the Lord of hosts, who dwells on Mount Zion. 19 †And when they say to you, “Inquire of the mediums and the necromancers who chirp and mutter,” should not a people inquire of their God? Should they inquire of the dead on behalf of the living? 20 † To the teaching and to the testimony! If they will not speak according to this word, it is because they have no dawn. 21 ‡ They will pass through the land,[5] greatly distressed and hungry. And when they are hungry, they will be enraged and will speak contemptuously against[6] their king and their God, and turn their faces upward. 22 And they will look to the earth, but behold, distress and darkness, the gloom of anguish. And they will be thrust into thick darkness.

For to Us a Child Is Born

9 [1]†† [1] But there will be no gloom for her who was in anguish. In the former time he brought into contempt the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, but in the latter time he has made glorious the way of the sea, the land beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations.[2]

[2]† [3] The people who walked in darkness
have seen a great light;
those who dwelt in a land of deep darkness,
on them has light shined.
[3]† You have multiplied the nation;
you have increased its joy;
they rejoice before you
as with joy at the harvest,
as they are glad when they divide the spoil.
[4]† For the yoke of his burden,
and the staff for his shoulder,
the rod of his oppressor,
you have broken as on the day of Midian.
[5]† For every boot of the tramping warrior in battle tumult
and every garment rolled in blood
will be burned as fuel for the fire.
[6]† For to us a child is born,
to us a son is given;
and the government shall be upon[4] his shoulder,
and his name shall be called[5]
Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace.
[7]† Of the increase of his government and of peace
there will be no end,

on the throne of David and over his kingdom,
to establish it and to uphold it with justice and with righteousness
from this time forth and forevermore.
The zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this.

Judgment on Arrogance and Oppression

8 The Lord has sent a word against Jacob,
and it will fall on Israel;
9 and all the people will know,
Ephraim and the inhabitants of Samaria,
who say in pride and in arrogance of heart:
10 "The bricks have fallen,
but we will build with dressed stones;
the sycamores have been cut down,
but we will put cedars in their place."
11 But the Lord raises the adversaries of Rezin
against him,
and stirs up his enemies.
12 The Syrians on the east and the Philistines on the west
devour Israel with open mouth.
For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

13 The people did not turn to him who struck
them,
nor inquire of the Lord of hosts.
14 So the Lord cut off from Israel head and tail,
palm branch and reed in one day—15 the elder and honored man is the head, and the prophet who teaches lies is the tail;
16 for those who guide this people have been leading them astray,
and those who are guided by them are swallowed up.
17 Therefore the Lord does not rejoice over their young men,

and has no compassion on their fatherless
and widows;
for everyone is godless and an evildoer,
and every mouth speaks folly.[1]
For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

18† For wickedness burns like a fire;
it consumes briers and thorns;
it kindles the thickets of the forest,
and they roll upward in a column of smoke.
19† Through the wrath of the Lord of hosts
the land is scorched,
and the people are like fuel for the fire;
no one spares another.
20† They slice meat on the right, but are still hungry,
and they devour on the left, but are not satisfied;
each devours the flesh of his own arm,
21† Manasseh devours Ephraim, and Ephraim devours Manasseh;
together they are against Judah.
For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

10 1† Woe to those who decree iniquitous decrees, and the writers who keep writing oppression,

2† to turn aside the needy from justice and to rob the poor of my people of their
right,
that widows may be their spoil,
and that they may make the fatherless their prey!
3† What will you do on the day of punishment,

in the ruin that will come from afar?
To whom will you flee for help,
and where will you leave your wealth?
4† Nothing remains but to crouch among the prisoners
or fall among the slain.
For all this his anger has not turned away,
and his hand is stretched out still.

Judgment on Arrogant Assyria

5 ‡† Ah, Assyria, the rod of my anger;
the staff in their hands is my fury!
6 † Against a godless nation I send him, and against the people of my wrath I command him,
to take spoil and seize plunder,
and to tread them down like the mire of the streets.
7 † But he does not so intend,
and his heart does not so think;
but it is in his heart to destroy,
and to cut off nations not a few;
8 for he says:
"Are not my commanders all kings?
9 † Is not Calno like Carchemish?
Is not Hamath like Arpad?
Is not Samaria like Damascus?
10 † As my hand has reached to the kingdoms of
the idols,
whose carved images were greater than those of Jerusalem and Samaria, 11 † shall I not do to Jerusalem and her idols
as I have done to Samaria and her images?"

12 † When the Lord has finished all his work on Mount Zion and on Jerusalem, he[1] will punish the speech of the arrogant heart of the king of Assyria and the boastful look in his eyes. 13 †For he says:

"By the strength of my hand I have done it,
and by my wisdom, for I have
understanding;
I remove the boundaries of peoples,
and plunder their treasures;

like a bull I bring down those who sit on thrones.
14 My hand has found like a nest
the wealth of the peoples;
and as one gathers eggs that have been forsaken,
so I have gathered all the earth;
and there was none that moved a wing
or opened the mouth or chirped.”

15 Shall the axe boast over him who hews
with it,
or the saw magnify itself against him who wields it?
As if a rod should wield him who lifts it,
or as if a staff should lift him who is not wood!
16 Therefore the Lord God of hosts will send wasting sickness among his stout
warriors,
and under his glory a burning will be kindled,
like the burning of fire.
17 The light of Israel will become a fire,
and his Holy One a flame,
and it will burn and devour
his thorns and briers in one day.
18 The glory of his forest and of his fruitful land
the Lord will destroy, both soul and body,
and it will be as when a sick man wastes
away.
19 The remnant of the trees of his forest will be so few
that a child can write them down.

The Remnant of Israel Will Return

20 ‡ † In that day the remnant of Israel and the survivors of the house of Jacob will no more lean on him who struck them, but will lean on the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, in truth. 21 † A remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob, to the mighty God. 22 † For though your people Israel be as the sand of the sea, only a remnant of them will return. Destruction is decreed, overflowing with righteousness. 23 † For the Lord God of hosts will make a full end, as decreed, in the midst of all the earth.

24 † Therefore thus says the Lord God of hosts: "O my people, who dwell in Zion, be not afraid of the Assyrians when they strike with the rod and lift up their staff against you as the Egyptians did. 25 † For in a very little while my fury will come to an end, and my anger will be directed to their destruction. 26 † And the Lord of hosts will wield against them a whip, as when he struck Midian at the rock of Oreb. And his staff will be over the sea, and he will lift it as he did in Egypt. 27 † And in that day his burden will depart from your shoulder, and his yoke from your neck; and the yoke will be broken because of the fat."[1]

28 ‡ He has come to Aiath;
he has passed through Migron;
at Michmash he stores his baggage;
29 † they have crossed over the pass;
at Geba they lodge for the night;
Ramah trembles;
Gibeah of Saul has fled.
30 Cry aloud, O daughter of Gallim!
Give attention, O Laishah!
O poor Anathoth!
31 Madmenah is in flight;
the inhabitants of Gebim flee for safety.
32 † This very day he will halt at Nob;
he will shake his fist

at the mount of the daughter of Zion,
the hill of Jerusalem.

33† Behold, the Lord God of hosts will lop the boughs with terrifying power;
the great in height will be hewn down,
and the lofty will be brought low.
34† He will cut down the thickets of the forest
with an axe,
and Lebanon will fall by the Majestic One.

The Righteous Reign of the Branch

11 [1]† There shall come forth a shoot from the stump of Jesse,
and a branch from his roots shall bear
fruit.

[2]†† And the Spirit of the Lord shall rest upon
him,
the Spirit of wisdom and understanding,
the Spirit of counsel and might,
the Spirit of knowledge and the fear of the Lord.
[3]†† And his delight shall be in the fear of the Lord.
He shall not judge by what his eyes see,
or decide disputes by what his ears hear, [4]† but with righteousness he shall judge the
poor,
and decide with equity for the meek of the
earth;
and he shall strike the earth with the rod of
his mouth,
and with the breath of his lips he shall kill
the wicked.
[5]† Righteousness shall be the belt of his waist,
and faithfulness the belt of his loins.

[6]† The wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the young goat,
and the calf and the lion and the fattened calf
together;
and a little child shall lead them.

7 The cow and the bear shall graze;
their young shall lie down together;
and the lion shall eat straw like the ox.
8 The nursing child shall play over the hole of the cobra,
and the weaned child shall put his hand on the adder's den.
9† They shall not hurt or destroy
in all my holy mountain;
for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of
the LORD
as the waters cover the sea.

10†In that day the root of Jesse, who shall stand as a signal for the peoples —of him shall the nations inquire, and his resting place shall be glorious.
11†In that day the Lord will extend his hand yet a second time to recover the remnant that remains of his people, from Assyria, from Egypt, from Pathros, from Cush,[1] from Elam, from Shinar, from Hamath, and from the coastlands of the sea.

12† He will raise a signal for the nations and will assemble the banished of Israel,
and gather the dispersed of Judah
from the four corners of the earth.
13† The jealousy of Ephraim shall depart,
and those who harass Judah shall be cut off;
Ephraim shall not be jealous of Judah,
and Judah shall not harass Ephraim.
14† But they shall swoop down on the shoulder of the Philistines in the west,
and together they shall plunder the people of the east.
They shall put out their hand against Edom
and Moab,
and the Ammonites shall obey them.
15† And the LORD will utterly destroy[2]

the tongue of the Sea of Egypt, and will wave his hand over the River with his scorching breath,[3]
and strike it into seven channels,
and he will lead people across in sandals.
16 And there will be a highway from Assyria for the remnant that remains of his people,
as there was for Israel
when they came up from the land of Egypt.

The Lord Is My Strength and My Song

12 1 You[1] will say in that day:
“ I will give thanks to you, O Lord,
for though you were angry with me,
your anger turned away,
that you might comfort me.

2 “Behold, God is my salvation;
I will trust, and will not be afraid;
for the Lord God [2] is my strength and my song,
and he has become my salvation.”

3 With joy you[3] will draw water from the wells of salvation. 4 And you will say in that day:

“Give thanks to the Lord,
call upon his name,
make known his deeds among the peoples,
proclaim that his name is exalted.

5 “Sing praises to the Lord, for he has done
gloriously;
let this be made known[4] in all the earth.
6 Shout, and sing for joy, O inhabitant of Zion, for great in your[5] midst is the Holy One of Israel.”

The Judgment of Babylon

13 [1]† The oracle concerning Babylon which Isaiah the son of Amoz saw.

[2]† On a bare hill raise a signal;
cry aloud to them;
wave the hand for them to enter
the gates of the nobles.
[3]† I myself have commanded my consecrated ones,
and have summoned my mighty men to execute my anger,
my proudly exulting ones.[6]

[4]†† The sound of a tumult is on the mountains
as of a great multitude!
The sound of an uproar of kingdoms,
of nations gathering together!
The Lord of hosts is mustering
a host for battle.
[5]† They come from a distant land,
from the end of the heavens,
the Lord and the weapons of his indignation,
to destroy the whole land.[7]

[6]† Wail, for the day of the Lord is near;
as destruction from the Almighty[8] it will come!
[7]† Therefore all hands will be feeble,
and every human heart will melt.
[8]† They will be dismayed:
pangs and agony will seize them;

they will be in anguish like a woman in labor.
They will look aghast at one another;
their faces will be aflame.

9 Behold, the day of the LORD comes,
cruel, with wrath and fierce anger,
to make the land a desolation
and to destroy its sinners from it.
10 For the stars of the heavens and their constellations
will not give their light;
the sun will be dark at its rising,
and the moon will not shed its light.
11 I will punish the world for its evil,
and the wicked for their iniquity;
I will put an end to the pomp of the arrogant,
and lay low the pompous pride of the ruthless.
12 I will make people more rare than fine gold,
and mankind than the gold of Ophir.
13 Therefore I will make the heavens tremble,
and the earth will be shaken out of its place,
at the wrath of the LORD of hosts
in the day of his fierce anger.
14 And like a hunted gazelle,
or like sheep with none to gather them,
each will turn to his own people,
and each will flee to his own land.
15 Whoever is found will be thrust through,
and whoever is caught will fall by the sword.
16 Their infants will be dashed in pieces
before their eyes;
their houses will be plundered
and their wives ravished.

17 † Behold, I am stirring up the Medes against
them,
who have no regard for silver
and do not delight in gold.
18 † Their bows will slaughter[1] the young men;
they will have no mercy on the fruit of the womb;
their eyes will not pity children.
19 † And Babylon, the glory of kingdoms,
the splendor and pomp of the Chaldeans,
will be like Sodom and Gomorrah
when God overthrew them.
20 †† It will never be inhabited or lived in for all generations;
no Arab will pitch his tent there;
no shepherds will make their flocks lie down there.
21 † But wild animals will lie down there,
and their houses will be full of howling creatures;
there ostriches[2] will dwell,
and there wild goats will dance.
22 Hyenas[1] will cry in its towers,
and jackals in the pleasant palaces;
its time is close at hand
and its days will not be prolonged.

The Restoration of Jacob

14 [1] ‡ ‡For the Lord will have compassion on Jacob and will again choose Israel, and will set them in their own land, and sojourners will join them and will attach themselves to the house of Jacob. [2] ‡And the peoples will take them and bring them to their place, and the house of Israel will possess them in the Lord's land as male and female slaves. They will take captive those who were their captors, and rule over those who oppressed
them.

Israel's Remnant Taunts Babylon

3 ‡ † When the Lord has given you rest from your pain and turmoil and the hard service with which you were made to serve, 4 ‡ † you will take up this taunt against the king of Babylon:

"How the oppressor has ceased,
the insolent fury[2] ceased!
5 † The Lord has broken the staff of the wicked,
the scepter of rulers,
6 that struck the peoples in wrath
with unceasing blows,
that ruled the nations in anger
with unrelenting persecution.
7 † The whole earth is at rest and quiet;
they break forth into singing.
8 † The cypresses rejoice at you,
the cedars of Lebanon, saying,
' Since you were laid low,
no woodcutter comes up against us.'
9 ‡ Sheol beneath is stirred up to meet you when you come;
it rouses the shades to greet you,
all who were leaders of the earth;
it raises from their thrones
all who were kings of the nations.
10 All of them will answer
and say to you:
'You too have become as weak as we!
You have become like us!'
11 † Your pomp is brought down to Sheol,
the sound of your harps;
maggots are laid as a bed beneath you,
and worms are your covers.

12 “How you are fallen from heaven,
O Day Star, son of Dawn!
How you are cut down to the ground,
you who laid the nations low!
13 You said in your heart,
‘I will ascend to heaven;
above the stars of God
I will set my throne on high;
I will sit on the mount of assembly
in the far reaches of the north;[1] 14 I will ascend above the heights of the clouds;
I will make myself like the Most High.’
15 But you are brought down to Sheol,
to the far reaches of the pit.
16 Those who see you will stare at you
and ponder over you:
‘Is this the man who made the earth tremble,
who shook kingdoms,
17 who made the world like a desert
and overthrew its cities,
who did not let his prisoners go home?’
18 All the kings of the nations lie in glory,
each in his own tomb;[2] 19 but you are cast out, away from your grave,
like a loathed branch,
clothed with the slain, those pierced by the sword,
who go down to the stones of the pit,
like a dead body trampled underfoot.
20 You will not be joined with them in burial,
because you have destroyed your land,
you have slain your people.

“May the offspring of evildoers nevermore be named!

21 † Prepare slaughter for his sons
because of the guilt of their fathers,
lest they rise and possess the earth,
and fill the face of the world with cities.”

22 †“I will rise up against them,” declares the Lord of hosts, “and will cut off from Babylon name and remnant, descendants and posterity,” declares the Lord. 23 †“And I will make it a possession of the hedgehog,[3] and pools of water, and I will sweep it with the broom of destruction,” declares the Lord of hosts.

An Oracle Concerning Assyria

24 The Lord of hosts has sworn:
"As I have planned,
so shall it be,
and as I have purposed,
so shall it stand,
25 that I will break the Assyrian in my land,
and on my mountains trample him
underfoot;
and his yoke shall depart from them,
and his burden from their shoulder."

26 This is the purpose that is purposed concerning the whole earth,
and this is the hand that is stretched out over all the nations.
27 For the Lord of hosts has purposed,
and who will annul it?
His hand is stretched out,
and who will turn it back?

An Oracle Concerning Philistia

28 In the year that King Ahaz died came this oracle:

29 Rejoice not, O Philistia, all of you,
that the rod that struck you is broken,
for from the serpent's root will come forth an adder,
and its fruit will be a flying fiery serpent.
30 And the firstborn of the poor will graze,
and the needy lie down in safety;
but I will kill your root with famine,
and your remnant it will slay.
31 Wail, O gate; cry out, O city;
melt in fear, O Philistia, all of you!
For smoke comes out of the north,
and there is no straggler in his ranks.

32 What will one answer the messengers of the nation?
"The LORD has founded Zion, and in her the afflicted of his people find refuge."

An Oracle Concerning Moab

15 [1]† An oracle concerning Moab.

Because Ar of Moab is laid waste in a night,
Moab is undone;
because Kir of Moab is laid waste in a night,
Moab is undone.
[2]† He has gone up to the temple,[1] and to Dibon,
to the high places[2] to weep;
over Nebo and over Medeba Moab wails.
On every head is baldness;
every beard is shorn;
[3]† in the streets they wear sackcloth;
on the housetops and in the squares
everyone wails and melts in tears.
[4]† Heshbon and Elealeh cry out;
their voice is heard as far as Jahaz;
therefore the armed men of Moab cry
aloud;
his soul trembles.
[5]† My heart cries out for Moab;
her fugitives flee to Zoar,
to Eglath-shelishiyah.
For at the ascent of Luhith
they go up weeping;
on the road to Horonaim
they raise a cry of destruction;
[6]† the waters of Nimrim
are a desolation;
the grass is withered, the vegetation fails,
the greenery is no more.
[7]† Therefore the abundance they have gained and what they have laid up they carry away

over the Brook of the Willows.
8† For a cry has gone
around the land of Moab;
her wailing reaches to Eglaim;
her wailing reaches to Beer-elim.
9† For the waters of Dibon[1] are full of blood;
for I will bring upon Dibon even more,
a lion for those of Moab who escape,
for the remnant of the land.

16 1†Send the lamb to the ruler of the land,
from Sela, by way of the desert,
to the mount of the daughter of Zion.

2† Like fleeing birds,
like a scattered nest,
so are the daughters of Moab
at the fords of the Arnon.

3‡† "Give counsel;
grant justice;
make your shade like night
at the height of noon;
shelter the outcasts;
do not reveal the fugitive;
4† let the outcasts of Moab
sojourn among you;
be a shelter to them[2]
from the destroyer.
When the oppressor is no more,
and destruction has ceased,
and he who tramples underfoot has vanished
from the land,

5† then a throne will be established in steadfast
love,
and on it will sit in faithfulness
in the tent of David
one who judges and seeks justice
and is swift to do righteousness.”

6† We have heard of the pride of Moab—
how proud he is!—
of his arrogance, his pride, and his insolence;
in his idle boasting he is not right.
7† Therefore let Moab wail for Moab,
let everyone wail.
Mourn, utterly stricken,
for the raisin cakes of Kir-hareseth.

8† For the fields of Heshbon languish,
and the vine of Sibmah;
the lords of the nations
have struck down its branches, which reached to Jazer
and strayed to the desert;
its shoots spread abroad
and passed over the sea.
9† Therefore I weep with the weeping of Jazer
for the vine of Sibmah;
I drench you with my tears,
O Heshbon and Elealeh;
for over your summer fruit and your harvest
the shout has ceased.
10 And joy and gladness are taken away from the fruitful field,
and in the vineyards no songs are sung,
no cheers are raised;
no treader treads out wine in the presses;

I have put an end to the shouting.
[11]† Therefore my inner parts moan like a lyre for Moab,
and my inmost self for Kir-hareseth.

[12]†And when Moab presents himself, when he wearies himself on the high place, when he comes to his sanctuary to pray, he will not prevail.

[13]†This is the word that the Lord spoke concerning Moab in the past. [14]†But now the Lord has spoken, saying, “In three years, like the years of a hired worker, the glory of Moab will be brought into contempt, in spite of all his great multitude, and those who remain will be very few and feeble.”

An Oracle Concerning Damascus

17 [1] An oracle concerning Damascus.

Behold, Damascus will cease to be a city
and will become a heap of ruins.
[2] The cities of Aroer are deserted;
they will be for flocks,
which will lie down, and none will make them afraid.
[3] The fortress will disappear from Ephraim,
and the kingdom from Damascus;
and the remnant of Syria will be like the glory of the children of Israel,
declares the Lord of hosts.

[4] And in that day the glory of Jacob will be brought low,
and the fat of his flesh will grow lean.
[5] And it shall be as when the reaper gathers standing grain and his arm harvests the ears,
and as when one gleans the ears of grain
in the Valley of Rephaim.
[6] Gleanings will be left in it,
as when an olive tree is beaten—
two or three berries
in the top of the highest bough,
four or five
on the branches of a fruit tree,
declares the Lord God of Israel.

7 †In that day man will look to his Maker, and his eyes will look on the Holy One of Israel. 8 †He will not look to the altars, the work of his hands, and he will not look on what his own fingers have made, either the Asherim or the altars of incense.
9 †In that day their strong cities will be like the deserted places of the wooded heights and the hilltops, which they deserted because of the children of Israel, and there will be desolation.

10 † For you have forgotten the God of your salvation and have not remembered the Rock of your refuge;
therefore, though you plant pleasant plants
and sow the vine-branch of a stranger, 11 † though you make them grow[1] on the day that you plant them,
and make them blossom in the morning that
you sow,
yet the harvest will flee away[2]
in a day of grief and incurable pain.

12 † Ah, the thunder of many peoples;
they thunder like the thundering of the sea!
Ah, the roar of nations;
they roar like the roaring of mighty waters!
13 † The nations roar like the roaring of many
waters,
but he will rebuke them, and they will flee
far away,
chased like chaff on the mountains before the wind
and whirling dust before the storm.
14 † At evening time, behold, terror!
Before morning, they are no more!
This is the portion of those who loot us,
and the lot of those who plunder us.

An Oracle Concerning Cush

18 [1]†† Ah, land of whirring wings that is beyond the rivers of Cush,[3]

[2]† which sends ambassadors by the sea,
in vessels of papyrus on the waters!
Go, you swift messengers,
to a nation, tall and smooth,
to a people feared near and far,
a nation mighty and conquering,
whose land the rivers divide.

[3]† All you inhabitants of the world,
you who dwell on the earth,
when a signal is raised on the mountains, look!
When a trumpet is blown, hear!
[4]† For thus the Lord said to me:
"I will quietly look from my dwelling
like clear heat in sunshine,
like a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest."
[5]† For before the harvest, when the blossom is over,
and the flower becomes a ripening grape,
he cuts off the shoots with pruning hooks,
and the spreading branches he lops off and clears away.
[6]† They shall all of them be left to the birds of prey of the mountains and to the beasts of the earth.
And the birds of prey will summer on them,
and all the beasts of the earth will winter on them.

[7]† At that time tribute will be brought to the Lord of hosts from a people tall and smooth,

 from a people feared near and far,
a nation mighty and conquering,
 whose land the rivers divide,

to Mount Zion, the place of the name of the LORD of hosts.

An Oracle Concerning Egypt

19 [1]†† An oracle concerning Egypt.

Behold, the Lord is riding on a swift cloud
and comes to Egypt;
and the idols of Egypt will tremble at his presence,
and the heart of the Egyptians will melt within them.
[2]† And I will stir up Egyptians against Egyptians,
and they will fight, each against another
and each against his neighbor,
city against city, kingdom against kingdom;
[3]† and the spirit of the Egyptians within them will be emptied out,
and I will confound[1] their counsel;
and they will inquire of the idols and the sorcerers,
and the mediums and the necromancers;
[4]† and I will give over the Egyptians into the hand of a hard master,
and a fierce king will rule over them,
declares the Lord God of hosts.

[5]† And the waters of the sea will be dried up,
and the river will be dry and parched,
[6] and its canals will become foul,
and the branches of Egypt's Nile will diminish and dry up,
reeds and rushes will rot away.
[7] There will be bare places by the Nile,
on the brink of the Nile,

and all that is sown by the Nile will be parched,
will be driven away, and will be no more.
8† The fishermen will mourn and lament,
all who cast a hook in the Nile;
and they will languish
who spread nets on the water.
9† The workers in combed flax will be in despair,
and the weavers of white cotton.
10† Those who are the pillars of the land will be crushed,
and all who work for pay will be grieved.

11† The princes of Zoan are utterly foolish;
the wisest counselors of Pharaoh give stupid
counsel.
How can you say to Pharaoh,
"I am a son of the wise,
a son of ancient kings"?
12 Where then are your wise men?
Let them tell you that they might know what the Lord of hosts has purposed against Egypt.
13† The princes of Zoan have become fools,
and the princes of Memphis are deluded;
those who are the cornerstones of her tribes
have made Egypt stagger.
14† The Lord has mingled within her a spirit of confusion,
and they will make Egypt stagger in all its deeds,
as a drunken man staggers in his vomit.
15† And there will be nothing for Egypt
that head or tail, palm branch or reed, may do.

Egypt, Assyria, Israel Blessed

16 ‡‡‡In that day the Egyptians will be like women, and tremble with fear before the hand that the Lord of hosts shakes over them. 17 †And the land of Judah will become a terror to the Egyptians. Everyone to whom it is mentioned will fear because of the purpose that the Lord of hosts has purposed against them.
18 ‡‡In that day there will be five cities in the land of Egypt that speak the language of Canaan and swear allegiance to the Lord of hosts. One of these will be called the City of Destruction.[1] 19 †In that day there will be an altar to the Lord in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar to the Lord at its border. 20 †It will be a sign and a witness to the Lord of hosts in the land of Egypt. When they cry to the Lord because of oppressors, he will send them a savior and defender, and deliver them.
21 † And the Lord will make himself known to the Egyptians, and the Egyptians will know the Lord in that day and worship with sacrifice and offering, and they will make vows to the Lord and perform them. 22 †And the Lord will strike Egypt, striking and healing, and they will return to the Lord, and he will listen to their pleas for mercy and heal them.
23 †In that day there will be a highway from Egypt to Assyria, and Assyria will come into Egypt, and Egypt into Assyria, and the Egyptians will worship with the Assyrians.
24 ‡‡In that day Israel will be the third with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth, 25 †whom the Lord of hosts has blessed, saying, “Blessed be Egypt my people, and Assyria the work of my hands, and Israel my inheritance.”

A Sign Against Egypt and Cush

20 [1] In the year that the commander in chief, who was sent by Sargon the king of Assyria, came to Ashdod and fought against it and captured it— [2] at that time the Lord spoke by Isaiah the son of Amoz, saying, "Go, and loose the sackcloth from your waist and take off your sandals from your feet," and he did so, walking naked and barefoot.
[3] Then the Lord said, "As my servant Isaiah has walked naked and barefoot for three years as a sign and a portent against Egypt and Cush,[1] [4] so shall the king of Assyria lead away the Egyptian captives and the Cushite exiles, both the young and the old, naked and barefoot, with buttocks uncovered, the nakedness of Egypt. [5] Then they shall be dismayed and ashamed because of Cush their hope and of Egypt their boast. [6] And the inhabitants of this coastland will say in that day, 'Behold, this is what has happened to those in whom we hoped and to whom we fled for help to be delivered from the king of Assyria! And we, how shall we escape?'"

Fallen, Fallen Is Babylon

21 [1]†The oracle concerning the wilderness of the sea.

As whirlwinds in the Negeb sweep on,
it comes from the wilderness,
from a terrible land.
[2]† A stern vision is told to me;
the traitor betrays,
and the destroyer destroys.
Go up, O Elam;
lay siege, O Media;
all the sighing she has caused
I bring to an end.
[3]† Therefore my loins are filled with anguish;
pangs have seized me,
like the pangs of a woman in labor;
I am bowed down so that I cannot hear;
I am dismayed so that I cannot see.
[4]† My heart staggers; horror has appalled me;
the twilight I longed for
has been turned for me into trembling.
[5]† They prepare the table,
they spread the rugs,[1]
they eat, they drink.
Arise, O princes;
oil the shield!
[6]† For thus the Lord said to me:
"Go, set a watchman;
let him announce what he sees.
[7]† When he sees riders, horsemen in pairs,
riders on donkeys, riders on camels,
let him listen diligently,
very diligently."

8† Then he who saw cried out:[2]
"Upon a watchtower I stand, O Lord, continually by day,
and at my post I am stationed
whole nights.
9† And behold, here come riders,
horsemen in pairs!"
And he answered,
"Fallen, fallen is Babylon;
and all the carved images of her gods
he has shattered to the ground."
10† O my threshed and winnowed one,
what I have heard from the LORD of hosts,
the God of Israel, I announce to you.

11†The oracle concerning Dumah.

One is calling to me from Seir,
"Watchman, what time of the night?
Watchman, what time of the night?"
12† The watchman says:
"Morning comes, and also the night.
If you will inquire, inquire;
come back again."

13†The oracle concerning Arabia.

In the thickets in Arabia you will lodge,
O caravans of Dedanites.
14† To the thirsty bring water;
meet the fugitive with bread,
O inhabitants of the land of Tema.
15 For they have fled from the swords,
from the drawn sword,
from the bent bow,
and from the press of battle.

16 †For thus the Lord said to me, “Within a year, according to the years of a hired worker, all the glory of Kedar will come to an end. 17And the remainder of the archers of the mighty men of the sons of Kedar will be few, for the Lord, the God of Israel, has spoken.”

An Oracle Concerning Jerusalem

22 [1]† The oracle concerning the valley of vision.

What do you mean that you have gone up,
all of you, to the housetops,
[2]† you who are full of shoutings,
tumultuous city, exultant town?
Your slain are not slain with the sword
or dead in battle.
[3]† All your leaders have fled together;
without the bow they were captured.
All of you who were found were captured,
though they had fled far away.
[4]† Therefore I said:
"Look away from me;
let me weep bitter tears;
do not labor to comfort me concerning the destruction of the daughter of my people."

[5]† For the Lord God of hosts has a day of tumult and trampling and confusion
in the valley of vision,
a battering down of walls
and a shouting to the mountains.
[6]† And Elam bore the quiver
with chariots and horsemen,
and Kir uncovered the shield.
[7]† Your choicest valleys were full of chariots,
and the horsemen took their stand at the gates.
[8]† He has taken away the covering of Judah.

In that day you looked to the weapons of the House of the Forest, [9]† and you saw that the breaches of the city of David were many. You collected the waters of the lower pool, [10]† and you counted the houses of Jerusalem, and you broke down the houses to fortify the wall. [11]† You made a reservoir between the two walls for the water of the old pool. But you did not look to him who did it, or see him who planned it long ago.

[12]† In that day the Lord God of hosts called for weeping and mourning,
for baldness and wearing sackcloth;
[13]† and behold, joy and gladness, killing oxen and slaughtering sheep,
eating flesh and drinking wine.
"Let us eat and drink,
for tomorrow we die."
[14]† The Lord of hosts has revealed himself in my ears:
"Surely this iniquity will not be atoned for you until you die,"
says the Lord God of hosts.

[15]† Thus says the Lord God of hosts, "Come, go to this steward, to Shebna, who is over the household, and say to him: [16]† What have you to do here, and whom have you here, that you have cut out here a tomb for yourself, you who cut out a tomb on the height and carve a dwelling for yourself in the rock? [17]† Behold, the Lord will hurl you away violently, O you strong man. He will seize firm hold on you [18]† and whirl you around and around, and throw you like a ball into a wide land. There you shall die, and there shall be your glorious chariots, you shame of your master's house. [19]† I will thrust you from your office, and you will be pulled down from your station. [20]† In that day I will call my servant Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, [21]† and I will clothe him with your robe, and will bind your sash on him, and will commit your authority to his hand. And he shall be a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the house of Judah. [22]† And I will place on his shoulder the key of the house of David. He shall open, and none shall shut; and he shall shut, and none shall open. [23]† And I will fasten him like a peg in a secure place, and he will become a throne of honor to his father's house. [24]†And they will hang on him the whole honor of his father's house, the offspring and issue, every small vessel, from the cups to all the flagons. [25]†In that day, declares the Lord of hosts, the peg that was fastened in a secure place will give way, and it will be cut down and fall, and the load that was on it will be cut off, for the Lord has spoken."

An Oracle Concerning Tyre and Sidon

23 [1]† The oracle concerning Tyre.

Wail, O ships of Tarshish,
for Tyre is laid waste, without house or harbor!
From the land of Cyprus[1]
it is revealed to them.
[2]† Be still, O inhabitants of the coast;
the merchants of Sidon, who cross the sea, have filled you.
[3]† And on many waters
your revenue was the grain of Shihor,
the harvest of the Nile;
you were the merchant of the nations.
[4]† Be ashamed, O Sidon, for the sea has spoken,
the stronghold of the sea, saying:
"I have neither labored nor given birth,
I have neither reared young men
nor brought up young women."
[5]† When the report comes to Egypt,
they will be in anguish[1] over the report about Tyre.
[6]† Cross over to Tarshish;
wail, O inhabitants of the coast!
[7]† Is this your exultant city whose origin is from days of old, whose feet carried her
to settle far away?
[8]† Who has purposed this against Tyre, the bestower of crowns,
whose merchants were princes,

whose traders were the honored of the earth?
9 † The Lord of hosts has purposed it,
to defile the pompous pride of all glory,[2]
to dishonor all the honored of the earth.
10 † Cross over your land like the Nile,
O daughter of Tarshish;
there is no restraint anymore.
11 † He has stretched out his hand over the sea;
he has shaken the kingdoms;
the Lord has given command concerning Canaan
to destroy its strongholds.
12 † And he said:
"You will no more exult,
O oppressed virgin daughter of Sidon;
arise, cross over to Cyprus,
even there you will have no rest."

13 †Behold the land of the Chaldeans! This is the people that was not;[3] Assyria destined it for wild beasts. They erected their siege towers, they stripped her palaces bare, they made her a ruin.

14 Wail, O ships of Tarshish,
for your stronghold is laid waste.

15 †In that day Tyre will be forgotten for seventy years, like the days[4] of one king. At the end of seventy years, it will happen to Tyre as in the song of the prostitute:

16 † "Take a harp;
go about the city,
O forgotten prostitute!
Make sweet melody;
sing many songs,
that you may be remembered."

[17] † At the end of seventy years, the Lord will visit Tyre, and she will return to her wages and will prostitute herself with all the kingdoms of the world on the face of the earth. [18] † Her merchandise and her wages will be holy to the Lord. It will not be stored or hoarded, but her merchandise will supply abundant food and fine clothing for those who dwell before the Lord.

Judgment on the Whole Earth

24 [1]†Behold, the Lord will empty the earth[5]
and make it desolate,
and he will twist its surface and scatter its inhabitants.

[2]† And it shall be, as with the people, so with the priest;
as with the slave, so with his master;
as with the maid, so with her mistress;
as with the buyer, so with the seller;
as with the lender, so with the borrower;
as with the creditor, so with the debtor.
[3] The earth shall be utterly empty and utterly plundered;
for the Lord has spoken this word.

[4]† The earth mourns and withers;
the world languishes and withers;
the highest people of the earth languish.
[5]† The earth lies defiled
under its inhabitants;
for they have transgressed the laws,
violated the statutes,
broken the everlasting covenant.
[6]† Therefore a curse devours the earth,
and its inhabitants suffer for their guilt;
therefore the inhabitants of the earth are scorched,
and few men are left.
[7] The wine mourns,
the vine languishes,
all the merry-hearted sigh.

8 The mirth of the tambourines is stilled,
the noise of the jubilant has ceased,
the mirth of the lyre is stilled.
9† No more do they drink wine with singing;
strong drink is bitter to those who drink it.
10†† The wasted city is broken down;
every house is shut up so that none can enter.
11 There is an outcry in the streets for lack of wine;
all joy has grown dark;
the gladness of the earth is banished.
12† Desolation is left in the city;
the gates are battered into ruins.
13† For thus it shall be in the midst of the earth
among the nations,
as when an olive tree is beaten,
as at the gleaning when the grape harvest is done.

14†† They lift up their voices, they sing for joy;
over the majesty of the LORD they shout
from the west.[1]
15 Therefore in the east[2] give glory to the LORD;
in the coastlands of the sea, give glory to the name of the LORD, the God of Israel.
16† From the ends of the earth we hear songs of praise,
of glory to the Righteous One.
But I say, “I waste away,
I waste away. Woe is me!
For the traitors have betrayed,
with betrayal the traitors have betrayed.”

17 Terror and the pit and the snare[3]
are upon you, O inhabitant of the earth!
18† He who flees at the sound of the terror
shall fall into the pit,
and he who climbs out of the pit
shall be caught in the snare.
For the windows of heaven are opened,
and the foundations of the earth tremble.
19† The earth is utterly broken,
the earth is split apart,
the earth is violently shaken.
20 The earth staggers like a drunken man;
it sways like a hut;
its transgression lies heavy upon it,
and it falls, and will not rise again.

21† On that day the Lord will punish the host of heaven, in heaven,
and the kings of the earth, on the earth.
22† They will be gathered together
as prisoners in a pit;
they will be shut up in a prison,
and after many days they will be punished.
23† Then the moon will be confounded
and the sun ashamed,
for the Lord of hosts reigns
on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem,
and his glory will be before his elders.

God Will Swallow Up Death Forever

25 [1]†O Lord, you are my God;
I will exalt you; I will praise your name,
for you have done wonderful things,
plans formed of old, faithful and sure.

[2]† For you have made the city a heap,
the fortified city a ruin;
the foreigners' palace is a city no more;
it will never be rebuilt.
[3]† Therefore strong peoples will glorify you;
cities of ruthless nations will fear you.
[4]† For you have been a stronghold to the
poor,
a stronghold to the needy in his distress,
a shelter from the storm and a shade from the heat;
for the breath of the ruthless is like a storm
against a wall,
[5]† like heat in a dry place.
You subdue the noise of the foreigners;
as heat by the shade of a cloud,
so the song of the ruthless is put down.

[6]† On this mountain the Lord of hosts will make
for all peoples
a feast of rich food, a feast of well-aged
wine,
of rich food full of marrow, of aged wine
well refined.
[7]† And he will swallow up on this mountain
the covering that is cast over all peoples,
the veil that is spread over all nations.

[8] † He will swallow up death forever;
and the Lord God will wipe away tears from all faces,
and the reproach of his people he will take away from all the earth,
for the Lord has spoken.
[9] † It will be said on that day,
"Behold, this is our God; we have waited for him, that he might save us.
This is the Lord; we have waited for him;
let us be glad and rejoice in his salvation."
[10] † For the hand of the Lord will rest on this mountain,
and Moab shall be trampled down in his place,
as straw is trampled down in a dunghill.[1] [11] † And he will spread out his hands in the midst of it
as a swimmer spreads his hands out to swim,
but the Lord will lay low his pompous pride together with the skill[2] of his hands.
[12] † And the high fortifications of his walls he will bring down,
lay low, and cast to the ground, to the dust.

You Keep Him in Perfect Peace

26 [1]† In that day this song will be sung in the land of Judah:

"We have a strong city;
he sets up salvation
as walls and bulwarks.
[2]† Open the gates,
that the righteous nation that keeps faith
may enter in.
[3]† You keep him in perfect peace
whose mind is stayed on you,
because he trusts in you.
[4]† Trust in the Lord forever,
for the Lord God is an everlasting rock.
[5]† For he has humbled
the inhabitants of the height,
the lofty city.
He lays it low, lays it low to the ground,
casts it to the dust.
[6] The foot tramples it,
the feet of the poor,
the steps of the needy."

[7]† The path of the righteous is level;
you make level the way of the righteous.
[8]† In the path of your judgments,
O Lord, we wait for you;
your name and remembrance
are the desire of our soul.
[9]† My soul yearns for you in the night;
my spirit within me earnestly seeks you.
For when your judgments are in the earth,
the inhabitants of the world learn

righteousness.
10 If favor is shown to the wicked,
he does not learn righteousness;
in the land of uprightness he deals corruptly
and does not see the majesty of the LORD.
11 O LORD, your hand is lifted up,
but they do not see it.
Let them see your zeal for your people, and
be ashamed.
Let the fire for your adversaries consume
them.
12 O LORD, you will ordain peace for us,
for you have indeed done for us all our works.
13 O LORD our God,
other lords besides you have ruled over us,
but your name alone we bring to remembrance.
14 They are dead, they will not live;
they are shades, they will not arise;
to that end you have visited them with destruction
and wiped out all remembrance of them.
15 But you have increased the nation, O LORD, you have increased the nation; you are glorified;
you have enlarged all the borders of the land.

16 O LORD, in distress they sought you;
they poured out a whispered prayer
when your discipline was upon them.
17 Like a pregnant woman who writhes and cries out in her pangs
when she is near to giving birth,
so were we because of you, O LORD;
18 we were pregnant, we writhed,

but we have given birth to wind.
We have accomplished no deliverance in the
earth,
and the inhabitants of the world have not fallen.
19† Your dead shall live; their bodies shall rise.
You who dwell in the dust, awake and sing
for joy!
For your dew is a dew of light,
and the earth will give birth to the dead.
20†† Come, my people, enter your chambers,
and shut your doors behind you;
hide yourselves for a little while until the fury has passed by.
21† For behold, the LORD is coming out from his place
to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity,
and the earth will disclose the blood shed on it,
and will no more cover its slain.

The Redemption of Israel

27 [1]† In that day the Lord with his hard and great and strong sword will punish Leviathan the fleeing serpent, Leviathan the twisting serpent, and he will slay the dragon that is in the sea.

[2]† In that day,
"A pleasant vineyard,[1] sing of it!
[3] I, the Lord, am its keeper;
every moment I water it.
Lest anyone punish it,
I keep it night and day;
[4]† I have no wrath.
Would that I had thorns and briers to battle!
I would march against them,
I would burn them up together.
[5]† Or let them lay hold of my protection,
let them make peace with me,
let them make peace with me."

[6]† In days to come[2] Jacob shall take root, Israel shall blossom and put forth shoots
and fill the whole world with fruit.

[7]† Has he struck them as he struck those who struck them?
Or have they been slain as their slayers were slain?
[8]† Measure by measure,[3] by exile you contended
with them;
he removed them with his fierce breath[4] in the day of the east wind.
[9]† Therefore by this the guilt of Jacob will be
atoned for,

and this will be the full fruit of the removaly
of his sin:[5]
when he makes all the stones of the altars
like chalkstones crushed to pieces, no Asherim or incense altars will remain
standing.
10 † For the fortified city is solitary,
a habitation deserted and forsaken, like the
wilderness;
there the calf grazes;
there it lies down and strips its branches.
11 † When its boughs are dry, they are broken;
women come and make a fire of them.
For this is a people without discernment;
therefore he who made them will not have compassion on them;
he who formed them will show them no favor.

12 †In that day from the river Euphrates to the Brook of Egypt the Lord will thresh out the grain, and you will be gleaned one by one, O people of Israel. 13 †And in that day a great trumpet will be blown, and those who were lost in the land of Assyria and those who were driven out to the land of Egypt will come and worship the Lord on the holy mountain at Jerusalem.

Judgment on Ephraim and Jerusalem

28 [1]†† Ah, the proud crown of the drunkards of Ephraim,
and the fading flower of its glorious beauty,
which is on the head of the rich valley of those overcome with wine!

[2]† Behold, the Lord has one who is mighty and strong;
like a storm of hail, a destroying tempest,
like a storm of mighty, overflowing waters,
he casts down to the earth with his hand.
[3]† The proud crown of the drunkards of Ephraim
will be trodden underfoot;
[4]† and the fading flower of its glorious beauty,
which is on the head of the rich valley,
will be like a first-ripe fig before the summer:
when someone sees it, he swallows it
as soon as it is in his hand.

[5]†† In that day the Lord of hosts will be a crown of glory,[1]
and a diadem of beauty, to the remnant of his people,
[6]† and a spirit of justice to him who sits in judgment,
and strength to those who turn back the battle at the gate.

[7]† These also reel with wine
and stagger with strong drink;

the priest and the prophet reel with strong drink,
they are swallowed by[2] wine,
they stagger with strong drink,
they reel in vision,
they stumble in giving judgment.
8 For all tables are full of filthy vomit,
with no space left.

9† "To whom will he teach knowledge,
and to whom will he explain the message?
Those who are weaned from the milk,
those taken from the breast?
10† For it is precept upon precept, precept upon precept,
line upon line, line upon line,
here a little, there a little."

11† For by people of strange lips
and with a foreign tongue
the LORD will speak to this people, 12† to whom he has said,
"This is rest;
give rest to the weary;
and this is repose";
yet they would not hear.
13† And the word of the LORD will be to them
precept upon precept, precept upon precept,
line upon line, line upon line,
here a little, there a little,
that they may go, and fall backward,
and be broken, and snared, and taken.

A Cornerstone in Zion

14 Therefore hear the word of the Lord, you scoffers,
who rule this people in Jerusalem!
15 Because you have said, “We have made a covenant with death,
and with Sheol we have an agreement,
when the overwhelming whip passes through
it will not come to us,
for we have made lies our refuge,
and in falsehood we have taken shelter”;
16 therefore thus says the Lord God, “Behold, I am the one who has laid[1] as a foundation in Zion,
a stone, a tested stone,
a precious cornerstone, of a sure foundation:
‘Whoever believes will not be in haste.’
17 And I will make justice the line,
and righteousness the plumb line;
and hail will sweep away the refuge of lies,
and waters will overwhelm the shelter.”
18 Then your covenant with death will be annulled,
and your agreement with Sheol will not
stand;
when the overwhelming scourge passes through,
you will be beaten down by it.
19 As often as it passes through it will take you;
for morning by morning it will pass through,
by day and by night;
and it will be sheer terror to understand the message.
20 For the bed is too short to stretch oneself on,

and the covering too narrow to wrap oneself in.
21† For the LORD will rise up as on Mount Perazim;
as in the Valley of Gibeon he will be roused;
to do his deed—strange is his deed!
and to work his work—alien is his work!
22† Now therefore do not scoff, lest your bonds be made strong;
for I have heard a decree of destruction from the Lord GOD of hosts against the whole land.

23 Give ear, and hear my voice;
give attention, and hear my speech.
24† Does he who plows for sowing plow continually?
Does he continually open and harrow his ground?
25† When he has leveled its surface,
does he not scatter dill, sow cumin,
and put in wheat in rows
and barley in its proper place,
and emmer[1] as the border?
26 For he is rightly instructed;
his God teaches him.

27† Dill is not threshed with a threshing sledge,
nor is a cart wheel rolled over cumin,
but dill is beaten out with a stick,
and cumin with a rod.
28† Does one crush grain for bread?
No, he does not thresh it forever;[2]
when he drives his cart wheel over it with his horses, he does not crush it.

29 † This also comes from the LORD of hosts;
he is wonderful in counsel
and excellent in wisdom.

The Siege of Jerusalem

29 [1]† Ah, Ariel, Ariel,
the city where David encamped!
Add year to year;
let the feasts run their round.

[2]† Yet I will distress Ariel,
and there shall be moaning and lamentation,
and she shall be to me like an Ariel.[3] [3]† And I will encamp against you all around,
and will besiege you with towers
and I will raise siegeworks against you.
[4]† And you will be brought low; from the earth
you shall speak,
and from the dust your speech will be
bowed down;
your voice shall come from the ground like
the voice of a ghost,
and from the dust your speech shall whisper.

[5]† But the multitude of your foreign foes shall be like small dust,
and the multitude of the ruthless like passing chaff.
And in an instant, suddenly,
[6]† you will be visited by the Lord of
hosts
with thunder and with earthquake and great noise,
with whirlwind and tempest, and the flame
of a devouring fire.
[7]†† And the multitude of all the nations that fight against Ariel,
all that fight against her and her stronghold

and distress her,
shall be like a dream, a vision of the night.
8 † As when a hungry man dreams he is eating and awakes with his hunger not satisfied, or as when a thirsty man dreams he is drinking
and awakes faint, with his thirst not
quenched,
so shall the multitude of all the nations be that fight against Mount Zion.

9 † Astonish yourselves[1] and be astonished;
blind yourselves and be blind!
Be drunk, but not with wine;
stagger, but not with strong drink!
10 † For the LORD has poured out upon you
a spirit of deep sleep,
and has closed your eyes (the prophets),
and covered your heads (the seers).

11 †And the vision of all this has become to you like the words of a book that is sealed. When men give it to one who can read, saying, “Read this,” he says, “I cannot, for it is sealed.” 12And when they give the book to one who cannot read, saying, “Read this,” he says, “I cannot read.”

13 † And the Lord said: “Because this people draw near with their
mouth
and honor me with their lips,
while their hearts are far from me,
and their fear of me is a commandment
taught by men,
14 † therefore, behold, I will again
do wonderful things with this people,
with wonder upon wonder;
and the wisdom of their wise men shall

perish,
and the discernment of their discerning men
shall be hidden.”

15 † Ah, you who hide deep from the Lord your counsel,
whose deeds are in the dark,
and who say, “Who sees us? Who knows us?”
16 † You turn things upside down!
Shall the potter be regarded as the clay,
that the thing made should say of its maker,
“He did not make me”;
or the thing formed say of him who formed it,
“He has no understanding”?

17 † Is it not yet a very little while until Lebanon shall be turned into a fruitful
field,
and the fruitful field shall be regarded as a forest?
18 †† In that day the deaf shall hear
the words of a book,
and out of their gloom and darkness
the eyes of the blind shall see.
19 † The meek shall obtain fresh joy in the Lord, and the poor among mankind shall exult in
the Holy One of Israel.
20 † For the ruthless shall come to nothing
and the scoffer cease,
and all who watch to do evil shall be cut off, 21 † who by a word make a man out to be an offender,
and lay a snare for him who reproves in the gate,

and with an empty plea turn aside him who is in the right.

22 †Therefore thus says the Lord, who redeemed Abraham, concerning the house of Jacob:

"Jacob shall no more be ashamed,
no more shall his face grow pale.
23 † For when he sees his children,
the work of my hands, in his midst,
they will sanctify my name;
they will sanctify the Holy One of Jacob
and will stand in awe of the God of Israel.
24 † And those who go astray in spirit will come to understanding,
and those who murmur will accept instruction."

Do Not Go Down to Egypt

30 1 “Ah, stubborn children,” declares the
LORD,

“who carry out a plan, but not mine,
and who make an alliance,[1] but not of my Spirit,
that they may add sin to sin;
2 who set out to go down to Egypt,
without asking for my direction,
to take refuge in the protection of Pharaoh
and to seek shelter in the shadow of Egypt!
3 Therefore shall the protection of Pharaoh turn to your shame,
and the shelter in the shadow of Egypt to your humiliation.
4 For though his officials are at Zoan
and his envoys reach Hanes, 5 everyone comes to shame
through a people that cannot profit them,
that brings neither help nor profit,
but shame and disgrace.”

6 An oracle on the beasts of the Negeb.

Through a land of trouble and anguish,
from where come the lioness and the lion,
the adder and the flying fiery serpent,
they carry their riches on the backs of donkeys,
and their treasures on the humps of camels,
to a people that cannot profit them.
7 Egypt’s help is worthless and empty;

therefore I have called her “Rahab who sits still.”

A Rebellious People

8 And now, go, write it before them on a tablet
and inscribe it in a book, that it may be for the time to come
as a witness forever.[1] 9 For they are a rebellious people, lying children,
children unwilling to hear
the instruction of the Lord;
10 who say to the seers, “Do not see,”
and to the prophets, “Do not prophesy to us
what is right;
speak to us smooth things,
prophesy illusions,
11 leave the way, turn aside from the path,
let us hear no more about the Holy One of Israel.”
12 Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel, “Because you despise this word and trust in oppression and perverseness
and rely on them,
13 therefore this iniquity shall be to you like a breach in a high wall, bulging out, and about to collapse,
whose breaking comes suddenly, in an instant;
14 and its breaking is like that of a potter’s vessel
that is smashed so ruthlessly
that among its fragments not a shard is found with which to take fire from the hearth,
or to dip up water out of the cistern.”
15 For thus said the Lord God, the Holy One of Israel,

“In returning[2] and rest you shall be saved;
in quietness and in trust shall be your strength.”
But you were unwilling, 16 † and you said, “No! We will flee upon horses”;
therefore you shall flee away;
and, “We will ride upon swift steeds”;
therefore your pursuers shall be swift.
17 † A thousand shall flee at the threat of one;
at the threat of five you shall flee,
till you are left
like a flagstaff on the top of a mountain,
like a signal on a hill.

The Lord Will Be Gracious

18 ‡† Therefore the Lord waits to be gracious to you, and therefore he exalts himself to show
mercy to you.
For the Lord is a God of justice;
blessed are all those who wait for him.

19 †For a people shall dwell in Zion, in Jerusalem; you shall weep no more. He will surely be gracious to you at the sound of your cry. As soon as he hears it, he answers you. 20 †And though the Lord give you the bread of adversity and the water of affliction, yet your Teacher will not hide himself anymore, but your eyes shall see your Teacher. 21 †And your ears shall hear a word behind you, saying, “This is the way, walk in it,” when you turn to the right or when you turn to the left. 22 †Then you will defile your carved idols overlaid with silver and your gold-plated metal images. You will scatter them as unclean things. You will say to them, “Be gone!”

23 ‡† And he will give rain for the seed with which you sow the ground, and bread, the produce of the ground, which will be rich and plenteous. In that day your livestock will graze in large pastures, 24 †and the oxen and the donkeys that work the ground will eat seasoned fodder, which has been winnowed with shovel and fork. 25 †And on every lofty mountain and every high hill there will be brooks running with water, in the day of the great slaughter, when the towers fall. 26 †Moreover, the light of the moon will be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun will be sevenfold, as the light of seven days, in the day when the Lord binds up the brokenness of his people, and heals the wounds inflicted by his blow.

27 † Behold, the name of the Lord comes from afar, burning with his anger, and in thick rising smoke;[1]
his lips are full of fury,
and his tongue is like a devouring fire;
28 † his breath is like an overflowing stream that reaches up to the neck;
to sift the nations with the sieve of destruction,

and to place on the jaws of the peoples a bridle that leads
astray.

29 † You shall have a song as in the night when a holy feast is kept, and gladness of heart, as when one sets out to the sound of the flute to go to the mountain of the Lord, to the Rock of Israel. 30 And the Lord will cause his majestic voice to be heard and the descending blow of his arm to be seen, in furious anger and a flame of devouring fire, with a cloudburst and storm and hailstones. 31 ‡ † The Assyrians will be terror-stricken at the voice of the Lord, when he strikes with his rod. 32 † And every stroke of the appointed staff that the Lord lays on them will be to the sound of tambourines and lyres. Battling with brandished arm, he will fight with them. 33 † For a burning place[2] has long been prepared; indeed, for the king it is made ready, its pyre made deep and wide, with fire and wood in abundance; the breath of the Lord, like a stream of sulfur, kindles it.

Woe to Those Who Go Down to Egypt

31 [1]†Woe to those who go down to Egypt for help and rely on horses,
who trust in chariots because they are many
and in horsemen because they are very strong, but do not look to the Holy One of Israel
or consult the Lord!

[2]† And yet he is wise and brings disaster;
he does not call back his words,
but will arise against the house of the evildoers
and against the helpers of those who work
iniquity.
[3]† The Egyptians are man, and not God,
and their horses are flesh, and not spirit.
When the Lord stretches out his hand,
the helper will stumble, and he who is helped will fall,
and they will all perish together.

[4]† For thus the Lord said to me,
"As a lion or a young lion growls over his prey,
and when a band of shepherds is called out
against him
he is not terrified by their shouting or daunted at their noise,
so the Lord of hosts will come down to fight[1] on Mount Zion and on its hill.
[5]† Like birds hovering, so the Lord of hosts
will protect Jerusalem;
he will protect and deliver it;
he will spare and rescue it."
[6]†Turn to him from whom people[2] have deeply revolted, O children of Israel. [7]†For in that day everyone shall cast away his idols of silver and his idols of gold, which your hands have sinfully made for you.

[8]† “And the Assyrian shall fall by a sword, not of
man;
and a sword, not of man, shall devour him;
and he shall flee from the sword,
and his young men shall be put to forced labor.
[9]† His rock shall pass away in terror,
and his officers desert the standard in panic,”
declares the Lord, whose fire is in Zion,
and whose furnace is in Jerusalem.

A King Will Reign in Righteousness

32 [1]†† Behold, a king will reign in righteousness, and princes will rule in justice.

[2]† Each will be like a hiding place from the wind,
a shelter from the storm,
like streams of water in a dry place,
like the shade of a great rock in a weary
land.
[3]† Then the eyes of those who see will not be closed,
and the ears of those who hear will give attention.
[4]† The heart of the hasty will understand and
know,
and the tongue of the stammerers will hasten to speak distinctly.
[5]† The fool will no more be called noble,
nor the scoundrel said to be honorable.
[6]† For the fool speaks folly,
and his heart is busy with iniquity,
to practice ungodliness,
to utter error concerning the Lord,
to leave the craving of the hungry unsatisfied,
and to deprive the thirsty of drink.
[7] As for the scoundrel—his devices are evil;
he plans wicked schemes
to ruin the poor with lying words,
even when the plea of the needy is right.
[8] But he who is noble plans noble things,
and on noble things he stands.

Complacent Women Warned of Disaster

9 Rise up, you women who are at ease, hear my voice;
you complacent daughters, give ear to my speech.
10 In little more than a year
you will shudder, you complacent women;
for the grape harvest fails,
the fruit harvest will not come.
11 Tremble, you women who are at ease,
shudder, you complacent ones;
strip, and make yourselves bare,
and tie sackcloth around your waist.
12 Beat your breasts for the pleasant fields,
for the fruitful vine,
13 for the soil of my people growing up in thorns and briers,
yes, for all the joyous houses
in the exultant city.
14 For the palace is forsaken,
the populous city deserted;
the hill and the watchtower
will become dens forever,
a joy of wild donkeys,
a pasture of flocks;
15 until the Spirit is poured upon us from on high,
and the wilderness becomes a fruitful field,
and the fruitful field is deemed a forest.
16 Then justice will dwell in the wilderness,
and righteousness abide in the fruitful field.
17 And the effect of righteousness will be peace,
and the result of righteousness, quietness
and trust[1] forever.

18 My people will abide in a peaceful habitation,
in secure dwellings, and in quiet resting
places.
19† And it will hail when the forest falls down,
and the city will be utterly laid low.
20† Happy are you who sow beside all waters,
who let the feet of the ox and the donkey
range free.

O Lord, Be Gracious to Us

33 [1]†Ah, you destroyer,
who yourself have not been destroyed,
you traitor,
whom none has betrayed!
When you have ceased to destroy,
you will be destroyed;
and when you have finished betraying,
they will betray you.

[2]† O Lord, be gracious to us; we wait for you.
Be our arm every morning,
our salvation in the time of trouble.
[3]† At the tumultuous noise peoples flee;
when you lift yourself up, nations are scattered,
[4]† and your spoil is gathered as the caterpillar gathers;
as locusts leap, it is leapt upon.

[5]† The Lord is exalted, for he dwells on high;
he will fill Zion with justice and righteousness, [6]† and he will be the stability of your times,
abundance of salvation, wisdom, and
knowledge;
the fear of the Lord is Zion's[1] treasure.

[7]†† Behold, their heroes cry in the streets;
the envoys of peace weep bitterly.
[8] The highways lie waste;
the traveler ceases.
Covenants are broken;

cities[2] are despised;
there is no regard for man.
9 The land mourns and languishes;
Lebanon is confounded and withers away;
Sharon is like a desert,
and Bashan and Carmel shake off their leaves.

10 "Now I will arise," says the LORD,
"now I will lift myself up;
now I will be exalted.
11 You conceive chaff; you give birth to stubble;
your breath is a fire that will consume you.
12 And the peoples will be as if burned to lime, like thorns cut down, that are burned in the fire."

13 Hear, you who are far off, what I have done;
and you who are near, acknowledge my
might.
14 The sinners in Zion are afraid;
trembling has seized the godless:
"Who among us can dwell with the consuming fire?
Who among us can dwell with everlasting burnings?"
15 He who walks righteously and speaks uprightly,
who despises the gain of oppressions,
who shakes his hands, lest they hold a bribe,
who stops his ears from hearing of bloodshed
and shuts his eyes from looking on evil, 16 he will dwell on the heights;
his place of defense will be the fortresses of rocks;

his bread will be given him; his water will be sure.

17† Your eyes will behold the king in his beauty;
they will see a land that stretches afar.
18† Your heart will muse on the terror:
"Where is he who counted, where is he who weighed the tribute?
Where is he who counted the towers?"
19† You will see no more the insolent people,
the people of an obscure speech that you cannot comprehend, stammering in a tongue that you cannot understand.
20† Behold Zion, the city of our appointed feasts!
Your eyes will see Jerusalem,
an untroubled habitation, an immovable
tent,
whose stakes will never be plucked up,
nor will any of its cords be broken.
21† But there the LORD in majesty will be for us
a place of broad rivers and streams,
where no galley with oars can go,
nor majestic ship can pass.
22† For the LORD is our judge; the LORD is our lawgiver;
the LORD is our king; he will save us.

23† Your cords hang loose;
they cannot hold the mast firm in its place
or keep the sail spread out.
Then prey and spoil in abundance will be divided;
even the lame will take the prey.
24† And no inhabitant will say, "I am sick";

the people who dwell there will be forgiven
their iniquity.

Judgment on the Nations

34 1 Draw near, O nations, to hear,
and give attention, O peoples!
Let the earth hear, and all that fills it;
the world, and all that comes from it.

2† For the Lord is enraged against all the
nations,
and furious against all their host;
he has devoted them to destruction,[1] has given them over for slaughter.
3† Their slain shall be cast out,
and the stench of their corpses shall rise;
the mountains shall flow with their
blood.
4† All the host of heaven shall rot away,
and the skies roll up like a scroll.
All their host shall fall,
as leaves fall from the vine,
like leaves falling from the fig tree.

5† For my sword has drunk its fill in the heavens;
behold, it descends for judgment upon Edom, upon the people I have devoted to
destruction.
6† The Lord has a sword; it is sated with blood;
it is gorged with fat,
with the blood of lambs and goats,
with the fat of the kidneys of rams.
For the Lord has a sacrifice in Bozrah,
a great slaughter in the land of Edom.
7† Wild oxen shall fall with them,
and young steers with the mighty bulls.

Their land shall drink its fill of blood,
and their soil shall be gorged with fat.

8 † For the Lord has a day of vengeance,
a year of recompense for the cause of Zion.
9 † And the streams of Edom[1] shall be turned into pitch,
and her soil into sulfur;
her land shall become burning pitch.
10 † Night and day it shall not be quenched;
its smoke shall go up forever.
From generation to generation it shall lie waste;
none shall pass through it forever and ever.
11 † But the hawk and the porcupine[2] shall possess it,
the owl and the raven shall dwell in it.
He shall stretch the line of confusion[3] over it,
and the plumb line of emptiness.
12 † Its nobles—there is no one there to call it a
kingdom,
and all its princes shall be nothing.

13 Thorns shall grow over its strongholds,
nettles and thistles in its fortresses.
It shall be the haunt of jackals,
an abode for ostriches.[4] 14 † And wild animals shall meet with hyenas;
the wild goat shall cry to his fellow;
indeed, there the night bird[5] settles
and finds for herself a resting place.

15 † There the owl nests and lays and hatches and gathers her young in her shadow;

indeed, there the hawks are gathered,
each one with her mate.
16† Seek and read from the book of the LORD:
Not one of these shall be missing;
none shall be without her mate.
For the mouth of the LORD has commanded,
and his Spirit has gathered them.
17† He has cast the lot for them;
his hand has portioned it out to them with the line;
they shall possess it forever;
from generation to generation they shall dwell in it.

The Ransomed Shall Return

35 [1]† The wilderness and the dry land shall be glad;
the desert shall rejoice and blossom like the crocus;

[2]† it shall blossom abundantly
and rejoice with joy and singing.
The glory of Lebanon shall be given to it,
the majesty of Carmel and Sharon.
They shall see the glory of the LORD,
the majesty of our God.

[3]† Strengthen the weak hands,
and make firm the feeble knees.
[4]† Say to those who have an anxious heart,
"Be strong; fear not!
Behold, your God
will come with vengeance,
with the recompense of God.
He will come and save you."

[5]† Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened,
and the ears of the deaf unstopped;
[6] then shall the lame man leap like a deer,
and the tongue of the mute sing for joy.
For waters break forth in the wilderness,
and streams in the desert;
[7] the burning sand shall become a pool,
and the thirsty ground springs of water;
in the haunt of jackals, where they lie down,
the grass shall become reeds and rushes.

8 And a highway shall be there,
and it shall be called the Way of Holiness;
the unclean shall not pass over it.
It shall belong to those who walk on the way;
even if they are fools, they shall not go astray.[1] 9 No lion shall be there,
nor shall any ravenous beast come up on it;
they shall not be found there,
but the redeemed shall walk there.
10 And the ransomed of the Lord shall return
and come to Zion with singing;
everlasting joy shall be upon their heads;
they shall obtain gladness and joy,
and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

Sennacherib Invades Judah

36 [1]†In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, Sennacherib king of Assyria came up against all the fortified cities of Judah and took them. [2]† And the king of Assyria sent the Rabshakeh[2] from Lachish to King Hezekiah at Jerusalem, with a great army. And he stood by the conduit of the upper pool on the highway to the Washer's Field. [3]†And there came out to him Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder.

[4]† And the Rabshakeh said to them, "Say to Hezekiah, 'Thus says the great king, the king of Assyria: On what do you rest this trust of yours? [5]Do you think that mere words are strategy and power for war? In whom do you now trust, that you have rebelled against me? [6]†Behold, you are trusting in Egypt, that broken reed of a staff, which will pierce the hand of any man who leans on it. Such is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all who trust in him. [7]†But if you say to me, "We trust in the Lord our God," is it not he whose high places and altars Hezekiah has removed, saying to Judah and to Jerusalem, "You shall worship before this altar"? [8]† Come now, make a wager with my master the king of Assyria: I will give you two thousand horses, if you are able on your part to set riders on them. [9]How then can you repulse a single captain among the least of my master's servants, when you trust in Egypt for chariots and for horsemen? [10]†Moreover, is it without the Lord that I have come up against this land to destroy it? The Lord said to me, Go up against this land and destroy it.'"

[11]†Then Eliakim, Shebna, and Joah said to the Rabshakeh, "Please speak to your servants in Aramaic, for we understand it. Do not speak to us in the language of Judah within the hearing of the people who are on the wall." [12]†But the Rabshakeh said, "Has my master sent me to speak these words to your master and to you, and not to the men sitting on the wall, who are doomed with you to eat their own dung and drink their own urine?"

[13]† Then the Rabshakeh stood and called out in a loud voice in the language of Judah: "Hear the words of the great king, the king of Assyria! [14]Thus says the king: 'Do not let Hezekiah deceive you, for he will not be able to deliver you. 15Do not let Hezekiah make you trust in the Lord by saying, “The Lord will surely deliver us. This city will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.” 16†Do not listen to Hezekiah. For thus says the king of Assyria: Make your peace with me[1] and come out to me. Then each one of you will eat of his own vine, and each one of his own fig tree, and each one of you will drink the water of his own cistern, 17†until I come and take you away to a land like your own land, a land of grain and wine, a land of bread and vineyards. 18†Beware lest Hezekiah mislead you by saying, “The Lord will deliver us.” Has any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria? 19† Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim? Have they delivered Samaria out of my hand? 20Who among all the gods of these lands have delivered their lands out of my hand, that the Lord should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?’”

21† But they were silent and answered him not a word, for the king’s command was, “Do not answer him.” 22†Then Eliakim the son of Hilkiah, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and Joah the son of Asaph, the recorder, came to Hezekiah with their clothes torn, and told him the words of the Rabshakeh.

Hezekiah Seeks Isaiah's Help

37 [1]‡†† As soon as King Hezekiah heard it, he tore his clothes and covered himself with sackcloth and went into the house of the Lord. [2]† And he sent Eliakim, who was over the household, and Shebna the secretary, and the senior priests, covered with sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah the son of Amoz. [3]† They said to him, "Thus says Hezekiah, 'This day is a day of distress, of rebuke, and of disgrace; children have come to the point of birth, and there is no strength to bring them forth. [4]† It may be that the Lord your God will hear the words of the Rabshakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria has sent to mock the living God, and will rebuke the words that the Lord your God has heard; therefore lift up your prayer for the remnant that is left.'"

[5]† When the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah, [6]† Isaiah said to them, "Say to your master, 'Thus says the Lord: Do not be afraid because of the words that you have heard, with which the young men of the king of Assyria have reviled me. [7]† Behold, I will put a spirit in him, so that he shall hear a rumor and return to his own land, and I will make him fall by the sword in his own land.'"

[8]† The Rabshakeh returned, and found the king of Assyria fighting against Libnah, for he had heard that the king had left Lachish. [9]† Now the king heard concerning Tirhakah king of Cush,[1] "He has set out to fight against you." And when he heard it, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying, [10]"Thus shall you speak to Hezekiah king of Judah: 'Do not let your God in whom you trust deceive you by promising that Jerusalem will not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria. [11]† Behold, you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all lands, devoting them to destruction. And shall you be delivered? [12]† Have the gods of the nations delivered them, the nations that my fathers destroyed, Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and the people of Eden who were in Telassar? [13]† Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharvaim, the king of Hena, or the king of Ivvah?'"

Hezekiah's Prayer for Deliverance

14 ‡‡‡Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers, and read it; and Hezekiah went up to the house of the Lord, and spread it before the Lord. 15And Hezekiah prayed to the Lord: 16†"O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, enthroned above the cherubim, you are the God, you alone, of all the kingdoms of the earth; you have made heaven and earth. 17†Incline your ear, O Lord, and hear; open your eyes, O Lord, and see; and hear all the words of Sennacherib, which he has sent to mock the living God. 18Truly, O Lord, the kings of Assyria have laid waste all the nations and their lands, 19†and have cast their gods into the fire. For they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone. Therefore they were destroyed. 20†So now, O Lord our God, save us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you alone are the Lord."

Sennacherib's Fall

21 Then Isaiah the son of Amoz sent to Hezekiah, saying, "Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Because you have prayed to me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria, 22 this is the word that the Lord has spoken concerning him:

"'She despises you, she scorns you—
the virgin daughter of Zion;
she wags her head behind you—
the daughter of Jerusalem.

23 "'Whom have you mocked and reviled?
Against whom have you raised your voice
and lifted your eyes to the heights?
Against the Holy One of Israel!
24 By your servants you have mocked the Lord,
and you have said, With my many chariots
I have gone up the heights of the mountains,
to the far recesses of Lebanon,
to cut down its tallest cedars,
its choicest cypresses,
to come to its remotest height,
its most fruitful forest.
25 I dug wells
and drank waters,
to dry up with the sole of my foot
all the streams of Egypt.

26 "'Have you not heard that I determined it long ago?
I planned from days of old
what now I bring to pass,
that you should make fortified cities

crash into heaps of ruins, 27† while their inhabitants, shorn of strength,
are dismayed and confounded,
and have become like plants of the field
and like tender grass,
like grass on the housetops,
blighted[1] before it is grown.

28† “‘I know your sitting down and your going out and coming in,
and your raging against me.
29† Because you have raged against me
and your complacency has come to my ears,
I will put my hook in your nose
and my bit in your mouth,
and I will turn you back on the way
by which you came.’

30†“And this shall be the sign for you: this year you shall eat what grows of itself, and in the second year what springs from that. Then in the third year sow and reap, and plant vineyards, and eat their fruit. 31 † And the surviving remnant of the house of Judah shall again take root downward and bear fruit upward. 32†For out of Jerusalem shall go a remnant, and out of Mount Zion a band of survivors. The zeal of the Lord of hosts will do this.

33†“Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the king of Assyria: He shall not come into this city or shoot an arrow there or come before it with a shield or cast up a siege mound against it. 34By the way that he came, by the same he shall return, and he shall not come into this city, declares the Lord. 35†For I will defend this city to save it, for my own sake and for the sake of my servant David.”

36†And the angel of the Lord went out and struck down a hundred and eighty-five thousand in the camp of the Assyrians. And when people arose early in the morning, behold, these were all dead bodies. 37 † Then Sennacherib king of Assyria departed and returned home and lived at Nineveh. [38] † And as he was worshiping in the house of Nisroch his god, Adrammelech and Sharezer, his sons, struck him down with the sword. And after they escaped into the land of Ararat, Esarhaddon his son reigned in his place.

Hezekiah's Sickness and Recovery

38 [1]In those days Hezekiah became sick and was at the point of death. And Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz came to him, and said to him, "Thus says the Lord: Set your house in order, for you shall die, you shall not recover."[1] [2]Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to the Lord, [3]and said, "Please, O Lord, remember how I have walked before you in faithfulness and with a whole heart, and have done what is good in your sight." And Hezekiah wept bitterly.

[4]Then the word of the Lord came to Isaiah: [5]"Go and say to Hezekiah, Thus says the Lord, the God of David your father: I have heard your prayer; I have seen your tears. Behold, I will add fifteen years to your life.[2] [6]I will deliver you and this city out of the hand of the king of Assyria, and will defend this city.

[7]"This shall be the sign to you from the Lord, that the Lord will do this thing that he has promised: [8]Behold, I will make the shadow cast by the declining sun on the dial of Ahaz turn back ten steps." So the sun turned back on the dial the ten steps by which it had declined.[3]

[9]A writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, after he had been sick and had recovered from his sickness:

[10] I said, In the middle[4] of my days
I must depart;
I am consigned to the gates of Sheol
for the rest of my years.
[11] I said, I shall not see the Lord,
the Lord in the land of the living;
I shall look on man no more
among the inhabitants of the world.
[12] My dwelling is plucked up and removed from me
like a shepherd's tent;
like a weaver I have rolled up my life;

he cuts me off from the loom;
from day to night you bring me to an end;
13† I calmed myself[5] until morning;
like a lion he breaks all my bones;
from day to night you bring me to an end.

14† Like a swallow or a crane I chirp;
I moan like a dove.
My eyes are weary with looking upward.
O Lord, I am oppressed; be my pledge of
safety!
15† What shall I say? For he has spoken to me, and he himself has done it.
I walk slowly all my years
because of the bitterness of my soul.

16† O Lord, by these things men live,
and in all these is the life of my spirit.
Oh restore me to health and make me live!
17† Behold, it was for my welfare that I had great bitterness;
but in love you have delivered my life
from the pit of destruction, for you have cast all my sins
behind your back.
18† For Sheol does not thank you;
death does not praise you;
those who go down to the pit do not hope
for your faithfulness.
19† The living, the living, he thanks you,
as I do this day;
the father makes known to the children
your faithfulness.

[20]† The Lord will save me,
and we will play my music on stringed instruments
all the days of our lives,
at the house of the Lord.

[21]†Now Isaiah had said, “Let them take a cake of figs and apply it to the boil, that he may recover.” [22]†Hezekiah also had said, “What is the sign that I shall go up to the house of the Lord?”

Envoys from Babylon

39 [1] † At that time Merodach-baladan the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent envoys with letters and a present to Hezekiah, for he heard that he had been sick and had recovered. [2] † And Hezekiah welcomed them gladly. And he showed them his treasure house, the silver, the gold, the spices, the precious oil, his whole armory, all that was found in his storehouses. There was nothing in his house or in all his realm that Hezekiah did not show them. [3] ‡ Then Isaiah the prophet came to King Hezekiah, and said to him, "What did these men say? And from where did they come to you?" Hezekiah said, "They have come to me from a far country, from Babylon." [4] He said, "What have they seen in your house?" Hezekiah answered, "They have seen all that is in my house. There is nothing in my storehouses that I did not show them."

[5] † Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, "Hear the word of the Lord of hosts: [6] ‡ Behold, the days are coming, when all that is in your house, and that which your fathers have stored up till this day, shall be carried to Babylon. Nothing shall be left, says the Lord. [7] † And some of your own sons, who will come from you, whom you will father, shall be taken away, and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon." [8] † Then said Hezekiah to Isaiah, "The word of the Lord that you have spoken is good." For he thought, "There will be peace and security in my days."

Comfort for God's People

40 [1]††Comfort, comfort my people, says your God.

[2]† Speak tenderly to Jerusalem, and cry to her
that her warfare[1] is ended,
that her iniquity is pardoned,
that she has received from the LORD's hand
double for all her sins.

[3]† A voice cries:[1]
"In the wilderness prepare the way of the LORD;
make straight in the desert a highway
for our God.
[4] Every valley shall be lifted up,
and every mountain and hill be made low;
the uneven ground shall become level,
and the rough places a plain.
[5]† And the glory of the LORD shall be revealed,
and all flesh shall see it together,
for the mouth of the LORD has spoken."

The Word of God Stands Forever

6 A voice says, “Cry!”
And I said,[2] “What shall I cry?”
All flesh is grass,
and all its beauty[3] is like the flower of the
field.
7 The grass withers, the flower fades
when the breath of the Lord blows on it;
surely the people are grass.
8 The grass withers, the flower fades,
but the word of our God will stand forever.

The Greatness of God

9 Get you up to a high mountain,
O Zion, herald of good news;[4]
lift up your voice with strength, O Jerusalem, herald of good news;[5]
lift it up, fear not;
say to the cities of Judah,
"Behold your God!"
10 Behold, the Lord GOD comes with might,
and his arm rules for him;
behold, his reward is with him,
and his recompense before him.
11 He will tend his flock like a shepherd;
he will gather the lambs in his arms;
he will carry them in his bosom,
and gently lead those that are with young.

12 Who has measured the waters in the hollow
of his hand
and marked off the heavens with a span,
enclosed the dust of the earth in a measure and weighed the mountains in scales
and the hills in a balance?
13 Who has measured[1] the Spirit of the LORD,
or what man shows him his counsel?
14 Whom did he consult,
and who made him understand?
Who taught him the path of justice,
and taught him knowledge,
and showed him the way of understanding?
15 Behold, the nations are like a drop from a bucket,
and are accounted as the dust on the scales;

behold, he takes up the coastlands like fine dust.
16 Lebanon would not suffice for fuel,
nor are its beasts enough for a burnt offering.
17† All the nations are as nothing before him, they are accounted by him as less than nothing and emptiness.

18 To whom then will you liken God,
or what likeness compare with him?
19† An idol! A craftsman casts it, and a goldsmith overlays it with gold
and casts for it silver chains.
20† He who is too impoverished for an offering chooses wood[2] that will not rot;
he seeks out a skillful craftsman
to set up an idol that will not move.

21† Do you not know? Do you not hear?
Has it not been told you from the beginning?
Have you not understood from the foundations of the earth?
22† It is he who sits above the circle of the earth,
and its inhabitants are like grasshoppers;
who stretches out the heavens like a curtain,
and spreads them like a tent to dwell in;
23† who brings princes to nothing,
and makes the rulers of the earth as emptiness.

24† Scarcely are they planted, scarcely sown, scarcely has their stem taken root in the
earth,
when he blows on them, and they wither,

and the tempest carries them off like
stubble.

25† To whom then will you compare me,
that I should be like him? says the Holy One.
26† Lift up your eyes on high and see:
who created these?
He who brings out their host by number,
calling them all by name,
by the greatness of his might,
and because he is strong in power
not one is missing.

27† Why do you say, O Jacob,
and speak, O Israel,
"My way is hidden from the Lord,
and my right is disregarded by my God"?
28† Have you not known? Have you not heard?
The Lord is the everlasting God,
the Creator of the ends of the earth.
He does not faint or grow weary;
his understanding is unsearchable.
29 He gives power to the faint,
and to him who has no might he increases
strength.
30 Even youths shall faint and be weary,
and young men shall fall exhausted;
31† but they who wait for the Lord shall renew their
strength;
they shall mount up with wings like eagles;
they shall run and not be weary;
they shall walk and not faint.

Fear Not, For I Am with You

41 [1]†† Listen to me in silence,
O coastlands;
let the peoples renew their strength;
let them approach, then let them speak;
let us together draw near for judgment.

[2]† Who stirred up one from the east whom victory meets at every step?[1]
He gives up nations before him,
so that he tramples kings underfoot;
he makes them like dust with his sword,
like driven stubble with his bow.
[3]† He pursues them and passes on safely,
by paths his feet have not trod.
[4]† Who has performed and done this,
calling the generations from the beginning?
I, the Lord, the first,
and with the last; I am he.

[5]† The coastlands have seen and are afraid;
the ends of the earth tremble;
they have drawn near and come.
[6]† Everyone helps his neighbor and says to his brother, "Be strong!"
[7] The craftsman strengthens the goldsmith, and he who smooths with the hammer him
who strikes the anvil,
saying of the soldering, "It is good";
and they strengthen it with nails so that it cannot be moved.

[8] But you, Israel, my servant,
Jacob, whom I have chosen,
the offspring of Abraham, my friend;
[9] you whom I took from the ends of the earth,
and called from its farthest corners,
saying to you, “You are my servant,
I have chosen you and not cast you off”;
[10] fear not, for I am with you;
be not dismayed, for I am your God;
I will strengthen you, I will help you,
I will uphold you with my righteous right
hand.

[11] Behold, all who are incensed against you shall be put to shame and confounded;
those who strive against you shall be as nothing and shall perish.
[12] You shall seek those who contend with you,
but you shall not find them;
those who war against you shall be as nothing at all.
[13] For I, the Lord your God,
hold your right hand;
it is I who say to you, “Fear not,
I am the one who helps you.”

[14] Fear not, you worm Jacob,
you men of Israel!
I am the one who helps you, declares the Lord;
your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel.
[15] Behold, I make of you a threshing sledge,
new, sharp, and having teeth;
you shall thresh the mountains and crush them,
and you shall make the hills like chaff; [16] you shall winnow them, and the wind shall carry them away,

and the tempest shall scatter them.
And you shall rejoice in the Lord;
in the Holy One of Israel you shall glory.

17 ‡† When the poor and needy seek water,
and there is none,
and their tongue is parched with thirst,
I the Lord will answer them;
I the God of Israel will not forsake them.
18 † I will open rivers on the bare heights,
and fountains in the midst of the valleys.
I will make the wilderness a pool of water,
and the dry land springs of water.
19 I will put in the wilderness the cedar,
the acacia, the myrtle, and the olive.
I will set in the desert the cypress,
the plane and the pine together, 20 † that they may see and know,
may consider and understand together,
that the hand of the Lord has done this,
the Holy One of Israel has created it.

The Futility of Idols

21 Set forth your case, says the Lord;
bring your proofs, says the King of Jacob.
22 Let them bring them, and tell us
what is to happen.
Tell us the former things, what they are,
that we may consider them,
that we may know their outcome;
or declare to us the things to come.
23 Tell us what is to come hereafter,
that we may know that you are gods;
do good, or do harm,
that we may be dismayed and terrified.[1] 24 Behold, you are nothing,
and your work is less than nothing;
an abomination is he who chooses you.

25 I stirred up one from the north, and he has come,
from the rising of the sun, and he shall call upon my name;
he shall trample on rulers as on mortar,
as the potter treads clay.
26 Who declared it from the beginning, that we might know,
and beforehand, that we might say, “He is right”?
There was none who declared it, none who proclaimed,
none who heard your words.
27 I was the first to say[1] to Zion, “Behold, here they are!”
and I give to Jerusalem a herald of good news.
28 But when I look, there is no one;

among these there is no counselor
who, when I ask, gives an answer.
29† Behold, they are all a delusion;
their works are nothing;
their metal images are empty wind.

The Lord's Chosen Servant

42 [1]†††Behold my servant, whom I uphold,
my chosen, in whom my soul delights;
I have put my Spirit upon him;
he will bring forth justice to the nations.

[2]† He will not cry aloud or lift up his voice,
or make it heard in the street;
[3]† a bruised reed he will not break,
and a faintly burning wick he will not quench;
he will faithfully bring forth justice.
[4]† He will not grow faint or be discouraged[2]
till he has established justice in the earth;
and the coastlands wait for his law.

[5]††† Thus says God, the Lord, who created the heavens and stretched
them out,
who spread out the earth and what comes
from it,
who gives breath to the people on it
and spirit to those who walk in it:
[6]† "I am the Lord; I have called you in
righteousness;
I will take you by the hand and keep you;
I will give you as a covenant for the people,
a light for the nations,
[7]† to open the eyes that are blind,
to bring out the prisoners from the dungeon,
from the prison those who sit in darkness.
[8]† I am the Lord; that is my name;
my glory I give to no other,
nor my praise to carved idols.

9† Behold, the former things have come to pass,
and new things I now declare;
before they spring forth
I tell you of them.”

Sing to the Lord a New Song

10 Sing to the Lord a new song,
his praise from the end of the earth,
you who go down to the sea, and all that
fills it,
the coastlands and their inhabitants.
11 Let the desert and its cities lift up their voice,
the villages that Kedar inhabits;
let the habitants of Sela sing for joy,
let them shout from the top of the mountains.
12 Let them give glory to the Lord,
and declare his praise in the coastlands.
13 The Lord goes out like a mighty man,
like a man of war he stirs up his zeal;
he cries out, he shouts aloud,
he shows himself mighty against his foes.

14 For a long time I have held my peace;
I have kept still and restrained myself;
now I will cry out like a woman in labor;
I will gasp and pant.
15 I will lay waste mountains and hills,
and dry up all their vegetation;
I will turn the rivers into islands,[1]
and dry up the pools.
16 And I will lead the blind
in a way that they do not know,
in paths that they have not known
I will guide them.
I will turn the darkness before them into light,
the rough places into level ground.
These are the things I do,

and I do not forsake them.
17† They are turned back and utterly put to shame,
who trust in carved idols,
who say to metal images,
"You are our gods."

Israel's Failure to Hear and See

18 Hear, you deaf,
and look, you blind, that you may see!
19 Who is blind but my servant,
or deaf as my messenger whom I send?
Who is blind as my dedicated one,[2]
or blind as the servant of the Lord?
20 He sees many things, but does not observe them;
his ears are open, but he does not hear.
21 The Lord was pleased, for his righteousness' sake,
to magnify his law and make it glorious.
22 But this is a people plundered and looted;
they are all of them trapped in holes
and hidden in prisons;
they have become plunder with none to rescue,
spoil with none to say, "Restore!"
23 Who among you will give ear to this,
will attend and listen for the time to come?
24 Who gave up Jacob to the looter,
and Israel to the plunderers?
Was it not the Lord, against whom we have sinned,
in whose ways they would not walk,
and whose law they would not obey?
25 So he poured on him the heat of his anger
and the might of battle;
it set him on fire all around, but he did not understand;
it burned him up, but he did not take it to heart.

Israel's Only Savior

43 [1]†But now thus says the Lord,
he who created you, O Jacob,
he who formed you, O Israel:
"Fear not, for I have redeemed you;
I have called you by name, you are mine.

[2]† When you pass through the waters, I will be
with you;
and through the rivers, they shall not overwhelm you;
when you walk through fire you shall not be burned,
and the flame shall not consume you.
[3]† For I am the Lord your God,
the Holy One of Israel, your Savior.
I give Egypt as your ransom,
Cush and Seba in exchange for you.
[4]† Because you are precious in my eyes,
and honored, and I love you,
I give men in return for you,
peoples in exchange for your life.
[5]†† Fear not, for I am with you;
I will bring your offspring from the east,
and from the west I will gather you.
[6] I will say to the north, Give up,
and to the south, Do not withhold;
bring my sons from afar
and my daughters from the end of the earth, [7]† everyone who is called by my name,
whom I created for my glory,
whom I formed and made."

[8] Bring out the people who are blind, yet have
eyes,
who are deaf, yet have ears!
[9] All the nations gather together,
and the peoples assemble.
Who among them can declare this,
and show us the former things?
Let them bring their witnesses to prove them right,
and let them hear and say, It is true.
[10] "You are my witnesses," declares the Lord,
"and my servant whom I have chosen,
that you may know and believe me
and understand that I am he.
Before me no god was formed,
nor shall there be any after me.
[11] I, I am the Lord,
and besides me there is no savior.
[12] I declared and saved and proclaimed,
when there was no strange god among you;
and you are my witnesses," declares the Lord, "and I am God.
[13] Also henceforth I am he;
there is none who can deliver from my hand;
I work, and who can turn it back?"

[14] Thus says the Lord,
your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel:
"For your sake I send to Babylon
and bring them all down as fugitives, even the Chaldeans, in the ships in which they rejoice.
[15] I am the Lord, your Holy One,
the Creator of Israel, your King."

16† Thus says the Lord,
who makes a way in the sea,
a path in the mighty waters, 17 who brings forth chariot and horse,
army and warrior;
they lie down, they cannot rise,
they are extinguished, quenched like a wick:
18† "Remember not the former things,
nor consider the things of old.
19†† Behold, I am doing a new thing;
now it springs forth, do you not perceive it?
I will make a way in the wilderness
and rivers in the desert.
20† The wild beasts will honor me,
the jackals and the ostriches,
for I give water in the wilderness,
rivers in the desert,
to give drink to my chosen people, 21 the people whom I formed for myself
that they might declare my praise.

22†† "Yet you did not call upon me, O Jacob;
but you have been weary of me,
O Israel!
23† You have not brought me your sheep for burnt offerings,
or honored me with your sacrifices.
I have not burdened you with offerings,
or wearied you with frankincense.
24† You have not bought me sweet cane with money,
or satisfied me with the fat of your sacrifices.
But you have burdened me with your sins;
you have wearied me with your iniquities.

25† “I, I am he who blots out your transgressions for my own sake,
and I will not remember your sins.
26† Put me in remembrance; let us argue
together;
set forth your case, that you may be proved right.
27† Your first father sinned,
and your mediators transgressed against me.
28† Therefore I will profane the princes of the sanctuary,
and deliver Jacob to utter destruction
and Israel to reviling.

Israel the Lord's Chosen

44 [1]†† "But now hear, O Jacob my servant,
Israel whom I have chosen!

[2]† Thus says the Lord who made you,
who formed you from the womb and will help you:
Fear not, O Jacob my servant,
Jeshurun whom I have chosen.
[3]† For I will pour water on the thirsty land,
and streams on the dry ground;
I will pour my Spirit upon your offspring,
and my blessing on your descendants.
[4]† They shall spring up among the grass
like willows by flowing streams.
[5]† This one will say, 'I am the Lord's,'
another will call on the name of Jacob,
and another will write on his hand, 'The Lord's,'
and name himself by the name of Israel."

Besides Me There Is No God

6 Thus says the Lord, the King of Israel and his Redeemer, the Lord of hosts:
"I am the first and I am the last;
besides me there is no god.
7 Who is like me? Let him proclaim it.[1]
Let him declare and set it before me,
since I appointed an ancient people.
Let them declare what is to come, and what will happen.
8 Fear not, nor be afraid;
have I not told you from of old and declared
it?
And you are my witnesses!
Is there a God besides me?
There is no Rock; I know not any."

The Folly of Idolatry

9 ‡‡†All who fashion idols are nothing, and the things they delight in do not profit. Their witnesses neither see nor know, that they may be put to shame. 10Who fashions a god or casts an idol that is profitable for nothing?
11 †Behold, all his companions shall be put to shame, and the craftsmen are only human. Let them all assemble, let them stand forth. They shall be terrified; they shall be put to shame together.
12 †The ironsmith takes a cutting tool and works it over the coals. He fashions it with hammers and works it with his strong arm. He becomes hungry, and his strength fails; he drinks no water and is faint. 13 †The carpenter stretches a line; he marks it out with a pencil. He shapes it with planes and marks it with a compass. He shapes it into the figure of a man, with the beauty of a man, to dwell in a house. 14†He cuts down cedars, or he chooses a cypress tree or an oak and lets it grow strong among the trees of the forest. He plants a cedar and the rain nourishes it. 15‡†Then it becomes fuel for a man. He takes a part of it and warms himself; he kindles a fire and bakes bread. Also he makes a god and worships it; he makes it an idol and falls down before it. 16Half of it he burns in the fire. Over the half he eats meat; he roasts it and is satisfied. Also he warms himself and says, “Aha, I am warm, I have seen the fire!” 17And the rest of it he makes into a god, his idol, and falls down to it and worships it. He prays to it and says, “Deliver me, for you are my god!”
18 †They know not, nor do they discern, for he has shut their eyes, so that they cannot see, and their hearts, so that they cannot understand. 19†No one considers, nor is there knowledge or discernment to say, “Half of it I burned in the fire; I also baked bread on its coals; I roasted meat and have eaten.
And shall I make the rest of it an abomination? Shall I fall down before a block of wood?” 20†He feeds on ashes; a deluded heart has led him astray, and he cannot deliver himself or say, “Is there not a lie in my right hand?”

The Lord Redeems Israel

21 ‡† Remember these things, O Jacob,
and Israel, for you are my servant;
I formed you; you are my servant;
O Israel, you will not be forgotten by me.
22 † I have blotted out your transgressions like a cloud
and your sins like mist;
return to me, for I have redeemed you.

23 † Sing, O heavens, for the Lord has done it;
shout, O depths of the earth;
break forth into singing, O mountains,
O forest, and every tree in it!
For the Lord has redeemed Jacob,
and will be glorified[1] in Israel.

24 † Thus says the Lord, your Redeemer,
who formed you from the womb:
"I am the Lord, who made all things,
who alone stretched out the heavens,
who spread out the earth by myself, 25 † who frustrates the signs of liars
and makes fools of diviners,
who turns wise men back
and makes their knowledge foolish, 26 † who confirms the word of his servant
and fulfills the counsel of his messengers, who says of Jerusalem, 'She shall be inhabited,'
and of the cities of Judah, 'They shall be built,
and I will raise up their ruins';

[27]†† who says to the deep, ‘Be dry;
I will dry up your rivers’;
[28]† who says of Cyrus, ‘He is my shepherd,
and he shall fulfill all my purpose’;
saying of Jerusalem, ‘She shall be built,’
and of the temple, ‘Your foundation shall be laid.’”

Cyrus, God's Instrument

45 [1]†† Thus says the Lord to his anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have grasped,
to subdue nations before him
and to loose the belts of kings,
to open doors before him
that gates may not be closed:

[2]† "I will go before you
and level the exalted places,[1]
I will break in pieces the doors of bronze and cut through the bars of iron, [3] I will give you the treasures of darkness
and the hoards in secret places,
that you may know that it is I, the Lord,
the God of Israel, who call you by your name.
[4]† For the sake of my servant Jacob,
and Israel my chosen,
I call you by your name,
I name you, though you do not know me.
[5]† I am the Lord, and there is no other,
besides me there is no God;
I equip you, though you do not know me, [6]† that people may know, from the rising of the sun
and from the west, that there is none
besides me;
I am the Lord, and there is no other.
[7]† I form light and create darkness,
I make well-being and create calamity,
I am the Lord, who does all these things.

8† “Shower, O heavens, from above,
and let the clouds rain down
righteousness;
let the earth open, that salvation and righteousness may bear fruit;
let the earth cause them both to sprout;
I the Lord have created it.

9† “Woe to him who strives with him who formed him,
a pot among earthen pots!
Does the clay say to him who forms it, ‘What are you making?’
or ‘Your work has no handles’?
10† Woe to him who says to a father, ‘What are you begetting?’
or to a woman, ‘With what are you in labor?’”

11† Thus says the Lord,
the Holy One of Israel, and the one who
formed him:
“Ask me of things to come;
will you command me concerning my children and the work of my hands?[2] 12† I made the earth
and created man on it;
it was my hands that stretched out the
heavens,
and I commanded all their host.
13† I have stirred him up in righteousness,
and I will make all his ways level;
he shall build my city
and set my exiles free,

not for price or reward,”
says the Lord of hosts.

The Lord, the Only Savior

14 Thus says the Lord:
"The wealth of Egypt and the merchandise of Cush,
and the Sabeans, men of stature,
shall come over to you and be yours;
they shall follow you;
they shall come over in chains and bow
down to you.
They will plead with you, saying:
'Surely God is in you, and there is no other,
no god besides him.'"

15 Truly, you are a God who hides himself,
O God of Israel, the Savior.
16 All of them are put to shame and confounded;
the makers of idols go in confusion
together.
17 But Israel is saved by the Lord
with everlasting salvation;
you shall not be put to shame or confounded
to all eternity.

18 For thus says the Lord,
who created the heavens
(he is God!),
who formed the earth and made it (he established it;
he did not create it empty,
he formed it to be inhabited!):
"I am the Lord, and there is no other.
19 I did not speak in secret,

in a land of darkness;
I did not say to the offspring of Jacob,
'Seek me in vain.'[1]
I the LORD speak the truth;
I declare what is right.

20 "Assemble yourselves and come;
draw near together,
you survivors of the nations!
They have no knowledge
who carry about their wooden idols,
and keep on praying to a god
that cannot save.
21 Declare and present your case;
let them take counsel together!
Who told this long ago?
Who declared it of old?
Was it not I, the LORD?
And there is no other god besides me,
a righteous God and a Savior;
there is none besides me.

22 "Turn to me and be saved,
all the ends of the earth!
For I am God, and there is no other.
23 By myself I have sworn;
from my mouth has gone out in
righteousness
a word that shall not return:
'To me every knee shall bow,
every tongue shall swear allegiance.'[2]

24 "Only in the LORD, it shall be said of me,
are righteousness and strength;

to him shall come and be ashamed
all who were incensed against him.
25† In the LORD all the offspring of Israel
shall be justified and shall glory.”

The Idols of Babylon and the One True God

46 [1]†Bel bows down; Nebo stoops;
their idols are on beasts and livestock;
these things you carry are borne
as burdens on weary beasts.

[2]† They stoop; they bow down together;
they cannot save the burden,
but themselves go into captivity.

[3]†† "Listen to me, O house of Jacob,
all the remnant of the house of Israel,
who have been borne by me from before your birth,
carried from the womb;
[4]† even to your old age I am he,
and to gray hairs I will carry you.
I have made, and I will bear;
I will carry and will save.

[5] "To whom will you liken me and make me equal,
and compare me, that we may be alike?
[6]† Those who lavish gold from the purse,
and weigh out silver in the scales,
hire a goldsmith, and he makes it into a god;
then they fall down and worship!
[7] They lift it to their shoulders, they carry it,
they set it in its place, and it stands there;
it cannot move from its place.
If one cries to it, it does not answer
or save him from his trouble.

8 “Remember this and stand firm,
recall it to mind, you transgressors, 9 remember the former things of old;
for I am God, and there is no other;
I am God, and there is none like me,
10 declaring the end from the beginning and from ancient times things not yet done, saying, ‘My counsel shall stand,
and I will accomplish all my purpose,’ 11 calling a bird of prey from the east,
the man of my counsel from a far country.
I have spoken, and I will bring it to pass;
I have purposed, and I will do it.

12 “Listen to me, you stubborn of heart,
you who are far from righteousness:
13 I bring near my righteousness; it is not far off,
and my salvation will not delay;
I will put salvation in Zion,
for Israel my glory.”

The Humiliation of Babylon

47 [1]†Come down and sit in the dust,
O virgin daughter of Babylon;
sit on the ground without a throne,
O daughter of the Chaldeans!
For you shall no more be called tender and delicate.

[2]† Take the millstones and grind flour,
put off your veil,
strip off your robe, uncover your legs,
pass through the rivers.
[3]† Your nakedness shall be uncovered,
and your disgrace shall be seen.
I will take vengeance,
and I will spare no one.
[4]† Our Redeemer—the Lord of hosts is his name—
is the Holy One of Israel.

[5]† Sit in silence, and go into darkness,
O daughter of the Chaldeans;
for you shall no more be called
the mistress of kingdoms.
[6]† I was angry with my people;
I profaned my heritage;
I gave them into your hand;
you showed them no mercy;
on the aged you made your yoke exceedingly heavy.
[7] You said, “I shall be mistress forever,”
so that you did not lay these things to heart
or remember their end.

[8] Now therefore hear this, you lover of pleasures,
who sit securely,
who say in your heart,
"I am, and there is no one besides me;
I shall not sit as a widow
or know the loss of children":
[9] These two things shall come to you
in a moment, in one day;
the loss of children and widowhood
shall come upon you in full measure,
in spite of your many sorceries
and the great power of your enchantments.

[10] You felt secure in your wickedness,
you said, "No one sees me";
your wisdom and your knowledge led you
astray,
and you said in your heart,
"I am, and there is no one besides me."
[11] But evil shall come upon you,
which you will not know how to charm away;
disaster shall fall upon you,
for which you will not be able to atone;
and ruin shall come upon you suddenly,
of which you know nothing.

[12] Stand fast in your enchantments
and your many sorceries,
with which you have labored from your
youth;
perhaps you may be able to succeed;
perhaps you may inspire terror.
[13] You are wearied with your many counsels;
let them stand forth and save you,

those who divide the heavens,
who gaze at the stars,
who at the new moons make known
what shall come upon you.

14† Behold, they are like stubble;
the fire consumes them;
they cannot deliver themselves
from the power of the flame.
No coal for warming oneself is this,
no fire to sit before!
15 Such to you are those with whom you have labored,
who have done business with you from your
youth;
they wander about, each in his own direction;
there is no one to save you.

Israel Refined for God's Glory

48 [1]†† Hear this, O house of Jacob, who are called by the name of Israel,
and who came from the waters of Judah,
who swear by the name of the Lord
and confess the God of Israel,
but not in truth or right.

[2]† For they call themselves after the holy city,
and stay themselves on the God of Israel;
the Lord of hosts is his name.

[3]† "The former things I declared of old;
they went out from my mouth, and I announced them;
then suddenly I did them, and they came to pass.
[4]† Because I know that you are obstinate,
and your neck is an iron sinew
and your forehead brass, [5] I declared them to you from of old,
before they came to pass I announced them
to you,
lest you should say, 'My idol did them,
my carved image and my metal image commanded them.'

[6]† "You have heard; now see all this;
and will you not declare it?
From this time forth I announce to you new
things,
hidden things that you have not known.

7 They are created now, not long ago;
before today you have never heard of them,
lest you should say, ‘Behold, I knew them.’
8 † You have never heard, you have never known,
from of old your ear has not been opened.
For I knew that you would surely deal
treacherously,
and that from before birth you were called a rebel.

9 † “For my name’s sake I defer my anger,
for the sake of my praise I restrain it for you,
that I may not cut you off.
10 † Behold, I have refined you, but not as silver;
I have tried[1] you in the furnace of affliction.
11 † For my own sake, for my own sake, I do it,
for how should my name[2] be profaned?
My glory I will not give to another.

The Lord's Call to Israel

12 ‡‡‡ "Listen to me, O Jacob,
and Israel, whom I called!
I am he; I am the first,
and I am the last.
13 ‡ My hand laid the foundation of the earth,
and my right hand spread out the heavens;
when I call to them,
they stand forth together.

14 ‡ "Assemble, all of you, and listen!
Who among them has declared these things?
The Lord loves him;
he shall perform his purpose on Babylon,
and his arm shall be against the Chaldeans.
15 I, even I, have spoken and called him;
I have brought him, and he will prosper in his way.
16 ‡ Draw near to me, hear this:
from the beginning I have not spoken in secret,
from the time it came to be I have been there."
And now the Lord God has sent me, and his Spirit.

17 ‡ Thus says the Lord,
your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel:
"I am the Lord your God,
who teaches you to profit,
who leads you in the way you should go.
18 ‡ Oh that you had paid attention to my commandments!

Then your peace would have been like a river,
and your righteousness like the waves of
the sea;
19 your offspring would have been like the sand,
and your descendants like its grains;
their name would never be cut off
or destroyed from before me.”

20 Go out from Babylon, flee from Chaldea, declare this with a shout of joy, proclaim it,
send it out to the end of the earth;
say, “The Lord has redeemed his servant Jacob!” 21 They did not thirst when he led them through the deserts;
he made water flow for them from the rock;
he split the rock and the water gushed out.

22 “There is no peace,” says the Lord, “for the wicked.”

The Servant of the Lord

49 [1]†† Listen to me, O coastlands,
and give attention, you peoples from afar.
The Lord called me from the womb,
from the body of my mother he named my name.

[2]† He made my mouth like a sharp sword;
in the shadow of his hand he hid me;
he made me a polished arrow;
in his quiver he hid me away.
[3]† And he said to me, "You are my servant,
Israel, in whom I will be glorified."[1]
[4]† But I said, "I have labored in vain;
I have spent my strength for nothing and vanity;
yet surely my right is with the Lord,
and my recompense with my God."

[5]† And now the Lord says,
he who formed me from the womb to be his servant,
to bring Jacob back to him;
and that Israel might be gathered to him—
for I am honored in the eyes of the Lord, and my God has become my strength—[6]† he says:
"It is too light a thing that you should be my servant
to raise up the tribes of Jacob and to bring back the preserved of Israel;
I will make you as a light for the nations,
that my salvation may reach to the end of the earth."

7 † Thus says the Lord,
the Redeemer of Israel and his Holy One,
to one deeply despised, abhorred by the nation,
the servant of rulers:
"Kings shall see and arise;
princes, and they shall prostrate themselves;
because of the Lord, who is faithful,
the Holy One of Israel, who has chosen you."

The Restoration of Israel

8 Thus says the Lord:
"In a time of favor I have answered you;
in a day of salvation I have helped you;
I will keep you and give you
as a covenant to the people,
to establish the land,
to apportion the desolate heritages,
9 saying to the prisoners, 'Come out,'
to those who are in darkness, 'Appear.'
They shall feed along the ways;
on all bare heights shall be their pasture;
10 they shall not hunger or thirst,
neither scorching wind nor sun shall strike them,
for he who has pity on them will lead them,
and by springs of water will guide them.
11 And I will make all my mountains a road,
and my highways shall be raised up.
12 Behold, these shall come from afar,
and behold, these from the north and from the west,[1]
and these from the land of Syene."[2]

13 Sing for joy, O heavens, and exult, O earth;
break forth, O mountains, into singing!
For the Lord has comforted his people
and will have compassion on his afflicted.

14 But Zion said, "The Lord has forsaken me;
my Lord has forgotten me."

15 “Can a woman forget her nursing child, that she should have no compassion on the son of her womb?
Even these may forget,
yet I will not forget you.
16 Behold, I have engraved you on the palms of my hands;
your walls are continually before me.
17 Your builders make haste;[1]
your destroyers and those who laid you waste go out from you.
18 Lift up your eyes around and see;
they all gather, they come to you.
As I live, declares the Lord,
you shall put them all on as an ornament;
you shall bind them on as a bride does.

19 “Surely your waste and your desolate places and your devastated land—
surely now you will be too narrow for your
inhabitants,
and those who swallowed you up will be far
away.
20 The children of your bereavement
will yet say in your ears:
‘The place is too narrow for me;
make room for me to dwell in.’
21 Then you will say in your heart:
‘Who has borne me these?
I was bereaved and barren,
exiled and put away,
but who has brought up these?
Behold, I was left alone;
from where have these come?’”

22 † Thus says the Lord God:
"Behold, I will lift up my hand to the nations,
and raise my signal to the peoples;
and they shall bring your sons in their bosom,
and your daughters shall be carried on their shoulders.
23 † Kings shall be your foster fathers,
and their queens your nursing mothers.
With their faces to the ground they shall bow
down to you,
and lick the dust of your feet.
Then you will know that I am the Lord;
those who wait for me shall not be put to shame."

24 † Can the prey be taken from the mighty,
or the captives of a tyrant[2] be rescued?
25 For thus says the Lord:
"Even the captives of the mighty shall be taken,
and the prey of the tyrant be rescued,
for I will contend with those who contend
with you,
and I will save your children.
26 † I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh,
and they shall be drunk with their own blood as with wine.
Then all flesh shall know that I am the Lord your Savior, and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob."

Israel's Sin and the Servant's Obedience

50 [1]†Thus says the LORD:
"Where is your mother's certificate of divorce,
with which I sent her away?
Or which of my creditors is it to whom I have sold you?
Behold, for your iniquities you were sold,
and for your transgressions your mother was sent away.

[2]†† Why, when I came, was there no man;
why, when I called, was there no one to
answer?
Is my hand shortened, that it cannot redeem?
Or have I no power to deliver?
Behold, by my rebuke I dry up the sea,
I make the rivers a desert;
their fish stink for lack of water
and die of thirst.
[3] I clothe the heavens with blackness
and make sackcloth their covering."

[4]† The Lord GOD has given me
the tongue of those who are taught,
that I may know how to sustain with a word
him who is weary.
Morning by morning he awakens;
he awakens my ear
to hear as those who are taught.
[5]† The Lord GOD has opened my ear,
and I was not rebellious;

I turned not backward.
6† I gave my back to those who strike,
and my cheeks to those who pull out the beard;
I hid not my face
from disgrace and spitting.

7† But the Lord God helps me;
therefore I have not been disgraced;
therefore I have set my face like a flint,
and I know that I shall not be put to shame.
8 He who vindicates me is near.
Who will contend with me?
Let us stand up together.
Who is my adversary?
Let him come near to me.
9† Behold, the Lord God helps me;
who will declare me guilty?
Behold, all of them will wear out like a garment;
the moth will eat them up.

10† Who among you fears the Lord
and obeys the voice of his servant?
Let him who walks in darkness
and has no light trust in the name of the Lord
and rely on his God.
11† Behold, all you who kindle a fire,
who equip yourselves with burning torches!
Walk by the light of your fire,
and by the torches that you have kindled!
This you have from my hand:
you shall lie down in torment.

The Lord's Comfort for Zion

51 [1]†"Listen to me, you who pursue righteousness,
"you who seek the Lord:
look to the rock from which you were hewn,
and to the quarry from which you were dug.

[2]† Look to Abraham your father and to Sarah who bore you;
for he was but one when I called him,
that I might bless him and multiply him.
[3]† For the Lord comforts Zion;
he comforts all her waste places
and makes her wilderness like Eden,
her desert like the garden of the Lord;
joy and gladness will be found in her,
thanksgiving and the voice of song.

[4]†† "Give attention to me, my people,
and give ear to me, my nation;
for a law[1] will go out from me,
and I will set my justice for a light to the peoples.
[5]† My righteousness draws near,
my salvation has gone out,
and my arms will judge the peoples;
the coastlands hope for me,
and for my arm they wait.
[6]† Lift up your eyes to the heavens,
and look at the earth beneath;
for the heavens vanish like smoke,
the earth will wear out like a garment,
and they who dwell in it will die in like manner;[2]

but my salvation will be forever,
and my righteousness will never be dismayed.

7 † “Listen to me, you who know righteousness,
the people in whose heart is my law;
fear not the reproach of man,
nor be dismayed at their revilings.
8 † For the moth will eat them up like a garment,
and the worm will eat them like wool;
but my righteousness will be forever,
and my salvation to all generations.”

9 † Awake, awake, put on strength,
O arm of the Lord;
awake, as in days of old,
the generations of long ago.
Was it not you who cut Rahab in pieces,
who pierced the dragon?
10 † Was it not you who dried up the sea,
the waters of the great deep,
who made the depths of the sea a way
for the redeemed to pass over?
11 † And the ransomed of the Lord shall return
and come to Zion with singing;
everlasting joy shall be upon their heads;
they shall obtain gladness and joy,
and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

12 † “I, I am he who comforts you;
who are you that you are afraid of man who dies,
of the son of man who is made like grass, 13 † and have forgotten the Lord, your Maker,
who stretched out the heavens

and laid the foundations of the earth,
and you fear continually all the day
because of the wrath of the oppressor,
when he sets himself to destroy?
And where is the wrath of the oppressor?
14† He who is bowed down shall speedily be released;
he shall not die and go down to the pit,
neither shall his bread be lacking.
15† I am the Lord your God,
who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar—
the Lord of hosts is his name.
16† And I have put my words in your mouth
and covered you in the shadow of my hand, establishing[1] the heavens
and laying the foundations of the earth,
and saying to Zion, 'You are my people.'"

17† Wake yourself, wake yourself, stand up, O Jerusalem,
you who have drunk from the hand of the Lord
the cup of his wrath,
who have drunk to the dregs
the bowl, the cup of staggering.
18† There is none to guide her among all the sons she has borne;
there is none to take her by the hand
among all the sons she has brought up.
19† These two things have happened to you—who will console you?—
devastation and destruction, famine and sword;
who will comfort you?[2] 20† Your sons have fainted;
they lie at the head of every street
like an antelope in a net;

they are full of the wrath of the LORD,
the rebuke of your God.

21 Therefore hear this, you who are afflicted,
who are drunk, but not with wine:
22 Thus says your Lord, the LORD,
your God who pleads the cause of his people:
"Behold, I have taken from your hand the cup
of staggering;
the bowl of my wrath you shall drink no more;
23 and I will put it into the hand of your tormentors,
who have said to you,
'Bow down, that we may pass over';
and you have made your back like the ground and like the street for them to pass over."

The Lord's Coming Salvation

52 [1]†† Awake, awake,
put on your strength, O Zion;
put on your beautiful garments,
O Jerusalem, the holy city;
for there shall no more come into you
the uncircumcised and the unclean.

[2]† Shake yourself from the dust and arise;
be seated, O Jerusalem;
loose the bonds from your neck,
O captive daughter of Zion.

[3]† For thus says the Lord: "You were sold for nothing, and you shall be redeemed without money."
[4]† For thus says the Lord God: "My people went down at the first into Egypt to sojourn there, and the Assyrian oppressed them for nothing. [5]† Now therefore what have I here," declares the Lord, "seeing that my people are taken away for nothing? Their rulers wail," declares the Lord, "and continually all the day my name is despised. [6]† Therefore my people shall know my name. Therefore in that day they shall know that it is I who speak; here am I."

[7]† How beautiful upon the mountains
are the feet of him who brings good news,
who publishes peace, who brings good news
of happiness,
who publishes salvation,
who says to Zion, "Your God reigns."
[8]† The voice of your watchmen—they lift up their voice;
together they sing for joy;
for eye to eye they see the return of the Lord to Zion.

9† Break forth together into singing,
you waste places of Jerusalem,
for the Lord has comforted his people;
he has redeemed Jerusalem.
10† The Lord has bared his holy arm
before the eyes of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see
the salvation of our God.

11† Depart, depart, go out from there;
touch no unclean thing;
go out from the midst of her; purify yourselves,
you who bear the vessels of the Lord.
12† For you shall not go out in haste,
and you shall not go in flight,
for the Lord will go before you,
and the God of Israel will be your rear guard.

He Was Wounded for Our Transgressions

13 ††† Behold, my servant shall act wisely;[1]
he shall be high and lifted up,
and shall be exalted.
14 † As many were astonished at you—
his appearance was so marred, beyond human semblance,
and his form beyond that of the children of
mankind—
15 † so shall he sprinkle[2] many nations;
kings shall shut their mouths because of
him;
for that which has not been told them they see,
and that which they have not heard they understand.

53 1 †Who has believed what he has heard from us?[3]
And to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed?

2 † For he grew up before him like a young plant,
and like a root out of dry ground;
he had no form or majesty that we should look at him,
and no beauty that we should desire him.
3 † He was despised and rejected[4] by men;
a man of sorrows,[5] and acquainted with[6]
grief;[7]
and as one from whom men hide their faces[8]
he was despised, and we esteemed him not.

4† Surely he has borne our griefs
and carried our sorrows;
yet we esteemed him stricken,
smitten by God, and afflicted.
5† But he was wounded for our transgressions;
he was crushed for our iniquities;
upon him was the chastisement that brought us peace,
and with his stripes we are healed.
6† All we like sheep have gone astray;
we have turned—every one—to his own way;
and the Lord has laid on him
the iniquity of us all.

7† He was oppressed, and he was afflicted,
yet he opened not his mouth;
like a lamb that is led to the slaughter,
and like a sheep that before its shearers is silent,
so he opened not his mouth.
8† By oppression and judgment he was taken away;
and as for his generation, who considered that he was cut off out of the land of the living, stricken for the transgression of my people?
9† And they made his grave with the wicked
and with a rich man in his death,
although he had done no violence,
and there was no deceit in his mouth.

10† Yet it was the will of the Lord to crush him;
he has put him to grief;[1]

when his soul makes[2] an offering for guilt,
he shall see his offspring; he shall prolong
his days;
the will of the LORD shall prosper in his
hand.

11† Out of the anguish of his soul he shall see[3] and be satisfied;
by his knowledge shall the righteous one, my servant,
make many to be accounted righteous,
and he shall bear their iniquities.
12† Therefore I will divide him a portion with the many,[1]
and he shall divide the spoil with the
strong,[2]
because he poured out his soul to death
and was numbered with the transgressors;
yet he bore the sin of many,
and makes intercession for the
transgressors.

The Eternal Covenant of Peace

54 [1]"Sing, O barren one, who did not bear;
break forth into singing and cry aloud,
you who have not been in labor!
For the children of the desolate one will be more than the children of her who is married," says the LORD.

[2] "Enlarge the place of your tent,
and let the curtains of your habitations be stretched out;
do not hold back; lengthen your cords
and strengthen your stakes.
[3] For you will spread abroad to the right and to the left,
and your offspring will possess the nations
and will people the desolate cities.

[4] "Fear not, for you will not be ashamed;
be not confounded, for you will not be disgraced;
for you will forget the shame of your youth,
and the reproach of your widowhood you will remember no more.
[5] For your Maker is your husband,
the LORD of hosts is his name;
and the Holy One of Israel is your Redeemer,
the God of the whole earth he is called.
[6] For the LORD has called you like a wife deserted and grieved in spirit,
like a wife of youth when she is cast off,
says your God.
[7] For a brief moment I deserted you,

but with great compassion I will gather
you.
8 † In overflowing anger for a moment
I hid my face from you,
but with everlasting love I will have compassion on you,”
says the Lord, your Redeemer.

9 ††† “This is like the days of Noah[1] to me:
as I swore that the waters of Noah should no more go over the earth, so I have sworn that I will not be angry with
you,
and will not rebuke you.
10 † For the mountains may depart
and the hills be removed,
but my steadfast love shall not depart from you,
and my covenant of peace shall not be removed,”
says the Lord, who has compassion on you.

11 † “O afflicted one, storm-tossed and not comforted,
behold, I will set your stones in antimony,
and lay your foundations with sapphires.[2] 12 I will make your pinnacles of agate,[3]
your gates of carbuncles,[4]
and all your wall of precious stones.
13 † All your children shall be taught by the Lord, and great shall be the peace of your children.
14 In righteousness you shall be established;
you shall be far from oppression, for you shall not fear;
and from terror, for it shall not come near

you.
15† If anyone stirs up strife,
it is not from me;
whoever stirs up strife with you shall fall because of you.
16† Behold, I have created the smith who blows the fire of coals
and produces a weapon for its purpose.
I have also created the ravager to destroy;
17† no weapon that is fashioned against you shall succeed,
and you shall confute every tongue that rises
against you in judgment.
This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD and their vindication[5] from me, declares the LORD.”

The Compassion of the Lord

55 [1]†“Come, everyone who thirsts, come to the waters;
and he who has no money,
come, buy and eat!
Come, buy wine and milk
without money and without price.

[2]† Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread,
and your labor for that which does not satisfy?
Listen diligently to me, and eat what is good,
and delight yourselves in rich food.
[3]† Incline your ear, and come to me;
hear, that your soul may live;
and I will make with you an everlasting covenant,
my steadfast, sure love for David.
[4]† Behold, I made him a witness to the peoples,
a leader and commander for the peoples.
[5]† Behold, you shall call a nation that you do not
know,
and a nation that did not know you shall
run to you,
because of the Lord your God, and of the Holy One of Israel,
for he has glorified you.

[6]† “Seek the Lord while he may be found;
call upon him while he is near;
[7]† let the wicked forsake his way,
and the unrighteous man his thoughts;

let him return to the LORD, that he may have compassion on him,
and to our God, for he will abundantly
pardon.
8 For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, declares the
LORD.
9 For as the heavens are higher than the earth,
so are my ways higher than your ways
and my thoughts than your thoughts.

10 "For as the rain and the snow come down from heaven
and do not return there but water the earth,
making it bring forth and sprout, giving seed to the sower and bread to the eater, 11 so shall my word be that goes out from my
mouth;
it shall not return to me empty,
but it shall accomplish that which I purpose,
and shall succeed in the thing for which I sent it.

12 "For you shall go out in joy
and be led forth in peace;
the mountains and the hills before you shall break forth into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their
hands.
13 Instead of the thorn shall come up the cypress;
instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle;
and it shall make a name for the LORD,
an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off."

Salvation for Foreigners

56 [1]‡‡Thus says the Lord:
"Keep justice, and do righteousness,
for soon my salvation will come,
and my deliverance be revealed.

[2]† Blessed is the man who does this,
and the son of man who holds it fast,
who keeps the Sabbath, not profaning it,
and keeps his hand from doing any evil."

[3]‡‡ Let not the foreigner who has joined himself to the Lord say,
"The Lord will surely separate me from his
people";
and let not the eunuch say,
"Behold, I am a dry tree."
[4]† For thus says the Lord:
"To the eunuchs who keep my Sabbaths,
who choose the things that please me
and hold fast my covenant,
[5]† I will give in my house and within my walls
a monument and a name
better than sons and daughters;
I will give them an everlasting name
that shall not be cut off.

[6]† "And the foreigners who join themselves to
the Lord,
to minister to him, to love the name of the Lord,
and to be his servants,

everyone who keeps the Sabbath and does not profane it,
and holds fast my covenant—
7 † these I will bring to my holy mountain,
and make them joyful in my house of prayer;
their burnt offerings and their sacrifices
will be accepted on my altar;
for my house shall be called a house of prayer
for all peoples.”
8 † The Lord God,
who gathers the outcasts of Israel,
declares,
“I will gather yet others to him
besides those already gathered.”

Israel's Irresponsible Leaders

9 All you beasts of the field, come to devour—
all you beasts in the forest.
10 His watchmen are blind;
they are all without knowledge;
they are all silent dogs;
they cannot bark,
dreaming, lying down,
loving to slumber.
11 The dogs have a mighty appetite;
they never have enough.
But they are shepherds who have no
understanding;
they have all turned to their own way,
each to his own gain, one and all.
12 "Come," they say, "let me get wine;
let us fill ourselves with strong drink;
and tomorrow will be like this day,
great beyond measure."

Israel's Futile Idolatry

57 [1]†† The righteous man perishes,
and no one lays it to heart;
devout men are taken away,
while no one understands.
For the righteous man is taken away from
calamity;

[2]† he enters into peace;
they rest in their beds
who walk in their uprightness.
[3]† But you, draw near,
sons of the sorceress,
offspring of the adulterer and the loose
woman.
[4]†† Whom are you mocking?
Against whom do you open your mouth wide
and stick out your tongue?
Are you not children of transgression,
the offspring of deceit,
[5]† you who burn with lust among the oaks,[1]
under every green tree,
who slaughter your children in the valleys,
under the clefts of the rocks?
[6]†† Among the smooth stones of the valley is your portion;
they, they, are your lot;
to them you have poured out a drink offering,
you have brought a grain offering.
Shall I relent for these things?
[7]† On a high and lofty mountain
you have set your bed,
and there you went up to offer sacrifice.

[8]† Behind the door and the doorpost
you have set up your memorial;
for, deserting me, you have uncovered your bed,
you have gone up to it,
you have made it wide;
and you have made a covenant for yourself
with them,
you have loved their bed,
you have looked on nakedness.[2] [9]† You journeyed to the king with oil
and multiplied your perfumes;
you sent your envoys far off,
and sent down even to Sheol.
[10]† You were wearied with the length of your way,
but you did not say, “It is hopeless”;
you found new life for your strength,
and so you were not faint.[3]

[11]† Whom did you dread and fear,
so that you lied,
and did not remember me,
did not lay it to heart?
Have I not held my peace, even for a long time,
and you do not fear me?
[12]† I will declare your righteousness and your deeds,
but they will not profit you.
[13]† When you cry out, let your collection of idols deliver you!
The wind will carry them off,
a breath will take them away.
But he who takes refuge in me shall possess

the land
and shall inherit my holy mountain.

Comfort for the Contrite

14 And it shall be said,
"Build up, build up, prepare the way, remove every obstruction from my people's
way."
15 For thus says the One who is high and lifted up,
who inhabits eternity, whose name is Holy:
"I dwell in the high and holy place,
and also with him who is of a contrite and lowly spirit,
to revive the spirit of the lowly,
and to revive the heart of the contrite.
16 For I will not contend forever,
nor will I always be angry;
for the spirit would grow faint before me,
and the breath of life that I made.
17 Because of the iniquity of his unjust gain I was angry,
I struck him; I hid my face and was angry,
but he went on backsliding in the way of his own heart.
18 I have seen his ways, but I will heal him;
I will lead him and restore comfort to him
and his mourners,
19 creating the fruit of the lips.
Peace, peace, to the far and to the near," says
the LORD,
"and I will heal him.
20 But the wicked are like the tossing sea;
for it cannot be quiet,
and its waters toss up mire and dirt.

[21] † There is no peace," says my God, "for the wicked."

True and False Fasting

58 [1]†“Cry aloud; do not hold back;
lift up your voice like a trumpet;
declare to my people their transgression,
to the house of Jacob their sins.

[2]† Yet they seek me daily
and delight to know my ways,
as if they were a nation that did righteousness
and did not forsake the judgment of their God;
they ask of me righteous judgments;
they delight to draw near to God.
[3]† ‘Why have we fasted, and you see it not?
Why have we humbled ourselves, and you take no knowledge of it?’
Behold, in the day of your fast you seek your own pleasure,[1]
and oppress all your workers.
[4]† Behold, you fast only to quarrel and to fight
and to hit with a wicked fist.
Fasting like yours this day
will not make your voice to be heard on high.
[5]† Is such the fast that I choose,
a day for a person to humble himself?
Is it to bow down his head like a reed,
and to spread sackcloth and ashes under him?
Will you call this a fast,
and a day acceptable to the Lord?

[6]† “Is not this the fast that I choose:
to loose the bonds of wickedness,
to undo the straps of the yoke,

to let the oppressed[1] go free,
and to break every yoke?
7 Is it not to share your bread with the hungry and bring the homeless poor into your
house;
when you see the naked, to cover him,
and not to hide yourself from your own flesh?
8 Then shall your light break forth like the dawn,
and your healing shall spring up speedily;
your righteousness shall go before you;
the glory of the Lord shall be your rear guard.
9 Then you shall call, and the Lord will answer;
you shall cry, and he will say, 'Here I am.'
If you take away the yoke from your midst,
the pointing of the finger, and speaking wickedness,
10 if you pour yourself out for the hungry
and satisfy the desire of the afflicted,
then shall your light rise in the darkness
and your gloom be as the noonday.
11 And the Lord will guide you continually and satisfy your desire in scorched places
and make your bones strong;
and you shall be like a watered garden,
like a spring of water,
whose waters do not fail.
12 And your ancient ruins shall be rebuilt;
you shall raise up the foundations of many generations;
you shall be called the repairer of the breach,
the restorer of streets to dwell in.

13 "If you turn back your foot from the Sabbath,
from doing your pleasure[2] on my holy day,
and call the Sabbath a delight

and the holy day of the Lord honorable;
if you honor it, not going your own ways,
or seeking your own pleasure,[3] or talking idly;[4]
14 † then you shall take delight in the Lord, and I will make you ride on the heights of the earth;[5]
I will feed you with the heritage of Jacob your
father,
for the mouth of the Lord has spoken.”

Evil and Oppression

59 [1]†† Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save,
or his ear dull, that it cannot hear;

[2]† but your iniquities have made a separation between you and your God,
and your sins have hidden his face from you
so that he does not hear.
[3]† For your hands are defiled with blood and your fingers with iniquity;
your lips have spoken lies;
your tongue mutters wickedness.
[4]† No one enters suit justly;
no one goes to law honestly;
they rely on empty pleas, they speak lies,
they conceive mischief and give birth to iniquity.
[5]† They hatch adders' eggs;
they weave the spider's web;
he who eats their eggs dies,
and from one that is crushed a viper is hatched.
[6] Their webs will not serve as clothing;
men will not cover themselves with what they make.
Their works are works of iniquity,
and deeds of violence are in their hands.
[7] Their feet run to evil,
and they are swift to shed innocent blood;
their thoughts are thoughts of iniquity;
desolation and destruction are in their highways.

8 † The way of peace they do not know,
and there is no justice in their paths;
they have made their roads crooked;
no one who treads on them knows
peace.

9 † Therefore justice is far from us,
and righteousness does not overtake us;
we hope for light, and behold, darkness,
and for brightness, but we walk in gloom.
10 † † We grope for the wall like the blind;
we grope like those who have no eyes;
we stumble at noon as in the twilight,
among those in full vigor we are like dead
men.
11 † We all growl like bears;
we moan and moan like doves;
we hope for justice, but there is none;
for salvation, but it is far from us.
12 † For our transgressions are multiplied before
you,
and our sins testify against us;
for our transgressions are with us,
and we know our iniquities:
13 † transgressing, and denying the Lord,
and turning back from following our God,
speaking oppression and revolt,
conceiving and uttering from the heart lying
words.
14 † Justice is turned back,
and righteousness stands far away;
for truth has stumbled in the public
squares,
and uprightness cannot enter.
15 Truth is lacking,

and he who departs from evil makes himself
a prey.

Judgment and Redemption

The Lord saw it, and it displeased him[1]
that there was no justice.

16 He saw that there was no man,
and wondered that there was no one to intercede;
then his own arm brought him salvation,
and his righteousness upheld him.
17 He put on righteousness as a breastplate,
and a helmet of salvation on his head;
he put on garments of vengeance for clothing,
and wrapped himself in zeal as a cloak.
18 According to their deeds, so will he repay, wrath to his adversaries, repayment to his enemies;
to the coastlands he will render repayment.
19 So they shall fear the name of the Lord from the west,
and his glory from the rising of the sun;
for he will come like a rushing stream,[2]
which the wind of the Lord drives.

20 "And a Redeemer will come to Zion, to those in Jacob who turn from transgression," declares the Lord.

21 "And as for me, this is my covenant with them," says the Lord: "My Spirit that is upon you, and my words that I have put in your mouth, shall not depart out of your mouth, or out of the mouth of your offspring, or out of the mouth of your children's offspring," says the Lord, "from this time forth and forevermore."

The Future Glory of Israel

60 [1]‡‡Arise, shine, for your light has come,
and the glory of the Lord has risen upon you.

[2] For behold, darkness shall cover the
earth,
and thick darkness the peoples;
but the Lord will arise upon you,
and his glory will be seen upon you.
[3]‡ And nations shall come to your light,
and kings to the brightness of your rising.

[4]‡‡ Lift up your eyes all around, and see;
they all gather together, they come to you;
your sons shall come from afar,
and your daughters shall be carried on the hip.
[5] Then you shall see and be radiant;
your heart shall thrill and exult,[1]
because the abundance of the sea shall be turned to you,
the wealth of the nations shall come to
you.
[6]‡ A multitude of camels shall cover you,
the young camels of Midian and Ephah;
all those from Sheba shall come.
They shall bring gold and frankincense,
and shall bring good news, the praises of the Lord.
[7]‡ All the flocks of Kedar shall be gathered to
you;
the rams of Nebaioth shall minister to you;

they shall come up with acceptance on my altar,
and I will beautify my beautiful house.

8 Who are these that fly like a cloud,
and like doves to their windows?
9† For the coastlands shall hope for me,
the ships of Tarshish first,
to bring your children from afar,
their silver and gold with them,
for the name of the LORD your God,
and for the Holy One of Israel,
because he has made you beautiful.

10†† Foreigners shall build up your walls,
and their kings shall minister to you;
for in my wrath I struck you,
but in my favor I have had mercy on you.
11† Your gates shall be open continually;
day and night they shall not be shut,
that people may bring to you the wealth of the nations,
with their kings led in procession.
12† For the nation and kingdom
that will not serve you shall perish;
those nations shall be utterly laid waste.
13† The glory of Lebanon shall come to you,
the cypress, the plane, and the pine,
to beautify the place of my sanctuary,
and I will make the place of my feet
glorious.
14† The sons of those who afflicted you shall come bending low to you,
and all who despised you shall bow down at your feet;

they shall call you the City of the Lord,
the Zion of the Holy One of Israel.

15 Whereas you have been forsaken and hated,
with no one passing through,
I will make you majestic forever,
a joy from age to age.
16 You shall suck the milk of nations;
you shall nurse at the breast of kings;
and you shall know that I, the Lord, am your Savior
and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

17 Instead of bronze I will bring gold,
and instead of iron I will bring silver;
instead of wood, bronze,
instead of stones, iron.
I will make your overseers peace
and your taskmasters righteousness.
18 Violence shall no more be heard in your
land,
devastation or destruction within your borders;
you shall call your walls Salvation,
and your gates Praise.

19 The sun shall be no more
your light by day,
nor for brightness shall the moon
give you light;[1]
but the Lord will be your everlasting light,
and your God will be your glory.[2]

20 † Your sun shall no more go down,
nor your moon withdraw itself;
for the Lord will be your everlasting light,
and your days of mourning shall be ended.
21 † Your people shall all be righteous;
they shall possess the land forever,
the branch of my planting, the work of my
hands,
that I might be glorified.[3] 22 † The least one shall become a clan,
and the smallest one a mighty nation;
I am the Lord;
in its time I will hasten it.

The Year of the Lord's Favor

61 [1]†The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me, because the Lord has anointed me
to bring good news to the poor;[4]
he has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted,
to proclaim liberty to the captives,
and the opening of the prison to those who are bound;[5]

[2]† to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor,
and the day of vengeance of our God;
to comfort all who mourn;
[3]† to grant to those who mourn in Zion—
to give them a beautiful headdress instead of ashes,
the oil of gladness instead of mourning,
the garment of praise instead of a faint
spirit;
that they may be called oaks of
righteousness,
the planting of the Lord, that he may be glorified.[1] [4]† They shall build up the ancient ruins;
they shall raise up the former devastations;
they shall repair the ruined cities,
the devastations of many generations.

[5]† Strangers shall stand and tend your flocks;
foreigners shall be your plowmen and vinedressers;
[6]† but you shall be called the priests of the Lord;
they shall speak of you as the ministers of our God;
you shall eat the wealth of the nations,
and in their glory you shall boast.

7† Instead of your shame there shall be a double portion;
instead of dishonor they shall rejoice in their lot;
therefore in their land they shall possess a double portion;
they shall have everlasting joy.

8† For I the LORD love justice;
I hate robbery and wrong;[2]
I will faithfully give them their recompense,
and I will make an everlasting covenant
with them.
9† Their offspring shall be known among the
nations,
and their descendants in the midst of the
peoples;
all who see them shall acknowledge
them,
that they are an offspring the LORD has
blessed.

10† I will greatly rejoice in the LORD;
my soul shall exult in my God,
for he has clothed me with the garments of salvation;
he has covered me with the robe of
righteousness,
as a bridegroom decks himself like a priest
with a beautiful headdress,
and as a bride adorns herself with her jewels.
11† For as the earth brings forth its sprouts, and as a garden causes what is sown in it to sprout up,

so the Lord GOD will cause righteousness and
praise
to sprout up before all the nations.

Zion's Coming Salvation

62 [1]†For Zion's sake I will not keep silent, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not be quiet,
until her righteousness goes forth as brightness,
and her salvation as a burning torch.

[2]† The nations shall see your righteousness,
and all the kings your glory,
and you shall be called by a new name
that the mouth of the Lord will give.
[3]† You shall be a crown of beauty in the hand of
the Lord,
and a royal diadem in the hand of your God.
[4]† You shall no more be termed Forsaken,[1]
and your land shall no more be termed Desolate,[2]
but you shall be called My Delight Is in Her,[3]
and your land Married;[4]
for the Lord delights in you,
and your land shall be married.
[5]† For as a young man marries a young woman,
so shall your sons marry you,
and as the bridegroom rejoices over the bride,
so shall your God rejoice over you.

[6]†† On your walls, O Jerusalem,
I have set watchmen;
all the day and all the night
they shall never be silent.
You who put the Lord in remembrance,
take no rest,
[7] and give him no rest

until he establishes Jerusalem
and makes it a praise in the earth.
8† The Lord has sworn by his right hand
and by his mighty arm:
"I will not again give your grain
to be food for your enemies,
and foreigners shall not drink your wine
for which you have labored;
9† but those who garner it shall eat it
and praise the Lord,
and those who gather it shall drink it
in the courts of my sanctuary."[5]

10† Go through, go through the gates;
prepare the way for the people;
build up, build up the highway;
clear it of stones;
lift up a signal over the peoples.
11† Behold, the Lord has proclaimed
to the end of the earth:
Say to the daughter of Zion,
"Behold, your salvation comes;
behold, his reward is with him,
and his recompense before him."
12† And they shall be called The Holy People,
The Redeemed of the Lord;
and you shall be called Sought Out,
A City Not Forsaken.

The Lord's Day of Vengeance

63 [1]†††Who is this who comes from Edom,
in crimsoned garments from Bozrah,
he who is splendid in his apparel,
marching in the greatness of his strength?
"It is I, speaking in righteousness, mighty to save."

[2]† Why is your apparel red,
and your garments like his who treads in the winepress?

[3]† "I have trodden the winepress alone,
and from the peoples no one was
with me;
I trod them in my anger
and trampled them in my wrath;
their lifeblood[1] spattered on my garments,
and stained all my apparel.
[4]† For the day of vengeance was in my heart,
and my year of redemption[2] had come.
[5]† I looked, but there was no one to help;
I was appalled, but there was no one to uphold;
so my own arm brought me salvation,
and my wrath upheld me.
[6]† I trampled down the peoples in my anger;
I made them drunk in my wrath,
and I poured out their lifeblood on the earth."

The Lord's Mercy Remembered

7 I will recount the steadfast love of the Lord,
the praises of the Lord,
according to all that the Lord has granted us,
and the great goodness to the house of Israel
that he has granted them according to his compassion,
according to the abundance of his steadfast love.
8 For he said, "Surely they are my people,
children who will not deal falsely."
And he became their Savior.
9 In all their affliction he was afflicted,[3]
and the angel of his presence saved them;
in his love and in his pity he redeemed them;
he lifted them up and carried them all the days of old.

10 But they rebelled
and grieved his Holy Spirit;
therefore he turned to be their enemy,
and himself fought against them.
11 Then he remembered the days of old,
of Moses and his people.[4]
Where is he who brought them up out of the sea with the shepherds of his flock?
Where is he who put in the midst of them
his Holy Spirit,
12 who caused his glorious arm
to go at the right hand of Moses,
who divided the waters before them
to make for himself an everlasting name, 13 who led them through the depths?

Like a horse in the desert,
they did not stumble.
14 † Like livestock that go down into the valley,
the Spirit of the Lord gave them rest.
So you led your people,
to make for yourself a glorious name.

Prayer for Mercy

15 Look down from heaven and see,
from your holy and beautiful[1] habitation.
Where are your zeal and your might?
The stirring of your inner parts and your compassion
are held back from me.
16 For you are our Father,
though Abraham does not know us,
and Israel does not acknowledge us;
you, O Lord, are our Father,
our Redeemer from of old is your name.
17 O Lord, why do you make us wander from your ways
and harden our heart, so that we fear you not?
Return for the sake of your servants,
the tribes of your heritage.
18 Your holy people held possession for a little while;[2]
our adversaries have trampled down your
sanctuary.
19 We have become like those over whom you have never ruled,
like those who are not called by your name.

64 1 Oh that you would rend the heavens and come down,
that the mountains might quake at your presence—

2 [3] as when fire kindles brushwood and the fire causes water to boil—to make your name known to your adversaries,

and that the nations might tremble at your
presence!
3 When you did awesome things that we did not look for,
you came down, the mountains quaked at your presence.
4† From of old no one has heard
or perceived by the ear,
no eye has seen a God besides you,
who acts for those who wait for him.
5† You meet him who joyfully works
righteousness,
those who remember you in your ways.
Behold, you were angry, and we sinned;
in our sins we have been a long time, and shall we be saved?[4] 6† We have all become like one who is unclean, and all our righteous deeds are like a polluted garment.
We all fade like a leaf,
and our iniquities, like the wind, take us
away.
7† There is no one who calls upon your name,
who rouses himself to take hold of you;
for you have hidden your face from us,
and have made us melt in[1] the hand of our iniquities.

8† But now, O Lord, you are our Father;
we are the clay, and you are our potter;
we are all the work of your hand.
9 Be not so terribly angry, O Lord,
and remember not iniquity forever.
Behold, please look, we are all your people.
10† Your holy cities have become a wilderness;

Zion has become a wilderness,
Jerusalem a desolation.
11 † Our holy and beautiful[2] house,
where our fathers praised you,
has been burned by fire,
and all our pleasant places have become ruins.
12 † Will you restrain yourself at these things,
O LORD?
Will you keep silent, and afflict us so terribly?

Judgment and Salvation

65 [1]†† I was ready to be sought by those who did not ask for me;
I was ready to be found by those who did not seek me.
I said, “Here am I, here am I,”
to a nation that was not called by[3] my name.

[2]† I spread out my hands all the day
to a rebellious people,
who walk in a way that is not good,
following their own devices;
[3]† a people who provoke me
to my face continually, sacrificing in gardens
and making offerings on bricks;
[4]† who sit in tombs,
and spend the night in secret places;
who eat pig’s flesh,
and broth of tainted meat is in their vessels;
[5]† who say, “Keep to yourself, do not come near me, for I am too holy for
you.”
These are a smoke in my nostrils,
a fire that burns all the day.
[6]† Behold, it is written before me:
“I will not keep silent, but I will repay;
I will indeed repay into their bosom
[7]† both your iniquities and your fathers’ iniquities together,
says the Lord;

because they made offerings on the
mountains
and insulted me on the hills,

I will measure into their bosom payment for their former deeds."[1]

8 Thus says the Lord:
"As the new wine is found in the cluster,
and they say, 'Do not destroy it,
for there is a blessing in it,'
so I will do for my servants' sake,
and not destroy them all.
9 I will bring forth offspring from Jacob,
and from Judah possessors of my
mountains;
my chosen shall possess it,
and my servants shall dwell there.
10 Sharon shall become a pasture for flocks, and the Valley of Achor a place for herds to lie down,
for my people who have sought me.
11 But you who forsake the Lord,
who forget my holy mountain, who set a table for Fortune
and fill cups of mixed wine for Destiny, 12 I will destine you to the sword, and all of you shall bow down to the
slaughter,
because, when I called, you did not
answer;
when I spoke, you did not listen,
but you did what was evil in my eyes and chose what I did not delight in."

13 Therefore thus says the Lord God:
"Behold, my servants shall eat,
but you shall be hungry;
behold, my servants shall drink,

but you shall be thirsty;
behold, my servants shall rejoice,
but you shall be put to shame;
14† behold, my servants shall sing for gladness of
heart,
but you shall cry out for pain of heart
and shall wail for breaking of spirit.
15† You shall leave your name to my chosen for
a curse,
and the Lord God will put you to death,
but his servants he will call by another
name.
16† So that he who blesses himself in the land shall bless himself by the God of truth,
and he who takes an oath in the land shall swear by the God of truth;
because the former troubles are forgotten
and are hidden from my eyes.

New Heavens and a New Earth

17 “For behold, I create new heavens and a new earth,
and the former things shall not be remembered
or come into mind.
18 But be glad and rejoice forever
in that which I create;
for behold, I create Jerusalem to be a joy,
and her people to be a gladness.
19 I will rejoice in Jerusalem
and be glad in my people;
no more shall be heard in it the sound of weeping
and the cry of distress.
20 No more shall there be in it
an infant who lives but a few days, or an old man who does not fill out his
days,
for the young man shall die a hundred years
old,
and the sinner a hundred years old shall be accursed.
21 They shall build houses and inhabit them;
they shall plant vineyards and eat their
fruit.
22 They shall not build and another inhabit;
they shall not plant and another eat;
for like the days of a tree shall the days of my people be,
and my chosen shall long enjoy[1] the work of their hands.
23 They shall not labor in vain
or bear children for calamity,[2]

for they shall be the offspring of the blessed
of the Lord,
and their descendants with them.
24 † Before they call I will answer;
while they are yet speaking I will hear.
25 † The wolf and the lamb shall graze together;
the lion shall eat straw like the ox,
and dust shall be the serpent's food.
They shall not hurt or destroy
in all my holy mountain,"
says the Lord.

The Humble and Contrite in Spirit

66 [1]†† Thus says the Lord:
"Heaven is my throne,
and the earth is my footstool;
what is the house that you would build for me,
and what is the place of my rest?

[2]† All these things my hand has made,
and so all these things came to be,
declares the Lord.
But this is the one to whom I will look:
he who is humble and contrite in spirit
and trembles at my word.

[3]† "He who slaughters an ox is like one who kills
a man;
he who sacrifices a lamb, like one who breaks a dog's neck;
he who presents a grain offering, like one who offers pig's blood;
he who makes a memorial offering of frankincense, like one who blesses an idol.
These have chosen their own ways,
and their soul delights in their abominations;
[4]† I also will choose harsh treatment for them
and bring their fears upon them,
because when I called, no one answered,
when I spoke, they did not listen;
but they did what was evil in my eyes
and chose that in which I did not delight."

5 ‡‡ Hear the word of the Lord,
you who tremble at his word:
"Your brothers who hate you and cast you out for my name's sake
have said, 'Let the Lord be glorified,
that we may see your joy';
but it is they who shall be put to shame.

6 "The sound of an uproar from the city!
A sound from the temple!
The sound of the Lord,
rendering recompense to his enemies!

Rejoice with Jerusalem

7 “Before she was in labor
she gave birth;
before her pain came upon her
she delivered a son.
8 Who has heard such a thing?
Who has seen such things?
Shall a land be born in one day?
Shall a nation be brought forth in one moment?
For as soon as Zion was in labor
she brought forth her children.
9 Shall I bring to the point of birth and not cause to bring forth?”
says the Lord;
“shall I, who cause to bring forth, shut the womb?”
says your God.

10 “Rejoice with Jerusalem, and be glad for her,
all you who love her;
rejoice with her in joy,
all you who mourn over her;
11 that you may nurse and be satisfied
from her consoling breast;
that you may drink deeply with delight
from her glorious abundance.”[1]

12 For thus says the Lord:
“Behold, I will extend peace to her like a river,
and the glory of the nations like an overflowing stream;

and you shall nurse, you shall be carried
upon her hip,
and bounced upon her knees.
13 † As one whom his mother comforts,
so I will comfort you;
you shall be comforted in Jerusalem.
14 † You shall see, and your heart shall rejoice;
your bones shall flourish like the grass;
and the hand of the Lord shall be known to his servants,
and he shall show his indignation against his enemies.

Final Judgment and Glory of the Lord

15 ‡† “For behold, the Lord will come in fire,
and his chariots like the whirlwind,
to render his anger in fury,
and his rebuke with flames of fire.
16 † For by fire will the Lord enter into
judgment,
and by his sword, with all flesh;
and those slain by the Lord shall be many.

17 † “Those who sanctify and purify themselves to go into the gardens, following one in the midst, eating pig’s flesh and the abomination and mice, shall come to an end together, declares the Lord.

18 †“For I know[2] their works and their thoughts, and the time is coming[3] to gather all nations and tongues. And they shall come and shall see my glory, 19 † and I will set a sign among them. And from them I will send survivors to the nations, to Tarshish, Pul, and Lud, who draw the bow, to Tubal and Javan, to the coastlands far away, that have not heard my fame or seen my glory. And they shall declare my glory among the nations. 20 †And they shall bring all your brothers from all the nations as an offering to the Lord, on horses and in chariots and in litters and on mules and on dromedaries, to my holy mountain Jerusalem, says the Lord, just as the Israelites bring their grain offering in a clean vessel to the house of the Lord. 21 †And some of them also I will take for priests and for Levites, says the Lord.

22 † “For as the new heavens and the new earth that I make
shall remain before me, says the Lord,
so shall your offspring and your name
remain.
23 † From new moon to new moon,
and from Sabbath to Sabbath,

all flesh shall come to worship before me,
declares the LORD.

24 † “And they shall go out and look on the dead bodies of the men who have rebelled against me. For their worm shall not die, their fire shall not be quenched, and they shall be an abhorrence to all flesh.”

Introduction to Isaiah

Reading Isaiah

With one hand, she slips the ivory comb through her wavy black hair. With the other, she checks her progress in a polished bronze mirror. Setting aside the comb, she begins to darken her eyelids, using an alabaster wand to spread the black paint. A pendant for each ear; a ring for the nose. She slides one bangle after another over her wrist until she clinks musically with each movement. Over her head and neck, she lowers a delicate necklace, which suspends a small silver scroll, the gift of her father, a priest. Inside is scribed the benediction he pronounces over the people at the temple on Mount Zion, including the sacred name of Yahweh. As she rises to leave, she adds one more item: a second necklace, heavy with beads. At its center hangs an amulet in the figure of Bes, a troll-like Egyptian god of good luck.

Isaiah records the longest list of clothing and accessories in all of Scripture (3:6–4:1), which he cites as evidence of Judah's affluence, idolatry, and growing indifference to God's Word. As a Jerusalem insider, with access to the king's court, Isaiah saw firsthand the extravagance, injustice, and spiritual failure of Judah's leaders. He would witness the lean years during the siege by the Assyrians. He would prophesy Judah's downfall to the Babylonians. He would see the daughters of Zion in chains but then set free, worshiping the Lord with those who had formerly oppressed them (19:19–25).

Luther on Isaiah

If anyone would read the holy prophet Isaiah with profit and understand him better, let him not ignore this advice and instruction of mine, unless he has better advice or is himself better informed. In the first place let him not skip the title, or beginning, of this book [Isa. 1:1], but learn to understand it as thoroughly as possible, in order that he may not imagine he understands Isaiah very well, and then have someone charge him with never having even understood the title and first line, let alone the whole prophet. For this title is to be regarded really as a gloss and a light upon the whole book. Isaiah himself, as though with his finger, points his readers to this title as stating the occasion and reason for his book. I say to him who ignores or does not understand the title that he should let the prophet Isaiah alone, or at least that he will not understand him thoroughly. For it is impossible to mark or perceive the prophet's words and meaning properly and clearly without this thorough understanding of the title.

When I speak of the title [1:1], I do not mean only that you should read or understand the words "Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah," etc., but that you should take in hand the last book of Kings and the last book of Chronicles and grasp them well, especially the events, the speeches, and the incidents that occurred under the kings named in the title [of Isaiah], clear to the end of those books. For if one would understand the prophecies, it is necessary that one know how things were in the land, how matters lay, what was in the mind of the people—what plans they had with respect to their neighbors, friends, and enemies—and especially what attitude they took in their country toward God and toward the prophet, whether they held to his word and worship or to idolatry.

Lands Surrounding Israel and Judah

In addition it would be well also to know how these lands were situated with reference to one another, so that the strange and unfamiliar words and names might not make reading unpleasant and impede or obscure understanding. To do my simple Germans a service, I shall briefly describe the country surrounding Jerusalem or Judah, where Isaiah lived and preached, so that they may better see whither the prophet turned when he prophesied to the south or the north, etc. [geography follows; see map, p 558] …

These are really the lands and the names about which Isaiah prophesies, the neighbors—enemies and friends—surrounding the land of Judah like wolves around a sheepfold. With some of them Judah made alliances and counter-alliances, but it did not help her at all.

What the Prophet Isaiah Treats

After this, you must divide the prophet Isaiah into three parts. In the first part, like the other prophets, he handles two things. First he preaches a good deal to his people and rebukes their many sins, especially the manifold idolatry which has got the upper hand among the people. As godly preachers now and always do and must do with their people, so Isaiah too keeps the people in check with threats of punishment and promises of good.

Second he prepares and disposes them to expect the coming kingdom of Christ, of which he prophesies more clearly and in more ways than any other prophet. In chapter 7 he even describes the mother of Christ, the Virgin Mary, how she is to conceive and bear him with her virginity intact. In chapter 53 Isaiah even describes Christ's passion together with his resurrection from the dead, proclaiming his kingdom as powerfully and plainly as if it had just happened, already at that time. This must have been a splendid and highly enlightened prophet. For all the prophets do the same: they teach and rebuke the people of their time, and they proclaim the coming and the kingdom of Christ, directing and pointing the people to him as the common Savior of both those who have gone before and those who are yet to come. Only, one of the prophets does more of this than another, one does it more extensively than another. Isaiah, however, does it most of all, and more extensively than any of the others.

In the second part Isaiah has to do especially with the empire of Assyria and the Emperor Sennacherib. He also prophesies more and at greater length about this than does any other prophet, namely, about how the emperor would subdue all neighboring lands, including the kingdom of Israel, and inflict much misfortune on the kingdom of Judah. But there he stands like a rock, with his promise that Jerusalem shall be defended and freed by him from Sennacherib. And this is one of the greatest miracles to be found in the Scripture, not only because of the event, that so mighty an emperor should be defeated before Jerusalem, but also because of the faith with which men believed it. It is a miracle, I say, that anyone at Jerusalem could have believed him in such an impossible thing. Isaiah must, without doubt, have heard many bad words from unbelievers. Yet he did it; he defeated the emperor and defended the city. He must have stood well with God and been a precious man in his sight!

In the third part Isaiah has to do with the empire at Babylon. Here he prophesies of the Babylonian captivity, whereby the people were to be punished and Jerusalem destroyed by the emperor at Babylon. It is here that he does his greatest work, comforting and upholding a people yet to be, in this destruction and captivity yet to come, in order that they might not despair, as if they were vanquished and Christ's kingdom would not be coming and all prophecy were false and vain. How rich and full his preaching: Babylon shall in turn be destroyed, and the Jews will be released and will return to Jerusalem. With proud defiance of Babylon, Isaiah even gives the names of the kings who shall destroy it, namely the Medes and Elamites, or Persians. He mentions particularly the king who shall release the Jews and help them back to Jerusalem, namely Cyrus, whom Isaiah calls "God's anointed" [Isa. 45:1]. He does all this long before there is a kingdom in Persia. For he is concerned altogether with the Christ, that his future coming and the promised kingdom of grace and salvation shall not be despised or be lost and in vain because of unbelief and great misfortune and impatience amongst his people. This, indeed, would be the case, unless the people expected it and believed confidently that it would come. These, then, are the three things with which Isaiah deals. (AE 35:273–77)

Challenges for Readers

Authorship. Critics have proposed that numerous authors wrote the Book of Isaiah, typically dividing the Book between three proposed authors: First Isaiah (chs 1–39), Second Isaiah (chs 40–55), and Third Isaiah (chs 56–66). The latter two proposed authors are regarded as disciples or students of either the original Isaiah or of his school of thought. Although Isaiah certainly had students or disciples (8:16), the critical divisions and attributions are entirely speculative. Thematic arguments can be proposed for these divisions (as Luther points out above), but no early traditions or manuscript evidence supports the critical proposals. As a result, the critics' divisions of the Book have become increasingly suspect. The traditional view—attributing the whole work to Isaiah—is again receiving favor. The only historically attested division of the Book is in the great Isaiah scroll of Qumran (1QIsa[a]), which has a three-line break after 33:24.

Scope of Chronology. From the death of King Uzziah of Judah (740 BC; Is 6:1) to the reign of Emperor Cyrus of Persia (539 BC; Is 45:1), Isaiah's prophecies involve at least 200 years of OT history (not to mention prophecies of the Messiah and Judgment Day). Because the prophecies do not appear in a clear chronological order, interpreting the Book can be confusing (e.g., see "Authorship" above). The following OT historical events are mentioned in the prophecies: (1) the Syro-Ephraimitic crisis and outcome (735–732 BC); (2) the Neo-Assyrian assault on Judah and Jerusalem (705–701 BC); (3) the threat of Babylon (c 610–587 BC); (4) the time of Cyrus (c 540 BC); and (5) life in the rebuilt Jerusalem (c 520–480 BC). On prophetic perspective, see p 1258.

The Servant Songs. See p 1178.

Blessings for Readers

No other OT prophet is quoted as often in the NT as the prophet Isaiah. This is due to the breadth of topics he covered and to his frequent descriptions of the coming Messiah and His kingdom, which find fulfillment in the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Isaiah prophesies so often about the coming Messiah that some commentators have called his prophecy the "Fifth Gospel."

Read Isaiah for his pointed declarations of God's Law and also for beautiful words of comfort, to which he always returns.

The Isaiah Scroll

During the turmoil following World War II, Bedouin shepherds of the Ta'amireh tribe stepped from a cave near the northwest shore of the Dead Sea. They carried a number of ancient artifacts found in the cave. In a large jar was a leather scroll over 24 feet long. It was made from 17 sheepskins sewn together with linen thread. The shepherds journeyed to Bethlehem, where they sold their discovery to a cobbler called Kando. They did not realize that they had made the first find of the greatest archaeological discovery of the twentieth century: the Dead Sea Scrolls.

The great scroll discovered by the shepherds is known today as 1QIsa^{a}, meaning "Qumran cave 1, Isaiah scroll a." It is an almost complete copy of the Book of Isaiah, arranged in 54 columns, dating from the second century before Christ. Until this discovery, the oldest Hebrew manuscripts of Isaiah were copies made in Russia (the Masoretic texts) and dating to c AD 1000.

As scholars began to compare the Qumran copy of Isaiah with the later copies, they expected to find significant differences between them. After all, the manuscripts were scribed more than 11 centuries apart. The scholars had been taught by critics of the Bible that ancient books developed over long periods of time through the efforts of many authors. They assumed that centuries of copying would have added considerable changes. Instead, the scholars discovered that the Isaiah scroll nearly matched the later Masoretic texts. The most numerous changes were variations in spelling, done to help the second-century BC readers correctly pronounce the words. For thousands of years, scribes had faithfully copied Isaiah's text, preserving for us the words of the prophet!

A Sure Prophetic Word

As you unfold the prophecies of Isaiah, bear in mind these surprising discoveries by Bedouins and scholars. Read Isaiah as something more than the words of a great Hebrew poet. Hear, through Isaiah, the voice of God, who called the prophet to write and who guided him to speak an everlasting message of repentance, faith, and faithfulness. Most important, rejoice in Isaiah's prophecies about the One whom other shepherds discovered at Bethlehem: Immanuel (Is 7:14).

Isaiah's City of God

Zion is the place where Yahweh located His gracious presence for people and made Himself accessible (see p 844). In the Old Testament, it is where one goes to commune and have fellowship with the Lord. Zion is a key term and theme for Isaiah. It represents God's people, free from their oppressors and made faithful by His Word. In the New Testament, Zion becomes a name for God's Church (Heb 12:22–23; Rv 14:1).

Isaiah’s Visions of Zion

Zion’s exiles will return
11:11–16; 14:1–3; 27:12–13; 35:10; ch 49; 51:11
Zion will draw all nations to herself

Five Reasons to Give Tithes and Offerings

The Lord speaks against insincere offerings intended to impress other people (Is 1:10–17; Mt 6:2–4; Mk 12:41–44). He desires that we give cheerfully and that we honor His generous gifts to us. Scripture includes the following good reasons to present tithes and offerings to God:

Thankfulness to God for the blessings He provides us through the Gospel (Dt 14:22–29; Rm 15:25–28; 2Co 9:7).

Desire to support the mission of preaching the Gospel so that others may partake of God's peace and salvation (Rm 15:28b; Php 1:3–5; 4:14–20).

Desire to show support and care for church workers (Nu 18:21–24; Ne 12:44; Gal 6:6–7; 1Tm 5:17–18).

God commanded tithing under the Old Testament, by which He has set before us an enduring example of faithful giving (Lv 27:32; Gn 14:18–20; Heb 7:1–10).

God challenged His people to test His generosity by demonstrating their generosity in giving to His temple (Mal 3:6–12).

Early in Israel's history, the priests at the temple received offerings of grain, fruit, or animals. Later, offerings of bit-silver or money were placed in a chest at the temple, which stood by the entryway so that people could deposit their money (2Ki 12:9; 2Ch 24:4–11); the passing of offering plates is a modern innovation.

Holy, Holy, Holy

God, the Holy One of Israel, is absolutely perfect, pure, and sinless. His absolute righteousness cannot tolerate the slightest error. He demands that we be perfect, as He is perfect (Mt 5:48; cf Lv 11:44). Yet, we are sinful, error-prone, and rebellious against our Maker. Because our sin separates us from His presence, our heavenly Father sent His Holy One—Jesus—to sanctify us. His blood purifies us so that we might live with Him and serve as His holy people.

I Have Seen God!

In the last year of King Uzziah's life, Isaiah had a vision of God sitting upon His throne in the heavenly temple. He saw the seraphim, the six-winged angels, flying above the throne. They shouted out to each other: "Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of hosts" (Is 6:3). Isaiah stood in the presence of the Thrice Holy: God the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

Like Moses and Gideon (Ex 33:20; Jgs 6:20–23), Isaiah was frightened because he knew that no one could see God and live. In the presence of the Holy One of Israel, Isaiah was instantly aware of how sinful he was. He was impure in a place that required perfect purity. Consider, for example, how embarrassing it is to spill something on your shirt at a formal gathering. How much greater shame Isaiah must have felt! In His mercy, God sent one of the seraphim to take a coal from the altar of sacrifice and touch it to Isaiah's lips. This purged the prophet of his sins. Isaiah was made fit to bear God's Word to His people. When God asked, "Whom shall I send?" Isaiah replied, "Here am I! Send me" (Is 6:8).

The Holy One of Israel

This heavenly vision made a deep impression on Isaiah. One of his favorite titles for God became "the Holy One of Israel." The prophet uses this name for Yahweh 24 times. (The name appears only six other times in God's Word.) Isaiah warned the people who mocked the Holy One of Israel while believing that God would not bring judgment on them (5:18–19). He condemned them for trying to silence the Lord's messengers (30:9–11). If God's people would repent and trust in Him, they would be saved. Instead, they chose to depend on their foreign resources (30:16; 31:1). In His anger, God called the foreign nations to come and destroy His nation (5:26).

But God's vengeance is not satisfied with the humbling of His people. In his pride, the king of Assyria had blasphemed and insulted the Holy One of Israel. God promised to send sickness to kill Assyria's soldiers and fire to destroy their forests (10:16–17). Although this army would destroy Judah, God would preserve some of His people. They would look to Him for salvation (17:7). They would rejoice that the Holy One of Israel was with them (29:19).

God kept these promises during the reign of faithful King Hezekiah. The Assyrian army captured all of Judah except for Jerusalem. The angel of the Lord struck down 185,000 of His people's enemies. King Sennacherib of Assyria withdrew the remaining forces to his capital, where his own sons assassinated him. During the remaining years of Hezekiah's reign, Judah lived in peace. Yet Isaiah knew the people of Judah would soon disobey the Holy One of Israel again. He warned Hezekiah that the day would come when Babylon would carry Judah into exile (chs 38–39).

Although the Holy One of Israel kept His promise to free a remnant of His people, He had even greater plans in store—for Jew and Gentile alike. He would be their Helper, Redeemer, and Savior (41:14; 43:3, 14; 47:4; 48:17; 49:7; 54:5). He sent His Holy One, Jesus, to live a perfect, sinless, and holy life for us. God's sinless Son became the sacrifice to pay the price for our sins and gain our salvation. Now when God sees us, He sees us clothed in the righteousness of Christ. We are now holy in His sight (Col 1:22).

Saints and Sinners at the Same Time

Before God made the world, He chose us in Christ Jesus to be His children (Eph 1:4). Just as Isaiah was cleansed when the coal from the altar touched his lips, so our Father cleansed us in the waters of our Baptism by joining us to Christ in His death and resurrection (Rm 6:1–14). In Christ, He made us new creations who love Him, trust in Him, and have His power to live holy lives. We are now His saints, a word that means "holy ones."

Yet our old sinful nature still lives within us. It urges us to give in to the temptations of the unholy trinity—the devil, the world, and our flesh. We often yield to them, bringing evil into our lives. We often serve ourselves first, try to please our friends, and attempt to fit into our world, satisfying our urge to seek pleasure and comfort at all costs. We are saints and sinners at the same time.

As we strive to live as the saints God created us to be, we are not alone. The Thrice Holy—God the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit—is with us always. In Baptism, God made us His own. In the Lord's Supper, we receive strength for our journey. When our sins depress us so that we cry out, "Woe is me!" and wonder if God can ever forgive us, we hear, in the voice of our pastor, God's pardon for every evil we have done. As we contemplate death, we have the same vision of God's throne as Isaiah, St John, and all the saints who have entered the heavenly temple before us. With them we cannot help but say, "Here am I! Send me!"

What, Then, Does Holy Mean?

The word holy in Hebrew means "separate" (see p 7). Thus, the Holy One of Israel is separate from His people in His perfection, power, and loving-kindness (and many other characteristics). God's holiness shines forth in such events as the burning bush, where the angel of the Lord appeared to Moses. He was told, "Take your sandals off your feet, for the place on which you are standing is holy ground" (Ex 3:2, 5). The Holy One of Israel is uncompromising in His expectation of faithfulness from His people; anything less brings destruction.

The answer for His people's sinful lives was to receive the salvation that the Holy One of Israel offers. That salvation required punishment for sin—or God would no longer be holy. In order to "be just [holy] and the justifier [who declares the sinner as holy and forgiven]" (Rm 3:26), God in His great love let His own Son suffer the punishment we deserve. Through Him, we might have complete forgiveness and be counted as holy in His sight (Is 41:14; 48:17).

Isaiah's Triptych of Christ

Isaiah displays the coming Savior in a threefold way. As you read Isaiah, take note of the different kinds of promises, which all are fulfilled in Jesus of Nazareth.

The Joy of Deliverance

Isaiah 12] describes the joy of deliverance, but it is not limited to description; it is rather a praise song of God's people, gratitude to God for His miraculous gifts.

It is obvious that this song of praise had a liturgical meaning, because one may see a number of parallels here with the other hymns of praise, most notably with the Hallel psalms that the Old Testament Church was singing at the Passover (and other celebrations) while thanking God for the gift of deliverance.

Our chapter has much in common with Psalm 118. … Salvation is a major theme of both the Psalter and [this] text from Isaiah. The key word here is [Hbr] yoshuakh, which is related to the name of our Saviour. … We also sing another part of Psalm 118 every Sunday. We sing "Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord!" when we greet Christ who comes to us in the sacrament of the Eucharist.

God comes to save us. Just as the people of old had been saved from Egyptian slavery, so also we have been saved from the slavery of sin and death through the death and Resurrection of the Son of God Jesus Christ. … He brings salvation to us as a gift. He does not require from us to redeem our own sins, but grants forgiveness to repentant sinners at every liturgy. And it is only in Him that a soul of a sinner who is thirsty for forgiveness and reconciliation with God may find rest.

Teach History, Illustrate by Allegory

Playing games with the Sacred Scriptures has the most injurious consequences if the text and its grammar are neglected. From history we must learn well and much, but little from allegory. You use allegory as an embellishment by which the discourse is illustrated but not established.

Let history remain honest. It teaches, which allegory does not do. But this is what it means to teach: to instruct the conscience about what and how it should know, to nourish faith and the fear of God. In history you have the fulfillment of either promises or threats. Allegory does not pertain to doctrine, but to doctrine already established it can be added as color. The painter's color does not build the house.

The human body does not consist of a garland or a beautiful garment. Even so faith is not established by means of allegories. Here [in Is 13] you have the threats against Babylon that it would be destroyed, although this seemed impossible to the whole world. You also have the promise that Israel would be liberated, which likewise seemed impossible.

Console yourself with this in every trouble. Do not lose hope, consider that God is truthful and that He can accomplish what He has promised, even though there were a hundred Babylons to be destroyed. Israel was held in physical captivity, you in a spiritual one. If you have faith, God will deliver you in the same way and will not forsake you. In this way the histories must be treated, and allegories [comparing them to our life and times] will be profitable. (AE 16:136–37)

The Wrath of God

For people accustomed to New Testament declarations such as "God is love" (1Jn 4:16), Isaiah's oracles against the nations (chs 13–23) sting like a slap on the face. God's wrath presses hard realities upon us—basically three in number. First, we human beings are not our own gods as Satan would have us believe, but the Lord is the one divine being. Second, our relationship with God is fatally afflicted by sin, for which we are fully accountable and subject to God's judgment. Third, wrath ultimately imposes God's perfect justice in full measure. Wrath, therefore, offers no hope. If hope exists at all, it must come as the totally unexpected gift of God's mercy.

We would be wrong to think that God simply experiences the emotion of anger when one or more of His laws are broken—even repeatedly. First of all, human beings cannot understand God's "feelings" in terms of emotions and sentiment as we know them. Emotions of all sorts come and go in us like changing weather patterns. But God's anger and wrath are very different from this. They are passionate actions of divine holiness—measured, purposeful, appropriate, and just. Disobedience (especially the disobedience of the called and chosen people of God's covenant) is worse than breaking a rule, law, or statute. Disobedience tramples on divine love!

Love Spurned Leads to Wrath

Divine love appears before wrath. Divine love is, after all, the essence of God, as the apostle John has written (1Jn 4:16). And it was divine love that initiated God's covenant with Israel.

> g
> It was not because you were more in number than any other people that the LORD set His love on you and chose you, for you were the fewest of all peoples, but it is because the LORD loves you and is keeping the oath that He swore to your fathers. (Dt 7:7–8)

But when God's love is violated by the sinful rebellion, betrayal, and disobedience of those He has loved, God's wrath responds passionately. "I will fall upon them like a bear robbed of her cubs; I will tear open their breast" (Hos 13:8). Isaiah says of God's wrath, "Strange is His deed! … Alien is His work!" (Is 28:21). But it is God's work nonetheless, as real as God's love.

God’s Wrath in Isaiah

Is 24–27 expresses the coming day of God’s wrath upon the whole world and all the forces of evil (cf 24:21). In contrast to this destruction, Israel hoped in the deliverance of God (25:9). But the prophecy also applied to the chosen Israel. “Woe” was shouted against the Northern Kingdom. Its priests and prophets were described as being drunk on their own intoxicating visions and wisdom instead of being filled with the true Spirit of God. As a result, only a remnant of the people would find favor in the Day of the Lord —a day in which the judgment of God would be spoken “by people [oppressive foreign nations] of strange lips and with a foreign tongue” (28:5–13).

This dark prophecy enveloped the Southern Kingdom of Judah as well. God accused its rulers of making a covenant with death and an agreement with the grave (28:15), as if safety could be negotiated and the holy God sidestepped (29:13).

What a tragedy! God’s chosen people had chosen to turn away from God, making the resulting doom under wrath inevitable (30:9–11). Still, God did not withdraw His offer of mercy. God’s love probed for an opening, but Israel’s continuing stubbornness under sin’s self-absorption refused God’s love (30:15; cf Am 8:12). So it was that Assyria and Babylon became God’s instruments of wrath.

God's Surprising Grace

But something curious was afoot—the surprise of divine grace. Even as God's wrath poured out to devastate first the Northern Kingdom and then Judah, a promise of hope was revealed. This hope did not participate in the wishful fantasies of sin, but it was revealed with the same breath that warned so sternly of doom. God's Word of wrath and God's Word of hope advanced together. Wrath was not denied; all would suffer as the result of sinful disobedience. But God chose to limit His wrath. The Lord would return a remnant of the people to Himself in joy—a faithful remnant who "will no more lean on him who struck them, but will lean on the LORD, the Holy One of Israel" (Is 10:20). This remnant would exist as the creation of God's grace, a creation every bit as unexpected as Israel's creation as a covenant people. Its signs would be unexpected miracles of grace—giving sight to blind eyes and sound to deaf ears, strength to helpless limbs and joyous songs to mute tongues: "They shall obtain gladness and joy, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away" (35:10).

This divine vision of hope is recognized as real, however, only because God's wrath upon sin is equally real. Wrath does not point beyond itself—even when God limits it. Wrath ultimately ends everything in the perfectly just consequence of death. God is God; no pretender stands before Him. All are accountable and subject to judgment, which will finally be complete in its fairness and consequence. Those are the realities of wrath. That God should here limit His wrath softened none of this.

Mercy, Love, and Hope

Hope consists of this: after God's wrath has punished the love-trampling disobedience of sin, God retains the divine prerogative to create anew. And that is "what no eye has seen, nor ear heard, nor the heart of man imagined, what God has prepared for those who love Him," namely, Jesus Christ (1Co 2:9; cf Is 64:4).

Mercy, not wrath, is God's last word—even as God's love, not His wrath, is His first word. But love, wrath, and mercy are all God's Word. And this Word God has made flesh in Jesus Christ. In Jesus, God's perfect love is manifest. In Jesus, God's wrath against all sin was not only witnessed, but also was suffered and absorbed to the full. This is the great surprise of grace. Wrath that was held back before (not poured out on the sinner) is emptied upon the Christ (Rm 3:23–25; 2Co 5:21). In Jesus, therefore, forgiving mercy rises up to present new and eternal life to all who believe in Him as Savior and Lord. But wrath remains in all its fullness for those who do not receive Him by faith. Wrath, therefore, will yet have its sad day. Then punishment of the godless—as well as the salvation of believers in Christ—will be complete.

God’s Remnant

The prophet Isaiah places special emphasis on a certain name for God’s people: the remnant. This article connects this important theme in Isaiah with other parts of the Holy Scriptures.

The Old Testament Remnant

One of the earliest names for God's people mentioned in the Bible is remnant, from the Hebrew yether, "remainder," or "whatever remains." This name appears almost 100 times in the Old Testament. For example, in Jgs 7:1–7, Gideon separates the 300 men God will use to defeat the Midianites from the rest of his 32,000 troops.

In a spiritual sense, the remnant designates those who, by God's grace, survived great catastrophe, such as the flood in which Noah and his family were the only persons spared because "Noah was a righteous man, blameless in his generation. Noah walked with God" (Gn 6:9).

As in the days of Noah, the sinfulness of the people seemingly overwhelmed Isaiah, the greatest of the prophets. Like the silver lining in every cloud, so the hope and assurance of a surviving remnant accompanies the prophet's warnings about the inevitable judgment of God on Israel. Already in the first chapter, a ray of light pierces the darkness: "If the Lord of hosts had not left us a few survivors, we should have been like Sodom, and become like Gomorrah" (Is 1:9; cf 28:21–29).

Typical of the picture language used regarding the return of the exiles is this prediction: "there will be a highway from Assyria for the remnant that remains of His people, as there was for Israel when they came up from the land of Egypt" (11:16).

The apostle Paul quoted from Is 59:20 to apply the salvation of the remnant to those of Israel who would come to faith in Christ (Rm 11:26–27). The saving of this remnant would be solely by the grace of God (His unmerited favor toward sinful humanity through Christ), and not by human effort. This is a major theme in Rm 10.

The New Testament Remnant

Elsewhere in the New Testament, the remnant is called the Church, the kingdom of God, and the kingdom of heaven.

Why can we equate the remnant with the Church? Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians is helpful. After praising God for bestowing on us every spiritual blessing in Christ, he continues: "He chose us in Him before the foundation of the world" (Eph 1:4–5, 7).

In Eph 2, we come across this familiar passage: "You are no longer strangers and aliens, but you are fellow citizens with the saints" (2:19–20). The apostle then points to the "mystery" of Christ, which is "that the Gentiles are fellow heirs … partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel" (3:6).

In the remainder of Ephesians, God's people are instructed in holy living: becoming mature in their faith and in the knowledge of the Son of God, not being deceived by false teachers, not given to impurity (5:1–21).

The Remnant as God's Kingdom

In a number of His parables, our Lord presents various perspectives on the Kingdom, His Church. Not everyone who hears the saving Gospel finds a place in the Kingdom. This is demonstrated in the parable of the sower, in which four kinds of hearers are described: those who fail to grasp the message while they are hearing it, those who receive it with joy but lose it when they might have to suffer because of the Word, those who allow the deceit of wealth to choke it, and those who hold fast to the message and therefore are assured of a place in the Kingdom as they show its salutary effects in how they live (Mt 13:1–23).

The humble, insignificant beginnings of the Kingdom in Jesus also hold God's power to accomplish the full growth of His kingdom in His time. This is pictured in the parables of the mustard seed and the leaven (Mt 13:31–33). Who of the 120 believers who met to select a successor to Judas could have dreamed that their number would be increased by 3,000 at the following Pentecost? Just as leaven (yeast) works secretly and invisibly, an unseen power, so the Gospel "is the power of God for salvation to everyone who believes" (Rm 1:16).

Another facet of the Kingdom surfaces in the parables of the weeds and the net (Mt 13:24–30, 36–43, 47–50). In this life, believers and unbelievers —wheat and weeds, good fish and bad fish—are not separated. The separation will be performed by the angels on Judgment Day. While it may be easier to separate good fish from bad fish, greater scrutiny is required in the case of the wheat and the weeds. The weed Jesus speaks of (probably darnel) looks very much like wheat as it grows, so we are cautioned against attempting to identify who is and who is not a believer. This is God's business (1Co 4:5).

There is always the temptation to make a judgment as to why people say or do things, so 1Co 4:5 refers to purposes, or motives. Only God is privy to this information. Only God can read the heart. Not only that, but believers and unbelievers alike often act from mixed motives. Even our legal system, as careful as it is regarding evidence and witnesses, often enters the unknown when prosecutors ascribe certain motives to persons accused of wrongdoing.

In the parable of the weeds, Jesus indicated that the good seed stands for children (lit, sons) of the Kingdom. “Children” involves a legal right, the right of inheritance (Gal 3:26, 29).

Jesus compares the sheep with the goats in another familiar picture story. While the sheep, the righteous, did indeed demonstrate their faith by deeds of mercy, they enter heaven by virtue of their inheritance (Mt 25:34).

Conclusion

The remnant, the Church, the kingdom of grace—now the Church Triumphant—inherits the kingdom of glory. With joy and confidence, we confess with the apostle: “The Lord will rescue me from every evil deed and bring me safely into His heavenly kingdom. To Him be the glory forever and ever. Amen” (2Tm 4:18).

Walking with the Lord

More than 2,700 years ago, God inspired His prophet Isaiah to record a most comforting message: “Fear not, for I have redeemed you; I have called you by name, you are Mine. When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; and through the rivers, they shall not overwhelm you; when you walk through fire you shall not be burned, and the flame shall not consume you. For I am the Lord your God, the Holy One of Israel, your Savior” (Is 43:1b–3a).

A Sure and Certain Promise for Israel

The Lord's promise through Isaiah must have seemed incredible. Instead of walking on the Lord's path, instead of following His way, the Israelites walked "in a way that [was] not good, following their own devices" (Is 65:2). The Lord's path was one of light and safety and certainty. Rather than walking on His path in the light of His Word, Israel chose to leave His path and walk in the darkness of self-centered sin. By wandering off the Lord's path, they had wandered into great danger. Off the path, in the darkness of sin, prowled Satan, "seeking someone to devour" (1Pt 5:8). Off the path, "on every side the wicked prowl, as vileness is exalted among the children of man" (Ps 12:8).

For more than 800 years, the Lord sent His prophets out to call His people back to Him, back to His path, back to the light. But they wanted it their way, wandering away from the Lord's way, doing what was "right" in their own eyes, loving other gods who were incapable of love, and ignoring the one true God, who is love. As stubborn and stiff-necked as these people were, they remained God's people, a people called out of darkness. So in love, God sent them walking into exile (587 BC) far from the temple, far from His promised place of presence. They may have thought He had left them to walk alone, but He remained their God and they remained His people. He loved them despite their sin, and through His prophet Isaiah, He promised them they would not walk alone through the trials and tribulations they faced. They would not walk alone as they left captivity in Babylon and returned to Jerusalem (538 BC). He would walk with them, because He had redeemed them and called them by name. They were His.

A Sure and Certain Promise for You

Often, we are like these ancient Israelites. We want it our way instead of God's way. We want to walk our walk instead of His. The Lord is certainly patient. God promises to walk with you as you walk through the hazards of this life. He promises you, His called and chosen people, that you shall never walk alone. He promises to be with you as you endure fierce storms and fiery trials. This is a sure and certain promise for you.

You can be certain of this promise because the Lord has redeemed you. He has purchased and won you with His Son's holy, precious blood poured out for you on His cross. He has bought you with "His innocent suffering and death" that you may "be His own and live under Him in His kingdom and serve Him in everlasting righteousness, innocence, and blessedness" (SC, Second Article, p xxxvii). You are of great value to God because your redemption cost Him dearly. As a consequence, when you endure the fiery trials of this life, He promises you will never be lost (Is 43:2b).

You can be certain of this promise because the Lord has called you by name. He has washed you clean in the pristine waters of Holy Baptism and given you His name (Mt 28:19). You have been baptized into Him; therefore, you are His.

You'll Never Walk Alone

Nevertheless, Christians can expect to suffer much in this life. St Luke wrote, "Through many tribulations we must enter the kingdom of God" (Ac 14:22). Satan will assault you and afflict you in body and soul. He will cast uncertainty on God's certain promises. He will attempt to lead you off the Lord's lighted path into certain danger and destruction by urging you to do what is right in your own eyes and to walk your own walk in the darkness of sin.

In this hostile world filled with sin-wrought suffering, when you stray from the Lord's lighted path and attempt to walk in dark danger, God will never abandon you or give up on you. He will walk with you to the gates of heaven. He promises to take the same stormy circumstances in life that Satan plans to use for evil and use them instead for your eternal good (Rm 8:28; Is 43:1b–3a).

The Suffering Servant King

You have heard the familiar verses. Perhaps you have learned them by heart: "He was wounded for our transgressions; He was crushed for our iniquities; upon Him was the chastisement that brought us peace, and with His stripes we are healed" (Is 53:5). "A bruised reed He will not break" (42:3). He "was numbered with the transgressors; yet He bore the sin of many" (53:12). You have sung the familiar hymns: "O Sacred Head, Now Wounded" (LSB 449), "Stricken, Smitten, and Afflicted" (LSB 451), and "A Lamb Goes Uncomplaining Forth" (LSB 438). Some of the more familiar Scripture passages are part of the songs of the Suffering Servant. For centuries, hymn writers have mined the rich imagery of the Servant Songs to create hymns of lasting comfort.

The Holy Spirit inspired Isaiah to record four separate songs of the Suffering Servant (42:1–9; 49:1–13; 50:4–11; 52:13–53:12). With remarkable clarity, 700 years before the Servant was born, Isaiah vividly portrayed His life from manger to grave to resurrection. He wrote how the Servant, born of a virgin, would atone for the sins of the world with His own suffering and death. No other human could fulfill the mission of the Servant.

The Servant Is a Humble King

In the Old Testament, the king of Israel, the temple, and the land bear rich theological imagery. We hear of God accomplishing the salvation of His people through His king, dwelling with His people in His temple, and restoring His people to the land promised long ago. Isaiah further defined God's kingly role as that of a Servant. The Messiah, a royal descendant of King David, would be a King radically different from all previous kings. True, this King would bring forth justice to the Gentiles, even to all the earth (42:1, 4), but He would come quietly and humbly (53:2). This King would come not to be served by His subjects, but to serve them. He would offer His life for all people.

In the Servant Songs, God provided His prophet Isaiah a glimpse of the future, far beyond the impending judgment of Jerusalem and exile in Babylon. Isaiah wrote about the day when God Himself would dwell in human flesh with His people to serve them and all nations. For example, in ch 49, the Servant Himself speaks of His commission to bring salvation to Israel and to be a light to the Gentiles. He would take the sins of the world —past, present, and future—upon Himself and offer Himself as the perfect sacrifice to make satisfaction for that sin.

A King like No Other

This King would not draw attention to Himself (42:2). Subjected to great humiliation (52:14), His appearance would startle and amaze other kings (52:15). Despised and rejected by people, He would be a man of sorrows, a man not highly esteemed (53:3). When accused, this innocent King would not defend Himself but would stand silent (53:7). The King would "bring forth justice to the nations" (42:1) in what would appear to be a gross miscarriage of justice, since the guilty would be released and the innocent condemned to die (53:8).

Scorned by His own people, the Suffering Servant would be worshiped by princes. Despised by the common man, kings would arise to see Him (49:7). This King would be smitten, stricken, and spat upon (53:4). He would be bruised, berated, and beaten (53:5). He would turn His cheek to allow His beard to be pulled and plucked (50:6). Although innocent of violence and deceit, He would be killed with criminals and buried with the wicked and the rich (53:9). Who is like this Servant King?

Set Apart by the Father

Is 42:1 records the Father's introduction of this Suffering Servant and His work: "Behold My servant, whom I uphold, My chosen, in whom My soul delights; I have put My Spirit upon Him; He will bring forth justice to the nations." This Servant is the Father's singular chosen Servant. The Father unhesitatingly acknowledges Him. He is the One elected by the Father for this unique position of honor. He is the One in whom the Father greatly delights. Knowing the difficulty of the mission He has assigned to this Servant King, the Father confers His Spirit on Him to equip Him for His peculiar work.

Centuries after Isaiah completed his prophetic work, when John baptized Jesus in the Jordan River, the Father's voice boomed from heaven with reference to the Servant Song, "This is My beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased" (Mt 3:17; cf Is 42:1). The Spirit descended from the heavens in the form of a dove and came to rest upon the Son (cf Is 42:1). Later (Lk 4:18), the Suffering Servant began His public ministry by reading the words of Is 61:1, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon Me." Then He proclaimed, "Today this Scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing" (Lk 4:21). Later, when the Servant turned to Jerusalem and His bloody mission on the cross, the Father again affirmed His pleasure with His Son and His work by saying, "This is My beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased" (Mt 17:5).

The Servant Suffers for You

"But He was wounded for our transgressions; He was crushed for our iniquities; upon Him was the chastisement that brought us peace, and with His stripes we are healed" (Is 53:5). With these poetic words, Isaiah drives the prophecy home. He explains why it was necessary for the Servant King to suffer. The almighty God took on human flesh in order that He might be humiliated, tortured, and killed to take away your sins! He was wounded—for you. He was crucified to bring about peace with God—for you. Through His work as the Suffering Servant, He brings healing—for you. Who is like this Servant King? Who is like this God?

> Tell me, ye who hear Him groaning,
> Was there ever grief like His?
> Friends through fear His cause disowning,
> Foes insulting His distress;
> Many hands were raised to wound Him,
> None would intervene to save;
> But the deepest stroke that pierced Him
> Was the stroke that justice gave. (LSB 451:2)

There is no other God who loves and forgives like your God (Mi 7:18). He is the Suffering Servant King who died for you, that you might live eternally like a king with Him.

A New Eden

In the beginning, God created a perfect universe. When He had completed His work, God declared the universe and all its features and creatures to be "very good" (Gn 1:31). Life prevailed. Animals lived in peace. Mankind lived in peace. Mankind and animals walked together without fear of one another. There was no sickness. There was no death.

The universe was perfect in every way. God had given mankind everything they needed. In fact, God had given them all that was good and had withheld no good thing.

But mankind wanted more. They wanted what God had not given them, and they took what God had withheld for their good. With this act of defiance came death—not only death to mankind but also death to the entire universe. Disease, death, and decay replaced the life, concord, and order God had created.

But God knew this before He began His work of creation. God knew people would destroy His perfect universe. God knew they would bring death upon themselves. So God prepared a plan, a way to rescue people from the situation they had created for themselves. God, the Creator of all, would become a man and die the death people had brought upon themselves in order that they could once again live. God sent His Son into the world in human flesh to bring about this new creation.

When Jesus' work was completed on the sixth day of the week, He cried out, "It is finished," and then He rested in His tomb on the Sabbath. On Easter Sunday, the first day of the new creation, the God-man who had died arose victorious over death and the grave to usher in the new creation, in which those who die shall live and those who live shall never die (Jn 11:25–26). God provided Isaiah a glimpse of this new creation more than 700 years before God became flesh in Christ.

The New Creation

Isaiah recorded God's plan of creating new heavens and a new earth so unique, so beautiful, so wondrous, that the "former things shall not be remembered" (Is 65:17). In this new creation, neither the sound of weeping nor cries of distress would be heard (v 19). The glorious new life in Christ would never be cut short by death. Predator and prey would dwell together in harmony: "the wolf and the lamb shall graze together" (v 25). Carnivores would once again be herbivores: "the lion shall eat straw like the ox" (v 25). Once again, animals would live together in peace. People would live in peace. People and animals would once again walk together without fear of the other. Just as God had created the original creation, so there would be no destruction or violence in this new world. There would be no crime or terrorism. " 'They shall not hurt or destroy in all My holy mountain,' says the LORD" (v 25). In this creation, God would preserve mankind and angels from falling into sin. Never again would sin, Satan, or death stalk God's creatures.

The Future Is Now

This new creation is not merely a future hope. It is also a present reality. Christ completed the work of the new creation on the cross. Already, now, you are a new creation. No longer are you bound by sin and death. With new life created by the Holy Spirit through Word and Sacrament, the old has passed away for you. St Paul wrote, "Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation. The old has passed away; behold, the new has come" (2Co 5:17).

You live in the time of "now, but not yet." God's new creation is a present reality (your new life in Christ is the evidence), but the totality of this creation has not yet been revealed. As a result, the old Adam lives alongside the new man in constant daily struggle. We live in a world ripe with the consequences of sin, a world engulfed with the suffering that will be absent in the new world. Though we suffer these consequences of sin—sickness, suffering, pain, and death—all of creation groans with us as we await the redemption of our bodies (Rm 8:22–23).

Conclusion

We know not all the details of the new creation, such as how old our bodies will be or what daily life will be like, but this we know: the reality will exceed our expectations and "the former things shall not be remembered" (Is 65:17).

As you await with all of creation the redemption of your body, read Is 65:17–25 again. Close your eyes and ponder anew the new creation God has made for you. "For behold, I create new heavens and a new earth, and the former things shall not be remembered or come into mind. But be glad and rejoice forever in that which I create" (Is 65:17–18).

Study Notes

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 1 Isaiah's messages are not arranged in strictly chronological order (e.g., compare 1:1 with 6:1–13). Ch 1 introduces two topics elaborated in all subsequent chapters: (1) God's wrath consumes impenitent sinners, and (2) God's mercy offers penitent sinners redemption and salvation. Both threat and promise are backed by "the Holy One of Israel" (v 4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 vision. God supernaturally revealed these things to Isaiah, showing coming events in light of His eternal plan of salvation (cf 2:1; 13:1). Isaiah. Hbr nouns comprising this name suggest his calling to proclaim the Lord's salvation. Amoz. Not the prophet Amos. We do not know Isaiah's ancestry (on his social standing, see note, 6:6); far more important than his background is what the vision enabled and compelled him to say. Judah and Jerusalem. Area remaining loyal to Davidic dynasty after Solomon's death when northern tribes seceded (two centuries before Isaiah). Isaiah saw the role Judah and Jerusalem were to play in God's plan of salvation. days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah. Kings who reigned during Isaiah's ministry (Uzziah [792–740], Jotham [750–735], Ahaz [735–715], Hezekiah [715–686]). In these years, Judah and Israel were at their peak of power, prosperity, and territorial expansion. Only David and Solomon's reigns were greater. See chronology, p xcix–c.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:2 Hear, O heavens. Israel is summoned to stand trial in a covenant lawsuit. God calls heaven and earth as witnesses (cf Dt 4:26; 30:19). He summons creation to testify (Dt 32:1; Ps 50:4) because it witnessed the critical events. Children. They were children not just because of creation, but because God redeemed them from Egypt (Ex 4:22; Hos 11:1). rebelled. By rejecting God's ways despite His blessings (Dt 32:6, 18, 20). A disobedient child deserved death (Ex 21:15, 17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:3 Animals are intelligent enough to recognize that their owner provides for them, but God's people lacked this basic wisdom. Luth: "They think they know everything, and the prophet calls their wisdom and knowledge sheer stupidity and ignorance" (AE 16:9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:4 offspring of evildoers. Sinful parents bear sinful children. The children repeat the same sinful corruption that plagued their parents. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:5 whole head … faint. Judah suffers collectively and individually. Sin is no minor problem; it affects the entire being.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:6 no soundness. Illness and injury are metaphors for sin. Spiritually, the nation resembled a person beaten to a pulp and wounded from head to foot (cf Dt 28:35), but who would not seek healing. pressed out or bound up or softened with oil. Pus was pressed out of boils or infected wounds. Cuts were bound with bandages; scabs and sores were soothed with olive oil.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:7 Your country … with fire. Coming destruction. foreigners. During Isaiah's lifetime, Judah suffered destructive raids by several enemies. The worst came with an invasion by the Assyrian king Sennacherib (cf 2Ki 18:13). desolate. Ravaged and with few people; many would be killed or exiled into captivity.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:8 booth in a vineyard … lodge in a cucumber field. Minimal shelter, useful only for short periods of time. Depicts subsistence, not comfort.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:9 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. Sodom … Gomorrah. OT's ultimate expression of rebellion (Gn 18–19; cf Jude 7). Unlike these sinful cities, Judah and Jerusalem were not completely annihilated. In mercy, God left a remnant (6:13; 11:1, 11). Gr Naz: "Whenever I hear Isaiah threaten the people of Sodom and rulers of Gomorrah … I am almost filled with horror, and melted to tears. It is impossible, he says, to find any blow to add … so completely have you run through the whole, and exhausted every form of chastisement, ever calling upon yourselves some new one by your wickedness" (NPNF 2 7:252–53).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:11 sacrifices? They claimed to worship God at the same time they violated His laws. On God's emphatic rejection of outward formality without inward participation, cf Ps 40:6; Am 5:21–24; Mi 6:7–8. Luth: "The ungodly disregard faith and consider sacrifice to be the supreme worship of God … they despise the kernel and admire the husk" (AE 16:15). had enough. God instituted the sacrificial system, but it is worthless without faith (Heb 11:6). Mere repetition does not help. See note, Mt 6:7. do not delight. Without faith, the means that God established were not pleasing to Him.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:12 trampling of My courts? People are not worshiping, but acting like animals (v 3). Luth: "God requires our works, and He does not require them. How is this? I answer: He simply requires them, not as if they themselves were necessary or as if He wanted to be appeased by them. Thus, on the other hand, He does not require them. But consider the folly of men. We reverse the order and want to serve God with works and men with faith. Thus they say that what has been presented to the sacrificing priests has been given to God and must not be turned to profane uses. Of course, it has been given to them that they might serve God. But to serve and come to the aid of neighbors, to those who are needy, this they do not consider to be a service of God. For this reason they are taken to task here" (AE 16:16).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:13 vain. Empty, worthless. See note, Ec 1:2. incense. Offered with sacrifices in the temple. See pp 170–71. abomination. See note, Pr 6:16. Wrongly offered without faith, the gift to God became a curse. New moon and Sabbath. Monthly offerings (Nu 28:11–14) and weekly worship on the day of rest. convocations. Religious festivals. Isaiah may be specifically referring to the Feast of Booths or Yom Kippur. iniquity and solemn assembly. Summary of the faithless hypocrisy already condemned.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:14 hates. God's righteous and holy rejection of sin. See note, Ps 5:5. bearing. God had tolerated their actions, but will not continue to do so.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:15 spread out your hands. A gesture in prayer. See p 1277. full of blood. Guilt of unconfessed and unforgiven sin.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:16–18 Gr Nys: "These then are indications in deed and act of regeneration by Baptism. Let us … consider the prophecies of it" (NPNF 2 5:522). "The prophet both urges repentance and adds the promise. . . . He insists that such works are necessary in the new life. At the same time, he means that the forgiveness of sins is received through faith. So the promise is added" (Ap V 137).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:16 God must do this through His means; we cannot deliver ourselves. Chem: "Is righteousness given because of these works? Absolutely not! For the prophet himself says in 45:24, 'In the Lord is my righteousness' " (LTh 2:641).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:17 seek justice … widow's cause. Careless treatment of the helpless revealed lack of faith.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:18 reason together. Israel, summoned to the court of divine justice (see note, v 2), is guilty. Instead of passing sentence, the Judge proposes a full pardon. The appropriate question is whether the accused will throw themselves on the mercy of the court (cf Rm 4:5; 11:6). If God's promise restores their faith, it will also move and enable them to be willing and obedient believers (v 19) instead of rebellious evildoers (v 4). scarlet. Deep-red permanent dye; its stain was impossible to remove from clothing. snow. Pure white; the scarlet of sin is removed. Ambr: "Purge my ears, that no stains of the infidelity they have heard remain anywhere. Cleanse thoroughly, then, our ears, not with water of well, river, or rippling and purling brook, but with words cleansing like water, clearer than water, purer than any snow" (NPNF 2 10:222). crimson … become like wool. Restatement for emphasis. Wool means undyed (white) cloth. Luth: "Why did He not rather say black sins? Black denotes sadness, but red denotes bloodguiltiness. Sins are red when we are guilty of blood. . . . White is the sign of innocence and justice" (AE 16:20).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:20 eaten by the sword. In Hbr, a "blade," lit, has a "mouth." God provides for His faithful people, but the rebellious face destruction from enemy armies, whose swords "eat them," consuming their life.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–20 The Lord accuses Israel of ignorance and rebellion, yet plans for their repentance and forgiveness. A chief sin is corruption and indifference in their worship services. Today, the Lord calls you to purity in prayer and worship as taught by His Word. When you confess your sins, He promises faithfully to forgive you on account of Jesus' pure sacrifice. • Precious Lord Jesus, Your blood cleanses away the stain of my sin. Teach me sincerity in worship. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:21 faithful city. Jerusalem, the heart of Judah. Described (with all God's people) as His Bride (Rv 21:2). whore. Rejecting God's perfect love and choosing sin and idolatry is as offensive and foolish as adultery. Cf Hos 4:13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:22 dross. Worthless material in metal ore, discarded after metal is refined. See p 1543. mixed with water. God still provides for the wicked, but His blessings are diluted and not recognized.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:23 Symptoms of faithlessness. Those who love God will be opposed to such things.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:24 Lord of hosts … Mighty One. Titles that recall God's power. See p 1291. My enemies. When humans rebel, they become God's enemies, deserving His wrath and retribution. Cf Rm 5:10. avenge. Though God gives authority to leaders, vengeance ultimately belongs to God (Rm 12:19), who alone is just and righteous. God brings justice to unjust people and will punish wickedness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:25 lye. Caustic substance used for cleaning. alloy. Combination of other substances that are removed when metal is refined. See note, v 22.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:26 judges … counselors. Unjust officers are another symptom of lacking faith.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:27 redeemed by justice … righteousness. Not their own righteousness or justice, but that of the Messiah. See p 843. Luth: "This means that the Lord is always concerned about preserving the rest, lest they perish. By justice, not by laws. If the kingdom must be restored, this will certainly not be done by the laws of men; but it will be done by justice, that is, by killing the old life and turning it away from injustice, in order that we may become acceptable to God. For a reward follows righteousness, even when it is external; but punishment follows unrighteousness. This is the way to reform men so that they become upright and preserve judgment and justice. Then God will be favorably disposed toward them. Who will then be against them, Righteousness, that is, the righteousness whereby we are accounted righteous before God, although some interpret it as mercy, which is justifying grace. Therefore Zion is brought back by the Spirit and by faith, and then the political administration is also restored. The Hebrews have no impersonal words, and in their place they use the third person plural. Thus in the Gospel we have 'they shall give good measure' (cf. Luke 6:38) instead of 'it shall be given.' Thus here we have 'they shall restore' instead of 'it shall be restored' " (AE 16:25).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:28 broken together. Judgment, experienced individually, affects all. be consumed. By God's wrath (cf v 20).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:29 oaks … gardens. They engaged in the immoral rites of Canaanite worship, carried on in gardens and groves of trees (57:5; 2Ki 16:4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:30 Not a literal drought, but a simile for the loss of personal goods.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:31 the strong. The self-sufficient also faced judgment. Wealth, strength, or status cannot save.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 1:21–31 The Lord describes Jerusalem's injustice but plans for its justification. In our sinfulness, we stand as God's enemies. However, rather than utterly destroy us, He longs to purify us by His righteousness. • Melt away, O Lord, the imperfections of my heart, that sincerity of faith may remain and serve Your graciousness. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 2–4 Expresses contrast between the ideal Israel God desires and the historical reality of the Southern Kingdom (Judah and Jerusalem) in Isaiah's day. The chapters go from the ideal to the reality and back again, showing how Israel can be restored only by God's mercy and grace if first brought low in judgment.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:1 Same wording as 1:1 introduces this section.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:2 latter days. Lit, "in the end of days." Also translated "in days to come" (Gn 49:1; Dt 31:29), when God fulfills this prophecy. highest of the mountains … lifted up. Not a physical reshaping of the earth or the formation of a political world empire, but a figurative description of what God will accomplish through the Messiah. The Jerusalem that God promises to create is His Church (28:16; 1Pt 2:4–8; Eph 2:19–22), made of people from all nations (v 3; Rv 5:9). Cf Rv 21:9–27. all the nations. Frequent theme in Is (cf 25:6–8; 42:6; 66:18–23). nations shall flow. As Israel once traveled in the desert to holy Mount Sinai to receive the Law (Ex 19), the nations (fulfilling Gn 12:2–3) now travel on pilgrimage to Mount Zion. Luth: "The kingdom of Christ has been put in progress because it is placed in public view with its powers and gifts. Here one sees truth, pure doctrine, safety, peace; the Gospel is heard, and nothing can give greater joy. For it promises an abundance of things and salvation both here and hereafter, and a man stands safe in this Word against everything that opposes him, even against the gates of hell (Matt. 16:18). Behold, these virtues should influence the nations to make them come. They are proclaimed through the Word, namely, that Christ is the King of mercy and of peace. Moses preaches the Law and is the minister of sin and death. Nobody runs to him. On the contrary, they are terrified. Christ, on the other hand, is the Minister of righteousness, of life, and of peace. Therefore the people flow to Him just as water flows by its own effort and needs no one to push it" (AE 16:29).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:3 let us go up. Technical term for pilgrimage to the sanctuary (see note, Ps 120–34). See map, p 493. house. The temple where God promised to meet His people. This is now embodied in the Messiah (Jn 1:14), who dwells in the midst of His Church. God of Jacob. Israel's God, the only true God. ways … law … word. Synonyms, repeated for emphasis. See p 971. Luth: "This is what will influence and draw the nations, so that they flow to Christ and learn, namely, the Word. . . . From this place the scepter of Christ's kingdom was sent forth through the apostles without force in supreme peace, and the sweetness of this peace takes hold of the nations. But behold here the promise of a new word, a new law, namely, one that is different from that which was given from the cloud and on Sinai. Here a place different from Sinai is designated. Law, that is, proclamation. The prophecy stands that a proclamation shall flow from Jerusalem into all nations. This was done through the apostles. . . . 'Their voice has gone out to all the earth' (Rom. 10:18). By the Word alone, therefore, the church is recognized, and in the glory of the Word the reign of Christ is described. The Word draws the people, makes them willing and joyful. Thus the church is exalted and triumphs against tyrants and heretics even in the midst of tribulation, in order that they may be forced to confess that this is true" (AE 16:31–32).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:4 judge … decide disputes. Characteristics of the Messiah (11:3–4). plowshares. Weapons are unnecessary in this Kingdom. The spiritual benefits available to all nations in the latter-day "Jerusalem" are pictured as the restoration of the bliss of Eden: undisturbed peace, harmony in the animal world, paradisiacal fertility of the earth (11:1–9; 32:15–20; 65:17–25). Turning weapons into agricultural instruments is reversed in Jl 3:10. neither shall they learn war. Military training will not be necessary.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:5 walk. See p 7. light of the LORD. Example of God's action motivates ethical action (cf 1Jn 3:2b–3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–5 The Lord will gather the nations to His Church (the latter day "Zion") through the Word. He calls you to fulfill this prophecy by sharing the Word with your family, friends, and neighbors. The Lord works through that illustrious Word to change your heart and those around you. • May Your light illumine my heart, O Lord, and lead me in the way of peace as I share Your Word with others. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:6 You have rejected. Isaiah addresses God. He is justified in withholding His favor from this people chosen to bear His promises (vv 2–4), who are now guilty of sins of the heathen. They trust alliances with foreigners. things from the east. Pagan customs learned from Gentiles in Arabia and along the Euphrates River. fortune-tellers. Example of pagan customs; condemned in Lv 19:26. Philistines. Pagan customs were also found closer to home. Cf 1Sm 6:2; see note, Dt 18:10–11. strike hands.

Either ecstatic pagan worship, or similar to our handshake, sealing an agreement. See p 1277.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:7–8 Gentile culture, exerting a bad influence on Judah. Horses and chariots were regarded as excesses.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:9 humbled. Bowing to idols does not bring people favor; it only lowers them. do not forgive them! Not a call to withhold God's true forgiveness, but a plea that idolatry, too significant to ignore, be decisively ended. See note, Jer 7:16.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:10 into the rock. Self-sufficiency vanishes as sinners vainly seek refuge from "the terror of the LORD" (vv 19, 21). splendor of His majesty. Glory of the living God, contrasted with dead idols that have no power.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:11 in that day. See p 1079.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:12 Judah will not escape punishment by insisting that God preserve His chosen people regardless of their behavior (cf Am 5:18–20; Mt 3:7–10; 23:33). God's presence humbles all human efforts. LORD of hosts. See p 1291. a day. Isaiah's description foreshadows the universal and final judgment to come when "heaven and earth pass away" (Mt 5:18). This day of wrath is described more fully in chs 24 and 34.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:13 cedars of Lebanon. The tall, straight cedar tree remains a symbol of Lebanon to this day. oaks of Bashan. Used here as a parallel to Lebanon, Bashan lay east of the Jordan and extended northward to Mount Hermon. Oaks are strong trees; hence, they were symbols of a nation's strength. See color map 2; cf Ezk 27:3–6.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:16 ships of Tarshish. Symbolic of human strength and accomplishment. See notes, 1Ki 10:22; Jnh 1:3; see also map, p 1479.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:19 when He rises. When God moves to fulfill His promised judgment.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:20 Seeing the true God, they reject their false idols, but it is too late.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:21 Like Adam in Eden (Gn 3:8), fools vainly try to hide from God.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:22 breath. Fools trust mortal man instead of God. God gives mankind life (cf Gn 2:7), and it soon passes from sinners.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 2:6–22 The Lord describes His wrath against idolatry. Like Judah, many lands today are filled with idols (wealth, power, beauty, and fascination with new religions). These cannot compare to the true God, who is powerful to judge and to save as He will when Christ returns. • Return, O Lord, and deliver us from our self-destructive ways. Grant us satisfaction in Your goodness. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:1–3 Consequences of Israel's defiance and its inevitable results. God is ready to enact the covenant curses described in Lv 26:14–46 and Dt 28:15–68.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:1 Lord God of hosts. See p 1291. support and supply. Everything basic for life and civility, from food and water to government.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:2 mighty man. Those protecting with military service. See note, Ru 2:1. diviner. Interpreter of omens. Sorcery and soothsaying were strictly forbidden (Dt 18:10–12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:3 counselor. King's closest adviser. skillful magician. Or, skilled craftsman. This either continues the theme of illicit occult behaviors (ch 2) or indicates an overreliance on human abilities. Either way, the people's trust is not in God. expert in charms. Sorcerer.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:4 infants shall rule. Leaders with no experience or wisdom, thus easily manipulated.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:6 in the house. Leaders will be selected secretly, in private places. cloak … be our leader. Frivolous qualifications for leadership; possessing a cloak does not make one wise to lead. The chosen leader rejects this offer for equally ludicrous reasons when he denies that he has a cloak or bread (v 7).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:7 I will not be a healer. He cannot heal Israel's "wounds" (1:6). No one will want the job of leader in so desperate a situation.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:8 stumbled. See notes, Ezk 3:20; Hos 4:5. speech … deeds. Sin manifests itself in words and actions. glorious presence. Even God's manifest glory did not restrain them from sin.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:9 the look on their faces. As with children, facial expressions reveal their guilt. proclaim their sin like Sodom. They have lost all shame. they have brought evil on themselves. Sin is its own punishment because it debases them and its consequences affect them (v 11b). See notes, Rm 1:18–26.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:10 The judgments in vv 9, 11 do not apply to the faithful, whom God will protect (2Pt 2:9). the righteous. See p 843. fruit of their deeds. Their faithfulness has beneficial consequences in life.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:12 infants are their oppressors. Inexperienced leaders (v 4) exploit the people. Poor leadership is a recurring theme in chs 1–39. women rule over them. As infants are controlled by their mothers, inexperienced leaders are not really in control; they are being manipulated.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:13 His place to contend. The court scene (1:18) returns with the Lord bringing charges against Israel. See p 792.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:14 elders and princes. See p 228. Their indictment does not excuse the equally corrupt people.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:15 Lord GOD of hosts. See p 1291.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:16–23 Zion's women are singled out as one example of the nation's pride. Prophecy often addresses a whole category by depicting one aspect of it, rather than by making abstract statements about the whole category.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:16 daughters of Zion. Women of Jerusalem, representing the entire nation. Members of Judah and Levi, the royal and priestly tribes, would have populated Zion. Zion. See p 844. outstretched necks. Proudly flaunting their beauty. glancing wantonly with their eyes. Luth: "He is speaking of the misuse of the eyes, because they certainly would not use the face itself for modesty, but for lust. Therefore he calls them liars" (AE 16:47). mincing. Taking small steps, perhaps due to the anklets they wore, to attract attention. We might call this "strutting." See p 1276. tinkling. Sounds made by excessive jewelry. Bern: "If the daughters of Belial reproach you … decked out and adorned like the Temple, answer them: My kingdom is not of this world (S. John xviii. 36)" (SLSB, p 218).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:17 scab. Scalp disease, producing baldness. lay bare. Their beautiful hair would fall out, and their coverings would be removed, bringing shame.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:18–23 Eight types of fashionable clothing and 13 accessories make up the most complete list of finery in the Bible. See p 1084. It apparently did not concern them that these expensive articles were acquired by exploiting the poor (v 15).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:24 branding. Mark of slavery replaces articles of beauty.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:26 gates. Key location of battle in a city, here littered with fallen warriors. The change from a "rich robe" to "sackcloth" (v 24) will come when Jerusalem is ravaged by war.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:1 The male population will be so decimated that once-proud women will experience the "reproach" of lacking children and husbands unless they degrade themselves by becoming concubines. See pp 54–55. called by your name. Women will forego normal cultural patterns of marriage in desperate attempts to find a husband to support them. This exemplifies the nation's fate.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 3:1–4:1 The Lord prophesies that Judah will suffer due to a lack of sound leadership, despite its current prosperity. No matter how great the wealth you amass, the risk of loss is unavoidable. Invest in the true source of security and contentment: the Lord. His name, applied to you in Holy Baptism, covers your reproach. • Jesus, cover me in the robe of Your righteousness. Grant me honest shame and true repentance. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:2 Luth: "Here again he consoles the remnant of the people, as in Jerusalem. Those who are left are only one cluster, yet no matter how much He afflicts them, He preserves and comforts a remnant, because the Lord will be favorably inclined to His servants, and 7,000 do not bend the knee before Baal. Consider the song of Moses (Ex. 15:1 ff.). In that day, namely, now, after Jerusalem has been laid waste. The Branch is Christ. Yet there is nothing that He seems to do less than grow. The world would rather say that Christ and His Christians are a dried up tree trunk. But they are not regarded as such before God" (AE 16:51). In that day. Phrase previously depicted God's wrath (e.g., 2:12; 3:7; 4:1). Here it describes God's healing and restoration. See p 1079. branch of the LORD. Reference to the Messiah, centering the work not on the people, but on the Redeemer (6:13; 11:1; Jer 23:5–6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:3 holy. People are not holy of themselves; the Messiah calls or declares them holy. See p 7. recorded for life. God knows His people. He chose us and wrote our names in the Lamb's Book of Life (cf Mal 3:16–18; Rv 20:11–14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:4 filth. Excrement. bloodstains. Another type of excrement or evidence of violence. Symbols of sin. spirit of burning. See ESV note. Hbr ruach, "spirit," can also be translated "wind." This spirit of judgment is a cleansing process. Just as soiled cloths would be burned to dispose of them, the Lord would send fiery judgment.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:5 cloud … smoke … fire. They will have the presence, guidance, and protection God once manifested in a pillar of cloud and fire during the exodus (Ex 40:34–38). a canopy. His glory stands over all Zion and its assemblies. Instead of the terror that His presence creates in 2:10, it now brings shelter and comfort. God has not forgotten His covenant; His living presence will be among His people again, but in a greater way than when He filled the temple (1Ki 8:11; Ezk 43:1–5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:6 booth … shelter. Set up in the fields to provide places of rest and cover for workers. See note, 21:6–12. Here God is the protector. Luth: "In all things Christ is our Defense. But all of these attacks are not perceived and not felt without suffering. The sectarians will someday feel the sun without shade, because they go to meet the naked majesty of God nakedly, casting aside the humanity and flesh of Christ. This is possible only for a time. I have often advised and still advise younger theologians today that they must so study the Holy Scriptures that they refrain from investigating the Divine Majesty and His terrible works. God does not want us to learn to know Him in this way. You cannot nakedly associate with His naked Godhead. But Christ is our way to God. Those who speculate about the majesty are crushed and led to despair by Satan" (AE 16:54–55).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 4:2–6 After judgment, Israel will receive rest and shelter. Isaiah describes God's gracious heart in the coming rule of the Messiah. The Lord's great desire is to cleanse and cover you. • Cover my guilt, O Lord. Shelter my head from the storms of sin's destruction. Call me holy by the work of Your Holy Spirit through the Word. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:1–7 This skillful parable was likely proclaimed at the Feast of Booths (Lv 23:34–43; Dt 16:13–15), when Israel celebrated God's blessings of the harvest. It begins in the style of a joyful love song, filled with harvest imagery, but soon turns into an indictment (v 3). Parables of this type are designed to get listeners to pass judgment upon themselves. The narrator elicits his listeners' outrage at a hypothetical injustice. Their response is then applied to a real situation involving the audience. Only then do they realize that the story is about them (cf Mt 21:33–46).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:1 beloved. God. vineyard. Israel, whom the Lord "planted" in the Promised Land (Ex 15:17; Ps 80:8–18; Jer 2:21; Mk 12:1–9). fertile hill. Lit, "on a horn, a son of oil." This phrase, used only here in the OT, describes a geological formation that is superabundant in fertility. The vineyard is positioned for maximum productivity.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:2 dug it. Tilled the ground. This may have been done by hand instead of with an animal-drawn plow because vineyards were sometimes planted on steep hills. choice vines. Cultivated vines known to produce excellent fruit. The varietals are unknown. watchtower. To protect the vineyard from animals or thieves. See note, 21:6–12. wine vat. Anticipating a good harvest, the owner hollowed out a rock that would serve as a winepress. Aph: "I surrounded it with a fence of heavenly Watchers and I built its tower, the holy Temple. And I dug out its winepress, the baptism of the priests. And I brought down rain upon it, the words of My Prophets. And I pruned it and trimmed it, from the works of the Amorites" (NPNF 2 13:360). wild grapes. Inferior fruit that does not reflect the effort of the beloved.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:3 The Lord begins to speak. The hearers are asked to pass judgment on the fate of the vineyard that yielded sour fruit.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:4 wild grapes? See note, v 2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:5 My vineyard. Common description of God's relationship to His people (see note, v 1). hedge ... wall. Protective barriers around the vineyard. trampled. Lacking a wall, the vineyard becomes an open field to be grazed by animals or damaged by people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:6 briers and thorns. Cultivated land, once neglected, grows the worst kinds of weeds. command the clouds. God withholds rain, a sign of judgment. Cf 1Ki 17–18.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:7 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. Israel … Judah. Though Isaiah's audience is the Southern Kingdom, these words apply to all of God's people. outcry! Pleas for help. Israel is not hearing the cry of the oppressed.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:1–7 The Lord describes Israel's unfaithfulness and unfruitfulness. Consider what care and instruction the Lord has permitted for your life. Does the fruit of your service match the generosity of His nurture? Purge the wild fruit! Through the Spirit's work, the Lord brings forth in our lives fruit worthy of repentance (Gal 5:22–23). • Though the world goes wild, O Lord, make me a garden in which You delight, secure in Your righteousness. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:8–30 God condemns six sins: (1) exploiting others (vv 8–10); (2) drunkenness (vv 11–12); (3) taking pride in sins (vv 18–19); (4) twisting moral standards (v 20); (5) conceit (v 21); and (6) perverting justice (vv 22–24). Because of these sins, He will discipline Israel (v 25), using the Assyrian army (cf vv 26–30).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:8 house to house. The wealthy used various means to take more houses and farms until no more property was left for the small landowner to call his own (Am 5:10–13). They refused to follow God's property laws (Lv 25:23–34; cf 1Ki 21).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:10 ten acres. A vineyard this size should produce a great volume of wine. one bath. Several vines would normally yield this much wine, but not in these bleak conditions. homer … ephah. See p cx.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:11 strong drink. See note, Pr 20:1.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:12 lyre and harp, tambourine and flute. They spent money on diverse entertainment, but their priorities were misplaced; they pursued pleasure rather than seeking the Lord and doing His work. See p 993. deeds of the LORD. In their stupor, the revelers gave no thought to the wonders God had done for them (Ps 78:11).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:13 go into exile. The prophet sees punishment as an accomplished fact. The Assyrians conquered the Northern Kingdom in 722 BC and exiled the royalty and upper citizenry. See map, p 609. lack of knowledge. They lack knowledge of righteousness: what pleases God.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:14 Sheol. See p 792. enlarged its appetite and opened its mouth. Death is like an insatiable beast (cf 1:19–20). In Semitic mythology, death opens its mouth with lips touching heaven and earth. See note, Jb 18:13. No one can escape. Here, Sheol, the land of the dead, serves the Lord. nobility. Wealth cannot overcome death. revelers. Those just described, who celebrate in sin while neglecting righteousness.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:16 LORD of hosts. See p 1291. exalted. This justice glorifies God. He alone is worthy of such exaltation. justice … holy in righteousness. Parallel concepts, repeated for emphasis. See "righteousness," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:17 nomads shall eat. The city becomes a wasteland; anyone can enter and do what he wills. Some versions follow an alternate reading with a change of one Hbr letter that reads "kids shall eat," which repeats the thought from the first line of the verse.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:18 draw iniquity. They want to sin and voluntarily pull sin closer. cords of falsehood. Sin is ultimately a lie: promising pleasure but bringing suffering. See note, 3:9. Luth: "Cords are laws and statutes. Elijah was called father, chariot, and driver (2 Kings 2:12). So the priests and magistrates were chariots and drivers, but such as were empty and void. As a result there were empty cords, empty laws; and the formula of these people is: 'Isaiah, let not that which you mention below in chapter 28 come; "We have made a covenant with death, etc." (Is. 28:15), we are God's and Abraham's children.' So all prophets are judged to be liars. The reason for this is self-righteousness, which puffs up" (AE 16:64). cart ropes. They defy God to do something about their sin, to which they are bound like animals to a cart.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:19 They challenge Isaiah to enact the threats in the preceding chapters. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:20 Sin brings the ultimate confusion. God's counsel condemns human folly and wickedness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:22 A deriding judgment. They think themselves great, but their "greatness" is sinful. Their "heroism" is drunkenness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:23 Judges and other authorities do not serve justice but themselves.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:24 dry grass sinks. Grass "sinks" as it dies and falls to the ground, where it is quickly burned. go up like dust. As plants die and decay into dust, so wickedness will perish. law. Hbr torah, "instruction," the Word of God. See p 971. Lord of hosts … Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:25 stretched out His hand. God acts in judgment. Cf Ex 6:6. quaked. The Creator's power shakes the earth. Israel lies on a major fault line. His hand is stretched out still. God would not bring this judgment a single time; He continues to punish sin. See "hand," p 842.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:26 raise a signal … whistle for them. God uses the pagan Assyrian army. He "whistles" and, as an animal obeys its master, they come equipped for battle. See "whistle," p 1277.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:27 Describes the tireless Assyrian army.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:30 growling of the sea. Overwhelming roar, like an ocean storm.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 5:8–30 Because Israel will not repent, the Lord will send Assyria to punish them with conquest and exile. Today, popular culture longs to be "bad," and our "heroes" corrupt basic morality. Reject the excuses of pop culture and instead revel in the community of faith, which knows right from wrong. The Lord our Counsel will guide us to true joy and lasting pleasure in the goodness of life. • Lord, snap the tethers of sin that hold me back and rob me of genuine freedom in Christ. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 6 Isaiah's vision is the climax of his message in chs 1–5. This glimpse of God's glory (vv 1–5; Jn 12:41), validates his message from God in this Book.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:1 year that King Uzziah died. 740 BC. Uzziah. Also called Azariah. Powerful king of Judah (792–740 BC; 2Ki 15:1–7; 2Ch 26). Human monarchs come and go, but God always reigns. saw the Lord. In a vision. See note, Ex 24:10. Hil: "Isaiah says that he has seen no God but Him. For he did actually see the glory of God, the mystery of Whose taking flesh from the Virgin he foretold. . . . He gazed upon the Divine glory, and men were filled with envy at such honour vouchsafed to his prophetic greatness. For this was the reason why the Jews [Judeans] passed sentence of death upon him" (NPNF 2 9:95). See p 39. throne. The King of the universe is described in images of power and might. The ark of the covenant, kept in the Most Holy Place in the temple, was covered with two cherubim. God is "enthroned on the cherubim" (1Sm 4:4; 2Sm 6:2; Ps 80:1). See note, Ezk 10:1. train of His robe. The long flowing trail of the royal garment in which the King of kings appeared to Isaiah was so large that it "filled the temple." (May refer to the smoke of the incense offering; cf vv 4, 6.)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:2 Above. Flanking the throne as an honor guard, much as the gold cherubim flanked the ark of the covenant. stood … flew. "Stood" means positioned, as in "stood guard." They did this by flying around the throne and praising God. Some rabbis held that angels were created on the fifth day of creation with the birds because they could fly. seraphim. Hbr plural noun, occurring only here and in v 6 as a name for celestial beings. Hbr saraph suggests that they were glowing or fiery beings. Though their description is somewhat cryptic, the point of this vision is God's glory, not the details of His attendants. See p 495. covered his face … feet. Seraphim covered their faces in reverence before God's holy presence. They also covered their bodies in modesty. This is the antithesis of pagan worship that featured illicit sexuality.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:3 Cf Rv 4:8. called. Though God's people today sing the words of this verse in the Divine Service, Isaiah does not necessarily indicate that the seraphim sang. Holy, holy, holy. Refers to God in His totally separated state from humanity. In Hbr, repetition expresses a superlative; God is supremely holy. This threefold repetion is also evocative of the three persons of the Trinity. Ambr: "They say it, not once, lest you should believe that there is but one; not twice, lest you should exclude the Spirit; they say not holies, lest you should imagine that there is plurality, but they repeat three times and say the same word, that even in a hymn you may understand the distinction of Persons in the Trinity, and the oneness of the Godhead and while they say this they proclaim God" (NPNF 2 10:151). Lord of hosts. See p 1291. full of His glory! The revelation of His presence, either in nature (Ps 19:1) or in history (1Ki 8:11; Jn 1:14). glory! See "glory of the Lord," pp 6–7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:4 foundations of the thresholds shook. The earth shook in the holy presence of the Lord, down to the bedrock of the Temple Mount. voice of him. The seraph.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:5 Woe. Isaiah's cry indicates that he is as good as dead. Ex 33:20 declares no one may see God and live. See note, Ex 24:10; see also "clean," p 6. unclean. Ceremonial impurity. Impure people were barred from the temple (cf Ps 15).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:6 burning coal. Fire from the altar of incense. tongs. Needed to arrange the burning coals. altar. The altar of incense in the Holy Place. See diagram, p 139. The context could imply that Isaiah was a priest serving in the temple. While there was an altar for burning incense in the temple, Isaiah likely saw a vision of heaven. (Cf Ex 25:9, 40; 26:30 for possible references to a tabernacle in heaven; early Jewish and Christian tradition noted these texts.) The angel would get this burning coal from the altar in heaven. This image reinforces the truth that God's people in the earthly temple were in God's presence, but God was not confined to a building. Rather, He promised to meet them in the temple. See notes, Heb 8:1–2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:7 touched my mouth. Only when God has forgiven Isaiah will he be able and ready to proclaim God's Holy Word. This holiness is not from Isaiah's own works but is God's gracious gift; Holy Communion is also God's gracious gift. Jn D: "Let us apply our eyes and lips and brows and partake of the divine coal. . . . Isaiah saw the coal. But coal is not plain wood but wood united with fire; in like manner also the bread of the communion is not plain bread but bread united with divinity" (NPNF 2 9:83). guilt is taken away … sin atoned. Parallel concepts emphasizing God's forgiveness. Isaiah did nothing for this forgiveness: the Lamb of God took his guilt and atoned for his sin. Ambr: "Shall take away, he [the Seraph] says, and shall purge, not I will take away, but that fire from the altar of God, that is, the grace of the Spirit. . . . Certainly not the wood of the forests, nor the soot and coals. . . . It was revealed by the mouth of Isaiah that all men should be cleansed by the passion of Christ, Who as a coal according to the flesh burnt up our sins" (NPNF 2 10:108). atoned. See p 5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:1–7 The Lord appears to Isaiah and calls him as a prophet. In your Baptism and through the Word, the Lord calls you too as His messenger. Relate to others what you have heard and seen about the Lord. Do not let the shame of past sins silence you. The Lord Jesus has made atonement for you in the tabernacle of God's presence on high. • Touch my mouth, O Savior, that I may sing: "Holy, holy, holy Lord God of pow'r and might: Heaven and earth are full of Your glory. Hosanna. Hosanna. Hosanna in the highest. Blessed is He who comes in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest." Amen. (LSB, p 161)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:8 voice of the Lord. No longer the seraphim (v 7), now God Himself speaks. In contrast to the fear that followed the seraphim's voice, here the prophet is encouraged by the Lord's voice. go for Us? God, who "is one" (Dt 6:4), speaks in the first person plural (cf Gn 1:26; 3:22; 11:7). While "us" might refer to God and the seraphim, it more likely refers to God's triune nature. God is calling Isaiah to represent Him to the people. See note, Gn 1:26. Send me. Newly forgiven, the once-fearful Isaiah (v 5) is now bold and eager.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:10 Make the heart … dull. Isaiah's message is to preach Law before Gospel, judgment before grace, death before life. The result of Isaiah's preaching and its purpose are viewed together. "Due to their hardness of heart" (Mk 6:52; Eph 4:18), God's warning of judgment to come will be rejected by "this people" and seal their doom (cf Mk 4:12; Ac 28:26–27; Rm 11:8). healed. Forgiven and restored. See note, Dt 32:39.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:11 Conquest and exile would come before repentance.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:12 Ultimately fulfilled when Judah was defeated and exiled (587 BC).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:13 tenth. Only 10 percent of the people would remain in the land. burned again. Further destruction after the exile. terebinth. A large, long-living tree, similar to the oak. The Lord compared Israel to a large tree in Jer 11:16. stump remains. While the tree appears dead, it is not; life remains in the stump, which will sprout suckers from its roots. seed. This devastation will come, but Israel is not dead. God will bring life out of apparent death through His Son, the Seed of the woman (Gn 3:15), who alone is holy and able to give life. Jb 14:7–9 demonstrates how a shoot from a root is a symbol of an indestructible life. Luth: "Then comes the seraph, that is, the preacher of the Gospel, which is the fiery coal, and promises the forgiveness of sins for Christ's sake and lifts one up to righteousness. Therefore 'through the Law comes knowledge of sin' (Rom. 3:20), through the Gospel comes the knowledge and reception of grace and righteousness. The glowing coal is the Word kindled by the Holy Spirit in love, whereby those who have been put to death are revived by the cry of the seraphim. To touch the mouth is to strike the heart with the Gospel, which is sweet to the bitter heart. Then the heart is a fit vessel for honor, because it will go for the Lord, that is, it will be His instrument for teaching others, hearing and breaking through, even though with danger, the last comfort. A remnant will be saved, even though not all hear the Word and many spit it out" (AE 16:77).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 6:8–13 The Lord sends Isaiah out with a message of condemnation, which must precede the hope that will arise through the Messiah. Throughout history, and in your life, the Lord works in two basic ways: Law and Gospel. Unlike Israel, walk in these ways daily, confessing your sins and asking His forgiveness. Though He chastens you, He will restore you through Jesus, the holy Seed. • O Lord, may the root of Your goodness spring forth in my life. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:1 days of Ahaz. 735–715 BC. Cf 2Ki 16; 2Ch 28. Jotham. 750–735 BC. Cf 2Ki 15:32–38; 2Ch 27. Israelites listed the father's or grandfather's name to help distinguish persons because many people might share the same name (consider our practice of using a family name or surname). Pekah. 742–732 BC. Cf 2Ki 15:25–31. Jerusalem to wage war … could not yet mount an attack. They fought against Judah and besieged Jerusalem, but they could not break the city's defenses.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:2 Ephraim. The Northern Kingdom, also called Israel (see note, 9:9). his people. The fearful citizens of Judah and Jerusalem.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:3 meet Ahaz. Likely while the king was inspecting the city's water supply, needed for the siege. Shear-jashub. Lit, "a remnant shall return," Isaiah's older son was a living proclamation of Israel's survival. See "remnant," p 1080. Washer's Field. A place where clothing was washed and bleached. See note, 36:2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:4 smoldering stumps. The army of the two-nation coalition (Syria [aka Aram] and Israel) is as insignificant as stumps of wood smoldering just before they burn out.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:6 son of. Hbr and Semitic expression, which can mean the epitome, sum, or result of something. Tabeel. No known person. May simply mean "a good for nothing," a puppet king for Judah's enemies.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:8–9 What the two enemies plan "shall not come to pass" (v 7). They cannot destroy Jerusalem, according to the will of the King of kings. sixty-five years. Specific prophecy of destruction and exile. shattered. Even the inhabitants of the Northern Kingdom who did not go into exile under the Assyrians would not recover as a separate people. Foreigners became part of their population after the fall of Samaria (2Ki 17:24) and again during the reign of the Assyrian king Esarhaddon (681–669 BC), six decades after Isaiah began his ministry. not firm in faith … not be firm at all. Different form of same Hbr verb is used to describe faith and results of faith. As long as believers remain steadfast in faith, they can be confident that they will be established in the land. They have solid ground under their feet (Ps 46:2).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:1–9 The Lord sends Isaiah to confront King Ahaz and to call him to firmly trust the Lord. No matter what circumstances confront you, turn to the Lord in trust and in prayer. The enemy may rob you of all good, but he cannot rob you of faith and the kingdom of heaven, which Christ won for you. • "The Word they still shall let remain Nor any thanks have for it; He's by our side upon the plain With His good gifts and Spirit. And take they our life, Goods, fame, child, and wife, Though these all be gone, Our vict'ry has been won; The Kingdom ours remaineth." Amen. (LSB 656:4)
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:11 a sign. Ahaz is to name a sign so that God might tangibly confirm what He has spoken and move Ahaz to believe. The Lord occasionally grants such help to weak consciences (Jgs 6:17–21). Lord your God. Though Ahaz doubted, the Lord is still God. Doubts do not remove His deity! deep as Sheol or high as heaven. No limits were put on Ahaz's request; God would do anything. Sheol. See p 792.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:12 Ahaz responds in false piety, trying to avoid a blatant statement of disbelief, but God is not fooled.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:13 house of David! Ahaz was in the Davidic line. The following words apply to the whole nation. my God. Isaiah has turned the reference to God from "your" God (v 11) to "my" God. Ahaz is faithless, but Isaiah believes.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:14–17 sign. Luth: "He foretells two signs: The one is hidden, the other open. The latter he explains in chapter 8[:3] in a way not much different from Hosea, chapter 1. But Isaiah includes both signs. The first one does not apply to Ahaz, because he did not live to see it, but the second does. But since he now resists the Word of God and refuses a sign, how can his faith be strengthened? Therefore the prophet speaks of a sign to come, against which they will dash, just as the sign of Jonah was given to the Jews (cf. Matt. 12:39), and those who refuse to believe will perish. Nevertheless, it is a sign of lifting up and building up and strengthening for those who believe (Matt. 12:39; 16:4). And this is the summary of this chapter until the end, because he says that this prediction is already in the process of fulfillment in these unbelievers" (AE 16:84). virgin. Hbr ʿ almah can clearly mean "virgin maiden" and is closely related to the Hbr bethulah, which also normally means "virgin." The LXX properly translated it with the Gk parthenos, "virgin." As Luther notes, there are two signs. On the one hand, the Lord was promising Ahaz that in short order—during the nine months and weaning process of a typical childbirth—He would deliver Judah from the two kings (v 16) threatening them. In fact, their subjects would be fully swept away by exile. On the other hand, the Lord promised something remarkably different from a typical pregnancy, a miracle that would have shocked Ahaz's unbelieving heart: a virgin would conceive (v 14)! The Lord has eternal salvation in view, not simply Judah's temporal deliverance. The NT reveals the meaning of the Immanuel sign. The Son of God would be born of the Virgin Mary by the work of the Holy Spirit. Iren: "Jesus Christ, who was announced by the prophets, who from the fruit of David's body was Emmanuel, [is] 'the messenger of great counsel of the Father' … He whom God promised David that He would raise up from the fruit of his belly … an eternal King, is the same who was born of the Virgin, herself of the lineage of David" (ANF 1:441, 453). Ath: "But what does [this passage] mean, if not that God has come in the Flesh?" (NPNF 2 4:577). Immanuel. Lit, "God with us." This name reflects both salvation and judgment. On the one hand, God with us (8:10) promises protection against foreign attack. On the other hand,

Assyria "will sweep on into Judah" like a flood (8:8). Thus "Immanuel" functions as Law or Gospel, depending on the king's response. In ch 7, the house of David (e.g., Ahaz) did not accept the Lord's offer of a sign; but later this house of David—embodied in the Davidic descendant Joseph of Nazareth—accepts the sign about the Child. In Mt 18:20 and 28:20, the promise of Immanuel will be repeated. Born of a virgin, the incarnate Son of God is truly Immanuel, "God with us."

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:15 curds and honey. The land would recover slowly from the ravages of soldiers quartered among them. Instead of living on the products of agriculture such as grain and meat, the survivors of the invasion would sustain themselves with food derived from a pastoral way of life: cheese from flocks and honey gathered from trees in the woods (vv 21–25). Still, this is the beginning of the restoration of normal life.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:16 boy knows how to refuse the evil and choose the good. No exact age is given, only a mark of maturation within childhood. Ephraim (the Northern Kingdom) and Syria (Aram) will be destroyed by the Assyrians before a child could mature. refuse … choose. Wording emphasizes development of the will. As children mature, they are governed less and less by raw instinct. The prophet does not mean that infants and small children are sinless or not accountable for their sins, as some interpreters wrongly assume. Sin corrupts all stages of human development, and a person is always accountable before God. See notes, Ps 51:5; Rm 3:23; 5:12. deserted. Assyrians will decimate these countries.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:17 The coming war with Assyria would be the worst since Israel split into two kingdoms.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:18 Summoned by God, the executors of His judgment will descend on Israel like infesting swarms of flies and bees. The land would become the battleground of the Assyrians and the Egyptians, both determined to annex it to their empires. streams of Egypt. Streams that fed the Nile at the farthest reaches of Egypt.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:20 Assyria, the nation Ahaz foolishly hired to ease the pressure from Syria and Israel, is now described as a razor. It will denude the land from one end to the other.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:21–22 See note, v 15.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:23 As in v 22, the people survive on minimal resources, as the crops have been destroyed.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:24 bow and arrows. To hunt wild animals where once a productive vineyard grew.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:25 Reiterates the prophecy of 5:5–7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 7:10–25 The Lord promises deliverance from Assyria, but has the greatest deliverance in view—the blessing of a true, eternal King (cf 9:6–7). The virgin birth of Jesus is one of God's greatest miracles and gifts to humanity. Christ reigns now in patience, calling those who doubt to repentance. Our King shall soon appear to exile the stubborn and to dwell with those He has chosen by grace through faith. • "O holy Child of Bethlehem, Descend to us, we pray; Cast out our sin, and enter in, Be born in us today. We hear the Christmas angels The great glad tidings tell; O come to us, abide with us, Our Lord Immanuel!" Amen. (LSB 361:4)
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:1 large tablet. Sized for public display and reading. common characters. Large letters of ordinary script. The name was to be read and its meaning understood by the general reading public. Isaiah's action assumes a significant reading population in Jerusalem. See pp 1081–83. Chem: "The prophet is commanded to write … with proper, clear, and commonly understood words, so that there be no ambiguous, unclear, difficult, or intricate meanings, but words which can be understood by each individual" (LTh 1:37). Maher-shalal-hash-baz. See ESV note. As the name given Isaiah's older son foretold the ultimate failure of the enemies to conquer Jerusalem (see note, 7:3), so this name was a prophetic proclamation that Damascus, capital of Syria, and Samaria, capital of the Northern Kingdom, would be defeated.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:2 witnesses … attest. To verify the message. Zechariah. Not the prophet. Cannot be identified further.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:3 went to the prophetess. Had sexual relations with his wife. prophetess. See p 389. Certainly not the virgin of 7:14 because she already had a son (7:3). Maher-shalal-hash-baz. See note, v 1.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:4 before … 'My mother.' One or two years old. Cf 7:15–16. carried away. 722 BC.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:6 this people. Judah. waters of Shiloah. The Gihon stream/canal, flowing gently along Jerusalem's southeastern wall, was used for irrigation and emptied into a reservoir within the city (the Pool of Siloam; cf 7:3); it symbolizes the assurance of God's care.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:7 waters of the River. Symbol of Assyria, the heart of whose kingdom was between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. rise over all its channels. Poetic description of Assyria's might.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:8 outspread wings will fill. Assyria would dominate the entire region. Immanuel. The inhabitants of the land are so addressed because they would remain unharmed if they would be "firm in faith" (7:9) and express their faith by saying, "Immanuel," "God is with us" (v 10; see note, 7:14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:9 you peoples. Nations opposing Judah. be shattered. God does not leave His people completely devastated. Isaiah predicts Assyria's fall and the fall of all who oppose God's people. Their power will be shattered.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:10 speak a word. The nations' decrees cannot surpass God's power; He is with His people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:1–10 Ahaz does not heed the Lord's signs, so a different sign is given through the birth and name of Isaiah's second son. Judah would be all but swept away by Assyria. Yet the Lord would still abide with and protect His people. The Lord abides with us still, even amid judgment and devastation. He is our Immanuel, and nothing can sweep Him away. • Merciful Lord, defend me even as You chasten me. Lead me to sincere confession and enduring faith. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:11 strong hand upon me. God's powerful, guiding presence (cf Ezk 1:3; 3:14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:12 Isaiah spoke against seeking foreign lands, like Assyria, to defend God's people, knowing that they would eventually harm Judah. Some called his warning treason or conspiracy. Cf Jer 26.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:13 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. honor as holy. God is holy, and we should remember this and worship Him accordingly. See p 7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:14 sanctuary. As the temple gave asylum to certain individuals (cf Ex 21:13), so God protected His people. offense … stumbling. God's presence can be received as Gospel (a sanctuary), but those who reject Him find it to be Law (a rock of stumbling). Faith finds safety, while rejection stumbles (vv 14–15). The function of the "stone" and "rock" are described in further detail in 28:16; Ps 118:22; 1Pt 2:6. See note, Ezk 3:20. houses of Israel. Israel (Ephraim) and Judah.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:16 Bind up … seal. Convinced that what the Lord spoke through him will occur, Isaiah directs his disciples to keep a written and sealed record of his words. The prophets recognized the truth and divine source of their words by carefully preserving them (see p 1087).

See note, Jer 32:10. the testimony. Isaiah's prophecy, the true Word of God. See p 971. teaching. Hbr torah; see "Law," p 971. disciples. Hbr limud, a "learned" or "practiced" person. Prophets had apprentices or scribes (see p 555) who studied the Word. It is not enough to "have the Spirit." Leaders among God's people must have and cling to the Word as well. See note, Mt 5:1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:17 wait for the LORD. Isaiah trusts God's timing. house of Jacob. Israel and Judah.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:18 I and the children. Here applies to Isaiah's family; the NT applies this to Christ and His people (Heb 2:13). Luth: "This depicts the course and success of the Word. Though some do not accept it when it is proclaimed, it still is not without disciples. Therefore he rejoices in both the fruit and power of the Word. An honest teacher always has disciples. This is also Christ's word for His faithful ones. 'Children.' Hbr: 'Little infants.' Peter had this in view when he said in 1 Peter 2:2: 'Like newborn babes.' They are the least complicated human beings and depend entirely on their mother's breast. So Christians depend entirely on the simplicity of Scripture. They have the 'pure milk' without guile, that is, they do nothing but seek the breasts; they do not pass judgment nor argue much about the Word, but they simply accept it as it is given to them, the way babes accept milk" (AE 16:93). Bern: "The holy place is open and accessible only to the children of Christ" (SLSB, p 76). signs and portents. Isaiah's own name ("the LORD saves") and the names he gave his sons indicate what the future will bring (see notes, 7:3; 8:1). LORD of hosts. See p 1291. dwells on Mount Zion. God has chosen to dwell with His people and so is distinguished from false gods. See "Zion," p 844.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:19 mediums … necromancers … inquire of the dead. Resorting to occult means of gaining knowledge was rejection of the Lord (cf Lv 19:31; Dt 18:10–12; 1Sm 28). chirp and mutter. Practitioners of divination and spiritism often made their voices sound mysterious and unearthly. Gr Naz: "It is very shameful, and not only shameful, but very foolish, to take from things below a guess at things above, and from a fluctuating nature at the things that are unchanging, and as Isaiah says, to seek the Living among the dead" (NPNF 2 7:321).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:20 teaching … testimony! See note, v 16. Isaiah's prophecy. they have no dawn. They live in spiritual darkness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:21–22 turn their faces upward … look to the earth. They desperately seek to understand, but will not see God's answers. thick darkness. Bleak description of their emotional and spiritual state.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 8:11–22 Isaiah urges his hearers to repent, learn, and cling to the Word of God rather than to false spirituality. Beware of any religious person who directs you to a spiritual source other than the Word of God, which we have from His prophets and apostles. Even if you are frustrated in searching the Scriptures for answers, "wait for the LORD … hope in Him" (v 17). He will answer you from His Word and seal you with His peace. • Lord, deliver us from false witnesses who would rob us of Your Word. Grant us peace in Jesus. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:1 her. The people of God who turn to Him. former time. When the Assyrians attacked the Northern Kingdom of Israel. Zebulun … Naphtali. Hereditary lands of these two tribes constituted Israel's northern border west of the Jordan. latter time. Still in the future for Isaiah. This was fulfilled by Christ's ministry in Galilee. way of the sea. East-west road through Zebulun, Naphtali, and Galilee, which then runs southward along the Great Sea. land beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations. Region east of the Jordan, occupied by various peoples. Because the invading enemy came from the north, these outlying districts would be the first to fall victim to the conqueror's might and the last to be freed from his domination.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:2 people … darkness. All people walking in darkness without God's salvation. great light. The light that will appear is the presence of the Lord (cf 10:17; Jn 8:12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:3 joy at the harvest. Harvest is a time of rejoicing. A bountiful harvest ensures survival and prosperity. divide the spoil. As the victors in battle.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:4 yoke … staff … rod. Tools of enslavement. Yokes controlled animals and prisoners. A staff and rod brought discipline. day of Midian. God's coming deliverance is compared to the victory of Gideon, who freed the northern tribes of Asher, Zebulun, and Naphtali (Jgs 6:35) also by means of a "great light." Their defeat by a handful of Israelites is cited as evidence that mighty foes must fail when they oppose the kingdom God promises to establish.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:5 boot … garment rolled in blood. Clothes that had been bloodstained in battle were unclean. fuel for the fire. All traces of bloody conflict will vanish.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:6 child … son. The reason for joy. This was the child prophesied in 7:14, the sign scorned by Ahaz but fulfilled by Christ. a son is given. Signifies the accession of a new king (cf Ps 2:7). upon His shoulder. His strength upholds the nation. His name … Prince of Peace. Throne names describe the power and authority of the new king. Ps 72 defines what these characteristics mean for the Davidic king. Jesus, from David's kingly line (Lk 2:4), fulfills all of these promises and with the Kingdom brings all of these gifts for people (cf Mk 1:15). While these titles might apply, in part, to an earthly king, in their fullness they belong only to God. Luth: "In the kingdom of Christ there is grace, comfort, forgiveness of sins, joy, peace. He does not deal with the transgressor in sternness, but as a father. The forgiveness of sins is justification, and peace follows justification. This peace is not only peace of mind but also plenty and soundness of mind and good health of the body. Such is the reign of Christ: It is extended by killing; it is fertilized by the blood of the believers; and the more distress there is, the more peace grows in the heart" (AE 16:101). Ath: "His Only-begotten Son might … be called 'Father' by His Father. . . . [He] is at once Father of the coming age, and mighty God, and Ruler. And it is shown clearly all things whatsoever the Father has are His" (NPNF 2 4:89).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:7 no end. The Messiah alone can have an eternal Kingdom. throne of David. The Messiah must come from David's line, yet Scripture teaches that He is also David's Lord (Mt 22:42–45). zeal of the Lord. No opposition can thwart His ardent desire to establish and to uphold His kingdom forevermore (63:15). See pp 1565–66.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:1–7 The Lord promises a future, everlasting Kingdom, fulfilling His promises to David and to Isaiah (7:14). The typically joyous birth announcement takes on even greater significance. Even the expectation of a prince's birth is surpassed here, for this child will deliver the oppressed and govern "with justice and with righteousness" as the Lord declares us just and sets us right through forgiveness and new life. • "Savior of the nations, come, Virgin's Son, make here Your home! Marvel now, O heav'n and earth, That the Lord chose such a birth. For You are the Father's Son Who in flesh the vict'ry won. By Your mighty pow'r make whole All our ills of flesh and soul." Amen. (LSB 332:1, 6)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:8 sent a word. Everyone in Ephraim (Northern Kingdom) should know about this event's origins: the Lord.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:9 Ephraim. One of the tribes in the Northern Kingdom; here it is a synonym for the nation. Samaria. Capital of the Northern Kingdom.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:10 stones … cedars. Proverb people quoted to express their perverse determination to pursue their wicked course despite the reverses by which God was calling them to repentance. They intended to rebuild and replant with nicer materials.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:11 adversaries of Rezin. The Assyrians, who overran Syria and its king, Rezin, before attacking the Northern Kingdom. Before Rezin and Pekah, king of Israel, united forces against Judah (the Southern Kingdom), several Syrian kings had made serious inroads into Israelite territory (2Ki 10:32–33; 13:22).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:12 Syrians … Philistines. Israel's neighbors sought her destruction. His anger … hand is stretched out still. See note, 5:25.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:13 turn. To believe and trust in the Lord. See p 1080. struck. God's discipline through Assyrian attacks. inquire. See "seek," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:14 head and tail, palm branch and reed. Judah's leaders. The head and tail of the nation are the elders and prophets (v 15). Because of the people's blind acceptance of these leaders (cf 3:6–8), all are punished, from the young men to the widow and the orphan.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:15 prophet who teaches lies. Instead of guiding the rulers, the prophets do what the officials want.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:17 the Lord does not rejoice. God is not pleased by their lives. for everyone is godless. The entire nation, even those typically downtrodden, is corrupt. hand is stretched out still. See note, 5:25.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:18 burns like a fire. The Lord's wrath is revealed as the wicked destroy one another.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:19 God uses sinful people to bring punishment on themselves and others. See notes, Ex 20:5; Rm 1:18.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:20 They slice … not satisfied. They are "consuming" as much as they can take from one another, but it is not enough. They keep destroying themselves and others. devours … his own arm. When people act solely out of selfish motives, they injure not only their fellowman but ultimately destroy themselves as they in turn become victims of the law of the jungle. See note, 3:9. In the feeding frenzy, they think they are taking from others, but they are hurting themselves. Isaiah compares this to cannibalism.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:21 The Northern Kingdom is fighting itself. This is depicted as the two sons of Joseph—Manasseh and Ephraim—fighting against each other. These in turn also fight with the Southern Kingdom, and the fire of the wickedness spreads (v 19). Yet God's wrath still remains. hand is stretched out still. See note, 5:25.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:1 Woe. A lament. Terrible things are coming to such people (cf 5:11, 20). See p 1080. those. Judah's powerful but corrupt leaders, who cared only for themselves. writing oppression. Corrupt lawmakers who do not serve justice, but only themselves.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:2 needy … poor … widows … fatherless. Most vulnerable members of Israel's society (cf 1:17; Jas 1:27).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:3 day of punishment. When Assyrians came with God's judgment. A greater, final judgment will come when Christ returns. come from afar? Assyrian army first brought judgment. leave your wealth? The riches that they gained by cheating the weak will be abandoned as the Assyrians attack.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:4 prisoners … slain. All that will be left for those who are leaders will be to live among the prisoners or die. hand is stretched out still. See note, 5:25.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 9:8–10:4 The Lord rebukes the wealthy and the greedy for destroying themselves and the helpless. When the Lord blesses you with abundance, do not forget the suffering and the needy. Prosperity and power are not the truest sign of God's blessing, but goodness and mercy are. In Jesus' goodness and mercy is your refuge. • Lord, in prosperity or want our hope is in You. Stretch out Your hand to us in sweet mercy. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:5 God used Assyria to accomplish His will.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:6 godless nation. Israel is godless because they do not follow the one true God. mire of the streets. Assyria crushes Judah as dirt and refuse are trampled in the street. See note, Mi 7:10.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:7 Assyrian conqueror thought that he served only himself and did not believe that he did God's bidding. his. Assyria.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:9 Cities mentioned were captured by Assyrians in their march southward against Jerusalem. See color map 3. The southernmost of these was Samaria, capital of the Northern Kingdom; the most distant was Carchemish, more than 300 mi to the north. The other cities lay between these two points. By 717 BC, these nations had all submitted to Assyrian power.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:10 Many nations, all with their own gods, had fallen before Assyria.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:11 her idols. Although professing faith in Yahweh, the one true God, Jerusalem was littered with false gods, causing her neighbors to assume she was no different from any other people. E.g., see note, Ex 34:13. Assyria arrogantly assumed that Israel's God was just another powerless idol. The king of Assyria did not realize that the living God was sending him to do His bidding.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:12 all His work. Assyria was acting, but God was using that action to accomplish His will. He will punish. Even before the Assyrian king finishes his proud tirade, a reminder is inserted that the Lord is in control. The Lord will let the blasphemous boaster do no more than the specific task assigned to him.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:13 The king of Assyria arrogantly took credit for God's work. like a bull. With unstoppable power.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:14 gathers eggs. The Assyrian hordes conquered and plundered peoples with as little effort as it takes to gather eggs from a nest forsaken by a bird. Ath: "Such in a word, are [the devil's] boasts and professions that they may deceive the godly. But not even then ought we, the faithful, to fear his appearance or give heed to his words. For [Satan] is a liar" (NPNF 2 4:202). all the earth. Assyrian king thought that he had plundered the entire earth; no nation was greater than Assyria. none … chirped. No one defended the nations.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:15 Wood and iron remain inert and passive even when made into tools. They do not determine their shape or use. God, having fashioned the Assyrians into instruments of judgment, will destroy them if they refuse to be of service to Him.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:16 Lord God of hosts. See p 1291. send wasting sickness. God will humble this mighty army with disease. See note, Ps 106:15. a burning will be kindled. They will be destroyed by God's glory.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:17 light of Israel. The true God enlightens His people and helps them see. Holy One a flame. He is a holy light, consuming His enemies. See p 1227. devour … in one day. In a single day, God can destroy this mighty army. his thorns. Assyria's.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:18 destroy … soul and body. God can utterly destroy this mighty nation. sick man wastes away. As individuals would grow weak and die (v 16), so Assyria would be no more.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:19 child can write them down. Very small number.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:5–19 The Lord plans to use, humble, and punish the proud Assyrians. The Lord calls all nations and individuals to genuine humility, which can only come about by seeing ourselves clearly in relation to the Lord and the standards He has commanded. Take note of how the Lord accomplishes His purposes with the arrogant. Just as He brought judgment on Judah through the Assyrians, He brought about our justification from sin by the hands of Jerusalem's leaders and the Romans who crucified Jesus, our Savior. • Lord, work Your good purpose in my life, granting all humility and trust in Your mercy. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:20 The day will come when the people of God will no longer look to the oppressor for support as Ahaz did in ch 7. Instead, Israel will trust God. remnant of Israel. See p 1080. lean on him who struck them. Rely on Assyrian power. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:21 return. To the land and life God gave them.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:22 only a remnant. See p 1080.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:23 The Lord will complete what He has decreed, proving His power to determine the destiny of "all the earth." Lord God of hosts. See p 1291. midst of all the earth. All nations will see this "full end," not just Israel or Assyria.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:24 Lord God of hosts. See p 1291. rod … staff. With human power and authority. See note, 9:4. as the Egyptians did. As God broke the power of Egypt before the exodus, so He will defeat Assyria.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:25 My fury. God's judgment and wrath.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:26 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. wield against them a whip. Because the Assyrians abused the assignment to be God's "rod" and "staff" on Israel (vv 5, 24), they themselves will be punished. struck Midian. A little band under Gideon's command, armed only with torches and trumpets, crushed the dreaded Midianite hordes (Jgs 7). Oreb. Where the Ephraimites killed Oreb, ruler of Midian. over the sea … lift it. All

Moses had to do to destroy Pharaoh's army was to stretch his rod over the sea at God's direction (Ex 14:16–29).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:27 burden … yoke. Oppression by the Assyrians. because of the fat. See ESV note. This may mean that the growing strength of the Israel (the ox) would break the oppression of Assyria. This is God's gift. The abundance of their blessings will break the yoke.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:28–34 Traces the advance of the enemy through towns situated immediately north of Jerusalem. It is a direct and unimpeded route, meant to convince the hearers of the reality of God's threats to punish Judah. See map, p 468.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:29 Gibeah of Saul. Where Saul held court, a stronghold of the tribe of Benjamin. See notes, 1Sm 10:5, 26.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:32 he. Assyria. Zion. See p 844.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:33 Lord God of hosts. See p 1291. lop the boughs. Once the Assyrians have served God's purpose, He will cut down their blasphemous pride.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:34 The destruction of this threatening menace Assyria—pictured as the felling of a great cedar of Lebanon—ushers in the promise of new life for God's people (cf 11:1). Majestic One. The Lord, who alone is God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 10:20–34 The Lord notes that a remnant of Judah will turn away from the nations from which they have sought support. The Holy One, the Lord God of hosts, will always welcome our repentance and turn our hearts toward Him. Just as the Lord had pity on Judah and Israel, preserving a remnant, He will have pity on His people (the Church) today.
• O Lord, deliver us from false saviors who would rob us of Your blessings given through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:1 Pictures life rising from death and destruction. a shoot. The coming Messiah. See note, 6:13. Luth: "This is what he called Christ, and such is the beginning of the rising spiritual kingdom. It is obviously different from that of an earthly kingdom, where an assembly of people is provided with a king. In this case the King is born first, and then He gathers a people for Himself. At first there will be a single Sprout risen out of the root, from the old and hopeless trunk, which is nevertheless watered with a divine strength" (AE 16:117). stump of Jesse. Assyrians were cut down like a tree (10:33–34). Now, Isaiah sees what was to happen several decades later. The axe of divine judgment would cut down the kingdom of David, the son of Jesse. The use of "Jesse" rather than "David" here and in v 10 indicates that this new king is not only of the lineage of David, but indeed a new David (Jer 30:9; Ezk 34:23–24; Hos 3:5). This promise of a Messiah is fulfilled in Jesus (Mt 1:6, 17; Lk 2:4; Ac 13:22–23). a branch. Designates a human king in Dn 11:7. Isaiah beholds a king, from David's line, whose rule will affect human history to the end of time. This Son of David is greater than Solomon and all kings of human origin (Mt 12:42). He is the promised Messiah. bear fruit. The coming Messiah will fully be what God desires and will fully do what God desires (cf Jn 15:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:2–3 Spirit … Lord … Him. All three persons of the Trinity are referenced here. "God the Father has given His Spirit to Christ, His beloved Son, according to the received humanity. (Because of this He is called also Messiah; i.e., the Anointed.) He has not received His gifts with limits as other saints. For on Christ the Lord, according to His received human nature, rests 'the Spirit of wisdom and understanding' " (FC SD VIII 72).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:2 Spirit … shall rest. The Spirit of the Lord rested upon Saul and David when God chose them to rule His people (1Sm 10:10; 16:13). There will be no end to the flow of the Spirit's gifts equipping great David's greater Son, the Savior, with every trait and ability to make Him a perfect Ruler (42:1; 61:1–3; Ac 10:38). Ambr: "Let it not trouble you that either here it is said, 'rivers,' or elsewhere 'seven Spirits,' for by the sanctification of these seven gifts of the Spirit, as Isaiah said, is signified the fulness of all virtue. . . . One, then, is the River, but many the channels of the gifts of the Spirit. This River, then, goes forth from the Fount of Life" (NPNF 2 10:114). Gr Naz: "Seven precious spirits are named; for I think Isaiah loves to call the activities of the Spirit spirits" (NPNF 2 7:379). Cyr Jer: "The Spirit is one and undivided, but His operations various. . . . Though the titles of the Holy Ghost be different, He is one and the same; living and subsisting, and always present together with the Father and the Son" (NPNF 2 7:123, 125). Him. The Messiah. wisdom … fear of the Lord. Such attributes are called for in a leader of the people in Dt 1:13. The words refer to the judicial capacity of a king, which determines his activity in internal and foreign policy (cf 1Ki 3:16–28; Jer 23:5–6). The first pair of attributes is used for all who observe the Law (Dt 4:6). See pp 775–78, 1001. Spirit of counsel and might. Used to describe two of the four names given of the messianic King in 9:6. Mentioned in Pr 8:14 to describe someone who is wise.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:3–4 He shall not judge … meek of the earth. Fruits of the indwelling of the Spirit in this King's administration contrast with the traits of the leaders depicted in 1:21–23; 5:18–23. This king will see things as they really are and not judge by mere outward appearance (1Sm 16:7). The king manifests righteousness by helping the poor and needy, the widows and orphans (v 2; Ex 22:22; Ps 45:4) and is thereby the work of the Lord Himself (Ps 9:9; 68:5). He will also punish the evildoer (Jb 4:9; Ps 139:19; 2Th 2:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:3 fear of the LORD. Attributes in vv 3–4 are rooted in faith, the fear of the Lord (Pr 1:7; 9:10; 15:33; see p 1001); to ignore this proper fear is to do evil (Ps 14:4). Submission to the ways of the Holy One of Israel grants success to this king, as emphasized at the beginning of v 3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:4 righteousness. Justice. God rules rightly and fairly, not in self-interest or exploitation. See p 843. rod of His mouth. The weight of His Word. Cf 49:2; Hos 6:5; Rv 1:16. breath of His lips. His Word is powerful and brings about what it says.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:5 belt of His waist … belt of His loins. Parallel concepts for emphasis. Isaiah also uses the image of the breastplate of righteousness in 59:16–17 to depict the Lord's action to intercede for His people. This image is picked up by Paul in Eph 6:14 to describe the gifts of armor the Lord gives to the baptized.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:6 The wolf … with the lamb. Image of creation restored (Ezk 34:23–31; 37:26). Animals that were once prey (lamb, young goat, fattened calf) dwell safely with former predators (wolf, leopard, lion), without fear.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:9 They. All creatures. holy mountain. Where the Lord dwells (8:18), and where perfect peace is given (2:2–4) by the Prince of Peace (9:6). All is safe under the protecting watch of the King because of the change in the creatures of the earth. knowledge of the LORD. All will know the Lord (cf Jer 31:34), hence there will be peace. This knowledge is contrasted with the lack of understanding depicted in 1:3; 6:9–10. Ath: "If a man will but look up to heaven, he sees its Order, or if he cannot raise his face to heaven, but only to man, he sees [the Lord's] power … shown by His works, and learns that He alone among men is God the Word" (NPNF 2 4:61).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:10 In that day. Final establishment of the Messiah's kingdom. See p 1079. root of Jesse. The Messiah (cf Rv 5:5; 22:16). signal. Peoples and nations will flock to Him as loyal troops rally around a flag. inquire. Seek God's direction. See "seek," p 843. resting place. Where He dwells.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:11 In that day. See p 1079. Luth: "The prophet, abounding with spiritual joys, now adorns and enriches the matter which he treats by means of allegories. He is now saying the same thing as before, except that he uses different words and speaks in a different manner. The prophets were the best masters of their own allegories. The meaning of this passage is: With the Jews and Gentiles brought together into one church, there will now be a true exodus from Egypt. In that day, namely when the Ensign is raised up for the nations and they seek the Root of Jesse, that is, Christ" (AE 16:125). second time. Recalls the exodus, when God brought Israel out of Egypt with an outstretched arm (Ex 3:19–20). remnant. See p 1080. Assyria … coastlands of the sea. Egypt, Pathros, and Cush are all in northeast Africa, to the south of Israel. To the east is Assyria, and farther east are Elam and Shinar, which is Babylon (Gn 11:1–9; Zec 5:5–11). To the north lies Hamath, and to the west are the coastlands of the sea. See map, p 609.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:12 The people return from all directions to the signal of the King (Lk 13:29). signal. See note, v 10.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:13 Ephraim … Judah. Strife between Northern and Southern Kingdoms of Israel is extinguished. Dissension and rivalry will vanish as people come under the sway of the Prince of Peace.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:14 they. Reunited kingdoms of Israel. shoulder. Seen from the Judean hill country, the territory occupied by the Philistines resembled the shoulder of a man. Philistines … people of the east … Edom and Moab … Ammonites. David and Solomon ruled over these nations. Once Israel is unified under the Messiah, they will swoop down upon the nations around them (63:1–6). The manner in which this is accomplished is not revealed here, but in Ac 1:8.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:15 utterly destroy … tongue of the Sea of Egypt. The sea once blocked the Israelites from escaping from Egypt until God parted it for them (Ex 14:15–16). Here, it symbolizes any opposition to the remnant's return. the River. The mighty Euphrates could hinder travel, but God will remove all obstacles. scorching breath. God's power, able to dry these waters He created. seven channels. He will break a mighty river into small waterways, easily crossed. across in sandals. As at the parting of the Red Sea, they will cross on dry ground.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 11:16 highway. God will prepare the way for His people. Where once they saw obstacles, now they will have an easy path. Nothing stops His plan. See notes, 19:23; 35:8; 40:3; 62:10. remnant. See p 1080.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 11 The Lord describes the coming rule of the Messiah. As believers in Christ, we already enjoy the benefits of His wise rule, having received His Spirit, wisdom, peace, and other blessings. The Spirit equips us to spread word of this blessed reign to all nations. • Pour out Your sevenfold Spirit, O Lord, that we may boldly proclaim Your goodness. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:1–3 You. The movement of the chapter is from an individual (v 1) to a group (v 3). An individual may have sung or recited these first verses. See ESV note; see also "Versicle and Response," p 959.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:1 give thanks. Isaiah's first song of praise, a liturgical response to what is being proclaimed. anger … comfort. Though God's people have deserved His wrath, He is no longer angry. This is not attributable to Israel, but is the Lord's doing. The comfort announced here anticipates the double "Comfort, comfort" in 40:1. In the fullness of time, the Father sent His Son (Gal 4:4), who also sends the Holy Spirit (Gal 4:6), the Comforter ("Helper," Jn 16:7).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:2 my salvation. Deliverance from all enemies: physical and spiritual. See p 843. Luth: "This is a description of the peace that comes after the forgiveness of sins has been received" (AE 16:129). Lord God. See ESV note; see also p 1227. strength … song. God is our only strength. He has won the victory, and He alone is worthy of praise.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:3 you. Plural instead of the singular (see note, vv 1–3), perhaps signaling the singing of a choir. wells of salvation. Reminiscent of God's rescue of Israel out of Egypt (cf Ex 14:21–31). Immediately after this water deliverance, the Lord turned bitter water into sweet water (Ex 15:23–25). When Isaiah envisions a new exodus, it also includes the Lord's miraculous provision of water (Is 43:19). Jesus Christ offers living water (Jn 4:6–14) that comes from His pierced side (Jn 19:34) because He thirsted (Jn 19:28), suffered, and died.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:4 call upon His name. Worship and prayer to God alone. make known His deeds. Praise God by telling others about Him.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:5 made known in all the earth. Israel is a missionary people (cf Gn 12:1–3), commissioned to be God's priests or representatives to the nations (Ex 19:5–6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 12:6 great in your midst. God has demonstrated His power and character among His people by saving them. See note, 7:14. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 12 The Lord's people break out in song because of their salvation, proclaiming God's deeds to all people. Those who know the Word are obligated and blessed to proclaim the Lord's saving work. The Lord gives us strength to bear this song before the nations, to testify what He accomplishes in Jesus Christ. • "I will give thanks to You, O Lord, for though You were angry with me, Your anger turned away, that You might comfort me" (v 1). Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 13–23 Collection of 11 oracles. With the exception of ch 22, all are directed against heathen nations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:1 oracle. See p 1079. Babylon. All Assyria. In the NT, Babylon is used symbolically as the embodiment of hostility to God and His people (Rv 14:8; 16:19; 17:5). Isaiah … saw. God revealed these things to Isaiah in a vision.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:2 signal … wave the hand. Summoning God's people to His cause. See p 1277. cry aloud. The terms "raise," "cry aloud," and "wave the hand" are all second person plural verbs, indicating that many are prepared to carry out the Lord's instructions. God is gathering an army to do His bidding. them. All who answer the call to God's service.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:3 consecrated ones. See "holy," p 7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:4–5 The multitude has gathered together under the Lord of hosts. The Lord is behind the creation of these armies, and their purpose is to punish the iniquitous (vv 9, 11). Just as Assyria was once a weapon of the Lord's wrath (10:5), so now another army—yet unnamed—will judge Assyria. The agent of judgment is later judged.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:4 Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:5 end of the heavens. The farthest horizon, where the sky appears to meet the earth. We would say "the ends of the earth." weapons. God uses these people to do His will.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:6 day of the Lord. See p 1079.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:7 Powerlessness in both action and emotion. See notes, Jsh 2:9–11.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:8 anguish. Image of a woman in labor involves not only her intensity but also the suddenness and inevitability of the event. See "woman in labor," p 1080. aflame. Flushed red in fear or panic.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:9 day of the Lord. See p 1079.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:10 The moving of the heavens to darkness is an appropriate image of judgment. God is light (Ps 139:11–12; 1Jn 1:5); when His blessing is removed and replaced with His wrath, light is replaced by darkness. This lack of light is a sign of the Lord's coming (Is 5:30).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:11–12 God punishes the earth's prideful people, nearly resulting in human extinction.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:12 Ophir. See note, Jb 22:24.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:13 Human sin has affected the rest of creation, so creation feels the wrath of the Lord (Jer 12:4; Rm 8:19–23). Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:14 Vision changes from that of the Lord and His army's action to the reaction of the people. They will run like a fleeing gazelle or defenseless sheep.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:16 infants … pieces. The defenseless, down to infants, will be killed. Infants were often killed in war in order to destroy the next generation, who might rebel against the conquering nation. Also, nations did not have effective or compassionate ways to deal with refugees or prisoners of war. For these reasons, ancient warfare was often esp brutal. wives ravished. Wives of those killed were often raped and forced into prostitution by the invaders (Am 7:17). These verses describe the harshness of war, but do not condone these practices. Sin is sometimes punished by sin. On how God's people should view such issues and violence, see pp 376, 879.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:17 Medes. Neo-Babylonian Empire, also called Chaldea (cf 23:13). Chaldea made an ideal center from which to wage guerrilla warfare against the Assyrians. In 612 BC, these Chaldeans were responsible for the final destruction of Nineveh, Assyria's capital. See pp 1498–99; see also map, p 717.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:18 See note, v 16.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:19 Babylon. Refers to Assyria (which ruled Babylon for a time), as it does throughout chs 13–14. Chaldeans. See note, v 17. like Sodom and Gomorrah. Recalls the complete divine destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah for their sins (3:9). Such a comparison is also used in the NT for the end times (Lk 17:28–30; Rm 9:29; Rv 11:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:20–22 Depicts complete abandonment and judgment on Assyria. Every aspect of their life will be gone. A once-great empire will go back to nature.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:20 It will never … all generations. This great destruction foreshadows the final destruction on Judgment Day, when these words will be completely fulfilled. no Arab. Too desolate even for Bedouin tribes.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 13:21 wild goats. Or, "goat demons," emphasizing the superstitious horror that would leave the city uninhabited (2Ch 11:15). See note, Lv 17:7. Reflects a curse that a rebellious city would be inhabited by wild beasts following its destruction (Is 14:23).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 13 The Lord of hosts will consecrate an army for the destruction of Babylon. The punishment depicted here will find its most severe expression on Judgment Day, when sinners will face agonizing punishment and swift destruction. We, too, should fear God's wrath and repent of all evil, iniquity, and pride. The Father consecrated Jesus to receive the punishment for our sins. His innocent hands were nailed to the cross; His side was pierced for our sins in the darkness of Good Friday, that

He might become our light and salvation. • Lord of hosts, teach us to fear Your wrath and honor Your Commandments. Give us grace to lay aside all pride and arrogance and to rely solely on Jesus' mercy. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:1 compassion … choose. See p 5. Jacob. God once chose Jacob and renamed him Israel (Gn 32:28). Now He chooses and renames His people again. sojourners. The exiles are returning to their land. See map, p 1396. Instead of being joined to the foreign nations, the foreigners come to Israel to be a part of the nation. See note, Ex 12:19.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:2 The return from Babylon (cf 40:3–5), likened to the rescue of enslaved Israel from Egyptian bondage, serves as a type of the subjection of "all rule and authority and power" to the Redeemer of all people (Eph 1:21). Lord's land. Territory of Israel, lent to His people as stewards. male and female slaves. Complete role reversal. Israel is now the master, not the servant. rule over. Another depiction of the role reversal.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:1–2 Moved by compassion, the Lord will reverse the fortunes of Israel. As the chosen of the Lord, Israel will rule her enemies and settle in the land the Lord gives. Whenever our relationship with the Lord stands in need of restoration because of our disobedience, our own actions and prayers alone cannot make things right. It is always God's compassion in Jesus Christ that restores us again and again. Through the waters of Holy Baptism, the Lord chose us to live in His blessed land forever. • Gracious Lord, look upon us with Your compassion, and restore us when we go astray. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:3 hard service. All the suffering and afflictions they had faced.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:4–21 Ode beginning at v 4 unleashes a torrent of ridicule on God's enemies. Line after line cuts down the pretensions of arrogant men. They are such ludicrous figures because they must leave all their pomp behind as they go down to the grave and its decay. In vv 12–21, the futility of death-bound men wanting to "be like God" (Gn 3:5) is made graphic by a parable drawn from a pagan tale about a celestial deity. This magnificent satire, with the force of a proverb, applies whenever anti-God powers set out to defy and to destroy the kingdom of heaven. Vv 4b–8 describe the reaction of the people on the earth to the death of the king. Vv 9–11 share the reaction of those in Sheol.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:4 taunt. Hbr mashal, "to be like, to be similar"; as a noun translated "parable" or "allegory" (Ps 78:2; Ezk 17:2; 24:3). When such comparisons illustrate generally accepted truths, they come under the category of proverbs (Ps 49:4; Pr 1:1; Ezk 12:22–23); when the point to be made in a parable or proverb is mockery, the word is rendered "taunt song" or simply "taunt" (Jer 24:9; Hab 2:6; Mi 2:4). See pp 775–78. king of Babylon. Sargon II (reigned 721–705 BC) had achieved a pinnacle of world dominance that none of his predecessors had known. He even styled himself as "Lord of the universe." This pride fits the description of the king in vv 3–27. But Sargon also fits these verses in another way. Less than a year after his palace in Dur-Sharrukin was dedicated in 706 BC, he suffered a fate unknown among Assyrian monarchs: he was killed on the battlefield. Mystery surrounds the event, but plainly it was viewed as the ultimate disgrace. Hence, in contrast to most other Assyrian kings, his son Sennacherib does not identify his father. Dur-Sharrukin was soon abandoned, and all Sargon's glory was forgotten. ceased. Sargon's death in 705 BC on a battlefield in Anatolia and the impossibility of burying him in a royal grave caused a wave of joy throughout the ancient Near East. Subject nations believed they could liberate themselves from Assyria. When Sennacherib ascended the throne in 704 BC, his annals record widespread mutiny throughout the Assyrian Empire.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:5 broken the staff … scepter. Symbol of Sargon II's power and his conquering nature. The Lord has destroyed that staff, as well as the power behind it.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:7 earth is at rest. Peace followed the demise of Sargon II, and the result was the celebration. The boast of the conqueror is replaced with the song of the redeemed (24:14, 16; 26:1, 19).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:8 The Assyrian tyrants, holding dominion over many people, do not take care of the earth (cf Gn 2:15; Dt 20:19). Instead, they boast of their ability to destroy it, in particular the cypress and Lebanon cedar (Is 37:24). Therefore, nature also rejoices at the downfall of this king.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:9–10 Sheol. See p 792. rouses the shades. The kings who went before Sargon II welcome the new arrival to the grave and remark on how he looks like them.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:11 Sheol. See p 792. maggots … worms. Elsewhere, the worm is cited as an agent of the Lord's judgment (Dt 28:39) and a vicious consumer of human remains (Is 66:24; Mk 9:47–48).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:12–15 Ancient Near Eastern mythology contains stories of war in the heavens, but not of a person challenging God. This particular depiction does not correspond to any one myth, but instead is an image that Isaiah has constructed on the myths of neighboring nations.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:12 you. Sargon II. Jesus may allude to this passage (Lk 10:18; Rv 12:8–9) in describing Satan's fall from heaven. fallen from heaven. He lost his important position. Day Star. Likely the planet Venus (Hbr word occurs only here). The translation "Lucifer" (light-bearer) in the KJV is derived from the Lat name for Venus. In Babylonian and Canaanite mythology, celestial bodies were associated with gods. son of Dawn! Synonym for Day Star.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:13 You. Sargon II. above the stars. Above all things. Stars may refer to angels. mount of assembly. Aspiration of the king is similar to that of the nation at Babel (Gn 11:1–9; cf Ps 48:1–2; Am 9:2–3). north. Hbr tsaphon; Mount Zaphon, in Canaanite mythology, was the place of their gods.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:14 like the Most High. See note, Gn 3:5.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:15 Sheol. See p 792.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:16 the man. Third view of Sargon II's demise. The nations react again. Instead of being remembered fondly, the very memory of the tyrant is repressed. The death of the king causes people to ponder and stare, considering the difference between reputation and reality.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:17 not let his prisoners go home? He kept captives in permanent exile. See map, p 609.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:18 glory … tomb. Buried with honor.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:19 cast out. Even the king's body is treated with scorn. He is not buried with the other kings in the tombs, but set apart in shame. Not receiving a proper burial was a certain sign of being cursed (Ezk 37:1–14). loathed branch. Translated "shoot" in Is 11:1. A sprout, snapped off before it grows into a sturdy oak, is considered of no value. So the oppressor will cast it out on the rubbish heap. This is the opposite of the branch of Jesse's root, which bears fruit (11:1; cf 60:21). clothed with the slain. Sargon II's royal raiment is stripped away, and his body is thrown into a pile.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:21 Prepare slaughter … fathers. OT forbade Israel to punish children for the sins of the father (Dt 24:16; Ezk 18). But the Lord may end royal lines, that the remnant of those who believe will not be led astray (1Ki 15:25–30; 16:2–4, 9–13; 21:17–29) and create a land of unbelief, as in the time before Noah (Gn 6:5–7; 2Pt 2:4–9). cities. Condemns influence of paganism through growing cities of foreign countries.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:22 Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:23 possession of the hedgehog. Cf 13:21–22. pools. The land would revert to its marshy state. broom of destruction. Swept away. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:3–23 The demise of Babylon's king demonstrates the final outcome for all who rely on oppression and wickedness to achieve their aims. His fall is a warning to never put ourselves in the place of God. While the glorious king of Babylon remained in the grave, our King, the Lord Jesus Christ, rose from the grave. Through faith in Him, our guilt is taken away, and our resurrection is assured. • Lord God, even as we are surrounded by the anger and wickedness of the powerful, give us comfort and joy in knowing that You have destroyed death for us. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:24 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. planned. God is carrying out His perfect plan for His people. These are not random events.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:25 My land. See note, v 2. them. Israel.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:26 whole earth. God's plan is not limited to Israel but encompasses all. hand … stretched out. See note, 5:25.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:27 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. hand is stretched out. See note, 5:25. who will turn it back? No one can stop God or hinder His will for His people. "God's eternal election does not just foresee and foreknow the salvation of the elect. From God's gracious will and pleasure in Christ Jesus, election is a cause that gains, works, helps, and promotes our salvation and what belongs to it" (FC SD XI 8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:24–27 The Lord's gracious plans and purposes will be accomplished, not just for Israel, but for the whole earth. God's people will be delivered from Assyria and all other enemies. Faith in this promise moves the believer to pray that God "breaks and hinders every evil plan and purpose of the devil, the world, and our sinful nature, which do not want us to hallow God's name or let His kingdom come" (SC, Third Petition, p xxxviii). God's people walk by faith, not by sight (2Co 5:7). God's greatest plans and purposes were accomplished through Jesus, who redeemed us from sin. • Heavenly Father, help us to remember that nothing can separate us from Your love in Christ Jesus. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:28 King Ahaz died. 715 BC. oracle. See p 1079.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:29 Philistia. See color map 2. rod that struck you. David. He created a great portion of his dynasty on the backs of the Philistines (1Sm 17:50; 19:8; 23:1–5). serpent's root. Refers to Ex 4:2–3; 7:10–12, showing that the Lord's power is in the house of David. See imagery of Gn 49:17. adder. A greater Davidic king, referring to Hezekiah and the Lord's victory over Sennacherib (Is 36–37). flying fiery serpent. See note, Is 30:6. One comes from the line of David, who is even greater than the adder. See note, Nu 21:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:30 firstborn of the poor. The poorest and most needy of Israel will be safe, but Philistia will fall completely. Famine for Philistia implies siege warfare, the basic principle being to starve them until they opened their gates (29:8). kill your root. Completely destroyed with no hope of recovery.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:31 gate. See p 792. Philistines at all levels will be crying out when the army from the north comes. smoke comes out of the north. Gath refused to pay the tribute to Assyria and was sacked in 734 BC. The Philistine cities were plotting with Egypt against Assyria and so lost Ashkelon and Gath to Sargon II in 720 BC. Ashdod, another Philistine city and part of the famous Philistine Pentapolis, rebelled in 712 BC. Ashkelon rebelled again in 705 and was quelled by Sennacherib in 701 BC. no straggler. A disciplined force marching quickly upon them (5:26–30). his. The Assyrian enemy.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:32 founded Zion. Judah depends on the Lord alone (ch 12; Dt 6:4) and needs no alliances with pagan nations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 14:28–32 Assyria would destroy Philistia with fearsome efficiency. But in Zion, the Lord founded a place of refuge for His afflicted people. Earthly alliances and human relationships are a source of safety. Yet we should enjoy these relationships as gifts from God and never allow them to replace God as the object of our highest trust and love. Our refuge and safety are found in Jesus. In His Holy Church, our Zion, Jesus tends to those afflicted by sin. He grants forgiveness, life, and salvation. • We praise You, O God, for Your Holy Church throughout the world, and also for our own congregations. Though sin afflicts us, we flee to Your Church for safety and refuge in Jesus Christ. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 15 Moab and Israel had a long history of both friendship and discord (Gn 19:37; Dt 2:9). Kinship is expressed in genealogies, in the story of Ruth, as well as in similarity of language. But there was also animosity between them. The two nations had fought against each other since Israel came to claim the Promised Land. Moabites also fought with Israel over the former land of the Ammonites, which was claimed by Reuben and Gad. Thus, Isaiah exhibits both triumph and grief over the destruction of Moab.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:1 oracle. See p 1079. Ar … Kir. The list relates the thoroughness of the destruction wrought on Moab. Ar is on the border of Moab (Dt 2:18). Kir-hareseth is in central Moab, c 12 mi E of the Salt Sea (Is 16:7, 11; 2Ki 3:25). Exact location of some places can no longer be determined. See color map 2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:2 He. Moab's ruler. temple. The people go up to their temple and the high places to weep, which signifies the failure of their god Chemosh to save them (Jer 48:35). Dibon. North of the river Arnon. high places. See p 526. Nebo. Mountain on the north end of the Salt Sea, on which Moses stood to survey the Promised Land. Medeba. C 5 mi SE of Nebo. See map, p 1555. baldness … shorn. Baldness and shaving emphasizes the mourning of the nation (Is 22:12; Jer 41:5; Mi 1:16). See note, Dt 14:1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:3 sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15. housetops. Public mourning. Jer 19:13 indicates that incense was sometimes offered on housetops. See note, Jsh 2:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:4 Heshbon … Elealeh … Jahaz. Cities in the northern section of Moab. See map, p 250. Jahaz is c 16 mi S of the other two cities. The army of Moab can do nothing except cry aloud, each person trembling in the face of destruction. his. Ruler of Moab.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:5 My heart. Mourner is the Lord (cf v 9). Not only does He lament over His people Israel (Hos 11:8–9), but He also wails over Moab (cf Ps 145:9). Zoar. Mentioned in Gn 19:21–22, located in the southern Salt Sea area. See map, p 33. The list of places likely includes Moabite cities in the southwest sector of the country, away from the fighting in the north. Eglath-shelishiyah. Lit, "a heifer of three years," but indicates a place (Jer 48:34); location unknown. Luhith … Horonaim. Locations unknown.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:6 Nimrim. Probably Wadi Numeirah in southern Moab (variant spellings in Nu 32:3; Jsh 13:27). This oasis became barren and dry, a further reflection on the destruction.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:7 carry away. Refugees flee from the conflict, keeping only what they can carry. Brook of the Willows. Or, "Ravine of the Poplars." Possibly the Zered River that was the border with Edom (Nu 21:12; Dt 2:13).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:8 Eglaim … Beer-elim. Locations unknown. May be cities on opposing borders, thus emphasizing the loss of the whole nation.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 15:9 Dibon. Circles back to term in v 2, wrapping up this image of Moab's destruction. Though blood fills the waters, punishment continues. We are not told who executes judgment on Moab. Subdued by various invaders, it vanished from the face of the earth. a lion. Shows inevitability of destruction. Though they run from the armies, the lion takes them (Am 1:2; 3:8; 5:19).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:1 Send the lamb. Traditional tribute from the Moabites. Partial fulfillment of 2:1–5. Sela. City in Edom (Jgs 1:36). The leaders of Moab have fled into Edom and are sending for help from there. way of the desert. The desert surrounding the Salt Sea lay between Sela and Jerusalem. See color map 2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:2 fleeing birds. People of Moab wait at the border, desiring to flee into Judah for safety. (See the reverse in Ru 1:1–2.) fords of the Arnon. Boundary of Moab.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:3–4a Shows the Moabites' willingness to put themselves under the authority of Judah.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:3 justice. See p 842. shade like night. Covering completely. outcasts … fugitive. Refugees from Moab. A plea that God would protect the Moabites.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:4 the destroyer. Assyria.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:5 throne … tent of David. A time is envisioned when the oppressors of Moab will vanish and the people will find blessing in the Davidic king. This is a longing for the messianic King (9:2–7; 11:1–5), when all the nations will come to Zion and experience peace (2:1–5). The vision is fulfilled in Jesus, David's greatest Son, whose genealogy includes Ruth, a Moabite woman (Mt 1:5). steadfast love … faithfulness … justice … righteousness. See pp 842–43. Luth: "Steadfast love is a divine blessing and favor, the remission of sins, and the gift of the Holy Spirit. He says that there will not be a hypocrite there but that pure truth and faithfulness will reign. This King will not only judge for His own Person and in His office deliver the oppressed, the poor, and the widows, but He will also seek justice, that is, He will see to it that the other magistrates of the kingdom will judge in this way, and He will swiftly get justice done and not drag it out for many years. This is the glory and the duty of every prince. But it is a gift of God that is now exceedingly uncommon" (AE 16:150).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:6 pride. Instead of love, Moab chose arrogance, pride, insolence, and boasting (25:10–11). As a consequence, Moab is caused to wail (v 7) and is brought low (2:12–18). Pride is the sin at the root of rebellion against God (Gn 3:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:7 raisin cakes. Used in various feasts (see distribution of food in 2Sm 6:19; see also p 236). The vineyards and fields that produced the ingredients of these delicacies will be destroyed (cf Sg 2:5). In Hos 3:1, "cakes of raisins" are associated with idol worship, in which the Moabites also indulged (Is 16:12). Kir-hareseth. Capital city of Moab.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:8 Heshbon … Sibmah. Locations unknown. Jazer. Beyond northern border of Moab (Nu 21:32; Jsh 13:25). shoots spread abroad. Depicts spreading of Moab's influence, perhaps through trade in wine to surrounding nations. These vines are destroyed by the lords of the nations (Is 15).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:9 I weep. The Lord is speaking. Elealeh. C 1 mi NE of Heshbon (15:4). summer fruit. Grape harvest. See calendar, p 262. shout. In celebration of a good harvest. The joy and activity normally associated with the harvest of grapes is taken away because of war, destruction, and the dispersed people (Jer 48:33).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:11 inner parts … inmost self. Deepest seat of emotion (63:15; Jer 31:20; Lm 2:11). See note, Ps 103:1–2. like a lyre. As if he were playing a lament in his heart. See p 993. Kir-hareseth. See note, v 7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:12 presents himself. Before his god Chemosh. wearies himself. All the effort of pagan worship is wasted because idols cannot help. high place. See p 526.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:13 Not the first warning to Moab, but now God gives them a timeline.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 16:14 Isaiah finishes this view of the demise of Moab with a time frame for the oracle to come to pass. In three years, Moab will fall; their pride will be removed. In his oracles about the nations (chs 13–23), Isaiah also specifically predicts time periods.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 15–16 The complicated history of friendship and enmity between Israel and Moab would come to an end with Moab's bloody destruction. Yet even Moab's refugees will find shelter in the tent of the coming Davidic king. Pride was the downfall of Moab, and it is our downfall too. The Lord desires not our destruction, but that we turn to Him in repentant faith. In Jesus, He offers steadfast love and righteousness. • Heavenly Father, in Your steadfast love, You sent Your Son to save the lost. Lead us to repentance over every arrogant act, and teach us to depend on the love and faithfulness of Jesus in every endeavor. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:1 oracle. See p 1079. Damascus. Capital of Aram, or Syria, north of Israel. See color map 2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:2 Aroer. Probably the city in Syria rather than the city named in Nu 32:34, east of the Jordan.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:3 fortress. Damascus acted as a bulwark against the Assyrian advance southward into Israel. Ephraim … Damascus. The Northern Kingdom, also called Ephraim and Jacob (vv 3–4), threw in its lot with its neighbor to the north (ch 7). Both states were to share the same fate (17:1–9). In 732 BC, the Assyrians captured Damascus. Ten years later, Samaria, capital of Israel, fell before the same invaders. remnant. Those surviving the attack. If Syria shares the fate of Israel, it will be destroyed down to a remnant (7:16; 8:4). But then it will also have that remnant preserved, which fits with the hope to the Gentiles in 18:7. the glory of the children of Israel. Remnant of Israel. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:4 in that day. See p 1079. glory of Jacob. Israel.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:5 it. God's judgment. Valley of Rephaim. Fertile valley southwest of Jerusalem. Cf Jsh 15:8; 18:16.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:6 Gleanings. Cf Ru 2:15–16. A remnant will be left, but will only be as large, and as important, as the few olives left on the tree after harvest.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:7 man. Any person seeing the folly of idolatry. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:8 work of his hands. The eyes of all turn from their idolatry and back to the Lord, which is emphasized by the use of Maker (v 7) against what is man-made. Asherim. See note, Ex 34:13. altars of incense. Linked with Baal (2Ch 14:3–5). See note, Nu 25:3.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:9 deserted places. All of the cities will be desolated, repeating the image of v 2. Strong cities offered protection to a person seeking refuge, but in this case, Damascus will be desolate.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:10 you. Those engaged in idolatry (v 8). salvation. See p 843. Rock. See p 843; cf 26:4; Ex 17:1–7, when water gushed from the rock and provided salvation (cf 1Co 10:4). pleasant plants. Paganism was dedicated to the mysterious forces of fertility in man, beast, and vegetation. The blossoming of plants symbolized the deity's return to life after winter's cold had killed him.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:11 harvest will flee away. Despite growth and blossoms, the plants fail to produce fruit/grain for the harvest.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:12 roar. The nations, perhaps the multinational force of Assyria, have such vast numbers that the sound is as the roar of the sea.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:13 He. The Lord. chased like chaff. They are small, insignificant, and easily scattered by a greater force. See note, Ps 1:4.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 17:14 The seemingly great army is gone in a day (37:36–37). portion … lot. What they deserved.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 17 Even great urban centers such as Damascus can offer no security against disaster. Yet, as with Israel, the Lord will preserve a remnant. Those who trust in the works of their own hands are guilty of idolatry. When we fear, love, and trust in created things more than in the Maker of all things, we have forgotten the God of our salvation, who sent His Son, Jesus, to bear our sins of idolatry and to bless us with the refuge of His forgiveness. With faith in Him, we can live without fear. • Maker and Refuge, You are the giver of every good gift. May we never forget You, but always remember that we walk in Your sight. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:1–7 In ch 17, Isaiah exposed the folly of putting confidence in an alliance with Israel's northern neighbor. Now, he warns against making a defensive pact with a nation far to the south.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:1 whirring wings. May correspond to the boats mentioned in v 2, alluding to the sails or the oars of the messengers sent out from this far-flung land. Another interpretation is that this is actually against the nation of Cush, and that Israel is to send messengers to them to give God's response. rivers of Cush. Canals and branches (19:6) that constitute the Nile. Cush was in the Upper Nile region, of which Ethiopia and Nubia were a part. See color map 3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:2 vessels of papyrus. Light, fast boats made of papyrus reeds. smooth. Likely refers to their clean-shaven appearance. near and far. Widely known. rivers divide. Rivulets and channels of the Nile south of Egypt.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:3 signal … trumpet. The Lord's message to the world is plain to see. There is a visual element in the signal (cf 11:10) and an audible element in the trumpet (cf 27:13). The people are commanded to look and to hear, leaving them without excuse of ignorance. mountains. Heights in plain sight.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:4 dwelling. Heaven or the temple in Jerusalem. The gaze of the Lord is enough to make His presence felt. He waits for the right moment to act.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:5 before the harvest. Just when all seems to be going well for the nations, when all of the work is at the moment of paying off, the Lord enacts His own harvest—judgment (Rv 14:15). He cuts off … clears away. Pruning of power and authority. Pruning normally took place after the harvest. God's judgment comes at an unexpected time.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:6 They. The people. birds … winter on them. So devastating that animals will feed on the nation all seasons without ceasing (Ezk 39:17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 18:7 tribute. The remnant of the once-great people mentioned in v 2 comes to the Lord to pay homage (cf 2:2–3; 11:9). The promise is for the Gentiles as well as the people of Israel (e.g., Ps 76:11–12). Lord of hosts. See p 1291. smooth. See note, v 2. rivers divide. See note, v 2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 18 The Lord's plans are clearly signaled and sounded. All who dwell on earth should look and listen. The Lord makes known His message of salvation with unmistakable clarity—of Law and Gospel, of judgment and grace. Those who refuse to look and listen will be cut off from the Lord at an unexpected time. The Lord promises grace and every blessing to those who look to Him and hear His Word in faith. Through Jesus, we will be welcomed into the Lord's presence in the heavenly Mount Zion. • O Lord, give us ears to hear Your Word and to believe it. And as we hear Your Word, bless us with faith, hope, and love. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:1 oracle. See p 1079. riding on a swift cloud. Expresses His power over nature as well as the Egyptian pantheon of gods (Ps 68:33). idols of Egypt. The possibility of another exodus that again judges the gods of Egypt causes the idols and their makers to tremble and melt.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:2 God works His judgment through civil war.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:3 spirit. Their will and self-esteem. emptied out. They have lost hope in their abilities. counsel. Advice of their sages (cf Ex 7:1–13). inquire. To seek guidance. idols … sorcerers … mediums … necromancers. Worthless idols, spirits, or the dead. God condemns all divination. See notes, Dt 18:9–12.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:4 a hard master. Too vague to pinpoint a particular ruler; could be Piankhi of Ethiopia (reigned 741–715 BC), Sargon II (cf 20:1), Sennacherib, or Esarhaddon (reigned 681–669 BC). Or it could have been fulfilled multiple times in various reigns. Lord God of hosts. See p 1291.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:5–7 The drought's thoroughness will dry up the river and seriously affect Egypt. The Nile River is Egypt's center of prosperity and vitality. See notes, Ex 1:22; 7:20.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:8 spread nets on the water. See note, Mt 13:47–48.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:9 combed flax. Woven into linen fabric, a key Egyptian industry.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:10 pillars. Egypt's rich and mighty will be affected, as will be the workers.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:11 Zoan. Northeastern Nile Delta. Would have been the first region encountered by any who traveled from Israel to Egypt. wisest counselors. The thorough breaking of Egypt continues in these verses with the loss of their wisdom, for which they had been known. See p 776. Isaiah stresses the total loss of direction and wise leadership by associating Pharaoh, the princes, the wisest counselors, and wise men with foolishness, stupid counsel, and delusion (v 12; cf 41:20; 44:25; 47:12–15; 1Co 1:20).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:13 Memphis. A former capital of Egypt. See color map 3. The image of the cornerstones of Egypt causing her to stagger conveys Egypt's full lack of wisdom and strength.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:14 spirit of confusion. The result of the hand of the Lord against Egypt is that the once-proud nation is as a drunken man (cf 5:11, 22; 28:7–8), unable to support itself or know where to turn for support, and thus rendered impotent (Ezk 29:8–12; 2Th 2:11–12). See note, Is 51:17.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:15 head or tail, palm branch or reed. Neither the highest nor the lowest. All are powerless.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:1–15 As the Lord stirs up civil war in Egypt, the Egyptians will seek after wisdom, but will find only foolish counsel. The Lord forbids all forms of divination and satanic arts. We should instead call on the Lord's name in every time of trouble (Second Commandment). Although the river waters of Egypt dried up in judgment, we are cleansed with a river of blessing through faith in Jesus Christ. We have the wise counsel of His Word, which promises forgiveness and everlasting life. • We praise You, O God, for claiming us as Your own through Holy Baptism. By that washing, help us die to sin every day and live before You in righteousness and purity forever. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:16–17 The result of the ruinous actions of vv 1–15 is again exemplified. It is explicit that the Egyptians know the cause of their terror and problems—it is the Lord who sends Judah to confront them.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:16 In that day. See p 1079. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:17 the land of Judah. The Lord's earthly base of operations, from which He brought terror to the Egyptians. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:18–25 Egypt and Assyria convert.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:18 In that day. See p 1079. five cities. Not named. language of Canaan. Hbr language, used by Israel to worship the Lord. Lord of hosts. See p 1291. City of Destruction. Probably a reference to the city of On, a famous center of sun worship near Cairo, which the Greeks called Heliopolis. Hbr words for sun and destruction are almost identical. A wordplay may be intended, so when the citizens swore allegiance to the Creator of heaven and earth, veneration of the sun was abolished. For this reason, it received special mention.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:19 In that day. See p 1079. altar to the Lord … pillar to the Lord. Worship of the Lord spreads across the whole land, from the midst to the border. Abraham and Jacob used the pillar and altar for worship. See note, Gn 28:18. Luth: "Before Christ no other place was to be established for the worship of God beside Jerusalem. Therefore the prophet is speaking of the time when the Gospel was spread" (AE 16:164).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:20 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. savior. Motif of the exodus is repeated here, but this time the Lord rescues the Egyptians. See pp 380–81. deliver. See p 842.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:21 know the Lord. The goal of all interaction with the Lord is being achieved—that God would make Himself known to the people and they would know and serve Him (43:10; Jer 9:23–24; Php 3:10). vows. They respond to God's deliverance by pledging themselves to Him. See p 7. Luth: "The vows of the Old Testament concerned themselves with external and temporal things, such as were in their power. The vows of the New Testament are to commit oneself to Christ, to worship Him by faith, praise, and confession and praise. For God is not worshiped except by faith. Thus the field is cultivated for the sake of the produce. The believers humble and condemn themselves, but they proclaim and glorify Christ and His works. These are the vows of the New Testament. Civil vows have the emperor and the laws in view. Vows made in impossible things are ungodly and devilish, as are those made even in possible things for the purpose of being made righteous by means of their performance" (AE 16:167).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:22 striking and healing. God disciplines Egypt that He may restore it. See note, Dt 32:39. return. See p 1080. mercy. See pp 842–43. heal. Restore them as He sees fit. Cf Ex 15:26.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:23 In that day. See p 1079. highway. Egypt and Assyria are connected to the Lord's people (cf 35:8; 62:10). worship with the Assyrians. Scope of the healing and restoration now extends from Egypt, across civilization, to the other major nation of the known lands. These enemies of Israel will begin to worship the Lord together.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:24–25 Incorporation of the nations is evident by the use of "My people" (cf 10:24; Ex 6:7; Hos 1:10) to describe Egypt and "the work of My hands" (cf Is 60:21; 64:8; Ps 138:8) to describe Assyria. Even long-standing foes will be welcomed (cf Mt 8:5; Lk 9:52).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:24 In that day. See p 1079. blessing. Those who have been blessed by God respond by being a blessing to others. See p 842.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:25 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. My people … My hands … My inheritance. All the nations belong to God, and people from all nations will be part of His kingdom.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 19:16–25 The Lord destroys Egypt with a purpose: the Egyptians will come to know the Lord and worship Him alone. The Lord will accomplish Egypt's deliverance through both discipline and restoration. God carries out His saving work in the lives of people as He disciplines and heals them. Although no discipline is pleasant, we endure it as part of the Lord's loving design for our salvation (Heb 12:5–11). The same God who delivered Israel from Egypt now offers deliverance to Egypt —and all people on earth—through Jesus Christ, the Savior. • Merciful Lord, turn the hearts of those who do not know You, that they may rejoice in the Savior's deliverance and worship You forever. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 20:1 year. 711 BC. commander. Assyrian title. Not named. Referenced in an Assyrian inscription discovered at Ashdod. Sargon. Sargon II was one of the most powerful of the Assyrian kings (see note, 14:4). Mentioned only here in Scripture, his name vanished until archaeologists unearthed the ruins of the empire he helped build. His reign began shortly after Samaria, capital of the Northern Kingdom, became a victim of the Assyrian war machine. Ashdod.

C 20 mi NE of Gaza, near the Great Sea. See color map 1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 20:2 sackcloth. Rough cloth worn by mourners and, at times, prophets (2Ki 1:8; cf Mt 3:4). naked and barefoot. Isaiah, who walks and talks with kings (Is 7; 36–39), is commanded to walk naked. He is not told to proclaim anything. Action, rather than words, provides the key element. See p 1220.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 20:3 sign … portent. Walking naked symbolizes the Egyptians, who will be defeated by Assyria and whose captives will walk naked into exile. Prisoners were stripped to humiliate them. See note, 2Sm 10:4.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 20:4 lead away. Fulfilled in 671 BC.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 20:5 they. Presumably political leaders in Judah, who might have hoped, according to vv 5–6, that Egypt would offer help to Judah in the face of pressure from the Neo-Assyrian Empire. In light of the impotence of Egypt in 19:1–15 and the sign of Isaiah here in ch 20, the Lord emphasizes that there is no hope in other nations. Rather, Judah is to look to Him.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 20:6 inhabitants of this coastland. Anyone (Jew or Gentile) in the region who thought an alliance with Egypt or Cush could save them. Only God could.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 20 The Lord commands Isaiah to walk naked and barefoot for three years as a sign to Cush and Egypt of their impending Assyrian exile. Through this unusual act, Isaiah proclaims the futility of earthly alliances that oppose the Lord's will. Although we are not called to imitate Isaiah's unusual witness to the world, our actions and words should show that escape from God's wrath comes only through saving faith in Jesus. Christ clothes all who are ashamed and exposed because of sin. He covers our sin with His forgiveness. • Dearest Lord Jesus, grant that our words and actions confess that You alone are the way, the truth, and the life. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:1 oracle. See p 1079. wilderness of the sea. Location unclear; may be Babylon, the subject of v 9 (the Euphrates River traversing the flat plains of Babylon may be regarded as a sea). Negeb. Desert region south of Judah. See color map 2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:2 vision is told. Revealed. traitor … destroyer. Babylon. The Lord is stirring up the nations against Babylon to act out His judgment. Elam … Media. Instrumental in the fall of Babylon in 539 BC. See map, p 609. she. Babylon.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:3 Vision of Babylon's downfall strikes Isaiah emotionally. The judgment of the Lord means the victory of the righteous, but the day of wrath is still terrible to behold (2Th 1:6–10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:4 twilight I longed for. End of Babylon's domination.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:5 They. Babylonians. oil the shield! Ordinary maintenance. They are unaware of impending doom. The surprise nature of God's judgment is a repeated motif: Sodom and Gomorrah (Gn 19:14), Belshazzar (Dn 5), and earth's inhabitants on the Last Day (Mk 13:35–36).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:6–12 Ancient Israel had different types of watchmen: (1) those who were posted in the fields during harvesttime so that thieves would not steal the crops (5:2); (2) those who patrolled city streets (Sg 3:1–3); and (3) those who were positioned on the city walls, towers, and hills to detect troop movements by the enemy or to admit messengers. Ch 21 refers to this last type (cf Hab 2:1–4; Ezk 3:17; 33:2, 6–7).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:7 riders. Messengers bringing news from distant lands.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:8 by day … stationed whole nights. No ordinary watchman would take endless shifts. Isaiah is constantly watching for the fulfillment of the Lord's promises.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:9 Fallen. Particular instance of the city's demise is uncertain. It may be when Darius the Mede takes over the throne from Belshazzar in 539 BC (Dn 5). Babylon. Repeated attempts to gain independence from Assyrian domination failed. In 689 BC, Sennacherib captured and sacked the rebel city. However, it later became the center of the empire that was to swallow up Judah. In the NT, Babylon is symbolic of hostility to God. carved images. Her idols were destroyed.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:10 threshed and winnowed. See p 422. God has disciplined His people, removing the chaff so they will be the people He desires.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:11 oracle. See p 1079. Dumah. Named after a son of Ishmael; mentioned as a city that was to go to Judah. Seir. Suggests that this oracle is toward a region of Edom (Gn 32:3). See map, p 60. Watchman. The questioner wants to know the time, and a watchman should know the exact answer.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:12 The watchman's vague answer shows that the coming judgment will be unexpected.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:13 oracle. See p 1079. Arabia. The next oracle concerns the nomadic peoples whose main base of operations was the Arabian Peninsula along the Red Sea (13:20; Jer 3:2). thickets. Instead of the clear, open trade routes they normally traveled, they will seek to hide in any cover. Dedanites. Tribe known for their trading caravans, based c 200 mi E of the Red Sea.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:14 fugitive. Presumably refugees from the conflict of Assyria and Babylon, which was eventually quelled, first by Sargon II and later by Sennacherib. Bern: "I welcome the fellow-citizens of the saints and servants of God. How gladly, according to the prophet's command, do I assist with my bread those that flee" (SLSB, p 167). Tema. Important caravan center; an oasis c 200 mi E of the Red Sea. See map, p 717.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 21:16 Within a year. The Lord will make short work of Kedar. years of a hired worker. May refer to mercenary service. glory of Kedar. Tribe living in Arabia (perhaps standing for all the tribes of Arabia). They were paying tribute to Assyria at least in 738 BC. The forces of Kedar amounted to nothing. All of this is sure because the Lord has spoken (40:8; 55:10–11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 21 The Lord appoints Isaiah to serve as a watchman and announce God's mighty acts, in particular the fall of Babylon. Although every Christian serves as a watchman, God specially calls pastors to serve publicly as His watchmen, proclaiming both God's threats and promises. In every matter to which the Lord has spoken, the outcome is certain because the results are His doing. For this reason, we can confidently rejoice in the salvation Jesus has won for us and in the promises of forgiveness and everlasting life announced by His watchmen. • Dear Lord, as You appointed Isaiah to serve as a watchman, be with our pastor(s). Grant them eloquence and strength to speak Your truth, even in times of anguish. In Jesus' name. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:1 oracle. See p 1079. valley of vision. Intent unclear. A prophecy about Jerusalem (vv 8–10). By including Jerusalem in the oracles about the nations (chs 13–23), Isaiah indicates that the city of David has acted no differently than the nations. you. Jerusalem's residents. housetops. From which they could look out and see the army coming. They were falsely confident of their success. See note, Jsh 2:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:2–3 The people celebrate now, but their future is one of humiliating death and capture, in which the army does not fight and the leaders flee (cf 2Ki 25:4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:3 captured. The enemy will catch them in retreat.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:4 destruction of the daughter. Jerusalem (Ps 48:11; Jer 8:19). Used only here in Is.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:5 Lord GOD of hosts. See p 1291. valley of vision. See note, v 1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:6 Elam. See note, 11:11. Kir. Region of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. Not the Kir of Moab in 15:1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:7 stand at the gates. As a line of last defense for the city.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:8 covering of Judah. During the exodus, God supplied Israel with a cloud covering for its protection. In that day you looked. So certain is the prophecy that Isaiah puts it in the past tense. weapons of the House of the Forest. Built from cedars of Lebanon by Solomon to store weapons and wealth (1Ki 7:2–12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:9 lower pool. New system of supplying the city with water for the siege. See note, 2Ki 20:20.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:10 broke down the houses to fortify. They used reclaimed building materials to repair Jerusalem's walls. See note, Jsh 2:15. Evidence of such activity was found in Jerusalem fortifications, likely representing Hezekiah's preparations to oppose Sennacherib.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:11 reservoir. To store enough water to endure a siege. old pool. Jerusalem's older but still useful source of water. did not look. They did not turn to God for help, though He supplied the water.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:12 Lord GOD of hosts. See p 1291. called … sackcloth. Marks of repentance. See note, Jb 16:15.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:13 Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die. Exactly the opposite of what God expects. They celebrate instead of repent.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:14 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. atoned … you die. Unrepentant people will suffer the wrath of the Lord. The use of "Surely" is the language of an oath (cf 14:24; Dt 1:34; Jer 22:5). Jerusalem will not receive the gift of atonement; Isaiah did (Is 6:7). God established the Day of Atonement (Lv 16) so all of Israel could be forgiven.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:15 Lord GOD of hosts. See p 1291. Shebna. This steward, a high official responsible directly to the king, was a glaring example of the self-seeking pride of which Isaiah accused the people in vv 1–14.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:16 tomb for yourself. Shebna carved a tomb for himself that he might be remembered; example of man's narcissism (cf 14:13–14; Gn 11:4). Fine architectural tombs were found in Siloam, near Jerusalem. See p 1651.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:17 hurl you away. His plans will come to nothing because the Lord will send him into exile.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:18 your glorious chariots. Shebna also loses the trappings of his ostentatious lifestyle. His property will be given to one more worthy. master's house. Judah's monarchy.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:19 office … station. See note, v 15.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:20–21 Transfer of the implements of authority clearly shows the change of authority figures (cf 1Sm 18:1–4). Authority was to serve the people.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:21 robe … sash … authority. Signs of the office of steward. a father. He would use his position to care for the people, not to serve himself.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:22 on his shoulder. Burden of responsibility was on him. key of the house of David … shall open. Power to use the assets and resources of the kingdom on behalf of the king and people. This terminology is also used of Christ and is reminiscent of the power Christ gives to His Church (Mt 16:19). See note, Sg 5:4.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:23 like a peg. Used to secure tents; a theme of trust and responsibility that surrounds the leadership of Eliakim. throne of honor. His position will bring honor and respect to his family.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:24 honor … offspring and issue. His children will also be honored by his position.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 22:25 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. give way … cut down. Eliakim seems the ideal leader, but he is only a man. Collapse will come both from within the man and from the Lord without. Apart from the Lord, no one is sufficient. The result of trusting in a man, even one as capable as Eliakim, is deadly (cf 40:7–8).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 22 Just as the Lord has spoken concerning the destruction of the nations, He speaks here of the destruction of Jerusalem. God's own people would experience His wrath, for they had lived in ways indistinguishable from the nations. When we do not live lives of repentance, we are also indistinguishable from unbelievers. As baptized children of God, we are called to drown our old Adam by daily contrition and repentance. The living Christ, who descended from the house of David, holds the key to heaven, which He graciously opens for all who believe. • Lord Jesus Christ, lead us each day in the glad confidence that You have atoned for our iniquity and opened the kingdom of heaven for us. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:1, 4 Isaiah uses personification to dramatize the suffering of the people in these regions.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:1 oracle. See p 1079. Tyre. See note, 1Ki 5:1. Tarshish. Tarsus in Cilicia, c 5 mi from the coast, on the river Cadnos, a river that was navigable in antiquity. Tarsus played a strategic role, as its control assured the control of the Cilician ports. It lies at the opening of the passage from the central mountains, known for their mineral content. Cyprus. Designates either the island of Cyprus or the city of Kition (Roman Citium) on the southeast coast of the island. See map, p 609. it. The oracle.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:2 Sidon. C 23 mi N of Tyre on the coast of the Great Sea. According to Gn 10:15, considered the firstborn of Canaan. By the ninth century BC, due to increased Assyrian power, Sidon began to lose much of her power and prestige. By the eighth century BC, the city was clearly under the rule of the king of Tyre. This relationship continued up to Sennacherib's campaign in 701 BC. filled you. Coastal cities have, in effect, been taken over by merchants from Sidon.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:3 Shihor. River or body of water in the northeast Nile Delta region; precise identification is uncertain. merchant of the nations. Wealthy through international commerce.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:4 The sea, personified mother of Sidon, laments the disappearance of ships as though she had never given birth to them.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:5 anguish. Relationship between Egypt and Tyre goes back at least to 1600 BC. Their close relationship was shown during the reign of Ethbaal (c 940–908 BC), when the artificial southern port was built and named the Egyptian Port.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:6 Summary statement of vv 1–5. The focus shifts to traveling west and north for security. The verse is addressed to the inhabitants of Tyre. The annals of Sennacherib refer to the flight of King Luli from Sidon to Cyprus (701 BC).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:7 feet carried her. Commerce once allowed Tyre to have a strong international influence.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:8 bestower of crowns. Tyre's economic power gave her tremendous political influence in other nations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:9 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. all … all. Tyre is an example of the Lord's worldwide plan to debase all human pride. dishonor all the honored. The Lord will disgrace those whose honor is only from worldly things (Lk 1:52).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:10 Destruction of Tyre and Sidon set their colonies free. Tarshish, bound to being one of Tyre's trade partners, will soon be free to roam like the Nile.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:11 stretched out His hand. See note, 5:25. Canaan. Stands for Phoenicia, the region of Tyre and Sidon.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:12 cross over. When the Assyrians attacked Tyre, her king fled to Cyprus.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:13 Chaldeans! The Babylonian ruling class, which brought on the destruction of their capital as the result of rebellion against Assyrian domination. The same kind of disaster awaits Tyre. people that was not. Their future disappeared when the Assyrians conquered them.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:15 In that day. See p 1079. seventy years. Sometimes a round figure for a lifetime (Ps 90:10). Refers to the years following Phoenicia's surrender to Sennacherib (second half of the seventh century BC). song of the prostitute. Tyre is compared to a prostitute who sings alluring songs to attract attention to herself. On behavior, cf Pr 7:11–13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:16 forgotten prostitute! Other nations had forgotten about Tyre. Now she seeks their business.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:17 Tyre's commerce is compared to prostitution. She sells for pleasure with no regard to the consequences.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 23:18 her wages will be holy. God's people will receive and use the profits of her trade. those who dwell before the LORD. Israel.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 23 The Lord will lay waste Tyre and Sidon because of their pride. Lively commerce and fair trade are blessings from the Lord. But the wealth and prosperity they generate must never be treated as a source of security. With repentant faith in Jesus, who for our salvation became poor (2Co 8:9), our trade and commerce can be carried out fairly and with honor. Our heavenly Father will deal generously with us by His surpassing grace. • Lord God, grant that the wealth and prosperity You have given us might never separate us from Your love. May it be a source of blessing for all the inhabitants of the earth. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 24–27 A unit in the larger structure of Is. The Lord now addresses the whole earth instead of individual nations. See outline, p 1086.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:1 Behold. Always introduces new or important material (e.g., 7:14; 25:9; 26:21). empty the earth. Continues the language from the beginning of the previous section (13:9). scatter its inhabitants. As at the tower of Babel (Gn 11:9). Once more, the Lord will scatter the peoples of the earth in judgment.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:2–3 Judgment will spare no one and will be without partiality or favoritism (Rm 2:11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:4 earth. Personified here with descriptions of mourning and languishing. Paul echoes this idea in Rm 8:21–22.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:5 earth lies defiled. Sin affects all creation. Gn 3:17 explains that one of the results of the fall is a cursing of the earth. laws

… statutes. See p 971. everlasting covenant. Made with Noah and, by extension, with everyone and everything (Gn 9:9–17). See p 127.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:6 curse. A devouring and scorching fire burning through a field, an image seen throughout Is (e.g., 5:24; 10:16–17; 29:6). See p 6; cf Lv 26:14–39; Dt 28:15–68.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:9 strong drink. Beer or other fermented beverages, main ingredients for festivals and joyous times. Because of the Lord's judgment, all merrymaking ceases.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:10–12 city. Though any city may be meant because these effects are global, Isaiah likely refers to Babylon. See note, 25:2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:10 wasted. See note, Gn 1:2, "without form and void." Isaiah uses the word first here and then frequently throughout the rest of Is (40:17; 41:29; 45:18) to describe the Lord's reversal of creation.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:12 Desolation. Reminiscent of exile, echoing 5:9.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:13 olive tree … grape harvest. Repeats 17:5–6. There, the idea was that a remnant would be left among the people of Israel. Here, it refers to a remnant of the nations. gleaning. The very last fruit is sought out in these desperate conditions. See note, Ru 2:16; see also "remnant," p 1080.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:14–16 lift up their voices. The remnant, left over after the gleaning of the previous verse. These people rejoice in song that they have been spared the judgment. the west … ends of the earth. People from everywhere join in this song (cf Rv 7:9).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:16 Righteous One. God, who has been faithful and gracious. See p 842. I … Woe is me! Isaiah himself has a very different reaction to being spared. His response to this destruction is similar to his response in 22:4. He can only mourn at the sight, crying out the same words as at his commissioning in 6:5. For the traitors … betrayed. None is without guilt.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:18 He who flees … in the snare. The reason for Isaiah's reaction to the destruction is now understood. No one will escape! Whether one falls into a pit or is caught in a snare, everyone will be captured (cf Am 9:1–4). windows of heaven. Allusion to the destruction by the great flood.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:19–20 Earthquakes are frequently associated with the presence of the Lord (e.g., Jgs 5:4; 2Sm 22:8–16; Jer 10:10; Jl 2:10). In the NT, earthquakes may be a sign of salvation (e.g., Mt 27:51–52; Ac 16:26).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:21 On that day. See p 1079. host of heaven. Fallen angels will be judged along with humans on Judgment Day.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:22 prisoners in a pit. This prison finds its way into the NT by means of 1Pt 3:19–20; 2Pt 2:4; Jude 6; Rv 9:1–3, 11; 20:1–3. Prison bars are the background to the words of Jesus in Mt 16:18: "The gates of hell shall not prevail against [the Church]."

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 24:23 Then the moon … ashamed. Jerusalem will no longer need the sun or moon for light; instead, the Lord Himself will be its light. This promise is fulfilled in the new Jerusalem (cf Rv 21:23). Lord of hosts. See p 1291. Mount Zion. See p 844; cf Is 8:18. before His elders. God will be revealed to His people (cf Ex 24:9–10). See p 228.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 24 No one, and not even the earth itself, is spared the coming devastation. Along with all of earth's other inhabitants, we stand before God as poor, miserable sinners. In thought, word, and deed, we have transgressed, violated, and broken His covenant. Although we deserve to suffer for our guilt, we can sing for joy that the Righteous One, Jesus Christ, has suffered in our place. "He was wounded for our transgressions; He was crushed for our iniquities" (53:5). • Gracious Lord, we praise and glorify You for the salvation You have accomplished for us through Your dear Son, Jesus Christ, the Righteous One. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:1 Now that the kings of heaven and earth have been dethroned and the Lord has been exalted as King, Isaiah takes up the song he heard in 24:14. At that time, he could not yet sing because of all the destruction, but now that the Lord has been enthroned, Isaiah can celebrate. plans. God planned and controlled all of these things. He will accomplish His will.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:2 the city. Same city as in 24:10. In light of 21:9 and Rv 17–18, the city is Babylon, the ancient and perennial enemy of God's people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:3 strong peoples. Those who have been humbled (cf chs 13–24).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:4 stronghold. God Himself, not human resources, gave refuge to the poor and needy. storm against a wall. Threats of the strong nations cause no harm to the people God protected.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:5 noise of the foreigners. God silences the enemy's victory song (cf Ps 8:2).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:6 mountain. Zion. See p 844. Lord of hosts. See p 1291. a feast. At Sinai, a similar feast was held, at which God's people ate and drank with Him (Ex 24:9–11). Jesus speaks on several occasions about God's feast for His people (e.g., Mt 8:11; 22:1–14; 25:10). See p 1689. rich food. Delicacies. well-aged wine. Left on its fermented sediment to improve strength and flavor. full of marrow. Healthy and desirable. Descriptive terms refer to the absolute best that money could buy. This will be a feast like no other. See note, Ps 63:5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:7 Now, death "swallows" life. On that day, death itself will die (see note, v 8). the veil. Symbol of death and mourning (cf 2Sm 15:30; Jer 14:3; 2Co 3:12–18).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:8 In Canaanite mythology, the gods destroyed death, but the enemy returned with the changing of the seasons. Here, the Lord demonstrates His kingly authority by swallowing up death forever. See note, Jb 18:13. John quotes this verse in describing "the marriage supper of the Lamb," which will take place after "the former things have passed away" (Rv 19:9; 21:1–4). all faces. The redeemed among all nations. reproach. The accusation and the penalty for sin is destroyed. Luth: "Christ destroys death. As a plague consumes the body little by little, so Christ is the pestilence of our death and of our old Adam" (AE 16:197).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:9 Trusting God's promises in life, His people now see them powerfully fulfilled. save … salvation. See p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:10 hand … will rest. God will act for His people and against His enemies. See "hand," p 842. Moab. Contrast here between two mountains, the mountain of Zion and the mountain of Moab. Mount Zion will continue to stand tall as the dwelling place of the Lord (cf Heb 12:22–24; Rv 14:1), while Moab, representing those opposed to God, will fall (cf Is 34:5; 63:1). dunghill. It will be cast away as worthless.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:11 spread out his hands. Deepest humiliation, swimming in dung. Despite Moab's attempts to "keep its head above water," the Lord will take it down. skill of his hands. Human efforts fail; God succeeds.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 25:12 high fortifications. Walls and towers. lay low. God will destroy their defenses.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 25 On Mount Zion, the Lord of hosts will prepare a feast and will swallow up death forever. Death is what we deserve as the just penalty for our sin. No human efforts or resources can shelter us from this reproach. By Jesus' resurrection, death has been swallowed up in victory (1Co 15:54). As we await the day of our own bodily resurrection, we are invited to eat and drink with the Lord in His Holy Supper, a foretaste of the feast to come. • Lord of Life, teach us to live each day in the joy and gladness of knowing that because Jesus lives, we shall live also. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:1 In that day. The day of the Lord's return, celebrated in ch 25. See p 1079. He. The Lord. walls and bulwarks. Likely refers to the double wall on the east side of Jerusalem. The salvation of God will protect His people as walls protected ancient cities.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:2 righteous nation. Being righteous enough to merit God's salvation is not possible (57:12; 64:6). Rather, righteousness is a gift that is accounted to God's people because of the suffering of the Lord's Righteous One, the Suffering Servant (53:11). See "righteous," p 843. keeps faith. God declares us righteous through faith. See notes, 1Ch 2:7; Rm 3:22.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:3 perfect peace. Lit, "peace, peace," which comes only from the Lord (cf 2:4), the Prince of Peace (9:6; cf Jn 14:27; Php 4:7). trusts. Knowing God's perfect care gives true peace. Luth: "This is the origin of peace, namely, hope and faith, as Paul says in Rom. 5:1: 'Since we are justified by faith, we have peace with God,' that is, we shall be harmonious, of one mind. That which you perform does not happen to those who seek peace in various things. What we have, namely, Christ and His grace, is not an ordinary good. No one has more than the other, and therefore there cannot be discord, but peace, because in the Lord we are all equal in the likeness of hope and confidence, but not of customs, as some have thought" (AE 16:200–201).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:4 Trust. Cf v 13; see "steadfast love and faithfulness," p 843. rock. See p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:5 inhabitants of the height. One reason that God's people can trust in Him; He has laid waste the enemy's stronghold, Babylon (cf 21:9; Rv 17–18).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:7 righteous. See p 843. level. Walking on roads that went up and down was grueling. It was comforting to hear that the path was level (cf 40:3–4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:8 In the path of Your judgments. According to God's will. Your name … our soul. God's people long for Him above all others.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:9 inhabitants. "Wicked" of v 10.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:10 God allows humanity to face sin's consequences, in part, to teach us. If He rewarded sin, we would not learn to shun it. Bern: "The vengeance, most severe and most secret, of God the Judge, just and terrible in his dealings with the children of men, watches ceaselessly over his creatures, gifted with reason but doomed on account of sin. The awe-stricken beholder, I repeat, here regards God, who by a just and secret judgment neither washes away the evil actions of those who are reprobate nor accepts their good actions" (WDC, p 168). righteousness. See p 843. majesty of the LORD. God is glorified in the truth that His grace is undeserved. This shows His character. Luth: "The ungodly are in the land and on the way of uprightness, where uprightness, sincerity, and good behavior are learned through the Word, and yet they have no taste for it. The church is the land of uprightness, of good and true behavior, the daughter of the true Word. In this church there are also many ungodly people. It is not surprising if the church in our time has many ungodly people. For the church must needs be attacked from without by tyrants and from within by false brethren, sects, heresies, and schisms. Let no one hope for a church that is without ungodly people, openly or under cover. Therefore the body of the church and the Word are unfairly accused of harboring ungodly people. By no means. For the human body is not blamed if it defecates, spits, and vomits, since these are its acts of purification. The body is not therefore unsound though it has festering eyes and a scabby skin, because these are purged out with the excrement. Even so the ungodly heretics are not members of the church, but refuse" (AE 16:204–5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:11 hand is lifted up. See note, 5:25. Let the fire … consume. Those who reject God ultimately experience judgment.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:12 Human works are nothing. Even the works that Christians do come from God working through us. See note, Eph 2:10.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:13 other lords. Foreign rulers whom they were forced to serve.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:14 shades … will not arise. Dead and gone, they will not live on earth again to enslave its inhabitants.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:15 In fulfilling prophecy, God blessed and by grace increased Israel by incorporating Gentiles into His people.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:16 sought. They turned to God, not to themselves, for help. whispered prayer. Humble requests. discipline. God had them endure these things in order to form them, as a father disciplines the children he loves (Heb 12:5–11). "Afflictions are a discipline by which God exercises the saints. Likewise, afflictions are inflicted because of present sin, since in the saints they put to death and extinguish lustful desires, so that they may be renewed by the Spirit" (Ap XIIB 54–55).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:17 Their afflictions were like birth pangs; they feel great pain and distress.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:18 birth to wind. A woman in the pangs of childbirth is rewarded by the emergence of new life. The chastening the Judeans suffered was as painful but seemed unproductive of anything desirable. no deliverance. Their "labor" produced nothing good.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:19 Your dead shall live. God's power does not stop at the grave. At His command, corpses of individuals come to life. Therefore, He can order also the resurrection of a whole nation, seemingly entombed forever in exile. dew of light. As rain or dew gives life to dry dust, so God's light gives life and resurrection to the dead. birth to the dead. Resurrection from the dead is not a foreign concept in the OT. This verse, along with 25:8, demonstrates that Isaiah foresaw the coming resurrection of all who believe in Christ (cf Ezk 37:1–14; Hos 6:2; 1Co 15). See notes, Jb 19:25–27.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:20–21 The Lord told Noah about a similar judgment in Gn 6:13–18 and also Lot in Gn 19:12–13. His wrath lasts but for a little while; His favor lasts a lifetime (Ps 30:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:20 chambers … hide yourselves. God's people are hidden from His wrath when they are in His protection. We hide in Him (vv 1, 4; see "rock," p 843).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 26:21 His place. Heaven. the earth … its slain. The dead will be raised at Christ's return.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 26 The Lord will keep in perfect peace those who trust in Him. Those made righteous through faith will experience the resurrection of their bodies and life everlasting. Although we are blessed to live and work under the leadership of many rulers and lords, only the Lord is deserving of our faith and remembrance. We should always recognize that earthly authorities are only mortals through whom the Lord works on behalf of His people. Through His death and resurrection, Jesus has accomplished the salvation of sinners. His work guarantees that our bodies will also rise. • Lord Jesus, grant to us the perfect peace that is found only through faith in You. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:1 In that day. See p 1079. sword. God's power. Scripture also calls God's Word a sword (Eph 6:17). Leviathan … dragon that is in the sea. Several ancient Near Eastern mythologies contain a story about a god killing a dragon from the sea, which represented chaos and disorder. The OT sometimes picks up this imagery to describe the Lord's might (cf Ps 104:26). See notes, Jb 38:8; 41:1. This imagery may describe Satan, the prince of the demons. See notes, Rv 13:1–18; 15:2–3; 20:10. Everything will be made subject to Christ and then, in turn, to God the Father (1Co 15:24–28). The Lord controls, restrains, and ultimately defeats evil (1Jn 3:8). Luth: "It seems to me the prophet is speaking about the kings of Syria, of the Egyptians and others, and about the kings and princes of the Jews at the time of Christ, all of whose kingdoms were to be made subject to the Roman rule. When Christ's kingdom and the Gospel were already imminent, the Roman rule came first and established peace throughout the world, so that the Gospel could be preached by the apostles everywhere on safe roads. . . . For the Roman rule was harsh and was quick to use the sword" (AE 16:211).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:2–3 Israel is the vineyard, and the Lord is the vine dresser (cf Jn 15:1–8). In ch 5, however, the Lord is intent on destroying

His vineyard because it had failed to produce good fruit.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:4 no wrath. Peace follows His judgment of Israel (ch 26). The wicked may escape the fires of divine wrath if they "make peace with" God (v 5).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:5 Without God's grace and protection, we are not a pleasant vineyard but are thorns and briers to be destroyed. In Him, we are grafted to Jesus, the true vine (Jn 15:1–6).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:6 Israel will once more be the people God desires, filling the whole world as Jews and Gentiles together in God's vineyard.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:7 He. The Lord. who struck them? The nations God used as a chastening rod against Israel were punished as well, to a greater degree than Israel was.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:8 Measure by measure. See ESV note. Hbr may also be rendered "by a frightening sound," the kind that flushes animals from their hiding place. fierce breath. God's breath once gave life (Gn 2:7). Now, His powerful breath defeats His enemies. See notes, Is 11:4; Rv 1:16.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:9 atoned. The Lord did not deal with His people as they deserved, but in mercy (Rm 5:20). See p 5. fruit. The people will want no other gods and so will destroy all items related to foreign gods. altars. To other gods. chalkstones. Broken into powder like chalk. Asherim. See note, Ex 34:13. incense altars. Used to worship Baal. See note, Nu 25:3.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:10 fortified city. The once-great Babylon, now conquered. calf grazes. Only animals inhabit the ruined city.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:11 Those who reject God and His grace face the consequences they deserve. They will not be spared like those who trust Him.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:12 river Euphrates. In Babylon. Brook of Egypt. The Nile. thresh. Metaphor of harvesting and bringing the good grain into the barn describes how the Lord will gather His people to Himself on the Last Day. Cf Mt 13:24–30; Rv 14:15–16. gleaned. See note, Ru 2:15.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 27:13 in that day. See p 1079. great trumpet. The sound that accompanies the Lord's return (Zec 9:14; 1Co 15:52; 1Th 4:16). holy mountain. The Lord dwells on Zion in Jerusalem (Is 2:1–5; 8:18; 11:9).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 27 Following judgment, the Lord will keep and protect His people as a pleasant vineyard. Though the Lord delights to produce the fruit of good works in His people, our sinful nature continually aims to hinder the harvest of this fruit. Jesus, the true vine, has made us His living branches (Jn 15:5). Through faith in Him, our guilt has been atoned for, and our sin has been removed. • Lord Jesus, we receive from You life and strength. Grant that the fruit of good works that You produce in our lives might bless the whole world. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:1 proud crown. Samaria, which sat on the top of a hill like a crown sits on a head. Ephraim. The Northern Kingdom, Israel. rich valley. The land surrounding Samaria. Modern archaeological work confirms that Samaria was a place of luxury (cf Am 4:1; 6:1–6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:2 one. Assyria. mighty and strong. A fearsome enemy. See map, p 609. casts down. God uses the Assyrians to bring His judgment.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:3 proud crown. See note, v 1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:4 rich valley. See note, v 1. first-ripe fig. As one who finds the first fruit of the season eats it with gusto, so the conqueror will satisfy his appetite for conquest without delay. See note, Mk 11:13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:5–6 A flash of light penetrates the impending gloom, giving Isaiah a view of a bright scene that was to emerge from the threatened destruction. God's judgment is designed to preserve a "remnant of His people" who will not be drunk with self-trust but to whom "the LORD of hosts will be a crown of glory."

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:5 In that day. See p 1079. LORD of hosts. See p 1291. crown … diadem. In contrast to the people who thought their city was glorious and beautiful, their true glory and beauty will be the Lord. The widespread use of the crown in the NT (e.g., Jas 1:12; 1Pt 5:4; Rv 2:10) signifies for the baptized the crown of victory. remnant. See p 1080.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:6 justice. See p 842. turn back the battle. Defend the city.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:7 These also. Even the remnant (Southern Kingdom of Judah in Jerusalem) who survive the Assyrian attack are not without fault. strong drink. See note, 24:9. priest and the prophet. Leaders, who should set an example, are here condemned for their own sin. See p 228. reel in vision. Intoxication, not God's Word, shapes their explanation of events. stumble in giving judgment. They give faulty counsel, a symptom of faithlessness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:9 He. God. Those who are … from the breast? Since the remnant of Israel is not even worthy to be taught anymore, little babies are the only ones fit to be instructed by the Lord (cf Ps 8:2; Mt 11:25; 21:16; 1Co 3:1–2; Heb 5:12–14). This is meant to humble Isaiah's listeners.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:10 Repetition used in vv 10, 13 with a play on sounds. While one may hear individual sounds and thus teachings, the hearer cannot make sense of the whole. Like the babble of a child, God's teaching seems only to be chopped-up phrases with no coherency. They do not get the big picture.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:11 people. Assyrians. strange lips … foreign tongue. Because the Israelites rejected words of warning, spoken plainly in their own tongue, the Lord will speak judgment through the language of the foreign conqueror. See note, 1Co 14:21–22; see also p 1969. Luth: "Summary: I will teach you My Gospel through My apostles; and when this is ridiculed, I will speak to you in another tongue and will deride you, reject your whole righteousness, reject you, and in your place I will receive the foolish Gentiles" (AE 16:225).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:12 Had they heeded God's proposal to give them repose and safety, they could have avoided catastrophe.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:13 See note, v 10.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:1–13 A remnant—those who trust in the Lord—will find rest and repose in Him. When Ephraim stumbled in its own glory, it ignored the knowledge of the Lord and the beauty of His precepts. We, too, must be careful not to become drunk with love of self, but always to seek the Lord in the beauty of His Word. By Jesus' sacrificial death and glorious resurrection, He offers rest for every weary soul. All who believe will receive His unfading crown of glory. • "Crown Him the Lord of life, Who triumphed o'er the grave And rose victorious in the strife For those He came to save. His glories now we sing, Who died and rose on high, Who died eternal life to bring And lives that death may die." Amen. (LSB 525:4)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:14 scoffers. People who despise God and His Word (cf Ps 1:1; Pr 21:24). Referring to the people of Judah as "this people" signals that they are no longer the Lord's covenant people, to whom He always refers as "My people" (e.g., Is 40:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:15 covenant with death. Isaiah is not quoting the people; he is mocking their covenant with Egypt (30:1–7) and their proclamation of peace (cf 48:22). In the face of imminent danger, these people believe that they are potentially immortal; in reality, they have made a covenant with death. Sheol. See p 792. overwhelming whip. The coming Assyrian attack. lies our refuge. Isaiah mocks their plans and shows their foolishness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:16 foundation. Faith in God, not in human resources, provides the only solid basis for hope. He will carry out His threat to destroy Jerusalem. But He will not give up His plan to build an indestructible Zion, made up of living stones and founded on a precious cornerstone. The NT proclaims the fulfillment in Jesus Christ and His Church (Eph 2:20). Hus: "Behold how these two Roman apostles and bishops, Peter and Paul, prove from Scripture that the Lord Jesus Christ is himself the stone and the Rock of foundation" (The Church, pp 76–77). a precious cornerstone. Not necessarily a stone laid on or below ground, but a stone chosen to strengthen a corner and keep the wall in alignment. Luth: "Christ is a tested stone, that is, distressed and afflicted, or He is a testing stone, that is, a stone by whose shape all other stones are tested, so that we may be conformed to the image of the Son of God (Rom. 8:29). As Christ was polished, hewn, and squared by the promise, by death and the cross, so we, in His image, should become well polished by such suffering and such a cross. Therefore it behooves all the godly to be thoroughly tested by cross and persecution. For this reason the flesh which shrinks from the cross remains unpolished in its desires and unsuited to this stone" (AE 16:229–30). "Confidence is to be placed in Christ's intercession, because this alone has God's promise. We know that Christ's merits alone atone for us. Because of His merits we are regarded righteous when we believe in Him" (Ap XXI 31). not be in haste. Those who have faith will not flee in terror because they know they are safe with God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:17 justice … righteousness. See p 843. line … plumb. A line helps level the top of a wall. A long string with a weight at its end (plumb line) was hung from the top of a corner of a building to determine whether the walls were straight. The tools guide construction of a new building (Ezk 47:3), but also judge whether an old building is fit for demolition (cf Is 34:11; Am 7:7–9). refuge of lies. Cf v 15.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:18 covenant with death. See note, v 15. Sheol. See p 792. overwhelming scourge. Assyria (cf vv 2–4). it. Scourge of Assyria.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:19–20 Alludes to the angel of death from the plagues (Ex 12:1–30) by using the language of death ("passes through") and bed/covering (the angel of death came at night, while all were sleeping).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:19 the message. God is giving a powerful message through the Assyrian army.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:20 too short … too narrow. May be a proverbial saying that Isaiah quotes to illustrate his point: all human efforts to defy God will prove ineffective.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:21 rise up. God is moving to act. Mount Perazim … Valley of Gibeon. At these places, God once intervened to give Israel victory over foes. strange … alien is His work! Now He will be on the side of the enemy and thus inflict punishment for the breaking of His Law, no matter how strange it may appear in light of His original gracious intentions. "He calls it the 'strange' work of the Lord when He terrifies, because to make alive and comfort is God's own proper work. But He terrifies, Isaiah says, for this reason—that there may be a place for comfort and making alive. For hearts that are secure and do not feel God's wrath hate consolation. In this manner Scripture is accustomed to join these two, the terrors and the consolation. . . . Into these two works all Scripture has been distributed. The one part is the Law, which shows, reproves, and condemns sins. The other part is the Gospel, that is, the promise of grace bestowed in Christ" (Ap XIIA 52–53).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:22 bonds be made strong. If they don't listen to God, their punishment will increase. decree of destruction. God is causing their defeat through the Assyrians. Lord GOD of hosts. See p 1291. whole land. Entire nation would be affected.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:24–25, 27–28 Isaiah's message for the remnant is a farming parable. Though the farmer must "plow for sowing," this destructive work will eventually come to an end. Further, though the farmer must beat the dill out with a stick and cumin with a rod and drive his cart and horses over the grain, the end product will be that the farmer saves the dill, cumin, and grain for bread. In other words, though there is much wrath to be endured, in the end, the remnant who trust in the Lord will be saved. See note, 7:3. This is why the Lord is "wonderful in counsel" (cf 9:6) and "excellent in wisdom" (cf 11:2).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:25 scatter. Sow seed. See note, Mk 4:3. dill … cumin. Small seeds used as spices. emmer … the border? A hardy grain, planted to give shelter to more fragile plants. See p 236.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:27 threshing sledge. See note, 41:15; see also p 422.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:28 thresh. To break up stalks of grain so that the seed can be separated from the chaff. cart wheel. Sometimes used as a means of threshing.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:29 Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 28:14–29 Jerusalem faces destruction because her inhabitants sought shelter in lies and falsehood instead of in the Word of the Lord. Yet the Lord will preserve a remnant founded on a precious cornerstone. Like the people of Jerusalem, we are often tempted to take refuge in pleasant-sounding lies. Instead, we should gladly learn the wonderful counsel of God's Word.
Jesus is God's promised and precious cornerstone. Whoever believes and builds on this foundation will find the power of sin and death annulled.
• Heavenly Father, open our ears always to give attention to Your Word, that we may find refuge in Your wonderful counsel. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:1 Ariel. Hbr "hearth of God." See note, Ezk 43:15. Jerusalem was the location for the altar hearth of Judah, i.e., the place where they made sacrifices to their God. This is a fitting name for Jerusalem because of the chapter's emphasis on the mistaken religious practices of Judah. Add … round. Much time has passed since David's day.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:2 I. God will do this through foreign armies. like an Ariel. The city where sacrifices were made will become the actual sacrifice.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:3 towers … siegeworks. Used by the Assyrians to conquer walled cities. They wheeled large towers to the base of the wall. At the bottom was a battering ram and at top a platform, from which attackers could jump to the top of the wall. See note, 2Ki 18:14.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:4 earth … dust … ground. Parallel descriptions of death. the voice of a ghost. The dead do not speak; they are silent and powerless.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:5 small dust … passing chaff. Irony. The Lord's promise to Abraham included a nation whose descendants would be as numerous as the sand on the seashore (Gn 22:17). Here, Israel's enemies are as numerous as fine dust and chaff.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:6 visited. God sees and determines what will happen to a person or group, whether they are under blessing or curse, whether they are placed in battle or rescued from danger. It may indicate His presence to bestow mercy and grace (Ru 1:6; 1Sm 2:21; Jer 29:10).

Here, the visit will usher in devastation. Lord of hosts. See p 1291. with thunder … devouring fire. God comes with destruction.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:7–8 When the hordes attack Jerusalem (in Isaiah's day, the Assyrians in 701 BC), their plans for victory will be useless, like a deceptive dream.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:7 Ariel. See note, v 1.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:8 The nations will be able to satisfy their lust for conquest as little as a dream can provide a man with the food and drink he craves.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:9 strong drink! See note, 24:9. The prophets and seers lack the ability to see what is happening. It is as if they are drunk, though truly God has restricted them.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:10 deep sleep. Because they "blind" themselves, prophetic preaching will make them totally insensitive to God's call to repentance. Isaiah was told to expect this reaction to his ministry (6:9–10). closed … covered. Their abilities are removed. seers. See note, 1Sm 9:9.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:11 a book that is sealed. A prose explanation of the poetry of vv 9–10. Because Judah's actions deeply offended the Lord, He will no longer allow Judah to see or understand what He is doing. See note, Jer 32:10.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:13 mouth … lips. Jesus quoted this verse to expose the hypocritical recitation of religious formulas.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:14 wonderful things. Miracles and signs of God's blessings. wise men. Paul cites the second half of this verse in order to demonstrate the folly of the world's wisdom. In Isaiah's day—when faced with the approaching Assyrian army—the common wisdom was to form an alliance with Egypt (30:1–3), to rely on their horses, the multitude of their chariots, and in the great strength of their horsemen (31:1). See map, p 1205.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:15 Isaiah pronounces a woe, or death lament, on those who think they can hide their plans from the Lord. See note, Hos 7:13.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:16 upside down! They usurp God's place. potter. Imagery that dates back to the account of God forming Adam (Gn 2:7). For the clay to command the potter turns things upside down, making the creature the Creator (cf Is 41:25; 45:9; 64:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:17 Soon Lebanon will be humiliated (2:13; 10:34; 37:24). Illustrates the coming divine reversal, when the exalted will be humbled and the humble will be exalted.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:18–19 Jesus quotes this as evidence of His ministry.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:18 In that day. See p 1079.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:19 fresh. They will experience new things that bring them joy. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:20–21 The proud people described in greater detail. They deprive the poor and innocent of justice. The prophet addresses this perversion of the Law (e.g., 1:17; 5:7–8).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:21 by a word. False testimony or judgment wrongly convicts the helpless. reproves in the gate. They oppress anyone who testifies against them. See p 792.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:22 redeemed Abraham. Abraham's redemption was his "exodus" from his homeland, away from its idols and false gods (Jsh 24:2). The Lord brought him out of Ur of the Chaldeans to give him the Promised Land (Gn 15:7). In like manner, the Lord brought Israel out of Egypt to give them the same land (cf Ex 20:1–2). Exodus imagery runs throughout Is (e.g., Is 12:2; 43:16–17). See "redeem," p 843. house of Jacob. Israel. face grow pale. In fear of enemies.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:23 sanctify My name. They will honor God by living in His ways. Cf Ex 20:7; see "holy," p 7. Holy One of Jacob. See "Holy One of Israel," p 1227.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 29:24 go astray in spirit. Some who drifted from faith will return. murmur. Some who spoke against God or engaged in other religious practices will seek God's truth.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 29 The visitation of the Lord will bring death and destruction to Jerusalem. Yet the Lord promises to do wonderful things with His people. God desires genuine repentance, not hypocrisy. God has accomplished wonderful things for us through the gracious visitation of His Son in our human flesh. In Jesus' death and resurrection, God has turned the world upside down and removed our shame. • "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me" (Ps 51:10). Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:1 children. Judah. plan. Of their own design, not God's plan. alliance. With Egypt, hoping to withstand Assyria. See map, p 1205. The Lord could get Israel out of Egypt (Ex 14–15), but He could never get Egypt out of Israel (Nu 11:1–6). not of My Spirit. Judah's plan is contrary to God's will.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:2 refuge … protection. Hbr 'oz, used in Ps 84:5 but translated "strength," where the person whose strength, or refuge, is in the Lord is to be praised. The exact opposite situation is at work here. To seek refuge in anyone or anything else is bound to fail (cf Ps 46:7, 11). Cf Dt 17:16. shelter in the shadow of Egypt! Throughout Ps, the shadow of the Lord is where His people are to seek shelter (Ps 17:8; 36:7; 91:1). Again, the exact opposite is pictured here. Pharaoh's shade is deceptive; only the Lord can shield Israel (Ps 121:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:4 officials. Members of Pharaoh's administration. Zoan. City in northern Nile Delta, also referred to as Tanis. envoys. Messengers from Pharaoh. Hanes. City in southern Egypt. Together with Zoan in the north, this indicates that a powerful dynasty is in control of the land.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:5 The Egyptians cannot help Judah.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:6 oracle. See p 1079. beasts of the Negeb. Pack animals trudging through the desert that lay between Egypt and Israel. flying fiery serpent. See note, Nu 21:6. This land of the Negeb was filled with lions, adders (or snakes), and fast moving ("flying") fiery serpents, which would make travel through it nearly impossible. The irony is that Israel has chosen this path in search of safety. See note, Is 14:29. they. Israelites taking tribute to Egypt.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:7 Rahab. Title given to Egypt elsewhere in Scripture (Ps 87:4; 89:10). In Jb 26:12–13, Rahab is a powerful sea monster. But here, Rahab sits still; trusting in Egypt is "a striving after wind" (e.g., Ec 1:14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:1–7 The Lord had rescued Israel from slavery in Egypt; He forbids them from returning there for refuge. Like the stubborn children of Israel, when we believe that human governments can help and profit us more than the Lord, we are guilty of idolatry. Though the help of people and nations may prove worthless, the help Jesus offers takes away our sin and shame, providing eternal protection. • Merciful Lord, though we often act as stubborn children, graciously remove our shame and disgrace for Jesus' sake, and teach us to find refuge in You. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:8 write. Isaiah received a similar directive in 8:1. a tablet … forever. Permanent record of this oracle so that it will not be forgotten.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:9 they. Judah. instruction of the LORD. The theme of rebellious children continues (cf 1:2–4; 30:1). Israel does not have "ears to hear" the Lord's Word (cf Dt 6:4; Mt 11:15).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:10 seers … prophets. See note, 1Sm 9:9. smooth things. Things to their liking, easy prophecies. illusions. Things that may not be true, but are easier to hear.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:11 way … path. God's ways. See p 844. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:12 this word. Message of vv 1–7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:13 breach. The disaster provoked by this iniquity will come as unexpectedly as when a high wall with nothing but a crack suddenly bulges and collapses in a heap.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:14 potter's vessel. Resulting demolition will be as crushing as if one smashed a pot into bits so small as to be completely useless. shard. Broken piece of pottery. take fire. No piece large enough to scoop coals from a fire.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:15 Holy One of Israel. See p 1227. returning. See p 1080. saved. See "salvation," p 843. in quietness and in trust. A right relationship with God brings quietness, the ability to be calm, because one trusts Him to keep His promises.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:16 See notes, Jb 39:19; Ps 20:7, 8; cf Dt 17:16. Misplaced trust will result in defeat. Cf Mt 26:52. your pursuers. Assyrians.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:17 like a flagstaff. Alone and unprotected.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:8–17 The Judeans despise the Word of the Lord, preferring illusions rather than truth. Today, we should never despise preaching and God's Word in favor of smooth-sounding illusions that lead to perverseness. We should instead hold the Lord's Word sacred and gladly hear and learn it. Thanks be to God that through the sacrifice of Jesus on Calvary's holy mountain, He can return and save all who have wandered from His way. • Be merciful, O God, to those who have turned aside from Your path. Visit them with fatherly correction, that You might restore and save them. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:18 the LORD waits. He is prepared to be gracious if Judah will receive Him. gracious. See p 842. exalts Himself. God is glorified when His merciful character is revealed. mercy. See pp 842–43.

justice. See p 842. blessed. Relying on God is, in itself, a blessing. wait. Trust that God will work for our good in His perfect timing.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:19 people. The restored Judah. Zion. See p 844. gracious. See p 842. soon … He answers you. God is not slow to answer prayer; He answers immediately, though not always to our liking or understanding.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:20 adversity … affliction. The Assyrian sieges at the time of Ahaz (734 BC) and Hezekiah (701 BC). Teacher. God Himself is teaching His people through these events. hide. Without faith, they could not see that it was God working.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:21 way. Unlike in v 11, they now want to follow God's direction. Jesus uses this language in Jn 14:6, calling Himself the way to the Father. See p 844.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:22 defile your carved idols. They will recognize the idols for what they are and reject them. scatter. Discard. unclean things. Graphic reference to menstrual cloth, ceremonially unclean because of blood. See p 300; see also note, 64:6.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:23–26 This section foreshadows the eternal blessings of heaven (cf 35:5–7; 65:17–25; Rv 21:23; 22:5).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:23 give rain. The land will be restored, beginning with rain to make it fruitful. rich and plenteous. God will provide for their physical needs through the earth.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:24 seasoned fodder. Not stubble, but choice feed. winnowed. High quality, harvested feed. See p 422.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:25 day of the great slaughter. When Assyria falls.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:26 light. Brightness and joy multiply. binds up … heals. Restoration of God's people is depicted as physical healing. See note, Dt 32:39.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:27 name of the LORD. God's personal name, Yahweh. See p 1227. God personally comes with all His power, might, and glory.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:28 sieve of destruction. God destroys the world, yet carefully preserves His people as a sieve keeps the desired material while the rest drops away. a bridle. To bring them under His control.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:29 God's coming does not terrify the faithful. They sing with joy as when they go to the temple. go to the mountain of the Lord. To the temple. Rock. Not Zion, but God. He is Israel's true Rock. See p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:31–32 rod … appointed staff. The means God uses to defeat the Assyrians (cf 11:4).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:31 Fulfilled in 37:36 (cf 2Ki 19:35).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:32 sound of tambourines and lyres. God's people praise Him as they see Him act. See p 993. brandished arm. Using His power.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:33 God's judgment is described as a sacrifice in 34:6; Jer 46:10; Ezk 39:17–20. burning place. Hbr similar to "Topheth," site in the Hinnom Valley southwest of Jerusalem where children were burned in sacrifices (cf Jer 19:6, 10–15). See note, Mk 9:43. pyre. Fire that cremates corpses. breath of the Lord. See note, 11:4.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 30:18–33 After a time of destruction, the Lord will be gracious to His people, binding them up and healing them in mercy. God's people should view adversity as the Lord's teaching tool. In adversity, we learn to walk in the way of the Lord and hear His Word. He has been merciful to all by sending His Son. In Jesus, the Father gives His people healing from the brokenness of our sin. • Gracious Lord, have mercy on us, especially in times of adversity. Open our eyes to see You, and give us faith to wait for You in quiet confidence. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:1 Woe. See p 1080. Same Hbr word is also translated "Ah" and is used repeatedly (e.g., 28:1; 29:1, 15; 30:1; 33:1) to strengthen the unity of this section, as it laments the death of Israel and Judah. Following on the heels of the second vineyard song (27:2–6; the first was 5:1–7), these woes echo the six woes of 5:8, 11, 18, 20, 21, 22, which themselves follow a vineyard song. rely on horses. Abundant in Egypt, known throughout the ancient Near East as the land for horses. Cf Ps 147:10; see note, Ps 20:7. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227. consult the Lord! They sought human counsel, not divine. See "seek," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:2 He is wise. The Lord's words will make fools of the scheming politicians. does not call back His words. God does what He says He will.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:3 stretches out His hand. Refers to both the mighty salvation (Ex 6:6; Ac 4:30) and the mighty judgment of the Lord. The Lord had already stretched out His hand against Egypt (Ex 3:20; 7:5; Ps 138:7). He would stretch out His hand against Assyria (Is 10:5; 37) and against His people as well (2Ki 21:13; Jer 6:12; Ezk 6:14; Zep 1:4). See note, Is 5:25.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:4 growls over his prey. A lion cannot be scared away from his meal; nothing can scare the Lord away from Mount Zion. band of shepherds. As lions do not fear shepherds, so God does not fear human leaders. Lord of hosts. See p 1291. fight on Mount Zion … its hill. God will defend His people; they need not ally with Egypt. See "Zion," p 844. Luth: "The lion does not flee, as if to say, 'Just come and touch me with one finger. I am only one, you are many. Come and touch me. I defy you.' So our God, though He is all alone, withstands all tyrants" (AE 16:271).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:5 As mother birds spread their wings over their young to protect them, so the Lord will protect Jerusalem. See note, Lk 13:34. deliver. See p 842.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:6 Despite their sin, the people matter deeply to God, who longs for their repentance.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:7 in that day. See p 1079.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:8 not of man. God's power, not a human weapon, defeats them. forced labor. Captured soldiers often became slaves to compensate their enemy's losses. See p 101.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 31:9 rock. See Moses' song in Dt 32:4, 15, 18, 31. See p 843. The Assyrian king and the god he trusts will prove to be deceptive quicksand when soldiers and officers panic and flee in terror. desert the standard. They flee from their military units in fear. fire … furnace. Jerusalem (also called Ariel) was the home of burnt offerings sacrificed to the Lord. Because of this, the Lord will punish all those who threaten this place, including the Assyrians. See note, Is 29:1.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 31 The people of Jerusalem will find no help by going down to Egypt. Only the Lord of hosts will protect and deliver Jerusalem. Today, when we rely on earthly relationships in place of the Lord, we will sinfully stumble and fall. In Jesus, we have a helper who has perished for our iniquity. By the death and resurrection of His Son, God has stretched out His hand to deliver and rescue us from the fire of hell. • Holy Lord, teach us to look to You in times of trouble. Help us to cast away every idol that would lay claim to the trust we rightfully owe You. In Jesus' name. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:1 This promise is ultimately fulfilled by the Messiah, though Judah would have kings who would bring blessings to the land, including Hezekiah, who reigned when God defeated the Assyrians. righteousness … justice. See pp 842–43. princes. See p 228.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:2 Leaders of God's people protect and provide for them, following the example of God Himself.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:3 eyes … ears. 35:5–6 envisions believers as new creations (cf 2Co 5:17) with open eyes, ears, and mouths (cf Is 42:7). Jesus' ministry opened eyes and ears and mouths (Mt 11:5). those. Any who believe the message. The King's reign will reverse the blindness and deafness that followed Isaiah's preaching (Is 6:8–10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:4 stammerers. People who hesitate to state their convictions clearly because they are confused or because they are afraid to reveal what is in their minds.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:5 fool. See p 1016. Usually refers to those who do not fear, love, and trust in the Lord (Ps 14:1; 53:1; 74:18, 22). noble. "Fool" and "noble" sound nearly alike in Hbr. The foolish person will no longer be held in high regard. scoundrel. A person who does not advocate for the most needy in Israel's society (Is 1:17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:6 The greatest folly is to teach wrongly about God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:1–8 A coming king will reign in righteousness, opening the eyes and ears of God's people. Those who are busy with error are fools. We should instead give attention to what the Lord has revealed and speak His truth distinctly. Jesus is our King who reigns in righteousness and shares that righteousness with all who believe in Him, providing them with shelter from the storms of sin and death. • King of Righteousness, You have delivered us from sin and death. Keep our hearts free from iniquity and error and busy with the noble things You desire. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:9 women. . . at ease. Denounced for their love of luxury and warned that their false security will soon vanish. Feeling secure and complacent in this context is the opposite of repentance.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:10 Crop failure would have devastating consequences in this agrarian society.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:11–13 A call to repentance. These outward signs are warnings for their sins. The people produce thorns and briers in their lives.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:13 thorns and briers. The vineyard (Israel) is under the Lord's curse (5:6; Gn 3:18).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:14 the hill and the watchtower. Set over the vineyard. See note, 5:2. In this comparison, it is Jerusalem. wild donkeys. Wild animals will run free in the once-cultivated "vineyard" of Israel.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:15 The Spirit, who will rest on the messianic King, will be poured upon the people, bringing about a new creation (Gal 6:15) and moving them to receive Him as their Lord (Ezk 39:29; Ac 2:1–21). Prophets often envision an outpouring of the Holy Spirit in the messianic age (Is 44:3; Ezk 36:26–27). The prophecies are fulfilled in Ac 2; 8:17; 10:44. See pp 1835, 1876.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:16 justice … righteousness. See pp 842–43.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:17 The result of the Spirit's coming is righteousness and peace (v 18), even in the midst of storms (v 19; cf Jn 16:33). Bern: "Righteousness is the mother, the nurse, and the guardian of all virtues" (SLSB, p 114).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:19 hail. Earlier seen as one of God's powers to destroy Assyria. the forest … the city. Figurative language to describe the defeat of forces hostile to the coming of the Kingdom. The city appears as the center of opposition (24:10; 25:2).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:20 Happy. See "blessed," p 842. People will see God's blessings after the destruction. sow beside all waters. Cf Nu 24:6; Ps 1:3; Jer 17:8. The eschatological stream will bring about complete healing (Rv 22:1–2).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 32:9–20 Those who are complacent will be laid low. But the pouring out of God's Spirit will make the lives of His people fruitful. The Lord calls us to repent and shudder over our fruitless lives. In the waters of Holy Baptism, God pours out His Spirit upon us. By that Spirit, we are given Jesus' righteousness, resulting in lives of peace and trust forever. • Holy Spirit, Lord and giver of life, help me to live this day trusting in my Savior, happily producing the fruit of good works. In Jesus' name. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 33–35 A complex turning point in the Book. Chs 1–32 focused on the travails of Zion—its sin, punishment, salvation, polity, and relation to other nations. Chs 36–66 continue with concern for Zion but in new ways, personifying the city as a woman. In the later chapters, concern moves beyond that of the Assyrian Empire to Babylon and the Persian king Cyrus.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:1 Ah, you destroyer. Only woe judgment oracle not addressed to Judah in a long line of such oracles (28:1; 29:1, 15; 30:1; 31:1). See "woe," p 1080. Instead, it is addressed to Assyria (10:5). The Lord's agent of judgment is judged. This is true of Assyria, and later it will be true of Babylon, for in the sixth century BC, the Lord will use Babylon to judge Judah (Jer 25:11). Afterward, Babylon, too, will be judged (Jer 25:12; 50–51). traitor. The attack on Zion was unprovoked. Lust for conquest motivated the enemy. However, God has him on a leash. As the rod of God's anger, he can only go as far as God allows (Is 10:5–19). There will come a time when the destroyer will be destroyed (Hab 2:6–20). they. People the traitor trusted. The betrayer will be betrayed.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:2 gracious. See p 842. our arm every morning. Dramatic change in the mind-set of God's people. In chs 29–30, the Lord pleaded with His people to put their trust in Him and not in Egypt. They refused (30:15–16; 31:6). But here, God's people call out to Him in trust. Ever since the exodus and the salvation the Lord brought for Israel in the morning (Ex 14:27), this time of the day indicates a time of deliverance and renewal (cf Ps 46:5; Mt 28:1; Rv 22:16). salvation. See p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:3 tumultuous noise. God's voice. His Word is strong to create (Gn 1:3) or destroy (Jer 23:29). Cf Ps 29.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:4 caterpillar … locusts. When these descend on a field, they devour everything of value. So the peoples and nations will have nothing left after the Lord lets their spoilers pounce on them. See note, Jl 1:4.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:5 Zion. See p 844. justice and righteousness. See pp 842–43.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:6 your times. Isaiah's hearers lived to see Jerusalem delivered from the Assyrians. Believers have stability, because they know their times are in God's hands. abundance. They are fully delivered. See "salvation," p 843. the fear … treasure. A right relationship with God (Pr 1:7), given by His grace, is the most precious thing of all. Nothing else can compare. See p 1001.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:7–9 The horror of warfare is pictured in these images. Sennacherib's siege on Judah in 701 BC brought about crying and weeping, as well as empty highways and a wasted land.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:7 their heroes. Fearless warriors; word occurs only here. Similar in spelling to Ariel (cf 29:1). Some suggest the alternate translation "people of Ariel."
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:9 Most fertile areas in the region (cf 35:2). Lebanon was famous for its cedar trees. Sharon had ample pastures. Bashan had many oak trees (2:13) and animals. See color map 2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:10 The Lord will arise and rescue His people from the hand of Assyria (cf ch 37). When the Lord arises, it is a sign of deliverance. The psalmists pray for Him to arise (Ps 7:6; 17:13; 35:23). The resurrection of Jesus is the ultimate act of God's rising to defeat death, the last enemy (1Co 15:26).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:11 You. Sennacherib and his Assyrian armies. They will go down in utter defeat and will therefore acknowledge the Lord's power (37:36–38). conceive. What the enemy plans and produces is no more enduring than chaff and stubble when thrown into a fire.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:12 burned to lime. Complete destruction. Limestone or chalk is burned to create lime powder, used in mortar.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:13 God calls all people to see His work and believe.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:14 Zion. See p 844. fire … burnings? The Lord is elsewhere described as a consuming fire (Dt 4:24; 9:3). The only ones who will survive this fire are those whose faith is authentic, as demonstrated in righteous acts. Those whose faith is not dead (Jas 2:17; Mt 25:31–46) will receive the Lord's provision (Is 33:15–16).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:15 God's holiness calls for human holiness. No one can attain this without His justifying grace.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:17 Your eyes. God's people will see. in His beauty. Not just Hezekiah when he trusts in the Lord in the face of the Assyrian siege in 701 BC, but also the ultimate King of Israel, whose beauty is foreshadowed in Ps 45. This Messiah, beautiful in salvation, is also described by Isaiah as having no beauty or majesty, nothing in His appearance that makes Him desirable (Is 53:2). The kingly beauty of Jesus is in His love. The beauty of Hezekiah's trust in the Lord brings about deliverance for God's people. The arrogant enemies (v 19), the Assyrians, are banished from Zion.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:18 heart will muse. Every fear and humiliation the citizens of Jerusalem once knew will be but a memory.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:19 people of an obscure speech. Foreign invaders are gone. See note, 28:11.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:20 Zion. See p 844. appointed feasts! Major festivals. Refers to the presence of the temple. immovable tent. Unlike the tabernacle before the days of David (see p 495). Solomon built a permanent temple (cf 1Ki 6–8).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:21 the LORD in majesty will be for us. God will be there to bless, not to destroy. rivers and streams. It will be a place of life-giving water. This stream that flows out of Zion is a glimpse of the river of life in Eden (Gn 2:10; Ezk 47:1–12) that will be restored in the new heavens and the new earth (Rv 22:1–2). where no galley … can pass. No enemy warships will be able to mount an attack.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:22 Zion is where the Lord is (8:18); from there He will be the judge and the giver of the Law (2:3–4). judge. See p 228. save. See "salvation," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:23 Your cords … spread out. The cords of Judah's tent "hang loose" at the present time, describing the state of Jerusalem directly after the Assyrian attacks in 701 BC. the lame will take the prey. Even the weakest will be well-provided.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 33:24 In the future, the conditions of v 23 will be reversed. Forgiveness lay at the heart of Isaiah's experience (6:7). He also envisions a Servant whose suffering will atone for sins and justify many (53:5, 10–11).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 33 The Lord will be gracious to His people. He will be their salvation, even through tumultuous times of terror. Today, we often fall and lack regard for the Lord's promises and the righteousness that comes through faith. Repent, for our greatest treasure is the Lord's abundant salvation. He is our King; He will save us. His beauty is seen in His love for sinners. • Lord Jesus, beautiful Savior, in every time of trouble, remind us that You have destroyed death. And hasten the day when our eyes will behold You. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:2 enraged. God's anger is esp directed against those who have exalted themselves and destroyed others. host. Their armies and might. A battle against spiritual darkness and wickedness in realms that transcend the human and earthly realms. Cf Gn 3:15; Jb 1:6–12; 2:2–6; Eph 6:10–18; Col 2:13–15. devoted them to destruction. See p 6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:3 cast out. Cf Ezk 39:1–16, when the Lord would defeat His enemy Gog of Magog (cf Rv 20:8).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:4 host of heaven. The stars, here defiant toward God. The host or army of all the nations (v 2) is no match for the Lord of hosts (1:24). See p 1291. Heaven and earth will disintegrate at His command, just as He once ordered them into existence (13:9–10; 24:21, 23; 51:6; 2Pt 3:10). skies roll up. The heavens will be rolled up as a scroll, never to be opened again. their host shall fall. Battle encompasses all the heavenly bodies and extinguishes them. Cf Rv 8:12.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:5 drunk its fill. The "hard and great and strong sword" (27:1) of the Lord's wrath is personified as a man drunk with fury. When it descends for judgment, it will execute the total destruction once declared on Jericho (Jsh 6:21, 24). Edom. The descendants of Esau, Jacob's brother, are the symbol of continuous hostility to God's people (see note, Ps 137:7; cf Ezk 25:12–14; Am 1:11–12). devoted to destruction. See p 6. Edom represents all the nations that have opposed God and His people. He has patiently stood their attacks but has reserved their final destruction.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:6 God's judgment is compared with the slaughter of sacrificial animals. Cf 30:33; Jer 46:10; 51:40; Ezk 39:17–20; Zep 1:7–8. sacrifice. Portrayal of a bloody massacre, inflicted by the sword of divine justice, offends only those who refuse to believe that "it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God" (Heb 10:31). Bozrah. Chief city of Edom, 20 mi SE of the southern end of the Salt Sea. Edom. Region south of the Salt Sea. See color map 2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:7 Wild oxen. Might be a metaphor describing leaders or officers of Edom.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:8 day of vengeance. Though the wicked may for a time avoid the wages of sin, God has a date fixed when they will receive the due reward of their deeds (cf 2:12). See "day of the LORD," p 1079. vengeance. God does not indulge in revenge as people do when they get even with an enemy. He acts as a judge who imposes the just penalty. As in a court trial, He sees to it that Edom receives just recompense for offenses against Zion (35:4; Ezk 25:14, 17; Ps 94:1). cause of Zion. The Lord's motivation to judge Edom. He will do anything, even die, for the sake of His people (Mk 10:45).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:9 pitch … sulfur. Recalls destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. Cf Jer 49:17–18.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:10 its smoke shall go up forever. God's wrathful judgment burns continually against Edom.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:11 hawk … porcupine. See ESV note. confusion … emptiness. Hbr words are rendered "without form and void" in Gn 1:2. (See note, Is 24:10.) Strikes a note of "anti-creation" and total destruction. Cf Jer 4:23. plumb line. Normally used in construction. Here, however, the Lord uses it to measure Edom's chaos and destruction (cf Is 28:17).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:12 nobles … princes. Edom elected its rulers, but now there will be no one left to declare a king or kingdom.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:14 night bird. Word occurs only here. Perhaps the owl (v 15), which frequents waste places. In rabbinic lore, it is the name of a female demon. See note, 13:21.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:15 hawks. Birds of prey, emblems of wildness.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:16 book of the LORD. Record of lives; described in Ps 40:7; 139:16; Dn 7:10; Mal 3:16; Rv 20:12. The Lord's decision endures forever, and Scripture will enable future generations to compare prophecy and fulfillment. these. Birds of v 15. none shall be without her mate. Just as the birds will be mated, so Isaiah's prophecies and their fulfillments will be joined. His Spirit has gathered them. The Spirit fulfills the judgments of God just as He watches over the smallest of His creatures.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 34:17 cast the lot. See note, Jsh 14:2. portioned. See definition of "portion," p 7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 34 The Lord's judgments on the nations will certainly be fulfilled. This includes His judgments about you and your family. Thanks be to God, our judge declares us "not guilty" on account of Christ. His sure Word of the Gospel saves us and makes us a new creation. • Lord, create in me respect for Your judgments and love for Your Book, which records my salvation through Jesus. Fulfill this Word of mercy for me and my family. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:1 wilderness. The Arabah. See note, Jsh 3:16. glad. The land joins in celebrating God's redemption. Cf Rm 8:19–22. blossom like the crocus. In Is, a flower that suddenly springs up in the desert after a rainfall. Hbr also translated "rose" in Sg 2:1.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:2 rejoice … singing. Celebration of creation continues along Israel's coast. glory … majesty. See the reverse in 33:9. Places listed from northern Israel were known for their fertility. glory of the LORD. Common theme in Is, mentioned 37 times (e.g., 6:3; 60:1; 62:2); denotes His real presence with Israel (cf Ex 40:34–38; 1Ki 8:10–12). See pp 6–7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:3 hands … knees. These shake when one is afraid. As the people prepare to enter this abundant and fertile land, they are commanded to be strong.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:4 fear not! Command Isaiah uses elsewhere (8:12; 41:10, 13; 43:1; 51:7; 54:4). vengeance … recompense. See note, 34:8.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:5 eyes … opened. Quoted by Jesus (Mt 11:5). Cf Is 29:18; 30:20–21.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:8–10 For similar descriptions of the messianic age and its consummation at the end of time, cf 11:6–12; 40:1–11; 41:17–19; 43:14–21; 48:20–21; 65:17–25.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:8 highway. One of many images describing the wilderness turning into a garden, bringing the return of the exiles (41:18; 42:15). Way of Holiness. Language of the exodus from Egypt is another rich source of imagery (cf 11:12, 16; 51:9–10). Jesus told His disciples that He is the way (Jn 14:5–6). unclean. Only the clean are gathered. Cf Rv 21:27; 22:14–15; see p 300. fools. Those new to this path.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:9 No lion. Cf 11:6–8; 65:25. Presence of ferocious beasts is a sign of God's curse (Lv 26:22). redeemed. See p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 35:10 ransomed of the LORD. Those whom God has rescued in a lasting way, foreseen by the exodus. See "redeem," p 843. return. They will once again dwell in Jerusalem. Zion. See p 844. everlasting. Vision points to the eternal city and rest of God's people (Rv 7:9; 21:1–3).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 35 The Lord prepares the salvation of His exiled people. Today, no matter what foolishness or fear has snared you, confess your sins in the confidence that the Lord has redeemed you by grace alone and has prepared for you a new way of life. • Take my trembling hand, Lord Jesus, and lead me to the comforts of Zion. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 36–39 Historical excursus explaining how the Lord defeated Assyria but prophesied Judah's exile in Babylon. See notes, 2Ki 18–20; 2Ch 32; see also pp 1084–87.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:1 See note, 2Ki 18:13. fortified cities. Judah's line of defense along the hill country, which guarded access to Jerusalem. See note, 2Ch 11:5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:2 Rabshakeh. Title for king's official cupbearer, not a personal name. In this case, the cupbearer also served in a military capacity. Lachish. See note, 2Ki 18:14. great army. 185,000 men. Cf 37:36. conduit of the upper pool. See note, 2Ki 18:17. highway … Washer's Field. Running east of the city in the Kidron Valley. See map, p 548; see also note, 7:3.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:3 recorder. Cf 2Sm 8:16; 1Ki 4:3; 2Ch 34:8.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:4 trust. See note, 2Ki 18:5. When Hezekiah sent Eliakim and Shebna, Sennacherib interpreted this as a sign of rebellion, a refusal to surrender. The Rabshakeh is awestruck at such a move.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:6 Ironically, the Israelites would not listen to their own prophet Isaiah, so the enemy must remind them of the futility in trusting Egypt. Cf 19:14–16; 30:7; 31:3; see note, 2Ki 18:21.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:7 See note, 2Ki 18:22. high places and altars. See p 526. In the eyes of polytheistic Assyria, destroying the "high places" was a ridiculous religious reform. However, Hezekiah was praised and supported by all Israel for this (cf 2Ch 31:1–21). this altar? In Jerusalem's temple.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:8 set riders. See note, 2Ki 18:23.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:10 Sennacherib argues that God has sent him to fulfill the warnings of prophets like Isaiah. As in v 6, he hits a raw nerve, repeating Isaiah's message of 8:7–8; 10:5–6, where Isaiah proclaimed that the Lord would use Assyria against the people of Israel.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:11 See note, 2Ki 18:26.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:12 See note, 2Ki 18:27.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:13 loud voice. Rather than speaking quietly in Aram, he shouts in Hbr to entice the people of Jerusalem.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:16 Make your peace with me. See ESV note. The Rabshakeh promises riches and luxury if only the people would honor Sennacherib as king. vine … fig tree. See note, 1Ki 4:25; cf Jl 2:22. cistern. During a siege, water sources would have been crowded and a point of contention.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:17 Threat of deportation is veiled with promise of a better land.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:18 The Lord will deliver us. See note, 2Ki 18:32.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:19 Sargon of Assyria occupied the Syrian city of Hamath in 720 BC. Tiglath-pileser III did the same to Arpad in 740 BC. The Rabshakeh uses this common knowledge to demonstrate the futility in trusting in a god for deliverance from the Assyrian war machine. Sepharvaim? Mesopotamian city. Samaria. Capital of the Northern Kingdom of Israel, which fell in 722 BC.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:21 silent. The people show solidarity with their king.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 36:22 clothes torn. Sign of humility, sorrow, and dependence on the Lord. See note, Jb 1:20; cf 2Sm 3:31; Jer 41:5; Jl 2:13.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 36 The Rabshakeh entices and threatens Jerusalem to surrender or suffer. The people resist, remaining loyal to faithful King Hezekiah. When godly leaders are challenged, curb your complaints but cry out to the Lord on their behalf. The Lord is faithful to His Word and will deliver His people. • Lord, bless our spiritual leaders with faith and with faithfulness. Defend and prosper Your house. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:1–2 Like Elisha (2Ki 6:12), the prophet Isaiah was the "secret weapon" and most powerful ally of the king of Judah.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:1 tore his clothes. See note, 36:22. sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15. house of the LORD. The temple court, where God would hear prayers of distress (1Ki 8:27–30).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:2 senior priests. High priest and leaders of priestly families. Isaiah. He and some other prophets were Jerusalem "insiders" and seem to have acted as counselors (formally or informally) to the royal house. Isaiah may have been a priest (see notes, 6:1–6).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:3 no strength to bring them forth. Judah is like a baby who must be delivered, but there is no strength to do so. See note, Hos 13:13. Hezekiah realizes that the city's salvation will not be by his might or power, but by the Lord (cf Zec 4:6).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:4 See note, 2Ki 19:4.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:5 servants. See note, v 2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:6 young men. The Lord's people may have reverently feared Sennacherib's messengers. The Lord regards them as boys or lackeys.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:7 See note, 2Ki 19:7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:8 Libnah. Referred to several times throughout the OT (Jsh 10:29–32; 12:15; 15:42; Jer 52:1). Seen as a city of refuge, but now attacked by Sennacherib. Lachish. See note, 2Ki 18:14.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:9 See note, 2Ki 19:9.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:11 devoting them to destruction. See p 6.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:12 See note, 2Ki 19:12.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:13 Cf 2Ki 18:34; 19:13. Hamath … Arpad … Sepharvaim. See note, 36:19. Hena … Ivvah? Unknown locations.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:1–13 Isaiah announces the Lord will rescue Jerusalem, and news comes that the king of Cush is approaching the Assyrians' southern flank. Even today, the Lord answers our prayers and guides the roles of leaders, all for the good of His people. Though troubles surround you, know that the Lord has them flanked and surrounded. • Lord, grant us faithful leaders who respect Your Word and seek counsel with the godly. Move the course of history for the sake of Your Church. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:14–19 See note, 2Ki 19:14–19.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:14 letter. While the Rabshakeh shouts outside the walls, Isaiah responds quietly with a private letter. house of the LORD. Hezekiah returns to the temple court, a place to pray and to receive the Lord's messages. spread it before the LORD. Before the holy place, Hezekiah demonstrates trust that Isaiah's words are from God and will be fulfilled.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:16 LORD of hosts. See p 1291. enthroned above the cherubim. See note, Ezk 10:1. You alone. See note, Dt 6:4. made heaven and earth. The Lord alone reigns over the whole earth and all its inhabitants, a key theme in Is.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:17 See note, 2Ki 19:16.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:19 Cf 44:9–20; Dt 4:28; 28:36, 64; 29:17; Ezk 20:32 for descriptions of other gods as nothing more than "wood and stone."
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:20 See note, 2Ki 19:19.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:14–20 In prayer at the temple, Hezekiah contrasts the idols of the nations with the one true God. We, too, worship and pray with undivided devotion and remember to proclaim the Lord's Word before the nations. The Lord will hear your prayer as surely as He heard Hezekiah's. • O Lord, make known to all nations the greatness of Your power and the gentleness of Your mercy, demonstrated in the ministry of Your Son, our King. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:21 See note, 2Ki 19:20.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:22–29 See note, 2Ki 19:21–28.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:22 See note, 2Ki 19:21.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:23 Holy One of Israel! See p 1227.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:24–25 Sennacherib boasts that he has overcome every obstacle in earth, mountains, deserts, and rivers, turning it all to his advantage. God reminds him that He has created all and has foreseen Sennacherib's every step.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:25 See note, 2Ki 19:24.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:26 determined … planned. Not only does the Lord know all that Sennacherib said to Hezekiah and his people, the Lord planned it (cf 14:26–27). God's foreknowledge is meant to humble proud Sennacherib because he thought he was acting independently. "He foresees and foreknows everything that is or will be, that is happening or will happen, whether it is good or bad. For all things, whether they are past or future, are clear and present before God" (FC SD XI 4). fortified cities. See note, 36:1.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:27 Though Sennacherib seems to have reduced his enemies to fragile grass, God has allowed this. The Lord views all people as grass (40:6–8).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:28 I know. See note, v 26.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:29 your complacency. Self-secure attitude. hook … bit. Tools used to control animals and slaves. See note, Am 4:2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:30 sign. The Lord now speaks a promise to Hezekiah. this year. Autumn 701 BC. what grows of itself. Volunteer harvest, caused by seed dropped during the previous harvest. People had not been able to plant and harvest as usual because of war. Conditions would give way in the third year. Isaiah prophesies hardship and hope.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:31 remnant. See p 1080. People in Jerusalem. The Assyrians would have deported people captured earlier, during the battles at Lachish and Libnah.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:32 zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this. Prophetic vow. See notes, 9:7; Ex 20:5; see also p 1291.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:33 siege mound. Such mounds were found by archaeologists at Lachish.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:35 for My own sake. See p 842. for … David. See note, 2Sm 7:11.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:36 angel of the Lord. See note, 2Ki 19:35.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:37 departed. Sennacherib was leading the siege at Libnah. Nineveh. Across the Tigris River from modern Mosul (Iraq). See map, p 609. The city had been revived by Tiglath-pileser III (744–727 BC) and Sargon II, who made it his capital. Sennacherib (704–681 BC) made it the capital of the Assyrian Empire.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:38 Nisroch. Lit, "great eagle," describing the idol's form. The name is otherwise unknown; it may be the Assyrian name for the god Marduk, creator and chief god in Babylonian mythology. his sons, struck him down. Coup in 681 BC. Events are confirmed by Assyrian and Babylonian chronicles. Ararat. Region in northern Turkey. See map, p 609. Esarhaddon. Ruled 681–669 BC.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 37:21–38 Isaiah prophesies that the Lord will rescue Judah amid hardship. Today, the Lord will not always grant you immediate relief from difficulty. He might use hardship to chasten and to teach. Take comfort in the wisdom of His ways. He demonstrated His zeal for you in the sufferings of Jesus for your redemption. • Faithful Jesus, grant me patience and teach me wisdom, that I may glean what is good in hard times and sow Your bounty in fruitful times. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:1–8 See note, 2Ki 20:1–11.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:1 Perhaps c 712 BC. See note, 2Ki 20:12. sick. See note, 2Ki 20:7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:2 turned his face to the wall. Unclear; may express sullen mood. The Targums suggest he turned toward the temple. See note, 2Ki 20:3. prayed. Isaiah's word was from the Lord. Hezekiah had no other resource for healing than prayer to the Lord.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:3 See note, 2Ki 20:3.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:4 came to Isaiah. Common expression for the prophet's experience, typically involving visions or dreams. See pp 1081–83.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:5 God of David your father. Hezekiah knew, like Moses (cf Ex 32:7–14) and Jonah (cf Jnh 4:2), that the Lord is always willing to be asked, always willing to listen to His people. See note, 2Ki 20:5. add fifteen years. Long enough to be seen clearly as a divine gift.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:6 Deliverance likely took place during the siege by the Assyrians in c 701 BC. See note, 2Ki 20:1–11.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:7 sign. See note, 2Ki 20:8.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:8 dial of Ahaz. Possibly a sundial made for or by Hezekiah's father. Egyptians developed such instruments as early as fourth millennium BC. turn back ten steps. Degrees marked on the dial's face. However, see note, 2Ki 20:11.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:10 middle of my days. See ESV note. gates of Sheol. Cf v 18; 5:14; see p 792. Hezekiah's prayer reiterates what he felt after Isaiah's word from the Lord. About to die, his initial reaction was one of hopelessness and despair. rest of my years. Old age to which he felt he should live.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:11 see the LORD. As He reveals His power and goodness. Cf Ps 38:10. land of the living. Earthly existence, where the Lord and people are at work.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:12 dwelling. Hezekiah compares his life with a shepherd's tent that can be dismantled quickly. cuts me off. No more will be added. from day to night. Sunset of his life. What had seemed so permanent (a shepherd's tent or a large piece of cloth on a loom) could be quickly taken up or cut off. Hezekiah's life could be just as quickly ended.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:13 breaks all my bones. As quickly as a lion devours a carcass and licks clean each bone.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:14 chirp … moan. He is but a weak, complaining bird compared to a lion (v 13). looking upward. Waiting in hope. pledge of safety! Using a financial expression, he requests that the Lord will intervene. See note, Pr 6:1.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:15 I walk slowly all my years. Walk of humility before God.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:16 these things. When "the word of the LORD" (v 4), spoken by Isaiah, prolonged the king's life (v 5), Hezekiah understood that "man does not live by bread alone, but … by every word that comes from the mouth of the LORD" (Dt 8:3).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:17 pit of destruction. See "Sheol," p 792. cast all my sins behind Your back. Hezekiah sees the deliverance from death accomplished through the forgiveness of sins.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:18 Sheol. See p 792. those who go down to the pit do not hope. That the dead do not praise God is a common theme throughout the OT. Cf Jb 10:21–22; Ps 6:5; 30:9. However, all who die in the Lord are with the Lord (Rm 14:8; 1Co 15; 1Th 5:10), but even they long for the coming resurrection (Rv 6:9–11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:19 The living, the living. Hezekiah's repetition savors and celebrates God's gift. father … children. Through a long life, fathers can teach their children. See note, Pr 1:8.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:20 play my music. Sound of joyful living. house of the LORD. The temple.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:21 See note, 2Ki 20:7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 38:22 sign. See note, 2Ki 20:8. house of the LORD? The temple, where he would sacrifice and offer thanks.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 38 The Lord answers Hezekiah's prayer for healing and forgiveness. No matter what difficulty or diagnosis you face, do not hesitate to make your request known to the Lord. He hears, forgives, and delivers His people according to His mercy, and He works through our hands for others' good. • Lord, grant me good health, a heart of prayer, and ready hands that serve. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:1 See note, 2Ki 20:12.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:2 See note, 2Ki 20:13.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:3–4 See note, 2Ki 20:14–15.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:5 LORD of hosts. See p 1291.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:6–7 See note, 2Ki 20:17–19.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:7 Judah lasted for c 125 more years. Hezekiah's son Manasseh was esp noted for brutality and became the cause of the Babylonian captivity (2Ki 21:10–16). some … sons. Used generally, means descendants. eunuchs. Threat that Hezekiah's dynasty would be cut off. In mercy, the Lord preserved the heritage of Judah's kings, as promised to David and realized in the Messiah (Is 9:6–7). See note, 2Ki 20:18.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 39:8 See note, 2Ki 20:19.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 39 The Lord rebukes Hezekiah for expressing hope in Babylon as his ally against Assyria. Prayer is our ever-ready strength, and the Lord is our ever-present ally. When worries assault you, call on the Lord. His Son will rule for your benefit and deliver you peace. • Turn all my doubts, O Lord, into prayers, that I may see a secure future for Your servants. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:1 Comfort, comfort. First of three heralds in vv 1–11. The Lord's prophet reminds the Israelites that they are still His covenant people (Ex 6:7; 19:5; Lv 26:12; Dt 26:17–19). Repetition is the Hebraic way of driving home a point; Isaiah used this literary device often (e.g., Is 21:9; 51:9, 17; 52:1; 57:14; 62:10; see threefold "holy, holy, holy" in 6:3).

Luth: "God's people are those who need comfort because they have been wounded and terrified by the Law and they are an empty vessel capable of receiving comfort. Only those who are afflicted have comfort and are capable of it, because comfort means nothing unless there is a malady" (AE 17:3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:2 Speak tenderly. Not harshly, as rebels against the King of heaven and earth should expect, but in the tone of winsome pleading with which a lover seeks to touch the heart of a maiden he is courting (Gn 34:3; Jgs 19:3). Jerusalem did nothing to deserve tender words. Her redemption would be an act of divine mercy without any merit or worthiness on her part. warfare. Destruction of the nation and subsequent Babylonian captivity (Is 43:14). God promised to cut short the time of "hard service" (14:3) in the exile, even though justice required that suffering for sin should never end. double for all her sins. People receive double in unmerited comfort (cf v 1). Penalty of her iniquity was paid, even though she could do nothing to make amends for the debt she incurred. She received from the Lord's hand good things in double proportion to the punishment she deserved for her sins (61:7; Jb 11:6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:3 A voice cries. The second herald, John the Baptist, was commissioned to "go before the Lord to prepare His ways" (Lk 1:76–79). He did so when he preached repentance "in the wilderness of Judea" (Mt 3:1). prepare the way of the LORD. The double comfort of vv 1–2 will come about when the Lord breaks into history and comes to the aid of His people. The Lord has done this before (cf Dt 33:2; Jgs 5:4–5; Ps 68:7–8) and will do so again (Is 52:7–10). The prophet may also be playing on a Babylonian hymn that speaks of making straight paths for Nabu, Babylonian god of writing and wisdom. Roads were often constructed for visiting dignitaries, triumphant kings, or for idols as they were carried in procession. highway. According to His eternal plan, "the way of the LORD" has as its predestined goal the redemption of all humankind through His Son, Jesus Christ. All obstacles will be cleared from His highway of salvation. His chosen people will come forth from the grave of the exile and survive the rise and fall of empires in order that the Savior might be born "of the house and lineage of David" (Lk 2:4) as foretold.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:5 glory of the LORD. See pp 6–7. The Lord's presence in, with, and under a pillar of cloud or pillar of fire (cf Ex 16:10; 40:34). This phrase has played a key role throughout Is thus far (cf 4:5; 6:3; 35:2) and will continue to play an important role, esp in ch 66. all flesh. All people. When the Lord's glory was revealed in His incarnate Son, His purpose was not to destroy sinners but to bring the light of salvation to all peoples of the earth (52:10; 60:1–3). However, there will also come a time when "the Son of Man comes in His glory" to judge "all the nations" (Mt 25:31–32). Jn D: "The Lord did not become flesh without soul or mind, but man" (NPNF 2 9:66).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:1–5 The Lord promises comfort and restoration for the Babylonian exiles. These promises, fulfilled through John the Baptist's ministry, have personal consequences for you and for all people. Just as the Lord doubled the comfort and forgiveness for the exiles, He has doubled comfort and forgiveness for you in the person of His Son. • Lord, as You have prepared comfort for all people through Jesus, prepare my mouth and heart to speak of that comfort and peace to those around me. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:6 voice. The Lord's messenger. See note, v 3. beauty. Hbr chesed, typically translated "steadfast love." See p 843. All of Israel's covenantal love is worthless. Their only hope is that the Lord's mercy will triumph over His judgment (Jas 2:13).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:7 breath of the LORD. The "breath" or Spirit of the Lord is normally a life-giving breath (Gn 2:7; Ps 104:30; Ezk 37:1–6; Jn 20:22). However, here it brings death. It is like the hot, dry desert winds that come upon Israel in May to turn the lush, green countryside to a brown desertlike land in less than 48 hours.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:8 Unlike the frailty of created things, God's Word remains for all time. Cf Jb 14:1–2; Ps 102:14; 103:15–17; Is 55:10–11; 1Pt 1:24–25. See p 1646.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:6–8 The Lord's messenger contrasts the Lord's faithfulness with the unfaithfulness of all people. Rather than defend your weaknesses, confess them before the Lord, who gives life through His Word. • Dear Lord, breathe on me Your life-giving Spirit through the faithful promises in Your Word. Then I will be swayed by Your mercy and bear fruit to Your glory. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:9 O Zion. See p 844. herald of good news. Last of the three heralds in vv 1–11 is Jerusalem. She broadcasts good news to surrounding neighborhoods, in this case "cities of Judah." Behold your God! Focus is on God only—not His city, temple, or people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:10 His arm rules. Personal strength in action. Cf 48:14; 51:5, 9; 52:10; 53:1; 62:8; 63:5, 12. See "arm," p 842. His reward … His recompense. The Lord brings punishment for the wicked and blessings for the faithful.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:11 tend His flock. Congregation of believers. like a shepherd. Those who hear His voice and follow Him can depend on Him to be kind and generous in caring for them, be they ever so helpless and weak (Ps 23:1; Lk 1:52; Jn 10:3–4). Once the Lord arrives, He will deal with Israel as a shepherd cares for his sheep. The militaristic arm of v 10 is also a shepherding arm. This change from soldier to shepherd occurs elsewhere (2Sm 5:2; 7:7; Mi 5:4). carry them in His bosom. Fold of a robe above the sash could hold a sick or injured lamb.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:12 Who. He whose handiwork is the vast universe (Jb 38–39; Ps 19:1; 104; Is 48:3). scales … balance? The Lord acts as an artisan and a merchant, designing the world with tools of the marketplace.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:15–16 drop from a bucket … dust on the scales. Of no account. Comparison elaborates v 12. coastlands. Synonym of "nations" referring to what lies at the edges of the land, i.e., the ends of the earth. like fine dust. No matter what these nations and coastlands do, burning their precious wood (Lebanon was known for its cedar forests) or even sacrificing all their bulls, the nations will not be significant compared to the Lord. Cf Is 2:6–22.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:17 less than nothing. Hbr tohu. See notes, 34:11; Gn 1:2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:19 idol! Hbr word usually translated "graven image" or "carved image" (cf v 20; 10:10; 44:15). Process of manufacturing an image shows how ridiculous humans are to worship what they fabricate out of lifeless material. Cf 41:6–7; 44:9–20; 46:1–2; Jer 10:1–16.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:20 too impoverished. Sarcasm. He can make a god, but not a sacrifice. an idol that will not move. Gods of the nations cannot be affected or moved to compassion (1Ki 18:27–29). Isaiah treats idolatry as foolishness (41:6–7; 44:9–20; 46:5–7). Cf Hos 13:2; Ac 17:29–31.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:21 Rhetorical questions. Things they obviously should know. Not only could God's "eternal power and divine nature" be clearly perceived (Rm 1:20), but He also revealed Himself by His holy prophets (Lk 1:70).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:22 the circle of the earth. Firmament. See note, Jb 22:14. Everything appears small before God. curtain … tent. Possible references to the heavenly tabernacle (Heb 8:1–2).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:23 nothing. Translated "emptiness" (v 17), "wasted" (24:10), "empty" (45:18), "void" (Jb 26:7).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:24 In vv 6–7, people are like grass in its full growth, but here they are cut short, seen as barely sprouted seeds. tempest. The storm blows the dried grass away as chaff. Cf Ps 1:4.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:25 Me … the Holy One. One of Isaiah's favorite titles for the Lord (1:4; 5:19; 10:17; 29:19; 43:3; 55:5). He is different and set apart from everyone and everything else. See p 1227.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:26 these? Stars. calling them all by name. They are like a huge army that appears overhead as if created anew every night. The stars march across the sky in unbroken ranks. Nations viewed the stars as visible representations of the gods (Am 5:26). Israel succumbed to the temptation of worshiping the stars (2Ki 17:16; 21:3), which in turn brought about exile.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:27 God's promises seemed meaningless to His chosen people. However, their complaint showed a lack of faith that is reproved and challenged by God's question: Why do you say such things?

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:28 everlasting God. The Lord is the sole Creator, possessing the unchangeable energy shown in the first six days. unsearchable. While God both loves His people and has power to save them, His plans unfold in ways we would not imagine.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:31 wait for the LORD. Hope in Him. "Wait" and "hope" in Hbr come from the same root word. run … walk. They will accomplish their purposes, as God wills.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 40:9–31 Israel has an incomparable God who watches over her. Though the Lord may use His power for condemnation, He acts as your Good Shepherd for your salvation. • Lord, renew the strength of faith in me, that I may renew my service to Your everlasting purposes. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:1 Gentile nations are called into the courtroom before the Lord and given the chance to renew their strength, just as Israel is given that opportunity in 40:31. coastlands. Gentile nations. draw near for judgment. The question is simple: Who is ultimately in charge of world events?

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:2 stirred up one from the east. Identity of the one stirred up for service is intentionally vague. It might mean Abraham, Moses, Joshua, or someone else. It certainly fits the Persian king Cyrus (cf 44:28; 45:1). After becoming king of Persia and Media, Cyrus marched west to Lydia on the coast of the Great Sea, subduing it and all intervening peoples. In campaigns "from the north" (41:25), he conquered Babylon. gives up nations before him. Lit, "gives before him nations," as though casting them down to trample them.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:3 Conqueror's advance was so swift that his feet did not seem to touch the paths leading to his victims.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:4 calling the generations. Into existence and to face His judgment. first … last. The Lord's sovereign power is again affirmed. He is the first (40:28) and will be with the last ones of the earth. I am He. The Lord predates the beginning of history and will continue to exist after the last of temporal things has ceased to be (43:10–13). In all this, He does not change. See notes, Ex 3:14, 15; 6:3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:5 drawn near. Distant nations gather in panic at Cyrus's advance.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:6–7 The coastlands feel panic but continue to finish work on their idols to make them firm before God's presence (cf 1Sm 5:1–5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:8 My servant. Unmerited distinction for Abraham and his offspring to be chosen of all families of the earth and to be given a role in God's eternal plan of salvation. However, despite many spiritual and material blessings conferred on it, Israel turned out to be a disobedient servant—so deaf to God's guidance and so blind to His goodness that "He poured on him the heat of His anger" (42:18–25). Chastened, forgiven, redeemed from the Babylonian exile, Israel would again render service necessary for the coming of that Servant of the Lord who would be obedient to death (52:13–53:12). chosen. The Lord reminds Israel of His past promises by calling Abraham (Gn 12:1–3) and entering into an everlasting covenant with him (Gn 15; 17:7). Dt 7:7–8 indicates that divine election is a pure gift; Israel has done nothing to deserve this status. My friend. Abraham was given the same title in 2Ch 20:7; Jas 2:23.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:9 I took … called. Abraham originally came from Ur, near the natural boundaries of the Persian Gulf and Zagros mountains. My servant. Israel was to act as a kingdom of priests to the world (cf Ex 19:5–6). At Sinai, Israel is distinctly marked and empowered to be evangelistic; the nation is commissioned to be the go-between concerning the Lord and the nations.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:10 fear not. So God spoke to His servants of old (Abraham, Gn 15:1; Isaac, Gn 26:24; Joshua, Jsh 1:5–9). Because our sinful nature is hesitant to believe that there is nothing whatsoever to fear if God says, "I am with you," He must say again and again, "Fear not," and thus strengthen our faith. My righteous right hand. God's right hand fights for His people in power, while with His left hand He holds the right hand of His child Israel (v 13). See "hand," p 842.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:11–12 all … those. The nations.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:13 hold your right hand. See note, v 10.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:14 worm. Israel is compared to a worm, and their enemies to mountains (v 15). Only with the Lord can such a worm crush such mountains. Redeemer. Occurring more than 10 times in the following chapters, this comforting title of God describes what He must do to rescue His helpless people. See note, Jb 19:25; see also "redeem," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:15 threshing sledge. Formed with several heavy timbers tied together, with sharp rocks or metal driven into its underside; used to separate grain from husks and stalks. See p 422. Figure of speech likens the destruction of nations (cf 25:10) or enemies (e.g., 2Ki 13:7; Am 1:3–5) to the same physical circumstances as grain when it is threshed. Israel's enemies will be worn, crushed, and scattered to the winds. mountains. Represent the nations.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:16 winnow. See note, Ps 1:4. Every obstacle in "the way of the LORD" (40:3) will dissipate. tempest. Storm or tornado. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227. glory. See pp 6–7. Once helped, Israel will become a vehicle for the Lord to bless the nations so they will give glory to Israel's God (43:10; 45:20–23; 48:20; 49:6; 52:10; 56:6–8; 60:1–3; 66:18–19).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:17–20 Cf 40:3–5.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:17 poor and needy. Beyond help in war, the Lord also provides for the daily needs of His people. Alludes to Israelites in the wilderness after the exodus. Cf Ex 15:22–27; 17:1–7; Nu 20:2–13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:18 open rivers. Nature springs into action at God's command. See note, Ps 107:33.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:20 Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:1–20 The Lord lowers the nations but prepares for Israel's restoration. Today, follow where the Lord leads, according to the teachings of His Word. He will take you by the hand and walk with you to clear the way, so great is His mercy in Christ. • Lord Jesus, at the Father's right hand, sanctify me and guide my steps, that I walk like Abraham, Your friend. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:21 case … proofs. Recalls 1:2, where the heavens and the earth are called to the heavenly courtroom to be witnesses against Israel (cf v 1; Hos 4:1; Mi 6:1). King of Jacob. The Lord is ruler of Jacob's descendants, the Israelites. See pp 1565–66.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:22 them. Nations and their idols (v 23). former things. Cf 14:26–27, where the Lord insists He has a plan for the nations that cannot be thwarted.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:23 Asking for a prediction of the future, specifically the Lord's use of Cyrus. Cf 45:1, 13. gods. Unless the idols can interpret history ("the former things") and foretell the future ("what is to come hereafter"), their claim to deity is a fraud.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:24 you. Idols.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:25 one from the north … rising of the sun. Cyrus (the Lord's shepherd, cf 44:28). Cyrus came from Persia, east of Babylon; his conquest of Babylon would have spread into Judah from the north. call upon My name. In his proclamation permitting the exiled Israelites to return to their homeland, Cyrus said, "The LORD, the God of heaven, has … charged me to build Him a house at Jerusalem" (Ezr 1:2). See "call," p 842.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:26 it. Prophecy about Cyrus.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:27 they. Glad tidings.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:28 there is no one. The court case concludes; the Gentiles have no one who will speak on their behalf. Their idols are only a delusion of sinful humanity. The Lord, therefore, is the only means of salvation (43:12; 50:2; 59:16; 63:3). among these. No gods could have instructed the Creator (40:13). counselor. See "Legal Language in Job," p 792.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:29 they. Idols.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 41:21–29 The Lord puts the nations and their idols on trial and finds them wanting. Believers today should not put their confidence in the message of false prophets, horoscopes, or other means of predicting the future, but should judge all things according to the Word. The Lord, your King, will silence all accusations against you and declare you free in Christ. • O Lord, silence my accusers, and grant me confidence to follow Your Word, which proves itself true again and again. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:1–9 First of four Servant Songs (42:1–9; 49:1–13; 50:4–11; 52:13–53:12). See p 1178.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:1 All three persons of the Trinity are mentioned here. My servant. God chose to call many individuals His servants. The service they rendered carried out a wide variety of assignments: Abraham (Gn 26:24; Ps 105:6), Moses (Nu 12:7–8), Caleb (Nu 14:24), David (Is 37:35), Isaiah (Is 20:3), prophets in general (2Ki 17:13; Is 44:26), Eliakim (Is 22:20), Zerubbabel (Hg 2:23), even such heathen kings as Nebuchadnezzar (Jer 25:9) and Cyrus (Is 43:10; 45:1). The title occurs also as a corporate name for all Israelites to indicate the reason for their existence as a nation (Jer 30:10; frequently in Is 40–66). However, neither an individual nor Israel collectively can qualify as the Servant described in vv 1–9 and in the other Servant Songs (49:1–13; 50:4–11; 52:13–53:12). See p 1178. In these passages, it becomes progressively clear that Isaiah is not speaking "about himself or about someone else" among his fellow Israelites but is proclaiming "the good news about Jesus" (Ac 8:30–35). In Him alone, God's soul delights without ever finding fault, as "a voice from heaven" declared at His Son's Baptism and transfiguration (Mt 3:17; 17:5). Because the Israelites, even the best among them, were in need of forgiveness, they could not save themselves, much less atone for the guilt of their companions in crime throughout the world. But God was promising a sinless Servant who could redeem not only disobedient Israel but also all the nations. The NT validates this interpretation of vv 1–4 by quoting the passage as fulfilled in Jesus Christ. Just: "In Isaiah, if you have ears to hear it, God, speaking of Christ in parable, calls Him Jacob and Israel" (ANF 1:261). Luth: "He is calling us away from errors and therefore showing us someone else. . . . The prophet points us to the Incarnate One and says that in this Head alone, in the unity of faith, we who were formerly scattered must be brought together. . . . This was not written for Christ's sake but for ours, so that we may be sure about His work and teaching and may have certainty about the emptiness of our idolatry. Nobody understands these things unless he believes. You must believe that Christ is a servant. It is as Paul says (1 Cor. 2:2): 'I decided to know nothing among you except Jesus Christ and Him crucified.' … This Christ is an offense to the whole world. Therefore, in order to give us certainty, this commendation of Christ is necessary. We see from experience that nothing is more absurd to the wisdom of the flesh than Christ, the Servant, and His Word. All are offended because of Him. All of us want to be God's servants while we please ourselves. Everything will be taken up and entrusted to Him alone. We should receive this with thanksgiving, but we attain to it ungratefully" (AE 17:60–61). My chosen. The Servant's work will be part of God's greater plan. My Spirit. The Servant is divinely authorized and empowered to carry out His assigned mission. However, He will not bring justice to the nations by forcing His will on the world by military campaigns as Cyrus did, treading down kings and rulers "as the potter treads clay" (41:25). There will be no noisy, flamboyant victory marches "in the street" (42:2). Yet, He will bring it about that even the weakest in His worldwide dominion will have a rightful claim to the benefits He bestows.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:2 not cry aloud. The Servant is described in negative terms because there is no other basis of comparison for Him. He does not push Himself aggressively on anyone. All things and people are precious in His sight.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:3 reed … wick. Reeds were used for pens, etc. Wicks were made from broken flax fibers that could not be woven properly. Though of little value, these items are still handled carefully by the Servant. Cf 40:29; 61:1–3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:4 not grow faint or be discouraged. The last Servant Song (52:13–53:12) makes clear how the Servant will establish His "justice in the earth." There is only a hint about suffering here. Though He may become weak and exhausted by "the anguish of His soul" (53:11), He will not give up the struggle. justice … law. The Servant's purpose is to establish salvation on the earth. Even the coastlands, previously zealous for their idols (41:5–7), should wait for the Law (instruction) of the Servant.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:5–7 The Lord gives further purpose for His Servant; He will be a light to the nations, bring freedom, and heal the blind. Cf Mt 11:4–5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:5 gives breath. Recalls creation of Adam; God's breath animates lifeless clay.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:6 called You in righteousness. Despite the Servant's losses and wonder at God's action, God's call to Him is righteous and holy, above reproach. See "righteousness," p 843. take You by the hand. See note, 41:10. a covenant. See p 6. The Servant establishes a new covenant. Cf Mt 26:28. a light for the nations. Paul and Barnabas justified their bringing "the light of the world" (Jn 8:12) to the Gentiles by referring to this verse and to 49:6. (Cf Lk 2:30–32; Ac 13:47.)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:7 Those trapped due to sin, such as the exiles.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:8 My name. God confirms His name (cf Ex 3:13–15) and emphasizes again His uniqueness. See note, 41:4.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:9 former things. Emphasizes, as did the earlier negative descriptions of the role of the Servant, that what is being done is something new (Jer 31:31–34; Lk 22:20; Heb 8:1–13; 9:11–28).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:1–9 The Servant establishes a new covenant to save the nations. Jesus Christ fulfilled this prophecy on your behalf. He frees you from your sins by His righteousness alone. • O Lord, I praise You for calling me by the Gospel and for giving me Your Holy Spirit, that I may serve You in righteousness. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:10 new song. This new song (cf Ps 96:1; 98:1) is the response to the "new things" of v 9. It is a worldwide invitation (cf Is 12:4–5) to praise the Lord for what He will do through His Servant. See p 843. you. Sailors, who reach far-flung places. Those far off and those near are all invited to sing this new song.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:11–12 People are called to praise God for the victory and deliverance He brings.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:11 Kedar … Sela. See notes, 16:1; Ps 120:5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:13 like a man of war. See note, Ex 15:3. His zeal. Also translated "jealous wrath." See note, Ex 20:5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:14 I. The Lord. like a woman in labor. In battle with His enemies, God is cast in the role of a mighty man of war (v 13). An even more daring comparison describes Him as a pregnant woman. gasp and pant. When time of delivery comes, a woman can cry out in desperation but cannot delay the birth of her child. Though He restrained

Himself for a long time, nothing can prevent the Lord from keeping His promise to open the way of forgiveness for fallen humankind.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:15 rivers into islands. Contrast with 41:18–19. Not an act of destruction. The Lord is leading the blind, so He removes all obstacles for such people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:16 paths … not known. Way of salvation from sin. See p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:17 carved idols … metal images. Despite God's care and power, idolatry will continue among those who reject the Lord and His Servant (cf Ps 2).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:10–17 Through the work of the Lord's Servant, the song of salvation reaches all people. Because you have received the Gospel, open your mouth to confess and to sing about Jesus' works—both His Law and His Gospel. He will lead you and never forsake you. • O Savior, open my lips, that I may declare Your praise to those near and far. Lead me in the way of peace. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:18–20 Whereas the previous Servant (vv 1–9) did the work of the Lord, this one (Israel, v 24) does not. This description recalls Isaiah's commission (6:9–13).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:21 for His righteousness' sake. See "righteousness" and "for Your name's sake," pp 843, 842. magnify His law. Israel had no excuse for its failure to perform its assigned service; it knew God's will (Lk 12:47).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:22 people. Israel. trapped. Exile and effects of sin. plunder … spoil. The Lord desired to make His Torah great in Israel so the nations would stream to Zion (2:1–5). But because of Israel's unbelief, they were allowed to be plundered and looted by these very nations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:24 This situation for Israel was not caused by the Babylonians. The Lord caused this because Israel had sinned.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:25 him. Israel. set him on fire. Even when besieged, the people did not repent.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 42:18–25 Israel fails to believe and live as God's servant, and is punished with exile. No person should seek security in his own righteousness, for we are delivered for the sake of the Lord's righteousness alone. He calls us and delivers us according to His righteous purposes. • Open my eyes! Unstuff my ears, O Jesus! Magnify Your Word in my seeing and hearing, that I may serve You in righteousness. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:1 now. At the end of the exile. redeemed you. See p 843. His chosen people (Ex 6:2–8) are told to no longer fear (see note, 35:4). called you by name. The Lord reminds His people that He has not forgotten His covenant promises to them. Cf Gn 32:26–29.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:2 waters … fire. He will not permit any disaster or obstacle to destroy them (cf Ps 32:6; 42:7–8; 124:4–5). Crossing the Red Sea during the exodus (Ex 14:21–31) and crossing the Jordan River into the Promised Land (Jsh 3:14–17) are two examples.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:3 Holy One of Israel. See p 1227. Savior. See "salvation," p 843. ransom. See "redeem," p 843. God restructured the whole ancient world for the sake of a small people apparently sinking into oblivion in a foreign land. Israel's liberation is described as if God paid the Persians for giving the exiles freedom by giving the Persians Egypt. Cush and Seba. Poetic, expansive expressions for Egypt.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:4 I give men in return for you. In the exodus, Israel was "redeemed" at the expense of Egypt. Cf Pr 21:18.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:5–7 Though the Lord's people will be dispersed for their sins, He reminds them that they will be gathered to Him once more (11:11–12; 27:13; 60:4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:5 I am with you. See "be with," p 5. God assures Israel of His constant presence even before they are gathered together before Him.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:7 called by My name. See note, 2Ch 7:14. So believers today are called "Christians." His name breaks their bonds and joins them as one. See "name," p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:8 Bring out. When the worshipers of idols can produce no witness to vindicate their gods, the Lord calls to the stand His witnesses, His servant Israel, to testify that He saved His people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:9–10 Trial imagery emphasizes that the Lord is the only true God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:9 former things? Evidence. witnesses. The Lord calls on the nations to bring out their witnesses and testify what their gods have done. It is true. They testify under oath.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:10 ✠ You are My witnesses. Though the people of Israel became spiritually blind and deaf (42:18–25), they can attest to their experiences. The Lord calls us to testify what we learn of Him. Ironically, this verse was adapted by the disciples of Charles Taze Russell and "Judge" Joseph F. Rutherford to form the name "Jehovah's Witnesses," a group that has deceived many with false predictions about the end of the world and other false testimony. (See p 307.) They teach that Jesus is only a "Mighty God" alongside the Almighty God, though the Lord, speaking through Isaiah, clearly rejects this doctrine. no god. The only true God—the Holy Trinity—is uncreated and eternal. See notes, Jn 1:1–3. Hil: "He is God from God … God is His own best interpreter, but His chosen Servant joins with Him to assure us that there is no God before Him, nor shall be after Him. His own witness concerning Himself is, indeed, sufficient, but He has added the witness of the Servant Whom He has chosen" (NPNF 2 9:82).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:11 Similar to the First Commandment (Ex 20:3) and other parts of Is (45:5, 18, 22; 46:9). I, I am the LORD. Emphatic confession. See note, v 25. God declares His absolute sovereignty, denying all hope of salvation based on our own works because salvation is the work of God alone. See "salvation," p 843. besides Me there is no savior. Verdict of the court is given in v 13, verifying Him as the true God (cf Jn 8:58).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:12 declared … saved … proclaimed. God works salvation through His Word. See note, Rm 10:17. when. At the time of the exodus. strange god. Only the true God can claim to have been active in Israel's history.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:13 As in the past, so also in the future, God's plans will be unstoppable.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:14 your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel. The Lord is the Redeemer because of His rescue of Judah from the Babylonians, who will be defeated. See p 1227. fugitives. Instead of Israel, the mighty nations become exiles. Chaldeans. See note, 13:17. ships. Prison vessels, transporting the conquered.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:15 The Lord rules both Israel's ancient beginning and their present state. Holy One. See p 1227. King. See pp 1565–66.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:16 a way in the sea. The Lord prefaces His claim with a reminder of the exodus and the destruction of Pharaoh's armies.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:18 Remember not. Does not mean God's people should forget the former things by which He revealed Himself (46:9). The Lord instructs them to set aside reflection on the exodus so they can consider a still more glorious future. former things. Things predicted and fulfilled (cf 41:22; 42:9; 43:9; 46:9; 48:3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:19–21 Israel could expect something new—a miracle so marvelous as to eclipse the former things. Cf Col 2:17.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:19 a new thing. Rather than looking back on the glory days of the past exodus, the Lord wants His people to see Him as their present provider of exodus (cf Jer 23:7–8), their deliverer from Babylon. He demonstrates this by bringing life-giving water to His people living in the wilderness and desert (cf Ps 42:1; 63:1; Jn 4:14; Rv 7:16).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:20 My chosen. Like v 7, this section (vv 16–21) ends with a reminder of the people's purpose—to give praise to the Lord and spread His name among the nations (cf Gn 12:1–3).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:22–24 The people rejected God's invitation to call on Him; they have only burdened Him with their sins without sacrifice or apology.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:22 call upon Me. Israel failed to cry to God and so needs rescue. See p 842. weary of Me. Astonishing that the weak have tired of the One who is strong, but Israel has tired of receiving the Lord's strength. Cf 40:28–31.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:23 burnt offerings. Israel's worship became a performance and hypocrisy. God rejected it as an insulting abomination. See note, 1:11; see also pp 170–71.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:24 sweet cane. "Aromatic cane" or reed used in the preparation of holy anointing oil (see note, Ex 30:23). money. Lit, "silver." See note, Jsh 24:32. fat. Considered a choice part of the sacrificial animal, burned on the altar because it "is the LORD's" (Lv 3:14–16). burdened Me with your sins. What the Lord wanted was not only the sacrifices but a people with whom He could have fellowship, whose character reflected His own. The promises connected to the sacrificial actions were to empower a new heart and life. Because the people failed to offer these appointed sacrifices, their sins were heaped up before the Lord. Jesus echoes this language of being burdened and weary in Mt 11:28–30.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:25 I, I am He. Note two emphatic confessions (cf v 11), which refer to who God is and what God does. The teachings are inseparable, and the Lord elevates their proclamation above everything else. blots out. God forgives sins completely (1:18). for My own sake. See "for Your name's sake," p 842. not remember. Cf Ps 51:1, 9; Jer 31:34.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:26 Put Me in remembrance. The Lord calls Israel to focus on what matters most. argue together. See note, 1:18.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:27 first father. Adam was the father of all people; Abraham, of the Israelites (51:2; Jsh 24:3). mediators. Those appointed to intercede on behalf of Israel, such as prophets and priests.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 43:28 princes of the sanctuary. Chief priests.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 43 The Lord bears witness in a courtroom setting that He is the only source of salvation. Reject any god, religion, or doctrine that declares that human works or actions contribute in any way to salvation. Instead, give all glory to God alone for the salvation He vows to you through the person and work of Jesus. • O blessed Holy Trinity, one true God, declare me righteous by Your grace alone, and call me by Your name, that I may bear witness to You among the nations. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:1 now. Refers both to a change in the argument's logic and a change from past to present/future. O Jacob My servant. The Lord uses comforting language to describe Israel. have chosen! Completed action of the verbs demonstrates secure status before the Lord. See "choose," p 5.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:2 formed you from the womb. Promise given to both Jeremiah and Paul. Fear not. Because Israel was delivered "to utter destruction" for its sins (43:28), it had every reason to be afraid. Anyone facing destruction knows how welcome and necessary it is to be told repeatedly: fear not. If the enslaved Israelites are to cast out fear, they must see the folly of trusting idols (vv 9–20; cf 40:18–20; 41:5–7, 21–24). Jeshurun. "Upright," poetic name for Israel.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:3 pour water. Water brings life where there is none (43:19–20; Ps 1:3). pour My Spirit upon your offspring. Gift of the Holy Spirit is life-giving. Those with the Spirit are no longer grass that withers but are full of life (v 4). See note, Ezk 36:27.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:4 spring up. Blessings of the Spirit are described as having the effect of showers of rain on "thirsty land" (v 3; cf Jl 2:23–32; Ac 2).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:5 This one … another. Among the descendants (v 3) of the new Israel will be Gentiles, who cannot claim sonship by natural birth. They will give oral and written testimony of their desire to be the Lord's and will enjoy the blessings of membership in His people. write on his hand. Beyond calling on God's name, some place a visible reminder of God on themselves, recalling the binding of the Word on one's hand and forehead (Dt 6:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:1–5 Through the work of God's Spirit, the chosen people grow in number. When you share God's Word with others, bear in mind that conversion and salvation are the Holy Spirit's work through the truth you share. Take comfort and confidence that He will fulfill His promises. • O gracious Lord, pour out the Holy Spirit with all His blessings, that many may hear and believe through my testimony in Your name. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:6 King of Israel. God's special relationship with His own comes through His governance. See pp 1565–66. Redeemer. Unlike idols, God actually delivers His people. See p 843. Lord of hosts. See p 1291. The uniqueness of Israel's religion recalls the words of Moses and Miriam at the Red Sea: "Who is like You, O Lord, among the gods?" (Ex 15:11). Certainly the Lord is not one god among many. I am the first and I am the last. As first, He has no creator; as last, He alone remains standing. See Jesus' confession, Rv 1:8, 17–18. no god. "Their trust is not placed in the only God, beside whom there is truly no God in heaven or upon earth [Isaiah 44:6]. Therefore, the heathen really make their self-invented notions and dreams of God an idol. Ultimately, they put their trust in that which is nothing. So it is with all idolatry. For it happens not merely by erecting an image and worshiping it, but rather it happens in the heart. For the heart stands gaping at something else. It seeks help and consolation from creatures, saints, or devils" (LC I 19–21). Hil: "It is contrary to religion to say that there are two Gods, because we remember and declare that nowhere has it been affirmed that there is more than one God" (NPNF 2 9:19).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:7 set it before. Again in a courtroom setting (see note, 41:1), God orders the devotees of a god "besides" Him (44:6) to act as "witnesses" (v 9) on behalf of their idol. I appointed an ancient people. The Lord has chosen and guided Israel with clear, concrete, historical examples such as the exodus. them. Idolaters.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:8 My witnesses! Contrasted with the witnesses of the idols in v 9. The Lord does concrete historical deeds for Israel that can be seen, but the idols' witnesses can tell of no concrete actions and are put to shame. Rock. See p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:6–8 The Lord calls the idolaters back to court and swears that He alone is God. If you experience fear about bearing witness before others, reread the passage—even commit it to memory. The Lord of hosts is with you when you share the Word. • You are my only refuge, O Redeemer. Love, care for, and strengthen me from first to last, eternal God. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:9–20 Humorous, satirical indictment against idolaters. See p 1335. "What does it mean to have a god? Or, what is God? Answer: A god means that from which we are to expect all good and in which we are to take refuge in all distress. So, to have a God is nothing other than trusting and believing Him with the heart. I have often said that the confidence and faith of the heart alone make both God and an idol. If your faith and trust is right, then your god is also true. On the other hand, if your trust is false and wrong, then you do not have the true God. For these two belong together, faith and God [Hebrews 11:6]. Now, I say that whatever you set your heart on and put your trust in is truly your god" (LC I 1–3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:9 nothing. Cf 40:23. Idol worshipers entrust themselves to a delusion, whereas the Lord is a rock—strong and unmoved in the worst storms of life. witnesses. Because the idols need active creators, their weakness results in silent witnesses.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:11 companions. Associated with manufacturing and veneration of idols. only human. Ironically, the idol, dependent on its craftsman's strength, is supposed to be the source of strength.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:12 ironsmith. Blacksmith. cutting tool. Translated "axe" in Jer 10:3. To make a useless idol, he destroys a useful tool. becomes hungry. If the idol maker himself gets hungry and tired, can he produce something less dependent?

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:13 carpenter. An idol has only the "beauty" of a man and is less than its craftsman. line. Simple string with marks as a tape measure. pencil. Craftsman limits the idol's shape with a mere pencil. planes. With planes and perhaps chisels, he removes the excess wood. compass. For drawing round shapes of the idol. dwell in a house. Likely refers to little niches or shrines that show the idol's limits.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:14 Idols need the care of the carpenter. They are not the true God, who cares for His own people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:15–17 The most sophisticated idol that a man crafts with the tools of his mind is just as ludicrous as a primitive god carved out of wood. Consider modern, sophisticated pantheism, which sees creation as god and commits the same folly.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:15 warms himself … bakes bread. It is preposterous to pray to something made of the same substance that serves as heating and cooking fuel. It can be nothing more than "the figure of a man" (v 13), a likeness and projection of himself, as fallible, unreliable, and impotent as he is.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:18 They. Both the idol and those who make and worship it are blinded. he. Unclear whether the idolater or God is intended. has shut. Lit, "he plastered their eyes [to prevent] seeing." Idols had white plaster eyes with dark eyeballs painted on. See note, 6:10.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:19 abomination? Clearly the craftsmen who build idols and fires with the same wood are left ignorant by their idols. Their folly and abomination are apparent to those who worship the Lord. See note, Pr 6:16.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:20 feeds on ashes. Turns to idols, made of the same substance as ashes, for nourishment and provision. deluded heart. Because the idol itself is a lie, those who worship it also base their lives on lies.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:21–22 these things. These comforting truths: There is only one true God. You are His servant. He has blotted out your transgressions (43:25). He has redeemed you.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:21 My servant. Israel serves a truly powerful God rather than sustaining a weak idol. I formed you. Opposite of idolatry.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:22 blotted out. God silences and removes any testimony of sin against His people. like a cloud. He covers their sins. return to Me. Israel is already redeemed and, therefore, can return. See p 1080. redeemed. See p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:23 Sing, O heavens. Witness of nature called against the people in 1:2 is now called on to rejoice in the grace of the Lord. depths of the earth. Rejoicing will be complete when heaven and earth are also restored (65:17–25; 66:22–23; Rm 8:19–22). redeemed. See p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:24 Redeemer. God begins the definition of Himself first as Redeemer, not Creator or Lord, showing His love to His own people. See note, Jb 19:25. formed you from the womb. God creates

His people with their redemption
in Christ clearly in view. See note, v 2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:25 signs of liars. Pagans sought omens as supernatural backing for their words. diviners. Babylonians were particularly noted for dependence on official diviners and horoscopes. See note, Dt 18:10–11.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:26 His servant … messengers. OT prophets and, ultimately, His Son. What spokesmen proclaim in the name of Him who "made all things" (v 24) and whom the forces of nature obey (v 27) will come true, whereas fortune-telling diviners will prove to be liars (v 25).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:27–28 Promise is strengthened, fulfilling the rebuilding mentioned in 41:2–3, 25. Many attempts have been made to understand how the proper name "Cyrus" could show up in a text written 200 years before the time of Cyrus II, king of Persia (2Ch 36:22–23; Ezr 1:1–3). Some think this proves a later date for the writing of Is, making it written after Cyrus II. Others think a scribe living at the time of Cyrus II inserted the proper name into the eighth-century text. The name itself appears at other times in Persia. In fact, an earlier Cyrus reigned nearer the time of Isaiah (king in Parsua, 646 BC). Attempts to explain away the text fail to understand how important the use of Cyrus's proper name is to the argument of the text itself. This is clearly a prophecy and fulfillment from God. For another example of someone named centuries before his birth, see the prediction of Josiah's reformation in 1Ki 13:1–2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:27 Allusion to the exodus (cf Ex 14). The Lord's people will once again be delivered from slavery.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:28 Cyrus. The Lord shows His unrivaled status among the false gods of Babylon because He is able to predict the proper name of Cyrus before this monarch lived. The Lord can keep His promises and comfort His people Israel. Cyrus II was king of Persia and conquered Babylon in 539 BC. My shepherd. Calling Cyrus a shepherd brings him in line with the leaders of Israel, such as Moses (Ex 3:1) and David (2Sm 7:8). all My purpose. Cyrus was to show the kind of concern and guidance a shepherd provides for his flock. Your foundation shall be laid. Cyrus issued a decree that allowed the Israelites to return to Jerusalem and rebuild the temple.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 44:9–28 The Lord prophesies the restoration of His people, centuries before the events take place. Today, despite the difficulties that beset you, the Lord holds your future securely. In fact, He planned for your future through His beloved Son. • O Redeemer, I entrust all my days to Your care. Fulfill Your purpose for me. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 45 Infinitely merciful and patient, God does not tire to repeat Himself. Again and again He promises to deliver His fallen creatures and goes to great lengths to persuade doubting and fainthearted souls to believe the proclamation of their liberation.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:1 anointed. See note, 1Sm 10:1. right hand. The Lord takes hold of Cyrus's right hand, as He did with Israel. to subdue nations. Familiar Davidic theme (Ps 2:8–12; 110). loose the belts. Figurative. A man "girded up" his loins in preparation for battle and donned his weapon (Ps 45:3). The loosening would remove the weapons and make him unprepared to fight. The kings were to be deprived of power.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:2–3 In 539 BC, when Cyrus surrounded the city of Babylon, the priests of Marduk submitted and declared him to be Marduk's chosen monarch. They then opened the city gates to allow him and his army to enter peacefully. Jesus is the ultimate Anointed One, who opens the gates of hell (Rv 1:18) and sets prisoners free (Jn 8:36).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:4 chosen. See "choose," p 5. I name you. For Israel's comfort, the Lord specifically names Cyrus, who has done nothing to earn his status in the Lord's sight. you do not know Me. Though Cyrus used the Lord's name in his edict and attributed his success to the Lord, Isaiah notes that his words and actions do not stem from genuine faith. See note, Ezr 1:2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:5 See notes, 43:10, 11.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:6 that people may know. God acts to spread the message of salvation throughout the world because He is the only God for all (Mt 28:18–20).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:7 create darkness. Indicates aspect of God that the Vulg translates in v 15 as "the hidden God" (Deus absconditus). In His hiddenness, the Lord brings judgment and destruction; in His revealed state, He ushers in light and life (cf Jn 1:14). well-being and … calamity. The Lord is not the source of evil or the cause of sin. Nothing happens without the Lord's knowledge and permission. He is the cause of well-being. He may inflict retribution, but He may also permit calamity to come through human sinfulness, through Satan, or through the sin-corrupted order of the natural world.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:8 rain down righteousness. God's righteousness is boundless, free, and refreshing. See note, Am 5:24. righteousness. See p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:9 him. Anyone who challenges God's creation and leadership. a pot among earthen pots! All human beings are made from the same dust (Gn 2:7). Does the clay say. The silent clay accepts the potter's shaping as Israel should accept the shaping of God. no handles. Request for improvement.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:10 Child does not question the parent but is thankful for life and birth.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:11 Holy One of Israel. See p 1227. him. Israel. Ask Me. Ambr: "To God the things that are to come are present, and for Him Who foreknows all things, they are as though they were past and over" (NPNF 2 10:217).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:12 host. Innumerable stars, planets, and heavenly bodies.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:13 him. Cyrus. See note, v 1. My exiles. Cf 43:6. not for price or reward. Exiles had nothing to contribute to their emancipation. Their undeserved deliverance envisions the spiritual liberation of all nations held "in chains" (v 14) by Satan's bondage and ransomed "not with … silver or gold, but with the precious blood of Christ" (1Pt 1:18–19). Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:1–13 The Lord rescues Israel through Cyrus, the pagan king of Persia. The Lord uses all creation—even Satan!—to accomplish His good purposes. If the devil and an idolater can come to such notable service, will the Lord not use you to great purpose? He has already purposed your salvation through the blood of Jesus, His Anointed. • Call me to service, O heavenly Potter. I am at Your disposal. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:14 Egypt … Cush … Sabeans. See note, 43:3. you. Israel. come over in chains. Enemies are forced to acknowledge Israel as the chosen people of the only true God. God is in you. Nations come to faith. See note, 19:24–25.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:15 a God who hides Himself. The Lord and His plans are hidden to those who make idols (i.e., wealthy Egyptians in v 14). See note, v 7. Savior. Only those who turn away from idols in repentance and turn to the Lord in faith will be saved. Luth: "These are the words of the prophet, who had already predicted these words of consolation. Now he is snatched into a trance of the Word of God, as if to say, 'Dear God, how strangely You deal with us!' " (AE 17:131).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:16 them. Idolaters.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:17 saved … everlasting salvation. Idols of wood cannot save themselves, but God saves His own eternally. See p 843. you. Israel.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:18 He is God! Prophet interjects expressions or responses of faith while introducing the Lord's message.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:19 not … in secret. Though God determines how He will save His fallen creatures, He proclaims His good and gracious will to carry out His plan "from the beginning" (46:10; cf Ac 3:18, 21). offspring of Jacob. Israel.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:20 survivors of the nations! The Lord calls the nations to a trial to compare their idols to Him (cf 41:22, 26; 43:9).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:21 your case. Idolaters are invited to speak. no other god besides Me. Exclusivity of the Lord dominates this chapter (cf vv 5–6, 14, 18, 21–22).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:22 saved. See "salvation," p 843. all the ends of the earth! Denotes all Gentiles; an invitation for those outside of Israel to be included in the Lord's people of Israel (2:1–5; 66:18–19).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:23 I have sworn. Just as Israel took oaths in God's name, God takes oaths in His name as there is nothing more enduring. See "oath," p 7. every knee shall bow. See "kneel," p 1276.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:24 it shall be said of Me. An aside, explaining how the allegiance mentioned in v 23 would be expressed by all people. righteousness. See p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:25 glory. To praise. See pp 6–7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 45:14–25 The Lord explains that all people will confess Him and will submit in faith or in fear. In times of discouragement or persecution, God seems hidden from us. Yet when Jesus hid His divinity from us while suffering on the cross, He was serving us most decisively. When the Lord seems far away, know that He is near, and confess His glory.
• Draw near, O Lord. Return as You have promised, that we may rejoice in the fullness of salvation. Until then, grant us eyes of faith. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:1 Bel … Nebo. Chief gods in Babylonian pantheon. Bel, equivalent of "Baal" in Hbr and a component in the name

"Belshazzar," is known also as Marduk (Merodach in Jer 50:2). Nebo, his son, appears in the name "Nebuchadnezzar." on beasts and livestock. Idols were carried in procession; however, see note, v 2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:2 Idols were loaded facedown on beasts of burden to be carted off as spoil by victorious invaders of the city. Each of them in effect bows down and stoops in abject submission to the conquerors of Babylon (vv 1–2).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:3–13 In contrast to the idols of Babylon, the Lord carried His people; Israel did not carry Him. Three exodus images are used in these verses: a father carrying his son (Hos 11:1–4), a shepherd carrying his sheep (Ps 28:9), and an eagle carrying its young (Ex 19:4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:3 remnant. See p 1080. borne by Me. As a mother cares for her children, so the Lord cares for Israel. Cf 49:15; 66:13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:4 made … bear … carry … save. Emphasizes God's action in love and redemption. Just as children simply receive life from parents, Israel simply receives salvation from her gracious Savior.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:6 weigh out silver. The Lord mocks the absurdity of worshiping a created idol rather than the true God by laying out the idol's origins (cf 40:18; 44:10–19; 45:20).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:9 former things. See note, 41:22.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:10 Describes God's predictive power, esp the foretelling of Cyrus. See note, 44:27–28.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:11 bird of prey from the east. For Cyrus's rise to power, see note, 41:2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:12 stubborn of heart. In 45:9–10, a woe is pronounced on those who think they can dictate to God how He is to let righteousness prevail.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 46:13 I bring near My righteousness … salvation. Fulfilled in the return from exile, but ultimately by the birth of Jesus, God with us. salvation in Zion. Where the Lord's righteousness and salvation will be displayed (cf Heb 12:22–24). See pp 843–44. My glory. Israel was God's chosen nation. He speaks as a proud father over his son.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 46 The Lord will humble mighty Babylon when He raises up Cyrus the Persian. The power and future of all nations are in God's hands. Pray for your leaders, that they may know the Lord and His ways. However, pray most of all for the return of our Savior-King. • O

Father, I am Your child, over whom You glory. Draw near to me this day in Your mercy. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:1 sit in the dust. Babylon arrogantly assumed that she would be "mistress forever" (v 7), in defiance of the Lord of hosts. virgin daughter. Previously not ravished by hostile invaders. Chaldeans! See note, 13:17. Class of people famous for their wisdom and knowledge (v 10; cf Dn 2:2, 4, 5, 10; 4:7). no more … tender and delicate. No longer privileged, they will be worked as slaves.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:2 grind flour. Task of female slaves (cf Ex 11:5). put off … strip … uncover. Preparing to wade across the river. However, see note, Jb 31:10.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:3 take vengeance. Nations are not autonomous despite superior resources and armaments. God governs the rise and fall of empires.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:4 Redeemer … LORD of hosts … Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:5 mistress of kingdoms. Babylon, the imperial city, ruled over 100 lesser kingdoms by its armies. But no longer would it be the "glory of kingdoms" (13:19). Cf Rv 18 for a similar taunt against Babylon, the NT symbol for all of God's enemies.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:6 angry with My people. The Lord showed His anger by bringing Israel into exile. His anger, though lasting only a moment (cf Ps 30:5), was fully expressed when He destroyed and desecrated His temple (587 BC). Cf Ezk 10. profaned My heritage. Chosen to be God's own possession, a holy nation, the Israelites, at God's direction, became the prey of a profane people because they would not walk in His ways (42:24). See notes, Ex 19:5–6.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:8 lover of pleasures. The daughter (v 1). In Rv, Babylon is the symbol of wickedness (14:8; 18:2–24). I am, and there is no one besides me. Lit, "I and only me alone." Babylon arrogated to herself the claim made repeatedly by God (43:11; 44:6, 8; 46:9). widow … loss of children. Situations of greatest loss for a woman.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:9 loss of children … widowhood. Queenly city would no longer have a king; her population would be destroyed. sorceries … enchantments. Key elements of their religion and culture. See note, v 11.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:10 I am. See note, v 8.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:11 charm. Babylon was known throughout the ancient world for sorceries and enchantments (v 9). These were often performed to avert calamity and/or to foretell it. The means used to accomplish such magic was astrology (cf v 13). Such astrology, though, neither averted calamity nor foretold its coming. charm away … atone. Disaster, like an untamable monster, cannot be placated by magic and incantations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:12 Stand fast. Sarcasm. perhaps you may … terror. They hope to frighten opponents with their elaborate devotion to false gods, which the ignorant would regard as winning the gods' favor.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:13 divide the heavens. Astrology is nothing new. Ancient Babylonians grouped stars into constellations and zodiacal signs for the purpose of casting horoscopes and predicting future events. See note, v 11.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 47:14 they. Babylonians. like stubble. Though they gaze at stars, Babylonians are no more lasting than the dry grass (40:7). No coal … is this. Wooden idols could be burned for warmth, but while still serving as idols, they do not give even this comfort.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 47 The Babylonians regard themselves as uniquely wise and blessed through their astrological devotion, but they will be enslaved and humiliated. If you put your confidence in astrology, horoscopes, incantations, or charms, you will fall too. True wisdom comes from the Lord and His Word. He gives His blessings through the Word and in answer to prayer. • O Lord, You hold my future. Grant me wisdom in making decisions and contentment in the blessings I receive, ever seeking greater opportunity to serve You alone. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:1 house of Jacob. Israel, named for their forefather. waters of Judah. Compares Judah to a source or spring of the people. Isaiah's audience was chiefly from Judah. swear. See note, Ps 63:11. Oaths identify them as former citizens of the Holy City, Jerusalem. See p 7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:2 holy city. Jerusalem, Zion. See p 844. LORD of hosts. See p 1291.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:3 former things. The Lord of hosts is indeed the Lord of history. The former things happened exactly as He declared. Doubters should believe that new things, still hidden, will come. See note, 41:22. I did them. No idol or "carved image" had anything to do with planning and guiding the course of events (vv 3–5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:4 iron sinew … brass. Like animals who refused to be led in the direction their master desired (cf Dt 9:6–13; Ps 75:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:6 You have heard. Israel knew from experience that "former things" (v 3), pronounced by God's prophets long in advance, materialized as foretold. new things. The Israelites should not hesitate to believe. However, they "never heard" the prophets' teachings with penitent hearts but scoffed at them instead (v 8; 5:19; see note, 1Sm 15:20–21).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:8 before birth … a rebel. Jacob, renamed Israel in Gn 32:28. His life was typified by deceit, treachery, and dishonesty (cf Gn 27:1–29; 30:34–43).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:9 For My name's sake. See p 842.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:10 refined. See notes, Mal 3:2, 3. The Lord foretells the Babylonian captivity and return so that Israel will not attribute those events to their idols (v 5). By this, the Lord refines His people for service to His glory. furnace of affliction. The exodus and now the Babylonian captivity.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:11 For My own sake. See p 842. My glory. God would not share His honor with idols.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:1–11 The Lord chastens Israel for stubbornness, indifference, and idolatry, noting that they were corrupt from the beginning. You, too, started life in the corruption of sin, which continues to manifest itself in sins like those of Israel. The Lord's refinement can purge away your sins. As you reflect on your persistent weaknesses, recall also the Lord's patience (vv 9–11) and the mercy announced for you in Christ. • Lord, forgive my obstinacy, and refine my attitude. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:12–16 Three servants are mentioned. The Lord called Israel (v 12); Cyrus, who defeated Babylon (v 14); and the sent One (v 16b).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:12 I am the first, and I am the last. See note, 41:4. Sets the Lord apart from any god, man, or event that would seek to compete with Him.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:13 My right hand. Astrologers foolishly ask the stars what will happen next, while God holds the stars in His hand. See "right hand," p 843. call to them. The Lord arranges and orders the stars and knows all of them by name (Jb 38:31–32; Ps 147:4).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:14 you … them. The nations. loves him. As the Lord "set His love on … and chose" (Dt 7:7) the children of Israel to be "His servant" (Is 48:20), though they did not deserve this distinction (cf Dt

4:37; 7:6–8), so He let Cyrus experience His favor for the purpose of liberating the chosen people (Is 45:1–6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:16 in secret. See note, 45:19. And now. Cyrus is referred to in vv 14–15. In v 16, a new Servant who was sent "to seek and to save the lost" (Lk 19:10) suddenly speaks. Made flesh in the fullness of time (Gal 4:4), the eternal Word (Jn 1:1) has more to say in the opening verses of ch 49 and in 50:4–6. the Lord God has sent Me, and His Spirit. The Servant will be sent, and He, with the Father, will send the Spirit (Jn 14:16–17, 26; 15:26; 16:7).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:17 Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel. See p 1227. teaches you to profit. See note, Ps 1:3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:18 peace … like a river … waves of the sea. Unlike occasional flow of a seasonal stream. Amos employs this same metaphor when he calls Israel to let justice and righteousness flow like a perennial spring (Am 5:24).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:19 like the sand. Abraham, Israel's ancestor and the father of all believers, was promised countless offspring (Gn 13:16; 15:5; 17:5–6; Rm 4:16; 9:6–8; Gal 3:29; see note, Is 44:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:20 Go out from … flee. Complete and permanent severance from "the way of sinners" and "the seat of scoffers" is required (Ps 1:1; cf Rv 18:4–5). redeemed. See p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:21 Referring to the exodus.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 48:12–22 The Lord distinguishes His people from the nations and promises enduring peace through His Servant and His Spirit. This promise was fulfilled for your sake by Jesus of Nazareth (Mt 11:27–30). • Lord Jesus, grant me Your Spirit to sustain me in God's peace. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 49 Listen to Me. The Speaker, unnamed as in 48:16, is the Servant (vv 3, 5–6), who now explains why "the Lord God has sent" Him (see notes, 48:16; 42:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:1 O coastlands. Distant lands to the west, the farthest extent of the known world. called. Chosen or appointed. from the womb. As God's spokesmen (such as Jeremiah, John the Baptist, and Paul) were chosen for their task before they were born (Lk 1:15; Gal 1:15), so the Servant was called and equipped to bring His message of salvation to a worldwide audience before He became incarnate in a virgin's womb. He named My name. Several OT passages speak about the mother or the birth of the Messiah (cf Gn 3:15; Ps 22:10; Is 7:14; Mi 5:2). Jesus was named while still in His mother's womb (Mt 1:21–23).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:2 What they hear has the cutting edge of a sharp sword and hits its mark with the penetrating force of "a polished arrow" (cf Jer 1:10; 23:29). Nothing can blunt these words, for God's hand hides them in His scabbard and quiver. This Servant's weapons come from His mouth, i.e., His words (cf Eph 6:17; Rv 2:12, 16; 19:15).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:3 servant. God redeemed Israel, His disobedient servant, from the Babylonian exile in order to be glorified (60:21; 61:3). Yet if God was to be glorified, He needed a sinless Israelite, a Servant who "according to the flesh" was of the race of Israel (Rm 9:5), yet "separated from sinners" (Heb 7:26). Nothing but the perfect service and obedience God demanded would rescue a world of sinners, including Israel. To the Servant capable of this deliverance, God said: "You are My Son" (Ps 2:7).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:4 labored in vain. Redemption came by way of suffering and agony so intense that the Servant "in the days of His flesh … offered up prayers and supplications, with loud cries and tears" (Heb 5:7). Cf Mt 26:39; 27:46. vanity. The Servant speaks of the seeming ineffectiveness of His work, but nevertheless relies on the Lord for His strength. right … recompense. An angel appeared to assure Him of the justice of His cause and the certainty of recompense (Lk 22:43; see note, Is 40:10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:5 formed Me from the womb. See note, v 1. Jacob back to Him. The One called Israel in v 3 is to bring Israel back to the Lord; this means the Servant is not the nation of Israel, but One representing the nation for its restoration. Similarly, Adam, though one man, is representative of all humanity (cf Rm 5:12; 1Co 15:45). This same "one for all" idea characterizes Jesus. His death, burial, and resurrection are given to the baptized (cf Rm 6:1–10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:6 too light a thing. The Servant is to effect a salvation benefiting not only the "preserved of Israel" but extending "to the end of the earth." a light for the nations. This Servant is to be a light for the nations (Lk 2:30–32; Jn 8:12; 9:5). The nations have a prominent role throughout Is (cf 2:1–5; 11:10; 25:6–9; 40:5; 66:23). salvation. Hbr yeshu'ah, the basis for the name "Jesus" (Mt 1:21).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:7 Redeemer. Stresses the Lord's role as the One who rescues (cf 41:14). See note, Jb 19:25. Holy One. Focuses on the Lord's judgment. See p 1227. despised. He who was to be "a light for the nations" was "abhorred by the nation[s]." But "the darkness has not overcome it" (Jn 1:5; cf 1Jn 5:4). Cf 1Tm 6:15; Is 52:15. prostrate themselves. Even kings and princes will be found among His subjects, humbly falling down before the King of kings and Lord of lords. faithful. Despite the way the world and its rulers have treated the Servant, they will still kneel before Him (52:15; 60:14). Holy One of Israel. See p 1227. chosen. See "choose," p 5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:1–7 Further description of the Servant-Savior is provided by the Lord. The Servant will administer not only the "sword" of God's Law but also the salvation delivered for you through the Gospel. • Shine upon us, O Light for the nations, and extend to all people the promise of salvation. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:8 time of favor. Promises of the Year of Jubilee (cf Lv 25), during which land was returned to its original owners and prisoners were set free (cf Is 61:1; Lk 4:16–21; see p 206). answered. From the eternal heights, God sees the deadly struggle as a thing of the past. You. The Lord's Servant. day of salvation. God's eternal view shows that the time of humiliation has become "a time of favor"; the day of agony has turned into "a day of salvation." See "salvation," p 843. a covenant to the people. See note, Mt 26:28. apportion the desolate heritages. The Servant's suffering was an atoning sacrifice (53:5–6), and so by His victory God extended favor and salvation to the people of Israel and to all prisoners (v 9) held by Satan in the dungeon of sin and death (cf ch 42). See "portion," p 7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:9 prisoners. Captives will be restored to their homelands and given new lands.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:10 Quoted in Rv 7:16–17 as a picture of heaven. not hunger or thirst. Restoration to God's favor by the Servant is portrayed in terms of physical safety and satisfaction of bodily needs (see note, 40:11). He who has pity. The Servant will guide them as a shepherd.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:11 highways … raised. Cf 35:8; 40:3–4; 62:10.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:12 land of Syene. Modern Aswan, on the first cataract of the Nile. However, the meaning of Hbr sinim, occurring only here, is not certain. When Judah was exiled by the Babylonians, people were scattered across the ancient Near East, even as far as Egypt (cf Jer 42–43). The Lord promises to gather His people from the four corners of the earth (cf Dt 30:4; Jer 31:8, 10; Mt 24:31). See map, p 717.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:13 Sing … singing! Song boasts not of Israel's achievements but of the fulfillment of God's promises to His people (other songs in Is include ch 12; 24:16; 25:1; 54:1; cf 30:29). See p 993. has comforted … will have compassion. Also used in texts that look back and move the prophecy forward (cf 12:1; 61:2).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:14 Deliverance of Israel and the nations, described as a certain reality (vv 1–13), is now viewed from the human standpoint of a promise to be believed (vv 14–26). The Lord pleads for faith in His tireless love and limitless power. See "Zion," p 844.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:15 I will not forget you. Even if the unthinkable happened, like a mother forgetting her child, God will never forget His own.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:16 engraved you on the palms of My hands. It was normal practice that an owner's name be engraved on his slaves; it is reversed here to show how far the Lord will go to remind Israel of His love. walls. Though Jerusalem's walls may be torn down, they are always in God's view.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:17 builders make haste. See ESV note. Picture is of a rebuilt Zion, a reinhabited Jerusalem. In 48:20–21, Israel streams back to Jerusalem. destroyers. Those returning will displace the former invaders who destroyed Jerusalem.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:18 they all gather. The "builders" (or "children") of v 17. ornament … as a bride. The ransomed, coming from all directions of the compass, adorn Zion as jewels on a bride's gown. As a bride treats her wedding dress, so should Israel treat the nations who believe in the Lord.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:19 too narrow. Zion, seemingly "bereaved and barren" (v 21), will become the mother of offspring so unexpectedly numerous as to overcrowd the once "devastated land." However, Israel's restored population previews a spiritual commonwealth, the people ransomed by the Servant's blood and spread across every national boundary. See notes, 1:27; 48:19; cf 54:1–3; Gal 4:26; Rv 5:9–10. those who swallowed. Former Babylonian captors will be distant and forgotten.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:20 children of your bereavement. Throughout the ancient world, a woman who bore many children was treasured by her husband. The reasoning was influenced by basic issues of survival (Ps 127:3–5) and economy. It was a deep disappointment if a wife had no children (e.g., Sarah, Leah, Rachel, Hannah; cf Gn 29:31; 1Sm 1:6; Is 54:6). Isaiah refers frequently to the theme of childbirth and barrenness (7:14; 8:3; 9:6; 26:16–18; 29:23; 37:3; 44:3–5; 45:10–11; 47:8; 49:21; 54:1–3; 66:9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:21 borne me these? Sudden increase amazes Israel in light of her former barren state.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:22 lift up My hand … signal. The Lord needs but to give a signal to the nations and their rulers to secure their readiness to promote the welfare of His sons and daughters (see note, 5:26; cf 18:3; 62:10). bring. The nations will not merely allow the captives to return but will bring them.
Cf 40:11.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:23 Kings … queens. Even the nobles of their former oppressors will serve them. lick the dust. Act of extreme humility. See note, Gn 3:14. wait for Me. While all this is desperately desired, there is still a time of patient waiting to come.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:24–25 Seems impossible that the weak should escape from the strong, yet the Lord will demonstrate His greater strength by delivering His own.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:26 eat their own flesh. Opposition to God's people is self-destructive (cf Jgs 7:22; Rv 16:4–7). Savior. His saving of His people will come by having Israel's enemies destroy themselves. Redeemer. The Lord is both Judge and Redeemer; faith is His gift that brings salvation (cf Heb 11:31 on Rahab's faith). Mighty One. The mighty of this earth are no match for the Mighty One of Jacob (cf Is 1:24). See p 1227.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 49:8–26 Isaiah prophesies Israel's return and prosperity in contrast with the humiliation of the oppressors. Today, regard your sins with appropriate shame, but likewise see that the Lord, your Savior, has redeemed you. He will not forget you (v 15). He longs to restore you and your family. • Dearest Jesus, the memorials of my salvation are graven on Your palms. Show them to all as a sign of Your mercy and forgiveness toward me and all sinners. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 50 As in ch 49, the Lord exhorts His doubting and despairing people to believe His promises of deliverance. Though the Servant is not expressly named, He again appears in His role as Redeemer of Israel and of the nations (cf ch 49), speaking of His mission in the timeless expressions of prophecy. Israel's liberation from the Babylonian exile and repatriation in its homeland continue to be in the forefront of Isaiah's vision, but they become tokens of all people's salvation from the curse of sin, and pledge the restoration of all nations. Ch 50 makes unique contributions to this theme. The exiles, though punished and sent away for their iniquities and transgressions, are not like a woman irrevocably divorced from her husband. Nor are they like children whom a father sold into slavery to pay his creditors. The gracious and omnipotent God agrees to renew the bonds broken by infidelity and disobedience. The chapter can be summarized as follows: behold, sinners need not despair; behold, their sins are atoned for; behold, it is dangerous to refuse forgiveness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:1 certificate of divorce. Cf Mt 5:31; 19:7. Prophets often compare sin to marital unfaithfulness (Is 54:4–8; Ezk 16; see "Gomer," p 1428). creditors. God asks Israel if they seriously believe the impossible, namely, that He would need to sell Israel to pay what he owed to some overbearing creditor. you were sold. Cf Ne 5:1–5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:2–3 The Lord can empty the seas and rivers, though their flow and limits seem constant. Israel is to have no doubt over His power to turn the course of nations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:2 no man. By means of Cyrus's decree in 538 BC (cf Ezr 1), the Lord began to recall His people, but many did not return home (cf Ezr 2). Many in Babylon preferred to remain there, despite the prophecy in Is 48:20. hand shortened. Those who had made Babylon their home feared that the Lord would not be able to do what He had promised, that is, give them hope and a future (cf Jer 29:11) and rebuild Jerusalem. the sea … a desert. The Lord reminds Israel of the exodus events: drying up the Red Sea, turning the Nile to blood and killing its fish, bringing darkness upon Egypt (Ex 10:21), and giving Israel light (Ex 10:23). If He did it once, He can do it again (cf Is 43:18–19).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:4 Me. The Servant, identified by title in 42:1; 49:6. tongue of those who are taught. The Servant is the most excellent disciple because He listens before He speaks. "To listen" is to epitomize Israel's response to the Lord (cf Dt 6:4). him. One in exile. awakens My ear. While rebellious Israel turned a deaf ear to God, the Servant would "speak just as the Father taught" Him (Jn 8:27–29). Therefore, a word from Him sufficed to sustain the weary.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:5 Because the Servant is listening, it follows that He cannot be rebellious. This description sets Him apart from all other servants, prophets, or leaders of Israel, as everyone else had times in which they turned their back on the Lord (e.g., Ex 4:13; Jer 20:9, 14; Jnh 1:3). Only one Servant could truly claim such obedience to the Lord (cf Jn 8:29).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:6 gave My back … those who strike. The Servant is abused by others as Jesus was in His Passion. beard. This detail of Jesus' appearance, commonly depicted by artists, occurs only here. Pulling out of a beard showed contempt and disrespect for the person (cf 2Sm 10:4–5; Ne 13:25).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:7 not been disgraced. Even death is not a disgrace for the Servant, who places His life in the Lord's hands. face like a flint. Jesus "set His face" when he resolutely set out for Jerusalem (Lk 9:51). See Jesus' determination to fulfill everything written by the prophets (Lk 18:31; 24:44).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:9 declare Me guilty? Charged with the sins of the world, yet vindicated and acquitted when He was raised from the dead, He "is at the right hand of God," defending the innocence credited to all who appeal to Him for justification (Rm 8:31–34). Behold, all of them … eat them up. The Servant's enemies will be as fragile and vulnerable as cloth, which even a tiny moth can destroy.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:10 His servant? Note how the Servant and the Lord are set parallel to each other. Fear and obedience are due to both. trust in the name. See "name," p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 50:11 Those who try to "walk by the light" of their own fire, the do-it-yourself way of spirituality, will eventually have their lights extinguished. Only those who depend on the Lord will have the true light.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 50 The Lord contrasts His Servant's humility and obedience with Israel's rebelliousness. The Servant's obedience and suffering atoned for your sins and the sins of all the world. Walk in the light of His Word. In Him there is no disgrace. • Awaken my ear, O Jesus. Rouse me each day to fear, love, and trust my Lord. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 51 We may think that God has spoken enough words of comfort through His prophet (40:1; 49:13). However, God knows how "slow of heart to believe" (Lk 24:25) those are "who seek the LORD" (Is 51:1), even those whom He calls "My people" (v 4) and who "know righteousness" (v 7). Therefore, in this chapter He again pleads for faith in His power to redeem. Four times He calls them to listen to Him (vv 1, 4, 7, 21). He makes the invitation attractive by variations on the theme.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:1 pursue righteousness. In contrast to those who trust in themselves and their do-it-yourself spirituality (50:11). See "righteousness," p 843. seek the LORD. See p 843. rock … quarry. Israel did not create itself. It came into being like stones hewn and dug from a rock vein in a quarry.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:2 but one. Abraham, "as good as dead," became many when "by faith Sarah … received power to conceive" (Rm 4:19; Heb 11:11–12; cf Ac 7:5). called. Chosen by God. bless. The barrenness of Israel's three matriarchs, Sarah (Gn 11:30), Rebekah (Gn 25:21), and Rachel (Gn 29:31), highlight the fact that the Lord chooses the weak things of the world to shame the strong (1Co 1:27–28).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:3 Zion. Envisioned as both place and person (60:14; ch 62). See p 844. comforts all her waste places. Other promises of paradise restored are in 4:2; 32:15; 35:1–2; 61:3–4; 65:21–22 (cf Rv 21–22). Eden. More than merely returning to Jerusalem of the past, the restoration will be like the perfection of Eden. Israel will be once again a well-tended garden (cf Is 5:1–2).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:4–5 Cf 42:1–4; 49:6. The Lord will send His Servant to bestow these gifts. The Lord comes to His waiting people, not the other way around. Note the terms set parallel here: "law," "justice," "light," "righteousness," "salvation," and "My arms."

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:4 ✠ law. See p 971. light to the peoples. God's Word and restoration are not restricted to Israel but will touch a wide range of nations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:5 He will powerfully divide the righteous from the wicked (cf Mt 25:31–46). My arms. See p 842.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:6 vanish … wear out … die. Neither creation nor the enemies of God's people are eternal. The material world is transitory, but the Word of the Lord "will not pass away" (Mt 24:35; cf Mt 5:18). forever. Contrast is similar to that in Is 40:6–8. The salvation and righteousness of the Lord will never fail. righteousness. See p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:7 know righteousness. They were not only informed how and why they were to be right with God, but this law or teaching was also in their heart, motivating and shaping their lives. the people … My law. While all people have the Law written in their hearts, not all recognize its presence and the God who wrote it. man … their. Hbr 'enosh (singular), often used for all humankind in poetry.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:8 moth … worm. See note, 50:9. forever. See note, v 6.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:9 Awake. It appears to those crying that the Lord is asleep, insensitive to their calling. See note, Ps 7:6. arm of the LORD. A cry to the Lord to act with His strong arm. It is a cry of faith that He can and will act as He did before. See p 842. days of old. Refers primarily to the exodus. Rahab. Egypt. dragon? Pharaoh.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:10 sea. Red Sea, which the Lord parted for the Israelites.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:11 ransomed … shall return. Answer to the prayer of "the redeemed" (v 9–10) comes "while they are yet speaking" (65:24). Verse is almost identical with 35:10. See "redeem," p 843. Zion. See p 844. upon their heads. Both blessings and blame were bestowed on the head with the laying on of hands (cf Gn 48:14–20; 49:26; Lv 16:21–22; Ezk 9:10; Jsh 10:24). The head (and face) identified an individual. The faces of the redeemed would express the joy they received.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:12 I, I. See notes, 43:11, 25. comforts. See p 1079.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:13 the LORD, your Maker. While God is the merciful comforter, Israel should remember that He is also the almighty Maker, their Lord far above them. oppressor. E.g., Babylon.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:14 the pit. Prisoners will not die in an oppressive dungeon. his bread. Even hunger will be satisfied.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:15 stirs up the sea. Image emphasizes distinction proposed in vv 10–11 (cf Jb 26:12; Ps 107:25). LORD of hosts. See p 1291.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:16 My words in your mouth. In 49:2, the Servant's "mouth" is "made … like a sharp sword" as God's spokesman. He is also promised divine protection. Both the Servant-Redeemer and Israel, the servant to be redeemed, play a part in God's plan of salvation. Both are given the title "servant." See note, 48:12–16. God redeemed and preserved Israel so that the Servant could say, "Salvation is from the Jews" (Jn 4:22). covered you. As a wall of protection. establishing … the earth. Cf 65:17–25.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:17 stand up. People of Israel had called out to the Lord in vv 9–11, but now the Lord turns the tables. It was not He who was sleeping but they. cup of His wrath. The devastating effects and injuries that came with drunkenness (Pr 23:29–35) illustrated the devastating effects of God's wrath. The cup from the Lord was too much for them to bear (29:9; 63:6; Ps 75:8; Lm 4:21; Ezk 23:32–34; Ob 16; Hab 2:16; Rv 14:10), causing their sons to faint or fall down drunk. dregs. Sediment of the grapes, which settles to the bottom of the container. Cup of God's wrath will give them their fill of idolatrous self-destruction. bowl. Hbr term appears on a bronze Phoenician bowl, discovered at Megiddo. This Phoenician drinking bowl was associated with a Marzeah feast (cf Am 6:3–6) in honor of Melqart (Phoenician god) and Shamash (Babylonian god).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:18 her. Jerusalem. none to take her by the hand. Leaders of Jerusalem were gone (3:1–12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:19 two things. Described by the following words. devastation and destruction, famine and sword. First pair (abstract) is explained by second pair (concrete).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:20 fainted. Drunk on God's wrath (v 17). antelope in a net. Noble, wary antelope, though nearly impossible to shoot or chase down with horses, could be fooled by snares.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:21–22 drunk, but not with wine. See note, v 17.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 51:23 tormentors. Babylonians. your back like the ground. Conquerors stepped over the prostrate bodies of their victims and the humiliated prisoners who had to bow.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 51 The Lord pleads for the people to believe in His salvation and describes the misery of living under His wrath. Unrepentance lulls us into spiritual sloth, so that we do not discern the Lord's purposes in view of His Word. Wake up and listen! The Redeemer calls daily, and His mercies are new each morning. • Draw near, O Lord, and remove the cup of wrath from my hand. Replace it with the new cup of Christ's blood. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:1 Awake, awake. Asked by fainthearted saints to "awake" from apparent unconcern for His people (51:9), the Lord again directs them to rouse themselves from the stupor of despair (51:17) and to awake from the nightmare of hopelessness. put on your strength. People are identified by their clothing, which signifies their relationships to others and the character of their calling (e.g., priestly garments, armor). Zion. See p 844. beautiful garments. Priestly garments. This reassures Israel that they can go back to communing with their God. uncircumcised … unclean. Babylonian conquerors did not observe the rites provided by God in His covenant with Israel.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:2 from the dust. Instead of sitting in the dust like Babylon (47:1), Zion may rise from it. seated. Settled in Jerusalem. bonds from your neck. Captives were sometimes bound together at the neck.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:3 for nothing. This thought, repeated in vv 4–5, underscores God's sovereign control of history and the unmerited goodness of His redemption. When He "sold" them (50:1), their masters had no permanent claim to their prey. redeemed without money. Persian ruler Cyrus would send the exiles home. Israel would be redeemed through the sacrifice of the Servant (52:13–53:12), ultimately fulfilled through the sacrifice of Jesus (1Pt 1:18–19).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:4 Assyrian. Destroyed and exiled the 10 tribes of the Northern Kingdom in 722 BC (2Ki 17). for nothing. Without discernible guilt. See note, v 3.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:5 here. In Babylon, the scene of Israel's disgrace. wail … My name is despised. Leaders cry out but fail to call on the Lord for help.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:6 My name. Not only the appellation "LORD" but what the great "I AM" did and said to reveal Himself. See notes, Ex 3:14; 6:3. here am I. To know that name is to acknowledge and accept the way of salvation revealed by Him. See "name," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:7 How beautiful. St Paul quotes from this verse to show the necessity of proclaiming the Gospel if it is to be of any benefit (Rm 10:15). publishes. Hbr shama', "to hear" or "to cause to hear." Israel's creed was such an announcement (Dt 6:4–9). Your God reigns. The fall of Israel's enemies brings words of good news.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:8 watchmen. Prophets (Ezk 33:1–9; Hab 2:1–4). eye to eye. As clearly as when a person looks squarely into the eyes of another (cf Nu 14:14). return. See p 1080.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:9 comforted … redeemed. See pp 1079, 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:10 bared His holy arm. The power of the Lord is terrifying for impenitent sinners but joy for those declared holy in His sight (cf 6:5; 33:17, 22; Ex 24:9–11; 1Co 13:12; 1Jn 3:2; Rv 22:4). See "arm," p 842. all the nations. Also called "all flesh" (40:5; 49:26; 66:16, 24).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:11 there. Babylon. unclean thing. Levitical institutions are back in effect (Nu 1:50–53). you. Levites. vessels. Cyrus permitted the exiles to take with them "the vessels of the house of the LORD that Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from Jerusalem" (Ezr 1:7).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:12 not … in haste. Return from the Babylonian exile, recalling the deliverance from Egypt, was quite different in many ways (Dt 16:3). flight. Israel may leave Babylon in peace, so secure is their salvation. rear guard. Instead of the Levites being the front and rear guard of the holy vessels, the Lord Himself will do this, just as He did with the pillar of cloud and fire in the exodus (Ex 14:19–20).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:1–12 Final announcement that the exiles will return home in safety to serve the Lord. When the Lord calls and equips you for service, loose your bonds of fear and doubt. God's gifts and calling will suffice for you, and He will protect you. • Lead me forth, O Lord. Block my retreat from Your calling, for You reign on my behalf. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:13–53:12 Here believers stand on "holy ground" (Ex 3:5) and in the Most Holy Place of salvation's temple. This "vision of Isaiah" (Is 1:1) says what believers feel when, in spirit, they stand at the foot of Golgotha's cross: penitent sorrow for their part in wounding Jesus, the "man of sorrows" (53:3); humble gratitude that "the LORD has laid on Him the iniquity" (53:6) for which they should have endured the torments of hell.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:13 Begins the last of Isaiah's four Servant Songs (42:1–9; 49:1–13; 50:4–11; 52:13–53:12) and is parallel with 53:12—in this way the Servant's "exaltation" is at the beginning and end of His ministry. Paul equates this with Christ's preincarnate state of being God (Php 2:6) as well as his final state at His second coming, when "every tongue [shall] confess that Jesus Christ is Lord" (Php 2:11; cf Ac 2:33; 3:13; Eph 1:20–23). Luth: "Here we begin chapter 53. Until now you have heard Christ's kingdom depicted in the cross and that it is carried forward by faith and the Word alone. Yet that leading of faith, the Word, and the cross is not without deliverance and protection. In this chapter the prophet speaks primarily of the Head of the Kingdom as he treats of the person of the King and the manner of His deliverance. This is the foremost passage on the suffering and resurrection of Christ, and there is hardly another like it. Therefore we must memorize this passage. . . . This is what the text says: This King will be glorious, but after His death. This indicates that this King is different from an ordinary one, since He will begin His reign after death" (AE 17:215).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:14 The Suffering Servant is so disfigured and marred that His identity as a human is questioned.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:15 sprinkle. Can also be read as "startle" (see ESV note), so the thought of amazement may continue from v 14. that which … they see … understand. Prophecy that the nations will see and understand the report (53:2–11) and divine declaration (53:12) that follows, describing God's work through the Servant's suffering.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:1 heard from us? Over the centuries, the prophets announced the coming salvation, but here the character of God's work of salvation is revealed in shocking detail, continuing the theme of astonishment (52:14). Just: "The words are spoken as if announcing events which had already come to pass" (ANF 1:256). Bern: "Oh! that they would be wise and understand. But except they believe they shall not understand" (SLSB, p 158). arm of the LORD. A mystery why God's arm would appear weak and allow the injury of His own Servant. Cf 40:10; 63:12; see "arm," p 842.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:2 He grew up. Judged by human standards, the Servant appeared to be the most unlikely agent of a heavenly mission, despised by men as He was. young plant … root … dry ground. Not a sturdy, deeply rooted tree, but a weak sapling. God let His Son grow up in vulnerable human flesh. The Servant was indeed a shoot from the root of Jesse (11:10). However, the outward kingdom of David's house had been cut down, and in the "dry ground" of the Roman Empire, there was no prospect of its revival. no form or majesty. He could not show the fullness of His majesty, for then He might be honored and spared the crucifixion. no beauty. Not that the Servant was ugly, but He appeared common.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:3 despised and rejected. Betrayed even by His friends. See note, Ps 41:9. a man of sorrows. Not His alone, but the sorrows and condemnation of all people. His griefs, sorrows, and stripes are not "the due reward" of His deeds, for "this man has done nothing wrong" (Lk 23:41). hide their faces. None could bear to see His sorrow or their own guilt reflected in His pain. we esteemed Him not. The disciples learned that Jesus was the Messiah (Mt 16:16), but they fled from the horror of His arrest and the cross, which convinced them He was not the Messiah (Lk 24:18–21).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:4 our griefs. Illness and disease are the consequences of sin, which Jesus bore (1Pt 2:24). smitten by God. Irony is that Israel considered this Servant as stricken by God, but initially failed to realize that His suffering was not for His sins but for the sins of the people. He was not wounded for His transgressions or crushed for His iniquities but for everyone else's. Ambr: "Not Your wounds, but mine, hurt You, Lord Jesus; not Your death, but our weakness … and we, Lord, esteemed You afflicted, when You grieved not for Yourself, but for me" (NPNF 2 10:230).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:5 Several connections to Day of Atonement in vv 4–6, esp the idea of substitutionary atonement (cf Lv 16:21–22).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:6 We raced from God in rebellion, yet God placed our guilt on the only One who stayed beside Him, the Servant. One innocent Lamb remained, and that Lamb of God received the punishment of the flock that fled.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:7 He opened not His mouth. He could not fully identify Himself, lest they should save Him from death. He was also silent concerning our sins, which caused His death. like a lamb. John the Baptist called Him "the Lamb of God" (Jn 1:29, 36). Cf 1Pt 1:18–19; Rv 5:6, 8, 12. Just: "As the blood of the passover saved those who were in Egypt, so also the blood of Christ will deliver from death those who have believed" (ANF 1:254).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:8 His generation. Shockingly, no one from His own generation understood what was going on. The incarnation of Christ was and remains a mystery. Hil: "Penetrate into the mystery, plunge into the darkness which shrouds that birth, where you will be alone with God the Unbegotten and God the Only-begotten. Make your start, continue, persevere. I know that you will not reach the goal, but I shall rejoice at your progress. For He who devoutly treads an endless road, though he reach no conclusion, will profit by his exertions. Reason will fail for want of words, but when it comes to a stand it will be the better for the effort made" (NPNF 2 9:55; see also p 58). land of the living. In contrast to Sheol. See p 792.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:9 His grave with the wicked. He died with the wicked, though only a thief recognized His royalty at His death (Lk 23:32, 40–43). rich man. He was buried in a rich man's tomb (Jn 19:38–42). no deceit. He told no lies, but confessed plainly who He was before His accusers (Mk 14:62).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:10 the will of the LORD. Jesus' suffering and death were part of God's plan before the creation of the world (cf Ac 2:23; Eph 1:3–10; 1Pt 1:20; Rv 13:8b). an offering for guilt. One word in Hbr, translated “guilt offering” in Lv 5:15–16. Its purpose in the ritual was to make restitution for the wrong done, thus to satisfy the demand for holiness. “Isaiah interprets the Law, so that we may know Christ’s death is truly a satisfaction for our sins, or remedy, and that the ceremonies of the Law are not. He says, ‘When his soul makes an offering for sin, he shall see his offspring,’ and so on (Isaiah 53:10). The word used here means a victim for transgression (asham). In the Law this illustrated that a certain Victim was to come to make satisfaction for our sins and reconcile God. This was so that people might know that God wishes to be reconciled to us, not because of our own righteousnesses, but because of another’s merits: Christ” (Ap XXIV 23). His offspring. His disciples and all believers would be God’s children (Jn 1:10–13), the new Israel (Gal 6:15–16). prosper. Because the Servant paid the full penalty incurred by the sin of the world, His days did not end in death. By dying and rising again, He became the source of life to spiritual offspring without number (1Pt 1:3–4, 23; 1Jn 5:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:11 He shall see. Isaiah again takes up the recurring theme of “seeing” and “knowing or understanding” (see note, 52:15). In contrast to Israel (42:18–19), this Servant sees and knows. The Servant knew and did the will of God so perfectly that, for the sake of His obedience, disobedient humanity is entitled to be accounted righteous (Jn 17:19, 25). It is also true that by knowing and receiving the Servant, sinners are justified in God’s sight (Lk 1:77; Jn 17:3; 2Co 4:6). “What is Christ’s knowledge unless it means to know Christ’s benefits, the promises He has scattered throughout the world by the Gospel? To know these benefits is properly and truly to believe in Christ, to believe that He will certainly fulfill what God has promised for Christ’s sake” (Ap IV 101). righteous one … accounted righteous. See p 843. The Servant justifies many. In this case, “many” is the opposite of “none”; best understood as “all” in this context. The “many” is a theme of Jesus (cf Mt 26:28; Mk 10:45). In these cases, “many” also refers to all, for “in Christ God was reconciling the world to Himself” (2Co 5:19; cf 1Jn 2:2).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 53:12 I. The Lord pledges to honor the Servant’s sacrifice. divide Him a portion. See “portion,” p 7. many … strong. See ESV notes. poured out. Not the typical term for handling the blood of a sacrifice, though comparable to that term’s use in Ps 22:14. Hbr term here describes laying something “bare” or “empty,” exposing it. soul. Hbr nephesh, also translated “life.” During sacrifice, the victim’s blood/life was laid bare, or emptied out, in the act of atonement. intercession. Hanging between two thieves and praying for those who crucified Him, Jesus was at the same time making atonement for all people. See "atonement," pp 5; see also p 2117.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 52:13–53:12 In this final Servant Song, the Lord sacrifices the innocent Servant for the sake of ignorant, rebellious transgressors, making atonement for them. Commit this passage to heart. Few places in Scripture describe God's surpassing mercy for you in so touching a manner. • "What wondrous love is this, O my soul, O my soul! What wondrous love is this, O my soul! What wondrous love is this That caused the Lord of bliss To bear the dreadful curse for my soul, for my soul, To bear the dreadful curse for my soul!" Amen. (LSB 543:1)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 54 The Servant's sacrifice of atonement (ch 53) opened the way for sons and daughters of Adam to become "servants of the LORD" (54:17). Redeemed, forgiven, and accounted righteous by virtue of the Servant's sacrifice for their sins, they are designated "His offspring" (53:10). They partake of His life when they are "born again … through the living and abiding word of God" (1Pt 1:23). Members of the same family, they form a community composed of "the nations" (Is 54:3). Ch 54 is a call to believe in the rebirth of Israel so that through Israel "all the families of the earth shall be blessed" (Gn 12:3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:1–3 Giving birth to several children after once being barren is cause for rejoicing (cf Gn 16:1, 4–5; 30:22–24; 1Sm 1:2, 5–6, 11; Lk 1:24–25). Just as from Sarah's barren womb the Lord built a great nation (Gn 12:2) that outnumbered the descendants of Hagar ("the desolate one," Is 54:1), so the offspring of the Servant (cf 53:10) will be many. The nation will again occupy the land as during the conquest of Joshua.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:1 barren one. As Sarah, childless until age 90, did not expect to give birth to an heir (Gn 17:17), so there was no prospect, according to human reason, for Jerusalem to become alive with citizens. her who is married. See God's "divorce" with the Northern Kingdom (Is 50:1) and His renewed relationship with His people (54:4–8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:2 Enlarge the place of your tent. The descendants will overflow the boundaries of their native land. lengthen your cords. Cords held up tents, which could be spread more broadly to encompass more space.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:3 possess the nations. Not by political or military subjugation, but by a conquest of people's hearts and minds (cf 49:7; 66:23; Gn 22:17–18; Mt 5:5). Luth: "We reign by the Word. Where the Word is preached, there we reign" (AE 17:235).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:4 shame of your youth. The humiliation of Egyptian slavery when Israel first became a nation (cf Jsh 5:9). widowhood. The Babylonian exile was her widowhood, since she, now mature, bore the reproach of a childless woman (cf Gn 30:1; 1Sm 1:5). See note, Ps 94:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:5 God is compared to a husband and Israel to His wife. Though He had deserted her for a time because of her unfaithfulness, He gathers her again "with great compassion" (v 7). Cf 1:21–31; 62:4–5; Ezk 16; 23; Hos 2:7–23; Rv 21:9. There never will be a time when she will have to bear the reproach of being a childless widow, for her husband, who is also her Maker, will care for her with compassion and "everlasting love" (v 8). husband … Lord of hosts … Holy One … Redeemer ... God of the whole earth. See p 1227. Poetic parallels exist with God being identified as husband and Redeemer in lines 1 and 3, and "Lord of hosts" and "God of the whole earth" in lines 2 and 4.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:6–7 called you. See "choose," p 5. cast off. The anger and judgment are but for a moment (cf Ps 30:5), just as in 61:2 "the day of vengeance" is compared to "the year of the Lord's favor." God's alien work of judgment gives way to His proper work of salvation; He is "slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love" (Ex 34:6; cf Ps 145:8; Jl 2:13; Jnh 4:2). brief moment. The wrath she deserved will be shortened. As the Lord kept His oath not to send another flood to destroy the earth (Gn 9:8–17), so His steadfast love will not fail to put into effect the "covenant of peace" mediated by the Servant (vv 9–10; cf 42:6; 49:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:8 overflowing anger. Momentary outburst of anger rather than an endless outpouring of wrath, the full wages of sin. hid My face. God's anger was like the thunderclouds briefly hiding the sun. See note, 64:7. your Redeemer. See note, Jb 19:25.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:9–10 The umbrella of this "covenant of peace" is extended to non-Israelites. The Lord's call to all nations is a recurring theme throughout Is (e.g., 2:1–5; 11:10; 40:5; 42:6; 49:6; 53:12; 60:1–3).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:9 days of Noah. The flood was a reversal of creation, destroying human and animal life, covering the plants and mountains, so that the earth returned to the watery chaos that existed before the second day of creation. Noah becomes, as it were, another Adam. I have sworn … not rebuke you. After the flood, the Lord made an everlasting covenant with Noah and his descendants (Gn 9:9–11). See "vow," p 7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:10 mountains may depart. Unlike the world, God's promises are permanent (cf 51:6; Ps 89:33–34; Mt 24:35). steadfast love. See p 843. covenant of peace. Promised to Noah (Gn 8:20–9:17). compassion. See "mercy," pp 842–43.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:11–12 afflicted one. Jerusalem. antimony. Mineral used by jewelers or master masons to garnish stones. The Hbr word is the same word used for mascara or eye "paint" in 2Ki 9:30 and Jer 4:30; it could refer to the black mortar used to showcase beautiful stones in a wall. sapphires … wall of precious stones. With reference to precious stones, the Lord promises that He will build for Israel a lavish and secure new city (cf Heb 11:16; Rv 21–22). pinnacles of agate. Even tall buildings are bejeweled. carbuncles. Rubies or crystal.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:13 Jesus quotes this verse to characterize those who become His disciples. On the new discipleship, see note, 2:3. Luth: "All the wisdoms of the world speak of things that are evident. Contrary to reason, Christianity teaches concerning things that are not evident, and therefore reason collapses and is offended. Therefore all who adhered to this teaching were taught not by their own powers but by way of a gift from heaven. . . . Since the church is on earth, there is need of the Word. The spoken Word is needed to produce and to keep children. taught by the LORD. By the Spirit of God. Both must be there. Mother church bears her children through the Word [1Co 4:15; Gal 4:19; 1Co 3:6]. . . . Everywhere in Scripture the Word and its teachers are commended. The children of the church have to hear by means of the Word and come to faith through the work of God. The Word is from the mother [the Church], the Spirit from the Father. The voice gathers us into the church, and the Spirit unites us with God. Thus a son of the church hears the Word and is a disciple of God" (AE 17:243–44).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:15 Antagonism against the Messiah's rule does not originate with God. Efforts to destroy what He has built cannot succeed (41:11–16). fall. Suffer defeat.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:16 smith … produces a weapon. Each person who builds something designed to destroy is dependent on the Creator for each new heartbeat. Cf 10:5, 12 for God's use and control of godless powers as "the rod" of His anger. created the ravager. As the Lord used Assyria in the eighth century BC, so He would use Babylon in the sixth century BC. Israel is not completely destroyed; a remnant always remains (cf 28:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 54:17 confute. As no one can challenge the Servant of 50:8–9, so here none can refute His people. heritage. Reputation. See "portion," p 7. vindication. God dismisses all who would accuse His people (Rm 8:33–34).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 54 Although the Lord cast off Israel because of their sin, they will henceforth enjoy His vindication and everlasting love. As it was in the days of Noah, a flood of judgment awaits those who do not turn from their sins of shame and disgrace. But just as the Lord faithfully gathered Noah's family to safety on the ark, so will the Lord gather those whom He has redeemed in Jesus. Because of our Lord's great compassion, He will never desert us. • Heavenly Father, let the mighty mountains and hills of this world always remind us of Your steadfast love for us. Enlarge our faith in You, especially when we face affliction. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:1 In the OT, longing for God and His wisdom is often associated with longing for water and food (cf Ps 36:8; Pr 18:4; Jer 2:13; for more on wisdom, see pp 775–78). Come. Repeated cry to come mimics the sounds of the marketplace, where the staples of life—water, bread, milk, wine—could be bought. Attendance at salvation's banquet, prepared by the Servant (see p 1178), is not restricted to the socially and financially elite. As a town crier, God broadcasts the invitation: "Come, for everything is now ready" (Lk 14:17). No one is forced to obey the summons. However, those who disregard it must reckon with the possibility that they have heard it for the last time (Is 49:8; Jn 12:35; 2Co 6:2). waters. Though readily available in many parts of the world, water was most precious in dry Israel. no money … buy. This merchant offers staples at no cost, because the Suffering Servant has already paid the price (cf Is 53:11–12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:2 not bread. Describes false teaching. Also, mere bread, and water drawn even from Jacob's well, cannot satisfy our spiritual needs (Dt 8:3; Ps 42:1–2; 63:1; Pr 9:4–6; Jn 4:10–14; 1Pt 2:2). Listen. By listening, people receive the Lord's good, life-giving gifts (cf Is 6:9; 50:4–5). rich food. Cf 25:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:3 you. Plural; includes Israel and the Gentiles. everlasting covenant … David. The promises regarding David include the Lord's sworn oath that the Davidic house will endure forever (cf 2Sm 7:13–16; 1Ch 17; Ps 89:1–4; 110; 132). See p 127. love for David. The illustrious reign God graciously granted David was in turn a prophetic guarantee of the eternal Kingdom that the Son of David would establish, as Paul proclaimed in Ac 13:34 (cf Ps 21:7; 89:34–37; Ezk 34:23–24). The prophet does not spell out the full implications of this new understanding of the Davidic covenant. But in the NT, the baptized reign with Christ forever (cf 2Tm 2:12; Rv 22:5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:4 Him. David's Son, the Messiah. a witness. God's testimony to "the peoples" through Israel's king reached full clarity in "Jesus Christ the faithful witness, the firstborn of the dead, and the ruler of kings on earth" (Rv 1:5; cf Jn 18:37).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:5 call a nation. Many nations, esp those thus far unknown, will stream to Israel because of the deeds of the Lord (cf 2:1–5; chs 13–23). This envisioned worldwide outreach begins with the Lord's summons to Abram (Gn 12:1–3), who will be the source of blessing to all the families of the earth (Gn 18:18; 22:18; 26:4; 28:14). The election of Israel is the very means of salvation for the nations (cf Ex 19:5–6). At Sinai, Israel is distinctly marked and empowered to be an evangelist. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:6 Seek the LORD. The Servant reconciles the sinner to the Lord. See "seek," p 843. He is near. The Lord has come near through His Word. The kind of "seeking" this chapter calls for is "listening" to the Lord's Word (cf Jer 29:13–14; Hos 3:5; Am 5:6, 14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:7 Though all are invited, there is no room in the kingdom of grace for those who refuse to turn from their wicked ways or for those who think only of their own righteousness and feel insulted by God's offer to "abundantly pardon" their sins. Let no one presume to come on his or her own terms, because none can comprehend God's ways and thoughts to save fallen mankind. return to the LORD. Done only by the Lord's Word, which accomplishes that which He purposes (cf v 11). See "turn," p 1080. abundantly pardon. He will pardon and have mercy on every penitent sinner, no matter how much sin is "increased" (Rm 5:20). All others remain wicked and unrighteous in His sight. See note, Is 26:10.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:8–9 Seeking to understand all things about the ways of the Lord is futile. His plans and reasons are beyond our understanding (Jb 38:1–40:2; Rm 11:33–36).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:10–11 Whether or not we understand the ways of the Lord, we can trust that His Word is true and will do what it says. Luth: "He is speaking of ways and thoughts which have to do with the Word. . . . Rain and snow are not useless, but they water the earth, giving seed to the sower. The rain can achieve everything for the earth. . . . When we experience the absence of rain, we see what the earth produces. So He takes away the glory of the earth and shows that it is not the earth that does it but that it is accomplished by the rain. So our building and promotion of the church is not the result of our works but of the Word of God which we preach" (AE 17:257–58). "This is all because of the Word, which is a heavenly, holy Word, which no one can praise enough. For it has, and is able to do, all that God is and can do" (LC IV 17).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:10 do not return there. Before the rain and the snow are again drawn up into the sky as mist (Jb 36:27), they achieve the purpose for which they were sent. bread. See notes, Is 55:1, 2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:11 The Word is no echo devoid of results. The Word always brings about what God wants done (45:23; 46:10–11; Ps 33:9; Jer 1:9–10; Mt 13:3–8, 18–23; Heb 4:12).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:12 led forth. Picture of captives returning to Jerusalem. mountains … clap their hands. See note, Ps 148:3–4.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 55:13 Instead of the thorn … cypress. A picture of paradise restored. In Gn 3:18, the Lord tells Adam that "thorns and thistles" will inhabit the land. Now, because of the Lord's salvation, the plants of Eden will spring up again, and the Lord's people will be invited back into the lush garden. See note, Is 35:1. make a name. See "for Your name's sake," p 842. sign. Just as creation became corrupt in Adam's fall (cf Rm 8:19–21), in Christ it will be restored to its pristine beauty, a sign of God's redemption.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 55 The Lord invites all to seek Him in His Word and to receive His good and satisfying gifts. Though the Lord invites us to listen diligently to His Word, we often listen carelessly or not at all. When we shut out God's life-giving Word, we are left to labor for that which does not satisfy. Jesus has accomplished the purpose for which He was sent: the pardon for sin, which He won at the cross. He gives abundantly to those from every nation who turn to Him. • Lord God, may Your Word continue to accomplish Your purposes among us and around the world. Teach us to hold Your Word sacred and gladly hear and learn it. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 56–66 Refers to strangers, or foreigners, as servants who will work the land on behalf of the Israelites (e.g., 61:5). This denotes a reversal for the Israelites, who were slaves in foreign lands.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 56–59 Focus on the proper observance of the Lord's covenant, as well as His willingness to forgive those who repent.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:1 justice … righteousness. Responding to undeserved mercy and goodness (ch 55), the redeemed find happiness in doing what is right toward their fellow man (righteousness) and toward God (the Sabbath, v 2). See pp 842–43. salvation … deliverance. See pp 842–43.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:2 Blessed. See p 842. son of man. See note, Ezk 2:1. the Sabbath. See pp 200–201; see also note, Ex 20:8.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:3–8 The blessings of salvation are granted for two classes of people who, according to Israel's laws, were not eligible to join the congregation in its services of worship: eunuchs (vv 3–5) and foreigners (vv 6–8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:3 foreigner. Gentile. joined himself to the LORD. A convert who received the covenant. See p 127. eunuch. Declared ritually unclean because he had been emasculated by those who put him in charge of women's quarters. See note, 2Ki 9:32; cf Dt 23:1; 2Ki 9:30–32; Jer 29:2; 38:7; Ac 8:27. a dry tree. A eunuch could not expect to have offspring of his own to perpetuate his name. Yet, God promises him spiritual blessings "better than sons and daughters" (v 5).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:4 the things that please Me. The Sabbath was a constant reminder of what was most important (cf Mt 6:25). My covenant. When people observe the Sabbath, they confess that they belong wholly to the Lord. To profane this holy day is to deny the Lord and His teaching (cf Am 8:4–6). See p 127.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:5 My house. The temple as embodiment of God's household for His people. a monument and a name. Absalom erected a monument to himself for remembrance because he had no children to carry on his name. A "monument and a name" is the name given to the main Holocaust memorial in modern Israel. an everlasting name. One that will never be disowned. See "name," p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:6 join themselves to the LORD. See note, v 3. minister. Bring their offerings and prayers; embrace the covenant.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:7 My holy mountain. See note, 2:2. house of prayer. See p 959. burnt offerings … sacrifices. The worship of all peoples (cf v 3), here described in OT forms, will be acceptable to God. See pp 170–71. a house of prayer for all peoples. Cf 1Ki 8:41–43 for Solomon's dedicatory prayer of the temple and the anticipated prayer by Gentiles that God will hear.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:8 outcasts of Israel. See notes, 11:11–16; 44:5; Jn 10:16. The gathering of people from all nations is a continual theme in Is (cf 19:25; 49:6–7; 51:5; 55:5).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:1–8 The Lord's salvation will come not only for the chosen people of Israel but also for foreigners and outcasts. Today, pray for the Lord's strength so that you believe and do not abuse His grace. Keep your hands from evil, keep justice, and do righteousness. Those who repent are not cut off from the Lord's salvation. The deliverance revealed in Jesus' death and resurrection is for you and for all peoples. • Lord Jesus Christ, thank You for gathering us into Your kingdom, and for giving us Your holy name in our Baptism. Gather more people of every nation into Your house of prayer. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:9–57:13 Isaiah may be condemning the practices of a Canaanite death cult that his countrymen had adopted. The references are vague, but the practices may have combined funeral rites with fertility rites associated with the worship of Baal (see note, Nu 25:3).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:9–12 In contrast to the comfort provided to the foreign believer who was in fear, the Lord takes to task the comfortable leaders of His people. Rather than leading His people, they indulge in worldly behavior, thinking that the day of the Lord will never come (Mt 24:45–51; Lk 12:13–21). The misuse of alcohol is also a cause for prophetic rebuke in Is 5:11, 22; Mi 2:11. See note, Pr 20:1.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:9 beasts. Foreign invaders who will find easy prey among leaderless Israel.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:10 watchmen. Prophets were to warn Israel of spiritual dangers (Ezk 33:1–9). See note, 21:6–12. silent dogs. The leaders do not "bark" to alert the people.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:11 a mighty appetite. The failed watchdogs turn into wolves, devouring the flock they should protect (cf Mk 12:39–40; Ac 20:29). shepherds. Cf Jer 23:2–4; 25:32–38; Ezk 34.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:12 strong drink. See note, Pr 20:1. tomorrow will be like this day. They are blind to their approaching doom, imagining that each day will feed their pleasures.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 56:9–12 Israel's leaders have forsaken their sacred duty. We, too, often pursue personal pleasure and gain at the expense of our God-given responsibilities. Unlike Israel's leaders who sought their own gain, Jesus is our Good Shepherd. He laid down His life for every sinful sheep, faithfully fulfilling God's righteous requirements for our sake. • Give us grace, dear Lord, to forsake the pursuit of personal gain and to follow You always in the way that leads to life everlasting. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 57 As the raucous drinking song (56:12) fades into the distance, the somber sounds of a dirge fill the air. Wicked leaders are summoned to draw near to hear their indictment.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:1 righteous man. See p 843. devout men are taken. Devastating practices (56:10–11) cause the righteous to perish. The absence of popular protest against a reign of unprincipled politicians shows that the people were just as bad as their leaders. taken away from calamity. The prophet laments that the good go unrecognized, though the unrighteous live lives of contentment, able to sleep in the night (cf Ps 73).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:2 enters into peace. The perfect peace in God's presence awaiting those who walk in their uprightness in "a contrite and lowly spirit" (v 15). See notes, Jb 19:25–27; Ps 49:15.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:3 sons of the sorceress. Sorcery, the practice of magical arts, was strictly forbidden because spells and incantations presume to coerce God and conflict with His lordship over human life. See notes, Ex 22:18; Dt 18:9–12. adulterer … loose woman. Adultery and harlotry, despicable crimes when committed physically, describe the spiritual degeneracy of Israel's union with idols (Jer 3:1–3; Ezk 16:1–52; Hos 1–3). The people, guilty of these crimes, have a depraved nature (cf Is 1:4; 57:4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:4–5 Fertility cults were a perpetual problem (e.g., 2Ki 17:10; Jer 2:20; 3:13; Ezk 6:13; Hos 4:12–13). Child sacrifice was a part of the worship of Molech and Baal.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:4 stick out your tongue? The Lord calls into question the grounds on which the wicked mock the righteous. The popular Egyptian god Bes was depicted with his tongue sticking out.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:5 Israel's spiritual adultery expressed itself in the lascivious rites of the Canaanite fertility cult. During the reign of King Manasseh, which ended less than 40 years before the fall of Jerusalem, these rites were practiced with unchecked abandon (2Ki 16:3; 21:1–17). oaks. See note, 1:29. under every green tree. Cf Dt 12:2; see note, Ex 34:13. slaughter your children. Ahaz introduced child sacrifice to the royal house in Jerusalem (2Ki 16:1–4). See notes, Lv 18:21; 2Ki 23:10.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:6–13 Describes the inability of idols to save the faithless, in contrast to the security of those who trust in the Lord.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:6 smooth stones. See note, Gn 28:18. Idolaters foolishly gave up the living Lord for an inanimate rock as their portion and lot (Is 61:7; Ps 16:5–6; 73:26; 119:57; 142:5). drink offering … grain offering. See pp 170–71. relent. See pp 1079–80.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:7 Likely a reference to the adulterous Canaanite fertility cult activities. See note, v 5. up to offer. See p 526.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:8 set up your memorial. Instead of putting the prescribed words of allegiance to the Lord on the doorposts (Dt 6:9), they placed an inscription or a figure within their homes that dedicated them and their occupants to an idol. uncovered your bed. See note, v 7. covenant for yourself. Lifeless idols cannot agree to a covenant. looked on nakedness. Lit, "gazed at a hand." In the context of lewd acts, "hand" may be a euphemistic term for the male organ (cf Ezk 23:20).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:9 Dependency on foreign kings causes idolatry (cf Ps 20:7). oil … perfumes. See notes, 1Ki 10:10; Sg 3:6. envoys … even to Sheol. See note, Pr 5:5; see also p 792.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:10 Despite the unfruitful pursuit of other gods, Israel never tired of her idolatry or turned back to the Lord.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:11 Israel forgot the name and the graciousness of God, which should have been close to the hearts of all.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:12 Israel's supposed righteousness will not be enough to save them from God's coming judgment. righteousness. See p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:13 collection of idols. The worthlessness of idols means that one is not enough and many still cannot save. wind will carry them off. Idols of wood and stone will be swept away as though chaff. See note, Ps 1:4. possess … inherit. The remnant will be in the Lord's presence, climactically made known in the new temple, Jesus Christ (cf Mt 12:6; Jn

2:19–21). My holy mountain. Prominent phrase in Is (e.g., 2:2–4; 66:20). The Lord dwells there (8:18b), which means it is Mount Zion. See p 844.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:1–13 As Israel practices idolatry through a number of degenerate acts, they are openly mocking the Lord. We, too, have our own collection of idols. Whenever we give those idols the fear, love, and trust deserved by God alone, we are guilty of deserting and mocking the Lord. As a perfectly righteous man, Jesus died in our place. Because He was taken away to bear our sins, the Lord does indeed relent from punishing us as our sins deserve. • Lord God, teach us to turn away from every idolatrous act and to call upon Your name alone in every time of trouble. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:14–21 For those who are contrite and lowly, the Lord will bring rejuvenation (Mt 5:3).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:15 the One who is high and lifted up. Cf 40:22; 66:1; 1Tm 6:15–16. inhabits eternity. God's existence is not bound by time. Holy. See p 7. I dwell … holy place. God's heaven is far beyond the mere high places of Israel's idolatrous worship (Is 57:7). contrite and lowly spirit. Though God lives in timeless heaven, He also dwells with the lowest person. He is present everywhere (Jer 23:24). revive. God's love of His creation not only gave life to Adam and Eve in Eden but also revives the weak with a renewed spirit.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:16 Indicates that the Lord does relent (cf v 6); He restores and grants peace (cf 2:4; 9:6; Jn 14:27; Php 4:7). contend. The Lord promises that His anger is brief and His mercy is endless. Cf Is 54:7–9. breath of life. People continue to depend on the initial breath of God placed within Adam. See note, Gn 2:7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:17 his … him. Israel. hid My face. Israel depends on God's life-giving breath (v 16); the Lord warns that He will turn away His face, causing Israel to expire. See note, 64:7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:18 heal him. God's forgiveness is not blindness to sin but a true forgiveness of the sins that are perfectly known. See note, Dt 32:39. mourners. See note, Mt 9:23.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:19 fruit of the lips. Israel will praise God for His redemption. far … near. See note, 43:5–7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:20 The sea both hides its dirt beneath the depths and also unashamedly tosses its refuse on the beach. So also the wicked both hide their sins and then cast them into the full view of others.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:21 Cf 66:24.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 57:14–21 The Lord heals and comforts all who are of a contrite and lowly spirit. But God's comfort and peace are withheld from the wicked, including those intent on backsliding in the ways of their own hearts. Through the death and resurrection of Jesus, the obstacle of our sin has been removed. There is now healing, comfort, and peace for every contrite heart. • Holy God, high and lifted up, create in us new and contrite hearts that we, repenting of our sins, may obtain from You perfect peace and forgiveness. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 58–59 Left to their own devices, all sons and daughters of Adam cannot help themselves from rushing headlong down "the way … that leads to destruction" (Mt 7:13). If there is to be a way to glory, God must provide it. And Isaiah says He did. The way to glory is constructed on the solid roadbed of God's redemptive mercy (Is 40–48). The Servant, His own Son, paid for our sins by suffering and dying in our stead (chs 49–57). The way to glory, open to all who repent and receive the sacrifice of atonement for their sins, stretches far into the future. It leads to vistas under "new heavens" and on "a new earth" (65:17; 66:22). It brings into view "the glory that is to be revealed" after "the sufferings of this present time" have passed (Rm 8:18). The reader may be puzzled to find the promises of a glorious future, recorded in the closing chs of Is, interspersed with denunciations of sin and threats of judgment. Condemnation of ungodly behavior may seem out of place amidst assurances of salvation. However, God knows how necessary the unremitting preaching of Law and Gospel is because the human "heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately sick" (Jer 17:9). See p 320. Two facts are stressed: it is an insult to God's redemptive grace if people only pretend to honor Him, and God's goodness cannot be trampled. Not peace but outer darkness and gnashing of teeth await those who follow the impulses of their wicked heart.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 58 The prophet renounces hypocritical observance of two religious rites (fasting and praying, while they sneer at His command not to exploit their fellowmen) and insincere Sabbath observance (vv 13–14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:1 like a trumpet. See p 993.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:2 seek Me. See note, Hos 6:6; see also p 843. My ways. From the human perspective, Israel believes that they are doing what the Lord asked. They wonder why He is not acknowledging their actions. But like other abuses mentioned, the people are going through the actions while begrudging the Lord's imposition on their lives. See "way," p 844. draw near to God. Israel may have a right relationship with the Lord only if they have a right relationship with one another. When God's people claim to love Him but disregard their neighbor, both tables of the Law are broken. See note, Ex 20:12–17.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:3 fasted. See note, Lv 16:29; cf Lv 23:27–32; 2Sm 12:22; Ps 69:10; Jl 1:14; Zec 8:19; see also p 189. your own pleasure. What was to be an occasion for self-denial became an opportunity for self-advancement at the expense of others.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:4 Fasting only put them in an ugly mood.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:5 bow down. Cf Mt 6:1, 16–18. like a reed. Bent by wind and weight, not sincerity. sackcloth and ashes. See note, Jb 16:15.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:6 The Lord calls for acts of justice and righteousness, rather than lip service. Religious observances cannot substitute for moral integrity (cf Ps 15; Mi 6:6–8). Apart from a love toward neighbor, worship and fasting deadens people to the weightier matters of justice (cf Mt 23:23). oppressed. The rules for enslavement of fellow Israelites and their lands (Ex 21:2–11; Lv 25:39–55; Dt 15:12–18) were often abused in order to retain people as slaves and hold their lands (cf Jer 34:8–22; 1Sm 8:10–18; 1Ki 5:13–17; 21:1–3; Is 5:8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:7 Good works of a sincere heart. into your house. See note, Gn 18:4. your own flesh? People having the same parents or ancestors (cf Gn 29:14; 37:27; 2Sm 5:1).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:8–14 "The preaching of rewards and punishments is necessary. God's wrath is set forth in the preaching of punishments. This applies to the preaching of repentance. Grace is set forth in the preaching of rewards. Just as Scripture, in the mention of good works, often embraces faith—for it wishes righteousness of the heart to be included with the fruit—so sometimes it offers grace together with other rewards" (Ap V 244).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:8 Then. Repeated in vv 9–10. Let them show the sincerity of their allegiance to God by not mistreating their fellowmen. Then He will lead and protect them. See note, 52:12. your light. Light comes from doing the work of the Lord, rather than darkness of one's own works (cf 5:20; 8:20; 47:5; 60:2). your healing. See note, Ex 15:26. your righteousness. See p 843. glory of the LORD shall be your rear guard. Cf Is 52:11–12. Luth: "These are excellent and golden consolations for the conscience [2Pt 1:10; 2Co 1:12]. . . . Although we must not rely on this [evidence of good works], yet, since we are justified, it puts my conscience at peace, that I do evil to no one, and thus I walk safely in God. This is what it means for righteousness to go before, when we boast before the world and against Satan that because the fruits of faith are there, I have not lived in vain" (AE 17:288).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:9 call … answer. See p 842. Here I am. Indicating that the Lord is "a very present help in trouble" (Ps 46:1). Isaiah answers the Lord's call with the same eagerness (Is 6:8). yoke. On their enslavement, see note, v 6. pointing of the finger. Accusing others to protect one's self.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:10 pour yourself out. Just as God provides breath for every living being (cf 40:29–31; 57:15–16), so His people are to pour themselves out to sustain others. as the noonday. The apparent, temporary eclipse of God's favor will be over, and His blessings will become evident as the sun.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:11 make your bones strong. God's renewal brings both inspiring breath and renewed bones. a watered garden. The image of waters that never fail is repeated in 32:15; 35:5–7; 41:17–18; 43:20; 44:3–4; 48:21; 49:10 and used by Jesus of Himself (Jn 4:10, 14). See notes, Ps 1:3; 36:9.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:12 The city of Jerusalem was to lie in ruins for many generations. It would be rebuilt because God would be moved to resume His plan of salvation through a penitent remnant of the chosen people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:13 the Sabbath. See note, Ex 20:8. Luth: "The duties of the Sabbath are to sanctify God, by hearing the Word, by means of praises and thanksgiving, etc. Then it is to be celebrated by us as a holiday. Among the godly all days are equal, but for the sake of the Word and prayer certain days are chosen for the sake of those who cannot sanctify every day, although we ought to sanctify every day" (AE 17:293). delight. They will find the fruit of the blessing that God has promised His people. holy day. The Sabbath or another feast. See pp 200–201.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 58:14 ride on the heights. Rather than the high places being the site of idolatrous worship (57:7), the heights will host God's holy people. heritage of Jacob. See note, Gn 28:12.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 58 The Lord condemns all who draw near to Him only with words, those who seek their own pleasure above all else. But for those who share with their neighbors in need, the Lord promises healing. We cannot draw near to the Lord in faith while oppressing and quarreling with our neighbors. Jesus perfectly fulfilled the law of love and would lead us to repentance. His cross is the guarantee that the Lord will answer when we call upon Him in faith. • Help us, dear Lord, to express our love for You by serving and sharing with our neighbors in need. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 59 Isaiah builds the theme announced in 57:21 and developed in ch 58: "There is no peace … for the wicked."

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:1 the LORD'S hand is not shortened. See note, 5:25; cf 30:19; 41:20; 58:9; 65:24.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:2 your iniquities. Israel has abandoned their God (Ps 18:41; Is 1:15–17; 58:4–5; Jer 5:23–24; 11:9–11; Ezk 39:21–24; Mt 23:37–39; Jn 9:31). separation. Due to sin; fixed and impenetrable as the firmament between heaven and earth (Gn 1:6). hidden. See note, 64:7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:3 Human nature is so depraved and insolent that the parts of the body used to "make many prayers" (1:15) are also the instruments of murder and deceit.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:4–8 Isaiah accuses Israel of perverting justice and righteousness in 1:21; 5:7; 28:17. Here, he calls for justice. In the age to come, the Lord promises a "righteous Branch," a Davidic leader who will "execute justice and righteousness in the land" (Jer 23:5); He will be called "The LORD is our righteousness" (Jer 23:6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:5 Two comparisons taken from the animal world describe these monsters of iniquity. Cf Mt 3:7. Their machinations are like a spiderweb that is designed to catch other insects and has no constructive purpose.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:8 way of peace. The evil know only crooked, destructive roads (v 7). See "way," p 844.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:9 justice … righteousness. See pp 842–43. God's people expect Him to bring judgment on evildoers and to bring salvation (vv 11, 17) to those who appeal to Him. far from us. See note, v 2. overtake us. They feel outside the possibility of fair treatment.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:10–15 Confession of the sins cited earlier in the chapter. Israel has lived blind in their iniquities; therefore, the nation finds no justice. Cf Dt 28:29; Jb 5:14; Is 6:9–10; 56:10; Lm 4:14; Mt 15:12–13; 23:15–36.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:10 Even in the brightest noon sun, they are blind because their sin has clouded over the true light of righteousness.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:11 They are discontented, both growling with hunger and moaning pitifully.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:12 transgressions … sins … iniquities. See p 959.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:13 denying the LORD. The accumulated sins of v 12 are essentially abandonment of God, turning from Him to idols.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:14 Justice … righteousness … truth … uprightness. Principles that are to govern the administration of justice in human courts of law. In Israel, cases were heard in public gatherings. See p 792.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:1–15a By their sins, the people of Israel have separated themselves from God and from His salvation. When we fail to confess our sins and do not repent, we, like Israel, separate ourselves from God. In the darkness of our iniquity, our sins testify against us. Jesus came into the world to bridge the separation between God and sinners. All of our transgressions and iniquities were laid on Him at the cross, that we might know the bright light of His forgiveness. • Heavenly Father, grant that we might not be used as instruments of wickedness. As we confess our sins and receive Your forgiveness, lead us to be instruments of Your peace and truth. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:16 wondered. God is described as a person looking in vain for someone to solve a serious problem. no one to intercede. All the righteous are gone. His own arm. The Lord Himself intervenes, not primarily for wrath, but for salvation (43:3–4; 49:8; 51:5, 16; 52:9–10; 53:1, 5).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:17–19 God is described as an ancient warrior preparing Himself for battle.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:17 vengeance. Exclusive to the Lord. Cf 1:24; 34:8; Lv 19:18; Nu 31:3; Dt 32:35; Rm 12:19–21; Heb 10:30–31. zeal. Hbr word denotes ardor prompted by jealousy (see notes, Is 9:7; Ex 20:5).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:19 fear the name of the LORD. The work of salvation, done through the Redeemer (Jb 19:25; Is 60:16; 63:16), will bring glory to God before the world (40:5). See p 1001. He will come … drives. The Redeemer sent by the Lord. Cf Jb 38:8–11, 25, 28–30, 34–37.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:20 Redeemer. See note, Jb 19:25. to Zion … in Jacob. "Salvation is from the Jews" (Jn 4:22). From this one nation, the good news of peace (Is 52:7) was to be published for the salvation of all Israel (Rm 11:26), a spiritual commonwealth made up of Jewish and Gentile believers (the Church). turn. See p 1080.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:21 covenant. See note, Jer 31:31. My Spirit … My words. The Lord is discussing His Spirit-empowered Messiah (cf 11:2; 44:3; 61:1; Mt 11:5; Lk 4:16–21). The emphasis on the anointed leader's mouth and word connects these promises with those of the Servant Songs (42:1–7; 49:1–13; 50:4–9; 52:13–53:12), which stress the mouth of the Servant (e.g., 49:2; 53:7). Luth: "He is saying this of the spiritual coming which will always abide and prevail for the purpose of turning away evil. . . . Thus Paul and the prophet agree. This is Paul's argument [Rm 11]: The Gentiles must not despise the Jews, because God can reinstate them, since the Spirit of the Lord and the Word of the Lord will remain in the world, and by them God can reclaim some. As long as the Word remains, God can always save people through this means. . . . Not all Israelites are the seed of God. But this fall and apostasy did not happen simply for the purpose of destroying the Jews and saving the Gentiles. Hence no one has cause to boast of his election. . . . It is through the preaching of the Gospel that we receive the forgiveness of sins. Thus Paul in this discussion was at pains to show how the Jews have been rejected and, at the same time, some are saved" (AE 17:307–8).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 59:15b–21 The Lord Himself, by His own arm, will act with zeal to accomplish both justice and salvation among His people. We are not righteous enough to achieve salvation by our own merits. In mercy, Christ Jesus has interceded on our behalf. His zeal is for our salvation, which He made possible through His suffering, death, and resurrection. His perfect righteousness is freely given to all who believe. • Merciful Redeemer, You do not repay us according to our iniquity. Grant that by Your Word and Spirit we might turn from our transgression and always rejoice in the gift of Your salvation. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 60 The way to glory is the transfiguration of mankind's gloom into the radiance of salvation. In chs 58–59, Isaiah declared "the way of peace" (59:8) barred to all who choose to love wickedness more than they love the Redeemer. In ch 60, the road to blessed communion with the Creator is bathed in "the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ" (2Co 4:6). This highway of lights is to emerge out of Israel's liberation from Babylonian slavery and the rebuilding of the city of David.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:1–3 Through the Redeemer, the people are brought out of the darkness of their sins (cf 59:9–10) and into the light of God's salvation. Cf 2:5; 60:5, 10, 12; Lk 1:78–79; 2:32; Jn 1:14; 17:4, 22; Rm 8:17; 1Pt 4:13–14.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:1 Arise, shine. The prophet rouses Israel from the dark night of sin and captivity. God's creative Word enlightens them like a match lighting a candle. See note, Eph 5:13–14a. glory of the LORD. Cf 4:5; 9:2; 24:23; 30:26; 40:9–11; 46:13; 49:14–21; 51:3; 52:7–10; 54:11–17 for flashes of its light; see pp 6–7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:3 nations shall come to your light. Although God shows judgment through darkness upon the nations, Israel will bask in light that graciously draws the nations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:4–9 Not only do the people of the Lord return, but the wealth of nations is also brought to the people of God.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:4 your sons … on the hip. The remnant comes home, perhaps carried by the nations. See note, 49:22. from afar. See notes, 2:2; 11:11–16; 49:18; 55:5.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:6 camels of Midian. Previous threat to Israel (Jgs 6:1–6), but now these animals employed in warfare are brought under Israel's domain. See note, Gn 12:16. Midian and Ephah. These nations have ancestral ties with Israel (Gn 25:1–4). Midian. See note, Jgs 6:1. frankincense. See note, Lv 2:1. good news. See notes, 40:9; 52:7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:7 Kedar. See note, 21:16. rams … on My altar. Worship is expressed in terms of sacrifices, required by the Law of Moses but fulfilled in the new covenant. See note, 19:19. Nebaioth. Firstborn son of Ishmael.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:9 coastlands. From the greatest distances. See note, 11:11. ships of Tarshish. Cf 1Ki 22:48; 2Ch 20:35–37; see note 1Ki 10:22. for the name of the LORD. They will make offerings and worship in His name. Holy One of Israel. See p 1227. made you beautiful. Zion grows attractive to all.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:10–14 More than just rebuilding the walls of the city (Ne 2:8), the city and kingdom will be open in safety (Rv 21:25) to receive the wealth of the nations.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:10 minister. Serve. in My wrath … mercy on you. God's anger briefly used the foreign nations as His agents of wrath, but His mercy will employ those nations again to rebuild Israel.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:11 open continually. Demonstration of God's complete protection. Though Jerusalem did not deserve to be rebuilt, God had mercy on the penitent people. At God's direction, foreigners such as Cyrus, the Persian king, contributed to its rehabilitation. See notes, Ezr 1:1–2. These mighty acts of God furnish the prophetic design of a spiritual Jerusalem. Anyone who wants to share in the priceless peace may enter (Is 60:10–18).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:12 shall perish. Cf 2:11, 17; 13:11; Jn 3:19.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:13 glory of Lebanon. See notes, 33:9; 35:2. place of My feet glorious. Royal language to declare that the temple is His palace and that He is the true King of Israel (cf 6:5). See notes, Ps 99:5; 132:7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:14 sons. See note, 19:24–25. City of the LORD. Cf 60:18; 62:4, 12; Ezk 48:35; Zec 8:3; Heb 12:22–23, Rv 21:2 for this and other names for the new Jerusalem. Zion of the Holy One of Israel. Even the sons of former enemies will know Zion's name and not begrudge calling it the city of the Holy One. God's righteousness and convincing power are both evident. See"Holy One of Israel," p 1227.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:15–22 These promises build on 43:18, where Israel is called to forget the past.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:15 majestic forever. See "Zion," p 844.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:16 suck … nurse. The affluence of the nations (Dt 33:19) will nourish and sustain the worshipers in God's beautiful house (Is 60:6–7). Redeemer. See note, Jb 19:25.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:17 gold … silver. Costly metals will replace lesser ones. overseers … taskmasters. Peace and righteousness will replace oppression and violence. See "salvation," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:19–20 Cf Rv 22:5, where the light comes from the Father and the Lamb. In Is, the end of sorrow is a theme concerning the redemption of God's people (25:8; 35:10; 51:11; 65:19). Jerusalem rebuilt after the Babylonian exile was a significant milestone on God's way to shed the light of His glory. But even when all earthly cities pass away, He will be the everlasting light in "the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven" (Rv 21:2). Its residents will swell to a multitude, "numbering myriads of myriads and thousands of thousands" (Rv 5:11).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:20 days of mourning. Usually seven days (cf Gn 50:10). See note, Gn 50:1–3.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:21 all be righteous. Luth: "Apart from this Light [of Christ] there is no righteousness before God. These are therefore words of consolation. Just hold tight, even if you are oppressed and persecuted and your thoughts and conscience trouble you. You may know for certain: 'The Lord is my light'; you may know for certain that all who have this Light are righteous, even though we are sinners. That humility is of no avail. But when we speak of ourselves as baptized and enlightened by the Word, we are not sinners but saints and spotless through Christ, so that we can gratefully boast that we are saints" (AE 17:326–27). branch of My planting. Cf Ex 15:17. This image is opposite that of the song of the vineyard in Is 5:1–7. God planted the shoot; this fruitful time reflects His work (cf 27:2–6).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 60:22 a clan. See pp 54–55. in its time. Jesus announces in Lk 4:18–19 that in Him the Year of Jubilee has begun. The world of grasping and owning is rejected, and the world of gifts and trust is affirmed (cf Lk 1:51–55). See p 206.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 60 The Redeemer of Israel will bring His penitent people out of the darkness of their sin into His everlasting light. Both spiritual and temporal wealth come to us as gifts from God. We should make it our goal to use this wealth for the blessing of others, rather than selfishly seeking and searching for more. Our Savior Jesus Christ has had mercy on us. He is our light and our life. • O God, continually call us out of the darkness of our sin and into Your marvelous light, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Chs 61–62 Aglow with images of light, abundance, gardens, brilliant jewels, and costly garments. The section begins with the Servant/Messiah's announcement of His role (61:1–3) and concludes with a call for the people to enter into the Lord's salvation (62:10–12). Three major segments are united by divine promises regarding Zion and the nations: Zion will eat the wealth of the nations (61:4–11), God will show the nations that Zion is not forsaken (62:1–5), and the nations will not devour Zion's wealth (62:6–9).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:1 Me. The Lord's Servant (42:1–7; 49:1–7; 50:4–9; 52:13–53:12). anointed Me. See note, 1Sm 10:1. bring good news. A messenger announces the glory to be revealed in the messianic age. The Messiah not only has prophetic authority to speak for God, but He Himself made the promise come true (cf Ac 4:27; 10:38; Heb 1:9). In Is, the Spirit is esp associated with the power to bring justice and righteousness on the earth, often through the spoken Word (cf 59:21). "According to [Christ's] divinity, He is of one essence with the Holy Spirit" (FC SD VIII 72). Luth: "Christ is the person sent by God and filled with the Holy Spirit to be the Preacher and Evangelist to the poor, that is, the afflicted. This was not done for Christ's sake but for our sake. . . . Note this especially, that we must be content with the God of majesty when we consider His hidden but grand and terrifying offices. When we fall into this labyrinth, we become involved in speculations about divinity, and we want to become investigators of His majesty at our peril. As for you, be content with the God incarnate. Then you will remain in peace and safety, and you will know God. Cast off speculations about divine glory, as the pope and Mohammed speculate. You stay with Christ crucified, whom Paul and others preach" (AE 17:330–31).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:2 the year of the LORD'S favor. See p 206. day of vengeance. See note, 34:8. Jesus did not include the vengeance mentioned in this prophecy when, in Nazareth, He declared the year of the Lord's favor (Lk 4:18–19). Final judgment on the wicked and simultaneous vindication of the righteous are to take place when He returns (cf Mt 24:30).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:3 The mourner with ashes on the head, wrapped in sackcloth, and with a spirit crushed with despair, is replaced by one who celebrates with a beautiful headdress, smelling of costly oil, and wearing a garment of praise. oaks of righteousness. The redeemed of the Lord, rooted by faith in His promises (cf Ps 1:3). The Servant/Messiah will not simply throw words at the poor. His words impart what they announce (cf 55:10–11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:4–7 The work of the Servant/Messiah makes possible the reversal of fortunes for the people.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:5–6 The City of the Lord is a spiritual commonwealth (60:14, 18) with citizens from every nation under the sun. Foreigners do the labor, a recurring theme of the Lord's retribution on those who persecuted His people (14:1–2; 56:3). Having become "fellow citizens with the saints" (Eph 2:19) through faith in Christ, they willingly dedicate their labors and riches to the common good of "the household of faith" (Gal 6:10). Cf Is 60:21; Rm 15:27.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:6 priests of the LORD … ministers. The mediating services of the tribe of Levi will no longer be needed. All the people of God will be consecrated to offer themselves as living sacrifices (Rm 12:1) and authorized to teach all nations the way of salvation. Cf Mt 28:19–20; 2Co 2:15.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:7 double portion. See note, Gn 25:31.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:8 them. The redeemed. recompense. Cf v 7. an everlasting covenant. The result of the work of the Servant/Messiah (49:8; 54:10; 55:5; Ezk 37:25–26). See p 127.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:9 God will fulfill His promise to Abraham (Gn 12:3).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:10 garments of salvation. Those whom the Lord wraps in this robe not only experience deliverance from unrighteousness but also power to live out His righteousness. headdress. Cf v 3; 3:20 (only other times mentioned in Is). See note, Ps 45.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 61:11 Joy is guaranteed just as the earth is guaranteed to cause seeds sown in it to sprout. If nature is reliable, how much more so is God?
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 61 The Servant/Messiah will come, bringing good news and everlasting joy to the redeemed of Israel. As brokenhearted souls, we must confess the sinful cause of our poverty and brokenness. Our dire straits are due to our sinful condition—a condition from which we cannot free ourselves. Jesus brings liberty for all held captive by sin and death. By His death and resurrection, He has delivered us from the shame of our sin, clothed us in His own righteousness, and made us to be His holy priests. • Lord God, teach us not to rely on the tattered fabric of our own works and accomplishments. Lead us to be comforted each day in Your robe of righteousness. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 62 Proof of God's willingness to send His enlightening Word into the souls of people again and again. The way to glory is again presented as leading through Israel's release from the Babylonian exile to a salvation "proclaimed to the end of the earth" (v 11). The envisioned scene is a panoramic view of a new Jerusalem. Its walls circle the entire earth (Rm 10:12; Gal 3:28–29).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:1 until her … torch. In the darkness of Satan's dungeon, the eyes of his captives do not see "the glory of the LORD" (60:1–2; cf 2Co 3:14–16). His Word gives light and the vision of faith, enabling the blind prisoners to see the door to liberty unbarred. See note, 60:1.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:2 righteousness. See p 843. Zion becomes "the city of righteousness" (1:26) only by "the mouth of the LORD." new name. A mark of God's blessings throughout Scripture (65:15; Gn 17:3–8; 32:28) that demonstrates a change in status or character.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:3 crown … in the hand. Royal scepters may have been topped with a crown. royal diadem. A crown.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:4 Forsaken … Desolate. If God had not taken pity on His fallen creatures, their fate would have been like that of an unfaithful wife, abandoned by her husband to live out her days amid the ruins of her wrecked life. However, the Servant lived and died to effect a reconciliation (53:6). Cf 50; 54:4. My Delight Is in Her. Hezekiah's wife had this name (2Ki 21:1, 3). Married. God puts upon Himself and Israel the bonds of marriage, which He will not break, despite Israel's unfaithfulness.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:5 marry. Hbr verb means "to take possession of a woman in marriage." Surviving sons of Israel will again claim Zion and the Promised Land.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:6–9 Israel lost their land and its blessings in 722 BC and 587 BC, but now it will be regained, and Israel will enjoy all of its abundance (cf Am 9:13–15).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:6 watchmen. See note, 21:6–12. never be silent. Faithfully calling out the hours of the watches rather than falling asleep.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:8 Because of the relationship of the people to the Lord, foreign nations will not take the work of the people. This indicates the renewal of the covenant blessings (Dt 28:11–12; 30–33). sworn. See "vow," p 7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:9 garner. Those who harvest it shall also eat it. courts of My sanctuary. Reminder of joyous festivals in the temple.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:10 through the gates. The liberated slaves must believe that they are free to escape through the opened prison doors (cf 48:20; 52:11). The way to freedom is a highway "to the end of the earth" (v 11) for the peoples who march under the banner of "the root of Jesse" (11:10). See note, 49:22. people. The returning remnant of Israel. a signal. A banner. See notes, Nu 1:52; 2:2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:11 daughter of Zion. See p 1079. reward … recompense. See note, 40:10.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 62:12 These titles are the result of the work in v 11, the restoration of the people who were formerly abandoned. Holy People. Cf Ex 19:6; 1Pt 2:9; see "saints," p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 62 The mouth of the Lord announces the coming salvation that will be established in Jerusalem and proclaimed to the ends of the earth. Isaiah rightly depicts our sin as the equivalent of marital unfaithfulness. Like an unfaithful wife, we deserve to be forsaken by our Bridegroom, Jesus Christ. But He has redeemed us with His own blood. He does not treat us as we deserve, but delights to make us His own holy people, made beautiful by His forgiveness. • Lord Jesus Christ, heavenly Bridegroom, You came and sought us to be Your holy Bride; with Your own blood You bought us, and for our life You died. Amen. (Adapted from LSB 644:1)

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:1–6 No enemy is able to rob God's people of their salvation because their redemption simultaneously ushers in the "day of vengeance" on all hostile, demonic foes. Cf 59:17; 61:2; 62:11–12. The final execution of judgment will come when the peoples and kingdoms of this world will appear before the throne of the ascended Lord. Cf Rv 14:18–20.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:1 Edom. Israel's inveterate enemy stands for all forces aligned against God and His people (cf ch 34). Cf 11:14; 34:5–15; Gn 25:23; Nu 24:18; Ezk 35; Am 1:6, 11; Ob 10–16. crimsoned garments. A royal hue, but see note, v 2. Bozrah. Key city in Edom. It is I. Having established His people, the Lord turns to judge the unbelieving nations with a day of vengeance.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:2 red. Play on Hbr word for Edom, spelled nearly the same. The Lord's garments are stained with the blood of His defeated antagonists. The decisive battle took place on Golgotha (cf Jn 12:31–32; 16:11; see the Easter hymn by Thomas Kelly, TLH 209). treads in the winepress? Violent stomping and blood-red juice symbolize God's wrath. See note, Jl 3:13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:3 Treading grapes was normally a festive community event (16:10; Jgs 9:27).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:4 The "day of vengeance" and the "year of redemption" are not at odds but necessarily a union. See notes, 34:8; 61:2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:5 I looked. See note, 59:16. My own arm brought Me salvation. Israel's unfaithfulness left the Lord alone; His victory was His alone. My wrath upheld Me. No one was righteous enough to stand beside the Lord. He alone would judge.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:6 Continues winepress imagery (vv 2–3). God both crushes His enemies and, here, floods them with His wrath.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:1–6 Just as the Lord acts decisively to bring redemption for His people, His vengeance is also unleashed on every evil foe. On the Last Day, the Lord's overwhelming power will trample all His enemies, including all who reject the salvation purchased with Jesus' lifeblood. His crimson garments bear witness to His decisive defeat of sin and death through His crucifixion and resurrection. He is indeed mighty to save, giving resurrection life to all who believe. • Lord Jesus, keep us, we pray, marching in the greatness of Your mighty strength, in the way that leads to life everlasting. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:7–64:12 Isaiah corrects two misconceptions his hearers and readers are prone to harbor about the way God leads to glory. It is a fatal mistake to think we can "go limping between two different opinions" (1Ki 18:21). It is just as wrong to doubt God's willingness to take sinners back when they repent and plead for mercy.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:7–14 A recounting of the Lord's work in the exodus from Egypt.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:7–9 The prophet intercedes with a psalm that praises the Lord for "the great goodness to the house of Israel" (v 7; cf Ps 89; 111; 145–50).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:7 steadfast love. See p 843.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:8 My people. Israel. children. They disappointed the Lord. Showered with favors, they nevertheless rebelled against Him (v 10; 1:2). He became their Savior. During the exodus. Cf Ex 14:13; 15:2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:9 He was afflicted. God is not a heartless tyrant. When He disciplines, He feels pain in His own heart (cf Heb 4:15). angel of His presence. Cf Ex 23:20; see "angel of the LORD," p 1227. redeemed. See p 843. carried them all the days of old. See note, Ex 19:4.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:10 The Israelites rebelled despite the Spirit among their leaders (Nu 11:17–30; cf Ps 51:11). He turned. See "relent," pp 1079–80.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:11 remembered the days of old. The exodus is esp remembered as the time God shepherded His people through the ministry of Moses. put in the midst of them His Holy Spirit. See note, Nu 11:17.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:12 arm. Besides the fire and the cloud, the Lord accompanied Moses and the people with His powerful arm. Cf 51:9; 52:10;

62:8; see "arm," p 842. everlasting name. See "name," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:14 down into the valley. Destination of the shepherd, the imagery used in v 11. Cf Jsh 1:13; Ps 23:1–2. Spirit of the LORD. Cf v 11. to make … name. See "name," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:7–14 The Lord's steadfast love for His people is beautifully epitomized in the exodus from Egypt. Just as surely as Israel rebelled against the Lord and grieved His Holy Spirit, we have done the same by our sins of thought, word, and deed. His steadfast love is given for us in Jesus Christ. He was afflicted for our sins. Through the gift of His Holy Spirit in the waters of Holy Baptism, the Lord is pleased to lead us as His people. • "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me. Cast me not away from Your presence, and take not Your Holy Spirit from me" (Ps 51:10–11). Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:15–19 Isaiah petitions the Lord to act among His people again.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:15 Your … habitation. Heaven. zeal. See notes, 9:7; 42:13. stirring of Your inner parts. God's desire for Israel seems to be hidden. See note, Ps 103:1–2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:16 our Father. As a father is needed for a child to be conceived, so Israel owes its existence as a nation to the Lord (cf Ex 4:22–23). As children must rely on their father to keep them alive, so Israel pleads with the Lord to be their Redeemer. Abraham … Israel. The Lord is the Father who is greater than their ancestors (Mt 6:8–9, 18; Jn 6:44–47; 8:38–44). does not know us. Though their physical ancestors are dead and gone, the Lord's fatherly love and power to redeem are constant. Redeemer. See note, Jb 19:25.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:17 make us wander … harden our heart. The appeal dares to complain that God is treating His people unfairly, as if their resistance to His mercy has provoked Him to harden their heart as He did Pharaoh's. See note, Ex 4:21; cf Rm 1:24, 26, 28. Return. See p 1080. heritage. See "portion," p 7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:18 a little while. If the sanctuary is to remain destroyed forever, the period during which Israel worshiped in it was short indeed. our adversaries. The Babylonians. See note, 2Ki 25:8–9.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:19 called by Your name. The Lord's name was a common element of Israelite names (e.g., in Isaiah, "iah" comes from Yahweh). See note, Nu 6:27.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:1 God appears to have withdrawn His presence from the people crushed by adversity. They feel that He must come down from heaven to see their plight. rend the heavens. See note, Ps 144:5.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:2–3 When God shows Himself and His brilliant light and fire, mountains will quake and nations will tremble. When the Law was given at Mount Sinai, both the mountain and the people trembled (Ex 19:16, 18). brushwood. Useful for making a quick, hot fire.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:4 Cf 43:10. Paul uses this verse to marvel at the incomprehensible wisdom "God has revealed" in the Gospel of salvation (1Co 2:9–10). wait for Him. See note, 8:17.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:5 You meet. To greet and bless. ways. See p 844. a long time … saved? Whether translated as a statement (KJV), a question, or a wish, this clause points to the underlying cause of all distress: "We have sinned."
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:6 polluted garment. Cloth used for a woman's menstrual period, a time of uncleanness (Lv 15:19–33). "God rejoices in them [godly works] with all the angels. In comparison with these works all human holiness is just stench and filth" (LC I 198). wind, take us away. See note, Ps 1:4.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:7 calls upon Your name. See p 842. hidden Your face. Cf 8:17; see note, 45:15. Luth: "This is a Hebraism: To hide the face and to let it shine. A calm face signifies grace and goodwill. To turn away and to hide the face means that God is angry [Ps 27:9]. . . . Such were the cloud, the fiery pillar, and other signs, whereby God is perceived as being well disposed toward us. This is the meaning of God's calm face. God's face is God's very presence either in the Word, the promise and the sacraments, where God's thought is set before my conscience, or in deed, when God removes evils, pestilence, and murder. Summary: The face is called the design, or the appearance; the 'face' of a house or the 'face' of a tree. Therefore when God hides His face, both Word and deed, nothing remains but the face of the devil, of death, and of sin" (AE 17:370–71). melt in the hand. Cf Gn 14:20; Jb 8:4 for a similar construction. The context here also includes reference to wind removing leaves (v 6), which perhaps evoked the idea of melting, as when a pile of leaves or chaff is gradually whisked away. See note, Ps 1:4.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:8 our Father. See note, 63:16. we are the clay … Your hand. We are as God shapes us to be. potter. God created and shaped the destiny of the chosen people as an artisan fashions clay into a vase. See note, 29:16; cf Jer 18:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:10–12 Isaiah foretold the destruction of the cities of the holy nation (Ex 19:6) and of their "holy and beautiful house" of worship. Though they should expect extinction, he gives them hope for restoration if they humbly ask the Lord not to afflict them more sorely. These words are also for all people laid low by adversities to "the end of the ages," in order that they "might have hope" (1Co 10:11–13; Rm 15:4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:11 house. The temple.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 64:12 keep silent. Cf v 7.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 63:15–64:12 Confessing their sins, the Lord's penitent people pray to Him as their Father, asking Him to reclaim them. Israel's confession is like our own, for we also have wandered from the Lord's ways. In the uncleanness of our sin, all our righteous deeds are like a polluted garment. In the fullness of time, God rent the heavens and came down for our salvation in the person of Jesus Christ. Through Jesus' suffering, death, and resurrection, our heavenly Father was acting on our behalf, not counting our sins against us. • Gracious Father, we confess that we have sinned against You and have withheld the fear You deserve. Forgive us, we pray, for Jesus' sake, and keep us as Your holy people. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:1 I. The Lord replies to Isaiah's petition (63:15–64:12). Here am I. See note, 58:9. not called by My name. See alternate wording in ESV note. God chose Israel. They had no merit or worthiness that attracted Him to them (see notes, Dt 7:6–8; cf Rm 9:30–10:4).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:2 I spread out My hands. God's strong arms are now spread in patient appeal. a rebellious people. When Israel turned a deaf ear to the Lord's repeated calls to faithfulness, they, the chosen people, sank to the level of the heathen, who likewise did not seek Him.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:3 in gardens. See notes, 1:29; 17:10. Isaiah lashes out at pagan rites and forms of divination of which Israel was guilty from the days of their fathers (v 7; cf Jgs 2:11).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:4 sit in tombs. Engaging in occult forms of divination such as consulting the dead (cf 8:19). pig's flesh. See notes, Lv 11, for regulations of clean and unclean food.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:5 too holy. They arrogantly regard themselves charged with supernatural forces that could prove hurtful to the uninitiated.

smoke in My nostrils. Israel's vanity (and likely burnt offerings to idols) was an irritation to God that turned His face from them.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:6 not keep silent. See note, 64:7. repay into their bosom. See notes, Ps 79:12; Lk 6:37.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:7 fathers' iniquities. See note, Ex 20:5. on the mountains … hills. See p 526.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:8–10 The promise of a remnant is based on the Lord's everlasting covenant with Abraham and his descendants (Gn 17:7; cf Gal 3:29). He will never nullify this promise. Therefore, though judgment may come, it is intended to remove those who claim to be members but are not (cf Jn 15:2, 6) and to purify those who are true members (cf Heb 12:7–11).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:8 The owner of the vineyard is told not to discard an entire cluster of grapes if some of them are dried up or rotten, because there are enough good ones left to produce excellent wine. In the same way, the Lord will not cast out the whole nation because there still are faithful servants in its midst. See note, 5:1–7. Do not destroy. See note, Ps 57, for the use of these words to prescribe the musical rendition of Ps 57–59. Apparently the title of a well-known vineyard song is meant (cf 16:10). servants'. Israel's.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:9 My chosen. See "choose," p 5.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:10 Sharon. Northern grassland along the coastline of the Great Sea, near Joppa (1Ch 27:29; Sg 2:1; Ac 9:35). Achor. Cf Jsh 7:24–26. Sharon and the Valley of Achor lie on opposite ends of Israel's borders and so represent the prosperity of the whole country. sought Me. See "seek," p 843.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:11 forsake. Refers to idolatry. My holy mountain. Zion. Fortune … Destiny. Likely names of pagan deities. Their devotees appealed to them in ritual eating and drinking to grant them good luck and a positive fate.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:12 bow down to the slaughter. Kneel for execution. when I called. Through the prophets.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:13–16 The Lord provides a contrast between His people (the servants) and those who have been disobedient. This contrast reflects the blessings and curses of Lv 26; Dt 28.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:13 My servants. The faithful of Israel. you. The unfaithful.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:14 breaking of spirit. Sadness and discouragement. See note, Jsh 2:11.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:15 a curse. The names of those destroyed by God's wrath will be used in an oath formula when a judgment just as severe is invoked on subsequent enemies of God and of His chosen. See p 6. the Lord GOD will put you to death. Possibly the wording of the curse (Nu 5:21). call by another name. His servants will not be named in the curse. Each will be entitled to "bless himself" by praying to "the God of truth" (v 16).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:16 blesses himself. See note, v 15. God of truth. Cf Ps 31:5; 2Co 1:20; Rv 3:14. oath. See "vow," p 7. hidden from My eyes. Cf 8:17.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:1–16 The Lord will repay the iniquities of those who reject Him, but His chosen servants—who seek Him in faith—will lie down in safety. The Lord threatens to punish all who follow their own devices and do not listen to Him. The retribution we deserve for our iniquities has been laid on Jesus. With His own blood, He made payment for all of our sinful deeds. • O Lord, in Holy Baptism You chose us to be Your servants, and You filled our lives with blessing. Help us each day to choose what You delight in and to sing for gladness of heart. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:17–25 The future restoration of the Lord's people and all creation. This vision further defines the new things mentioned earlier (42:9; 48:6). With earthly imagery, the prophet is trying to help his generation understand the blessings of eternal life. Luther emphasized that the blessings of God's new creation begin now for believers. Luth: "He is not speaking only of the spiritual heaven, but He makes all things new, spiritual and physical, although I do not see a new heaven and a new body in us, but only the one born of our parents. Yet we believe it. We must turn the sack inside out, and then they will appear. . . . The promise is everlasting. Rejoice in it. Peter says (1 Peter 1:9), 'As the outcome of your faith you obtain the salvation of your souls.' This salvation is already prepared. Peter is as certain as if it were already there. Then he says, 'But the revelation is awaited.' Then we shall see what we cannot now receive with the mind. . . . Therefore whoever is tormented in his feeling by sin and death, let him rise again in the Word and kingdom of Christ and say, 'My Christ lives' " (AE 17:388).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:17 create. Hbr word denotes divine action (cf Gn 1:1); it expresses great and new acts that require a divine agent. It occurs nine times in the early chapters of Gn and 19 times in Is 40–66 (three times in Is 65:17–18). former things. The old creation and the sins of God's people, which have now been forgiven. Cf Ps 103:12.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:18–19 The center of the new creation is the new Jerusalem and its temple (Ezk 48:30–35; Zec 14:10–21; Rv 21:2–22:5).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:19 it. Jerusalem.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:20–25 Cf 11:6–9.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:20 No more. The usual circumstances of life and death in a sin-broken world are cast aside. In the new creation, life triumphs over death (cf 25:8). for the young man … be accursed. The context describes creation without the corruption of sin and death (vv 17–25), so the examples here seem confusing. But, in fact, they are hypothetical (a conditional use of Hbr ki, "though"; cf Jer 49:16; 51:53). One could translate it "supposing that the young man shall die." The two halves of v 20 present a contrast, and the examples of the second half are unreal—remarkably, the vulnerable infant and old man live on, but those strong by worldly standards ("young man," "sinner") would surely suffer death or a curse. a hundred years. Used figuratively for a great length of time. See p 217. Time will no longer have its aging effect on those who formerly were under the curse of sin.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:21–25 The blessings of the covenant with God are again expounded as being fully restored for His people (cf Dt 6:10–12).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:22 build and another inhabit. Unlike the futility of the exodus, when those who began neither finished the journey nor entered the Promised Land, here there is completion of the promised dwelling. like the days of a tree. See note, v 20.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:23 bear children for calamity. Refers to the ravages of war. blessed of the LORD. God's faithful people. See p 842.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:24 Luth: "Our prayer pleases God because He has commanded it, made promises, and given form to our prayer. For that reason He is pleased with our prayer, He requires it and delights in it, because He promises, commands, and shapes it. Therefore only the prayer of the godly is a prayer for the sake of God's excellent promises, since we know that they are acceptable and pleasing. But the prayer of the ungodly is sin. God cannot get enough of the prayers of the godly. Therefore the prayer of the godly is likened to the most attractive odor which one cannot smell enough. Then He says I will hear. It is not only guaranteed, but it is actually already obtained" (AE 17:393).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:25 wolf … lamb. Proverbial opposites. The first is aggressive and voracious; the latter, weak and helpless, the wolf's natural food. holy mountain. Cf 27:13; 56:7; 57:13; 65:11; 66:20. Denotes paradise restored (cf Rv 21:10).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 65:17–25 In the Lord's new creation, we will completely forget the weeping and futility so characteristic of life in a fallen world. In their place shall be joy and gladness, fulfillment and satisfaction. It is the Lord's desire that His repentant people should no longer remember or be troubled by their former sins. Our place in the Lord's new creation has been secured through faith in Jesus. Through the saving work of His hands, we have the joy of sins forgiven and the gladness of life eternal. • Lord God, You who are quick to hear and answer the prayers of Your people, hasten the day when we will enjoy the fullness of Your new creation. Amen.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON Ch 66 The burning of Jerusalem by the Babylonians becomes a small-scale model of the unquenchable fire when the Lord will "enter into judgment … with all flesh" (vv 16, 24). Conversely, the return of captive Israel becomes the prophetic symbol of a universal movement when "all flesh shall come to worship" before the Lord (v 23).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:1 God cannot be locked up within walls. Cf Mt 5:34–37. Is 6:1 gives a similar view of the Lord, where the edge of His garment fills the temple. Yet, the One who is high and lifted up condescends to be enshrined in the heart of everyone who is "of a contrite and lowly spirit" (57:15). what is the house … rest? Reminiscent of the Lord's words to David through Nathan concerning the building of the temple in Jerusalem (2Sm 7:5–7).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:2 My hand. Cf 64:8. humble and contrite … trembles. The Lord repeats the desire for actions that stem from contrite hearts (cf Mt 5:3–4; Lk 18:13–14).

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:3 slaughters … kills. The use of prescribed offerings (ox, lamb, grain, memorial) as a magical device to immobilize the Lord is as abhorrent to Him as sacrificing human beings or unclean animals such as dogs and swine. Archaeologists have discovered remains of sacrifices at Haror, including birds, puppies, donkeys, and a person. chosen their own ways. Cf 58:13. abominations. See note, Pr 6:16.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:4 bring their fears upon them. Physical and mental punishment. I called. Through the prophets.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:5–6 The Lord reminds the remnant that He will repay their enemies, who are also His enemies. This passage of assurance culminates with a threefold call to listen to the voice from the city, the voice from the temple, and the voice of the Lord as He repays His enemies.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:5 Brethren who hate the devout are so degenerate that they blasphemously challenge Him to vindicate His honor and to bring joy to those suffering for His "name's sake."
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:1–6 The Lord delights in those who are humble and contrite in spirit. But those who pursue self-chosen ways will be put to shame. Even the offerings they outwardly present to the Lord are regarded by Him as abominations. Although the glory of the Lord spans both heaven and earth, God Himself dwelt among us in the person of Jesus Christ. He became the sacrificial Lamb of God, whose death atoned for all our sins. • Lord Jesus Christ, by Your Holy Spirit create in us humble and contrite hearts, that we might tremble at Your Word and gladly hear and learn it. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:7–9 The Lord here is not speaking of human birth but of how suddenly Zion's glory will return to her (cf 49:19–50:3; 54:1).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:7 she. Zion (v 8). See notes, 49:19; ch 54; Gal 4:26.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:8 These questions show the astonishing, impossible nature of God's restoration of Israel.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:9 God has prepared Israel for rebirth; surely He will deliver her.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:10–11 The Lord commends comfort to the ones in anguish over the state of Jerusalem and those who will mourn her destruction (Ezk 9:4).
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:10 Rejoice … be glad. In view of vv 12–14. all you who love her. The faithful inhabitants and friendly peoples.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:11 Jerusalem is a mother to the nation and its inhabitants. See "daughters of Zion," p 1079; see also note, Ps 97:8.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:12 peace to her like a river. Peace and glory will overflow without end. glory of the nations. See note, 61:5–6. you shall nurse. See note, v 11.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:13 I will comfort. The Lord speaks with the nurturing image of v 11. See notes, 1Th 2:7; 1Pt 2:2; cf Is 49:15; Mt 23:37.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:14 bones shall flourish like the grass. The opposite of the imagery Isaiah has used to show the frailty of people (37:27; 40:6–7; 51:12). hand of the LORD. See p 842. His enemies. See note, 63:1–6.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:7–14 The Lord will bring about a new birth of joy and delight. We should not look elsewhere for lasting satisfaction and comfort. Motherly comfort and peace like a river will satisfy and delight all God's people. Just as a child's mother meets his or her needs, so our heavenly Father meets our needs of provision and pardon. • Gracious Lord, by Your Son, Jesus Christ, You delivered us from destruction. In Holy Baptism, You caused us to be born again. Carry us and bless us with the comfort and peace that only You can give. Amen.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:15 the LORD will come. Judgment Day. See "day of the LORD," p 1079. in fire. The use of fire is an execution of judgment (1:31; 30:27; 33:11–14; 34:9–10; Mt 3:12; 2Pt 3:10; Rv 20:10, 14–15). Its purpose was the complete destruction of evil. Burning accompanied the capture and destruction of enemy cities (cf Jsh 6:24; 8:8; 11:11; Jgs 1:8). The Lord's theophanies by fire include the bush (Ex 3:2), the pillar at night (Ex 13:21–22), and Mount Sinai (Ex 19:18). In Dt 4:24 and 9:3, the Lord Himself is described as a devouring fire. Fire is used as a metaphor for the Lord's anger (Lm 2:4; Ezk 36:5; Na 1:6). Cf Ezk 10:1–2. whirlwind. See note, Jb 38:1.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:16 by fire … by His sword. Lightning. See note, Lv 10:2.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:17 sanctify and purify. See p 7. the gardens. See note, 65:3. one in the midst. Either the person leading the initiation rites or the goddess to whom they devote themselves. pig's flesh … mice. The idolatry of Israel is described as eating pigs, which are unclean (Lv 11:7; Dt 14:8). In 1Sm 6:4, mice are associated with the Philistine god Dagon (cf 1Sm 5). abomination. See note, Pr 6:16.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:18 time is coming. Judgment Day. See "day of the LORD," p 1079. gather. Cf Ezk 38–39. glory. See pp 6–7.
ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:19 a sign. Cf 19:19–20. survivors. The banner of the Servant (11:10–12) and the sign of the Son of Man (Mt 24:30) will call all to the holy mountain (cf Is 2:1–5). declare My glory. His victory. See "glory of the LORD," pp 6–7. the nations. Those mentioned to symbolize the worldwide gathering of the redeemed were on the outer perimeter of ancient Israel: Tarshish to the west (see note, 1Ki 10:22); Pul and Lud in Africa (LXX "Put," cf Ezk 38:5); Tubal and Javan to the north (Ezk 27:13). See notes, Gn 10:2–5; on the extent of ancient travel, see map, p 1479. Javan. Translated "Greece" in Zec 9:13.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:20 They will come to Zion by all means possible. See note, 2:3. all your brothers. Cf v 24; Rm 11:25. offering to the LORD … grain offering. See pp 170–71. holy mountain. See note, 11:9.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:21 See note, 61:6.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:22 As lasting as the new creation is the crown of His creation, His restored people. For the servants of the Lord, life goes on eternally in the presence of the Lord (Rv 21:2–4) with a share in His glory (Is 4:2; 11:10; 43:7; 58:8; 60:1–2, 13; 62:2). Cf v 24 for the final place of those who rebel.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:23 From new moon … to Sabbath. All time will be holy. See pp 170–71. before Me. Cf 45:23.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:24 Gruesome evidence of God's victory. worm … fire. Jesus used these terms to describe the torment of hell (Mk 9:43–48). abhorrence. Rendered "contempt" in Dn 12:2.

ISAIAH—NOTE ON 66:15–24 With hot rebuke, Isaiah closes his prophecy. Though he has emphasized God's grace and restoration in the preceding chapters, he ends with the fires of punishment because his hearers will not repent. This day, with repentant cry, lift your voice to the Maker of heaven and earth. He who has every right to condemn also has every desire to forgive you and raise you to new life as He demonstrated toward you in His Son, the Savior from sin and hell. • Holy Jesus, sanctify and purify me from all uncleanness. Quench my passion for sin, and grant me life everlasting. Amen.

Jeremiah

1 [1]†††The words of Jeremiah, the son of Hilkiah, one of the priests who were in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, [2]†to whom the word of the LORD came in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah, in the thirteenth year of his reign. [3]†It came also in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, and until the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah, the son of Josiah, king of Judah, until the captivity of Jerusalem in the fifth month.

The Call of Jeremiah

4 ‡‡‡Now the word of the Lord came to me, saying,

5 ‡ “Before I formed you in the womb I knew you,
and before you were born I consecrated you;
I appointed you a prophet to the nations.”

6 ‡Then I said, “Ah, Lord God! Behold, I do not know how to speak, for I am only a youth.” 7 But the Lord said to me,

“Do not say, ‘I am only a youth’;
for to all to whom I send you, you shall go,
and whatever I command you, you shall speak.
8 ‡ Do not be afraid of them,
for I am with you to deliver you,
declares the Lord.”

9 ‡Then the Lord put out his hand and touched my mouth. And the Lord said
to me,

“Behold, I have put my words in your mouth.
10 ‡ See, I have set you this day over nations and over kingdoms,
to pluck up and to break down,
to destroy and to overthrow,
to build and to plant.”

11 ‡‡‡And the word of the Lord came to me, saying, “Jeremiah, what do you see?” And I said, “I see an almond[1] branch.” 12 Then the Lord said to me, “You have seen well, for I am watching over my word to perform it.” 13 ‡The word of the Lord came to me a second time, saying, “What do you see?” And I said, “I see a boiling pot, facing away from the north.” 14 Then the Lord said to me, “Out of the north disaster[2] shall be let loose upon all the inhabitants of the land. [15]For behold, I am calling all the tribes of the kingdoms of the north, declares the Lord, and they shall come, and every one shall set his throne at the entrance of the gates of Jerusalem, against all its walls all around and against all the cities of Judah. [16]† And I will declare my judgments against them, for all their evil in forsaking me. They have made offerings to other gods and worshiped the works of their own hands. [17]But you, dress yourself for work;[3] arise, and say to them everything that I command you. Do not be dismayed by them, lest I dismay you before them. [18]† And I, behold, I make you this day a fortified city, an iron pillar, and bronze walls, against the whole land, against the kings of Judah, its officials, its priests, and the people of the land. [19]† They will fight against you, but they shall not prevail against you, for I am with you, declares the Lord, to deliver you."

Israel Forsakes the Lord

2 [1]‡‡‡The word of the Lord came to me, saying, [2]†"Go and proclaim in the hearing of Jerusalem, Thus says the Lord,

"I remember the devotion of your youth,
your love as a bride,
how you followed me in the wilderness,
in a land not sown.
[3]† Israel was holy to the Lord,
the firstfruits of his harvest.
All who ate of it incurred guilt;
disaster came upon them,
declares the Lord."

[4]†Hear the word of the Lord, O house of Jacob, and all the clans of the house of Israel. [5]†Thus says the Lord:

"What wrong did your fathers find in me
that they went far from me,
and went after worthlessness, and became worthless?
[6]† They did not say, 'Where is the Lord who brought us up from the land of Egypt,
who led us in the wilderness,
in a land of deserts and pits,
in a land of drought and deep darkness,
in a land that none passes through,
where no man dwells?'
[7] And I brought you into a plentiful land
to enjoy its fruits and its good things.
But when you came in, you defiled my
land
and made my heritage an abomination.

8† The priests did not say, ‘Where is the Lord?’
Those who handle the law did not know me;
the shepherds[1] transgressed against me;
the prophets prophesied by Baal
and went after things that do not profit.

9 “Therefore I still contend with you,
declares the Lord,
and with your children’s children I will contend.
10† For cross to the coasts of Cyprus and see,
or send to Kedar and examine with care;
see if there has been such a thing.
11† Has a nation changed its gods,
even though they are no gods?
But my people have changed their glory
for that which does not profit.
12† Be appalled, O heavens, at this;
be shocked, be utterly desolate,
declares the Lord,
13† for my people have committed two evils:
they have forsaken me,
the fountain of living waters,
and hewed out cisterns for themselves,
broken cisterns that can hold no water.

14†† “Is Israel a slave? Is he a homeborn servant?
Why then has he become a prey?
15 The lions have roared against him;
they have roared loudly.
They have made his land a waste;
his cities are in ruins, without inhabitant.
16† Moreover, the men of Memphis and Tahpanhes have shaved[2] the crown of your head.

17 Have you not brought this upon yourself
by forsaking the Lord your God,
when he led you in the way?
18† And now what do you gain by going to Egypt
to drink the waters of the Nile?
Or what do you gain by going to Assyria
to drink the waters of the Euphrates?
19† Your evil will chastise you,
and your apostasy will reprove you.
Know and see that it is evil and bitter
for you to forsake the Lord your God;
the fear of me is not in you,
declares the Lord God of hosts.

20†† "For long ago I broke your yoke
and burst your bonds;
but you said, 'I will not serve.'
Yes, on every high hill
and under every green tree
you bowed down like a whore.
21† Yet I planted you a choice vine,
wholly of pure seed.
How then have you turned degenerate
and become a wild vine?
22† Though you wash yourself with lye
and use much soap,
the stain of your guilt is still before me,
declares the Lord God.
23†† How can you say, 'I am not unclean,
I have not gone after the Baals'?
Look at your way in the valley;
know what you have done—
a restless young camel running here and
there,

24 a wild donkey used to the
wilderness,
in her heat sniffing the wind!
Who can restrain her lust?
None who seek her need weary
themselves;
in her month they will find her.
25 Keep your feet from going unshod
and your throat from thirst.
But you said, ‘It is hopeless,
for I have loved foreigners,
and after them I will go.’

26 “As a thief is shamed when caught,
so the house of Israel shall be shamed:
they, their kings, their officials,
their priests, and their prophets,
27 who say to a tree, ‘You are my father,’
and to a stone, ‘You gave me birth.’
For they have turned their back to me,
and not their face.
But in the time of their trouble they say,
‘Arise and save us!’
28 But where are your gods
that you made for yourself?
Let them arise, if they can save you,
in your time of trouble;
for as many as your cities
are your gods, O Judah.
29 “Why do you contend with me?
You have all transgressed against me,
declares the Lord.
30 In vain have I struck your children;
they took no correction;
your own sword devoured your prophets

like a ravening lion.
31 And you, O generation, behold the word of
the Lord.
Have I been a wilderness to Israel,
or a land of thick darkness?
Why then do my people say, ‘We are free,
we will come no more to you’?
32† Can a virgin forget her ornaments,
or a bride her attire?
Yet my people have forgotten me
days without number.

33 “How well you direct your course
to seek love!
So that even to wicked women
you have taught your ways.
34† Also on your skirts is found
the lifeblood of the guiltless poor;
you did not find them breaking in.
Yet in spite of all these things
35 you say, ‘I am innocent;
surely his anger has turned from me.’
Behold, I will bring you to judgment for saying, ‘I have not sinned.’ 36† How much you go about,
changing your way!
You shall be put to shame by Egypt
as you were put to shame by Assyria.
37† From it too you will come away
with your hands on your head,
for the Lord has rejected those in whom you trust,
and you will not prosper by them.

3 [1]†“If[1] a man divorces his wife and she goes from him
and becomes another man’s wife,
will he return to her?

Would not that land be greatly polluted?
You have played the whore with many lovers;
and would you return to me?
declares the Lord.
[2]† Lift up your eyes to the bare heights, and see!
Where have you not been ravished?
By the waysides you have sat awaiting lovers
like an Arab in the wilderness.
You have polluted the land
with your vile whoredom.
[3]† Therefore the showers have been withheld,
and the spring rain has not come;
yet you have the forehead of a whore;
you refuse to be ashamed.
[4]† Have you not just now called to me,
‘My father, you are the friend of my youth—
[5] will he be angry forever, will he be indignant to the end?’
Behold, you have spoken,
but you have done all the evil that you could.”

Faithless Israel Called to Repentance

6 The Lord said to me in the days of King Josiah: “Have you seen what she did, that faithless one, Israel, how she went up on every high hill and under every green tree, and there played the whore? 7 And I thought, ‘After she has done all this she will return to me,’ but she did not return, and her treacherous sister Judah saw it. 8 She saw that for all the adulteries of that faithless one, Israel, I had sent her away with a decree of divorce. Yet her treacherous sister Judah did not fear, but she too went and played the whore.
9 Because she took her whoredom lightly, she polluted the land, committing adultery with stone and tree. 10 Yet for all this her treacherous sister Judah did not return to me with her whole heart, but in pretense, declares the Lord.”

11 And the Lord said to me, “Faithless Israel has shown herself more righteous than treacherous Judah. 12 Go, and proclaim these words toward the north, and say,

“‘ Return, faithless Israel,
declares the Lord.
I will not look on you in anger,
for I am merciful,
declares the Lord;
I will not be angry forever.
13 Only acknowledge your guilt,
that you rebelled against the Lord your God
and scattered your favors among foreigners
under every green tree,
and that you have not obeyed my voice,
declares the Lord.
14 Return, O faithless children,
declares the Lord;
for I am your master;
I will take you, one from a city and two from a family,
and I will bring you to Zion.

15 ‡ “‘And I will give you shepherds after my own heart, who will feed you with knowledge and understanding. 16 ‡ And when you have multiplied and increased in the land, in those days, declares the Lord, they shall no more say, “The ark of the covenant of the Lord.” It shall not come to mind or be remembered or missed; it shall not be made again. 17 At that time Jerusalem shall be called the throne of the Lord, and all nations shall gather to it, to the presence of the Lord in Jerusalem, and they shall no more stubbornly follow their own evil heart. 18 ‡ In those days the house of Judah shall join the house of Israel, and together they shall come from the land of the north to the land that I gave your fathers for a heritage.

19 ‡ “‘I said,
How I would set you among my sons,
and give you a pleasant land,
a heritage most beautiful of all nations.
And I thought you would call me, My Father,
and would not turn from following me.
20 ‡ Surely, as a treacherous wife leaves her
husband,
so have you been treacherous to me,
O house of Israel,
declares the Lord.’”
21 ‡ A voice on the bare heights is heard,
the weeping and pleading of Israel’s sons
because they have perverted their way;
they have forgotten the Lord their God.
22 ‡ “Return, O faithless sons;
I will heal your faithlessness.”
“Behold, we come to you,
for you are the Lord our God.
23 ‡ Truly the hills are a delusion,
the orgies[1] on the mountains.
Truly in the Lord our God
is the salvation of Israel.

[24]† “But from our youth the shameful thing has devoured all for which our fathers labored, their flocks and their herds, their sons and their daughters.
[25]† Let us lie down in our shame, and let our dishonor cover us. For we have sinned against the Lord our God, we and our fathers, from our youth even to this day, and we have not obeyed the voice of the Lord our God.”

4 [1]† “If you return, O Israel,
declares the Lord,
to me you should return.

If you remove your detestable things from my
presence,
and do not waver,
[2]† and if you swear, ‘As the Lord lives,’
in truth, in justice, and in righteousness, then nations shall bless themselves in
him,
and in him shall they glory.”

[3]†† For thus says the Lord to the men of Judah and Jerusalem:

“Break up your fallow ground,
and sow not among thorns.
[4]† Circumcise yourselves to the Lord;
remove the foreskin of your hearts,
O men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem;
lest my wrath go forth like fire,
and burn with none to quench it,
because of the evil of your deeds.”

Disaster from the North

5 †† Declare in Judah, and proclaim in Jerusalem, and say,

"Blow the trumpet through the land;
cry aloud and say,
'Assemble, and let us go into the fortified cities!'
6 † Raise a standard toward Zion, flee for safety, stay not,
for I bring disaster from the north,
and great destruction.
7 A lion has gone up from his thicket,
a destroyer of nations has set out;
he has gone out from his place
to make your land a waste;
your cities will be ruins
without inhabitant.
8 † For this put on sackcloth,
lament and wail,
for the fierce anger of the LORD
has not turned back from us."

9 †"In that day, declares the LORD, courage shall fail both king and officials. The priests shall be appalled and the prophets astounded." 10 †Then I said, "Ah, Lord GOD, surely you have utterly deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying, 'It shall be well with you,' whereas the sword has reached their very life."

11 †At that time it will be said to this people and to Jerusalem, "A hot wind from the bare heights in the desert toward the daughter of my people, not to winnow or cleanse, 12 †a wind too full for this comes for me. Now it is I who speak in judgment upon them."

13 Behold, he comes up like clouds;
his chariots like the whirlwind;
his horses are swifter than eagles—
woe to us, for we are ruined!
14† O Jerusalem, wash your heart from evil,
that you may be saved.
How long shall your wicked thoughts lodge within you?
15† For a voice declares from Dan and proclaims trouble from Mount Ephraim.
16 Warn the nations that he is coming;
announce to Jerusalem,
"Besiegers come from a distant land;
they shout against the cities of Judah.
17 Like keepers of a field are they against her all around,
because she has rebelled against me,
declares the LORD.
18† Your ways and your deeds
have brought this upon you.
This is your doom, and it is bitter;
it has reached your very heart."

Anguish over Judah's Desolation

19 My anguish, my anguish! I writhe in pain!
Oh the walls of my heart!
My heart is beating wildly;
I cannot keep silent,
for I hear the sound of the trumpet,
the alarm of war.
20 Crash follows hard on crash;
the whole land is laid waste.
Suddenly my tents are laid waste,
my curtains in a moment.
21 How long must I see the standard and hear the sound of the trumpet?

22 "For my people are foolish;
they know me not;
they are stupid children;
they have no understanding.
They are 'wise'—in doing evil!
But how to do good they know not."

23 I looked on the earth, and behold, it was without form and void;
and to the heavens, and they had no light.
24 I looked on the mountains, and behold, they were quaking,
and all the hills moved to and fro.
25 I looked, and behold, there was no man,
and all the birds of the air had fled.
26 I looked, and behold, the fruitful land was a desert,

and all its cities were laid in ruins
before the LORD, before his fierce anger.

27 †For thus says the LORD, "The whole land shall be a desolation; yet I will not make a full end.

28† "For this the earth shall mourn,
and the heavens above be dark;
for I have spoken; I have purposed;
I have not relented, nor will I turn back."

29† At the noise of horseman and archer
every city takes to flight;
they enter thickets; they climb among rocks;
all the cities are forsaken,
and no man dwells in them.
30† And you, O desolate one,
what do you mean that you dress in scarlet,
that you adorn yourself with ornaments of
gold,
that you enlarge your eyes with paint?
In vain you beautify yourself.
Your lovers despise you;
they seek your life.
31 For I heard a cry as of a woman in labor, anguish as of one giving birth to her first
child,
the cry of the daughter of Zion gasping for breath,
stretching out her hands,
"Woe is me! I am fainting before murderers."

Jerusalem Refused to Repent

5 [1] Run to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem,
look and take note!
Search her squares to see
if you can find a man,
one who does justice
and seeks truth,
that I may pardon her.

[2] Though they say, “As the Lord lives,” yet they swear falsely.
[3] O Lord, do not your eyes look for truth?
You have struck them down,
but they felt no anguish;
you have consumed them,
but they refused to take correction.
They have made their faces harder than rock;
they have refused to repent.

[4] Then I said, “These are only the poor;
they have no sense;
for they do not know the way of the Lord,
the justice of their God.
[5] I will go to the great
and will speak to them,
for they know the way of the Lord,
the justice of their God.”
But they all alike had broken the yoke;
they had burst the bonds.

6 Therefore a lion from the forest shall strike
them down;
a wolf from the desert shall devastate them.
A leopard is watching their cities;
everyone who goes out of them shall be torn
in pieces,
because their transgressions are many,
their apostasies are great.

7 "How can I pardon you?
Your children have forsaken me
and have sworn by those who are no gods.
When I fed them to the full,
they committed adultery
and trooped to the houses of whores.
8 They were well-fed, lusty stallions,
each neighing for his neighbor's wife.
9 Shall I not punish them for these things?
declares the LORD;
and shall I not avenge myself
on a nation such as this?

10 "Go up through her vine rows and destroy,
but make not a full end;
strip away her branches,
for they are not the LORD's.
11 For the house of Israel and the house of Judah have been utterly treacherous to me,
declares the LORD.
12 They have spoken falsely of the LORD
and have said, 'He will do nothing;
no disaster will come upon us,
nor shall we see sword or famine.
13 The prophets will become wind;

the word is not in them.
Thus shall it be done to them!’”

The Lord Proclaims Judgment

14 Therefore thus says the Lord, the God of
hosts:
"Because you have spoken this word, behold, I am making my words in your mouth a fire,
and this people wood, and the fire shall consume them.
15 Behold, I am bringing against you a nation from afar, O house of Israel,
declares the Lord.
It is an enduring nation;
it is an ancient nation,
a nation whose language you do not know,
nor can you understand what they say.
16 Their quiver is like an open tomb;
they are all mighty warriors.
17 They shall eat up your harvest and your food;
they shall eat up your sons and your daughters;
they shall eat up your flocks and your herds;
they shall eat up your vines and your fig
trees;
your fortified cities in which you trust
they shall beat down with the sword."

18 "But even in those days, declares the Lord, I will not make a full end of you. 19 And when your people say, 'Why has the Lord our God done all these things to us?' you shall say to them, 'As you have forsaken me and served foreign gods in your land, so you shall serve foreigners in a land that is not yours.'"

20 Declare this in the house of Jacob;
proclaim it in Judah:

21 “Hear this, O foolish and senseless people, who have eyes, but see not,
who have ears, but hear not.
22 Do you not fear me? declares the Lord.
Do you not tremble before me?
I placed the sand as the boundary for the sea,
a perpetual barrier that it cannot pass;
though the waves toss, they cannot prevail;
though they roar, they cannot pass over it.
23 But this people has a stubborn and rebellious
heart;
they have turned aside and gone away.
24 They do not say in their hearts,
‘Let us fear the Lord our God,
who gives the rain in its season,
the autumn rain and the spring rain,
and keeps for us
the weeks appointed for the harvest.’
25 Your iniquities have turned these away,
and your sins have kept good from you.
26 For wicked men are found among my people;
they lurk like fowlers lying in wait.[1]
They set a trap;
they catch men.
27 Like a cage full of birds,
their houses are full of deceit;
therefore they have become great and rich;
28 they have grown fat and sleek.
They know no bounds in deeds of evil;
they judge not with justice
the cause of the fatherless, to make it prosper, and they do not defend the rights of the needy.
29 Shall I not punish them for these things?
declares the Lord,

and shall I not avenge myself
on a nation such as this?”

30 An appalling and horrible thing
has happened in the land:
31 the prophets prophesy falsely,
and the priests rule at their direction;
my people love to have it so,
but what will you do when the end comes?

Impending Disaster for Jerusalem

6 [1]† Flee for safety, O people of Benjamin,
from the midst of Jerusalem!

Blow the trumpet in Tekoa,
and raise a signal on Beth-haccherem,
for disaster looms out of the north,
and great destruction.
[2]† The lovely and delicately bred I will destroy,
the daughter of Zion.[2] [3]† Shepherds with their flocks shall come against her;
they shall pitch their tents around her;
they shall pasture, each in his place.
[4]† "Prepare war against her;
arise, and let us attack at noon!
Woe to us, for the day declines,
for the shadows of evening lengthen!
[5] Arise, and let us attack by night
and destroy her palaces!"

[6]† For thus says the Lord of hosts:
"Cut down her trees;
cast up a siege mound against Jerusalem.
This is the city that must be punished;
there is nothing but oppression within her.
[7] As a well keeps its water fresh,
so she keeps fresh her evil;
violence and destruction are heard within her;
sickness and wounds are ever before me.
[8] Be warned, O Jerusalem,
lest I turn from you in disgust,

lest I make you a desolation,
an uninhabited land."

9† Thus says the LORD of hosts:
"They shall glean thoroughly as a vine
the remnant of Israel;
like a grape-gatherer pass your hand again
over its branches."
10† To whom shall I speak and give warning,
that they may hear?
Behold, their ears are uncircumcised,
they cannot listen;
behold, the word of the LORD is to them an object of scorn;
they take no pleasure in it.
11† Therefore I am full of the wrath of the LORD;
I am weary of holding it in.
"Pour it out upon the children in the street,
and upon the gatherings of young men, also;
both husband and wife shall be taken,
the elderly and the very aged.
12 Their houses shall be turned over to others,
their fields and wives together,
for I will stretch out my hand against the inhabitants of the land,"
declares the LORD.
13 "For from the least to the greatest of them,
everyone is greedy for unjust gain;
and from prophet to priest,
everyone deals falsely.
14† They have healed the wound of my people
lightly,
saying, 'Peace, peace,'
when there is no peace.
15 Were they ashamed when they committed
abomination?

No, they were not at all ashamed;
they did not know how to blush.
Therefore they shall fall among those who fall;
at the time that I punish them, they shall be overthrown,”
says the Lord.

16 † Thus says the Lord:
“Stand by the roads, and look,
and ask for the ancient paths,
where the good way is; and walk in it,
and find rest for your souls.
But they said, ‘We will not walk in it.’
17 I set watchmen over you, saying,
‘Pay attention to the sound of the trumpet!’
But they said, ‘We will not pay attention.’
18 † Therefore hear, O nations, and know, O congregation, what will happen to them.
19 Hear, O earth; behold, I am bringing disaster
upon this people,
the fruit of their devices,
because they have not paid attention to my
words;
and as for my law, they have rejected it.
20 † What use to me is frankincense that comes from Sheba,
or sweet cane from a distant land?
Your burnt offerings are not acceptable,
nor your sacrifices pleasing to me.
21 † Therefore thus says the Lord:
‘Behold, I will lay before this people stumbling blocks against which they shall stumble;
fathers and sons together,
neighbor and friend shall perish.’”

22 † Thus says the Lord:
"Behold, a people is coming from the north country,
a great nation is stirring from the farthest parts of the earth.
23 † They lay hold on bow and javelin;
they are cruel and have no mercy;
the sound of them is like the roaring sea;
they ride on horses,
set in array as a man for battle,
against you, O daughter of Zion!"
24 We have heard the report of it;
our hands fall helpless;
anguish has taken hold of us,
pain as of a woman in labor.
25 Go not out into the field,
nor walk on the road,
for the enemy has a sword;
terror is on every side.
26 † O daughter of my people, put on sackcloth,
and roll in ashes;
make mourning as for an only son,
most bitter lamentation,
for suddenly the destroyer
will come upon us.
27 † "I have made you a tester of metals among my people,
that you may know and test their ways.
28 They are all stubbornly rebellious,
going about with slanders;
they are bronze and iron;
all of them act corruptly.

29 † The bellows blow fiercely;
the lead is consumed by the fire;
in vain the refining goes on,
for the wicked are not removed.
30 Rejected silver they are called,
for the LORD has rejected them.”

Evil in the Land

7 [1]‡‡†The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord: [2]†“Stand in the gate of the Lord’s house, and proclaim there this word, and say, Hear the word of the Lord, all you men of Judah who enter these gates to worship the Lord. [3]†Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Amend your ways and your deeds, and I will let you dwell in this place. [4]†Do not trust in these deceptive words: ‘This is the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord.’

[5]†“For if you truly amend your ways and your deeds, if you truly execute justice one with another, [6]if you do not oppress the sojourner, the fatherless, or the widow, or shed innocent blood in this place, and if you do not go after other gods to your own harm, [7]†then I will let you dwell in this place, in the land that I gave of old to your fathers forever.

[8]‡“Behold, you trust in deceptive words to no avail. [9]†Will you steal, murder, commit adultery, swear falsely, make offerings to Baal, and go after other gods that you have not known, [10]†and then come and stand before me in this house, which is called by my name, and say, ‘We are delivered!’— only to go on doing all these abominations? [11]†Has this house, which is called by my name, become a den of robbers in your eyes? Behold, I myself have seen it, declares the Lord. [12]†Go now to my place that was in Shiloh, where I made my name dwell at first, and see what I did to it because of the evil of my people Israel. [13]And now, because you have done all these things, declares the Lord, and when I spoke to you persistently you did not listen, and when I called you, you did not answer, [14]therefore I will do to the house that is called by my name, and in which you trust, and to the place that I gave to you and to your fathers, as I did to Shiloh. [15]†And I will cast you out of my sight, as I cast out all your kinsmen, all the offspring of Ephraim.

[16]†“As for you, do not pray for this people, or lift up a cry or prayer for them, and do not intercede with me, for I will not hear you. [17]Do you not see what they are doing in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? [18]†The children gather wood, the fathers kindle fire, and the women knead dough, to make cakes for the queen of heaven. And they pour out drink offerings to other gods, to provoke me to anger. 19 †Is it I whom they provoke? declares the Lord. Is it not themselves, to their own shame?

20Therefore thus says the Lord God: behold, my anger and my wrath will be poured out on this place, upon man and beast, upon the trees of the field and the fruit of the ground; it will burn and not be quenched."

21 ‡ †Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: "Add your burnt offerings to your sacrifices, and eat the flesh. 22 ‡For in the day that I brought them out of the land of Egypt, I did not speak to your fathers or command them concerning burnt offerings and sacrifices. 23 †But this command I gave them: 'Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and you shall be my people. And walk in all the way that I command you, that it may be well with you.' 24But they did not obey or incline their ear, but walked in their own counsels and the stubbornness of their evil hearts, and went backward and not forward. 25†From the day that your fathers came out of the land of Egypt to this day, I have persistently sent all my servants the prophets to them, day after day. 26†Yet they did not listen to me or incline their ear, but stiffened their neck. They did worse than their fathers.

27†"So you shall speak all these words to them, but they will not listen to you. You shall call to them, but they will not answer you. 28†And you shall say to them, 'This is the nation that did not obey the voice of the Lord their God, and did not accept discipline; truth has perished; it is cut off from their lips.

29†"'Cut off your hair and cast it away;
raise a lamentation on the bare heights,
for the Lord has rejected and forsaken the generation of his wrath.'

The Valley of Slaughter

30 ‡“For the sons of Judah have done evil in my sight, declares the Lord.
They have set their detestable things in the house that is called by my name, to defile it. 31 †And they have built the high places of Topheth, which is in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire, which I did not command, nor did it come into my mind.
32 †Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when it will no more be called Topheth, or the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, but the Valley of Slaughter; for they will bury in Topheth, because there is no room elsewhere. 33 †And the dead bodies of this people will be food for the birds of the air, and for the beasts of the earth, and none will frighten them away.
34 †And I will silence in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem
the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, for the land shall become a waste.

8 1 ‡‡“At that time, declares the Lord, the bones of the kings of Judah, the bones of its officials, the bones of the priests, the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be brought out of their tombs. 2 †And they shall be spread before the sun and the moon and all the host of heaven, which they have loved and served, which they have gone after, and which they have sought and worshiped. And they shall not be gathered or buried. They shall be as dung on the surface of the ground.
3 †Death shall be preferred to life by all the remnant that remains of this evil family in all the places where I have driven them, declares the Lord of hosts.

Sin and Treachery

4 “You shall say to them, Thus says the Lord:
When men fall, do they not rise again?
If one turns away, does he not return?
5 Why then has this people turned away
in perpetual backsliding?
They hold fast to deceit;
they refuse to return.
6 I have paid attention and listened,
but they have not spoken rightly;
no man relents of his evil,
saying, ‘What have I done?’
Everyone turns to his own course,
like a horse plunging headlong into battle.
7 Even the stork in the heavens knows her times,
and the turtledove, swallow, and crane[1]
keep the time of their coming,
but my people know not
the rules[1] of the Lord.

8 “How can you say, ‘We are wise,
and the law of the Lord is with us’?
But behold, the lying pen of the scribes
has made it into a lie.
9 The wise men shall be put to shame;
they shall be dismayed and taken;
behold, they have rejected the word of the Lord,
so what wisdom is in them?
10 Therefore I will give their wives to others
and their fields to conquerors, because from the least to the greatest

everyone is greedy for unjust gain;
from prophet to priest,
everyone deals falsely.
11 They have healed the wound of my people
lightly,
saying, ‘Peace, peace,’
when there is no peace.
12 Were they ashamed when they committed
abomination?
No, they were not at all ashamed;
they did not know how to blush.
Therefore they shall fall among the fallen;
when I punish them, they shall be
overthrown,
says the Lord.
13 When I would gather them, declares the Lord,
there are no grapes on the vine,
nor figs on the fig tree;
even the leaves are withered,
and what I gave them has passed away from
them.”[2]
14 Why do we sit still?
Gather together; let us go into the fortified cities
and perish there,
for the Lord our God has doomed us to perish
and has given us poisoned water to drink,
because we have sinned against the Lord.
15 We looked for peace, but no good came;
for a time of healing, but behold, terror.

16 “The snorting of their horses is heard from Dan;
at the sound of the neighing of their stallions
the whole land quakes.

They come and devour the land and all that
fills it,
the city and those who dwell in it.
17 † For behold, I am sending among you serpents, adders that cannot be charmed,
and they shall bite you,”
declares the Lord.

Jeremiah Grieves for His People

18 My joy is gone; grief is upon me;[3]
my heart is sick within me.
19 Behold, the cry of the daughter of my people from the length and breadth of the land:
"Is the LORD not in Zion?
Is her King not in her?"
"Why have they provoked me to anger with their carved images
and with their foreign idols?" 20 "The harvest is past, the summer is ended,
and we are not saved."
21 For the wound of the daughter of my people
is my heart wounded;
I mourn, and dismay has taken hold on me.

22 Is there no balm in Gilead?
Is there no physician there?
Why then has the health of the daughter of my people
not been restored?

9 1 [1] Oh that my head were waters,
and my eyes a fountain of tears,
that I might weep day and night
for the slain of the daughter of my people!

2 [2] Oh that I had in the desert
a travelers' lodging place,
that I might leave my people
and go away from them!
For they are all adulterers,
a company of treacherous men.

3† They bend their tongue like a bow;
falsehood and not truth has grown strong[3] in the land;
for they proceed from evil to evil,
and they do not know me, declares the Lord.

4† Let everyone beware of his neighbor,
and put no trust in any brother,
for every brother is a deceiver,
and every neighbor goes about as a slanderer.
5 Everyone deceives his neighbor,
and no one speaks the truth;
they have taught their tongue to speak lies;
they weary themselves committing iniquity.
6 Heaping oppression upon oppression, and deceit upon deceit,
they refuse to know me, declares the Lord.

7† Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts:
“Behold, I will refine them and test them,
for what else can I do, because of my people?
8 Their tongue is a deadly arrow;
it speaks deceitfully;
with his mouth each speaks peace to his neighbor,
but in his heart he plans an ambush for him.
9† Shall I not punish them for these things?
declares the Lord,
and shall I not avenge myself
on a nation such as this?

[10]† “I will take up weeping and wailing for the mountains,
and a lamentation for the pastures of the
wilderness,
because they are laid waste so that no one passes through,
and the lowing of cattle is not heard;
both the birds of the air and the beasts
have fled and are gone.
[11] I will make Jerusalem a heap of ruins,
a lair of jackals,
and I will make the cities of Judah a desolation,
without inhabitant.”

[12]Who is the man so wise that he can understand this? To whom has the mouth of the Lord spoken, that he may declare it? Why is the land ruined and laid waste like a wilderness, so that no one passes through? [13]And the Lord says: “Because they have forsaken my law that I set before them, and have not obeyed my voice or walked in accord with it, [14]† but have stubbornly followed their own hearts and have gone after the Baals, as their fathers taught them. [15]†Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I will feed this people with bitter food, and give them poisonous water to drink. [16]†I will scatter them among the nations whom neither they nor their fathers have known, and I will send the sword after them, until I have consumed them.”

[17]† Thus says the Lord of hosts:
“Consider, and call for the mourning women to come;
send for the skillful women to come;
[18] let them make haste and raise a wailing
over us,
that our eyes may run down with tears
and our eyelids flow with water.
[19]† For a sound of wailing is heard from Zion:

‘How we are ruined!
We are utterly shamed,
because we have left the land,
because they have cast down our dwellings.’”

20 Hear, O women, the word of the Lord, and let your ear receive the word of his
mouth;
teach to your daughters a lament,
and each to her neighbor a dirge.
21† For death has come up into our windows;
it has entered our palaces,
cutting off the children from the streets
and the young men from the squares.
22 Speak, “Thus declares the Lord:
‘The dead bodies of men shall fall
like dung upon the open field,
like sheaves after the reaper,
and none shall gather them.’”

23†Thus says the Lord: “Let not the wise man boast in his wisdom, let not the mighty man boast in his might, let not the rich man boast in his riches, 24†but let him who boasts boast in this, that he understands and knows me, that I am the Lord who practices steadfast love, justice, and righteousness in the earth. For in these things I delight, declares the Lord.”

25†“Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will punish all those who are circumcised merely in the flesh— 26†Egypt, Judah, Edom, the sons of Ammon, Moab, and all who dwell in the desert who cut the corners of their hair, for all these nations are uncircumcised, and all the house of Israel are uncircumcised in heart.”

Idols and the Living God

10 [1]‡†Hear the word that the Lord speaks to you, O house of Israel.
[2]†Thus says the Lord:

"Learn not the way of the nations,
nor be dismayed at the signs of the heavens
because the nations are dismayed at them,
[3]† for the customs of the peoples are vanity.[1]
A tree from the forest is cut down and worked with an axe by the hands of a craftsman.
[4] They decorate it with silver and gold;
they fasten it with hammer and nails
so that it cannot move.
[5] Their idols[2] are like scarecrows in a cucumber
field,
and they cannot speak;
they have to be carried,
for they cannot walk.
Do not be afraid of them,
for they cannot do evil,
neither is it in them to do good."

[6] There is none like you, O Lord;
you are great, and your name is great in
might.
[7]† Who would not fear you, O King of the nations?
For this is your due;
for among all the wise ones of the nations
and in all their kingdoms
there is none like you.
[8] They are both stupid and foolish;
the instruction of idols is but wood!

9 † Beaten silver is brought from Tarshish,
and gold from Uphaz.
They are the work of the craftsman and of the hands of the goldsmith;
their clothing is violet and purple;
they are all the work of skilled men.
10 † But the LORD is the true God;
he is the living God and the everlasting King.
At his wrath the earth quakes, and the nations cannot endure his indignation.

11 †Thus shall you say to them: "The gods who did not make the heavens and the earth shall perish from the earth and from under the heavens."[1]

12 † It is he who made the earth by his power,
who established the world by his wisdom,
and by his understanding stretched out the
heavens.
13 † When he utters his voice, there is a tumult of
waters in the heavens,
and he makes the mist rise from the ends of
the earth.
He makes lightning for the rain,
and he brings forth the wind from his
storehouses.
14 Every man is stupid and without knowledge;
every goldsmith is put to shame by his idols,
for his images are false,
and there is no breath in them.
15 † They are worthless, a work of delusion;
at the time of their punishment they shall
perish.
16 Not like these is he who is the portion of Jacob,
for he is the one who formed all things,

and Israel is the tribe of his inheritance;
the LORD of hosts is his name.

17† Gather up your bundle from the ground,
O you who dwell under siege!
18† For thus says the LORD:
"Behold, I am slinging out the inhabitants of the land
at this time,
and I will bring distress on them,
that they may feel it."

19† Woe is me because of my hurt!
My wound is grievous.
But I said, "Truly this is an affliction,
and I must bear it."
20† My tent is destroyed,
and all my cords are broken;
my children have gone from me,
and they are not;
there is no one to spread my tent again
and to set up my curtains.
21† For the shepherds are stupid
and do not inquire of the LORD;
therefore they have not prospered,
and all their flock is scattered.

22† A voice, a rumor! Behold, it comes!—
a great commotion out of the north country to make the cities of Judah a desolation,
a lair of jackals.

23† I know, O Lord, that the way of man is not in
himself,
that it is not in man who walks to direct his steps.
24† Correct me, O Lord, but in justice;
not in your anger, lest you bring me to
nothing.

25† Pour out your wrath on the nations that know
you not,
and on the peoples that call not on your
name,
for they have devoured Jacob;
they have devoured him and consumed him,
and have laid waste his habitation.

The Broken Covenant

11 [1]The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord: [2]† "Hear the words of this covenant, and speak to the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [3]† You shall say to them, Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Cursed be the man who does not hear the words of this covenant [4]† that I commanded your fathers when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, from the iron furnace, saying, Listen to my voice, and do all that I command you. So shall you be my people, and I will be your God, [5]† that I may confirm the oath that I swore to your fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as at this day." Then I answered, "So be it,
Lord."

[6]And the Lord said to me, "Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem: Hear the words of this covenant and do them. [7]For I solemnly warned your fathers when I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, warning them persistently, even to this day, saying, Obey my voice. [8]Yet they did not obey or incline their ear, but everyone walked in the stubbornness of his evil heart. Therefore I brought upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do, but they did not."

[9]Again the Lord said to me, "A conspiracy exists among the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [10]† They have turned back to the iniquities of their forefathers, who refused to hear my words. They have gone after other gods to serve them. The house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken my covenant that I made with their fathers. [11]Therefore, thus says
the Lord, Behold, I am bringing disaster upon them that they cannot escape.
Though they cry to me, I will not listen to them. [12]Then the cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem will go and cry to the gods to whom they make offerings, but they cannot save them in the time of their trouble.
[13]† For your gods have become as many as your cities, O Judah, and as many as the streets of Jerusalem are the altars you have set up to shame, altars to make offerings to Baal.

[14]† "Therefore do not pray for this people, or lift up a cry or prayer on their behalf, for I will not listen when they call to me in the time of their trouble. [15]† What right has my beloved in my house, when she has done many vile deeds? Can even sacrificial flesh avert your doom? Can you then exult? 16The Lord once called you ‘a green olive tree, beautiful with good fruit.’ But with the roar of a great tempest he will set fire to it, and its branches will be consumed. 17† The Lord of hosts, who planted you, has decreed disaster against you, because of the evil that the house of Israel and the house of Judah have done, provoking me to anger by making offerings to Baal.”

18† The Lord made it known to me and I knew;
then you showed me their deeds.
19 But I was like a gentle lamb led to the slaughter.
I did not know it was against me
they devised schemes, saying, “Let us destroy the tree with its fruit, let us cut him off from the land of the living,
that his name be remembered no more.”
20† But, O Lord of hosts, who judges righteously, who tests the heart and the mind,
let me see your vengeance upon them,
for to you have I committed my cause.

21Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the men of Anathoth, who seek your life, and say, “Do not prophesy in the name of the Lord, or you will die by our hand”— 22therefore thus says the Lord of hosts: “Behold, I will punish them. The young men shall die by the sword, their sons and their daughters shall die by famine, 23and none of them shall be left. For I will bring disaster upon the men of Anathoth, the year of their punishment.”

Jeremiah's Complaint

12 [1]†† Righteous are you, O Lord,
when I complain to you;

yet I would plead my case before you.
Why does the way of the wicked prosper?
Why do all who are treacherous thrive?
[2]† You plant them, and they take root;
they grow and produce fruit;
you are near in their mouth
and far from their heart.
[3] But you, O Lord, know me;
you see me, and test my heart toward you.
Pull them out like sheep for the slaughter,
and set them apart for the day of slaughter.
[4]† How long will the land mourn
and the grass of every field wither?
For the evil of those who dwell in it
the beasts and the birds are swept away,
because they said, "He will not see our latter end."

The Lord Answers Jeremiah

5 “If you have raced with men on foot, and they have wearied you,
how will you compete with horses?
And if in a safe land you are so trusting,
what will you do in the thicket of the Jordan?
6 For even your brothers and the house of your
father,
even they have dealt treacherously with
you;
they are in full cry after you;
do not believe them,
though they speak friendly words to you.”

7 “I have forsaken my house;
I have abandoned my heritage;
I have given the beloved of my soul
into the hands of her enemies.
8 My heritage has become to me
like a lion in the forest;
she has lifted up her voice against me;
therefore I hate her.
9 Is my heritage to me like a hyena’s lair?
Are the birds of prey against her all around?
Go, assemble all the wild beasts;
bring them to devour.
10 Many shepherds have destroyed my vineyard;
they have trampled down my portion;
they have made my pleasant portion
a desolate wilderness.
11 They have made it a desolation;
desolate, it mourns to me.

The whole land is made desolate,
but no man lays it to heart.
12 Upon all the bare heights in the desert destroyers have come,
for the sword of the Lord devours
from one end of the land to the other;
no flesh has peace.
13 They have sown wheat and have reaped thorns;
they have tired themselves out but profit
nothing.
They shall be ashamed of their[1] harvests
because of the fierce anger of the Lord."

14 ‡ ‡ Thus says the Lord concerning all my evil neighbors who touch the heritage that I have given my people Israel to inherit: "Behold, I will pluck them up from their land, and I will pluck up the house of Judah from among them. 15 ‡ And after I have plucked them up, I will again have compassion on them, and I will bring them again each to his heritage and each to his land. 16 ‡ And it shall come to pass, if they will diligently learn the ways of my people, to swear by my name, 'As the Lord lives,' even as they taught my people to swear by Baal, then they shall be built up in the midst of my people. 17 But if any nation will not listen, then I will utterly pluck it up and destroy it, declares the Lord."

The Ruined Loincloth

13 [1]‡†Thus says the Lord to me, “Go and buy a linen loincloth and put it around your waist, and do not dip it in water.” [2]So I bought a loincloth according to the word of the Lord, and put it around my waist. [3]And the word of the Lord came to me a second time, [4]†“Take the loincloth that you have bought, which is around your waist, and arise, go to the Euphrates and hide it there in a cleft of the rock.” [5]So I went and hid it by the Euphrates, as the Lord commanded me. [6]And after many days the Lord said to me, “Arise, go to the Euphrates, and take from there the loincloth that I commanded you to hide there.” [7]Then I went to the Euphrates, and dug, and I took the loincloth from the place where I had hidden it. And behold, the loincloth was spoiled; it was good for nothing.

[8]Then the word of the Lord came to me: [9]“Thus says the Lord: Even so will I spoil the pride of Judah and the great pride of Jerusalem. [10]†This evil people, who refuse to hear my words, who stubbornly follow their own heart and have gone after other gods to serve them and worship them, shall be like this loincloth, which is good for nothing. [11]† For as the loincloth clings to the waist of a man, so I made the whole house of Israel and the whole house of Judah cling to me, declares the Lord, that they might be for me a people, a name, a praise, and a glory, but they would not listen.

The Jars Filled with Wine

12 ‡‡“You shall speak to them this word: ‘Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel, “Every jar shall be filled with wine.”’ And they will say to you, ‘Do we not indeed know that every jar will be filled with wine?’ 13 †Then you shall say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord: Behold, I will fill with drunkenness all the inhabitants of this land: the kings who sit on David’s throne, the priests, the prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 14And I will dash them one against another, fathers and sons together, declares the Lord. I will not pity or spare or have compassion, that I should not destroy them.’”

Exile Threatened

15 Hear and give ear; be not proud,
for the Lord has spoken.
16 Give glory to the Lord your God
before he brings darkness,
before your feet stumble
on the twilight mountains,
and while you look for light
he turns it into gloom
and makes it deep darkness.
17 But if you will not listen,
my soul will weep in secret for your pride;
my eyes will weep bitterly and run down with tears,
because the Lord's flock has been taken captive.

18 Say to the king and the queen mother:
"Take a lowly seat,
for your beautiful crown
has come down from your head." 19 The cities of the Negeb are shut up,
with none to open them;
all Judah is taken into exile,
wholly taken into exile.

20 "Lift up your eyes and see those who come from the north.
Where is the flock that was given you,
your beautiful flock?
21 What will you say when they set as head over
you
those whom you yourself have taught to be friends to you?

Will not pangs take hold of you
like those of a woman in labor?
22 † And if you say in your heart,
‘Why have these things come upon me?’
it is for the greatness of your iniquity that your skirts are lifted up
and you suffer violence.
23 Can the Ethiopian change his skin
or the leopard his spots?
Then also you can do good
who are accustomed to do evil.
24 † I will scatter you[1] like chaff driven by the wind from the desert.
25 † This is your lot,
the portion I have measured out to you,
declares the Lord,
because you have forgotten me
and trusted in lies.
26 I myself will lift up your skirts over your face,
and your shame will be seen.
27 † I have seen your abominations, your adulteries and neighings, your lewd
whorings,
on the hills in the field.
Woe to you, O Jerusalem!
How long will it be before you are made
clean?”

Famine, Sword, and Pestilence

14 [1]‡‡The word of the Lord that came to Jeremiah concerning the drought:

[2]† “Judah mourns,
and her gates languish;
her people lament on the ground,
and the cry of Jerusalem goes up.
[3]† Her nobles send their servants for water;
they come to the cisterns;
they find no water;
they return with their vessels empty;
they are ashamed and confounded
and cover their heads.
[4] Because of the ground that is dismayed,
since there is no rain on the land,
the farmers are ashamed;
they cover their heads.
[5] Even the doe in the field forsakes her newborn fawn
because there is no grass.
[6] The wild donkeys stand on the bare heights;
they pant for air like jackals;
their eyes fail
because there is no vegetation.

[7]‡‡ “Though our iniquities testify against us,
act, O Lord, for your name’s sake;
for our backslidings are many;
we have sinned against you.
[8]† O you hope of Israel,
its savior in time of trouble,
why should you be like a stranger in the land,

like a traveler who turns aside to tarry for a night?
9 † Why should you be like a man confused,
like a mighty warrior who cannot save?
Yet you, O Lord, are in the midst of us,
and we are called by your name;
do not leave us.”

10 † Thus says the Lord concerning this people:
“They have loved to wander thus;
they have not restrained their feet;
therefore the Lord does not accept them;
now he will remember their iniquity and punish their sins.”

11 ‡ ‡ The Lord said to me: “Do not pray for the welfare of this people.
12 † Though they fast, I will not hear their cry, and though they offer burnt offering and grain offering, I will not accept them. But I will consume them by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence.”

Lying Prophets

13 † Then I said: “Ah, Lord God, behold, the prophets say to them, ‘You shall not see the sword, nor shall you have famine, but I will give you assured peace in this place.’” 14 And the Lord said to me: “The prophets are prophesying lies in my name. I did not send them, nor did I command them or speak to them. They are prophesying to you a lying vision, worthless divination, and the deceit of their own minds. 15 Therefore thus says the Lord concerning the prophets who prophesy in my name although I did not send them, and who say, ‘Sword and famine shall not come upon this land’: By sword and famine those prophets shall be consumed. 16 And the people to whom they prophesy shall be cast out in the streets of Jerusalem, victims of famine and sword, with none to bury them—them, their wives, their sons, and their daughters. For I will pour out their evil upon them.

17 † “You shall say to them this word:
‘Let my eyes run down with tears night and day,
and let them not cease,
for the virgin daughter of my people is shattered with a great wound,
with a very grievous blow.
18 † If I go out into the field,
behold, those pierced by the sword!
And if I enter the city,
behold, the diseases of famine!
For both prophet and priest ply their trade
through the land
and have no knowledge.’”

19 †† Have you utterly rejected Judah?
Does your soul loathe Zion?
Why have you struck us down
so that there is no healing for us?

We looked for peace, but no good came;
for a time of healing, but behold, terror.
20 We acknowledge our wickedness, O Lord,
and the iniquity of our fathers,
for we have sinned against you.
21† Do not spurn us, for your name's sake;
do not dishonor your glorious throne;
remember and do not break your covenant
with us.
22† Are there any among the false gods of the nations that can bring rain?
Or can the heavens give showers?
Are you not he, O Lord our God?
We set our hope on you,
for you do all these things.

The Lord Will Not Relent

15 [1]†† Then the Lord said to me, "Though Moses and Samuel stood before me, yet my heart would not turn toward this people. Send them out of my sight, and let them go! [2]† And when they ask you, 'Where shall we go?' you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord:

"'Those who are for pestilence, to pestilence,
and those who are for the sword, to the sword;
those who are for famine, to famine,
and those who are for captivity, to captivity.'

[3]I will appoint over them four kinds of destroyers, declares the Lord: the sword to kill, the dogs to tear, and the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth to devour and destroy. [4]† And I will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth because of what Manasseh the son of Hezekiah, king of Judah, did in Jerusalem.

[5] "Who will have pity on you, O Jerusalem, or who will grieve for you?
Who will turn aside
to ask about your welfare?
[6]† You have rejected me, declares the Lord;
you keep going backward,
so I have stretched out my hand against you and destroyed you—
I am weary of relenting.
[7]† I have winnowed them with a winnowing fork
in the gates of the land;
I have bereaved them; I have destroyed my
people;
they did not turn from their ways.
[8] I have made their widows more in number than the sand of the seas;
I have brought against the mothers of young

men
a destroyer at noonday;
I have made anguish and terror
fall upon them suddenly.
9† She who bore seven has grown feeble;
she has fainted away;
her sun went down while it was yet day;
she has been shamed and disgraced.
And the rest of them I will give to the sword
before their enemies,
declares the Lord.”

Jeremiah's Complaint

10 † † † Woe is me, my mother, that you bore me, a man of strife and contention to the whole land! I have not lent, nor have I borrowed, yet all of them curse me. 11 † The Lord said, "Have I not[1] set you free for their good?
Have I not pleaded for you before the enemy in the time of trouble and in the time of distress? 12 † Can one break iron, iron from the north, and bronze?

13 "Your wealth and your treasures I will give as spoil, without price, for all your sins, throughout all your territory. 14 I will make you serve your enemies in a land that you do not know, for in my anger a fire is kindled that shall burn forever."

15 † O Lord, you know;
remember me and visit me,
and take vengeance for me on my persecutors.
In your forbearance take me not away;
know that for your sake I bear
reproach.
16 † Your words were found, and I ate them,
and your words became to me a joy
and the delight of my heart,
for I am called by your name,
O Lord, God of hosts.
17 † I did not sit in the company of revelers,
nor did I rejoice;
I sat alone, because your hand was upon me,
for you had filled me with indignation.
18 † Why is my pain unceasing,
my wound incurable,
refusing to be healed?
Will you be to me like a deceitful brook,
like waters that fail?

19 Therefore thus says the Lord:
"If you return, I will restore you,
and you shall stand before me.
If you utter what is precious, and not what is
worthless,
you shall be as my mouth.
They shall turn to you,
but you shall not turn to them.
20 And I will make you to this people
a fortified wall of bronze;
they will fight against you,
but they shall not prevail over you,
for I am with you
to save you and deliver you,
declares the Lord.
21 I will deliver you out of the hand of the
wicked,
and redeem you from the grasp of the ruthless."

Famine, Sword, and Death

16 [1]‡‡The word of the Lord came to me: [2]†“You shall not take a wife, nor shall you have sons or daughters in this place. [3]For thus says the Lord concerning the sons and daughters who are born in this place, and concerning the mothers who bore them and the fathers who fathered them in this land: [4]†They shall die of deadly diseases. They shall not be lamented, nor shall they be buried. They shall be as dung on the surface of the ground.
They shall perish by the sword and by famine, and their dead bodies shall be food for the birds of the air and for the beasts of the earth.

[5]†“For thus says the Lord: Do not enter the house of mourning, or go to lament or grieve for them, for I have taken away my peace from this people, my steadfast love and mercy, declares the Lord. [6]†Both great and small shall die in this land. They shall not be buried, and no one shall lament for them or cut himself or make himself bald for them. [7]†No one shall break bread for the mourner, to comfort him for the dead, nor shall anyone give him the cup of consolation to drink for his father or his mother. [8]†You shall not go into the house of feasting to sit with them, to eat and drink. [9]†For thus says
the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I will silence in this place, before your eyes and in your days, the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride.

[10]“And when you tell this people all these words, and they say to you, ‘Why has the Lord pronounced all this great evil against us? What is our iniquity? What is the sin that we have committed against the Lord our God?’
[11]then you shall say to them: ‘Because your fathers have forsaken me, declares the Lord, and have gone after other gods and have served and worshiped them, and have forsaken me and have not kept my law, [12]and because you have done worse than your fathers, for behold, every one of you follows his stubborn, evil will, refusing to listen to me. [13]†Therefore I will hurl you out of this land into a land that neither you nor your fathers have known, and there you shall serve other gods day and night, for I will show you no favor.’

The Lord Will Restore Israel

14 ‡‡‡“Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when it shall no longer be said, ‘As the Lord lives who brought up the people of Israel out of the land of Egypt,’ 15 †but ‘As the Lord lives who brought up the people of Israel out of the north country and out of all the countries where he had driven them.’ For I will bring them back to their own land that I gave to their fathers.
16 †“Behold, I am sending for many fishers, declares the Lord, and they shall catch them. And afterward I will send for many hunters, and they shall hunt them from every mountain and every hill, and out of the clefts of the rocks. 17For my eyes are on all their ways. They are not hidden from me, nor is their iniquity concealed from my eyes. 18 †But first I will doubly repay their iniquity and their sin, because they have polluted my land with the carcasses of their detestable idols, and have filled my inheritance with their abominations.”

19 ‡ O Lord, my strength and my stronghold,
my refuge in the day of trouble,
to you shall the nations come from the ends of the earth and say:
“Our fathers have inherited nothing but lies,
worthless things in which there is no profit.
20 Can man make for himself gods?
Such are not gods!”

21 †“Therefore, behold, I will make them know, this once I will make them know my power and my might, and they shall know that my name is
the Lord.”

The Sin of Judah

17 [1]"The sin of Judah is written with a pen of iron; with a point of diamond it is engraved on the tablet of their heart, and on the horns of their altars, [2] while their children remember their altars and their Asherim, beside every green tree and on the high hills, [3]on the mountains in the open country. Your wealth and all your treasures I will give for spoil as the price of your high places for sin throughout all your territory. [4]You shall loosen your hand from your heritage that I gave to you, and I will make you serve your enemies in a land that you do not know, for in my anger a fire is kindled that shall burn forever."

[5] Thus says the LORD:
"Cursed is the man who trusts in man
and makes flesh his strength,[1]
whose heart turns away from the LORD.
[6] He is like a shrub in the desert,
and shall not see any good come.
He shall dwell in the parched places of the
wilderness,
in an uninhabited salt land.

[7] "Blessed is the man who trusts in the LORD,
whose trust is the LORD.
[8] He is like a tree planted by water,
that sends out its roots by the stream,
and does not fear when heat comes,
for its leaves remain green,
and is not anxious in the year of drought,
for it does not cease to bear fruit."

[9] The heart is deceitful above all things,
and desperately sick;

who can understand it?
10 † “I the Lord search the heart and test the mind,[2]
to give every man according to his ways,
according to the fruit of his deeds.”

11 Like the partridge that gathers a brood that she did not hatch,
so is he who gets riches but not by justice;
in the midst of his days they will leave him,
and at his end he will be a fool.

12 † A glorious throne set on high from the beginning
is the place of our sanctuary.
13 † O Lord, the hope of Israel,
all who forsake you shall be put to shame;
those who turn away from you[1] shall be written in the earth,
for they have forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living water.

Jeremiah Prays for Deliverance

14 Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed;
save me, and I shall be saved,
for you are my praise.
15 Behold, they say to me,
"Where is the word of the Lord?
Let it come!"
16 I have not run away from being your shepherd,
nor have I desired the day of sickness.
You know what came out of my lips;
it was before your face.
17 Be not a terror to me;
you are my refuge in the day of disaster.
18 Let those be put to shame who persecute me,
but let me not be put to shame;
let them be dismayed,
but let me not be dismayed;
bring upon them the day of disaster;
destroy them with double destruction!

Keep the Sabbath Holy

19 ‡ † Thus said the Lord to me: “Go and stand in the People’s Gate, by which the kings of Judah enter and by which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem, 20 and say: ‘Hear the word of the Lord, you kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, who enter by these gates. 21 † Thus says the Lord: Take care for the sake of your lives, and do not bear a burden on the Sabbath day or bring it in by the gates of Jerusalem. 22 † And do not carry a burden out of your houses on the Sabbath or do any work, but keep the Sabbath day holy, as I commanded your fathers. 23 † Yet they did not listen or incline their ear, but stiffened their neck, that they might not hear and receive instruction.

24 “‘But if you listen to me, declares the Lord, and bring in no burden by the gates of this city on the Sabbath day, but keep the Sabbath day holy and do no work on it, 25 † then there shall enter by the gates of this city kings and princes who sit on the throne of David, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their officials, the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.
And this city shall be inhabited forever. 26 † And people shall come from the cities of Judah and the places around Jerusalem, from the land of Benjamin, from the Shephelah, from the hill country, and from the Negeb, bringing burnt offerings and sacrifices, grain offerings and frankincense, and bringing thank offerings to the house of the Lord. 27 But if you do not listen to me, to keep the Sabbath day holy, and not to bear a burden and enter by the gates of Jerusalem on the Sabbath day, then I will kindle a fire in its gates, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem and shall not be quenched.’”

The Potter and the Clay

18 [1]‡†The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord: [2]“Arise, and go down to the potter’s house, and there I will let you hear my words.” [3]†So I went down to the potter’s house, and there he was working at his wheel.
[4]‡†And the vessel he was making of clay was spoiled in the potter’s hand, and he reworked it into another vessel, as it seemed good to the potter to do.
[5]Then the word of the Lord came to me: [6]“O house of Israel, can I not do with you as this potter has done? declares the Lord. Behold, like the clay in the potter’s hand, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel. [7]‡If at any time I declare concerning a nation or a kingdom, that I will pluck up and break down and destroy it, [8]†and if that nation, concerning which I have spoken, turns from its evil, I will relent of the disaster that I intended to do to it.
[9]And if at any time I declare concerning a nation or a kingdom that I will build and plant it, [10]and if it does evil in my sight, not listening to my voice, then I will relent of the good that I had intended to do to it. [11]†Now, therefore, say to the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: ‘Thus says the Lord, Behold, I am shaping disaster against you and devising a plan against you. Return, every one from his evil way, and amend your ways and your deeds.’
[12]†“But they say, ‘That is in vain! We will follow our own plans, and will every one act according to the stubbornness of his evil heart.’

[13]† “Therefore thus says the Lord:
Ask among the nations,
Who has heard the like of this?
The virgin Israel
has done a very horrible thing.
[14]‡† Does the snow of Lebanon leave the crags of Sirion?[1]
Do the mountain waters run dry,[2]
the cold flowing streams?
[15] But my people have forgotten me;
they make offerings to false gods;

they made them stumble in their ways,
in the ancient roads,
and to walk into side roads,
not the highway,
16 making their land a horror,
a thing to be hissed at forever.
Everyone who passes by it is horrified
and shakes his head.
17† Like the east wind I will scatter them
before the enemy.
I will show them my back, not my face,
in the day of their calamity."

18†Then they said, "Come, let us make plots against Jeremiah, for the law shall not perish from the priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophet. Come, let us strike him with the tongue, and let us not pay attention to any of his words."

19† Hear me, O LORD,
and listen to the voice of my adversaries.
20† Should good be repaid with evil?
Yet they have dug a pit for my life.
Remember how I stood before you
to speak good for them,
to turn away your wrath from them.
21† Therefore deliver up their children to famine;
give them over to the power of the sword;
let their wives become childless and widowed.
May their men meet death by pestilence,
their youths be struck down by the sword in battle.
22† May a cry be heard from their houses,
when you bring the plunderer suddenly upon them!
For they have dug a pit to take me

and laid snares for my feet.
23† Yet you, O Lord, know
all their plotting to kill me.
Forgive not their iniquity,
nor blot out their sin from your sight.
Let them be overthrown before you;
deal with them in the time of your anger.

The Broken Flask

19 [1]‡†Thus says the Lord, “Go, buy a potter’s earthenware flask, and take some of the elders of the people and some of the elders of the priests, [2]†and go out to the Valley of the Son of Hinnom at the entry of the Potsherd Gate, and proclaim there the words that I tell you. [3]†You shall say, ‘Hear the word of the Lord, O kings of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem. Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I am bringing such disaster upon this place that the ears of everyone who hears of it will tingle.
[4]†Because the people have forsaken me and have profaned this place by making offerings in it to other gods whom neither they nor their fathers nor the kings of Judah have known; and because they have filled this place with the blood of innocents, [5]†and have built the high places of Baal to burn their sons in the fire as burnt offerings to Baal, which I did not command or decree, nor did it come into my mind— [6]† therefore, behold, days are coming, declares the Lord, when this place shall no more be called Topheth, or the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, but the Valley of Slaughter. [7]And in this place I will make void the plans of Judah and Jerusalem, and will cause their people to fall by the sword before their enemies, and by the hand of those who seek their life. I will give their dead bodies for food to the birds of the air and to the beasts of the earth. [8]†And I will make this city a horror, a thing to be hissed at. Everyone who passes by it will be horrified and will hiss because of all its wounds. [9]And I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and their daughters, and everyone shall eat the flesh of his neighbor in the siege and in the distress, with which their enemies and those who seek their life afflict them.’

[10]‡“Then you shall break the flask in the sight of the men who go with you, [11]and shall say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts: So will I break this people and this city, as one breaks a potter’s vessel, so that it can never be mended. Men shall bury in Topheth because there will be no place else to bury. [12]Thus will I do to this place, declares the Lord, and to its inhabitants, making this city like Topheth. [13]†The houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah—all the houses on whose roofs offerings have been offered to all the host of heaven, and drink offerings have been poured out to other gods—shall be defiled like the place of Topheth.’”

14 † Then Jeremiah came from Topheth, where the Lord had sent him to prophesy, and he stood in the court of the Lord’s house and said to all the people: 15 † “Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, behold, I am bringing upon this city and upon all its towns all the disaster that I have pronounced against it, because they have stiffened their neck, refusing to hear my words.”

Jeremiah Persecuted by Pashhur

20 [1] † Now Pashhur the priest, the son of Immer, who was chief officer in the house of the Lord, heard Jeremiah prophesying these things. [2] † Then Pashhur beat Jeremiah the prophet, and put him in the stocks that were in the upper Benjamin Gate of the house of the Lord. [3] † The next day, when Pashhur released Jeremiah from the stocks, Jeremiah said to him, "The Lord does not call your name Pashhur, but Terror On Every Side. [4] † For thus says the Lord: Behold, I will make you a terror to yourself and to all your friends. They shall fall by the sword of their enemies while you look on. And I will give all Judah into the hand of the king of Babylon. He shall carry them captive to Babylon, and shall strike them down with the sword. [5] Moreover, I will give all the wealth of the city, all its gains, all its prized belongings, and all the treasures of the kings of Judah into the hand of their enemies, who shall plunder them and seize them and carry them to Babylon. [6] † And you, Pashhur, and all who dwell in your house, shall go into captivity. To Babylon you shall go, and there you shall die, and there you shall be buried, you and all your friends, to whom you have prophesied falsely."

[7] † O Lord, you have deceived me,
and I was deceived;
you are stronger than I,
and you have prevailed.
I have become a laughingstock all the day;
everyone mocks me.
[8] For whenever I speak, I cry out,
I shout, "Violence and destruction!"
For the word of the Lord has become for me
a reproach and derision all day long.
[9] † If I say, "I will not mention him,
or speak any more in his name,"
there is in my heart as it were a burning fire shut up in my bones,

and I am weary with holding it in,
and I cannot.
10† For I hear many whispering.
Terror is on every side!
"Denounce him! Let us denounce him!"
say all my close friends,
watching for my fall.
"Perhaps he will be deceived;
then we can overcome him
and take our revenge on him."
11 But the LORD is with me as a dread warrior;
therefore my persecutors will stumble;
they will not overcome me.
They will be greatly shamed,
for they will not succeed.
Their eternal dishonor
will never be forgotten.
12† O LORD of hosts, who tests the righteous, who sees the heart and the mind,[1]
let me see your vengeance upon them,
for to you have I committed my cause.

13† Sing to the LORD;
praise the LORD!
For he has delivered the life of the needy
from the hand of evildoers.

14†† Cursed be the day
on which I was born!
The day when my mother bore me,
let it not be blessed!
15 Cursed be the man who brought the news to my father,
"A son is born to you,"
making him very glad.
16† Let that man be like the cities

that the Lord overthrew without pity;
let him hear a cry in the morning
and an alarm at noon, 17 † because he did not kill me in the womb;
so my mother would have been my grave,
and her womb forever great.
18 Why did I come out from the womb
to see toil and sorrow,
and spend my days in shame?

Jerusalem Will Fall to Nebuchadnezzar

21 [1]‡†This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, when King Zedekiah sent to him Pashhur the son of Malchiah and Zephaniah the priest, the son of Maaseiah, saying, [2]† "Inquire of the Lord for us, for Nebuchadnezzar[2] king of Babylon is making war against us. Perhaps the Lord will deal with us according to all his wonderful deeds and will make him withdraw from us."

[3]Then Jeremiah said to them: [4]†"Thus you shall say to Zedekiah, 'Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Behold, I will turn back the weapons of war that are in your hands and with which you are fighting against the king of Babylon and against the Chaldeans who are besieging you outside the walls. And I will bring them together into the midst of this city. [5]I myself will fight against you with outstretched hand and strong arm, in anger and in fury and in great wrath. [6]And I will strike down the inhabitants of this city, both man and beast. They shall die of a great pestilence. [7]Afterward, declares the Lord, I will give Zedekiah king of Judah and his servants and the people in this city who survive the pestilence, sword, and famine into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and into the hand of their enemies, into the hand of those who seek their lives. He shall strike them down with the edge of the sword. He shall not pity them or spare them or have compassion.'

[8]‡†"And to this people you shall say: 'Thus says the Lord: Behold, I set before you the way of life and the way of death. [9]†He who stays in this city shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence, but he who goes out and surrenders to the Chaldeans who are besieging you shall live and shall have his life as a prize of war. [10]For I have set my face against this city for harm and not for good, declares the Lord: it shall be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire.'

Message to the House of David

11 “And to the house of the king of Judah say, ‘Hear the word of the Lord, 12 O house of David! Thus says the Lord:

“‘Execute justice in the morning,
and deliver from the hand of the oppressor
him who has been robbed,
lest my wrath go forth like fire,
and burn with none to quench it,
because of your evil deeds.’”

13 “Behold, I am against you, O inhabitant of the valley,
O rock of the plain,
declares the Lord;
you who say, ‘Who shall come down
against us,
or who shall enter our habitations?’
14 I will punish you according to the fruit of
your deeds,
declares the Lord;
I will kindle a fire in her forest,
and it shall devour all that is around her.”

22 1 Thus says the Lord: “Go down to the house of the king of Judah and speak there this word, 2 and say, ‘Hear the word of the Lord, O king of Judah, who sits on the throne of David, you, and your servants, and your people who enter these gates. 3 Thus says the Lord: Do justice and righteousness, and deliver from the hand of the oppressor him who has been robbed. And do no wrong or violence to the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow, nor shed innocent blood in this place. 4 For if you will indeed obey this word, then there shall enter the gates of this house kings who sit on the throne of David, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their servants and their people. [5] †But if you will not obey these words, I swear by myself, declares the Lord, that this house shall become a desolation. [6] †For thus says the Lord concerning the house of the king of Judah:

"'You are like Gilead to me,
like the summit of Lebanon,
yet surely I will make you a desert,
an uninhabited city.[1] [7] † I will prepare destroyers against you,
each with his weapons,
and they shall cut down your choicest cedars
and cast them into the fire.

[8]"'And many nations will pass by this city, and every man will say to his neighbor, "Why has the Lord dealt thus with this great city?" [9] †And they will answer, "Because they have forsaken the covenant of the Lord their God and worshiped other gods and served them."'"

[10] Weep not for him who is dead,
nor grieve for him,
but weep bitterly for him who goes away,
for he shall return no more
to see his native land.

Message to the Sons of Josiah

11 For thus says the Lord concerning Shallum the son of Josiah, king of Judah, who reigned instead of Josiah his father, and who went away from this place: “He shall return here no more, 12 but in the place where they have carried him captive, there shall he die, and he shall never see this land
again.”

13 “Woe to him who builds his house by unrighteousness,
and his upper rooms by injustice,
who makes his neighbor serve him for
nothing
and does not give him his wages, 14 who says, ‘I will build myself a great house with spacious upper rooms,’
who cuts out windows for it, paneling it with cedar
and painting it with vermilion.
15 Do you think you are a king
because you compete in cedar?
Did not your father eat and drink and do justice and righteousness?
Then it was well with him.
16 He judged the cause of the poor and needy;
then it was well.
Is not this to know me?
declares the Lord.
17 But you have eyes and heart
only for your dishonest gain,
for shedding innocent blood,
and for practicing oppression and violence.”

18 Therefore thus says the Lord concerning Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah:

“They shall not lament for him, saying,
‘Ah, my brother!’ or ‘Ah, sister!’
They shall not lament for him, saying,
‘Ah, lord!’ or ‘Ah, his majesty!’
19 With the burial of a donkey he shall be buried, dragged and dumped beyond the gates of Jerusalem.”

20 “Go up to Lebanon, and cry out,
and lift up your voice in Bashan;
cry out from Abarim,
for all your lovers are destroyed.
21 I spoke to you in your prosperity,
but you said, ‘I will not listen.’
This has been your way from your youth,
that you have not obeyed my voice.
22 The wind shall shepherd all your shepherds,
and your lovers shall go into captivity;
then you will be ashamed and confounded
because of all your evil.
23 O inhabitant of Lebanon,
nested among the cedars,
how you will be pitied when pangs come upon you,
pain as of a woman in labor!”

24 “As I live, declares the Lord, though Coniah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, were the signet ring on my right hand, yet I would tear you off 25 and give you into the hand of those who seek your life, into the hand of those of whom you are afraid, even into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and into the hand of the Chaldeans. 26 I will hurl you and the mother who bore you into another country, where you were not born, and there you shall die. 27 But to the land to which they will long to return, there they shall not return.”

28 Is this man Coniah a despised,
broken pot,
a vessel no one cares for?
Why are he and his children hurled and cast
into a land that they do not know?
29 O land, land, land,
hear the word of the Lord!
30† Thus says the Lord:
“Write this man down as childless,
a man who shall not succeed in his days,
for none of his offspring shall succeed in sitting on the throne of David and ruling again in Judah.”

The Righteous Branch

23 [1]‡‡“Woe to the shepherds who destroy and scatter the sheep of my pasture!” declares the Lord. [2]Therefore thus says the Lord, the God of Israel, concerning the shepherds who care for my people: “You have scattered my flock and have driven them away, and you have not attended to them. Behold, I will attend to you for your evil deeds, declares the Lord.
[3]‡Then I will gather the remnant of my flock out of all the countries where I have driven them, and I will bring them back to their fold, and they shall be fruitful and multiply. [4]†I will set shepherds over them who will care for them, and they shall fear no more, nor be dismayed, neither shall any be missing, declares the Lord.

[5]†“Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will raise up for David a righteous Branch, and he shall reign as king and deal wisely, and shall execute justice and righteousness in the land. [6]†In his days Judah will be saved, and Israel will dwell securely. And this is the name by which he will be called: ‘The Lord is our righteousness.’

[7]‡“Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when they shall no longer say, ‘As the Lord lives who brought up the people of Israel out of the land of Egypt,’ [8]but ‘As the Lord lives who brought up and led the offspring of the house of Israel out of the north country and out of all the countries where he[1] had driven them.’ Then they shall dwell in their own land.”

Lying Prophets

9 ††Concerning the prophets:

My heart is broken within me;
all my bones shake;
I am like a drunken man,
like a man overcome by wine,
because of the Lord
and because of his holy words.
10 † For the land is full of adulterers;
because of the curse the land mourns,
and the pastures of the wilderness are dried up.
Their course is evil,
and their might is not right.
11 † "Both prophet and priest are ungodly;
even in my house I have found their evil,
declares the Lord.
12 Therefore their way shall be to them
like slippery paths in the darkness,
into which they shall be driven and fall,
for I will bring disaster upon them
in the year of their punishment,
declares the Lord.
13 † In the prophets of Samaria
I saw an unsavory thing:
they prophesied by Baal
and led my people Israel astray.
14 But in the prophets of Jerusalem
I have seen a horrible thing:
they commit adultery and walk in lies;
they strengthen the hands of evildoers,
so that no one turns from his evil;
all of them have become like Sodom to me,

and its inhabitants like Gomorrah."
15 † Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts
concerning the prophets:
"Behold, I will feed them with bitter food
and give them poisoned water to drink,
for from the prophets of Jerusalem
ungodliness has gone out into all the land."

16 † Thus says the Lord of hosts: "Do not listen to the words of the prophets who prophesy to you, filling you with vain hopes. They speak visions of their own minds, not from the mouth of the Lord. 17 † They say continually to those who despise the word of the Lord, 'It shall be well with you'; and to everyone who stubbornly follows his own heart, they say, 'No disaster shall come upon you.'"

18 † For who among them has stood in the council of the Lord
to see and to hear his word, or who has paid attention to his word and listened?
19 † Behold, the storm of the Lord!
Wrath has gone forth,
a whirling tempest;
it will burst upon the head of the wicked.
20 † The anger of the Lord will not turn back until he has executed and accomplished
the intents of his heart.
In the latter days you will understand it clearly.

21 † "I did not send the prophets,
yet they ran;
I did not speak to them,
yet they prophesied.
22 † But if they had stood in my council,
then they would have proclaimed my words

to my people,
and they would have turned them from their evil way,
and from the evil of their deeds.

23 ‡“Am I a God at hand, declares the Lord, and not a God far away? 24 Can a man hide himself in secret places so that I cannot see him? declares the Lord. Do I not fill heaven and earth? declares the Lord. 25 †I have heard what the prophets have said who prophesy lies in my name, saying, ‘I have dreamed, I have dreamed!’ 26 How long shall there be lies in the heart of the prophets who prophesy lies, and who prophesy the deceit of their own heart, 27 †who think to make my people forget my name by their dreams that they tell one another, even as their fathers forgot my name for Baal? 28 †Let the prophet who has a dream tell the dream, but let him who has my word speak my word faithfully. What has straw in common with wheat? declares the Lord. 29 †Is not my word like fire, declares the Lord, and like a hammer that breaks the rock in pieces? 30 Therefore, behold, I am against the prophets, declares the Lord, who steal my words from one another.
31 Behold, I am against the prophets, declares the Lord, who use their tongues and declare, ‘declares the Lord.’ 32 Behold, I am against those who prophesy lying dreams, declares the Lord, and who tell them and lead my people astray by their lies and their recklessness, when I did not send them or charge them. So they do not profit this people at all, declares the Lord.

33 †“When one of this people, or a prophet or a priest asks you, ‘What is the burden of the Lord?’ you shall say to them, ‘You are the burden,[1] and I will cast you off, declares the Lord.’ 34 And as for the prophet, priest, or one of the people who says, ‘The burden of the Lord,’ I will punish that man and his household. 35 Thus shall you say, every one to his neighbor and every one to his brother, ‘What has the Lord answered?’ or ‘What has the Lord spoken?’ 36 †But ‘the burden of the Lord’ you shall mention no more, for the burden is every man’s own word, and you pervert the words of the living God, the Lord of hosts, our God. 37 Thus you shall say to the prophet, ‘What has the Lord answered you?’ or ‘What has the Lord spoken?’ 38 But if you say, ‘The burden of the Lord,’ thus says the Lord, ‘Because you have said these words, “The burden of the Lord,” when I sent to you, saying, “You shall not say, ‘The burden of the LORD,’” [39]therefore, behold, I will surely lift you up and cast you away from my presence, you and the city that I gave to you and your fathers. [40]And I will bring upon you everlasting reproach and perpetual shame, which shall not be forgotten.’”

The Good Figs and the Bad Figs

24 [1] † After Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had taken into exile from Jerusalem Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, together with the officials of Judah, the craftsmen, and the metal workers, and had brought them to Babylon, the Lord showed me this vision: behold, two baskets of figs placed before the temple of the Lord. [2] † One basket had very good figs, like first-ripe figs, but the other basket had very bad figs, so bad that they could not be eaten. [3] And the Lord said to me, "What do you see, Jeremiah?" I said, "Figs, the good figs very good, and the bad figs very bad, so bad that they cannot be eaten."

[4] Then the word of the Lord came to me: [5] † "Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Like these good figs, so I will regard as good the exiles from Judah, whom I have sent away from this place to the land of the Chaldeans.
[6] I will set my eyes on them for good, and I will bring them back to this land. I will build them up, and not tear them down; I will plant them, and not uproot them. [7] † I will give them a heart to know that I am the Lord, and they shall be my people and I will be their God, for they shall return to me with their whole heart.

[8] † "But thus says the Lord: Like the bad figs that are so bad they cannot be eaten, so will I treat Zedekiah the king of Judah, his officials, the remnant of Jerusalem who remain in this land, and those who dwell in the land of Egypt. [9] † I will make them a horror[1] to all the kingdoms of the earth, to be a reproach, a byword, a taunt, and a curse in all the places where I shall drive them. [10] And I will send sword, famine, and pestilence upon them, until they shall be utterly destroyed from the land that I gave to them and their fathers."

Seventy Years of Captivity

25 [1]‡†The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah (that was the first year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon), [2]which Jeremiah the prophet spoke to all the people of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem: [3]†“For twenty-three years, from the thirteenth year of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah, to this day, the word of the Lord has come to me, and I have spoken persistently to you, but you have not listened. [4]You have neither listened nor inclined your ears to hear, although the Lord persistently sent to you all his servants the prophets, [5]†saying, ‘Turn now, every one of you, from his evil way and evil deeds, and dwell upon the land that the Lord has given to you and your fathers from of old and forever. [6]†Do not go after other gods to serve and worship them, or provoke me to anger with the work of your hands. Then I will do you no harm.’ [7]Yet you have not listened to me, declares the Lord, that you might provoke me to anger with the work of your hands to your own harm.

[8]†“Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts: Because you have not obeyed my words, [9]†behold, I will send for all the tribes of the north, declares the Lord, and for Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, my servant, and I will bring them against this land and its inhabitants, and against all these surrounding nations. I will devote them to destruction, and make them a horror, a hissing, and an everlasting desolation. [10]†Moreover, I will banish from them the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the grinding of the millstones and the light of the lamp. [11]†This whole land shall become a ruin and a waste, and these nations shall serve the king of Babylon seventy years. [12]Then after seventy years are completed, I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation, the land of the Chaldeans, for their iniquity, declares the Lord, making the land an everlasting waste. [13]†I will bring upon that land all the words that I have uttered against it, everything written in this book, which Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations. [14]†For many nations and great kings shall make slaves even of them, and I will recompense them according to their deeds and the work of their hands.”

The Cup of the Lord's Wrath

15 ‡† Thus the Lord, the God of Israel, said to me: "Take from my hand this cup of the wine of wrath, and make all the nations to whom I send you drink it. 16 They shall drink and stagger and be crazed because of the sword that I am sending among them."
17 † So I took the cup from the Lord's hand, and made all the nations to whom the Lord sent me drink it: 18 † Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, its kings and officials, to make them a desolation and a waste, a hissing and a curse, as at this day; 19 ‡ Pharaoh king of Egypt, his servants, his officials, all his people, 20 and all the mixed tribes among them; all the kings of the land of Uz and all the kings of the land of the Philistines (Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod); 21 Edom, Moab, and the sons of Ammon; 22 all the kings of Tyre, all the kings of Sidon, and the kings of the coastland across the sea; 23 † Dedan, Tema, Buz, and all who cut the corners of their hair; 24 all the kings of Arabia and all the kings of the mixed tribes who dwell in the desert; 25 all the kings of Zimri, all the kings of Elam, and all the kings of Media; 26 † all the kings of the north, far and near, one after another, and all the kingdoms of the world that are on the face of the earth.
And after them the king of Babylon[1] shall drink.
27 "Then you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Drink, be drunk and vomit, fall and rise no more, because of the sword that I am sending among you.' 28 † "And if they refuse to accept the cup from your hand to drink, then you shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord of hosts: You must drink! 29 For behold, I begin to work disaster at the city that is called by my name, and shall you go unpunished? You shall not go unpunished, for I am summoning a sword against all the inhabitants of the earth, declares the Lord of hosts.' 30 ‡† "You, therefore, shall prophesy against them all these words, and say to them:

"'The Lord will roar from on high,
and from his holy habitation utter his voice;
he will roar mightily against his fold,

and shout, like those who tread grapes,
against all the inhabitants of the earth.
31 The clamor will resound to the ends of the earth,
for the Lord has an indictment against the nations;
he is entering into judgment with all flesh,
and the wicked he will put to the sword,
declares the Lord.'

32 "Thus says the Lord of hosts:
Behold, disaster is going forth
from nation to nation,
and a great tempest is stirring
from the farthest parts of the earth!

33 "And those pierced by the Lord on that day shall extend from one end of the earth to the other. They shall not be lamented, or gathered, or buried; they shall be dung on the surface of the ground.

34 "Wail, you shepherds, and cry out,
and roll in ashes, you lords of the flock,
for the days of your slaughter and dispersion have come,
and you shall fall like a choice vessel.
35 No refuge will remain for the shepherds,
nor escape for the lords of the flock.
36 A voice—the cry of the shepherds,
and the wail of the lords of the flock!
For the Lord is laying waste their pasture, 37 and the peaceful folds are devastated
because of the fierce anger of the Lord.
38 Like a lion he has left his lair,
for their land has become a waste
because of the sword of the oppressor,
and because of his fierce anger."

Jeremiah Threatened with Death

26 [1]In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came from the Lord: [2]"Thus says the Lord: Stand in the court of the Lord's house, and speak to all the cities of Judah that come to worship in the house of the Lord all the words that I command you to speak to them; do not hold back a word. [3]It may be they will listen, and every one turn from his evil way, that I may relent of the disaster that I intend to do to them because of their evil deeds. [4]You shall say to them, 'Thus says the Lord: If you will not listen to me, to walk in my law that I have set before you, [5]and to listen to the words of my servants the prophets whom I send to you urgently, though you have not listened, [6]then I will make this house like Shiloh, and I will make this city a curse for all the nations of the earth.'"

[7]The priests and the prophets and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the Lord. [8]And when Jeremiah had finished speaking all that the Lord had commanded him to speak to all the people, then the priests and the prophets and all the people laid hold of him, saying, "You shall die! [9]Why have you prophesied in the name of the Lord, saying, 'This house shall be like Shiloh, and this city shall be desolate, without inhabitant'?" And all the people gathered around Jeremiah in the house of the Lord.

[10]When the officials of Judah heard these things, they came up from the king's house to the house of the Lord and took their seat in the entry of the New Gate of the house of the Lord. [11]Then the priests and the prophets said to the officials and to all the people, "This man deserves the sentence of death, because he has prophesied against this city, as you have heard with your own ears."

[12]Then Jeremiah spoke to all the officials and all the people, saying, "The Lord sent me to prophesy against this house and this city all the words you have heard. [13]Now therefore mend your ways and your deeds, and obey the voice of the Lord your God, and the Lord will relent of the disaster that he has pronounced against you. [14]But as for me, behold, I am in your hands.

Do with me as seems good and right to you. [15]Only know for certain that if you put me to death, you will bring innocent blood upon yourselves and upon this city and its inhabitants, for in truth the LORD sent me to you to speak all these words in your ears."

Jeremiah Spared from Death

16 ‡ ‡ Then the officials and all the people said to the priests and the prophets, “This man does not deserve the sentence of death, for he has spoken to us in the name of the Lord our God.” 17And certain of the elders of the land arose and spoke to all the assembled people, saying, 18†“Micah of Moresheth prophesied in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and said to all the people of Judah: ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts, > “‘Zion shall be plowed as a field;

> Jerusalem shall become a heap of ruins,
> and the mountain of the house a wooded
> height.’

19†Did Hezekiah king of Judah and all Judah put him to death? Did he not fear the Lord and entreat the favor of the Lord, and did not the Lord relent of the disaster that he had pronounced against them? But we are about to bring great disaster upon ourselves.”

20 ‡ † There was another man who prophesied in the name of the Lord, Uriah the son of Shemaiah from Kiriath-jearim. He prophesied against this city and against this land in words like those of Jeremiah. 21† And when King Jehoiakim, with all his warriors and all the officials, heard his words, the king sought to put him to death. But when Uriah heard of it, he was afraid and fled and escaped to Egypt. 22†Then King Jehoiakim sent to Egypt certain men, Elnathan the son of Achbor and others with him, 23† and they took Uriah from Egypt and brought him to King Jehoiakim, who struck him down with the sword and dumped his dead body into the burial place of the common people.

24†But the hand of Ahikam the son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah so that he was not given over to the people to be put to death.

The Yoke of Nebuchadnezzar

27 [1]In the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah[1] the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the Lord. [2]Thus the Lord said to me: “Make yourself straps and yoke-bars, and put them on your neck. [3]Send word[2] to the king of Edom, the king of Moab, the king of the sons of Ammon, the king of Tyre, and the king of Sidon by the hand of the envoys who have come to Jerusalem to Zedekiah king of Judah. [4]Give them this charge for their masters: ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: This is what you shall say to your masters: [5]“It is I who by my great power and my outstretched arm have made the earth, with the men and animals that are on the earth, and I give it to whomever it seems right to me.
[6]Now I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, my servant, and I have given him also the beasts of the field to serve him. [7]All the nations shall serve him and his son and his grandson, until the time of his own land comes. Then many nations and great kings shall make him their slave.

[8]“““But if any nation or kingdom will not serve this Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, I will punish that nation with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence, declares the Lord, until I have consumed it by his hand. [9]So do not listen to your prophets, your diviners, your dreamers, your fortune-tellers, or your sorcerers, who are saying to you, ‘You shall not serve the king of Babylon.’
[10]For it is a lie that they are prophesying to you, with the result that you will be removed far from your land, and I will drive you out, and you will perish. [11]But any nation that will bring its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon and serve him, I will leave on its own land, to work it and dwell
there, declares the Lord.”””

[12]To Zedekiah king of Judah I spoke in like manner: “Bring your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve him and his people and live. [13]Why will you and your people die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence, as the Lord has spoken concerning any nation that will not serve the king of Babylon? [14]Do not listen to the words of the prophets who are saying to you, ‘You shall not serve the king of Babylon,’ for it is a lie that they are prophesying to you. 15I have not sent them, declares the Lord, but they are prophesying falsely in my name, with the result that I will drive you out and you will perish, you and the prophets who are prophesying to you.”

16†† Then I spoke to the priests and to all this people, saying, “Thus says the Lord: Do not listen to the words of your prophets who are prophesying to you, saying, ‘Behold, the vessels of the Lord’s house will now shortly be brought back from Babylon,’ for it is a lie that they are prophesying to you. 17Do not listen to them; serve the king of Babylon and live. Why should this city become a desolation? 18If they are prophets, and if the word of the Lord is with them, then let them intercede with the Lord of hosts, that the vessels that are left in the house of the Lord, in the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem may not go to Babylon. 19† For thus says the Lord of hosts concerning the pillars, the sea, the stands, and the rest of the vessels that are left in this city, 20† which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon did not take away, when he took into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem— 21thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning the vessels that are left in the house of the Lord, in the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem: 22† They shall be carried to Babylon and remain there until the day when I visit them, declares the Lord. Then I will bring them back and restore them to this place.”

Hananiah the False Prophet

28 [1]†In that same year, at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fifth month of the fourth year, Hananiah the son of Azzur, the prophet from Gibeon, spoke to me in the house of the Lord, in the presence of the priests and all the people, saying, [2]†"Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon.
[3]Within two years I will bring back to this place all the vessels of the Lord's house, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon took away from this place and carried to Babylon. [4]I will also bring back to this place Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the exiles from Judah who went to Babylon, declares the Lord, for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon."

[5]Then the prophet Jeremiah spoke to Hananiah the prophet in the presence of the priests and all the people who were standing in the house of the Lord, [6]†and the prophet Jeremiah said, "Amen! May the Lord do so; may the Lord make the words that you have prophesied come true, and bring back to this place from Babylon the vessels of the house of the Lord, and all the exiles. [7]Yet hear now this word that I speak in your hearing and in the hearing of all the people. [8]The prophets who preceded you and me from ancient times prophesied war, famine, and pestilence against many countries and great kingdoms. [9]†As for the prophet who prophesies peace, when the word of that prophet comes to pass, then it will be known that the Lord has truly sent the prophet."

[10]Then the prophet Hananiah took the yoke-bars from the neck of Jeremiah the prophet and broke them. [11]And Hananiah spoke in the presence of all the people, saying, "Thus says the Lord: Even so will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon from the neck of all the nations within two years." But Jeremiah the prophet went his way.

[12]†Sometime after the prophet Hananiah had broken the yoke-bars from off the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah: [13]"Go, tell Hananiah, 'Thus says the Lord: You have broken wooden bars, but you have made in their place bars of iron. [14]†For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: I have put upon the neck of all these nations an iron yoke to serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and they shall serve him, for I have given to him even the beasts of the field.’”

15 † And Jeremiah the prophet said to the prophet Hananiah, “Listen, Hananiah, the Lord has not sent you, and you have made this people trust in a lie. 16 †Therefore thus says the Lord: ‘Behold, I will remove you from the face of the earth. This year you shall die, because you have uttered rebellion against the Lord.’”
17 †In that same year, in the seventh month, the prophet Hananiah died.

Jeremiah's Letter to the Exiles

29 [1]These are the words of the letter that Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem to the surviving elders of the exiles, and to the priests, the prophets, and all the people, whom Nebuchadnezzar had taken into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon. [2]This was after King Jeconiah and the queen mother, the eunuchs, the officials of Judah and Jerusalem, the craftsmen, and the metal workers had departed from Jerusalem. [3]The letter was sent by the hand of Elasah the son of Shaphan and Gemariah the son of Hilkiah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent to Babylon to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. It said: [4]"Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, to all the exiles whom I have sent into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon: [5]Build houses and live in them; plant gardens and eat their produce. [6]Take wives and have sons and daughters; take wives for your sons, and give your daughters in marriage, that they may bear sons and daughters; multiply there, and do not decrease. [7]But seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile, and pray to the Lord on its behalf, for in its welfare you will find your welfare. [8]For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel:
Do not let your prophets and your diviners who are among you deceive you, and do not listen to the dreams that they dream,[1] [9]for it is a lie that they are prophesying to you in my name; I did not send them, declares the Lord.

[10]"For thus says the Lord: When seventy years are completed for Babylon, I will visit you, and I will fulfill to you my promise and bring you back to this place. [11]For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans for welfare[1] and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope. [12]Then you will call upon me and come and pray to me, and I will hear you. [13]You will seek me and find me, when you seek me with all your heart. [14]I will be found by you, declares the Lord, and I will restore your fortunes and gather you from all the nations and all the places where I have driven you, declares the Lord, and I will bring you back to the place from which I sent you into exile.

[15]"Because you have said, 'The Lord has raised up prophets for us in Babylon,' [16]thus says the Lord concerning the king who sits on the throne of David, and concerning all the people who dwell in this city, your kinsmen who did not go out with you into exile: [17]† ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts, behold, I am sending on them sword, famine, and pestilence, and I will make them like vile figs that are so rotten they cannot be eaten. [18]† I will pursue them with sword, famine, and pestilence, and will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, to be a curse, a terror, a hissing, and a reproach among all the nations where I have driven them, [19]because they did not pay attention to my words, declares the Lord, that I persistently sent to you by my servants the prophets, but you would not listen, declares the Lord.’ [20]† Hear the word of the Lord, all you exiles whom I sent away from Jerusalem to Babylon: [21]†† ‘Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning Ahab the son of Kolaiah and Zedekiah the son of Maaseiah, who are prophesying a lie to you in my name: Behold, I will deliver them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he shall strike them down before your eyes. [22]† Because of them this curse shall be used by all the exiles from Judah in Babylon: “The Lord make you like Zedekiah and Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire,” [23]† because they have done an outrageous thing in Israel, they have committed adultery with their neighbors’ wives, and they have spoken in my name lying words that I did not command them. I am the one who knows, and I am witness, declares the Lord.’”

Shemaiah's False Prophecy

24 ‡‡‡To Shemaiah of Nehelam you shall say: 25 ‡"Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: You have sent letters in your name to all the people who are in Jerusalem, and to Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah the priest, and to all the priests, saying, 26 ‡ 'The Lord has made you priest instead of Jehoiada the priest, to have charge in the house of the Lord over every madman who prophesies, to put him in the stocks and neck irons. 27 ‡Now why have you not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth who is prophesying to you? 28For he has sent to us in Babylon, saying, "Your exile will be long;
build houses and live in them, and plant gardens and eat their produce."'" 29 ‡Zephaniah the priest read this letter in the hearing of Jeremiah the prophet. 30 ‡Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah: 31"Send to all the exiles, saying, 'Thus says the Lord concerning Shemaiah of Nehelam:
Because Shemaiah had prophesied to you when I did not send him, and has made you trust in a lie, 32therefore thus says the Lord: Behold, I will punish Shemaiah of Nehelam and his descendants. He shall not have anyone living among this people, and he shall not see the good that I will do to my people, declares the Lord, for he has spoken rebellion against the Lord.'"

Restoration for Israel and Judah

30 [1]The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord: [2]†"Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Write in a book all the words that I have spoken to you. [3]†For behold, days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will restore the fortunes of my people, Israel and Judah, says the Lord, and I will bring them back to the land that I gave to their fathers, and they shall take possession of it."

[4]These are the words that the Lord spoke concerning Israel and Judah:

[5] "Thus says the Lord:
We have heard a cry of panic,
of terror, and no peace.
[6]† Ask now, and see,
can a man bear a child?
Why then do I see every man with his hands on his stomach like a woman in labor?
Why has every face turned pale?
[7]† Alas! That day is so great
there is none like it;
it is a time of distress for Jacob;
yet he shall be saved out of it.

[8]†"And it shall come to pass in that day, declares the Lord of hosts, that I will break his yoke from off your neck, and I will burst your bonds, and foreigners shall no more make a servant of him.[1] [9]†But they shall serve the Lord their God and David their king, whom I will raise up for them.

[10]†† "Then fear not, O Jacob my servant, declares
the Lord,
nor be dismayed, O Israel;
for behold, I will save you from far away,
and your offspring from the land of their
captivity.

Jacob shall return and have quiet and ease,
and none shall make him afraid.
11† For I am with you to save you,
declares the Lord;
I will make a full end of all the nations
among whom I scattered you,
but of you I will not make a full end.
I will discipline you in just measure,
and I will by no means leave you
unpunished.

12† "For thus says the Lord:
Your hurt is incurable,
and your wound is grievous.
13 There is none to uphold your cause,
no medicine for your wound,
no healing for you.
14† All your lovers have forgotten you;
they care nothing for you;
for I have dealt you the blow of an enemy,
the punishment of a merciless foe,
because your guilt is great,
because your sins are flagrant.
15 Why do you cry out over your hurt?
Your pain is incurable.
Because your guilt is great,
because your sins are flagrant,
I have done these things to you.
16 Therefore all who devour you shall be devoured,
and all your foes, every one of them, shall
go into captivity;
those who plunder you shall be plundered,
and all who prey on you I will make a prey.
17† For I will restore health to you,
and your wounds I will heal,

declares the Lord,
because they have called you an outcast:
'It is Zion, for whom no one cares!'

18 "Thus says the Lord:
Behold, I will restore the fortunes of the tents
of Jacob
and have compassion on his dwellings;
the city shall be rebuilt on its mound,
and the palace shall stand where it used to be.
19 Out of them shall come songs of thanksgiving,
and the voices of those who celebrate.
I will multiply them, and they shall not be few;
I will make them honored, and they shall not be small.
20 Their children shall be as they were of old,
and their congregation shall be established
before me,
and I will punish all who oppress them.
21 Their prince shall be one of themselves;
their ruler shall come out from their midst;
I will make him draw near, and he shall
approach me,
for who would dare of himself to
approach me?
declares the Lord.
22 And you shall be my people,
and I will be your God."

23 Behold the storm of the Lord!
Wrath has gone forth,
a whirling tempest;
it will burst upon the head of the wicked.
24 The fierce anger of the Lord will not turn

back
until he has executed and accomplished
the intentions of his mind.
In the latter days you will understand this.

The Lord Will Turn Mourning to Joy

31 [1] ✝✝"At that time, declares the Lord, I will be the God of all the clans of Israel, and they shall be my people."

[2] Thus says the Lord:
"The people who survived the sword found grace in the wilderness;
when Israel sought for rest,
[3]✝ the Lord appeared to him[1] from far away.
I have loved you with an everlasting love;
therefore I have continued my faithfulness
to you.
[4]✝ Again I will build you, and you shall be built,
O virgin Israel!
Again you shall adorn yourself with tambourines
and shall go forth in the dance of the merrymakers.
[5] Again you shall plant vineyards
on the mountains of Samaria;
the planters shall plant
and shall enjoy the fruit.
[6]✝ For there shall be a day when watchmen will call
in the hill country of Ephraim:
'Arise, and let us go up to Zion,
to the Lord our God.'"

[7]✝ For thus says the Lord:
"Sing aloud with gladness for Jacob,
and raise shouts for the chief of the nations;
proclaim, give praise, and say,

‘O Lord, save your people,
the remnant of Israel.’
8 † Behold, I will bring them from the north country
and gather them from the farthest parts of
the earth,
among them the blind and the lame,
the pregnant woman and she who is in labor, together;
a great company, they shall return here.
9 † With weeping they shall come,
and with pleas for mercy I will lead them back,
I will make them walk by brooks of water,
in a straight path in which they shall not
stumble,
for I am a father to Israel,
and Ephraim is my firstborn.

10 “Hear the word of the Lord, O nations,
and declare it in the coastlands far away;
say, ‘He who scattered Israel will gather him,
and will keep him as a shepherd keeps his flock.’
11 † For the Lord has ransomed Jacob and has redeemed him from hands too strong for him.
12 † They shall come and sing aloud on the height of Zion,
and they shall be radiant over the goodness
of the Lord,
over the grain, the wine, and the oil,
and over the young of the flock and the herd;
their life shall be like a watered garden,
and they shall languish no more.
13 † Then shall the young women rejoice in the dance,

and the young men and the old shall be merry.
I will turn their mourning into joy;
I will comfort them, and give them gladness
for sorrow.
14† I will feast the soul of the priests with
abundance,
and my people shall be satisfied with my goodness,
declares the LORD."

15†† Thus says the LORD:
"A voice is heard in Ramah,
lamentation and bitter weeping.
Rachel is weeping for her children;
she refuses to be comforted for her children,
because they are no more."
16† Thus says the LORD:
"Keep your voice from weeping,
and your eyes from tears,
for there is a reward for your work,
declares the LORD,
and they shall come back from the land of the enemy.
17 There is hope for your future,
declares the LORD,
and your children shall come back to their own country.
18†† I have heard Ephraim grieving,
'You have disciplined me, and I was disciplined,
like an untrained calf;
bring me back that I may be restored,
for you are the LORD my God.
19† For after I had turned away, I relented, and after I was instructed, I struck my thigh;

I was ashamed, and I was confounded,
because I bore the disgrace of my youth.'
20† Is Ephraim my dear son?
Is he my darling child?
For as often as I speak against him,
I do remember him still.
Therefore my heart[1] yearns for him;
I will surely have mercy on him,
declares the LORD.

21† "Set up road markers for yourself;
make yourself guideposts;
consider well the highway,
the road by which you went.
Return, O virgin Israel, return to these your cities.
22† How long will you waver,
O faithless daughter?
For the LORD has created a new thing on the
earth:
a woman encircles a man."

23†Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Once more they shall use these words in the land of Judah and in its cities, when I restore their fortunes:

"'The LORD bless you, O habitation of
righteousness,
O holy hill!'

24And Judah and all its cities shall dwell there together, and the farmers and those who wander with their flocks. 25For I will satisfy the weary soul, and every languishing soul I will replenish."

26†At this I awoke and looked, and my sleep was pleasant to me.

[27]‡† “Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with the seed of man and the seed of beast. [28]And it shall come to pass that as I have watched over them to pluck up and break down, to overthrow, destroy, and bring harm, so I will watch over them to build and to plant, declares the Lord. [29]† In those days they shall no longer say:

> “‘The fathers have eaten sour grapes,
> and the children’s teeth are set on edge.’

[30]† But everyone shall die for his own sin. Each man who eats sour grapes, his teeth shall be set on edge.

The New Covenant

31 ‡‡‡“Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah, 32 †not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, my covenant that they broke, though I was their husband, declares the Lord. 33 †But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts.
And I will be their God, and they shall be my people. 34 †And no longer shall each one teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, ‘Know the Lord,’ for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, declares the Lord. For I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.”

35 ‡‡ Thus says the Lord,
who gives the sun for light by day and the fixed order of the moon and the stars for light by night,
who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar—
the Lord of hosts is his name:
36 “If this fixed order departs from before me, declares the Lord,
then shall the offspring of Israel cease
from being a nation before me forever.”

37 Thus says the Lord:
“If the heavens above can be measured,
and the foundations of the earth below can
be explored,
then I will cast off all the offspring of Israel
for all that they have done,
declares the Lord.”

38 ‡ ‡ “Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when the city shall be rebuilt for the Lord from the Tower of Hananel to the Corner Gate.
39 ‡ And the measuring line shall go out farther, straight to the hill Gareb, and shall then turn to Goah. 40 ‡ The whole valley of the dead bodies and the ashes, and all the fields as far as the brook Kidron, to the corner of the Horse Gate toward the east, shall be sacred to the Lord. It shall not be uprooted or overthrown anymore forever.”

Jeremiah Buys a Field During the Siege

32 [1]†† The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar. [2]† At that time the army of the king of Babylon was besieging Jerusalem, and Jeremiah the prophet was shut up in the court of the guard that was in the palace of the king of Judah. [3]For Zedekiah king of Judah had imprisoned him, saying, "Why do you prophesy and say, 'Thus says the Lord: Behold, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall capture it; [4]Zedekiah king of Judah shall not escape out of the hand of the Chaldeans, but shall surely be given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and shall speak with him face to face and see him eye to eye. [5]†And he shall take Zedekiah to Babylon, and there he shall remain until I visit him, declares the Lord. Though you fight against the Chaldeans, you shall not succeed'?"

[6]Jeremiah said, "The word of the Lord came to me: [7]†Behold, Hanamel the son of Shallum your uncle will come to you and say, 'Buy my field that is at Anathoth, for the right of redemption by purchase is yours.' [8]†Then Hanamel my cousin came to me in the court of the guard, in accordance with the word of the Lord, and said to me, 'Buy my field that is at Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, for the right of possession and redemption is yours;
buy it for yourself.' Then I knew that this was the word of the Lord.

[9]†"And I bought the field at Anathoth from Hanamel my cousin, and weighed out the money to him, seventeen shekels of silver. [10]†I signed the deed, sealed it, got witnesses, and weighed the money on scales. [11]†Then I took the sealed deed of purchase, containing the terms and conditions and the open copy. [12]†And I gave the deed of purchase to Baruch the son of Neriah son of Mahseiah, in the presence of Hanamel my cousin, in the presence of the witnesses who signed the deed of purchase, and in the presence of all the Judeans who were sitting in the court of the guard. [13]I charged Baruch in their presence, saying, [14]†'Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Take these deeds, both this sealed deed of purchase and this open deed, and put them in an earthenware vessel, that they may last for a long time. [15]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Houses and fields and vineyards shall again be bought in this land.’

Jeremiah Prays for Understanding

16 ‡ ‡ “After I had given the deed of purchase to Baruch the son of Neriah, I prayed to the Lord, saying: 17 ‡ ‘Ah, Lord God! It is you who have made the heavens and the earth by your great power and by your outstretched arm!
Nothing is too hard for you. 18 ‡ You show steadfast love to thousands, but you repay the guilt of fathers to their children after them, O great and mighty God, whose name is the Lord of hosts, 19 ‡ great in counsel and mighty in deed, whose eyes are open to all the ways of the children of man, rewarding each one according to his ways and according to the fruit of his deeds. 20 ‡ You have shown signs and wonders in the land of Egypt, and to this day in Israel and among all mankind, and have made a name for yourself, as at this day. 21 You brought your people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and outstretched arm, and with great terror. 22 ‡ And you gave them this land, which you swore to their fathers to give them, a land flowing with milk and honey. 23 ‡ And they entered and took possession of it. But they did not obey your voice or walk in your law. They did nothing of all you commanded them to do. Therefore you have made all this disaster come upon them. 24 ‡ Behold, the siege mounds have come up to the city to take it, and because of sword and famine and pestilence the city is given into the hands of the Chaldeans who are fighting against it. What you spoke has come to pass, and behold, you see it. 25 Yet you, O Lord God, have said to me, “Buy the field for money and get witnesses”—though the city is given into the hands of the Chaldeans.’”

26 ‡ The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah: 27 ‡ “Behold, I am the Lord, the God of all flesh. Is anything too hard for me? 28 ‡ Therefore, thus says the Lord: Behold, I am giving this city into the hands of the Chaldeans and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he shall capture it.
29 ‡ The Chaldeans who are fighting against this city shall come and set this city on fire and burn it, with the houses on whose roofs offerings have been made to Baal and drink offerings have been poured out to other gods, to provoke me to anger. 30 For the children of Israel and the children of Judah have done nothing but evil in my sight from their youth. The children of Israel have done nothing but provoke me to anger by the work of their hands, declares the LORD. 31This city has aroused my anger and wrath, from the day it was built to this day, so that I will remove it from my sight 32because of all the evil of the children of Israel and the children of Judah that they did to provoke me to anger—their kings and their officials, their priests and their prophets, the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. 33† They have turned to me their back and not their face. And though I have taught them persistently, they have not listened to receive instruction. 34† They set up their abominations in the house that is called by my name, to defile it. 35† They built the high places of Baal in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, to offer up their sons and daughters to Molech, though I did not command them, nor did it enter into my mind, that they should do this abomination, to cause Judah to sin.

They Shall Be My People; I Will Be Their God

36 ‡ “Now therefore thus says the Lord, the God of Israel, concerning this city of which you say, ‘It is given into the hand of the king of Babylon by sword, by famine, and by pestilence’: 37 † Behold, I will gather them from all the countries to which I drove them in my anger and my wrath and in great indignation. I will bring them back to this place, and I will make them dwell in safety. 38 And they shall be my people, and I will be their God. 39 † I will give them one heart and one way, that they may fear me forever, for their own good and the good of their children after them. 40 † I will make with them an everlasting covenant, that I will not turn away from doing good to them. And I will put the fear of me in their hearts, that they may not turn from me. 41 † I will rejoice in doing them good, and I will plant them in this land in faithfulness, with all my heart and all my soul.

42 ‡ “For thus says the Lord: Just as I have brought all this great disaster upon this people, so I will bring upon them all the good that I promise them.
43 Fields shall be bought in this land of which you are saying, ‘It is a desolation, without man or beast; it is given into the hand of the Chaldeans.’
44 † Fields shall be bought for money, and deeds shall be signed and sealed and witnessed, in the land of Benjamin, in the places about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, in the cities of the hill country, in the cities of the Shephelah, and in the cities of the Negeb; for I will restore their fortunes,
declares the Lord.”

The Lord Promises Peace

33 [1]‡†The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah a second time, while he was still shut up in the court of the guard: [2]†“Thus says the Lord who made the earth,[1] the Lord who formed it to establish it—the Lord is his name: [3]†Call to me and I will answer you, and will tell you great and hidden things that you have not known. [4]†For thus says the Lord, the God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city and the houses of the kings of Judah that were torn down to make a defense against the siege mounds and against the sword: [5]† They are coming in to fight against the Chaldeans and to fill them[2] with the dead bodies of men whom I shall strike down in my anger and my wrath, for I have hidden my face from this city because of all their evil. [6]†Behold, I will bring to it health and healing, and I will heal them and reveal to them abundance of prosperity and security. [7]†I will restore the fortunes of Judah and the fortunes of Israel, and rebuild them as they were at first. [8]†I will cleanse them from all the guilt of their sin against me, and I will forgive all the guilt of their sin and rebellion against me. [9]†And this city[3] shall be to me a name of joy, a praise and a glory before all the nations of the earth who shall hear of all the good that I do for them. They shall fear and tremble because of all the good and all the prosperity I provide for it.

[10]“Thus says the Lord: In this place of which you say, ‘It is a waste without man or beast,’ in the cities of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem that are desolate, without man or inhabitant or beast, there shall be heard again [11]†the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voices of those who sing, as they bring thank offerings to the house of the Lord:

> “‘Give thanks to the Lord of hosts,
> for the Lord is good,
> for his steadfast love endures forever!’

For I will restore the fortunes of the land as at first, says the Lord.

12 “Thus says the Lord of hosts: In this place that is waste, without man or beast, and in all of its cities, there shall again be habitations of shepherds resting their flocks. 13 † In the cities of the hill country, in the cities of the Shephelah, and in the cities of the Negeb, in the land of Benjamin, the places about Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, flocks shall again pass under the hands of the one who counts them, says the Lord.

The Lord's Eternal Covenant with David

14 ‡ ‡ "Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will fulfill the promise I made to the house of Israel and the house of Judah. 15 † In those days and at that time I will cause a righteous Branch to spring up for David, and he shall execute justice and righteousness in the land. 16 † In those days Judah will be saved, and Jerusalem will dwell securely. And this is the name by which it will be called: 'The Lord is our righteousness.'

17 † "For thus says the Lord: David shall never lack a man to sit on the throne of the house of Israel, 18 † and the Levitical priests shall never lack a man in my presence to offer burnt offerings, to burn grain offerings, and to make sacrifices forever."

19 The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah: 20 † "Thus says the Lord: If you can break my covenant with the day and my covenant with the night, so that day and night will not come at their appointed time, 21 † then also my covenant with David my servant may be broken, so that he shall not have a son to reign on his throne, and my covenant with the Levitical priests my ministers. 22 † As the host of heaven cannot be numbered and the sands of the sea cannot be measured, so I will multiply the offspring of David my servant, and the Levitical priests who minister to me."

23 The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah: 24 † "Have you not observed that these people are saying, 'The Lord has rejected the two clans that he chose'? Thus they have despised my people so that they are no longer a nation in their sight. 25 † Thus says the Lord: If I have not established my covenant with day and night and the fixed order of heaven and earth, 26 † then I will reject the offspring of Jacob and David my servant and will not choose one of his offspring to rule over the offspring of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. For I will restore their fortunes and will have mercy on them."

Zedekiah to Die in Babylon

34 [1] The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his army and all the kingdoms of the earth under his dominion and all the peoples were fighting against Jerusalem and all of its cities: [2] "Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: Go and speak to Zedekiah king of Judah and say to him, 'Thus says the Lord: Behold, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he shall burn it with fire. [3] You shall not escape from his hand but shall surely be captured and delivered into his hand. You shall see the king of Babylon eye to eye and speak with him face to face. And you shall go to Babylon.' [4] Yet hear the word of the Lord, O Zedekiah king of Judah! Thus says the Lord concerning you: 'You shall not die by the sword. [5] You shall die in peace. And as spices were burned for your fathers, the former kings who were before you, so people shall burn spices for you and lament for you, saying, "Alas, lord!"' For I have spoken the word, declares the Lord."

[6] Then Jeremiah the prophet spoke all these words to Zedekiah king of Judah, in Jerusalem, [7] when the army of the king of Babylon was fighting against Jerusalem and against all the cities of Judah that were left, Lachish and Azekah, for these were the only fortified cities of Judah that remained.

[8] The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord, after King Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people in Jerusalem to make a proclamation of liberty to them, [9] that everyone should set free his Hebrew slaves, male and female, so that no one should enslave a Jew, his brother. [10] And they obeyed, all the officials and all the people who had entered into the covenant that everyone would set free his slave, male or female, so that they would not be enslaved again. They obeyed and set them free. [11] But afterward they turned around and took back the male and female slaves they had set free, and brought them into subjection as slaves. [12] The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah from the Lord: [13] "Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel: I myself made a covenant with your fathers when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, saying, [14] 'At the end of seven years each of you must set free the fellow Hebrew who has been sold to you and has served you six years; you must set him free from your service.’ But your fathers did not listen to me or incline their ears to me.

15 †You recently repented and did what was right in my eyes by proclaiming liberty, each to his neighbor, and you made a covenant before me in the house that is called by my name, 16 † but then you turned around and profaned my name when each of you took back his male and female slaves, whom you had set free according to their desire, and you brought them into subjection to be your slaves.
17 † “Therefore, thus says the Lord: You have not obeyed me by proclaiming liberty, every one to his brother and to his neighbor; behold, I proclaim to you liberty to the sword, to pestilence, and to famine, declares the Lord. I will make you a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth. 18 †And the men who transgressed my covenant and did not keep the terms of the covenant that they made before me, I will make them like[1] the calf that they cut in two and passed between its parts— 19 †the officials of Judah, the officials of Jerusalem, the eunuchs, the priests, and all the people of the land who passed between the parts of the calf. 20 †And I will give them into the hand of their enemies and into the hand of those who seek their lives. Their dead bodies shall be food for the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth.
21 †And Zedekiah king of Judah and his officials I will give into the hand of their enemies and into the hand of those who seek their lives, into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon which has withdrawn from you.
22 Behold, I will command, declares the Lord, and will bring them back to this city. And they will fight against it and take it and burn it with fire. I will make the cities of Judah a desolation without inhabitant.”

The Obedience of the Rechabites

35 [1]†The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah: [2]† "Go to the house of the Rechabites and speak with them and bring them to the house of the Lord, into one of the chambers; then offer them wine to drink." [3]†So I took Jaazaniah the son of Jeremiah, son of Habazziniah and his brothers and all his sons and the whole house of the Rechabites. [4]†I brought them to the house of the Lord into the chamber of the sons of Hanan the son of Igdaliah, the man of God, which was near the chamber of the officials, above the chamber of Maaseiah the son of Shallum, keeper of the threshold. [5]Then I set before the Rechabites pitchers full of wine, and cups, and I said to them,
"Drink wine." [6]†But they answered, "We will drink no wine, for Jonadab
the son of Rechab, our father, commanded us, 'You shall not drink wine, neither you nor your sons forever. [7]You shall not build a house; you shall not sow seed; you shall not plant or have a vineyard; but you shall live in tents all your days, that you may live many days in the land where you sojourn.' [8]We have obeyed the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechab, our father, in all that he commanded us, to drink no wine all our days, ourselves, our wives, our sons, or our daughters, [9]and not to build houses to dwell in. We have no vineyard or field or seed, [10]but we have lived in tents and have obeyed and done all that Jonadab our father commanded us. [11]But when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up against the land, we said,
'Come, and let us go to Jerusalem for fear of the army of the Chaldeans and the army of the Syrians.' So we are living in Jerusalem."

[12]†Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah: [13]"Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Go and say to the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will you not receive instruction and listen to my words? declares the Lord. [14]The command that Jonadab the son of Rechab gave to his sons, to drink no wine, has been kept, and they drink none to this day, for they have obeyed their father's command. I have spoken to you persistently, but you have not listened to me. [15]†I have sent to you all my servants the prophets, sending them persistently, saying, 'Turn now every one of you from his evil way, and amend your deeds, and do not go after other gods to serve them, and then you shall dwell in the land that I gave to you and your fathers.' But you did not incline your ear or listen to me. [16]The sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have kept the command that their father gave them, but this people has not obeyed me. [17]Therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I am bringing upon Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the disaster that I have pronounced against them, because I have spoken to them and they have not listened, I have called to them and they have not answered."

[18]†But to the house of the Rechabites Jeremiah said, "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Because you have obeyed the command of Jonadab your father and kept all his precepts and done all that he commanded you, [19]†therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Jonadab the son of Rechab shall never lack a man to stand before me."

Jehoiakim Burns Jeremiah's Scroll

36 [1]†In the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the Lord: [2]†"Take a scroll and write on it all the words that I have spoken to you against Israel and Judah and all the nations, from the day I spoke to you, from the days of Josiah until today. [3]It may be that the house of Judah will hear all the disaster that I intend to do to them, so that every one may turn from his evil way, and that I may forgive their iniquity and their sin."

[4]†Then Jeremiah called Baruch the son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote on a scroll at the dictation of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord that he had spoken to him. [5]†And Jeremiah ordered Baruch, saying, "I am banned from going to the house of the Lord, [6]†so you are to go, and on a day of fasting in the hearing of all the people in the Lord's house you shall read the words of the Lord from the scroll that you have written at my dictation. You shall read them also in the hearing of all the men of Judah who come out of their cities. [7]†It may be that their plea for mercy will come before the Lord, and that every one will turn from his evil way, for great is the anger and wrath that the Lord has pronounced against this people." [8]†And Baruch the son of Neriah did all that Jeremiah the prophet ordered him about reading from the scroll the words of the Lord in the Lord's house.

[9]†In the fifth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, in the ninth month, all the people in Jerusalem and all the people who came from the cities of Judah to Jerusalem proclaimed a fast before the Lord. [10]†Then, in the hearing of all the people, Baruch read the words of Jeremiah from the scroll, in the house of the Lord, in the chamber of Gemariah the son of Shaphan the secretary, which was in the upper court, at the entry of the New Gate of the Lord's house.

[11]‡When Micaiah the son of Gemariah, son of Shaphan, heard all the words of the Lord from the scroll, [12]†he went down to the king's house, into the secretary's chamber, and all the officials were sitting there: Elishama the secretary, Delaiah the son of Shemaiah, Elnathan the son of Achbor, Gemariah the son of Shaphan, Zedekiah the son of Hananiah, and all the officials. [13]And Micaiah told them all the words that he had heard, when

Baruch read the scroll in the hearing of the people. 14 †Then all the officials sent Jehudi the son of Nethaniah, son of Shelemiah, son of Cushi, to say to Baruch, “Take in your hand the scroll that you read in the hearing of the people, and come.” So Baruch the son of Neriah took the scroll in his hand and came to them. 15 And they said to him, “Sit down and read it.” So Baruch read it to them. 16 †When they heard all the words, they turned one to another in fear. And they said to Baruch, “We must report all these words to the king.” 17 †Then they asked Baruch, “Tell us, please, how did you write all these words? Was it at his dictation?” 18 †Baruch answered them, “He dictated all these words to me, while I wrote them with ink on the scroll.” 19 Then the officials said to Baruch, “Go and hide, you and Jeremiah, and let no one know where you are.”

20 ‡So they went into the court to the king, having put the scroll in the chamber of Elishama the secretary, and they reported all the words to the king. 21 Then the king sent Jehudi to get the scroll, and he took it from the chamber of Elishama the secretary. And Jehudi read it to the king and all the officials who stood beside the king. 22 †It was the ninth month, and the king was sitting in the winter house, and there was a fire burning in the fire pot before him. 23 As Jehudi read three or four columns, the king would cut them off with a knife and throw them into the fire in the fire pot, until the entire scroll was consumed in the fire that was in the fire pot. 24 †Yet neither the king nor any of his servants who heard all these words was afraid, nor did they tear their garments. 25 Even when Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah urged the king not to burn the scroll, he would not listen to them. 26 †And the king commanded Jerahmeel the king’s son and Seraiah the son of Azriel and Shelemiah the son of Abdeel to seize Baruch the secretary and Jeremiah
the prophet, but the Lord hid them.

27 ‡Now after the king had burned the scroll with the words that Baruch wrote at Jeremiah’s dictation, the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah: 28 “Take another scroll and write on it all the former words that were in the first scroll, which Jehoiakim the king of Judah has burned. 29 And concerning Jehoiakim king of Judah you shall say, ‘Thus says the Lord, You have burned this scroll, saying, “Why have you written in it that the king of Babylon will certainly come and destroy this land, and will cut off from it man and beast?” 30 †Therefore thus says the Lord concerning Jehoiakim king of Judah: He shall have none to sit on the throne of David, and his dead body shall be cast out to the heat by day and the frost by night. [31]And I will punish him and his offspring and his servants for their iniquity. I will bring upon them and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem and upon the people of Judah all the disaster that I have pronounced against them, but they would not hear.’”

[32]† Then Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to Baruch the scribe, the son of Neriah, who wrote on it at the dictation of Jeremiah all the words of the scroll that Jehoiakim king of Judah had burned in the fire. And many similar words were added to them.

Jeremiah Warns Zedekiah

37 [1]‡†Zedekiah the son of Josiah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon made king in the land of Judah, reigned instead of Coniah the son of Jehoiakim. [2]†But neither he nor his servants nor the people of the land listened to the words of the Lord that he spoke through Jeremiah the prophet.

[3]†King Zedekiah sent Jehucal the son of Shelemiah, and Zephaniah the priest, the son of Maaseiah, to Jeremiah the prophet, saying, "Please pray for us to the Lord our God." [4]†Now Jeremiah was still going in and out among the people, for he had not yet been put in prison. [5]The army of Pharaoh had come out of Egypt. And when the Chaldeans who were besieging Jerusalem heard news about them, they withdrew from Jerusalem.

[6]Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah the prophet: [7]†"Thus says the Lord, God of Israel: Thus shall you say to the king of Judah who sent you to me to inquire of me, 'Behold, Pharaoh's army that came to help you is about to return to Egypt, to its own land. [8]And the Chaldeans shall come back and fight against this city. They shall capture it and burn it with fire. [9]Thus says the Lord, Do not deceive yourselves, saying, "The Chaldeans will surely go away from us," for they will not go away. [10]For even if you should defeat the whole army of Chaldeans who are fighting against you, and there remained of them only wounded men, every man in his tent, they would rise up and burn this city with fire.'"

Jeremiah Imprisoned

11 †Now when the Chaldean army had withdrawn from Jerusalem at the approach of Pharaoh's army, 12 †Jeremiah set out from Jerusalem to go to the land of Benjamin to receive his portion there among the people. 13 †When he was at the Benjamin Gate, a sentry there named Irijah the son of Shelemiah, son of Hananiah, seized Jeremiah the prophet, saying, "You are deserting to the Chaldeans." 14 And Jeremiah said, "It is a lie; I am not deserting to the Chaldeans." But Irijah would not listen to him, and seized Jeremiah and brought him to the officials. 15 †And the officials were enraged at Jeremiah, and they beat him and imprisoned him in the house of Jonathan the secretary, for it had been made a prison.

16 †When Jeremiah had come to the dungeon cells and remained there many days, 17 †King Zedekiah sent for him and received him. The king questioned him secretly in his house and said, "Is there any word from the Lord?" Jeremiah said, "There is." Then he said, "You shall be delivered into the hand of the king of Babylon." 18 Jeremiah also said to King Zedekiah,
"What wrong have I done to you or your servants or this people, that you have put me in prison? 19 †Where are your prophets who prophesied to you, saying, 'The king of Babylon will not come against you and against this land'? 20 Now hear, please, O my lord the king: let my humble plea come before you and do not send me back to the house of Jonathan the secretary, lest I die there." 21 †So King Zedekiah gave orders, and they committed Jeremiah to the court of the guard. And a loaf of bread was given him daily from the bakers' street, until all the bread of the city was gone. So Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

Jeremiah Cast into the Cistern

38 [1] ‡ † Now Shephatiah the son of Mattan, Gedaliah the son of Pashhur, Jucal the son of Shelemiah, and Pashhur the son of Malchiah heard the words that Jeremiah was saying to all the people, [2] †"Thus says the Lord:
He who stays in this city shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence, but he who goes out to the Chaldeans shall live. He shall have his life as a prize of war, and live. [3] Thus says the Lord: This city shall surely be given into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon and be taken."
[4] †Then the officials said to the king, "Let this man be put to death, for he is weakening the hands of the soldiers who are left in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking such words to them. For this man is not seeking the welfare of this people, but their harm." [5] King Zedekiah said, "Behold, he is in your hands, for the king can do nothing against you." [6] †So they took Jeremiah and cast him into the cistern of Malchiah, the king's son, which was in the court of the guard, letting Jeremiah down by ropes. And there was no water in the cistern, but only mud, and Jeremiah sank in the mud.

Jeremiah Rescued from the Cistern

7 When Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, a eunuch who was in the king's house, heard that they had put Jeremiah into the cistern—the king was sitting in the Benjamin Gate— 8 Ebed-melech went from the king's house and said to the king, 9 "My lord the king, these men have done evil in all that they did to Jeremiah the prophet by casting him into the cistern, and he will die there of hunger, for there is no bread left in the city." 10 Then the king commanded Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, "Take thirty men with you from here, and lift Jeremiah the prophet out of the cistern before he dies." 11 So Ebed-melech took the men with him and went to the house of the king, to a wardrobe in the storehouse, and took from there old rags and worn-out clothes, which he let down to Jeremiah in the cistern by ropes. 12 Then Ebed-melech the Ethiopian said to Jeremiah, "Put the rags and clothes between your armpits and the ropes." Jeremiah did so. 13 Then they drew Jeremiah up with ropes and lifted him out of the cistern. And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

Jeremiah Warns Zedekiah Again

14 ‡ ‡ ‡ King Zedekiah sent for Jeremiah the prophet and received him at the third entrance of the temple of the Lord. The king said to Jeremiah, “I will ask you a question; hide nothing from me.” 15 Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, “If I tell you, will you not surely put me to death? And if I give you counsel, you will not listen to me.” 16 † Then King Zedekiah swore secretly to Jeremiah, “As the Lord lives, who made our souls, I will not put you to death or deliver you into the hand of these men who seek your life.” 17 † Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, “Thus says the Lord, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: If you will surrender to the officials of the king of Babylon, then your life shall be spared, and this city shall not be burned with fire, and you and your house shall live. 18 But if you do not surrender to the officials of the king of Babylon, then this city shall be given into the hand of the Chaldeans, and they shall burn it with fire, and you shall not escape from their hand.” 19 King Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, “I am afraid of the Judeans who have deserted to the Chaldeans, lest I be handed over to them and they deal cruelly with me.” 20 Jeremiah said, “You shall not be given to them. Obey now the voice of the Lord in what I say to you, and it shall be well with you, and your life shall be spared. 21 † But if you refuse to surrender, this is the vision which the Lord has shown to me: 22 † Behold, all the women left in the house of the king of Judah were being led out to the officials of the king of Babylon and were saying,

> “‘Your trusted friends have deceived you > and prevailed against you;
> now that your feet are sunk in the mud,
> they turn away from you.’

23 All your wives and your sons shall be led out to the Chaldeans, and you yourself shall not escape from their hand, but shall be seized by the king of Babylon, and this city shall be burned with fire.”
24 ‡ Then Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, “Let no one know of these words, and you shall not die. 25 If the officials hear that I have spoken with you and come to you and say to you, ‘Tell us what you said to the king and what the king said to you; hide nothing from us and we will not put you to death,’ [26]then you shall say to them, ‘I made a humble plea to the king that he would not send me back to the house of Jonathan to die there.’” [27]Then all the officials came to Jeremiah and asked him, and he answered them as the king had instructed him. So they stopped speaking with him, for the conversation had not been overheard. [28] † And Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard until the day that Jerusalem was taken.

The Fall of Jerusalem

39 [1]‡‡‡In the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and all his army came against Jerusalem and besieged it. [2]†In the eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, on the ninth day of the month, a breach was made in the city. [3]†Then all the officials of the king of Babylon came and sat in the middle gate:
Nergal-sar-ezer, Samgar-nebu, Sar-sekim the Rab-saris, Nergal-sar-ezer the Rab-mag, with all the rest of the officers of the king of Babylon. [4]†When Zedekiah king of Judah and all the soldiers saw them, they fled, going out of the city at night by way of the king's garden through the gate between the two walls; and they went toward the Arabah. [5]† But the army of the Chaldeans pursued them and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho.
And when they had taken him, they brought him up to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, at Riblah, in the land of Hamath; and he passed sentence on him. [6]The king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah at Riblah before his eyes, and the king of Babylon slaughtered all the nobles of Judah.
[7]He put out the eyes of Zedekiah and bound him in chains to take him to Babylon. [8]† The Chaldeans burned the king's house and the house of the people, and broke down the walls of Jerusalem. [9]†Then Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, carried into exile to Babylon the rest of the people who were left in the city, those who had deserted to him, and the people who remained. [10]†Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, left in the land of Judah some of the poor people who owned nothing, and gave them vineyards and fields at the same time.

The Lord Delivers Jeremiah

11 †Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon gave command concerning Jeremiah through Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, saying, 12 †"Take him, look after him well, and do him no harm, but deal with him as he tells you."
13 †So Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, Nebushazban the Rab-saris, Nergal-sar-ezer the Rab-mag, and all the chief officers of the king of Babylon 14 † sent and took Jeremiah from the court of the guard. They entrusted him to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, that he should take him home. So he lived among the people.

15 The word of the Lord came to Jeremiah while he was shut up in the court of the guard: 16 †"Go, and say to Ebed-melech the Ethiopian, 'Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I will fulfill my words against this city for harm and not for good, and they shall be accomplished before you on that day. 17 †But I will deliver you on that day, declares the Lord, and you shall not be given into the hand of the men of whom you are afraid. 18 †For I will surely save you, and you shall not fall by the sword, but you shall have your life as a prize of war, because you have put your trust in me, declares the Lord.'"

Jeremiah Remains in Judah

40 [1] † The word that came to Jeremiah from the Lord after Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had let him go from Ramah, when he took him bound in chains along with all the captives of Jerusalem and Judah who were being exiled to Babylon. [2] † The captain of the guard took Jeremiah and said to him, "The Lord your God pronounced this disaster against this place. [3]The Lord has brought it about, and has done as he said.
Because you sinned against the Lord and did not obey his voice, this thing has come upon you. [4]†Now, behold, I release you today from the chains on your hands. If it seems good to you to come with me to Babylon, come, and I will look after you well, but if it seems wrong to you to come with me to Babylon, do not come. See, the whole land is before you; go wherever you think it good and right to go. [5]†If you remain,[1] then return to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon appointed governor of the cities of Judah, and dwell with him among the people. Or go wherever you think it right to go." So the captain of the guard gave him an allowance of food and a present, and let him go. [6]†Then Jeremiah went to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, at Mizpah, and lived with him among the people who were left in the land.

[7]†When all the captains of the forces in the open country and their men heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah the son of Ahikam governor in the land and had committed to him men, women, and children, those of the poorest of the land who had not been taken into exile to Babylon, [8] † they went to Gedaliah at Mizpah—Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, Johanan the son of Kareah, Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth, the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, Jezaniah the son of the Maacathite, they and their men. [9]Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, swore to them and their men, saying, "Do not be afraid to serve the Chaldeans. Dwell in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it shall be well with you. [10]†As for me, I will dwell at Mizpah, to represent you before the Chaldeans who will come to us. But as for you, gather wine and summer fruits and oil, and store them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities that you have taken."
[11] † Likewise, when all the Judeans who were in Moab and among the Ammonites and in Edom and in other lands heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant in Judah and had appointed Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, as governor over them, [12]then all the Judeans returned from all the places to which they had been driven and came to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah at Mizpah. And they gathered wine and summer fruits in great abundance.

[13]†Now Johanan the son of Kareah and all the leaders of the forces in the open country came to Gedaliah at Mizpah [14]† and said to him, "Do you know that Baalis the king of the Ammonites has sent Ishmael the son of Nethaniah to take your life?" But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam would not believe them. [15]Then Johanan the son of Kareah spoke secretly to Gedaliah at Mizpah, "Please let me go and strike down Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and no one will know it. Why should he take your life, so that all the Judeans who are gathered about you would be scattered, and the remnant of Judah would perish?" [16]But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam said to Johanan the son of Kareah, "You shall not do this thing, for you are speaking falsely of Ishmael."

Gedaliah Murdered

41 [1] †In the seventh month, Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama, of the royal family, one of the chief officers of the king, came with ten men to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, at Mizpah. As they ate bread together there at Mizpah, [2]Ishmael the son of Nethaniah and the ten men with him rose up and struck down Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, with the sword, and killed him, whom the king of Babylon had appointed governor in the land. [3]†Ishmael also struck down all the Judeans who were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and the Chaldean soldiers who happened to be there.

[4]On the day after the murder of Gedaliah, before anyone knew of it, [5]†eighty men arrived from Shechem and Shiloh and Samaria, with their beards shaved and their clothes torn, and their bodies gashed, bringing grain offerings and incense to present at the temple of the Lord. [6]†And Ishmael the son of Nethaniah came out from Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he came. As he met them, he said to them, "Come in to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam." [7]†When they came into the city, Ishmael the son of Nethaniah and the men with him slaughtered them and cast them into a cistern. [8]†But there were ten men among them who said to Ishmael, "Do not put us to death, for we have stores of wheat, barley, oil, and honey hidden in the fields." So he refrained and did not put them to death with their companions.

[9]Now the cistern into which Ishmael had thrown all the bodies of the men whom he had struck down along with[1] Gedaliah was the large cistern that King Asa had made for defense against Baasha king of Israel; Ishmael the son of Nethaniah filled it with the slain. [10]†Then Ishmael took captive all the rest of the people who were in Mizpah, the king's daughters and all the people who were left at Mizpah, whom Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guard, had committed to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam. Ishmael the son of Nethaniah took them captive and set out to cross over to the Ammonites.

[11]†But when Johanan the son of Kareah and all the leaders of the forces with him heard of all the evil that Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had done, [12]they took all their men and went to fight against Ishmael the son of Nethaniah. They came upon him at the great pool that is in Gibeon. [13]And when all the people who were with Ishmael saw Johanan the son of Kareah and all the leaders of the forces with him, they rejoiced. [14]So all the people whom Ishmael had carried away captive from Mizpah turned around and came back, and went to Johanan the son of Kareah. [15]But Ishmael the son of Nethaniah escaped from Johanan with eight men, and went to the Ammonites. [16]† Then Johanan the son of Kareah and all the leaders of the forces with him took from Mizpah all the rest of the people whom he had recovered from Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, after he had struck down Gedaliah the son of Ahikam—soldiers, women, children, and eunuchs, whom Johanan brought back from Gibeon. [17]† And they went and stayed at Geruth Chimham near Bethlehem, intending to go to Egypt [18]† because of the Chaldeans. For they were afraid of them, because Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had struck down Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had made governor over the land.

Warning Against Going to Egypt

42 [1]†Then all the commanders of the forces, and Johanan the son of Kareah and Jezaniah the son of Hoshaiah, and all the people from the least to the greatest, came near [2]and said to Jeremiah the prophet, “Let our plea for mercy come before you, and pray to the Lord your God for us, for all this remnant—because we are left with but a few, as your eyes see us— [3]†that the Lord your God may show us the way we should go, and the thing that we should do.” [4]†Jeremiah the prophet said to them, “I have heard you. Behold, I will pray to the Lord your God according to your request, and whatever the Lord answers you I will tell you. I will keep nothing back from you.” [5]†Then they said to Jeremiah, “May the Lord be a true and faithful witness against us if we do not act according to all the word with which the Lord your God sends you to us. [6]Whether it is good or bad, we will obey the voice of the Lord our God to whom we are sending you, that it may be well with us when we obey the voice of the Lord our God.”

[7]†At the end of ten days the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah. [8]Then he summoned Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces who were with him, and all the people from the least to the greatest, [9]and said to them, “Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel, to whom you sent me to present your plea for mercy before him: [10]†If you will remain in this land, then I will build you up and not pull you down; I will plant you, and not pluck you up; for I relent of the disaster that I did to you. [11]†Do not fear the king of Babylon, of whom you are afraid. Do not fear him, declares the Lord, for I am with you, to save you and to deliver you from his hand. [12]†I will grant you mercy, that he may have mercy on you and let you remain in your own land. [13]But if you say, ‘We will not remain in this land,’ disobeying the voice of the Lord your God [14]†and saying, ‘No, we will go to the land of Egypt, where we shall not see war or hear the sound of the trumpet or be hungry for bread, and we will dwell there,’ [15]†then hear the word of the Lord, O remnant of Judah. Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: If you set your faces to enter Egypt and go to live there, [16]then the sword that you fear shall overtake you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine of which you are afraid shall follow close after you to Egypt, and there you shall die. 17All the men who set their faces to go to Egypt to live there shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence. They shall have no remnant or survivor from the disaster that I will bring upon them.

18† "For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: As my anger and my wrath were poured out on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so my wrath will be poured out on you when you go to Egypt. You shall become an execration, a horror, a curse, and a taunt. You shall see this place no more. 19† The Lord has said to you, O remnant of Judah, 'Do not go to Egypt.' Know for a certainty that I have warned you this day 20that you have gone astray at the cost of your lives. For you sent me to the Lord your God, saying, 'Pray for us to the Lord our God, and whatever the Lord our God says declare to us and we will do it.' 21And I have this day declared it to you, but you have not obeyed the voice of the Lord your God in anything that he sent me to tell you. 22Now therefore know for a certainty that you shall die by the sword, by famine, and by pestilence in the place where you desire to go to live."

Jeremiah Taken to Egypt

43 [1]When Jeremiah finished speaking to all the people all these words of the Lord their God, with which the Lord their God had sent him to them, [2]†Azariah the son of Hoshaiah and Johanan the son of Kareah and all the insolent men said to Jeremiah, "You are telling a lie. The Lord our God did not send you to say, 'Do not go to Egypt to live there,' [3]†but Baruch the son of Neriah has set you against us, to deliver us into the hand of the Chaldeans, that they may kill us or take us into exile in Babylon." [4]So Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces and all the people did not obey the voice of the Lord, to remain in the land of Judah.
[5]†But Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces took all the remnant of Judah who had returned to live in the land of Judah from all the nations to which they had been driven— [6]†the men, the women, the children, the princesses, and every person whom Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had left with Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan; also Jeremiah the prophet and Baruch the son of Neriah. [7]†And they came into the land of Egypt, for they did not obey the voice of the Lord. And they arrived at Tahpanhes.

[8]Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah in Tahpanhes: [9]†"Take in your hands large stones and hide them in the mortar in the pavement that is at the entrance to Pharaoh's palace in Tahpanhes, in the sight of the men of Judah, [10]†and say to them, 'Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel:
Behold, I will send and take Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, my servant, and I will set his throne above these stones that I have hidden, and he will spread his royal canopy over them. [11]†He shall come and strike the land of Egypt, giving over to the pestilence those who are doomed to the pestilence, to captivity those who are doomed to captivity, and to the sword those who are doomed to the sword. [12]†I shall kindle a fire in the temples of the gods of Egypt, and he shall burn them and carry them away captive.
And he shall clean the land of Egypt as a shepherd cleans his cloak of vermin, and he shall go away from there in peace. [13]†He shall break the obelisks of Heliopolis, which is in the land of Egypt, and the temples of the gods of Egypt he shall burn with fire.'"

Judgment for Idolatry

44 [1]†The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the Judeans who lived in the land of Egypt, at Migdol, at Tahpanhes, at Memphis, and in the land of Pathros, [2]†"Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: You have seen all the disaster that I brought upon Jerusalem and upon all the cities of Judah. Behold, this day they are a desolation, and no one dwells in them, [3]because of the evil that they committed, provoking me to anger, in that they went to make offerings and serve other gods that they knew not, neither they, nor you, nor your fathers. [4]†Yet I persistently sent to you all my servants the prophets, saying, 'Oh, do not do this abomination that I hate!' [5]But they did not listen or incline their ear, to turn from their evil and make no offerings to other gods. [6]Therefore my wrath and my anger were poured out and kindled in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, and they became a waste and a desolation, as at this day. [7]†And now thus says the Lord God of hosts, the God of Israel: Why do you commit this great evil against yourselves, to cut off from you man and woman, infant and child, from the midst of Judah, leaving you no remnant? [8]†Why do you provoke me to anger with the works of your hands, making offerings to other gods in the land of Egypt where you have come to live, so that you may be cut off and become a curse and a taunt among all the nations of the earth? [9]Have you forgotten the evil of your fathers, the evil of the kings of Judah, the evil of their[1] wives, your own evil, and the evil of your wives, which they committed in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem?
[10]†They have not humbled themselves even to this day, nor have they feared, nor walked in my law and my statutes that I set before you and before your fathers.

[11]†"Therefore thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I will set my face against you for harm, to cut off all Judah. [12]†I will take the remnant of Judah who have set their faces to come to the land of Egypt to live, and they shall all be consumed. In the land of Egypt they shall fall; by the sword and by famine they shall be consumed. From the least to the greatest, they shall die by the sword and by famine, and they shall become an oath, a horror, a curse, and a taunt. [13]I will punish those who dwell in the land of Egypt, as I have punished Jerusalem, with the sword, with famine, and with pestilence, 14 so that none of the remnant of Judah who have come to live in the land of Egypt shall escape or survive or return to the land of Judah, to which they desire to return to dwell there. For they shall not return, except some fugitives."

15 Then all the men who knew that their wives had made offerings to other gods, and all the women who stood by, a great assembly, all the people who lived in Pathros in the land of Egypt, answered Jeremiah: 16 "As for the word that you have spoken to us in the name of the Lord, we will not listen to you. 17 But we will do everything that we have vowed, make offerings to the queen of heaven and pour out drink offerings to her, as we did, both we and our fathers, our kings and our officials, in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem. For then we had plenty of food, and prospered, and saw no disaster. 18 But since we left off making offerings to the queen of heaven and pouring out drink offerings to her, we have lacked everything and have been consumed by the sword and by famine." 19 And the women said,[1] "When we made offerings to the queen of heaven and poured out drink offerings to her, was it without our husbands' approval that we made cakes for her bearing her image and poured out drink offerings to her?"

20 Then Jeremiah said to all the people, men and women, all the people who had given him this answer: 21 "As for the offerings that you offered in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, you and your fathers, your kings and your officials, and the people of the land, did not the Lord remember them? Did it not come into his mind? 22 The Lord could no longer bear your evil deeds and the abominations that you committed. Therefore your land has become a desolation and a waste and a curse, without inhabitant, as it is this day. 23 It is because you made offerings and because you sinned against the Lord and did not obey the voice of the Lord or walk in his law and in his statutes and in his testimonies that this disaster has happened to you, as at this day."

24 Jeremiah said to all the people and all the women, "Hear the word of the Lord, all you of Judah who are in the land of Egypt. 25 Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: You and your wives have declared with your mouths, and have fulfilled it with your hands, saying, 'We will surely perform our vows that we have made, to make offerings to the queen of heaven and to pour out drink offerings to her.' Then confirm your vows and perform your vows! [26] † Therefore hear the word of the LORD, all you of Judah who dwell in the land of Egypt: Behold, I have sworn by my great name, says the LORD, that my name shall no more be invoked by the mouth of any man of Judah in all the land of Egypt, saying, 'As the Lord GOD lives.' [27]Behold, I am watching over them for disaster and not for good. All the men of Judah who are in the land of Egypt shall be consumed by the sword and by famine, until there is an end of them. [28] † And those who escape the sword shall return from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah, few in number; and all the remnant of Judah, who came to the land of Egypt to live, shall know whose word will stand, mine or theirs. [29]This shall be the sign to you, declares the LORD, that I will punish you in this place, in order that you may know that my words will surely stand against you for harm: [30] † Thus says the LORD, Behold, I will give Pharaoh Hophra king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies and into the hand of those who seek his life, as I gave Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, who was his enemy and sought his life."

Message to Baruch

45 [1]†The word that Jeremiah the prophet spoke to Baruch the son of Neriah, when he wrote these words in a book at the dictation of Jeremiah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah: [2]"Thus says the Lord, the God of Israel, to you, O Baruch: [3]†You said, 'Woe is me! For the Lord has added sorrow to my pain. I am weary with my groaning, and I find no rest.' [4]†Thus shall you say to him, Thus says the Lord: Behold, what I have built I am breaking down, and what I have planted I am plucking up —that is, the whole land. [5]†And do you seek great things for yourself? Seek them not, for behold, I am bringing disaster upon all flesh, declares the Lord. But I will give you your life as a prize of war in all places to which you may go."

Judgment on Egypt

46 [1] † The word of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning the nations.

[2] † About Egypt. Concerning the army of Pharaoh Neco, king of Egypt, which was by the river Euphrates at Carchemish and which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon defeated in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah:

[3] † "Prepare buckler and shield,
and advance for battle!
[4] Harness the horses;
mount, O horsemen!
Take your stations with your helmets,
polish your spears,
put on your armor!
[5] Why have I seen it?
They are dismayed
and have turned backward.
Their warriors are beaten down
and have fled in haste;
they look not back—
terror on every side!
declares the Lord.

[6] "The swift cannot flee away,
nor the warrior escape;
in the north by the river Euphrates
they have stumbled and fallen.

[7] † "Who is this, rising like the Nile,
like rivers whose waters surge?
[8] Egypt rises like the Nile,

like rivers whose waters surge.
He said, ‘I will rise, I will cover the earth,
I will destroy cities and their inhabitants.’
9 Advance, O horses,
and rage, O chariots!
Let the warriors go out:
men of Cush and Put who handle the shield,
men of Lud, skilled in handling the bow.
10 That day is the day of the Lord God of hosts,
a day of vengeance,
to avenge himself on his foes.
The sword shall devour and be sated
and drink its fill of their blood.
For the Lord God of hosts holds a sacrifice
in the north country by the river Euphrates.
11 Go up to Gilead, and take balm,
O virgin daughter of Egypt!
In vain you have used many medicines;
there is no healing for you.
12 The nations have heard of your shame,
and the earth is full of your cry;
for warrior has stumbled against warrior;
they have both fallen together.”

13 The word that the Lord spoke to Jeremiah the prophet about the coming of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon to strike the land of Egypt:

14 “Declare in Egypt, and proclaim in Migdol;
proclaim in Memphis and Tahpanhes;
say, ‘Stand ready and be prepared,
for the sword shall devour around you.’
15 Why are your mighty ones face down?
They do not stand[1]
because the Lord thrust them down.
16 He made many stumble, and they fell,
and they said one to another,

‘Arise, and let us go back to our own people
and to the land of our birth,
because of the sword of the oppressor.’
17† Call the name of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, ‘Noisy one who lets the hour go by.’

18† “As I live, declares the King, whose name is the Lord of hosts,
like Tabor among the mountains and like Carmel by the sea, shall one
come.
19† Prepare yourselves baggage for exile,
O inhabitants of Egypt!
For Memphis shall become a waste,
a ruin, without inhabitant.

20† “A beautiful heifer is Egypt, but a biting fly from the north has come upon her.
21† Even her hired soldiers in her midst
are like fattened calves;
yes, they have turned and fled together;
they did not stand,
for the day of their calamity has come upon
them,
the time of their punishment.

22† “She makes a sound like a serpent gliding
away;
for her enemies march in force
and come against her with axes
like those who fell trees.
23† They shall cut down her forest,
declares the Lord,

though it is impenetrable,
because they are more numerous than locusts;
they are without number.
24 The daughter of Egypt shall be put to shame;
she shall be delivered into the hand of a people from the north."

25 † The Lord of hosts, the God of Israel, said: "Behold, I am bringing punishment upon Amon of Thebes, and Pharaoh and Egypt and her gods and her kings, upon Pharaoh and those who trust in him. 26 I will deliver them into the hand of those who seek their life, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and his officers. Afterward Egypt shall be inhabited as in the days of old, declares the Lord.

27 † "But fear not, O Jacob my servant,
nor be dismayed, O Israel,
for behold, I will save you from far away,
and your offspring from the land of their
captivity.
Jacob shall return and have quiet and ease,
and none shall make him afraid.
28 † Fear not, O Jacob my servant,
declares the Lord,
for I am with you.
I will make a full end of all the nations
to which I have driven you,
but of you I will not make a full end.
I will discipline you in just measure,
and I will by no means leave you unpunished."

Judgment on the Philistines

47 [1] † The word of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning the Philistines, before Pharaoh struck down Gaza.

[2] "Thus says the Lord:
Behold, waters are rising out of the north,
and shall become an overflowing torrent;
they shall overflow the land and all that fills it,
the city and those who dwell in it.
Men shall cry out,
and every inhabitant of the land shall wail.
[3] † At the noise of the stamping of the hoofs of his stallions,
at the rushing of his chariots, at the
rumbling of their wheels,
the fathers look not back to their children,
so feeble are their hands,
[4] † because of the day that is coming to destroy all the Philistines,
to cut off from Tyre and Sidon
every helper that remains.
For the Lord is destroying the Philistines,
the remnant of the coastland of Caphtor.
[5] † Baldness has come upon Gaza;
Ashkelon has perished.
O remnant of their valley,
how long will you gash yourselves?
[6] † Ah, sword of the Lord!
How long till you are quiet?
Put yourself into your scabbard;
rest and be still!
[7] How can it[1] be quiet
when the Lord has given it a charge?

Against Ashkelon and against the seashore
he has appointed it.”

Judgment on Moab

48 [1]†Concerning Moab.
Thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel:

"Woe to Nebo, for it is laid waste!
Kiriathaim is put to shame, it is taken;
the fortress is put to shame and broken down;
[2]† the renown of Moab is no more.
In Heshbon they planned disaster against her:
'Come, let us cut her off from being a nation!'
You also, O Madmen, shall be brought to silence;
the sword shall pursue you.

[3]† "A voice! A cry from Horonaim,
'Desolation and great destruction!'
[4]† Moab is destroyed;
her little ones have made a cry.
[5]† For at the ascent of Luhith
they go up weeping;[2]
for at the descent of Horonaim
they have heard the distressed cry[3] of destruction.
[6]† Flee! Save yourselves!
You will be like a juniper in the desert!
[7]† For, because you trusted in your works and your treasures,
you also shall be taken;
and Chemosh shall go into exile
with his priests and his officials.
[8]† The destroyer shall come upon every city,
and no city shall escape;

the valley shall perish,
  and the plain shall be destroyed,
  as the Lord has spoken.

9 “Give wings to Moab,
  for she would fly away;
her cities shall become a desolation,
  with no inhabitant in them.

10 † “Cursed is he who does the work of the Lord with slackness, and cursed is he who keeps back his sword from bloodshed.

11 † “Moab has been at ease from his youth and has settled on his dregs;
he has not been emptied from vessel to vessel,
  nor has he gone into exile;
so his taste remains in him,
  and his scent is not changed.

12 † “Therefore, behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I shall send to him pourers who will pour him, and empty his vessels and break his[1] jars in pieces. 13 † Then Moab shall be ashamed of Chemosh, as the house of Israel was ashamed of Bethel, their confidence.

14 † “How do you say, ‘We are heroes and mighty men of war’?
15 † The destroyer of Moab and his cities has come up,
  and the choicest of his young men have gone down to slaughter,
  declares the King, whose name is the Lord
    of hosts.
16 The calamity of Moab is near at hand,
  and his affliction hastens swiftly.
17 † Grieve for him, all you who are around him,
  and all who know his name;

say, ‘How the mighty scepter is broken,
the glorious staff.’

18 “Come down from your glory,
and sit on the parched ground,
O inhabitant of Dibon!
For the destroyer of Moab has come up against you;
he has destroyed your strongholds.
19 Stand by the way and watch,
O inhabitant of Aroer!
Ask him who flees and her who escapes;
say, ‘What has happened?’
20 Moab is put to shame, for it is broken;
wail and cry!
Tell it beside the Arnon,
that Moab is laid waste.

21 “Judgment has come upon the tableland, upon Holon, and Jahzah, and Mephaath, 22 and Dibon, and Nebo, and Beth-diblathaim, 23 and Kiriathaim, and Beth-gamul, and Beth-meon, 24 and Kerioth, and Bozrah, and all the cities of the land of Moab, far and near. 25 The horn of Moab is cut off, and his arm is broken, declares the Lord.
26 “Make him drunk, because he magnified himself against the Lord, so that Moab shall wallow in his vomit, and he too shall be held in derision. 27 Was not Israel a derision to you? Was he found among thieves, that whenever you spoke of him you wagged your head?

28 “Leave the cities, and dwell in the rock,
O inhabitants of Moab!
Be like the dove that nests
in the sides of the mouth of a gorge.
29 We have heard of the pride of Moab—
he is very proud—
of his loftiness, his pride, and his arrogance,

and the haughtiness of his heart.
30 I know his insolence, declares the Lord;
his boasts are false,
his deeds are false.
31† Therefore I wail for Moab;
I cry out for all Moab;
for the men of Kir-hareseth I mourn.
32† More than for Jazer I weep for you,
O vine of Sibmah!
Your branches passed over the sea,
reached to the Sea of Jazer;
on your summer fruits and your grapes
the destroyer has fallen.
33 Gladness and joy have been taken away from the fruitful land of Moab;
I have made the wine cease from the winepresses;
no one treads them with shouts of joy;
the shouting is not the shout of joy.

34†"From the outcry at Heshbon even to Elealeh, as far as Jahaz they utter their voice, from Zoar to Horonaim and Eglath-shelishiyah. For the waters of Nimrim also have become desolate. 35† And I will bring to an end in Moab, declares the Lord, him who offers sacrifice in the high place and makes offerings to his god. 36† Therefore my heart moans for Moab like a flute, and my heart moans like a flute for the men of Kir-hareseth. Therefore the riches they gained have perished.

37†"For every head is shaved and every beard cut off. On all the hands are gashes, and around the waist is sackcloth. 38† On all the housetops of Moab and in the squares there is nothing but lamentation, for I have broken Moab like a vessel for which no one cares, declares the Lord. 39How it is broken! How they wail! How Moab has turned his back in shame! So Moab has become a derision and a horror to all that are around him."

40† For thus says the Lord:
"Behold, one shall fly swiftly like an eagle

and spread his wings against Moab; 41 the cities shall be taken and the strongholds seized.
The heart of the warriors of Moab shall be in that day
like the heart of a woman in her birth pains; 42 Moab shall be destroyed and be no longer a people,
because he magnified himself against the Lord.
43 Terror, pit, and snare
are before you, O inhabitant of Moab!
declares the Lord.
44† He who flees from the terror
shall fall into the pit,
and he who climbs out of the pit
shall be caught in the snare.
For I will bring these things upon Moab,
the year of their punishment,
declares the Lord.

45†† “In the shadow of Heshbon fugitives stop without strength,
for fire came out from Heshbon,
flame from the house of Sihon;
it has destroyed the forehead of Moab,
the crown of the sons of tumult.
46 Woe to you, O Moab!
The people of Chemosh are undone,
for your sons have been taken captive,
and your daughters into captivity.
47† Yet I will restore the fortunes of Moab
in the latter days, declares the Lord.”
Thus far is the judgment on Moab.

Judgment on Ammon

49 [1]†† Concerning the Ammonites.
Thus says the Lord:

"Has Israel no sons?
Has he no heir?
Why then has Milcom dispossessed Gad,
and his people settled in its cities?
[2]† Therefore, behold, the days are coming,
declares the Lord,
when I will cause the battle cry to be heard against Rabbah of the Ammonites;
it shall become a desolate mound,
and its villages shall be burned with fire;
then Israel shall dispossess those who dispossessed him,
says the Lord.

[3]† "Wail, O Heshbon, for Ai is laid waste!
Cry out, O daughters of Rabbah!
Put on sackcloth,
lament, and run to and fro among the hedges!
For Milcom shall go into exile,
with his priests and his officials.
[4] Why do you boast of your valleys,[1]
O faithless daughter,
who trusted in her treasures, saying,
'Who will come against me?'
[5]† Behold, I will bring terror upon you,
declares the Lord God of hosts,
from all who are around you,
and you shall be driven out, every man

straight before him,
with none to gather the fugitives.

6 † "But afterward I will restore the fortunes of the Ammonites, declares the Lord."

Judgment on Edom

7 ††Concerning Edom.
Thus says the Lord of hosts:

"Is wisdom no more in Teman?
Has counsel perished from the prudent?
Has their wisdom vanished?
8 Flee, turn back, dwell in the depths,
O inhabitants of Dedan!
For I will bring the calamity of Esau upon him,
the time when I punish him.
9 If grape-gatherers came to you,
would they not leave gleanings?
If thieves came by night,
would they not destroy only enough for
themselves?
10 But I have stripped Esau bare;
I have uncovered his hiding places,
and he is not able to conceal himself.
His children are destroyed, and his brothers,
and his neighbors; and he is no more.
11 † Leave your fatherless children; I will keep them alive;
and let your widows trust in me."

12 †For thus says the Lord: "If those who did not deserve to drink the cup must drink it, will you go unpunished? You shall not go unpunished, but you must drink. 13 †For I have sworn by myself, declares the Lord, that Bozrah shall become a horror, a taunt, a waste, and a curse, and all her cities shall be perpetual wastes."

14 † I have heard a message from the Lord,
and an envoy has been sent among the nations:
"Gather yourselves together and come against her,

and rise up for battle!
15 For behold, I will make you small among the
nations,
despised among mankind.
16† The horror you inspire has deceived you,
and the pride of your heart,
you who live in the clefts of the rock,[2]
who hold the height of the hill.
Though you make your nest as high as the
eagle's,
I will bring you down from there,
declares the LORD.

17"Edom shall become a horror. Everyone who passes by it will be horrified and will hiss because of all its disasters. 18†As when Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighboring cities were overthrown, says the LORD, no man shall dwell there, no man shall sojourn in her. 19†Behold, like a lion coming up from the jungle of the Jordan against a perennial pasture, I will suddenly make him[3] run away from her. And I will appoint over her whomever I choose. For who is like me? Who will summon me? What shepherd can stand before me? 20†Therefore hear the plan that the LORD has made against Edom and the purposes that he has formed against the inhabitants of Teman: Even the little ones of the flock shall be dragged away. Surely their fold shall be appalled at their fate. 21†At the sound of their fall the earth shall tremble; the sound of their cry shall be heard at the Red Sea. 22†Behold, one shall mount up and fly swiftly like an eagle and spread his wings against Bozrah, and the heart of the warriors of Edom shall be in that day like the heart of a woman in her birth pains."

Judgment on Damascus

23 ††Concerning Damascus:

"Hamath and Arpad are confounded,
for they have heard bad news;
they melt in fear,
they are troubled like the sea that cannot be quiet.
24 Damascus has become feeble, she turned to flee,
and panic seized her;
anguish and sorrows have taken hold of her,
as of a woman in labor.
25† How is the famous city not forsaken,
the city of my joy?
26 Therefore her young men shall fall in her
squares,
and all her soldiers shall be destroyed in that
day,
declares the Lord of hosts.
27† And I will kindle a fire in the wall of Damascus,
and it shall devour the strongholds of Ben-hadad."

Judgment on Kedar and Hazor

28 ‡ † Concerning Kedar and the kingdoms of Hazor that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon struck down.

Thus says the Lord:
"Rise up, advance against Kedar!
Destroy the people of the east!
29 Their tents and their flocks shall be taken,
their curtains and all their goods;
their camels shall be led away from them,
and men shall cry to them: 'Terror on every side!'
30 Flee, wander far away, dwell in the depths,
O inhabitants of Hazor!
declares the Lord.
For Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon
has made a plan against you and formed a purpose against you.

31 ‡ "Rise up, advance against a nation at ease,
that dwells securely,
declares the Lord,
that has no gates or bars,
that dwells alone.
32 ‡ Their camels shall become plunder,
their herds of livestock a spoil.
I will scatter to every wind
those who cut the corners of their hair, and I will bring their calamity
from every side of them,
declares the Lord.
33 ‡ Hazor shall become a haunt of jackals,
an everlasting waste;

no man shall dwell there;
  no man shall sojourn in her.”

Judgment on Elam

34 ‡ ‡ The word of the Lord that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning Elam, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah.

35 † Thus says the Lord of hosts: “Behold, I will break the bow of Elam, the mainstay of their might. 36 † And I will bring upon Elam the four winds from the four quarters of heaven. And I will scatter them to all those winds, and there shall be no nation to which those driven out of Elam shall not come. 37 I will terrify Elam before their enemies and before those who seek their life. I will bring disaster upon them, my fierce anger, declares the Lord. I will send the sword after them, until I have consumed them, 38 and I will set my throne in Elam and destroy their king and officials, declares the Lord.

39 † “But in the latter days I will restore the fortunes of Elam, declares the Lord.”

Judgment on Babylon

50 [1] The word that the Lord spoke concerning Babylon, concerning the land of the Chaldeans, by Jeremiah the prophet:

[2] "Declare among the nations and proclaim,
set up a banner and proclaim,
conceal it not, and say:
'Babylon is taken,
Bel is put to shame,
Merodach is dismayed.
Her images are put to shame,
her idols are dismayed.'

[3] "For out of the north a nation has come up against her, which shall make her land a desolation, and none shall dwell in it; both man and beast shall flee away.

[4] "In those days and in that time, declares the Lord, the people of Israel and the people of Judah shall come together, weeping as they come, and they shall seek the Lord their God. [5] They shall ask the way to Zion, with faces turned toward it, saying, 'Come, let us join ourselves to the Lord in an everlasting covenant that will never be forgotten.'

[6] "My people have been lost sheep. Their shepherds have led them astray, turning them away on the mountains. From mountain to hill they have gone. They have forgotten their fold. [7] All who found them have devoured them, and their enemies have said, 'We are not guilty, for they have sinned against the Lord, their habitation of righteousness, the Lord, the hope of their fathers.'

[8] "Flee from the midst of Babylon, and go out of the land of the Chaldeans, and be as male goats before the flock. [9] For behold, I am stirring up and bringing against Babylon a gathering of great nations, from the north country. And they shall array themselves against her. From there she shall be taken. Their arrows are like a skilled warrior who does not return empty-handed. [10]Chaldea shall be plundered; all who plunder her shall be sated, declares the Lord.

[11]† "Though you rejoice, though you exult,
O plunderers of my heritage,
though you frolic like a heifer in the pasture,
and neigh like stallions, [12]† your mother shall be utterly shamed,
and she who bore you shall be disgraced.
Behold, she shall be the last of the nations,
a wilderness, a dry land, and a desert.
[13]† Because of the wrath of the Lord she shall not be inhabited
but shall be an utter desolation;
everyone who passes by Babylon shall be appalled,
and hiss because of all her wounds.
[14] Set yourselves in array against Babylon all around,
all you who bend the bow;
shoot at her, spare no arrows,
for she has sinned against the Lord.
[15]† Raise a shout against her all around;
she has surrendered;
her bulwarks have fallen;
her walls are thrown down.
For this is the vengeance of the Lord:
take vengeance on her;
do to her as she has done.
[16] Cut off from Babylon the sower,
and the one who handles the sickle in time
of harvest;
because of the sword of the oppressor,
every one shall turn to his own people,
and every one shall flee to his own land.

17 † “Israel is a hunted sheep driven away by lions. First the king of Assyria devoured him, and now at last Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has gnawed his bones. 18 Therefore, thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel: Behold, I am bringing punishment on the king of Babylon and his land, as I punished the king of Assyria. 19 † I will restore Israel to his pasture, and he shall feed on Carmel and in Bashan, and his desire shall be satisfied on the hills of Ephraim and in Gilead. 20 † In those days and in that time, declares the Lord, iniquity shall be sought in Israel, and there shall be none, and sin in Judah, and none shall be found, for I will pardon those whom I leave as a remnant.

21 † “Go up against the land of Merathaim,[1]
and against the inhabitants of Pekod.[2] Kill, and devote them to destruction,[3]
declares the Lord,
and do all that I have commanded you.
22 The noise of battle is in the land,
and great destruction!
23 † How the hammer of the whole earth
is cut down and broken!
How Babylon has become
a horror among the nations!
24 I set a snare for you and you were taken,
O Babylon,
and you did not know it;
you were found and caught,
because you opposed the Lord.
25 † The Lord has opened his armory
and brought out the weapons of his wrath, for the Lord God of hosts has a work to do in the land of the Chaldeans.
26 † Come against her from every quarter;
open her granaries;
pile her up like heaps of grain, and devote her
to destruction;
let nothing be left of her.

27 Kill all her bulls;
let them go down to the slaughter.
Woe to them, for their day has come,
the time of their punishment.

28 † "A voice! They flee and escape from the land of Babylon, to declare in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God, vengeance for his temple.

29 † "Summon archers against Babylon, all those who bend the bow. Encamp around her; let no one escape. Repay her according to her deeds; do to her according to all that she has done. For she has proudly defied the LORD, the Holy One of Israel. 30 † Therefore her young men shall fall in her squares, and all her soldiers shall be destroyed on that day, declares the LORD.

31 "Behold, I am against you, O proud one,
declares the Lord GOD of hosts,
for your day has come,
the time when I will punish you.
32 The proud one shall stumble and fall,
with none to raise him up,
and I will kindle a fire in his cities,
and it will devour all that is around him.

33 "Thus says the LORD of hosts: The people of Israel are oppressed, and the people of Judah with them. All who took them captive have held them fast; they refuse to let them go. 34 † Their Redeemer is strong; the LORD of hosts is his name. He will surely plead their cause, that he may give rest to the earth, but unrest to the inhabitants of Babylon.

35 † "A sword against the Chaldeans, declares the LORD,
and against the inhabitants of Babylon,
and against her officials and her wise men!
36 A sword against the diviners,
that they may become fools!
A sword against her warriors,

that they may be destroyed!
37 † A sword against her horses and against her chariots,
and against all the foreign troops in her midst,
that they may become women!
A sword against all her treasures,
that they may be plundered!
38 † A drought against her waters,
that they may be dried up!
For it is a land of images,
and they are mad over idols.

39 “Therefore wild beasts shall dwell with hyenas in Babylon, and ostriches shall dwell in her. She shall never again have people, nor be inhabited for all generations. 40 † As when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighboring cities, declares the Lord, so no man shall dwell there, and no son of man shall sojourn in her.

41 † “Behold, a people comes from the north;
a mighty nation and many kings are stirring from the farthest parts of the earth.
42 They lay hold of bow and spear;
they are cruel and have no mercy.
The sound of them is like the roaring of the sea;
they ride on horses,
arrayed as a man for battle against you, O daughter of Babylon!

43 “The king of Babylon heard the report of them,
and his hands fell helpless;
anguish seized him,
pain as of a woman in labor.

[44]“Behold, like a lion coming up from the thicket of the Jordan against a perennial pasture, I will suddenly make them run away from her, and I will appoint over her whomever I choose. For who is like me? Who will summon me? What shepherd can stand before me? [45]Therefore hear the plan that the Lord has made against Babylon, and the purposes that he has formed against the land of the Chaldeans: Surely the little ones of their flock shall be dragged away; surely their fold shall be appalled at their fate. [46]At the sound of the capture of Babylon the earth shall tremble, and her cry shall be heard among the nations.”

The Utter Destruction of Babylon

51 [1]†Thus says the Lord:

"Behold, I will stir up the spirit of a destroyer
against Babylon,
against the inhabitants of Leb-kamai,[1] [2]† and I will send to Babylon winnowers, and they shall winnow her,
and they shall empty her land,
when they come against her from every side
on the day of trouble.
[3]† Let not the archer bend his bow,
and let him not stand up in his armor.
Spare not her young men;
devote to destruction[2] all her army.
[4] They shall fall down slain in the land of the Chaldeans,
and wounded in her streets.
[5]† For Israel and Judah have not been forsaken by their God, the Lord of hosts, but the land of the Chaldeans[3] is full of guilt
against the Holy One of Israel.

[6]† "Flee from the midst of Babylon;
let every one save his life!
Be not cut off in her punishment,
for this is the time of the Lord's vengeance,
the repayment he is rendering her.
[7]† Babylon was a golden cup in the Lord's
hand,
making all the earth drunken;

the nations drank of her wine;
therefore the nations went mad.
8† Suddenly Babylon has fallen and been broken;
wail for her!
Take balm for her pain;
perhaps she may be healed.
9 We would have healed Babylon,
but she was not healed.
Forsake her, and let us go
each to his own country,
for her judgment has reached up to heaven
and has been lifted up even to the skies.
10† The Lord has brought about our vindication;
come, let us declare in Zion
the work of the Lord our God.

11† "Sharpen the arrows!
Take up the shields!

The Lord has stirred up the spirit of the kings of the Medes, because his purpose concerning Babylon is to destroy it, for that is the vengeance of the Lord, the vengeance for his temple.

12† "Set up a standard against the walls of Babylon;
make the watch strong;
set up watchmen;
prepare the ambushes;
for the Lord has both planned and done what he spoke concerning the inhabitants of Babylon.
13† O you who dwell by many waters,
rich in treasures,
your end has come;
the thread of your life is cut.
14† The Lord of hosts has sworn by himself:

Surely I will fill you with men, as many as
locusts,
and they shall raise the shout of victory over
you.

15 ‡† “It is he who made the earth by his power,
who established the world by his wisdom,
and by his understanding stretched out the
heavens.
16 When he utters his voice there is a tumult of
waters in the heavens,
and he makes the mist rise from the ends of
the earth.
He makes lightning for the rain,
and he brings forth the wind from his
storehouses.
17 Every man is stupid and without knowledge;
every goldsmith is put to shame by his idols,
for his images are false,
and there is no breath in them.
18 They are worthless, a work of delusion;
at the time of their punishment they shall
perish.
19 † Not like these is he who is the portion of Jacob,
for he is the one who formed all things,
and Israel is the tribe of his inheritance;
the Lord of hosts is his name.

20 † “You are my hammer and weapon of war:
with you I break nations in pieces;
with you I destroy kingdoms;
21 with you I break in pieces the horse and his rider;
with you I break in pieces the chariot and
the charioteer;

22 with you I break in pieces man and woman;
with you I break in pieces the old man and the youth;
with you I break in pieces the young man and the young woman;
23 with you I break in pieces the shepherd and his flock;
with you I break in pieces the farmer and his team;
with you I break in pieces governors and commanders.

24 † "I will repay Babylon and all the inhabitants of Chaldea before your very eyes for all the evil that they have done in Zion, declares the LORD.

25 † "Behold, I am against you, O destroying mountain,
declares the LORD,
which destroys the whole earth;
I will stretch out my hand against you,
and roll you down from the crags,
and make you a burnt mountain.
26 No stone shall be taken from you for a corner
and no stone for a foundation,
but you shall be a perpetual waste,
declares the LORD.

27 † "Set up a standard on the earth;
blow the trumpet among the nations;
prepare the nations for war against her;
summon against her the kingdoms,
Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz;
appoint a marshal against her;
bring up horses like bristling locusts.
28 † Prepare the nations for war against her,
the kings of the Medes, with their governors and deputies,

and every land under their dominion.
29 The land trembles and writhes in pain,
for the Lord's purposes against Babylon stand,
to make the land of Babylon a desolation,
without inhabitant.
30 The warriors of Babylon have ceased fighting;
they remain in their strongholds;
their strength has failed;
they have become women;
her dwellings are on fire;
her bars are broken.
31† One runner runs to meet another,
and one messenger to meet another,
to tell the king of Babylon
that his city is taken on every side; 32 the fords have been seized,
the marshes are burned with fire,
and the soldiers are in panic.
33† For thus says the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel:
The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing floor
at the time when it is trodden;
yet a little while
and the time of her harvest will come."

34† "Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon has devoured me;
he has crushed me;
he has made me an empty vessel;
he has swallowed me like a monster;
he has filled his stomach with my delicacies;
he has rinsed me out.[1] 35 The violence done to me and to my kinsmen

be upon Babylon,”
let the inhabitant of Zion say.
“My blood be upon the inhabitants of Chaldea,” let Jerusalem say.
36 † Therefore thus says the Lord:
“Behold, I will plead your cause
and take vengeance for you.
I will dry up her sea
and make her fountain dry, 37 and Babylon shall become a heap of ruins,
the haunt of jackals,
a horror and a hissing,
without inhabitant.

38 † “They shall roar together like lions;
they shall growl like lions’ cubs.
39 † While they are inflamed I will prepare them a feast
and make them drunk, that they may become merry,
then sleep a perpetual sleep
and not wake, declares the Lord.
40 I will bring them down like lambs to the
slaughter,
like rams and male goats.

41 † “How Babylon[2] is taken,
the praise of the whole earth seized!
How Babylon has become
a horror among the nations!
42 † The sea has come up on Babylon;
she is covered with its tumultuous waves.
43 † Her cities have become a horror,
a land of drought and a desert,
a land in which no one dwells,

and through which no son of man passes.
44† And I will punish Bel in Babylon, and take out of his mouth what he has swallowed.
The nations shall no longer flow to him;
the wall of Babylon has fallen.

45 “Go out of the midst of her, my people!
Let every one save his life
from the fierce anger of the Lord!
46† Let not your heart faint, and be not fearful
at the report heard in the land,
when a report comes in one year
and afterward a report in another year,
and violence is in the land,
and ruler is against ruler.

47 “Therefore, behold, the days are coming
when I will punish the images of Babylon;
her whole land shall be put to shame,
and all her slain shall fall in the midst of her.
48† Then the heavens and the earth,
and all that is in them,
shall sing for joy over Babylon,
for the destroyers shall come against them
out of the north,
declares the Lord.
49 Babylon must fall for the slain of Israel,
just as for Babylon have fallen the slain of all
the earth.

50† “You who have escaped from the sword,
go, do not stand still!
Remember the Lord from far away,

and let Jerusalem come into your mind:
51† ‘We are put to shame, for we have heard
reproach;
dishonor has covered our face,
for foreigners have come into the holy places of the Lord’s house.’

52 “Therefore, behold, the days are coming,
declares the Lord,
when I will execute judgment upon her images,
and through all her land
the wounded shall groan.
53† Though Babylon should mount up to heaven,
and though she should fortify her strong
height,
yet destroyers would come from me against her,
declares the Lord.

54 “A voice! A cry from Babylon!
The noise of great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans!
55† For the Lord is laying Babylon waste
and stilling her mighty voice.
Their waves roar like many waters;
the noise of their voice is raised, 56† for a destroyer has come upon her,
upon Babylon;
her warriors are taken;
their bows are broken in pieces,
for the Lord is a God of recompense;
he will surely repay.
57† I will make drunk her officials and her wise men,
her governors, her commanders, and her
warriors;

they shall sleep a perpetual sleep and not wake,
declares the King, whose name is the Lord
of hosts.

58† "Thus says the Lord of hosts:
The broad wall of Babylon
shall be leveled to the ground, and her high gates
shall be burned with fire.
The peoples labor for nothing,
and the nations weary themselves only for
fire."

59†† The word that Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraiah the son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, when he went with Zedekiah king of Judah to Babylon, in the fourth year of his reign. Seraiah was the quartermaster. 60† Jeremiah wrote in a book all the disaster that should come upon Babylon, all these words that are written concerning Babylon. 61 And Jeremiah said to Seraiah: "When you come to Babylon, see that you read all these words, 62 and say, 'O Lord, you have said concerning this place that you will cut it off, so that nothing shall dwell in it, neither man nor beast, and it shall be desolate forever.' 63 When you finish reading this book, tie a stone to it and cast it into the midst of the Euphrates, 64 and say, 'Thus shall Babylon sink, to rise no more, because of the disaster that I am bringing upon her, and they shall become exhausted.'"

Thus far are the words of Jeremiah.

The Fall of Jerusalem Recounted

52 [1]‡‡Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king; and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. [2]And he did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, according to all that Jehoiakim had done. [3]For because of the anger of the Lord things came to the point in Jerusalem and Judah that he cast them out from his presence.

And Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon. [4]And in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came with all his army against Jerusalem, and laid siege to it. And they built siegeworks all around it. [5]So the city was besieged till the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. [6]On the ninth day of the fourth month the famine was so severe in the city that there was no food for the people of the land. [7]Then a breach was made in the city, and all the men of war fled and went out from the city by night by the way of a gate between the two walls, by the king's garden, while the Chaldeans were around the city. And they went in the direction of the Arabah. [8]But the army of the Chaldeans pursued the king and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho. And all his army was scattered from him. [9]Then they captured the king and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he passed sentence on him. [10]The king of Babylon slaughtered the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes, and also slaughtered all the officials of Judah at Riblah. [11]He put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and bound him in chains, and the king of Babylon took him to Babylon, and put him in prison till the day of his death.

The Temple Burned

12 † In the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month—that was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon—Nebuzaradan the captain of the bodyguard, who served the king of Babylon, entered Jerusalem. 13 And he burned the house of the Lord, and the king's house and all the houses of Jerusalem; every great house he burned down. 14 And all the army of the Chaldeans, who were with the captain of the guard, broke down all the walls around Jerusalem. 15 And Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried away captive some of the poorest of the people and the rest of the people who were left in the city and the deserters who had deserted to the king of Babylon, together with the rest of the artisans. 16 But Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left some of the poorest of the land to be vinedressers and plowmen.

17 And the pillars of bronze that were in the house of the Lord, and the stands and the bronze sea that were in the house of the Lord, the Chaldeans broke in pieces, and carried all the bronze to Babylon. 18 And they took away the pots and the shovels and the snuffers and the basins and the dishes for incense and all the vessels of bronze used in the temple service; 19 also the small bowls and the fire pans and the basins and the pots and the lampstands and the dishes for incense and the bowls for drink offerings.
What was of gold the captain of the guard took away as gold, and what was of silver, as silver. 20 As for the two pillars, the one sea, the twelve bronze bulls that were under the sea,[1] and the stands, which Solomon the king had made for the house of the Lord, the bronze of all these things was beyond weight. 21 As for the pillars, the height of the one pillar was eighteen cubits, [2] its circumference was twelve cubits, and its thickness was four fingers, and it was hollow. 22 On it was a capital of bronze. The height of the one capital was five cubits. A network and pomegranates, all of bronze, were around the capital. And the second pillar had the same, with pomegranates.
23 There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides; all the pomegranates were a hundred upon the network all around.

The People Exiled to Babylon

[24] ‡ † And the captain of the guard took Seraiah the chief priest, and Zephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the threshold; [25]and from the city he took an officer who had been in command of the men of war, and seven men of the king's council, who were found in the city; and the secretary of the commander of the army who mustered the people of the land; and sixty men of the people of the land, who were found in the midst of the city. [26]And Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took them and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. [27]And the king of Babylon struck them down, and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah was taken into exile out of its land.

[28] † This is the number of the people whom Nebuchadnezzar carried away captive: in the seventh year, 3,023 Judeans; [29]in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar he carried away captive from Jerusalem 832 persons; [30] † in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried away captive of the Judeans 745 persons; all the persons were 4,600.

Jehoiachin Released from Prison

31 And in the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth day of the month, Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year that he became king, graciously freed[3] Jehoiachin king of Judah and brought him out of prison. 32 And he spoke kindly to him, and gave him a seat above the seats of the kings who were with him in Babylon. 33 So Jehoiachin put off his prison garments. And every day of his life he dined regularly at the king's table, 34 and for his allowance, a regular allowance was given him by the king according to his daily need, until the day of his death, as long as he lived.

Introduction to Jeremiah

Reading Jeremiah

His wide eyes grope for light, yet they remain full of darkness. Numbness nibbles his toes and fingers. It creeps through his bones, causing them to quake. He thinks, “We have turned back too late. The way to freedom is too far.” So desperation gives way to utter despair. And then, piercing the darkness, comes one pure, clear beam of the brightest light.

Reading Jeremiah is like entering the cavernous darkness of another person’s frustration and despair (cf 4:22–26). The Lord calls Jeremiah—the “iron” prophet (1:18)—to preach a hapless message of repentance to the stony hearts of sinful Judah. Jeremiah pours out his strength in the task, hammering the people with prophecy after prophecy, firing them with repeated warnings of judgment (23:29). The result is one of the longest compositions in the Bible (52 chapters), most of which is pure rebuke or calls for the people to turn from their sin. Yet at the heart of Jeremiah, shining brightly as a ray of light through the darkness, appears the aptly named “book of comfort” (chs 30–33), one of the brightest OT prophecies of everlasting salvation. Indeed, people in Jesus’ day even identified Jesus with Jeremiah (Mt 16:13–14).

Luther on Jeremiah

Few comments are needed for an understanding of the prophet Jeremiah, if one will only pay attention to the events that took place under the kings in whose time he preached. For his preaching had reference to the condition of the land at that time.

In the first place the land was full of vices and idolatry. The people slew the prophets and would have their own vices and idolatry go unrebuked. Therefore the first part, down to the twentieth chapter, is almost entirely rebuke and complaint of the wickedness of the Jews.

In the second place Jeremiah also foretold the punishment that was at hand, namely, the destruction of Jerusalem and of the whole land, and the Babylonian captivity, indeed the punishment of all nations as well. Yet, along with this, he gives comfort and promises that at a definite time, after the punishment is over, they shall be released and shall return to their land and to Jerusalem, etc. And this is the most important thing in Jeremiah. It was for this very thing that Jeremiah was raised up, as is indicated in the first chapter [1:11, 18], by the vision of the rod and the boiling pots coming from the north.

And this was highly necessary; for since this cruel hardship was to come upon the people, and they were to be uprooted and carried away out of their land, many pious souls—such as Daniel [Dan. 9:2] and others—would have been driven to despair of God and his promises. For they would not have been able to think otherwise than that it was all over with them, that they were utterly cast off by God, and that no Christ would ever come, but that God, in great anger, had taken back his promises because of the people's sin.

Therefore Jeremiah had to be there and proclaim the punishment and the wrath, telling the people that it would not last forever, but for a fixed time, such as seventy years [25:11–12; 29:10], and that afterward they would come into grace once again. With this promise he had also to comfort and sustain himself, or he would have had little consolation and happiness. For he was a sad and troubled prophet and lived in miserably evil days. Besides he had a peculiarly difficult ministry. For over forty years, down to the captivity, he had to say hard things to obstinately wicked people. Still it did little good. He had to look on while the people went from bad to worse, always wanting to kill him, and putting him to much hardship.

On top of that he had to experience and see with his own eyes how the land was destroyed and the people carried away captive, amid great misery and bloodshed. Nor does this include what he had afterward to preach and suffer in Egypt, for it is believed that he was stoned to death by the Jews in Egypt.

In the third place like the other prophets, Jeremiah too prophesies of Christ and his kingdom, especially in the twenty-third and thirty-first chapters [23:5–6; 31:31–34]. There he clearly prophesies of the person of Christ, of his kingdom, of the new testament, and of the end of the old testament.

Now these three things do not follow one another in sequence; they are not separated from one another in the book in the way that they actually came along. Frequently in the first part there is something in a later chapter which really took place before that which is spoken of in an earlier chapter. So it seems as though Jeremiah did not compose these books himself, but that the parts were taken piecemeal from his utterances and written into a book. For this reason one must not worry about the order or be hindered by the lack of it.

We learn from Jeremiah among others that, as usual, the nearer the punishment, the worse the people become; and that the more one preaches to them, the more they despise his preaching. Thus we understand that when it is God's will to inflict punishment, he makes the people to become hardened so they may be destroyed without any mercy and not appease God's wrath with any repentance. So the men of Sodom long ago had to not only despise the righteous Lot, but even afflict him because he taught them—even though their own affliction was at the door [Gen. 19:1–13]. Likewise Pharaoh, when about to be drowned in the Red Sea, had to oppress the children of Israel twice as much as before [Exod. 5:6–21]. And Jerusalem had to crucify God's Son when its own final destruction was on the way.

So it goes everywhere even now. Now that the end of the world is approaching, the people rage and rave most horribly against God. They blaspheme and damn God's word, though they well know that it is God's word and the truth. Besides so many fearful signs and wonders are appearing, both in the heavens and among all creatures, which threaten them terribly. It is indeed a wicked and miserable time, even worse than that of Jeremiah.

But so it will be, and must be. The people begin to feel secure and sing, “Peace; all is well.” They simply persecute everything that accords with the will of God and disregard all the threatening signs, until (as St. Paul says [I Thess. 5:8]) destruction suddenly surprises them and destroys them before they know it.

But Christ will be able to sustain his own, for whose sake he causes his word to shine forth in this shameful time of ours, just as at Babylon he sustained Daniel and those like him, for whose sake Jeremiah’s prophecy had to shine forth. To the same dear Lord be praise and thanks, with the Father and the Holy Spirit, one God over all and to eternity. Amen. (AE 35:279–82)

Challenges for Readers

Order and Chronology. As Luther notes above, Jeremiah is not written in a strict chronological order. His prophecies span three decades (25:3) and are presented in collections, or "books." To assist the reader, the notes include frequent mention of specific dates whenever possible. For more on the historical setting of Jeremiah's work, see note, ch 46, about Egypt and Babylon.

Repetition. Though Jeremiah speaks in many unique and surprising ways, he also often repeats favorite expressions, even saying the same thing word for word. This is simply an element of his style. Perhaps it is also a result of the way his prophecies were recorded, as he likely dictated them to his scribe, Baruch. (See notes, 32:10, 12. On crafting Hebrew poetry, see pp 777–78.) One may also note that ch 52 is essentially a quotation of 2Ki 24:18–25:21, 27–30, which was appended to demonstrate the fulfillment of Jeremiah's prophecies.

Numerous Persons. Jeremiah and/or his scribe, Baruch, took special interest in the names and offices of the people with whom they interacted. Several lists of persons are found in the Book, and these lists include many common names. This may cause confusion. The notes provide some commentary on individuals where further information is known.

State of the LXX Text. The Greek translation of Jeremiah is significantly shorter and does not represent c 2,700 words that appear in the traditional Hebrew text. This fact has puzzled interpreters since the second century. Also, the LXX text does not have the same order as the traditional Hebrew text. In particular, Jeremiah's oracles about the nations (chs 46–51) appear after 25:13 ("Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations") and have this order:

LXX Order: Elam
Traditional Hebrew Order (ESV): Egypt; 46:2–28
LXX Order: Egypt
Traditional Hebrew Order (ESV): Philistia; ch 47
LXX Order: Babylon
Traditional Hebrew Order (ESV): Moab; ch 48
LXX Order: Philistia
Traditional Hebrew Order (ESV): Ammon; 49:1–6

LXX Order: Edom
Traditional Hebrew Order (ESV): Edom; 49:7–22
LXX Order: Ammon
Traditional Hebrew Order (ESV): Damascus; 49:23–27
LXX Order: Kedar
Traditional Hebrew Order (ESV): Kedar and Hazor; 49:28–33
LXX Order: Damascus
Traditional Hebrew Order (ESV): Elam; 49:34–39
LXX Order: Moab
Traditional Hebrew Order (ESV): Babylon; chs 50–51

Fragments of a Hebrew manuscript discovered at Qumran (4QJer[b]) show that the LXX version of the text may be based on a shorter Hebrew edition (fragments of the traditional Hebrew text [4QJer[a]] were also discovered in the same cave). Jerome provided the earliest and perhaps best explanation for these differences when he proposed that the Book was shortened because of its repetitious nature. Modern commentators have noted that the LXX version drops commonly repeated phrases (e.g., "Thus says the LORD," dropped 64 times); "LORD of hosts, the God of Israel" is usually shortened to "LORD"; fathers' and grandfathers' names are dropped from descriptions of persons; and proper nouns are often replaced with pronouns. All these changes badly affect the Hebrew poetry, suggesting that the shorter version is the later edition. For these reasons, interpreters continue to prefer the traditional Hebrew text.

The Prophets and Liberal Protestantism. At the close of the nineteenth century, some Protestant interpreters of the Bible gave special attention to the prophets, regarding them as the essence of biblical faith. These interpreters set up a false contrast between an established, spiritually dead priestly religion in Israel and renewed ethical religion that the prophets preached. Jeremiah's passion and civil disobedience drew special attention. He became the model prophet, an example of true preaching and "social justice." These ideas and emphases still find expression in marches and rallies, which too often encourage violence. However, thoughtful readers should note that Jeremiah and the other prophets did not call for the destruction of the temple or the end of the priesthood but prophesied God's wrath against people's sins and called them to repentance (cf 2:8). For the prophets, reform and justice were never merely social—based on a society's ethics. They were matters of sin, repentance, and justification before God.

True prophets such as Jeremiah were often members of priestly families. They preached faithfulness to the Lord's teachings as embodied in the Books of Moses and in no way should be considered leaders of an antiestablishment movement or models for violent protests. For more on these interpretive issues, see p 5.

Doom and Hope. Judgment and lamentation are the constant themes of Jeremiah. This can make the Book unpleasant for some readers. However, consider how these dark themes are important to Jeremiah's writing strategy. Jeremiah may have written or arranged his Book to intensify the contrast between prevailing gloom in chs 1–29, 34–52, and the light of hope in chs 30–33. Known as the "book of comfort," these central chapters record beautiful and powerful Gospel prophecies that burn all the brighter amid the surrounding darkness of the other prophecies. In this way, Jeremiah highlights his most important message: God promises restoration and a new covenant in the coming Davidic King, the "righteous Branch" (33:15). This prophecy is fulfilled in Jesus Christ.

Blessings for Readers

As you read Jeremiah's prophecies, gain new appreciation for the importance of daily repentance and devotion. In Jeremiah's day, the people of Judah strayed because they neglected God's Word until they forgot what true faith and worship were. Jeremiah, the "iron" prophet, withstood the worst conditions because God's Word burned like fire within him (20:9) and continually guided his faith and life. Patient Jeremiah stands for us as an enduring example of faithfulness to the Lord amid all trials.

Recognize that no matter what troubles assail you, your faithful God stands with you (1:8). The heart of Jeremiah's message is that the Lord always has our everlasting salvation in view. God fulfilled Jeremiah's prophecies of the new covenant (31:31–34) in the life, death, and resurrection of His Son, Jesus Christ, who welcomes us into His kingdom and gives to us the new testament in His blood.

Witnessing to the Weary

To assure that the biblical message spoken by believers will not fall on deaf ears, witnesses to the Gospel must also pay attention to the needs and perceptions of the hearers…. God's people must first consider the situation of those who remain outside the church….

How can such people be brought to hear the Gospel? The Gospel will seem to be a foreign concept of empty words if it is spoken "from above" or "from outside," from the perspective of a safe and comfortable prosperity. That is why the "hit and run" evangelism … for only brief visits has done little to cultivate faith in those outside the church, even if their presence has been an encouragement to Christians in these lands. As Jesus joined humankind in human flesh, we Christians must join the exhausted in their need and weariness….

For He comes as the One promised to bring justice to victory and hope to the nations, the one who will not break a bruised reed or quench a smoldering wick (Matt. 12:20–21, Isa. 42:3). He is the one who invites, "Come to me, all you that are weary and are carrying heavy burdens, and I will give you rest" (Matt. 11:29). He has brought to its completion God's assurance that he will satisfy the weary and replenish all who are faithful (Jer. 31:25). For he is the one who has shared suffering and death with humankind. Much more, he has carried the worst of human burdens and individual sinfulness into the tomb, and he has come forth to restore the lives of all by declaring "Your sins are forgiven." To those whose lives are tiring and burdensome, Christians speak of the One who has relieved life of all negatives through his own suffering and resurrection. This miracle of new life in Jesus Christ stands at the heart of witnessing to the weary."

Proclaiming the Word in Every Way

Both preachers and laypeople seem to debate constantly about what makes a "good" sermon. For example, many laypeople appreciate sermons filled with illustrations or even based on an object lesson. Some preachers rejoice to adopt this style. Yet others express concern that God's Word might be obscured by such preaching. They prefer to deliver the Word without so many "props."

When you study the preaching of the prophets, you see a variety of styles and approaches. The prophets seem less concerned about preaching style than they do about truth and effective communication. This article will explore some of the ways the prophets proclaimed God's Word and will reflect on how preachers communicate today.

Declaration

Perhaps the most common way the prophets preached was through a direct announcement of God's will (judgment or salvation). Such declarations are usually introduced or concluded by the saying "declares the LORD," which occurs almost exclusively in the writings of the Old Testament prophets. For example, Jeremiah uses this expression 167 times! Other common expressions include "hear the word of the LORD," "the LORD says," "I have sworn," and "the LORD said to me." See "Thus says the LORD," p 1080. Each of these expressions emphasizes the true nature of prophecy: it is the voice of God.

Preachers who cannot say "the LORD says" should stay out of the pulpit. From the prophets to the apostles to our pastors today, God calls preachers to speak for Him. They announce God's will.

Poetry or Song

The writings of the prophets are loaded with poetry. Though the prophets "preached" as we understand that activity today, they also frequently delivered God's Word through song or in connection with music (1Sm 10:5–7; 2Ki 3:15; 1Ch 25:1). Simply start flipping pages throughout the Prophetic Books. Take note of how much text the translators have laid out as poetic verse rather than as typical paragraphs.

What we call choir music and congregational singing may have been regarded by the ancient Israelites as prophecy! (See note, 1Ch 25:1.) If you have thought of choir music or solos at church as "entertainment," think again. God desires to speak to His people through the songs they sing (Eph 5:19a). Choose music and songs with the understanding that the singers will voice the very Word of God.

Parables and Stories

The parable was the favorite preaching device of Jesus, but He was not the first to use it. Although parables and symbolism seem to have been more popular toward the end of the Old Testament era, the first biblical parable occurs in Jgs 9:7–15, where Jotham uses the example of different trees to show the people their sin.

Parables appear throughout the ministry of the prophets. For example, when the prophet Nathan confronted King David about his adultery with Bathsheba and the murder of Uriah, Nathan told a parable in order to drive home his point (2 Sm 12:1–7). Isaiah's song of the vineyard is like a parable set to music (Is 5:1–7). Ezekiel was especially fond of parables, telling stories about a useless vine (Ezk 15), an abandoned child (16:1–22), a cedar and a vine carried by eagles (17:1–10), Israel as a lioness (19:1–9), and Israel as a vine (19:10–14).

Jesus told as many as 55 parables (depending on how you count), but He also used current events to illustrate His teaching. For example, in Lk 13:1–5, Jesus reminded the crowd of a group of Galileans who had been executed by Pilate and of the fall of a tower in Siloam. He contrasted the ministry of John the Baptist with the service of God's people in the New Testament (Mt 11:11). He used the experiences of the prophets themselves to illustrate the difficulties faced by believers (Mt 5:11–12).

Of course, one must use stories discriminately. They should help teach the message and not obscure it. But preachers today should not shy away from using stories and illustrations. The prophets, inspired by the Spirit, frequently told stories in order to teach people God's Word.

Action Prophecies

Perhaps the most controversial preaching device today is the object lesson. But this, too, you will find throughout the preaching of the prophets. Although Moses and the early kingdom prophets used objects or actions to illustrate their teaching (Ex 7:19–20; 1Sm 15:27–28; 1Ki 11:29–31; 2Ki 13:15–19), Ezekiel and Jeremiah used them most frequently (Ezk 4:1–13; 5:1–4, 12; 12:1–16; Jer 13:1–11; 18:1–10; 19:1–13; 24:1–10). A prophet might break pottery, create a model, or even shave his head in order to make a point! Isaiah and Micah stripped away their garments and sandals to warn people of God's coming judgment (Is 20:1–4; Mi 1:8). Jesus also used object lessons to teach His disciples (Mk 11:12–14, 20–25; 13:1–2; Lk 9:46–48; 20:20–26; Jn 13:3–17) and to teach strangers (Jn 4:7–14).

Preachers must use object lessons with care. For example, educators warn that small children have difficulty understanding abstract associations (e.g., God's love is like a toaster because it makes me feel all warm and toasty). However, sound object lessons can effectively teach teens and adults. Our Creator invites us to consider the objects He made and use them to learn about Him (Ps 8).

Good Preaching

As you study the prophets, grow in appreciation for the many ways they proclaimed God's Word. God did not restrict them to one way of communicating. He allowed them to use a variety of ways to communicate His truth. Preaching serves best when it faithfully focuses on Jesus Christ and salvation through Him. According to Jesus, that was the point of the prophets throughout their ministry (Jn 5:39).

When you hear a good message that clearly proclaims God's Law and the Gospel of Jesus Christ, praise Him for blessing you through the talents of the preacher. Spend less time focused on what is the "right way" to preach, and instead listen intently for the blessings and encouragement God wants to give you. Offer thanks to Him through Jesus Christ, your Savior, the Word of God made flesh for your salvation.

Old Testament Names for God

Here are explanations of frequent or more significant names for God in the Old Testament. As you read these, get to know your Lord better so that you may call on His name with all confidence.

Two Hebrew words are typically translated as "name": (1) shem, which may come from a root meaning "mark" or "brand," and (2) zeker, "remembrance," "memorial" (Ex 3:15). For the Israelites, a name held who or what a person was (cf 1Sm 25:25). Naming someone expressed ownership or relationship. A name equaled one's reputation (see note, Ex 20:7; see also "for Your name's sake," p 842).

Almighty. Hbr shaddai. Not well understood. The tradition of translating it as "almighty" comes from the LXX. It often appears in passages about blessing and fruitfulness (e.g., Gn) as well as in passages about God's power to destroy or judge (e.g., Jb). God identified Himself to Abram by this name (Gn 17:1; cf Ex 6:3).

angel of the LORD. Hbr mal'ak yahweh, "messenger of Yahweh." Used 63 times. Generally, an angel is a created being who speaks for the Lord. But in many OT settings, "the angel of the LORD" and "the LORD" are used interchangeably (e.g., Gn 16:7–13; 21:17–20; 22:11–12, 15–18; 31:11–13; Ex 3:2–6). This signals an appearance of God's Son before His incarnation (cf Jn 1:1). See p 39.

Anointed. Hbr mashiach, a chosen person, distinguished by anointing with oil (see note, 1Sm 10:1). Prophets and even Cyrus, king of Persia, were titled this way (1Ch 16:22; Is 45:1). However, the title is most commonly used of kings Saul and David in 1Sm and 2Sm. Before Saul and David were chosen as kings, Hannah prayed that the Lord would rule the earth through "His anointed" (1Sm 2:10), a prophecy about the Savior from David's line (Ps 2:2; 45:7; Is 61:1; Dn 9:25–26). See "Christ," p 2098.

Father. Moses anticipates such a title (Dt 32:6), but it appears only later (Ps 68:5; 89:26; Is 63:16; 64:8; Jer 3:4, 19; Mal 2:10).

glory of the LORD. A theophany of God's presence, esp the pillars of cloud and fire (see note, Ex 13:21) and a human appearance in Ezekiel's visions (see note, Ezk 1:28). Also, "glory of the God of Israel" (Ezk) and "Glory of Israel" (1Sm 15:29). See p 39.

God. Translated from three Hbr terms. (1) 'elohim appears c 2,550 times. It is the first and most commonly used word for God in the OT (cf Gn 1:1). References to the true God always take singular verbs, even though 'elohim is a plural noun. This grammar may signal God's unique majesty and trinitarian character. See note, Gn 1:26. The Hbr term is occasionally used of men, such as judges (Ex 4:16; Ps 82:6). This may signal that Israelites understood 'elohim to describe God's authority. (2) 'el appears c 400 times, an ancient word for God appearing in every Semitic language except Ethiopic. It is esp common in Jb, appearing there more often than the other terms for God. See note, Jsh 3:10. (3) 'eloah appears c 400 times. It is similar in spelling to the common Aram word for God. (Some have regarded 'eloah as a singular form of Hbr 'elohim, but this is not proven.) The term appears frequently in older poetry (cf Dt 32:15, 17; Jb uses it 41 times). Uses of 'eloah outside of Jb associate the name with God's ability to defend His people.

God Most High. See Most High.

God of heaven. Most commonly used at the time of exile.

God of hosts. See p 1291.

God of Israel. Common title emphasizing God's covenant bond with Abraham's descendants through the chosen seed, Jacob (Gn 32:28; 35:10). See Holy One of Israel.

Holy One of Israel. Used 26 times in Is and only a few times elsewhere. Holiness includes all attributes of perfection that distinguish God from His creatures (see "holy," p 7). Yet, He condescended to enter a covenant relationship with Israel, His chosen servant for salvation. When Israel fell into sin, they had to fear God's holy wrath. See God of Israel and Spirit.

King. Hbr melech. See pp 1565–66.

living God. See notes, Jsh 3:10; Mt 16:16.

Lord. Hbr 'adonai, used c 340 times. Plural form is used for God; singular forms (e.g., Hbr 'adon) may also be used for God (cf Ex 34:23). On substituting this term for "Yahweh," see next entry.

Lord. God's personal name (see notes, Ex 3:14–15), presented in the ESV text as "Lord" in capital letters. It is a translation of the Hbr words yahweh and yah. Yahweh is used more than 6,820 times and is the most common referent for God in the Bible. Though God instructs His people to call on Him using His personal name (Ex 3:15; Ps 105:1), and doing so is presented as a sign of faith (Ps 116:13; Zep 3:9; Zec 13:9), traditions of not saying "Yahweh" arose in Jewish circles during the intertestamental period. Apparently, people feared to speak this name because they feared breaking the Second Commandment (Ex 20:7). Jewish writers used the euphemism "the Lord" (Hbr 'adonai) in place of God's personal name. Early Christians picked up this practice. Yah is an abbreviated form of Yahweh, appearing sometimes by itself but most often as a syllable in other names and terms (e.g., Jerem*iah*, Hallelu*iah*).

Lord God. Hbr yahweh 'elohim (see entries above). Generally, OT authors use one or the other term, but 385 times they are used in combination ("Yahweh God," or perhaps "the God Yahweh"). Ezk uses this combination the most (217 times). In Gn 2–3, this combination is used 20 times and a few times thereafter (cf Gn 15:2). See p 3.

Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

Mighty One. Hbr 'abbir, from Semitic root meaning "be strong." Appears only in poetic passages (cf Gn 49:24).

Most High. Hbr 'elyon. Used four times in Gn 14:17–22 and c 40 times elsewhere (often in Ps and Dn). God is so far above us we cannot begin to comprehend Him.

Redeemer. See note, Jb 19:25.

Rock. Hbr tsur. Appears five times in the Song of Moses (Dt 32:4, 15, 18, 30, 31); common in Ps. See p 843.

Spirit. Hbr ruach; lit, "breath, wind." Describes the life force in or from a being. The Spirit of God the Lord is titled the "Holy Spirit" (Ps 51:11; Is 63:10–11). He is an agent of creation (Gn 1:2; Jb 26:13), providence (Jb 33:4; Ps 104:30), new birth/life (Ezk 11:19; 36:26–27), inspiration and anointing for service (Nu 11). In other words, God's Spirit does God's works and has God's attributes. These OT descriptions anticipate the NT revelation of the Trinity (see notes, Is 11:2–4; 48:16). See also pp 1815, 1876, 1920.

Prophecies about the Coming Messiah

The Old Testament repeatedly prophesies the coming of a deliverer who would save and redeem God's people. Ps 2:2 and Dn 9:25–26 refer to Him as the Anointed One, or Messiah, which was translated "Christ" in the LXX and the New Testament (cf Ac 4:25–26; see p 2098). Jesus described Himself as fulfilling such prophecies, and His disciples took special note of numerous fulfillments in Jesus' life, death, and resurrection. The charts here present examples of messianic prophecies and the fulfillments in Jesus' life. (These charts were adapted from The Books of the Old Testament [St. Louis: Concordia, 1977], 128–29.)

Further prophecies of a kingly Messiah: Ps 2:6–8; 118:22; Is 9:6; 32:1–3; 42:1–4; Jer 23:5; Dn 2:44; 7:13–14; Zec 6:12–13; 9:10; Mal 3:1.

Further prophecies of a suffering Messiah: Is 52:14; 53:1–10; Dn 9:26; Zec 13:7.

The Importance of Prophecies

Early Christian writers devoted special attention to prophecies about the Messiah. For example, Justin recounted many of these passages as he shared the Gospel with Trypho, a Jew (ANF 1:194–270). Early Church historian Eusebius of Caesarea devoted even greater attention to these prophecies in two important works: Preparation for the Gospel and Demonstration of the Gospel.

For a more complete list and survey of such messianic prophecies, see the monumental classic Christology of the Old Testament by E. W. Hengstenberg (1802–69). Hengstenberg, a professor of theology in Berlin and a devoted Lutheran interpreter of the Bible, wrote over a thousand pages of commentary on the messianic prophecies. See pp xlv–xlvii.

Focus on Christ, Our Deliverer

Some modern theologians questioned whether the messianic prophecies were truly central to the faith taught in the Old Testament or even to Christianity. They preferred to emphasize ethics or national interests as keys to understanding Old Testament Scripture. Hengstenberg replied:

> When we observe that the Messianic announcements, [1] which are peculiar to Israel alone, [2] have their origin in the primeval age, [3] that for many successive centuries they continue to reappear again and again, [4] that they do not occur merely incidentally and in an isolated form, in the midst of other prophecies, but constitute the very centre and soul of all prophecy, [5] that they stand out in great prominence even in the Psalms, in which utterance is given to the living faith of the people of God, under the quickening influence of the law and the prophets, we cannot for a moment doubt, that to the people of the ancient covenant the anticipation of a Messiah must have been one of all-absorbing importance. (Christology of the Old Testament and a Commentary on the Messianic Predictions, vol. 4 [Edinburgh: T. & T. Clark, 1856–58], 259)

Indeed, when Jesus taught His disciples about daily prayer, He made "deliver us from evil" the capstone of daily devotion (Mt 6:13). Jesus summarized His mission by declaring that He "came … to give His life as a ransom for many" (Mk 10:45). Hengstenberg noted that even this truth was anticipated and held by the rabbis, as their writings show. He wrote:

> The doctrine of a suffering and atoning Messiah existed among the Jews from the very earliest times…. After the destruction of the temple had deprived the Jews of their apparent sufficiency, their attention was more closely directed to the Messiah…. The sacrificial worship, even while it lasted, could never satisfy the longings for redemption, which were felt by the more earnest minds; and we have already seen, that they were looking with eagerness for the higher satisfaction, which the Old Testament promises set before them. (1337)

Prophetic Perspective

Figuring out prophetic passages of Scripture can be quite confusing. A major problem is that we would like the Bible to read like an encyclopedia or a popular novel. It does not. One helpful way to understand some difficult prophetic passages is the following.

Often, the writers of Scripture present the workings of God like pictures of a landscape. In a landscape picture, you might have some people in the foreground, some animals grazing off in the distance, and a huge mountain looming in the background. Many miles may separate the objects in reality, yet all of the objects appear right next to each other on the picture's surface.

In a similar way, a single prophecy often shows numerous events separated from one another not by space but by time. (See "God and Time," p 2167.) From our perspective looking at the text, the events can seem to occur in close succession. To make sense of these “pictures” in Scripture, we must consider what connects the different events. Once we understand the main theme of the section, the different “objects” in the text may be recognized more easily, and application of the message can be made to our lives.

Examples of Prophetic Perspective

Jer 31:31–34 presents a classic example. In vv 31–33, the prophet announces the coming of the new covenant, which is fulfilled in the death and resurrection of Jesus (Heb 8:8–12; 10:16). But in v 34, Jeremiah speaks as though there will be no need to teach the faith, which surely does not apply to our era (cf Mt 28:19).

What has happened? The prophecy in vv 31–33 stands toward the "foreground" of what Jeremiah prophesied and was fulfilled first, as the New Testament demonstrates. But v 34 stands toward the "background" and will reach fulfillment only when the Lord returns on the Last Day. Though these two aspects of the prophecy stand right next to each other in the text, they are fulfilled many years apart.

Another classic example is Jl 2:28–32, which prophesies the day of Pentecost in vv 28–29 but then prophesies about the last judgment in vv 30–31. We see the first fulfillment in Ac 2 but await the second fulfillment when Jesus comes again.

The Right Focus

Because of these features of biblical prophecy, readers need to exercise great patience, focusing on the Law and the Gospel of the passages rather than using such prophecies to concoct some timetable of world events. (On the disastrous history of such interpretations, see p 307.) The apostle Peter tells us that the prophets themselves—even the angels—could not fully understand the timing and fulfillment of what God was telling them (cf Ac 1:6–7).

> Concerning this salvation, the prophets who prophesied about the grace that was to be yours searched and inquired carefully, inquiring what person or time the Spirit of Christ in them was indicating when he predicted the sufferings of Christ and the subsequent glories. It was revealed to them that they were serving not themselves but you, in the things that have now been announced to you through those who preached the good news to you by the Holy Spirit sent from heaven, things into which angels long to look. (1Pt 1:10–12)

Though we can readily look back upon both the Old Testament and New Testament and see many prophecies fulfilled, we must also await the fulfillment of many things the Lord has promised. Like the prophets, carefully investigate what God has foretold. Pray for the Holy Spirit's help. Revel in His Word. Yet bear in mind prophetic perspective. Read and apply prophecies with patience and forbearance, while taking comfort in the salvation already revealed.

Postures and Gestures

The Bible includes many references to what we call "body language," movements or positions of the body that convey meaning within a particular culture. Israelites may have even had a form of sign language (cf Lk 1:62).

Just as words and symbolism must be interpreted, biblical postures and gestures likewise require interpretation. Many of the postures and gestures below will be the same or similar to postures and gestures you use today. However, others are surprisingly different. This list includes wording from both the ESV and the more literal/traditional KJV, which helps round out the expressions for postures and gestures that appear in the original languages. To discover more examples of an expression, consult the concordance, pp 2243–2372.

anger kindled/hot. Literally describes the "burning" of a person's nose, which grows flush red with anger (Ex 4:14).

beat the breast. Striking the chest with one or both hands to indicate sorrow (Lk 18:13).

bless. Could involve kneeling and laying on of hands (see below). See p 842.

blush. Sign of guilt or shame (Ezr 9:6).

bold face. Intensely confident (Pr 7:13).

bow. Synonymous with worship toward God (Ex 4:31; 34:8; Ps 95:6; 1Sm 1:28; see note, Ex 33:10) or respect and service for a human being (Gn 33:3; 43:26–28; 1Sm 20:41; 28:14; Est 3:2). God expressly forbade bowing to false gods (Ex 20:4–5). People also bowed to (1) greet someone (Gn 18:2; 19:1), (2) signal humility and repentance (Ezr 9:5; 10:1), and (3) express thanks (Gn 24:52). Bows were done in a variety of ways (1Ch 29:20; 1Ki 18:42; Ne 8:6) and likely included tilting the head, tilting the upper body, kneeling with one's face to the ground, or lying prostrate. The more elaborate the bow, the greater the expression of devotion or emotion (cf Gn 33:3). See fall.

capture with eyelashes. Probably fluttering the eyelids in order to make eye contact with a potential lover (Pr 6:25).

clap. Expressing joy (Ps 47:1) through rhythm. See p 993. However, clapping the hands at someone expresses derision (Jb 27:23).

color changed. Pale from shock or anxiety (Dn 5:6–9).

come before the LORD. Draw near to the place of sacrifice with intent to worship and pray (Mi 6:6). See "presence," p 843.

cry tears. See weep.

embrace. Hugging to express great affection, which may have included kissing (Gn 33:4).

face fallen. Likely refers to a frown resulting from disappointment.

face shine. To smile or "beam" at someone (Nu 6:25; Ps 4:6).

fall. Extreme form of bowing, expressing repentance (Gn 50:18), fearful submission (Nu 22:31), awe (Nu 24:4; 22:31), pleading (Nu 14:5), humility (Nu 16:4, 22, 45; 20:6; Lk 8:41), worship (Lk 17:16), or grief (Mk 14:35).

feet signals. Scraping the dirt to alert a partner (Pr 6:13). The signs made are not known.

fold the hands. Sign of idleness (Pr 6:10).

gape the mouth. Shouting widemouthed in a threatening manner (Jb 16:10).

gnash teeth. Bare and grit teeth as expression of anger (Jb 16:9).

groan. Translates various words for sighing to express mourning or complaint (Ex 2:23).

hand of fellowship. Like the modern handshake, a gesture of friendship and goodwill (2Ki 10:15; Gal 2:9).

haughty eyes. Raising eyelids or tilting head upward as gesture of superiority over another person (Ps 18:27).

hide the face. Expresses fear or shame (Ex 3:6).

hiss. Breathe out forcefully, usually to express derision (1Ki 9:8). However, it is also translated "whistle" as an act of summoning someone (Is 7:18; cf 5:26 KJV).

hold the tongue. Refrain from speaking.

incline the ear. Bend the head in order to hear someone, eager to learn from or about that person (Is 55:3).

kiss. Hbr verb may describe pursing of the lips (Pr 24:26). Kissing was a sign of greeting and great affection toward family members, friends, and countrymen. A kiss might be placed on the neck or cheek (cf Gn 33:4), the hand or foot (cf Ex 18:7; Lk 7:45), or the lips. Scripture rarely notes the placement of a kiss because the usual social customs would have been obvious to the readers. Kissing someone's hand or foot showed humility and submission. The wording of Lk 7:45 shows that kissing the feet was an unusual gesture. Idols were kissed as an act of worship (1Ki 19:18; Hos 13:2).

kneel. Form of bowing (see "bow") sometimes used in prayer (1Ki 8:54; Ezr 9:5; Dn 6:10; Lk 22:41; Ac 7:60). Israelites usually stood while praying.

laugh. Expression of derision and scorn. See p 1335.

lay hands on. Positively, to bestow a blessing or appoint for service (see bless). Negatively, to arrest (Ne 13:21) or to transfer guilt to a sacrificial animal (Ex 29:10).

lift up the eyelids. See haughty eyes.

lift up the eyes. Expression for directing sight toward something distant (Gn 13:14).

lift up the face. To look toward someone with confidence or care (see face shine).

lift up hands. Various uses: (1) Common posture of prayer or praise—standing, face raised to the heavens, arms held out and up with palms upward (Ex 17:11; Lm 2:19; Ps 28:2; 63:4; 119:48; 134:2; 141:2; 1Tm 2:8). For prayer, this posture shows the need and expectancy of the one who prays. For praise, it captures both the outer and inner attitudes that accompany devotion. Early Christians regarded this posture as an emblem of Jesus' crucifixion. (2) Taking a vow to signify the truth of what one says (Dt 32:40). (3) Act of blessing (Lv 9:22; Lk 24:50).

mincing. Taking short, choppy steps; used by women to draw attention to the movement of their legs and lower torso (Is 3:16).

point. Sinister or obscene gesture (Pr 6:13; Is 58:9).

prostrate. See bow.

purse the lips. Gesture to kiss (with intent to deceive), or signal to a partner (Pr 16:30).

right hand. See p 843.

salute. Greeting that likely involved a gesture.

set the face. Turn toward someone or something with fixed determination.

shake hand. See wave.

shake the feet. Gesture of derision toward the inhabitants of a place, removing even the dust that belongs to their land (Mt 10:14; Ac 13:51).

sigh. See groan.

sit. Sermons and authoritative pronouncements were normally delivered while sitting (Mt 5:1–2; 23:2; Lk 4:20–21). A person sat to mourn (cf Jb 2:13; Ps 137:1; Ne 1:4). However, in 1Ch 17:16, David "sat before the LORD" while praying thankfully—the only OT reference to sitting as a position for prayer. In the examples of mourning and praying, sitting probably signifies shock or amazement.

smite. Strike someone or something as expression of anger or act of punishment (Is 53:4).

spit. To express derision. However, see note, Mk 8:23.

spread out hands. Posture of prayer (1Ki 8:22; Ps 44:20; 88:9). See lift up hands.

stand. Expression of readiness to serve (Gn 18:8, 22; 1Ki 17:1; 2Ch 34:31), the common posture for prayer (Jb 30:20; Mt 6:5; Mk 11:25; cf 1Ki 8:14) and also of worship (Ne 9:4–5). In Ne 8:5, the people stand to show their respect for the public reading of God's Word.

stare. Fixing eyes on someone due to amazement.

step. See tread.

stiffen the neck. Description of stubbornness, referring to an ox, donkey, or horse that will not turn (Jer 17:23).

stretch out hands. (1) Gesture of prayer that turns into reaching, a sign of longing for God's help (Ex 17:12; 1Ki 8:38; Ps 143:6). See lift up hands. (2) Directional motion (Ex 14:16, 21, 26–27; Jsh 8:18).

stretch out the neck. See haughty eyes.

strike the hands. Gesture showing support or agreement between two parties (Is 2:6). See note, Pr 17:18. However, see also clap.

tear clothes. Symbol of one's heart or feelings being ripped apart by grief (Gn 37:29).

tears. See weep.

tread. To walk on a place or a person symbolized ownership or dominance. See note, Ru 4:8.

wag the head. To express derision (Ps 64:8).

wail. See weep.

wave. Hand motion to get someone's attention. See note, Lv 7:30–35.

weep. Expression of sorrow or regret (Ne 1:4), but also of joy (Gn 46:29). On mourning practices, see note, Jb 1:20.

whistle. See hiss.

wink the eye. Gesture used as a signal, possibly alerting a partner to act treacherously (Pr 16:30).

The Lord of Hosts

Moses, Joshua, and Judges never use the title "Lord [God] of hosts." It was first used just before the kingdom period (1Sm 1:3, 11; c 1050 BC) and became a favorite expression for the eighth-century prophets and later writers. It appears c 275 times (often in 1 Samuel, 2 Samuel, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi) and presents one of the most important Old Testament pictures of God and His work.

The term "host" (Hbr tsaba'; plural noun tseba'oth) refers to military service, the ranks and divisions of troops (Jgs 4:2; 2Ch 26:11–15). Though the hosts of the Lord are often angels (1Ki 22:19), they include His people Israel (Nu 1:52; 1Sm 17:45; Is 24:23), the Levites (Nu 4; 8:24–25), the "ministering women" (Ex 38:8; 1Sm 2:22) and, notably, all of creation, which God set in order and continues to rule (Gn 2:1; Is 37:16; Jer 10:11–16; Am 4:13; 5:8; 9:5–6; Zec 14:16; see pp 1565–66).

The Lord set His hosts in order so that they might serve Him (cf Jb 28:3; 38:5; 39:6; Ps 19:4–5; 104:9). The Word of God, by which He made all things (Gn 1:3), endures and gives direction to His hosts (Ps 119:89–91). The result is the orderly, natural world in which we live. Every particle, every person, is designed to fulfill a calling that gives the Lord praise (Ps 148; see pp 775–78). Luther wrote:

> God calls Himself the God of the armies or of the hosts, that is, not only of the angels or of the spirits but of the entire creation, which carries on warfare for Him and serves Him…. God created all these creatures to be in active military service. (AE 1:74)

Between the Testaments

When the Old Testament was translated into Greek, "host" in Gn 2:1 was translated as "world" (Gk kosmos, "arrangement"; Eng cosmic, "order"). But often the translators did not know what to do with the term. For example, in Isaiah, Hbr tsaba'oth usually is not translated at all (appears as Gk sabaoth). Elsewhere, it is translated as "almighty" (Gk pantokrator), emphasizing God's powerful rule over creation.

Jesus ben Sirach, a Jerusalem rabbi (second century BC), summed up the Old Testament teachings as follows:

> The works of the Lord have existed from the beginning by his creation, and when he made them, he determined their divisions. He arranged [Gk kosmeo] his works in an eternal order, and their dominion for all generations; they neither hunger nor grow weary, and they do not cease from their labors. They do not crowd one another aside, and they will never disobey his word. (Ecclus 16:26–30; cf 42:15–25)

As God's people interacted with Greek culture during the Time between the Testaments, they discovered a similar idea of order among the Greek philosophers, who judged things as "according to nature" or "contrary to nature." The philosophers concluded that order in nature was the work of a creator. Though the philosophers did not know the Lord, they recognized His handiwork and thereby should have learned what was best (see 4 Maccabees 5:5–9, 22–26). Instead, they became foolish in their nature (Wis 13:1–2). (See the Jewish writer Philo, On the Eternity of the World 4; Augustine would later use the expression "order of nature" in The City of God [*NPNF*1 2:214, 228]; Thomas Aquinas would use "order of creation" [Summa I V], which became a standard theological term.)

The New Testament

The orderly character of God's creation became a powerful tool for the apostle Paul as he began to preach in Greek to the Gentiles (Ac 17:22–27) and write to the churches. For example, drawing on the Old Testament and interacting with philosophies of the day, Paul argued that people should live "by nature" (Rm 2:14), that is, in agreement with God's created order. However, the creation was subject to God's wrath because people were living "contrary to nature" (Rm 1:26; cf Is 24:4–6) by violating the order God established. Through Christ, God would restore His good creation (cf Rm 8:20–22).

The blessings of the Gospel would not overthrow God's created order but would complement it. God's people would have orderly lives in the Church (1Co 14:40; Col 2:5; Eph 5:21; 1Tm 3; 1Pt 3:8; 5:1–7), in their families and households (Eph 5:22–6:9; 1Tm 2:8–15; 1Pt 3:1–7), and in the state (Rm 13:1–7; 1Pt 2:13–17). So the Lord of hosts would continue to arrange the world for the good of all but especially for the sake of His Church (see Luther's "Table of Duties," which he refers to as "holy orders" [SC, p xlii]). In commenting on Jn 1:14, Luther wrote:

> If you are a true Christian and child of God, then you will not despise this order and creation of God; but you will say: "Just because I have been reborn from God through faith in Christ and because this is my physical father, I will comply with his commands and honor my parents according to the order of creation. I will obey my rulers and faithfully serve my master and mistress." For despite the believers' rebirth from God through faith in Christ, God still upholds the position of parent and child, of master and servant, in the world; He does not permit the estate of marriage or any other estate to cease. (AE 22:94, emphasis added; see AC XXVII 18–20; Ap VII 50; XVI 58; XXIII 7; FC SD IV 4)

The Lord of Hosts and Your Life

In contrast with the biblical teaching about the Lord of hosts, who arranges and orders His creation, modern philosophers teach that life is random and accidental. They conclude that life is meaningless but that people may impose meaning on life by trying to make sense of it all. These dangerous teachings undermine a person's sense of right and wrong, the unity of the family, and public order as blessings from God. Resisting God's order in creation is like resisting gravity. The idolatrous notions we set up must finally come tumbling down, as the prophets warned (Is 40:21–31; 44:6–8; Jer 31:35–37).

Rather than pursue a personal quest for meaning, pore over the pages of Holy Scripture, where the Maker of heaven and earth explains the purpose of life. The Scriptures will reveal your calling in life and your future relationship with the eternal Father, who is ever present to care for you. Share these truths about God's good order and blessing with others. True wisdom works with the order God established (see pp 775–78), which the heavenly Father provided through His beloved Son, our Savior (Jn 1:1–5).

Study Notes

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 1 Jeremiah presents credentials for his authority to speak and for his claim to be heard. He is the ambassador of the Lord God, who shapes the lives of individuals and determines the destiny of nations.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–3 Preface supplying information about the prophet: his name, parentage, birthplace, and the era of his activity.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:1 Hilkiah. Jeremiah's father likely was a member of the clan associated with Abiathar, the high priest whom Solomon banished to Anathoth (1Ki 2:26). The high priest during the reign of King Josiah (therefore a contemporary of Jeremiah) was also named Hilkiah (2Ki 22:4–14), though he belonged to a different Levitical family. Anathoth. Village c 3 mi NE of Jerusalem, assigned to the Levites. See map, p 615.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:2–3 Cf 2Ki 22–25. Three of the last five kings of Judah are mentioned; the other two reigned only three months each: Josiah's son Jehoahaz, called Shallum (2Ki 22:11), was deposed by Pharaoh Neco; Jehoiakim's son Jehoiachin, called Coniah and Jeconiah (2Ki 22:24; 24:1), was removed from office and taken to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar. See note, 3:6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:3 eleventh year … fifth month. 587 BC. On the seventh of Av, Nebuzaradan began to destroy Jerusalem. More than 40 years elapsed from the time the Word of the Lord first came to Jeremiah in the 13th year of Josiah's reign (c 628 BC) to this tragic point in Israel's history. When it was no longer possible to date events by the regnal years of a king, "the captivity of Jerusalem" served to indicate the setting of Jeremiah's ministry (e.g., 41:1). However, no dates are supplied to establish how long he served the refugees who took him to Egypt (43:5–7).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:1–3 Jeremiah introduces himself and the historical context of his ministry. God sent prophets like Jeremiah to convict His people of their sin so that they might repent and return to Him. In mercy, God patiently waited, providing ample time for repentance. He is likewise patient toward you, whom He calls to repentance and true faith in Christ. • Father, I thank You for Your Word: the Law to reveal my sin and guide my conduct, and the Gospel to show me the Savior and Your love through Him. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:4–10 Consecrated to the prophetic office before he was born, this youth was neither a wide-eyed visionary nor a self-appointed rabble-rouser. God commissioned Jeremiah to speak His words, charged with the power to destroy whatever opposed the kingdom of God and to build whatever would promote its coming.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:4 word of the LORD came. See note, v 9; see also p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:5 I formed you. Cyr Jer: "He is not ashamed to assume flesh, who is the framer of those very members… . Let the mouths of all heretics be stopped who slander their bodies, or rather Him who formed them" (NPNF 2 7:79). See p 983. Bern: "How beautifully the Divine oracle has distinguished between conception in the womb and birth from the womb! and showed that if the one was foreseen only, the other was blessed beforehand with the gift of holiness: that no one might think that the glory of Jeremiah consisted only in being the object of the foreknowledge of God, but also of His predestination" (SLSB, pp 302–3). consecrated. See p 6. prophet to the nations. For the international scene at Jeremiah's time, see pp 1202–6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:6 youth. See note, 1Sm 17:33. Though the date of Jeremiah's birth is unknown, he was likely under 20 years old. God overcame this young man's hesitation to assume his task just as He did in the case of others called to His service (Ex 3:1–4:17; Jgs 6:11–18; cf 1Sm 17:33, 42; Gal 1:15–16; 1Tm 4:12).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:8 I am with you. See "be with," p 5. deliver. See p 842.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:9 My words in your mouth. Jeremiah's words are God's words. Jeremiah repeatedly uses prophetic statements such as "declares the LORD," "thus says the LORD," and "the word of the LORD came." See pp 1079–80, 971. No allowance is made for the possibility that God's Word is no longer true in all respects because it is transmitted by a fallible prophet.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:10 pluck … break … destroy … overthrow. Four verbs of destruction are used (in contrast with two verbs of construction) because destruction will dominate Jeremiah's message to sinful Judah. Mel: "The voice of the Law condemning sins must constantly be set forth and taught in the church, and indeed it would be a monstrous crime to conceal God's judgment and His voice which announces His wrath against sin" (Chem, LTh 2:438). build … plant. Thorough destruction will clear the way for the Lord to restore the nation.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:11–19 It was only natural for the timid, inexperienced young man from a country town to stand aghast at the worldwide results his ministry was to produce. The Lord therefore reveals to Jeremiah that he is simply to announce what is to happen; the responsibility for bringing about the threats and promises belongs to the Lord Himself.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:11–12 An object lesson gives Jeremiah additional assurance that the words put in his mouth would come true because they were the Lord's. The message is conveyed by means of a wordplay on the Hbr noun shaked ("almond") and participle shoked ("watch" or "awaken"). As the almond tree awakens and blossoms early in spring, so the Creator of the universe, from the very beginning, is alert to perform His word. Similar visionary experiences were accorded the prophet Amos (Am 7:1–9; 8:1–2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:11 the word of the LORD came. See note, v 9; see also p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:13–14 Because the fire under the boiling pot was fanned by a wind from the north, it would be from that direction that disaster would come. The Babylonian invaders entered Judah from the north and inundated it, as Jeremiah was ordered to prophesy (6:22; 25:9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:16 works of their own hands. Idols.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:18 fortified city, an iron pillar, and bronze walls. All attempts to intimidate or silence Jeremiah would prove as ineffectual as attacks against the tightest of defenses. kings … officials … priests … people of the land. See p 228.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:19 fight against you. The Lord did not commission His prophet under the illusion that his task would win him popular acclaim. The violent opposition Jeremiah would encounter foreshadows the hostility that Jesus, the Prophet of Nazareth, had to endure.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 1:4–19 Jeremiah records the details of his call to the prophetic ministry, including two visions and God's promises to be with him. Through Jeremiah, God would warn His people of impending judgment for their sins. Idolatry and immorality eventually bring disaster upon sinners. God wants His people to repent and turn back to Him, averting disaster and receiving God's mercy. • Grant us confidence in Your Word, O Lord. Turn us from sin so we may rejoice in Your salvation, serving You faithfully in Jesus Christ, our Savior. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–3:5 No date for this oracle is given. Jeremiah apparently gives it a leading position in the record of his prophetic activity because it provides the reader with an epitome of his preaching.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:1 the word of the LORD came. See note, 1:9; see also p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:2 love as a bride. Jeremiah is not idealizing the past. At the time of their espousal to the Lord, the Israelites murmured and sinned against Him, but as He led them through the wilderness, they remained His covenant people to whom He gave the Promised Land. For the marriage bond as a symbol of God's relationship to His people, cf Hos 2; Rv 21:2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:3 Israel. See note, Gn 32:28. holy to the LORD. God chose Israel to be the bearer of His promise. He protected them as a farmer guards choice crops and declared "all who ate" of them guilty of theft. holy. See p 7. firstfruits. See p 6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:4 Jeremiah draws on the history of both the Northern Kingdom (called Israel or Jacob) and the Southern Kingdom, consisting mainly of the tribe of Judah. Later he compares the guilt of the two "sisters" (3:6–10). See p 54–55.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:5 worthlessness. A derisive term for idols; also translated "false gods" (14:22) and "false idols" (2Ki 17:15).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:6 pits. A related term appears on the Mesha Stela (Moabite Stone), where it refers to a public underground reservoir dug by Israelite captives. For large cities, such reservoirs could hold tens of thousands of gallons. See note, v 13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:8 priests … shepherds … prophets. Though they knew the law of God, the religious and civil leaders deliberately perverted it and so misled the people. Chs 20–38 describe Jeremiah's protracted conflict with those in authority. See p 228. law. See p 971. Baal. See note, Nu 25:3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:10 Cyprus … Kedar. The Lord charges His people with a faithlessness not found even among the heathen nations, from the Great Sea in the west (Cyprus or Kittim) to the nomadic peoples in the east (Kedar in the North Arabian Desert). Cf 49:28; Is 60:7; see note, Is 21:13; see also map, p 1479.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:11 their glory. See note, Ps 106:20.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:12 O heavens. See note, Is 1:2; cf Dt 32:1.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:13 living waters. See notes, Ps 36:9; Pr 18:4; Is 55:10–11. Ger: "This life is eternal, incorruptible, and will never perish… . God lives of Himself and of His own nature, but life is essential to God, and, in fact, God is life itself" (ThC E2 § 159). cisterns. Private reservoirs, cut into bedrock, collected rainwater that ran off housetops and courtyards. Cisterns were often bell- or bottle-shaped, with a narrow mouth covered by a stone. Porous rock required lime plaster to make it watertight. See note, v 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:14–19 Further evidence of Israel's defection was their trust in foreign alliances with godless nations rather than in God Himself. This foolish policy caused the Northern Kingdom to fall prey to the Assyrians, to whom King Ahaz earlier had appealed for help (2Ki 16:5–9). Negotiations with Egypt would also be as disastrous as they had been in the past.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:14 homeborn servant? Born of a slave woman and therefore destined to permanent slavery.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:16 Memphis. Capital of Lower Egypt. Tahpanhes. Stronghold on the Egyptian border where Jeremiah was taken after the fall of Jerusalem. See map, p 717.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:18–19 Israel's sin of faithlessness would condemn them no matter which foreign nation they turned to for relief. At Carchemish in 605 BC, the combined forces of Egypt and Assyria could not repulse the Babylonians from marching into Israel. Revolts against Babylonian domination, inspired by promises of help from Egypt, also proved futile. The struggle for supremacy between the world powers, represented by the Euphrates in the northeast and the Nile in the southwest, would end in the subjugation of Israel and Judah. See map, p 717.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:19 apostasy. See "backsliding," p 1078.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:20–22 Israel's refusal to trust and serve the Lord expressed itself in brazen worship of Baal, which had begun long before. Reveling shamelessly in the seductive fertility rites of this idol, the chosen people became degenerate.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:20 yoke. Egyptian slavery. I will not serve. Israel refused to be restrained from wickedness by the terms to which they had agreed in the covenant. high hill … green tree. Cf 1Ki 14:23; see p 526. The Lord's bride became a prostitute, both spiritually and physically. See note, Nu 25:1. Cf Ezk 16.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:21 choice vine. Refers to dark red grapes that grew in the Sorek Valley. See note, Is 5:2. Cyr Jer: "A fearful thing is sin, and the sorest disease of the soul is transgression, secretly cutting its sinews, and becoming also the cause of eternal fire; an evil of a man's own choosing, an offspring of the will. For that we sin of our own free will the Prophet says plainly… . The planting was good, the fruit coming from the will is evil; and therefore the planter is blameless, but the vine shall be burnt with fire; since it was planted for good, and bore fruit unto evil of its own will" (NPNF 2 7:8).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:22 wash yourself. The guilt of sin is an inner stain that outward ceremonies cannot remove. lye … soap. Solution of sodium hydroxide and/or potash, obtained from regional plants.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:23–24 Like female animals in heat, the people could not be restrained from seeking to gratify their insatiable lust. "The Holy Scriptures compare the heart of the unregenerate person to a hard stone [Ezekiel 36:26]. It does not yield to the one who touches it, but resists. It is like a rough block and a wild, unmanageable beast [Jeremiah 2:23–24]. This does not mean that since the fall a person is no longer a rational creature" (FC SD II 19).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:23 Baals. See note, Nu 25:3. valley. Children were sacrificed to Molech in the Hinnom Valley, south of Jerusalem (19:5; 2Ki 16:3; 21:6; 23:10; 2Ch 33:6). See p 403.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:24 wild donkey. The onager, a zebralike animal, never domesticated.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:25 going unshod. As slaves were forced to do.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:26–28 Too late the people will realize the futility of turning their back on their Creator and entrusting their fate to impotent gods. There will come a time of trouble when, like a thief caught in the act, they will be shamed to admit that the idols they made for themselves cannot save them.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:27 tree. See note, Ex 34:13. stone. See note, Gn 28:18.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:29–32 When disaster does overtake them, the people will have no reason to complain against the Lord. For them to forget their God was as abnormal and irrational as a bride forgetting to put on her wedding attire.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:30 devoured your prophets. Cf 26:20–23; 1Ki 18:13; 2Ch 24:20–21; Mt 23:29–36.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:32 ornaments … attire? Cf Ps 45:13–14; Is 49:18; Ezk 16:12–13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:34 guiltless poor. Innocent of a crime such as breaking in to steal.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:36 See note, vv 14–19; see also map, p 609.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:37 hands on your head. Bound as prisoners. Such a scene is depicted on the wall of the temple at Medinet Habu, Egypt.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:1 The Law of Moses did not allow a man to remarry the wife he divorced after she had married another man. According to human standards, God could not be expected to let Israel return to Him after they defiled themselves with other gods. See notes, Dt 24:1, 4. But forgiveness is not a mere possibility; God pleads with sinners to receive His mercy.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:2 heights. See p 526. like an Arab. As a desert marauder was always on the alert for victims, so Israel eagerly sought out every opportunity to be ravished by other lovers. Cf Gn 38:14–15; Pr 7:10–12.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:3 showers … spring rain. See calendar, p 262. forehead of a whore. Prostitutes did not blush as other women would. See note, Gn 38:15.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:4–5 Fatherly chastisement in the form of drought did not keep Israel from plunging into sin. They profess filial love but do not live out their words. See "Father," p 1227.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 2:1–3:5 Through Jeremiah, God files charges against His people for breaking covenant with Him. He uses the powerful image of marital unfaithfulness—a capital crime under Mosaic Law—to drive home the seriousness of the charge. God grants time for sinners to repent, but those who refuse to do so will face His justice. His ultimate goal is always our salvation, which He accomplished through the life and death of His Son, who bore His judgment for our sins. • Keep us ever faithful to You, O Lord, by Your Holy Spirit through Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:6–25 Though the unfaithful Israelites deserve to suffer the dire consequences of their heinous crimes, it is not too late to avert impending doom. God, who is rich in love and faithfulness, will forgive all their adulteries if only they return to Him. Yet the history of Israel, the Northern Kingdom, should teach Judah, the southern sister, that the call to repentance cannot be ignored with impunity.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:6 Josiah. Reigned in Judah 640–609 BC. The next king Jeremiah mentions is Zedekiah (21:1), the last of the kings of Judah (597–587 BC). See note, 1:2–3. every high hill. See p 526. green tree. See note, Ex 34:13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:7 sister Judah. Cf Ezk 16. After Solomon's death, the 10 northern tribes, called Israel, seceded from the Davidic kingdom. The two remaining tribes constituted Judah. The term Israel, however, continues to be used as a general designation for the covenant nation (e.g., vv 20–21).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:8 decree of divorce. See notes, Is 50:1; Mt 1:19.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:9 stone and tree. See notes, Gn 28:18; Ex 34:13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:10 return. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:11 righteous. See p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:12–18 Ultimately, Jeremiah's preaching of repentance was in vain. The disaster he predicted overtook the apostate nation when the Babylonians invaded from the north, destroying the land and taking captive its inhabitants (1:14–15; 4:6; 6:22–24; ch 52). But even then, the way to return to the Lord would remain open. God's forgiveness would wipe the record clean. Through a surviving remnant brought back to Zion, He would usher in a time when not only the descendants of Abraham but "all nations" could become full-fledged citizens in the messianic kingdom. In this worldwide spiritual community (called the Church in the NT), the Lord has His throne, symbolized here by His presence over the ark of the covenant and in the temple at Jerusalem (Ex 25:22; 1Ki 8:10–11).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:12 Return. See p 1080. merciful. See pp 842–43. "Our churches teach that there is forgiveness of sins for those who have fallen after Baptism whenever they are converted. The Church ought to impart Absolution to those who return to repentance" (AC XII 1–2).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:14 Return. See p 1080. master. From Hbr verb ba'al, like the name of the Canaanite god they worshiped (Baal). See note, Nu 25:3. Zion. See p 844; see also notes, Is 2:2; 61–62.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:15 shepherds. See note, 2:8.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:16–17 ark. See p 495. throne. See note, Ezk 10:1. all nations. Converted from their sinful ways, they will follow the Lord. See note, Is 2:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:18 together. See note, Ezr 6:17. heritage. See "portion," p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:19 My sons. Nations besides Israel. My Father. See note, vv 4–5.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:20 Though the Lord has great plans for Israel, He emphasizes that the people of Jeremiah's time continue to be disobedient and unfaithful.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:21 heights. Where they prostituted themselves (v 2).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:22 Return. See p 1080. heal. See note, 6:14.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:23 hills. See pp 526–27. salvation. See p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:24 shameful thing. Synonym for Baal (cf 11:13; Hos 9:10).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:25 lie down. Act of mourning and repentance. See "bow" p 1276.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:1 return. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:2 swear. See p 7. God's people are admonished to invoke the name of the Lord instead of swearing by false gods, which is idolatry (see note, Ex 20:3). justice … righteousness. See p 843. bless. See p 842. in Him. In the true God. All the families of the earth were to be blessed by Abraham's offspring (Gn 12:3). But when they worshiped idols and seemed doomed to extinction for their apostasy, the name of God was profaned before all people (cf Is 52:5; Ezk 36:20–23; Rm 2:24). Still, the Lord would assure the salvation of the nations.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:3–4 "God works through this means (i.e., the preaching and hearing of His Word). He breaks our hearts [Jeremiah 4:3–4] and draws us to Him [John 6:44]. Through the preaching of the Law, a person comes to know his sins and God's wrath. He experiences in his heart true terrors, contrition, and sorrow. Through the preaching of, and reflection on, the Holy Gospel about the gracious forgiveness of sins in Christ, a spark of faith is kindled in him. This faith accepts the forgiveness of sins for Christ's sake and comforts itself with the Gospel promise. So the Holy Spirit (who does all this) is sent into the heart [Galatians 4:6]" (FC SD II 54).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:3 fallow ground … thorns. Plants cannot grow on the hardened surface of uncultivated soil or in places where thorns will choke them. Likewise, no fruit can grow out of a heart encased in the impervious shell of impenitence and overgrown with the weeds of sinful desires. Ter: "[The Creator] taught them even then to put off the old man and put on the new" (ANF 3:472). On sowing, see note, Mk 4:3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:4 remove the foreskin of your hearts. Mere outward compliance with the law requiring the physical removal of the foreskin is no insurance against the wrath of God. The "sign of the covenant" must remove the inborn self-will from their hearts and render them responsive to the Lord (Gn 17:11; Dt 30:6; Col 2:11).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 3:6–4:4 Judah's temporary repentance is only superficial—their hearts still stray far from the Lord. Jeremiah offers a glimmer of hope for the northern tribes, revealing God's plan to rescue a remnant of their people in the future. Even as the Lord disciplines His people, He also shows His grace by rescuing a remnant in order to replant them in the Promised Land and bring a Savior from their descendants. In view of God's mercy, practice daily repentance. He will grant you the blessings of Abraham through his offspring Jesus Christ. • Father, keep us faithful to You, the only true God, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:5 Blow the trumpet. See p 993.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:6 standard. Signpost to guide the refugees as they flee from the open country. Zion. See p 844.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:8 sackcloth. Expresses grief or dismay (cf 48:37; Gn 37:34; Is 15:3; 37:1). See note, Jb 16:15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:9 On the role of leaders, see p 228.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:10 Jeremiah, not a disinterested spectator of the horrible scene, injects exclamations of horror and pain as he beholds the invasion and destruction of his beloved country. Cf vv 19–21.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:11 hot wind. See notes, Jb 1:19; 27:21. winnow. See note, Ps 1:4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:12 for this. For separating the chaff from the grain on the threshing floor (v 11). God's judgment will fully overwhelm them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:14 wash. See note, Ezk 36:26. saved. See "salvation," p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:15 Dan … Ephraim. The invading foe has advanced southward from Israel's northernmost city to the hills on Judah's border, c 10 mi N of Jerusalem. See color map 2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:18 reached your very heart. A fatal blow.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:5–18 Through Jeremiah, God pronounces judgment against His people and warns them of an irresistible enemy advancing quickly from the north. Like a hurricane-force wind, Babylon's armies will sweep Judah away, leaving only a few survivors. God had sent prophet after prophet to warn His people and call them to repentance because He loved them and wanted them back. Today, He calls you so that you may receive His gracious salvation. • Father, turn us from our foolish ways to walk by faith in Your Word, through Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:19–21 As the sights and sounds of war and destruction fall on the land and the people he loves, Jeremiah cannot refrain from expressing heartfelt pain.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:19 trumpet … alarm. See p 993.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:20 my tents … my curtains. Destruction of the nation's towns and villages is a personal blow to Jeremiah. He is as a nomad whose shelter is swept away.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:22 The Lord reminds Jeremiah that the people deserve the decreed punishment.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:23 without form and void. Contemplating the desolation to come, Jeremiah is horrified to see how complete it is. To him, the earth looks the way it might have before God changed the primordial chaos into a habitable world.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:27 not make a full end. A ray of Gospel light: God will not let His chosen people become extinct or lose their national identity by being absorbed into other nations. A remnant will survive, and the people will again become His instruments to bless all races. Cf 3:14; Am 9:8; see note, Is 6:13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:28 relented. See pp 1079–80.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:29–31 Judah will discover too late how useless it is to romance foreign nations. Her false paramours will only despise her and seek to kill her.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:30 paint? Such as antimony; see notes, Jb 42:14; Is 54:11.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 4:19–31 Jeremiah grieves for Judah and its people, lamenting their imminent destruction. The same God who created the world by His powerful Word has pronounced judgment upon His sinful and rebellious people. Even in the midst of his grief, Jeremiah voices a note of hope—all is not lost. God is faithful to His promise of salvation. Today, He also remains faithful to you, even in the midst of grief and despair. • Help us to see the consequence of our sins, O Lord, and turn to You each day for forgiveness and wisdom. In Jesus' name. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:1 Search … one. For the sake of only 10 righteous persons, God once was willing to spare the city of Sodom (cf Ezk 22:30; Zep 1:12). justice. See p 842. Chem: "This entire chapter is an announcement of temporal punishments. Yet in this very announcement [God] promises that He will be favorable, that is, He will either remit or lessen the punishments, if they will turn away from their sins" (LTh 2:643).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:2 swear falsely. They use the Lord's name in solemn oath formulas to swear to an untruth. See p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:3 God's chosen people have become hardened and reprobate. For other instances of God's judgment on hardened hearts, see notes, Ex 4:21; 1Ki 22:20–22. repent. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:4 way of the LORD … justice. See pp 844, 842.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:5 yoke. Egyptian slavery.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:6 lion … wolf … leopard. Even nature turns against them. However, also note that Israel's neighbors preyed on them as they fled from the Babylonians. See note, Ob 14. apostasies. See "backsliding," p 1078.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:7 fed them to the full. Moses foresaw how Israel, having waxed "fat and sleek" (v 28), would repay God's bounty by turning to idols. adultery. See note, 2:20.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:8 Cf Ezk 23.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:12 In effect, they join with the wicked and the fool who say, "There is no God" (Ps 10:4; 14:1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:13 become wind. Words without force. done to them! Jeeringly they suggest that if disaster is to come, it will strike only those who predict it.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:1–13 From the lowliest individual in the streets to the highest official in the temple or king's palace, all God's people have turned away from Him to other gods. Their rebellion appears clearly in their immoral behavior as they reject every prophet who calls them back to faith and to the obedience that comes from faith. Today, as you interact with others, consider the condition of your heart in view of God's Word. Repent of all pride, and pray for sincere faith and wisdom with kindness. In His mercy, God preserves His people for salvation (cf v 10); He has you on His heart. • Turn us back, O Lord, when we stray. Keep us faithful in word and deed. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:14 LORD … of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:15 See note, Is 28:11; see also p 751.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:16 open tomb. Their arrows bring death to their targets.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:18 not make a full end. See note, 4:27.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:21–31 Though the ocean and weather do not exceed the limits set by the Creator, the rebellion of His rational creatures knows no bounds. They respond to the material blessings God supplies by exploiting and neglecting the fatherless and the needy. To make matters worse, false prophets and unscrupulous priests confirm the people in their lawlessness, refusing to warn them that they cannot escape the wrath of God. The people are lulled to sleep in their sin.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:21 see not … hear not. See note, Is 6:10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:22 fear Me? See p 1001. boundary for the sea. See note, Jb 38:8; see also p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:24 See calendar, p 262. Ger: "From these benefits they could and should have recognized God as their benefactor, just as we are led from brooks to their sources and as one who seeks a way to the sea makes a river his companion" (ThC E2 § 69). See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:26 fowlers. See note, Ps 91:3.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:27 cage. Made of wicker.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:28 justice. See p 842.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:29 Refrainlike repetition of v 9. avenge. See note, Is 1:24.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 5:14–31 The people of God have refused to give up their worship of foreign gods and their abuse of the weak and powerless. Therefore, God will deliver them into the hands of a foreign nation, rendering them weak and powerless before its armies. Today, beware of spiritual leaders who prove faithless. Consider all things in view of God's Word, and respect those who teach God's Law and Gospel. Praise God for His patience and compassion to save! By His grace, He gives us new hearts and faithful leaders. • Heavenly Father, help us to see other people as You see them in Christ Jesus, our Savior. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 6 The call to repentance comes at the center of another cycle of indictments and threats of dire consequences. Repetition in prophetic preaching testifies to God's patience and goodness and to the stubborn perversity of human nature.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:1 Benjamin. The tribes of Judah and Benjamin composed the Southern Kingdom. Tekoa. C 11 mi S of Jerusalem. See map, p 1205. raise a signal. An important function of fortresses in the Judean hill country was to raise signal fires, by which Jerusalem and other places could be warned about approaching threats. This military practice is mentioned in letters found at Lachish, a major fortress in the Judean hills. See notes, 2Ch 11:5–10. The much earlier Mari letters from the Euphrates region (eighteenth century BC) also mention this tactic. Beth-haccherem. C 4 mi S of Jerusalem. out of the north. See note, 1:13–14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:2 daughter of Zion. See p 1079.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:3 Shepherds. Invading armies, directed by their chiefs, will denude the country as grazing flocks of sheep mow a pasture bare (see ESV note, 2:8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:4 Shouts express the besiegers' disappointment that nightfall is cutting their attack short, though apparently they determine to continue despite the darkness (v 5). Woe to us. The besieged people of Jerusalem may have raised this shout as they saw the darkness of disaster engulfing them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:6 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. siege mound. Cf 32:24; 33:4; 52:4; see note, 2Ki 18:14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:9 glean. Cf Ru 2:15–17. remnant. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:10 uncircumcised. See note, 4:4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:11 When the Lord's wrath inundates the city, all its inhabitants—from the children to the very aged—will become war casualties (cf Is 13:16; see note, Ps 137:9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:14 They have healed. The false prophets refused to tell the people how sick they were. Claiming all was well, they put a bandage on the nation's cancerous wound. Peace. Denotes more than absence of war. Its wider meaning is reflected when translated "welfare" or "prosperity," as in 29:11; 33:9. See p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:16 Stand by the roads. Arriving at a crossroads, travelers must decide which direction to take: "the good way" or "the way … that leads to destruction" (Mt 7:13). paths … way. See p 844. walk. See p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:18 congregation. Assembly of nations called to witness God's judgment upon His people. See p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:20 frankincense. See note, Lv 2:1. Sheba. In southwest Arabia. See Sabea on map, p 780. sweet cane. Used in preparing incense; see note, Ex 30:23. burnt offerings. See pp 170–71. not acceptable. Ceremonies that do not express commitment of the heart are an abomination to the Lord (see notes, 1Sm 15:22–23; Is 1:11).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:21 stumbling blocks. God will see to it that the road of rebellious self-will ends in disaster (cf Is 8:14; Ezk 14:3–4, 7).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:22 farthest parts. Babylon was far removed from Israel.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:23 O daughter of Zion! See p 1079.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:26 sackcloth. See note, Jb 16:15. an only son. The heir, now lost.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:27–30 The Lord authorizes Jeremiah to expose the pervasive nature of Israel's wickedness. The people are like a piece of ore from which no precious metal can be smelted because it is composed of nothing but bronze and iron. See pp 1543–44.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 6:29 bellows blow. To fan the fire that smelts the ore in the refining process. lead. Used to separate the silver from the base metals. in vain. Israel has resisted purification; it remains a solid block of refuse, not worth saving. Cf Ezk 22:18–22.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 6 Because they have rejected God's Word and spurned His prophets, the Lord will send a foreign army against Jerusalem to destroy it and lay waste to the land. God rejects sacrifices offered without faith; He is not satisfied with token compliance. Instead, He calls us to repent and to live our faith in all we say and do. In spite of our faithless acts, God continues to be faithful through His Son, Jesus, our Savior. • Open our eyes, Father, and send us Your Spirit, that we live our lives for You, avoiding sin and helping others. In Jesus' name. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:1–15 Jeremiah lays bare the enormity of Judah's sin. Standing at the entrance to the temple, he charges the assembled people with acting as if the structure they had built could imprison Him whom "heaven and the highest heaven cannot contain" (1Ki 8:27). They treated the house where the Lord's name was to be revered like a cave where robbers flee for safety between raids on their hapless victims. There was no excuse for the blasphemous heresy that the temple protected the people from the consequences of their evil deeds.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:1 word that came. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:2 in the gate of the LORD's house. False trust in the security of the temple was one of the basic causes of Israel's downfall. Jeremiah delivers a shorter but similar sermon "in the court of the LORD's house" (26:1–6). A second warning, delivered on the very site that gave rise to this fatal heresy, would not have been superfluous. It is also possible that ch 26 gives a resume of Jeremiah's dramatic preaching in order to provide the circumstances of the prophet's brush with death that is described there.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:3 Amend. Lit, "make good."
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:4 the temple of the LORD. Repeated as a slogan of defiance.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:5 justice. See p 842.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:7 See "portion," p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:8–11 They think they can escape punishment for crimes against God and fellow human beings, though they use the temple as robbers who take refuge in a cave, only to emerge from hiding for fresh adventure.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:9 swear falsely. See "oath," p 7. Baal. See note, Nu 25:3.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:10 delivered! See p 842. abominations? See note, Pr 6:16.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:11 house … called by My name. See note, 1Ki 8:18. den of robbers. Hypocrisy in worship, which brought these words to Jesus' lips, continues to be one of Satan's masterpieces of deception.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:12 The Lord reminds the people what He did to Shiloh. In this city 22 mi N of Jerusalem, the ark of the covenant was enshrined for a time. But when the sacred chest was degraded to a good-luck charm, it was captured by the Philistines, and the city was destroyed. See p 495.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:15 offspring of Ephraim. The northern tribes of Israel, exiled to Assyria (cf 2Ki 17). Their fate should serve as yet another warning that God will not forever tolerate the abuse of His goodness.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:16 do not pray. The time of grace had elapsed. Because the hour of judgment was at hand, Jeremiah was no longer to pray for them. See note, 14:11–13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:18 Describes division of labor in the family. queen of heaven. An astral deity and goddess of fertility (possibly Ishtar) in whom the people had put their trust (cf 44:15–19, 25). drink offerings. See note, Lv 23:37.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:19–20 Their idolatry does not harmfully affect the transcendent Lord, but because it moves Him to punish them for insulting Him, they will suffer.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:21–29 Judah's false sense of security stemmed not only from the notion of an inviolate temple (vv 1–15) but also from a perversion of the purpose of the ceremonies performed there by divine decree. Firmly entrenched in their hardened hearts was the pernicious belief that the rites of burnt offerings and sacrifices, mechanically performed, caused God to overlook their refusal to obey all His commands. Though Jeremiah used drastic language to dislodge this heathen distortion of worship forms, he was no more successful than his predecessors, whom God had sent persistently to His stiff-necked people (cf Is 1:11; Am 5:21).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:21 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. eat the flesh. Unlike other sacrifices, all the meat of the animals sacrificed in burnt offerings was to be burned up by fire (see pp 170–71). But since the people's sacrifices had become an abomination to the Lord, it was of little consequence whether or not they refrained from eating what the law prohibited.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:22–23 Jeremiah is not denying the divine origin of Israel's sacrificial rites but is trying to arouse his hearers to the danger of attributing magical power to the mechanical offering of sacrifices. The point he categorically denies is that God prescribed ritual worship as a substitute for keeping His Commandments. For similar emphatic rhetoric on the pronouncement that God did not make a covenant with Israel's fathers, see note, Dt 5:22. "God clearly gave the fathers commands about burnt offerings and victims. But Jeremiah condemns the opinion about sacrifices that God had not delivered, namely, that these services please

Him by the outward act. Concerning faith, he adds that God had commanded this: 'Hear Me,' that is, 'believe Me that I am your God, and that I wish to be known when I care for you and help you. I do not need your sacrificial victims. Believe that I want to be God the Justifier and Savior, not because of works, but because of My Word and promise. Truly seek and expect help from Me from the heart' " (Ap XXIV 28). "Such passages do not condemn works, which God certainly had commanded as outward exercises in this government. They condemn the godless opinion that people thought, that by their works they appeased God's wrath, and so cast away faith" (Ap V 86).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:23 walk. See p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:25 My servants the prophets. See p 1081–83.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:26 stiffened their neck. See note, Ex 32:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:27 they will not listen. Jeremiah's preaching was in vain, just as Isaiah's had been (cf Is 6:9–10).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:28 discipline. Instruction in God's Word. See note, Pr 1:2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:29 Cut off your hair. See note, Jb 1:20. generation of His wrath. People whose measure of iniquity is full to overflowing (cf Mt 23:32; 1Th 2:16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:1–29 God warns His people that mere possession of the temple and ritual observance of its worship laws will not save them. Without genuine, living faith, it is impossible to please God (Heb 11:6). He creates such faith through His Word. Through faith in Jesus Christ, we are acceptable to Him, and so is our worship. • Father, grant us your Word and Spirit, that our entire lives reflect the saving faith You have given us in Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:31 high places. See p 526. Topheth. See note, 2Ki 23:10. Hinnom. See notes, Jer 2:23; Mk 9:43.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:32 Where they sacrificed their children, they themselves will be slaughtered and buried.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:33 The dead are cursed because of their wickedness. Desecration of corpses was considered a grievous calamity. none will frighten them away. Evidence of how thorough the slaughter is, since no one is left to care about the dead.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:34 On Israelite marriage customs, see pp 54–55.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:1–3 The desecrated skeletons of Judah's leaders and citizens bear ironic testimony to the folly of having worshiped astral deities (cf 7:18).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:1 the bones. Stated five times in this verse, like the tolling of the nation's death knell.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:2 host of heaven. See note, Dt 4:19.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:3 remnant. See p 1080. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 7:30–8:3 God condemns His people for worshiping false gods, even in the temple compound, and for offering their children as burnt offerings to idols. Sin may start small, but it often grows until it takes over a person's life, leading even to such obvious evils as child sacrifice (consider today the abuse and neglect of children, who may be sacrificed to selfish interests). God still wants to save His people, calling them to repentance before the terrible events of His judgment become reality. His own dear Son bravely laid down His life to atone for all our sins. • Help us, Father, to recognize sin in its early stages and turn to You for strength and forgiveness. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:4 Bas: "Do not despair of salvation. Recall your recollection of how it is written in the Scriptures that he who is falling rises and he who turns away returns; the wounded is healed, the prey of beasts escapes; he who owns his sin is not rejected" (NPNF 2 8:147).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:5 perpetual backsliding? Behavior contrary to human experience and common sense. See p 1078.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:6 The Lord waited in vain for the people to repent (cf Ps 14:2). horse plunging headlong. See note, Jb 39:19.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:7 Even migratory birds, acting purely by divinely implanted instinct, are more responsive to their Maker than His rational creatures. rules. See p 971.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:8 law. See p 971. scribes. Those capable of writing and responsible for the preservation and exposition of the Law. See pp 719–20. made it into a lie. Also translated "deals falsely" (v 10; 6:13). The scribes are not accused of falsifying the content of the documents but of perverting the revealed truth. On the lies of the false prophets, see note, 6:14. False doctrine about the relationship between God and His people inevitably undermines social stability.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:10–12 Refrainlike repetition of 6:12–15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:11 See note, 6:14.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:12 abomination? See note, Pr 6:16.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:13 gather. Called to repentance and faith. no grapes. Cf Is 5:1–7. what I gave them has passed away. God will deprive them of the bodily sustenance and inheritance He has provided for them in the past. See "portion," p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:14–15 So inevitable is the threatened retribution for their wickedness that Jeremiah already hears the victims of the invasion calling to one another in a vain search for a place of safety. The people realize the error of remaining complacent in their sins rather than returning to the Lord. But it is too late; God has declared His judgment.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:15 We looked for peace. Perhaps a popular saying expressing the disillusionment of trust in a false security. peace … healing. See note, 6:14; see also "peace," p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:17 serpents, adders. Babylonians.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:4–17 God's people still do not repent and turn back to Him in faith, so His judgment will fall upon them with full force. Possession of God's Word cannot save them because their teachers have misrepresented it. Today, God gives us His Word to reveal His Son, our Savior, and to lead us in all righteousness. Through the study of His Word, He blesses us with repentance and life. • O Lord, grant us sound teachers, and keep us steadfast in Your Word. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:18–22 The vision of the coming calamity is so vivid that Jeremiah is filled with grief. Israel's self-inflicted wound is incurable. The best balm and the ablest physician cannot heal the fatal malignancy. The end is at hand because the Lord's anger is coming upon His unfaithful people.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:19 Zion? See p 844. King. See pp 1565–66.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:20 Apparently a proverbial saying; Jeremiah hears the people in exile apply it to their situation when they despair of deliverance.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:22 balm in Gilead? The territory east of the Jordan was famous for producing and exporting a tree gum, or spice, prized for its healing qualities (cf Dt 2:36; Ezk 27:17).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:2 travelers' lodging place. See note, Ex 4:24. adulterers. Infidelity to God (idolatry) was the root cause of the catalog of crimes against fellow human beings listed in the following verses. See notes, Jer 2:2, 20.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:3 do not know. They do not even recognize or acknowledge the Lord and so cannot trust in Him.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:4 deceiver. Israel reverted to the deceptive nature of their ancestor Jacob. For the wordplay on the meaning of his name, see ESV notes, Gn 25:26; 27:36.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:7 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. refine … test. To remove the dross of sin (6:27–30).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:9 avenge. See note, Is 1:24.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:10–11 Jeremiah speaks the words of v 10; then quotes the Lord in v 11.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:14 Baals. See note, Nu 25:3.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:15 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. bitter food. See note, Pr 5:4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:16 Cf 2Ki 17.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:17 skillful women. Trained to lead the mourning at funerals (cf Mt 9:23).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:19 God's inspired spokesman not only predicts the Babylonian exile but also anticipates how disgraced the exiles will be after their defeat. Zion. See p 844.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:21 Death is personified to dramatize wholesale slaughter by the enemy. Cf 15:7–9; 18:21; see notes, Jb 18:13, 19–20.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:23 wise man. See pp 775–78.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:24 knows Me. Ger: "Knowledge is not merely historical but also practical, not of the letter but of the spirit, not unworking and idle but working and effective, that is, it embraces true faith in Christ inwardly in the heart [Jn 17:3] and commends itself outwardly through a zeal for good works" (ThC E2 § 3).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:25 circumcised merely in the flesh. Though physically marked by the sign of the covenant (Gn 17:11), the people were no better than the heathen. See note, 4:4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 9:26 Israelites were not the only people to circumcise. See note, Ex 4:25. cut the corners of their hair. A forbidden heathen custom.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 8:18–9:26 The Lord grieves over the sin of His people, which will cause their destruction. Although it breaks His heart,

God must punish unrepentant sinners because He is just and righteous. Yet the Lord yearns to forgive His people. Today, repent and turn to Him with all your heart. Though the Lord's testing is painful, He promises to refine you through Christ. • Teach us, O Lord, to rely on You alone for our salvation, and lead us every day to live our faith in thought, word, and deed, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:1–16 Jeremiah's longest and most scathing exposé of Israel's trusting in idols. Similar in tone and content to Isaiah's satires on idolatry (Is 40:18–20; 41:7; 44:9–17; 45:20; cf Ps 115:3–8; 135:15–18).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:1 Israel. See note, Gn 32:28.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:2 way. Conduct or lifestyle; one of Jeremiah's characteristic expressions (e.g., 2:36; 3:21; 4:18; 5:4; 6:27; 7:3, 5, 23). See p 844. signs of the heavens. Eclipses of the sun and moon were considered omens of disaster. Superstitious idol worshipers were dismayed at them, but still they did not fear the true God, maker of heaven and earth.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:3 vanity. One of Jeremiah's favorite terms for idols; also translated "worthless" (v 15; 51:18), "worthlessness" (2:5), "foreign idols" (8:19), and "false gods" (14:22). Isaiah does not use the word in this sense. See note, Ec 1:2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:7 O King. See pp 1565–66. all the wise ones. Sarcastic allusion to the superhuman knowledge attributed to the idols. There were so many of them that they were ranked according to authority and power so as to constitute kingdoms or hierarchies.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:9 Tarshish. See note, 1Ki 10:22; cf Ezk 27:12. Uphaz. Location unknown. Perhaps it is the same as Ophir, renowned for its gold (see note, 1Ki 9:28). violet and purple. See p 141. The idols were regally clothed, like dolls.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:10 living God. See note, Jsh 3:10. King. See pp 1565–66. Ambr: "We ought to believe that God is good, eternal, perfect, almighty, and true, such as we find Him in the Law and the Prophets, and the rest of the holy Scriptures, for otherwise there is no God" (NPNF 2 10:203).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:11 Verse composed not in Hbr but in Aram, the language of international diplomacy already at the time of Isaiah (see note, 2Ki 18:26; see also pp 719–20). Jeremiah anticipated the needs of the people in exile, which he describes so graphically. If the Israelites would say these words to their captors, who tempted them to worship idols in Babylon, their answer in Aram would be understood.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:12 by His wisdom. See note, Pr 8:22.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:13 storehouses. Figurative language. Cf Ps 33:7; Jb 37:9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:15 work of delusion. Found also in 51:18 but nowhere else in the OT; Jeremiah coined this phrase to brand idols as objects of derision.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:17 bundle. The exiles would be allowed to take with them only a few personal belongings as they set out on the trip to Babylon.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:18 slinging out. God is about to drive the inhabitants out of the city after it has been under siege by the enemy.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:19 Woe. See p 1080. affliction. Lit, "sickness." Recovery from it did not come as quickly as the afflicted first thought. See note, 6:14.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:20 tent … cords. See note, 4:20. In Is 54:2, the same figure of speech is used for the promise of restoration. curtains. Walls of a tent.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:21 shepherds. Leaders. See note, 2:8. inquire of the LORD. See "seek," p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:22 In spirit, the prophet hears the great commotion created by the onslaught of the enemy invading from the north (see note, 1:13–14).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:23–24 People cannot change their ways themselves. Speaking for the people, Jeremiah asks God to temper His anger with justice and mercy in view of the innate weakness of human nature. Chem: "It is not in man's power, even when he has heard the Word, to undertake any spiritual movements unless God through His Spirit teach him inwardly" (LTh 1:234).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:24 in justice. Restrained by pity. See p 842.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 10:25 Pour out. See note, Ps 79:6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 10 Jeremiah contrasts the one true God with idols. Like scarecrows, idols are inanimate objects crafted by human hands. They have no power to harm or to help. God is all-powerful, so no one can escape His justice and judgment. Because of the people's apostasy, God will bring His power to bear against them and their leaders. Yet God is so great, He can also do the impossible: save sinners without violating His own righteousness (cf Rm 3:21–26). • Turn our eyes and hearts, O Lord, from the worthless vanities of this world to You, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 11 Jeremiah tries to rouse his hearers from their fatal complacency by labeling their apostasy a revolt against God. Their unfaithfulness is not a sin of momentary weakness but a deliberate conspiracy to defy God's claim to their loyalty.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:2 covenant. See p 127. Occurring four more times in the next eight verses, this term encompasses everything essential to the relationship the Lord established with His people. It is also used as a synonym for biblical religion (cf Gn 6:18; 17:2, 10; Ex 24:6–8; Dt 29:1). The Book of the Covenant was found in the temple early in Jeremiah's career (2Ki 22:8; 23:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:3 Cursed. The rebels against God's lordship made themselves liable to the threats of punishment clearly stated in Ex 20:5; Dt 27:15–26; 28:15–68. See p 6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:4 iron furnace. See note, Dt 4:20.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:5 oath. See p 7. flowing with milk and honey. See p 6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:10 iniquities of their forefathers. Cf Ex 32. house of Israel … Judah. See note, 3:7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:13 Baal. See notes, Nu 14:11–13; 25:3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:14 do not pray. See note, 7:16.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:15 My beloved. See the theme in Hos intro, pp 1427–28. sacrificial flesh. Offered in various kinds of rites. See pp 170–71.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:17 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. Baal. See note, Nu 25:3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:18–23 The Lord reveals to Jeremiah that his own townspeople of Anathoth are plotting to kill him. It is not surprising that rebels conspiring to dethrone God should also seek to silence His messenger. Jeremiah does not desire personal revenge; he would have given his life to save his people. Nevertheless, as God's spokesman, his cause is also God's cause. Those who tell him not to prophesy are in effect telling God He has no right to impose His will on them. God vindicates His prophet's jealous zeal for his Lord by ordering Jeremiah to declare the punishments of death and disaster for the people of Anathoth. See note, Is 1:24. Jesus also pronounced woes on His adversaries (cf Mt 23:33).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 11:20 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. tests. See note, Gn 22:1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 11 The people break God's covenant, incurring the curses pronounced when their ancestors entered the Promised Land. Persistent apostasy can have only one outcome: God's judgment. Yet the Lord also stands ready to forgive His people and rescue them from impending disaster, if only they repent and return to Him in faith. • Dear Father, grant us Your Holy Spirit to work daily repentance in us and to keep us faithful to You. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:1 Righteous. See p 843. Why … prosper? Though Jeremiah committed his cause to the Lord, he was perplexed by the delay in the administration of divine justice. Jeremiah was not the first nor the last to question whether the prosperity of the wicked can be harmonized with God's justice. See pp 779–82; cf Ps 10; 37; 73; 94; Hab 1. Ger: "[God] does all things justly, though we do not always observe the reason of His justice" (ThC E2 § 242).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:2 You plant them. In dismay, Jeremiah reaches the point of accusing God. near in their mouth. Judgment on hypocrisy.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:4 He will not see. Pronoun refers either to God (i.e., "He does not shape our destiny") or to His prophet (i.e., "He will not live to see his predictions of our death come true").

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:1–4 Jeremiah struggles to understand how a righteous God can tolerate the wicked and even allow them to prosper. Often we are unable to understand God's justice or reconcile God's providence with the evil we experience. We do not see the big picture, and our own sense of right and wrong gets terribly twisted by sin. Yet take heart. God continually works in the world for justice and for the salvation of people, something He guarantees by the cross of Christ. • Teach us to be patient, Lord, when we do not understand "why." Lead us to the cross of Christ Jesus, and help us trust You always. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:5 God does not owe nor does He give Jeremiah a direct answer to his question of "why?" (v 1). The problem would not exist if Jeremiah had a firm, unquestioning faith in God's superior wisdom and limitless power to do the right thing at the right time. Jeremiah must learn to trust God's management of affairs if he is going to survive even more severe tests of faith in the future. thicket of the Jordan? The banks of the Jordan were a dense jungle, a hiding place for Asiatic lions.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:7–8 It grieved God to see the love He showered on His chosen people abused so maliciously that He had to "hate" them for their open rebellion against Him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:7 My house … heritage. See "portion," p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:8 lion in the forest. See note, v 5.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:9 Judah is like a carcass; its bones will be picked clean.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:10 shepherds. See notes, 2:8; 6:3; cf 23:1. portion. See p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:14–17 The enemy nations who ravish the Promised Land of God's people will be subjected to the same judgment in store for Israel. Yet they, too, will be included in the worldwide salvation to be mediated by Abraham's offspring Jesus Christ (Gal 3:16). If these nations accept the ways of the God of Israel, they will be incorporated into the people of God, a spiritual community without racial distinctions or geographical boundaries. So all believers, whether Jew or Gentile, will be saved (cf 16:19; Rm 11; see note, Is 2:2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:14 heritage. See "portion," p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:15 compassion. See "mercy," pp 842–43.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:16 swear. See note, 4:2. Baal. See note, Nu 25:3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 12:5–17 God delays punishment of His people, allowing them plenty of time and opportunity to repent and return to Him in faith. Failing that, He will give them over to their enemies, and justice will be served—the land will be laid waste and its inhabitants exiled. God cannot be mocked. Sinners who resist His grace will face judgment and eternal condemnation. God is not slow to act but patiently waits for people to turn to Him and be saved. His pleasure is in our salvation. • Anchor us in Your love, O Lord, and teach us the wisdom of obedience to Your will. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:1 loincloth. An undergarment worn directly on the loins, symbolizing the closeness of God to His chosen people. Here, the material for the object lesson. do not dip. He was not to wash it, which would delay the corrosive action needed for the illustration.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:4 Euphrates. River on which Babylon was located. See map, p 717. In order to reach it, Jeremiah had to travel c 400 mi. Thus, some propose that the Hbr word for Euphrates (perath) here refers to Parah, a town only a few miles north of Jerusalem (cf Jsh 18:23). For another symbolic act carried out in full view of the people, cf 27:2. See p 1220.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:10 Like the loincloth that was spoiled by exposure to the disintegrating elements, the people had reached such a state of spiritual decay that they were not worth saving. As a useless garment is thrown on the refuse heap, so Judah would be thrown to their enemies.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:11 loincloth clings. Tightly wrapped. See note, v 1. a name. See p 843.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:1–11 Jeremiah uses a loincloth to illustrate God's judgment against His people. The new loincloth, ruined by the elements, now resembles the spiritual condition of God's people. As a result, God will treat them like a person treats rags. Today, we often fail to see the effect of sin in our lives until the Law, like an illustration, shows us our sins. In spite of our ruined state, God loves us so much that He sent His Son to die for us (Rm 5:8) and cleanse us from all sin. • Keep us from sin, O Lord, and daily renew us in our Baptism. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:12–14 Jeremiah's parable states that an empty jar must be filled. So the Lord will fill the people with drunkenness, rendering them unable to distinguish friend from foe and dooming them to die without pity or compassion.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:13 drunkenness. The execution of divine judgment is described as the stupefying result of having drunk from the cup of God's wrath (cf 25:15; 48:26; 49:12; 51:7; Ps 60:3; Is 51:17, 21; 63:6). See note, Is 51:17. kings … priests … prophets. See p 228. David's throne. See note, Jer 17:25.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:12–14 The Lord uses the image of a full jar of wine to illustrate the fullness of His judgment against His people. No one, rich or poor, will be spared from the coming wrath. The time for repentance eventually runs out, and unrepentant sinners must then face the fullness of God's justice. Do not test the Lord's kindness, but call on Him today with a repentant heart. The cup He longs to pour out for you is that of the new testament in His blood for the forgiveness of sins. • Lord Jesus, teach us to hunger and thirst for Your righteousness. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:16 Give glory. Confess faith in Him by declaring His praises. See "Praise the Lord," p 843, and "glory," p 1902.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:18 king and the queen mother. Jehoiachin (Coniah) and his mother. They will be stripped of their royal insignia. For the influence wielded by the queen, see note, 1Ki 2:18.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:19 In the sixth century BC, Arabs began to drive the Edomites out of their ancestral territory so that they invaded Judah (cf 49:7–22; Ezk 35). Cities surrounding Jerusalem would be shut up by besieging invaders even as far south as the Negeb. wholly taken into exile. Cf 2Ki 24:8–17; Jer 29:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:20–27 God will make the people realize that the disgrace and violence they suffer are not accidents of history but the execution of divine justice on the magnitude of their sin. God could not do otherwise, for they were permanently depraved. They could no more change their behavior than a leopard can get rid of its spots. Therefore, they will know that the dreadful lot in store for them, though apparently due to the superior might of the enemy, will be dealt them by the Lord because He will no longer tolerate their abominations and adulteries.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:20 from the north. Babylonians. flock. Israel's kings are called shepherds of the people (cf 10:21; 23:1–4). See p 228.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:22 skirts are lifted up. Apparently a prostitute would be humiliated in public this way.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:24 chaff. See note, Ps 1:4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:25 portion. See p 7. lies. The word used for false gods in 10:14.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:27 abominations. See note, Pr 6:16. hills. See p 526. clean? See p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 13:15–27 The Lord has determined to send His people into exile because of their arrogance and idolatry. Their rebellion against Him is so ingrained that it has become part of their nature, like spots on a leopard. Indeed, sin is more than skin-deep—it corrupts the depths of our hearts. However, the Lord has provided for our cleansing through Holy Baptism. He restores us by His faithful Word and makes us a new creation in Christ. • Teach us humility, Father, and create us anew in the image of Your beloved Son. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:1 drought. Hbr "droughts." The plural may indicate its severity and duration. Apparently it occurred within memory of Jeremiah's contemporaries.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:2 gates. Figurative expression for the inhabitants of the walled cities. See note, 2Ki 7:1.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:3 cisterns. See notes, 2:13; 2Ki 3:16. cover their heads. Expression of grief.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:7–10 The chastened people profess sorrow for their sins. Yet the Lord knows the true condition of their hearts and remembers their wanton disobedience. Failing to heed His call to sincere repentance, they should expect no more than His punishment. Cf 2:27; see note, 5:3.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:7 for Your name's sake. Cf Ezk 20:9, 14, 22, 44; see p 842. backslidings. See note, 8:5.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:8 savior. See pp 380–81; see also note, Jgs 2:16.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:9 You … are in the midst of us. See "be with," p 5. called by Your name. See note, Nu 6:27.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:10 wander. Stray from the ways of the Lord; see note, 6:16.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:11–13 The Lord instructs Jeremiah not to intercede for his people. Yet Jeremiah continues to wrestle with God, as Abraham once did on behalf of doomed Sodom (Gn 18:22–33). He dares to approach the divine Judge again, with a new argument. He pleads for leniency for the masses because they have been misled by false prophets (v 13). However, the people have no excuse for rejecting the doctrines the Lord has persistently taught them (cf 7:13; 25:3; 35:14). For denunciations of heretical teachers, cf 5:12–13; 8:11.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:11 Do not pray. See note, 7:16.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:12 fast. Cf Is 58. offering. See pp 170–71. pestilence. See note, Ps 91:3.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:1–12 Jeremiah describes a drought and its effect on the land and its inhabitants. As a result of their sins, the people do not deserve God's help, but in his prayer for aid, Jeremiah appeals to God's faithfulness (v 13). Today, those who insist on a life of rebellion and self-will must eventually face God's judgment against them. As you pray for others, take heart that the Lord does not delight in destroying sinners but works continually to turn them to Him for salvation in Jesus Christ. • Grant us persistence in faith and prayer, O Lord. Upon the drought of our soul, pour out Your most gracious favor and joy, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:17 virgin daughter. God promised to keep His chosen people inviolate for His holy purposes, but they were unfaithful. wound. See note, 6:14.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:18 The prophets and priests should have instructed the people, led them to repentance, and "healed" them of their sin. See note, Lv 10:11; cf Dt 33:10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:19–22 Jeremiah hears the humbled people confess their guilt, reject false gods, plead for healing, and affirm their hope in the true God, though this did not come about until after the ruin of the nation.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:19 Zion? See p 844. We looked for peace. See note, 8:15.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:21 for Your name's sake. Cf Ezk 20:9, 14, 22, 44; see p 842. glorious throne. In the temple. Cf Jer 17:12; see note, Ezk 10:1. covenant. See p 127.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:22 rain? See note, Mt 5:45.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 14:13–22 Jeremiah expresses his frustration over false prophets who tell the people that peace lies ahead, though Jeremiah has warned them that destruction is coming. People need to know they are sinners, condemned by God's Law. Then, crushed by the Law, the repentant sinner is ready for the Gospel, the healing Word of God that grants abiding peace. • Lead us to share Your Word faithfully, O Lord, and bear witness to Your grace in Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:1 Moses and Samuel. Great prophets who successfully intervened on behalf of Israel. turn. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:2 pestilence. See note, Ps 91:3.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:4 Manasseh. Wicked king of Judah (cf 2Ki 21:1–18; 2Ch 33:1–20) and grandfather of Josiah, who was the king at this point in Jeremiah's ministry (1:1–2).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:6 weary of relenting. As at the time of the flood, God would no longer allow His mercy to be abused (cf Gn 6:5–7). See "relent," pp 1079–80.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:7 winnowed. Scattered them as worthless chaff carried off by the wind during threshing operations. See notes, 4:11–12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:9 bore seven. Number used proverbially to express many sons (cf Ru 4:15). Mothers so blessed would see their sons struck down in the prime of life.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:1–9 God responds to Jeremiah's prayer for the people. They have refused to repent and return to Him; therefore, He will destroy them. God is righteous—He keeps His Word—and He will bring down the curses He threatened (Dt 28:15–68). "But God shows His love for us in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us" (Rm 5:8).
• Lift up our hearts, O Lord, and fill us with Your Holy Spirit, that we may rejoice in Your salvation and live for You. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:10–21 Jeremiah bares his troubled soul to God, who reproves and rehabilitates His disenchanted servant. The record of sheer warnings, delivered over and over again to an impenitent audience, helps us understand why the preacher of these ignored sermons went to pieces under the emotional strain of his frustrating assignment. In a delirium of pent-up anger, he utters such strong words against God as to make him liable to the charge of blasphemy. No longer an "iron pillar" (1:18) but a broken reed, he resents God's way of administering justice. His faith hangs by a thread. Though he rants against God, Jeremiah still turns to Him for an answer to his problem.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:10 Woe. See p 1080. bore me. Job also cursed the day of his birth (see note, 20:14). lent … borrowed. Jeremiah's associates might have had a reason to curse him if he had taken advantage of them in financial transactions.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:11 Have I not set you free for their good? Or, "Have I not strengthened you for good?" Hbr scribes recognized a spelling problem that affected the clarity of their manuscripts here. Modern translators have made numerous conjectures on the intent of this phrase. Have I not pleaded for you. Or, "Have I not caused an attack on you?" Either the Lord is comforting Jeremiah because He is supporting him amid troubles, or He is causing these troubles to accomplish a greater good through the prophet. Cf 21:1–2; 37:3; 42:1–2 for requests by Jeremiah's enemies to intercede for them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:12 Babylonian invaders would have an unbreakable grip on their victims.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:15 remember … visit. See p 843. take vengeance. See note, 11:18–23.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:16 I ate them. As food is assimilated by the body, so God's words permeated Jeremiah's innermost being, bringing him joy and delight. Lord … of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:17 Your hand. Jeremiah's message was not of his own concoction but was impelled by divine commission and authority. Cf Is 8:11; Ezk 3:14; 8:1; see "hand," p 842.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:18 God does not answer the questions. His children "walk by faith, not by sight" (2Co 5:7). pain … wound. See notes, 6:14; 8:18–22. deceitful brook. Jeremiah is tempted to think that "the fountain of living waters" (2:13; 17:13) has become as "treacherous as a torrent-bed" (Jb 6:15), which quickly runs dry.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:19–21 God does not fail to come to the rescue of His blustering spokesman. Without explaining the mystery of divine providence, the Lord beckons Jeremiah to return from the wasteland of doubt to an implicit trust in Him and in the promises He made to the prophet when He called him. It will not be a life of ease, for evil men will continue to fight against him. Yet the Lord will save and deliver him.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:20 wall of bronze. See note, 1:18. I am with you. See "be with," p 5. save … deliver. See p 842.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:21 redeem. See p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 15:10–21 Jeremiah complains that everyone stands against him because of his negative message. He comes close to accusing God of deceiving him into thinking that his job as prophet was going to be easier than it has been. God calls Jeremiah to repentance for his doubt and promises to strengthen him for the work ahead. We, too, are often weak and afraid to proclaim God's Word boldly, fearing the reprisals we might suffer. God's grace is sufficient for our weakness, and His Holy Spirit empowers us to share His Word faithfully. • Grant us repentance and courage, Lord, and strengthen us to do Your work in joy and confidence, through Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:1–9 In order to be a living sign of the fearful disaster announced by the spoken word (cf Ezk 24:24), God commands Jeremiah to make three drastic lifestyle changes that ran contrary to the customary patterns of social behavior: (1) forego marriage, because whole families would be wiped out by war and disease; (2) refuse to observe the rituals expected at funerals, because death would be so widespread that no one would survive to perform the customary mourning rites; (3) reject invitations to a house where feasting was going on because there would no longer be any reason for joyous celebrations.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:2 Jeremiah is the only prophet known to have received such a command.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:4 See note, 7:33.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:5 house of mourning. Refers to pagan Marzeah feasts. See notes, Is 51:17; Am 6:7. peace. See note, 6:14. steadfast love … mercy. See pp 842–43.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:6 cut … make himself bald. Such heathen mourning practices are also mentioned in the Babylonian Epic of Gilgamesh but are contrary to Mosaic Law. Cf 48:37; see notes, Lv 19:27–28; 21:5.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:7 cup of consolation. At a meal prepared by friends of the bereaved family, the guests drank from a common cup of wine to express their sharing in the grief.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:8 house of feasting. See note, v 5; cf v 9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:9 Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:13 favor. See p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:1–13 Jeremiah's actions will reinforce his words of judgment and condemnation. Persistent sin can only result in condemnation by God and loss of all joy. God alone will provide strength for Jeremiah in his difficult ministry, just as He provides all we need in Jesus Christ. He is the blessed Bridegroom for His beloved Bride, the Church. • Strengthen us, O Lord, to do Your will, and bring all parts of our lives into harmony with our faith in Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:14–15 A brief burst of messianic sunlight breaks through the lowering skies of darkest gloom (cf 3:14, 18–19; 4:27; 5:10, 18; 27:22; 31:31; 33:14).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:14 As the Lord lives. An oath formula. See "oath," p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:15 The return from exile would become the new, great example of redemption instead of the exodus from Egypt (v 14).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:16 The executioners of divine judgment will catch the people as easily as fishers fill their nets, and they will search out any that remain as hunters track down their quarry.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:18 doubly. To the first punishment inflicted on the people in their homeland, the Lord would add a second, unprecedented feature: exile to a foreign land. carcasses. Idols, as helpless and lifeless as dead bodies, polluted the land in the same way that a person became ceremonially unclean by contact with a corpse (cf Nu 19:11–22). inheritance. See "portion," p 7. abominations. See note, Pr 6:16.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:19–20 Looking into the future, Jeremiah rejoiced to see the time coming when all nations would reject their man-made idols and worship the only true God. Jeremiah's vision was fulfilled in Christ.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:21 The Lord assured Jeremiah that the manifestation of His might and power would bring multitudes to know Him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 16:14–21 God's grace will be known by all people—both the Judean exiles returning from a foreign land and by heathen nations who turn to the true God. However, the Lord will first deal with their sin of idolatry by destroying the people of Judah and desolating the land. God's righteousness requires the legal penalty for sin to be paid (cf Rm 6:23a). Yet God delights in mercy. He Himself paid for sin in the cross of Christ and forgives sin through faith in Him (cf Rm 6:23b). • Thank You, heavenly Father, for our Savior Jesus Christ and for Your Holy Spirit, who has brought us to faith and keeps us in the same. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:1 pen of iron … diamond. Their pattern of evil was ingrained as deeply as an inscription chiseled into stone or metal. The Copper Scroll from Qumran (3Q15) and a metallic bottle from Tell Siran, Ammon, are examples of engraved documents. See note, Pr 1:9. horns of their altars. The blood of sacrificial offerings, applied in a purely outward ritual of atonement, could not erase their sins. Only penitent worshipers were assured of forgiveness. Cf Lv 4:7; 16:18; see note, Ex 27:2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:2 Asherim. See note, Ex 34:13. high hills. See p 526.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:4 heritage. See "portion," p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:5 Cursed. See p 6. flesh his strength. Cf Is 40:6; Ps 103:15–16. Trust in human resources is foolish idolatry. Ter: "He forbids all implicit trust in man, and likewise in the applause of man" (ANF 3:369).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:7 Blessed. See p 842.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:9 desperately sick. One word in Hbr, translated "incurable" in 15:18; 30:12. See note, Ps 19:12–13. Chem: "It refers to an incurable evil and a disease for which there is no hope of cure" (LTh 1:288). "Our churches teach that naming every sin is not necessary and that consciences should not be burdened with worry about naming every sin… . If only sins that can be named are forgiven, consciences could never find peace. For many sins cannot be seen or remembered" (AC XXV 7, 9).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:10 Aug: "From You, O Lord, unto whose eyes the depths of man's conscience are naked, what in me could be hidden though I were unwilling to confess to You? For so should I hide You from myself, not myself from You. But now, because my groaning witnesses that I am dissatisfied with myself, You shine forth, and satisfy, and are beloved and desired; that I may blush for myself, and renounce myself, and choose You, and may neither please You nor myself, except in You" (NPNF 1 1:142). Ger: "The omniscient God sees the most intimate, most secret recesses of the heart. We must, then, beware of the hypocrisy that veils the secret wickedness of the heart with the external appearance of honesty" (ThC E2 § 257).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:12 throne. See note, Ezk 10:1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:13 written in the earth. Their sin is recorded in stone (v 1), but their memorial is merely scratched in the dust and so soon forgotten. Yet the Lord writes the names of the repentant in the Book of Life and engraves them on His palms (Rv 21:27; Is 49:16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:1–13 The Lord explains to Jeremiah and His people the severity and magnitude of their sin. Those who turn away from the Lord must perish; only the person who trusts God and follows His Word will survive in eternity. Today, God continues to offer hope to people who turn away from sin and seek His forgiveness. They will be blessed and will flourish by His grace. • Father, do not let the enticements and pressures of the world separate us from You and Your love for us in Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:14 Heal. See note, 6:14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:15–16 Jeremiah pleads for the Lord's understanding while his accusers brand him a false prophet.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:17 refuge. See "rock," p 843.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:18 day of disaster. When Babylon takes Jerusalem. double destruction! See notes, 16:18; Is 40:2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:14–18 Jeremiah prays for vindication from God and for justice against his accusers. He bristles against the injustice of being punished for doing God's will. God's Word often creates opposition in this world, as it did for Jeremiah and even for Jesus (Jn 7:7). Yet God does not abandon His faithful servants, though sometimes they must suffer and even die for their faith. Even then, the Lord is our refuge and strength. • Do not let us become afraid or discouraged, Father, but fill us with courage from Your Holy Spirit. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:19 Jeremiah is to confront the people at the gates of Jerusalem, where they would enter and leave the city. People's Gate. Likely refers to an entrance to be used by all, whether prince or pauper, priest or layperson. Some commentators and translators have confused this gate with the Benjamin Gate (20:2; 37:13) because the Hbr spellings are similar.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:21 burden. Likely consisted of articles to be offered for sale by greedy merchants (cf 6:13; 22:17). Sabbath day. See pp 200–201.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:22 keep the Sabbath. The keeping of this commandment served as a touchstone of obedience (see note, Ex 20:8). Chem: "The general principle is: Do not perform works which hinder the ministry or stubbornly carry on needless labor. For if we are to support the practice of public worship, then we must give up those activities which hinder this worship" (LTh 2:389). holy. See p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:23 stiffened their neck. See note, Ex 32:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:25 sit on the throne of David. Part of David's dynasty. See note, 2Sm 7:11.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:26 See color map 2. offerings. See pp 170–71. frankincense. See note, Lv 2:1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 17:19–27 The Sabbath was a day of rest and worship under Mosaic Law (cf Ex 20:8–11; Dt 5:12–15). God set it aside as a blessing for His people. By continuing commerce on the Sabbath just as on any other day, God's people broke the covenant and turned their backs on Him. Rest and worship are essential for the spiritual health and welfare of God's people. The Gospel of Jesus Christ draws us together in public worship so that we might rejoice in our salvation and return to our callings with renewed confidence. • Our souls are restless, Lord, until they rest in You. Refresh us through Jesus Christ, our Savior. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:1–11 Jeremiah is sent to a potter to receive an object lesson in the principles of divine government, according to which God makes and keeps both His promises and threats.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:1 word that came. See note, 1:9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:3 working at his wheel. Only biblical reference to a potter's wheel for molding clay.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:4–6 Chem: "God has us in His hand as a potter has a lump of clay. He works the clay so we might grow into a holy temple of God, Eph. 2:21. But we, while in the hands of God, who is fashioning us, destroy His work, Rom. 14:20; and God breaks in pieces that ruined vessel and throws it in with the rest of the unformed mass, Ps 2:9. But soon He turned and picked up that clay and 'made it into another vessel as seemed good to Him,' Jer. 18:4… . These words certainly should not be twisted to teach that God is the cause of sin" (LTh 1:199). Ger: "God is an utterly free agent; therefore we should not reduce His works to the calculations of our reason nor rashly demand of Him an account of His actions" (ThC E2 § 284).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:4 The potter did not immediately discard the clay when it turned into an unsatisfactory product. So also the Lord reserves for Himself the right to have mercy on His chosen nation, or any other nation marred by evil.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:7–9 pluck up and break down … build and plant. God uses words by which He called Jeremiah to be His ambassador. See note, 1:10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:8 relent. See pp 1079–80.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:11 Return. See p 1080. amend. Lit, "make good."
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:12 The negative answer Jeremiah received to his solemn declaration from the Lord was evidence that the hearts of his hearers, hardened by stubbornness and self-will, were not malleable for reworking. Cf 7:24; 9:13–14; 11:8; 13:10; 16:12; 23:17.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:13 virgin Israel. See note, 14:17. Israel. See note, Gn 32:28.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:14–15 Contrasts the constancy of inanimate creation with the inconstancy of God's people, who turned away from their Creator to man-made idols.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:14 Sirion? Snow-capped Mount Hermon (see note, Dt 3:8). See also color map 2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:17 east wind. Cf 4:11; see notes, Jb 1:19; 27:21. show them My back. See note, Is 45:15.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:18 Jeremiah's indictment only increased Israel's resistance to being reworked (v 4). The spiritual leaders rejected Jeremiah's claim that they were deceiving the people (cf 4:9–10; 8:8–12; 14:13–18). Hostility toward God's messenger grew from passive stubbornness (v 12) to plots designed to silence him forever. Rather than heed his words, they agreed to use them against him on trumped-up charges. Opponents of Jesus also sought "to trap Him in His talk" and accused Him of serious, punishable offenses (Mk 12:13; cf Lk 23:2).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:19–23 For protection against the wicked leaders and their plots against his life, Jeremiah turns to the Lord, who had promised to protect him and make him strong against his opponents.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:20 pit. Method of trapping animals, commonly mentioned in the Psalms. stood before You. Jeremiah interceded for his people until forbidden to do so (7:16; 11:14).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:21 The punishment God threatened to inflict (and later did) was no less gruesome. Cf 14:16. their children. Lit, "their sons." See note, 6:11.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:22 snares. See note, Ps 64:5.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 18:23 Forgive not. There comes a time when God no longer overlooks the sin of those who harden their hearts (cf Ps 95:8; 2Co 6:1–2; Heb 3:7–18). See notes, 7:16; 15:6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 18 Committed to their idolatry and self-centered lifestyles, the Judeans refuse to respond to the Lord's gracious invitation to repent of their sin. Their rejection of God is plainly seen in their mistreatment of His prophet Jeremiah. Those who proclaim God's Word faithfully will likely face persecution. Yet believers stand in grace, confident of God's love. He makes us a new creation just as a potter reworks a lump of clay. • Anchor us in Christ crucified, O Lord, and keep us faithful to You. Shape our lives through Jesus, our Savior. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:1–13 Jeremiah acted out the threatened punishment of Judah in another dramatized parable. Jeremiah prefaced the symbolic action with a scathing denunciation of his people's heinous crimes.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:1 elders. See p 228.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:2 Potsherd Gate. Likely another name for the Dung Gate, which led to the city dump in the Hinnom Valley (see notes, 2:23; Jsh 18:16; Mk 9:43; cf Ne 2:13; 3:13–14).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:3 Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:4 innocents. Children who did not deserve to be executed.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:5 high places. See p 526. Baal. See note, Nu 25:3. burn their sons. See notes, 2:23; 2Ki 3:27.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:6 See note, Is 30:33.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:8 hissed at. See p 1276.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:10–11 The Egyptians would write curses on clay vessels and then smash them to symbolize the destruction of their enemy. At God's command, Jeremiah performs a similar symbolic act. See p 1220.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:13 host of heaven. See note, Dt 4:19.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:14–15 Jeremiah wanted this oracle of doom to reach the largest possible audience, so he prophesied in the temple court (see note, 7:2), where people gathered for services and festivals.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 19:15 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. stiffened their neck. See note, Ex 32:9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 19 Jeremiah proclaims God's judgment against His people by breaking a piece of pottery near the valley where children had been sacrificed to pagan gods. As Jeremiah breaks the clay vessel, so God will break Jerusalem and reduce the population to destruction. As heinous as their sin is, God stands ready to forgive and save, if only they will repent and return to Him. • Father, turn us away from sin, and bring us back to You each day by Your grace in Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 20 After being flogged, Jeremiah was locked in the stocks overnight in order that his captives might ridicule and discredit him. However, Jeremiah still announced the threat of the apostate nation's doom, even more emphatically and pointedly than before.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:1 Pashhur. Several priests and officials were so named (cf Ne 7:41; 10:3). The name also appears on letters (ostraca) found near the Jerusalem temple. chief officer. Not the high priest but an important administrator.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:2 stocks. Form of public punishment. Benjamin Gate. Apparently the name of two gates: one in the city wall, and the other in the temple precincts. Both faced north. Cf 38:7; see note, 17:19.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:3 Terror On Every Side. By a wordplay on Pashhur's name, the Lord made him the embodiment of the threat of doom. Cf Is 7:3; 8:3–4 for other names as messages.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:4 king of Babylon. Nebuchadnezzar. Cf 2Ki 24–25.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:6 prophesied falsely. Jeremiah did not hold out for personal revenge for his mistreatment by Pashhur. His tormentor was to be exiled and die in Babylon because he contradicted the word of God Jeremiah spoke. Cf 8:11; 14:13; 23:17 for the words of the false prophets.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:7 deceived me. Hbr verb means to persuade a person to take a certain course of action, usually to do wrong. Thus the same word may be used to describe a woman being persuaded to commit adultery or fornication (cf Ex 22:16) and a man alluring a woman to become his wife by speaking tenderly to her (Hos 2:14). Jeremiah is declaring that he did not become a prophet of his own will; he had to be prevailed upon to assume an obligation that brought him nothing but anguish and pain. Chem: "[Jeremiah] is speaking of his prophetic vocation which, since it brings with it much hatred, criticism and dangers, as is clear from the content of the chapter, the prophet is overcome by the weakness of his flesh, but he is not only overcome by these things, but in a certain sense he is even arguing with the Lord" (LTh 1:193). For the deception of false prophets, see note, 1Ki 22:20–22.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:9 burning fire. Though Jeremiah confesses his natural disinclination to be a prophet, he also bears witness to the mystery of divine inspiration. By the miraculous working of God, he became the instrument for the transmission of infallible truth. See note, 2Pt 1:21.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:10 Cf 11:19; 18:18.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:12 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. tests the righteous. See note, Gn 22:1. Your vengeance. See note, 11:18–23.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:13 Prayer not only quieted Jeremiah's fears but also gave him the boldness to "praise the Lord" (see p 843) as if He had already delivered him.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:14–18 The moment he took his eyes off the Lord and became introspective, Jeremiah slipped back into dark brooding over his fate. The sudden change of mood from praising God (v 13) to deep melancholy will not surprise anyone who has wrestled with God in the night watches of doubt; that person knows from experience it is possible to fall into self-pity and rebellious complaint at the very moment when faith seemed to have a strong grip on God's promises.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:14 Cursed be the day. Job spoke the same vehement denunciation of his existence (see note, Jb 3:3), and Elijah prayed to have death end his misery (1Ki 19:4). See "curse," p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:16 cities. Sodom and Gomorrah.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 20:17 He. Refers to the Lord (v 16).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 20 Jeremiah complains bitterly about the opposition he has experienced in response to the dire warnings he preached to the people. His predictions of destruction stand unfulfilled, giving his enemies grounds to beat him, imprison him, and plot against his life. Jeremiah calls on the Lord for help and praises His name, but he cannot help expressing the anger and despair he genuinely feels. Like Jeremiah, we are often weak and fearful in times of crisis because we doubt the Lord and trust in ourselves. When we are weakest, God's strength shines through more clearly (cf 2Co 12:10). He is ever our refuge and strength, who hears our confession and forgives all our sins. • By Your Holy Spirit, Father, keep us strong in faith and grant us the courage to bear the name of Jesus in this evil world. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Chs 21–38 Collection of oracles arising out of the prophet's confrontation with Israel's unfaithful leaders. The Lord of the nations will so direct world history that out of chastened and restored Israel, a righteous Branch will spring up in the person of the messianic King, Prophet, and Priest. See notes, 23:5; Is 11:1. His rule, Word, and sacrifice will provide an escape for all people from the curse of sin. In almost all instances here, the reader is informed at what time or under what circumstances each "word of the Lord came to Jeremiah" (ch 33). Chs 1–20, however, supply little historical data. Nevertheless, events are not arranged exclusively according to their chronological sequence. See "Order and Chronology," p 1203.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:1 King Zedekiah. Cf 2Ki 24:18–25:7. Pashhur. Leader of a delegation. Not the same person mentioned in 20:1.

Zephaniah. May not be the same person referred to as "the second priest" in 52:24.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:2 Inquire of the LORD. See "call," p 842. Nebuchadnezzar. Cf 2Ki 24–25.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:4 Chaldeans. See note, Jb 1:17.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:8–10 The only alternative to facing death was to surrender to the enemy.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:8 life … death. This choice of crucial alternatives is represented as a dilemma.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:9 surrenders. Deserters kept their lives (38:2; 39:9; 52:15). prize of war. Prisoner/slave of the enemy.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:1–10 Through Jeremiah, God reveals His judgment on Jerusalem to the political and religious leaders of Judah: only those who surrender to the Chaldeans will live. God disciplines them for their lack of repentance and for ignoring His warnings. Even during this judgment, mercy and compassion shine through, providing a way of survival. No matter what you face today, call on the Lord with a repentant heart and humbly trust that He has an answer for you. Consider the life and sufferings of Jesus, who humbled Himself to redeem you for your salvation.
• Lord, lead us to heed Your warnings against sin and to live repentant lives according to Your holy will, reflecting Your holiness and loving compassion through Jesus. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:12–14 Even though Zedekiah was a descendant of the house of David, with whom God had made a solemn covenant (2Sm 7:1–17; see "covenant," p 6), he would have no successors. Kings of Israel were not to be arbitrary despots. If they ignored the demand to execute justice, they incurred God's unquenchable wrath. The royal city and palace will not offer protection, though situated on a rock towering over the surrounding plain.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:12 justice in the morning. Justice was urgent business to be transacted without delay (see p 842). deliver. See p 842.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:13 inhabitant of the valley. Jerusalem, rising out of the lower surrounding landscape, appeared to be an impregnable rock. you who say. Jerusalem's leaders.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:14 fire in her forest. Possibly a metaphor, though the hills of Judah may still have been forested at this time. See note, Jsh 17:15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:1 Go down. From the temple area to the royal palace, situated on a lower level.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:3 Do justice. See note, 21:12. justice … righteousness … deliver. See pp 842–43. innocent blood. Even that of a prophet of the Lord (26:20–23).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:5 I swear by Myself. See note, Is 45:23; see also "oath," p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:6–7 Even though the house of the king of Judah was as precious to God as the rich grazing territory of Gilead and the wooded heights of Lebanon were prized by the people, He would not hesitate to let it become a desolation. See color map 2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:7 choicest cedars. As stately trees were felled on Mount Lebanon, so God would cut down the prominent men of state. See note, 1Ki 6:15–22.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:9 covenant. See p 127.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 21:11–22:10 God challenges His people in Jerusalem to keep His covenant by helping other people, protecting the weak and vulnerable, and keeping Him first in their worship and their lives. Keeping the Law means not only avoiding the wrong thing but also includes doing the right thing, such as having mercy (see SC, Fourth through Tenth Commandments, pp xxxv–xxxvi). Such compassion flows directly from a right relationship with God. Today, call on the Lord in repentance and prayer. Jesus redeemed you through His perfect life, death, and resurrection and has sworn to save you. • Father, lead us to treat other people as we want to be treated, loving them as You love us in Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:11–30 Three kings who immediately preceded Zedekiah are dealt with in chronological order (609–597 BC), each one's fate demonstrating how the threat uttered against the whole dynasty would affect the lives of its individual members. Shallum and Jehoiakim were sons of Josiah, during whose 13th year Jeremiah was appointed a prophet (1:2); Coniah was a grandson of the same godly king.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:11 went away. Shallum, aka Jehoahaz, was to be lamented bitterly because he would never again see his native land after Pharaoh Neco deposed him and brought him to Egypt (cf 2Ki 23:31–33).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:13 him. Jehoiakim (cf v 18). Cf 2Ki 23:36–24:6. upper rooms. See note, 2Ki 4:10. serve him for nothing. See notes, 1Ki 5:13; Jer 34:8–9, 15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:14 great house. Archaeologists at Ramat Rahel discovered such a home, with a large gateway, a lime-paved courtyard, fancy capitals, window balustrades, and ashlar masonry. vermilion. Orange-red, made from kermes insects or cinnabar.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:15 compete in cedar? Neco appointed Jehoiakim to rule in his brother Shallum's place. Jehoiakim would be punished for the violence he instigated in order to compete with Solomon's building program. As a result, circumstances at Jehoiakim's death were such that a decent burial was impossible (36:30; cf 2Ki 23:36–24:6). justice and righteousness? See p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:20–23 Inhabitants of Jerusalem are dispersed. Misled by false leaders (shepherds), they will suffer the consequences of their evil.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:20 lovers. Denotes idols (3:1) and foreign allies (4:30; 30:14); here it parallels "shepherds" (v 22).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:22 wind … shepherds. Babylonians would blow away Judah's corrupt leaders. lovers. See note, v 20.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:23 O inhabitant … among the cedars. The king and his nobles felt themselves as secure as birds in their nest high in the cedars of Lebanon.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:24–30 Coniah (Jeconiah; aka Jehoiachin) ruled only three months before he and his mother were taken to Babylon (see notes, 2Ki 24:8–13).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:24 signet ring. See notes, 32:10; Gn 38:18.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:26 mother. See note, 13:18; cf 2Ki 24:8.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:30 childless. Presented as a curse. See "curse," p 6. No descendant would bear the royal title, though he was to have children (1Ch 3:17–18), and his grandson Zerubbabel was to play a prominent role after the Babylonian exile (Ezr 3; Hg 1:1; 2:2).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 22:11–30 Jeremiah condemns Israel's leaders for their obsession with wealth and power and, at the same time, neglect and abuse of the needy. God tells these powerful people that they will not enjoy their dishonest gains. People worship the same things today, sacrificing integrity and compassion for temporary riches. Jesus, having all things, avoids the deceit of wealth and power (Mt 4:8–10), remaining faithful to the plan of salvation by going to the cross to save us from our sinful deceptions. • Lord, faithful Shepherd, lead us to treasure people more than things. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:1–2 Arraignment of the wicked shepherds extends into the opening verses of ch 23. God will punish them as they deserve for neglect of their duties. See note, Ezk 34:2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:3–4 remnant. See p 1080. God will not let their wickedness frustrate His announced purpose to let Abraham's descendants be instrumental in blessing "all the families of the earth" (see note, Gn 12:3). To pursue His plan of salvation (Gn 17:19), He will first bring back a remnant from the Babylonian captivity.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:4 shepherds. Cf Ezk 34 for an expanded prophecy of the Good Shepherd; cf Jn 10:1–18 for its fulfillment. Cf Ps 80:1; 95:7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:5 days are coming. The language and concepts of the prophecy range back and forth between preliminary and final fulfillment, between shadow and the substance of what is to come (Col 2:17). On prophetic perspective, see p 1258. righteous Branch. The Lord will shape history so that "the days are coming" when He will establish His messianic kingdom on earth. From the root of David's lineage, He will let spring forth a branch, or descendant. Unlike Israel's kings, He is righteous in His person (cf Zec 3:8; 6:12; Is 9:7; see note, Is 11:1). As indicated by His name, His subjects will also derive a unique benefit from His reign. For claiming His merits before the judgment seat of God, they, the unrighteous, will be declared righteous (Rm 3:21–26). justice and righteousness. See p 843.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:6 saved. See "salvation," p 843. Israel and Judah, reunited to become one nation, are a pledge of the spiritual unity of the messianic kingdom. Saved from extinction in Babylon, the people of Israel foreshadow the perfect bliss awaiting the new Israel, the Church. The rule of good shepherds reaches its fullness when Jesus Christ will effect justice and righteousness (v 5). The Lord is our righteousness. Through Him, we become righteous in God's sight. "Christ alone is our Righteousness, who is true God and man, because in Him the divine and human natures are personally united with each other" (FC Ep III 1).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:7–8 As the Lord lives. An oath formula. See "oath," p 7. north country. The direction of return from Babylon.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:1–8 God promises to give His people a new and righteous King who will save and protect them as long as He reigns over them. Jesus, the Good Shepherd, is this King, and He draws all believers together in one flock of faith, laying down His life for them and taking it up again (Jn 10). • Dear Jesus, keep us in Your flock, safe from all harm and danger. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:9 Introduces an undated oracle. prophets. God entrusted the spiritual welfare of His people to them. They desecrated their sacred office with false teaching and immoral living (2:8, 26; 5:31; 14:13–16; 27:9–10, 16–18; 32:31–32). like a drunken man. See note, Is 51:17.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:10 adulterers. Cf 3:8–9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:11 in My house. Idols were placed even in the temple (2Ki 21:5).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:13 prophets of Samaria. See note, 1Ki 18:19. Baal. See note, Nu 25:3.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:15 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. bitter food. See note, Pr 5:4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:16 Do not listen. Cf 5:13.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:17 It shall be well. Irresponsible coddling of evildoers. See note, 6:14; cf 14:13; Is 30:10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:18 in the council of the Lord. They did not associate with the Lord like the prophets to whom He entrusted the task of "revealing His secret" (Am 3:7). See note, Jb 15:8.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:19 the storm of the Lord! Same threat is found in 30:23–24.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:20 In the latter days. See note, Is 2:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:21 they ran. As messengers. See pp 1081–83.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:22 My council. See note, v 18. turned. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:23–24 See notes, Ps 139:5, 7. fill heaven and earth? Luth: "Now, if someone has Him who fills all things, he has more than the whole world. He has the real Fountain, not merely a spoonful, which is what the world would be in comparison with this Fountain. Even if God gives much—a kingdom, Persia, the papacy, an empire—it is still only a small leftover, a bit of bread, a spoonful, a mouthful. It is not the real Fountain but only a piece that He gives everyone and tosses up for scrambles. But when a man has Him who has more than He can give away, as the saying goes, then his heart knows that he has a gracious God and all things in Him. What could such a heart ever lack?" (AE 13:405–6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:25 I have dreamed. See p 74.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:27 forget My name. Prophets who taught contrary to the doctrines revealed by God were to be branded impostors (see note, Dt 18:22). Baal? See note, Nu 25:3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:28 speak My word faithfully. God works through His powerful Word. Corruption of His Word leads to confused teaching, hence the responsibility of godly teachers is great. See notes, Dt 18:18–20. straw … wheat? Contrast between the less useful straw and the precious, life-giving Word of God that nourishes faith. See note, Ps 1:4.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:29 "This is God's thunderbolt. By the Law He strikes down both obvious sinners and false saints. He declares no one to be in the right, but drives them all together to terror and despair. This is the hammer… . This is not active contrition or manufactured repentance. It is passive contrition, true sorrow of heart, suffering, and the sensation of death" (SA III III 2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:33 burden. Hbr ordinarily denotes a weight or load carried by man or beast of burden (17:21; 2Ki 5:17). Also has the transferred meaning of message or utterance (see p 1079). Jer 23:33–40 plays on its double meaning. cast you off. Cf Dt 1:31.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:36 the living God. See note, Jsh 3:10. LORD of hosts. See p 1291.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 23:9–40 God condemns the spiritual leaders of Judah for misleading His people. They should have warned sinners of the impending judgment, but they did not, allowing the people to slide into idolatry and immorality. (Pray for pastors and other spiritual leaders, that they may fulfill their important callings.) The Law is to be preached to unrepentant sinners, no matter how painful it may be, so that people are not deceived. The Gospel is to be preached to spirits crushed by the Law, bringing light and life through faith in Jesus Christ, our Savior. • Lord, when we stray, may Your Law show us our sin. Always keep before us the Gospel, the wonderful cross of Christ crucified for sinners. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 24 Unlike false prophets (ch 22), Jeremiah stood in the council of the Lord (23:18); he was given a vision of the true course of events in Israel's future.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:1 Nebuchadnezzar … Jeconiah. See note, 22:24–30. figs. Other ordinary objects given parabolic meaning were an almond tree (1:11), a boiling pot (1:13), a potter's vessels (chs 18–19), and a yoke (27:2). See p 1220.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:2 first-ripe figs. Considered a delicacy (Hos 9:10). Perhaps offered as "firstfruits" (Ex 23:19; see p 6). If the bad figs were meant to serve the same purpose, they would have been a blatant expression of contempt for the Lord. Sacrificing blemished offerings was an abomination to Him (Mal 1:6–14). See note, Mk 11:13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:5 The Lord will regard as good figs the exiles whom Nebuchadnezzar had brought to Babylon when he removed Coniah (Jeconiah; aka Jehoiachin) and the skilled craftsmen from Jerusalem (22:24–25; 2Ki 24:10–16). Chastised, humbled, repentant, these returning exiles will receive the new heart the Lord will give them.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:7 a heart to know. See notes, 31:33; Ezk 36:26.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:8 Bad figs are the people in Jerusalem who have escaped captivity. Because they remain self-righteous and impenitent, they shall be destroyed (cf Dt 28:37). Zedekiah. Cf 2Ki 24:18–25:7. remnant. God intended that some Judeans would remain in the land (Jer 44:7) to be joined by those who had been exiled. See p 1080. in the land of Egypt. Those who were taken there by Pharaoh Neco (see note, 22:10; cf 2Ki 23:31–34) or who fled there to escape the Babylonians.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 24:9 The suffering of the Judeans would become proverbial, like the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah (23:14; 50:40). This idea becomes a theme in Jer, expressed in a litany of terms: byword, curse, desolation, execration, hissing, horror, oath, reproach, taunt, terror, and waste (44:8, 22). See "curse," p 6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 24 The Lord tells Jeremiah that He will safeguard the Judean people sent into Babylonian exile in 587 BC, but that His wrath remains on those still in Jerusalem. The good—the faithful—will return. Today, the Lord calls us to repent of our sin and serve Him by faith. He graciously gives us His own heart and faithfulness in His Son born of David's line. • Father, keep us faithful by Your Holy Spirit, and direct our lives, redeemed by Your grace in Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:1 word that came. See p 1080. fourth year of Jehoiakim. C 605 BC.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:3 twenty-three years. God called Jeremiah to be a prophet in 628 BC.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:5 Turn. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:6 work of your hands. Idols (1:16; 10:3–5).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:8 LORD of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:9 tribes of the north. Allies of Babylon. Nebuchadnezzar … My servant. See note, Is 42:1. At that moment, he was marching southward from Carchemish on the Upper Euphrates, where he had defeated Pharaoh Neco in 605 BC (46:2; 2Ki 23:29). devote … to destruction. See p 6. hissing. See p 1276.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:10 the millstones and … the lamp. Dead stillness and unrelieved darkness will replace mirth and gladness.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:11 seventy years. See notes, 2Ch 36:21; Is 23:15; Dn 9:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:13 in this book. The king burned the record of all the words God spoke to Jeremiah until the fourth year of Jehoiakim, so Baruch had to prepare another scroll at Jeremiah's dictation (ch 36). The phrase "as at this day" (v 18) may have been incorporated in the later edition. On the LXX text, see note, v 17; see also "State of the LXX Text," p 1204.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:14 them. Babylonians.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:1–14 In a prophecy dating to 605 BC, God warns His people that He will soon destroy Jerusalem because of their idolatry and immorality. Ultimately, His judgment will fall on all nations, including Babylon. God, righteous and holy, must punish sin. Even if God's justice seems to delay, it always accomplishes its purpose. The Law must do its work, yet God also has His Gospel. Jesus Christ is working a better work, saving all who repent and believe in Him. • Lord, turn us from our sins, and keep us steadfast in Your grace through faith in Christ Jesus, our Lord. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:15 this cup … of wrath. See note, 13:13. The desolation awaiting them is described frequently this way, which Jeremiah, acting as divine cupbearer, will force them to drink. No nation, whether Egypt and Babylon or one of the lesser states, will be able to refuse to accept the cup.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:17 all the nations. In the following verses, they are listed according to their location in a line running from south (southeast and southwest) to north (northeast and northwest). For the oracles addressed to them all, cf chs 46–51. In the LXX, these oracles are found following the words "written in this book" (25:13). See "oracle," p 1079.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:18 See note, 24:9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:19–25 See map, p 717.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:23 cut … hair. See note, 9:26.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:26 Babylon. Hbr sheshach, a cryptogram that uses a coded way of spelling known as Athbash. The last letter of the alphabet was substituted for the first, and the second last for the second, etc.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:28 LORD of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:30–31 Lest anyone think the fate of kingdoms and empires, mentioned by way of example, is merely an accident of history, Jeremiah is instructed to explain the causes of their downfall. Doom falls, not only on the people of his fold, but also on all the earth. The Lord insists on judgment with all according to unalterable laws of justice. No resistance is possible, for He issues thundering, resounding commands from on high. Cf Jl 2:11.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:30 roar … shout. Scornful of any attempted opposition, He has reason to shout. Cf Jl 2:11.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:32–33 Judgment will be so devastating that there will be no survivors to bury.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:34–38 So certain is the threatened destruction that the prophet can call on the shepherds or kings to wail as if they and their flock had already suffered. See note, 2:8.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 25:15–38 God warns all people that He will bring judgment to all the nations of the world. Implicit in the warning is a call to repentance and faith, the only way of salvation on the day of divine judgment. Like individual people, nations have gone their way without regard for God. Idolatry and immorality, including abuse and neglect of the poor, will be severely punished in the end. Ultimately, Jesus pays for the sins of all people and every nation by His death on the cross. Throughout these warnings to the nations, God's promise of a Savior continues to shine through. • Father, may Your Gospel go forth for all nations. Turn our own nation to righteousness, and grant us Your continued blessing. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:1–11 “The Levitical high priest was the chief priest by divine right [Leviticus 8], and yet godless high priests were not to be obeyed. As Jeremiah and other prophets dissented from the high priests [Jeremiah 26:1–11], so the apostles dissented from Caiaphas and did not have to obey him [Acts 4:19–20; 5:29]” (Tr 38).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:1 Jehoiakim. Cf 2Ki 23:36–24:6. this word. Historical context possibly related earlier. See note, 7:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:2 court. See p 842.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:3 relent. See pp 1079–80.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:4 walk in My law. See p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:6 Shiloh. See note, 7:12. a curse. Jerusalem’s destruction will become proverbial. See note, 24:9. When uttering a curse, nations will say: “Let Jerusalem’s fate overtake you.” See p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:7–9 A mob demanded that Jeremiah be executed for uttering blasphemy against God’s holy habitation (Dt 18:20).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:9 house. The temple.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:10 the New Gate. Known perhaps also as “the upper Benjamin Gate” (see note, 20:2).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:13 relent. See pp 1079–80.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:1–15 God sends Jeremiah to warn the people about the destruction of Jerusalem and its temple due to their sin. If they confess their sin, God will forgive them and spare them. For Jeremiah’s faithful proclamation, he is arrested and tried for treason (a capital crime). Hard hearts resist every overture of mercy from God and ignore all His warnings of impending judgment. God’s heart longs to forgive sinners, even though they resist His Word and murder His prophets. Today, know that the Lord has set His heart on you. Call on Him in repentance and faith, through Christ. • Father, open our ears to hear You clearly, and lead us every day in the way of faith and obedience, through Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:16–19 The judges did not impose the death sentence, basing their verdict of not guilty on a precedent that occurred over a century earlier. At that time, King Hezekiah did not put the prophet Micah to death when he spoke similar threats against Zion and Jerusalem. Regarding Micah, see pp 1485–86.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:18 See note, Mi 3:12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:19 fear. See p 1001. favor. See p 6. relent. See pp 1079–80.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:20–23 Jeremiah's life had indeed hung by a thread, as a recent incident showed. Another man, Uriah, was put to death because the king regarded the Lord's spokesman guilty of treason. Jehoiakim had Uriah executed like a common criminal. Uriah is unknown except for the reference here to his tragic death.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:20 Kiriath-jearim. Northwest of Jerusalem. See map, p 365. The ark of the covenant was lodged there during Samuel's time.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:21 Jehoiakim. Cf 2Ki 23:36–24:6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:22 Elnathan. Member of the delegation sent to Egypt to bring Uriah back; he later gave good advice to the king.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:23 took Uriah. Because favorable diplomatic relations with Egypt existed at this time, the requested extradition was granted. burial place. The executed criminal was not accorded a resting place in a family sepulchre but was thrown into a common grave. common people. Lit, "sons of the people," which could refer to the landholders of the upper class. However, the common burial ground in the Kidron Valley seems the more likely place of Uriah's burial (cf 2Ki 23:6).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:24 Ahikam. His father, Shaphan, was a trusted official of King Josiah. His son Gedaliah, appointed governor by Nebuchadnezzar, respected Jeremiah (39:14; 2Ki 25:22).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 26:16–24 Jeremiah narrowly escapes the death penalty under wicked King Jehoiakim when a high court official, Ahikam, and others intercede for him. Faithful proclamation of God's Word often brings serious, even fatal, opposition by the worldly powers. Despite this, faithfully defend those wrongly accused, and pray for fellow Christians who face persecution. God often rescues His people from physical harm, but the greater blessing is that He rescues you from eternal condemnation through Jesus Christ. • Lord, by Your Spirit, make us faithful bearers of Your Word, no matter what troubles it causes. In Jesus' name. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Chs 27–28 594 BC. Another confrontation between Jeremiah and the purveyors of false teachings (cf ch 26).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:1–11 straps and yoke-bars. Used to harness oxen to plow or wagon. At the Lord's command, Jeremiah used a visual aid to demonstrate the futility of joining other nations in resistance to Babylon.

This device of animal servitude was to symbolize the subjugation of all to the will of Nebuchadnezzar. All efforts to shake off this yoke would end in disaster, for the Babylonian king himself was God's servant (see note, 25:9). The Babylonian Empire would exist only until it had served His purpose. Then it, in turn, would become the slave of other nations.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:1 Zedekiah. The reading "Jehoiakim" (see ESV note) is likely a scribal error (cf vv 3, 12). On Zedekiah, cf 2Ki 24:18–25:7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:2 See p 1220.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:3 Moab … Tyre … Sidon. See color map 2.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:4 Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:5 arm. See p 842; see also note, Is 5:25. I give it to whomever. See note, Ps 50:10.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:7 It was suicide to oppose the might of Nebuchadnezzar. The Babylonian Empire would dominate the ancient world for a period of three generations. Then a coalition of many nations under the leadership of the great kings of the Medes and the Persians was destined to make a slave of the lordly nation. See note, 50:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:8 pestilence. See note, Ps 91:3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:9 See note, Dt 18:10–11.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:12–15 Lest the king of Judah follow the advice of false prophets who urged him and the people not to surrender to Babylon, Jeremiah warned Zedekiah of the catastrophe in store for any nation that does not obey.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:16–22 Jeremiah countered the delusion of the false prophets with the warning that rebellion against Nebuchadnezzar would make a desolation of Jerusalem.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:16 vessels. Cf 1Ki 7:15–39.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:19 See diagrams, pp 541, 672.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:20 Jeconiah. Or, Jehoiachin. nobles. See p 228.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 27:22 carried to Babylon. For the fulfillment, cf 2Ki 25:13–17. For the promised return, cf Ezr 1:2–7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 27 Jeremiah predicts that God will let all who submit to the Babylonians live in their own land safely. To accomplish His purposes, the Lord uses people and nations and empires. The way of salvation is the way of humility and repentance: receiving God's Word by faith and walking in His ways. Pray daily for faithful leaders. Thanks be to God that, despite evil worldly leaders, the Gospel prospers and bears fruit among us. • Bless us, heavenly Father, with humility and faith in You as nations and kingdoms rise and fall, knowing You are at work for the salvation of souls. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:1 Hananiah. Spokesman for the false prophets. Except for the part he played in this incident, nothing is known of him. Gibeon. C 6 mi NW of Jerusalem. house of the LORD. The temple.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:2–4 Before the same audience of priests and people (27:16), the impostor declared that the Lord already was ending the Babylonian servitude.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:6–9 Jeremiah's response was marked by restraint. Nothing would have pleased him more than to affirm the prediction of an immediate deliverance of the people he loved so dearly.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:9 The future would demonstrate which prophet the Lord had truly sent. See notes, Dt 18:9, 10–11; cf Dt 13:1–3.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:12 Sometime after. Jeremiah did not refute Hananiah on his own authority but waited for a divinely inspired rebuttal, as he did on a later occasion (42:7). word of the LORD came. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:14 LORD of hosts. See p 1291. given … even the beasts. Near Eastern artwork depicts elaborate royal hunts.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:15–17 Because Hananiah made people trust in a lie, he would not live the two years (v 3) within which his prediction was to have come true.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:16 Teaching false doctrine is not a trifling misdemeanor but a heinous crime because it misleads people to defy the will of God. Dire punishment awaits such perverters of the truth (29:21–22).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 28:17 seventh month. Tishri (Sept/Oct 594 BC).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 28 In 594 BC, Hananiah falsely predicts the return of the temple furnishings taken to Babylon in 597 BC and the Judean captives. Jeremiah warns the populace of Jerusalem that the worst is yet to come. God does not deal with sin merely with a "slap on the wrist" (as Hananiah thought). The wages of sin is death (Rm 6:23a). However, God does not delight in punishing sinners. He also sends true prophets and faithful ministers to turn people from death to life—God's gift to us in Christ Jesus (Rm 6:23b). • Teach us, Lord, to avoid sin and wait upon Your Word, that we may have life in Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:1 Jeremiah's prophecies of certain disaster met with opposition and ridicule, not only at home, but also in Babylon, where King Jehoiachin, influential people of Judah, and skilled craftsmen were exiled prisoners of Nebuchadnezzar. letter. Written after 597 BC. Jeremiah's letter would reach them by the same couriers who bore an official communication from King Zedekiah to Nebuchadnezzar (v 3). surviving elders. Lit, "the rest of the elders." Some would have succumbed to the rigors of the forced march from Jerusalem.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:2 queen mother. See note, 13:18. eunuchs. Translated "officers" in 39:3. Cf 41:16; see p 228.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:3 Perhaps Zedekiah was sending tribute to Babylon, or the delegation was to assure Nebuchadnezzar of his refusal to support the plot instigated by the neighboring states (27:1–7). The bearers of the letter seem to have sided with Jeremiah. Elasah. May have been a brother of Ahikam, who befriended the prophet (26:24). Hilkiah. Probably the high priest during the reign of Josiah (2Ki 22:4, 8).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:5–9 Instead of believing the false prophets whom God did not send, the exiles were to engage in activities that anticipated a prolonged sojourn on foreign soil, such as building houses, planting gardens, and founding families.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:7 pray. For Babylon.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:8 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. prophets … diviners. See note, Dt 18:10–11. dreams. See p 74.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:10 seventy years. See note, 25:11. visit. Cf 15:15.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:11 There was indeed a future and hope in God's plans for the exiled people. However, only after many years would the chastisement produce the desired change in their lives. When they would again turn to the Lord with all their heart, He would keep His promise to bring them back to their homeland. welfare. See "peace," p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:14 restore your fortunes. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:15–23 From a brief assurance of eventual welfare (vv 10–14), Jeremiah abruptly reverts to a denunciation of the prophets who, at home and abroad, deny the necessity of repentance to avert God's judgment on an apostate nation. Cf ch 24.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:16 the king. Zedekiah. Jeremiah personally delivered the same threat to the king (27:12–15).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:17 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. vile figs. Cf ch 24.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:18 See note, 24:9.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:20 you exiles. Cf v 1.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:21–22 Nothing more is known of Ahab and Zedekiah except this prophecy of their execution by fire. Cf Dn 3:19–23.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:21 Maaseiah. Cf v 25; see note, 35:4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:22 curse. See p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:23 an outrageous thing. Denoting more than an indiscretion, this term describes wanton crimes. I am witness. The Lord testifies against them, approving their condemnation.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:1–23 The future of God's people lies with the exiles, taken from Jerusalem to Babylon in 587 BC. God's judgment must fall upon His rebellious people. Yet God's favor rests upon the exiles, and they are encouraged to settle down for a long stay, after which God will return them to Jerusalem. God will restore them to the Promised Land and ultimately bring from their descendants a Savior for all the people. He keeps His promises. • Fulfill Your plans for us, O Lord, and guide us to make plans that agree with Your will. Teach us to trust Your decisions for our lives; through Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:24–28 In reply to Jeremiah's letter, another impostor named Shemaiah wrote from Babylon reproving priests in Jerusalem for not silencing the madman (Jeremiah), who prophesied that the exile will be long.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:24 Shemaiah. A false prophet.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:25 letters. See note, v 1. Zephaniah. See 21:1 and note. Maaseiah. See note, 35:4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:26 Jehoiada. Cf 2Ki 11–12. charge in the house of the Lord. His work at the temple is not described. Cf 1Ch 9:23; 2Ch 23:18; 24:12. madman. Cf 1Sm 21:13–15. stocks and neck irons. See note, Jer 20:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:27 Jeremiah of Anathoth. See pp 1202–4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:29 Zephaniah. See note, 21:1.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:30 word of the Lord came. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 29:24–32 An opposition figure in Babylon (Shemaiah) tries to make trouble for Jeremiah back in Jerusalem, responding to an earlier letter of Jeremiah to the Babylonian exiles. Leaders of God's people carry a tremendous responsibility to speak only God's Word and not their own doctrines. Pray that the Lord would guide your words and deeds as you care for those entrusted to your leadership in family, church, or society. Take heart, knowing that God's Word prevails, stronger than any opposing force, and it accomplishes its purpose: your salvation. • Keep us steadfast in Your Word of truth, O Lord. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Chs 30–33 Known as Jeremiah's "book of comfort," which beautifully proclaims the Gospel in contrast to the majority of the prophet's message. See pp 1202–6. On its date, cf 32:1.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 30 The vision of future blessings accorded Jeremiah ranges in scope and time from Israel's national restoration in the more immediate future to mankind's liberation from spiritual bondage in the messianic age. He need not fear that time will prove Jeremiah wrong. The Lord ordered him to record his prophecy, for it will stand the test of ages to come. The vantage point in time from which the vision proceeds is the exile. The dispersion of the "chosen" (see "choose," p 5) had not only occurred, as predicted, but was also about to end, as God said it would, after achieving its chastening purpose.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:2 book. Lit, "scroll." See notes, 25:13; 36:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:3 days are coming. They begin with the day of Babylon's overthrow and extend into "the latter days" of the messianic era (vv 8, 24; 23:7–8; 31:31). restore the fortunes. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:6 woman in labor? Common biblical metaphor of distress. See "woman in labor," p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:7 The Lord will shape events so that they shall be saved. He will use the events to initiate that day when He will raise up a Son of David whose universal kingdom will have no end. That day. See "day of the LORD," p 1079. Jacob. The promise of restoration is made not only to the 10 tribes of the Northern Kingdom, often called Jacob or Israel (see note, Gn 32:28), but to both Israel and Judah (v 3; see note, 3:7). saved. See "salvation," p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:8 his yoke. Babylon would fall. See p 1220.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:9 David. The "righteous Branch" to arise from David's lineage here bears the name of His royal ancestor (Lk 1:32– 33). See notes, 2Sm 7:11–14.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:10–11 Jeremiah assures the captive Israelites of God's power and will that the descendants of Jacob will not vanish from history, as their oppressors will. Justly chastened but graciously returned, the survivors of the exile will again be accorded the status of God's servants and entrusted with the roles for which He chose them.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:10 save. See "salvation," p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:11 I am with you. See "be with," p 5. save. See "salvation," p 843.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:12 Cf 6:7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:14 lovers. Allies. See note, 22:20.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:17 See note, Dt 32:39.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:18–22 Jeremiah is granted a view of the results of God's intervention on behalf of His stricken people. Brought back to their homeland, they will rebuild the city of Jerusalem, raise songs of thanksgiving for their restored fortunes, and become an established "congregation." See "great congregation," p 842. However, their physical and national well-being is not to be an end in itself.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:18 restore the fortunes. See p 1080. tents of Jacob. Cf Is 54:2. compassion. See "mercy," pp 842–43. mound. Cities stood on hills known today as "tells."
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:21 prince … ruler. See p 228; see also note, Mi 5:4–5a. approach Me. The high priest of the old covenant dared not, on pain of death, draw near the holy God by virtue of his own authority and character. The Ruler and Prince to come, combining royal and priestly functions, will have access to the divine throne (Heb 7:26).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:22 My people. See note, Hos 2:23.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:23 whirling tempest. See note, Jb 38:1.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 30:24 In the latter days. See note, Is 2:2. The prophets commonly divide time into two periods: former and latter, or beginning and end (cf Dt 11:12). See p 1079.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 30 God tells Jeremiah to write down the prophecy of a future restoration. God will anoint a King to rule over His people, and the community will live in peace. God's greater purpose of salvation will be accomplished in spite of the people's sin. He will rescue His people and reign over them through David's descendant, the Messiah.

• Keep our hearts, O Lord, filled with the joy of our salvation and the confidence of Your love for us in Jesus Christ. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:1 At that time. See "on that day," p 1079. clans. See pp 54–55.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:3 faithfulness. See p 842. Hus: "The whole holy catholic church always has had and now has Christ as its head, from whom it cannot fall away, for she is the bride knit to him, her head, by a love that never ends… . Therefore, always, from the very beginning, the bridegroom has been present with the whole church by virtue of his divinity, who later was with the holy fathers by virtue of his humanity" (The Church, p 29).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:4 build. See note, 1:10. virgin Israel! See note, 14:17. tambourines … dance. See p 993.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:6 watchmen. See note, Is 21:6–12. hill country of Ephraim. See color map 2; see also "Ephraim," p 1080. up to Zion. See notes, Ps 120–34; Jer 31:12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:7 chief of the nations. Israel owed its preeminence solely to its choice by the Lord to be His instrument in blessing all nations. This undeserved distinction accounts for similar titles of honor (cf vv 9, 20). save. See "salvation," p 843. remnant. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:8 north country. The direction traveled to Assyria and Babylon. See map, p 1396. blind … lame … pregnant. None are left behind.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:9 mercy. See pp 842–43. My firstborn. See p 6; see also note, Ex 4:22.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:11 ransomed … redeemed. See p 843.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:12 Zion. See p 844. The healing of the breach between the Northern Kingdom (Israel, Ephraim, Samaria) and the Southern Kingdom (Judah) was to reestablish joint worship on the height of Zion. The restored unity of faith also foreshadowed the common bonds of fellowship, by which God would link all believers with one another in a communion of saints, redeemed from the bondage of sin by His Son (Jn 10:16).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:13 dance. See p 993. comfort. See p 1079.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:14 feast the soul. From a restored prosperity, the people would be able to supply the sustenance of the priests as required by the Law (cf Lv 7:34). See pp 170–71.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:15–17 All this demands faith in God's promises. There was nothing on the contemporary scene even to suggest such a reversal of history. For if Rachel, ancestor of Benjamin and some northern tribes, were still alive, she would be heard weeping for those slain, dragged into captivity and gone for good. However, the Lord would also tell her to dry her tears, for her offspring would return.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:15 Anticipates the circumstances of Jesus' birth (Mt 2). Ramah. There are several Ramahs (Hbr "height"; general expression). Jeremiah refers to Ramah in Benjamin, a tribe born from Rachel, who was absorbed by Judah and passed with the Judeans into exile. This Ramah is c 10 mi N of Jerusalem and is on a road running from Bethlehem through Jerusalem up to Ramah. Rachel was buried along this road (Gn 35:19) after giving birth to Benjamin and naming him Ben-oni, "son of my troubles" (hence Jeremiah's reference to weeping). Rachel died while bearing a child at Ramah when she and her husband, Jacob, were on their way to Bethlehem (Gn 35:16; 1Sm 10:2). Rachel is weeping. Over the loss of her descendants to a ruthless conqueror (Babylon). She will shed bitter tears again when the mothers of Bethlehem lament the death of their infant sons killed by Herod (Mt 2:17–18). In sum, Rachel literally wept at Bethlehem over Benjamin (Gn 35), her daughters—Benjaminites—weep over the exile as they join the Judeans marching away (Jer 31), and the weeping is raised again from Bethlehem to Ramah as news spreads about the slaughter of the holy innocents (Mt 2).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:16 your work. Her labors in rearing sons will not be in vain, for a remnant will survive and come back to their own country.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:18–19 "Our election to eternal life is founded not on our godliness or virtue, but on Christ's merit alone and His Father's gracious will… . When His children depart from obedience and stumble, He has called them to repentance again through the Word, and the Holy Spirit wants by the Word to be effective in them for conversion. When they turn to Him [Jeremiah 31:18–19] again in true repentance by a right faith, He will always show His old paternal heart to all who tremble at His Word and from their heart turn again to Him" (FC SD XI 75).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:18 like an untrained calf. Resisting the discipline of bearing a yoke. bring me back … restored. Hbr verb is repeated, which frequently denotes a turning back to the Lord in repentance

(3:12, 14, 22). Now chastened and ashamed, they implore the Lord that they be restored to fellowship with Him. Restoration, whether physical or spiritual, is possible only if the Lord brings it about. See "restore the fortunes," p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:19 "The entire notion that a person is righteous is mere hypocrisy before God. We must acknowledge that our heart is, by nature, destitute of fear, love, and confidence in God" (Ap II 33).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:20 dear son? … darling child? The Lord hears their penitent pleas and holds introspection with Himself. His readiness to treat them again as a dear son and a darling child in spite of their insolent waywardness is a mystery of love that defies rational explanation. See note, Hos 11:1. mercy. See pp 842–43. Ambr: "Let us, then, submit ourselves to God, and not be subject to sin, and when we ponder the remembrance of our offences, let us blush as though at some disgrace, and not speak of them as a glory to us, as some boast of overcoming modesty, or putting down the feeling of justice. Let our conversion be such, that we who did not know God may now ourselves declare Him to others" (NPNF 2 10:350).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:21 He is about to summon the reclaimed "virgin Israel" to set out at once on the journey to her own cities. See note, Is 35:8.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:22 faithless daughter? Israel is unwilling to believe the Lord's promises. a woman encircles a man. Or, "a woman embraces a man." It certainly means the restoration of Israel will have unprecedented character. In order to overcome misgivings and unbelief, the Lord graciously lets Jeremiah repeat the promise of redemption in five more oracles (vv 23–40). See pp 1202–6.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:23 Lord of hosts. See p 1291. restore their fortunes. See p 1080. bless … righteousness. See pp 842–43. holy hill! Zion. See p 844.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:26 I awoke. The revelation accorded Jeremiah was like a pleasant dream. So Jacob "awoke from his sleep" in which he was granted a dream/vision (Gn 28:16). See p 74.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:27–30 In his second oracle, he says the land of Israel and Judah will be repopulated and made prosperous, each citizen recognizing his individual responsibility in the community.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:27 seed of man and … of beast. The human population and herds of animals will increase as if springing up from seed scattered over the land by the Lord.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:29 Proverbial saying. If people wanted to claim to be the victims of a miscarriage of justice, they quoted this proverb about children experiencing trouble for something their fathers had done. In the restoration to God's favor (32:38), the redeemed would no longer quote this saying (cf Dt 24:16; Ezk 18) or shrug off personal responsibility for their misdeeds. set on edge. Or, "become blunt," perhaps referring to the wincing or grimace of someone tasting something sour.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:30 die for his own sin. See note, Ex 20:5; cf Jer 32:18. Chem: "In Christ a person does not bear the iniquity of the father, because it has been taken away" (LTh 1:301).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:1–30 The Lord promises to restore His people to the Promised Land after the exile in Babylon. The exile is temporary, for God Himself will save the remnant and return them to their home. God could destroy them for their sin, but out of deep love and compassion He merely disciplines them with exile and even gives them the hope of return. Our Lord disciplines us for a time that we might walk by faith. In Christ, the discipline of God works for our benefit. • Dear Father, when our lives are dark with fear and uncertainty, keep the light of Your love for us in Jesus Christ before our eyes. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:31–34 In Jeremiah's third oracle, the Lord will create also the kind of spiritual reconstruction necessary for the exiles to be His people and He their God.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:31 a new covenant. See p 127. What God agreed to do to enable Israel and all sinners to become His people became a reality in that new covenant sealed with the blood of Jesus, the only mediator between God and man (cf 1Co 11:25). Iren: "One and the same householder produced both covenants, the Word of God, our Lord Jesus Christ, who spake with both Abraham and Moses, and who has restored us anew to liberty, and has multiplied that grace which is from Himself" (ANF 1:472). See pp xlv–xlvii.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:32 husband. See note, Hos 2:16.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:33 the house of Israel. Just: "The true spiritual Israel, and descendants of Judah, Jacob, Isaac, and Abraham … are we who have been led to God through this crucified Christ" (ANF 1:200). My law.

See p 971. within them … on their hearts. God's creative and transforming inscription of His will on the people was necessary because the root of their sin lay in their perverse and stubborn will to follow their own evil heart, as Jeremiah often pointed out (3:17; 4:4, 14; 5:23; 7:24). See note, Ezk 36:26. "Faith brings the Holy Spirit and produces a new life in hearts. It must also produce spiritual movements in hearts. The prophet Jeremiah shows what these movements are… . Therefore, when we have been justified by faith and regenerated, we begin to fear and love God, to pray to Him, to expect aid from Him, to give thanks and praise Him, and to obey Him in times of suffering. We also begin to love our neighbors, because our hearts have spiritual and holy movements… . We have said above that renewal and beginning to fulfill the Law must exist in us… . If anyone should cast away love, even though he has great faith, he does not keep his faith. For he does not keep the Holy Spirit" (Ap V 4, 98).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:34 know Me. Not merely an intellectual knowledge but an acknowledgment of a sacred relationship. The new covenant creates a conviction of fellowship with God that is self-authenticating and available for all.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:35–37 In the fourth oracle, Jeremiah assures the reader that the revival of the chosen people cannot fail to materialize; the same God who set the universe in motion and keeps it from falling into chaos promises to sustain it.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:35 fixed order. Lit, "statutes." See p 971. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:38–40 In a closing vision, Jeremiah is made to see Jerusalem rebuilt tower by tower, gate by gate.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:38 rebuilt. Jeremiah sees the holy city rise out of its ruins.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:39 Gareb … Goah. Cannot be identified.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:40 valley of the dead bodies. The Hinnom Valley (see note, 2:23). brook Kidron. See color map 1. the Horse Gate. Cf Ne 3:28. sacred to the Lord. See "holy," p 7. The sacredness of the temple courts will expand to encompass the secular and profane regions of Jerusalem. Cf Ezk 43:12.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 31:31–40 God promises His people a new relationship, not based on the Law of Moses but on grace and faith. The promise finds fulfillment in Jesus and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit in the NT (cf Heb 8). Although the Law is good and holy, it condemns sinners for what we are and what we do. In Christ Jesus, God provides the sacrifice necessary to silence the accusations of the Law. By faith, Christians have a new and right relationship with God (cf Rm 3:21–26). • We thank You, Father, for the new covenant of forgiveness won by Jesus on the cross. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 32 The promise of redemption, proclaimed in chs 30–31, is highlighted by a visual demonstration of what it means to act on faith's conviction that nothing is too hard for the Lord (vv 17, 27).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:1 word that came. See p 1080. tenth year. 587 BC.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:2 the court of the guard. Part of the palace complex. How Jeremiah came to be shut up there is told in chs 37–38.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:5 visit him. Depending on circumstances, God's action described by this verb can be a promise of deliverance or a threat of punishment (cf 29:10; Is 29:6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:7 Buy my field. Jeremiah's cousin urged him to buy a family plot of land in his hometown of Anathoth (see note, 1:1), already overrun by the enemy. right of redemption. See notes, Lv 25:25–34; Ru 4:5. Ludicrous as the transaction might appear, Jeremiah recognized in it God's call to illustrate, louder than his words, how certain it was that the land would again be occupied by the people seemingly doomed to extinction. See p 1220.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:8 came to me. The cousin got through enemy lines during a lull in the siege when Nebuchadnezzar had to fight off an Egyptian army (37:11–12).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:9 I bought the field. In the NT, the purchase of this field and the 30 shekels paid in wages to Zechariah (Zec 11:12–13) are cited as prophetic foreshadowing of the acquisition of the potter's field (Mt 27:9). weighed out the money. See note, Jsh 24:32. shekels. See p cx.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:10 sealed. Seals were lumps of clay stamped with a signet ring or cylinder that impressed the clay with a person's official insignia. They were placed over the strings that bound a folded document, which kept it closed. Nearly 400 clay seals (bullae) have been discovered in Israel, many from the "house of Bullae" in Jerusalem, which was likely burned when the Babylonians destroyed Jerusalem in 587 BC. The fire hardened and preserved these seals. Two seals have been discovered that name Baruch the son of Neriah the scribe (v 12), which could have come from Jeremiah's secretary. See note, Gn 38:18.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:11 sealed deed … open copy. One copy was rolled and sealed to prevent opening. The other remained unsealed for ready reference.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:12 Baruch the son of Neriah. Jeremiah's personal scribe. See note, v 10. Judeans. Perhaps people visiting other prisoners. court of the guard. Normally legal transactions took place at the city gates (see p 792), prevented here by Jeremiah's arrest.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:14 earthenware vessel. Effective means of preserving documents. last for a long time. Until the return from Babylonian exile.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:1–15 God tells Jeremiah to buy a parcel of land near Anathoth as a visible promise that life would return to normal after the exile (which would last a long time). Surrounded by the enemy army, it may have seemed foolish to buy land for the future, but obeying God is always the right thing to do. When trouble surrounds you, cling to the Lord's commands and promises. In His mercy, God will save His people and bring them to safety, a promise ultimately fulfilled in Jesus Christ. • Lord, help us look past the present trouble to see with joy and confidence our eternal home in Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:16–25 As under other trying circumstances, Jeremiah acted in obedience to the word of the Lord. Nevertheless, on this occasion he revealed how faith had to do battle with doubt even in a prophet's heart. He also showed how to win; he discussed his problem with the Lord, reciting an array of biblical truths to support the proposition that he should not question God's power, wisdom, justice, and goodness.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:17 outstretched arm! See "arm," p 842. too hard for You. God would begin His answer to the prayer by restating Jeremiah's words here in the form of a rhetorical question (v 27).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:18 steadfast love. See p 843. Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:19 rewarding. See note, 1Co 3:8.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:20 made a name. See "for Your name's sake," p 842.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:22 flowing with milk and honey. See p 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:23 walk in Your law. See p 7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:24 siege mounds. See notes, 2Ki 18:14; Is 37:33.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:26 word of the LORD came. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:27 God of all flesh. Creator of all people. too hard. See note, v 17.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:28 thus says the LORD. See p 1080. Echoes the inspired words spoken by Jeremiah. Cf ch 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:29 on whose roofs offerings. See note, Jsh 2:6. Baal. See note, Nu 25:3. drink offerings. See note, Lv 23:37.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:33 turned. See "turn" and "backsliding," pp 1078–80. taught them persistently. Through priests and prophets. See note, Lv 10:11.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:34 abominations. See note, Pr 6:16. house. The temple.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:35 high places. See p 526. Baal. See note, Nu 25:3. Valley of the Son of Hinnom. See notes, Jsh 18:16; Mk 9:43; cf Jsh 15:8. Molech. Derisive name for Baal. See note, Lv 18:21. this abomination. Child sacrifice to the idols.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:16–35 God charges His people with idolatry, violating the First Commandment (cf Ex 20:4–6). Because they turned their back on God, He will turn them over to the Babylonians for the city's destruction and the people's exile. Fundamental to the relationship between God and His people is their exclusive loyalty and trust, much like a marriage. Because of His love, He will eventually recall His people from the land of exile and keep His promise to send a Savior for all humanity. • O Holy Spirit, keep us faithful to our Lord, who is ever loyal to us. In Jesus' name. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:37 I will gather them. See note, 23:3–4.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:39 one heart and one way. See note, 31:33. fear. See p 1001.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:40 covenant. See p 127. The same comprehensive term Jeremiah used to describe the relationship God will establish with His chastened people (see note, 31:31). It will be everlasting because He will never cease to supply the strength for a wholehearted commitment to His will.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:41 plant. See note, 1:10. faithfulness. See p 842. all My heart … soul. See note, Dt 6:5.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:42–44 Purchase of property in Anathoth was but a token of the restoration of all the land to its rightful owners.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:44 places about Jerusalem. To the north "in the land of Benjamin"; to the west in the Shephelah or coast plain; to the south in the Negeb. Cf Gn 12:9; 2Ch 28:18; see color map 2. restore their fortunes. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 32:36–44 The Lord promises to return His exiled people to their homeland. More than that, He will renew His covenant with them and change their hearts. Because of our fallen nature, we cannot trust God or obey Him by our own reason or strength. Only He can create and sustain saving faith and faithful living in His people. Repent of your sins. In the new covenant established by Jesus Christ, the Holy Spirit creates faith within us and leads us every day as God's children. • O Holy Spirit, cleanse our hearts of sinful desires, and lead us to live for You. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:1 word of the LORD came. See p 1080. court of the guard. See note, 32:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:2 His name. See note, Ex 3:15.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:3 great and hidden things. Prophecies of judgment and restoration.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:4 houses … torn down. Another desperate maneuver in vain. Jerusalem's last days are sketched in terse language suggesting the frantic efforts to save the city. Houses were wrecked for material to replace gaps in the walls (Is 22:10). See note, Jsh 2:15. siege mounds. See notes, 2Ki 18:14; Is 37:33.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:5 Bodies, not reinforcements, would fill the buildings. hidden My face. See note, Is 45:15.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:6 health and healing. See note, 6:14.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:7 restore the fortunes. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:8 cleanse … forgive. See p 300.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:9 name of joy. No longer will the nations "be horrified … because of all its wounds" (18:16; 19:8). glory. See pp 6–7. nations … shall fear. Jerusalem would become a renewed power. See the relationship of Jerusalem to the nations in Is 2:2.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:11 the voice of mirth. Reversal of the chaos and grief threatened in 16:9; 25:10–11. thank offerings. See pp 170–71. Give thanks … forever! Cf Ps 136. restore the fortunes. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:13 See color map 2. flocks … under the hands. The method by which a shepherd would count the sheep in the morning and evening as they walked out of or into the sheepfold. Cf Jn 10:1–7.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:1–13 Eventually, the Lord will restore the fortunes of His people, and the empty streets will once again ring with joy and laughter. God's discipline must work itself out at this point before He will show mercy to His rebellious people. God plans a wonderful future for His people, ultimately fulfilled in Christ Jesus. • Strengthen us, O Lord, in trial and temptation. Keep our eyes on Christ and on our heavenly home. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:14–26 As in previous revelations of God's eternal plan for mankind, Jeremiah's vision of good things to come is not limited to the return of the chosen people from exile but penetrates to those days when the messianic Branch, sprung from David's lineage, will establish His universal kingdom of grace.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:15 a righteous Branch. See notes, 23:5–6. Jeremiah here elaborates more on the benefits to be derived from Christ's reign. justice … righteousness. See p 843. Ambr: "He who looks upon the Son sees, in portrait, the Father. Mark what manner of portrait is spoken of. It is Truth, Righteousness, the Power of God: not dumb, for it is the Word; not insensible, for it is Wisdom; not vain and foolish, for it is Power; not soulless, for it is the Life; not dead, for it is the Resurrection" (NPNF 2 10:208).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:16 saved. See "salvation," p 843. The Lord is our righteousness. By virtue of His righteousness imputed to the subjects of the King, they themselves will bear the holy name. They will have full access to the throne of God through His mediation, prefigured by the sacrifices offered by Israel's priests. These long-range promises will be fulfilled as certainly as God lets day and night follow each other.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:17 never lack a man. Zedekiah was the last of David's successors to rule in Jerusalem. The throne of the messianic King shall be established forever (see note, 2Sm 7:13). He will grant royal status to His subjects. They will reign with Him forever and ever (cf Mt 25:34; 2Tm 2:12; Rv 3:21; 22:5).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:18 Levitical priests. Priests from the tribe of Levi (see note, Dt 18:1). The promise of a perpetual priesthood (Nu 25:13) will become a reality, for the messianic Branch will be also able to save those who draw near to God through Him (Heb 7:21–28). The unnumbered host of those reconciled to God by His perfect sacrifice will constitute a holy priesthood, offering spiritual sacrifices to God (1Pt 2:5, 9; Rv 1:5–6; 5:9–10). offerings … sacrifices. See pp 170–71.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:20 My covenant with the day … night. See notes, Gn 1:14, 16; see also p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:21 See notes, vv 16–18.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:22 For similar prophetic comparisons, see note, Gn 15:5.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:24 two clans. Judah and Ephraim, which ruled the two kingdoms of Israel. Cf 1Ki 12:16–24; see pp 54–55.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:25 See note, 31:35–37.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:26 restore their fortunes. See p 1080. mercy. See pp 842–43.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 33:14–26 As certainly as day follows night, so will God keep His promise that a Davidic King will rule over His people and that a High Priest shall intercede for them. In Jesus, the Lord sent a faithful King to rule over all His people and a High Priest to intercede. Entrust your cares to Him through prayer. His all-availing sacrifice and His compassionate rule will bless and keep you. • Remind us, Father, that we always have someone who speaks on our behalf: Jesus Christ the Righteous. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:1–7 Zedekiah did not heed Jeremiah's advice to submit to the Babylonian invaders (chs 27–28). Jeremiah was sent again to warn the king that continued resistance could only end in the capture of the holy city and its destruction by fire.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:1 Nebuchadnezzar. Cf 2Ki 24–25.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:3–4 Zedekiah himself would be brought face to face with the Babylonian king for sentencing. Though allowed to die a natural death, the prisoner was not to escape severe punishment (52:9–11).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:5 burn spices. Customary at a king's funeral (see note, 2Ch 16:14).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:7 Lachish and Azekah. The two remaining fortified strongholds southwest of Jerusalem did not hold out much longer.

Notes on potsherds found in the ruins of Lachish tell the story of the hopeless struggle against the Babylonian war machine. See map, p 357.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:8–9 Free men would be more apt to help defend the city. No Hebrew man or woman, sold into slavery for debts, was to be deprived of freedom for more than six years (see note, Ex 21:2; cf Dt 15:1). See p 206.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:9 Jew. Judean. See note, Ezr 4:12.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:12 word of the LORD came. See p 1080.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:15 On biblical attitudes toward slavery and freedom, see pp 101, 206. house … called by My name. See note, 1Ki 8:18.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:16 When Nebuchadnezzar lifted the siege in order to meet the challenge of an Egyptian army, the slaveholders broke their solemn pledge and took back their slaves.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:17 liberty to the sword. Punishment for the crime, which profaned God's name though actually committed against fellowmen, is ironically called a liberation. Freedom from serving God is an independence that foregoes His protection.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:18 the calf. In making (lit, "cutting") a covenant, the contracting parties passed between two halves of a slain calf, thereby declaring that they deserved to be cut to pieces if they broke the contract. See note, Gn 15:9–10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:19 See p 228.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:20 See note, 7:33.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 34:21 king of Babylon … withdrawn. See note, 37:1–10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 34 When the Babylonians temporarily withdraw and it seems the danger is past, the rich once more enslave the servants they have freed. This reveals the unbelief and rebellion at the heart of God's people. Still, God does not reject them forever; He plans for their discipline and restoration. He is faithful to all His promises. To free us, He sent Christ, who is ever faithful. • Teach us, O Lord, to see others as You see them—through the eyes of Christ Jesus, our Savior. Stir our hearts to desire God-pleasing liberty for ourselves and for all people. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 35 The incident recorded here took place some 10 years earlier than the events described in ch 34. Though not in chronological sequence, it is documented here because, like ch 34, it furnishes further evidence that God was fully justified in threatening to destroy His rebellious people.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:1 days of Jehoiakim. 609–598 BC.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:2 house of the Rechabites. For centuries, this Kenite clan had not deviated from the austere, seminomadic way of life prescribed by their ancestor Jonadab (see note, 2Ki 10:15; cf Jgs 1:16; Nu 10:29). At this time, they were forced by the Babylonian invasion to take refuge in Jerusalem (v 11). offer them wine. Before a large audience, gathered in front of a chamber in the temple court, they demonstrated their obedience to one of their ancestral rules of conduct—they refused to drink any wine (v 6).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:3 the son of Jeremiah. This otherwise unknown person bore the same name given to the prophet.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:4 chamber. Rooms or halls surrounded the temple courts. They were used for supplies, utensils, offices, and even dwellings. Cf 36:10, 12, 20; 1Ch 23:28; 28:12; 2Ch 31:11; see diagram, p 541. Hanan the son of Igdaliah. His chamber was near that of the princes and above that of the doorkeeper. man of God. Title typical of a prophet. See note, 1Sm 2:27. Maaseiah. A high-ranking official in the temple. keeper of the threshold. A priest with special duties at the boundary between the holy temple and the common streets of Jerusalem. He kept order and made sure only worthy persons entered the temple courts (Jer 52:24).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:6–10 "When the Rechabites are praised, it is necessary [to point out] that they have observed their custom, not because they believed (1) they merited forgiveness of sins by it or (2) that the work was itself a justifying service or (3) that it was a service by which they obtained eternal life instead of by God's mercy, for the sake of the promised Seed [Genesis 3:15; Galatians 3:16]. Their obedience is praised because they had their parents' command. One of God's commandments relates to this, 'Honor your father and your mother' [Exodus 20:12]" (Ap XXVII 61).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:12–19 Then Jeremiah turned to the men of Judah. What they had heard and seen was an object lesson of the enormity of their sin of disobedience. See p 1220. For (1) they broke the Law of God, who gave them the Promised Land, and not merely a rule of unproved merit issued by a fellowman; (2) they violated the divine demand not to "go after other gods"; (3) they did this not once but many times over; and (4) they could not claim ignorance of God's will, for He persistently sent them His prophets to instruct them and call them to repentance. Such deliberate, obstinate wickedness would be punished, whereas the kind of unwavering fidelity displayed by the Rechabites will always be an example of acceptable service to God.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:15 Turn. See p 1080. amend. Lit, "make good." serve. Worship.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:18 Lord of hosts. See p 1291.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 35:19 stand before Me. See p 1277. The bodily descendants of the Rechabites no longer constitute an identifiable group, yet their clan is spared from destruction. The loyalty they displayed lives on as the approved hallmark of countless numbers who dedicate themselves to serve the Lord.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 35 God uses the faithful Rechabite family to show His people what obedience looks like. People seem to be much more willing to follow the traditions of men and ignore the Law of God (cf Mt 15:1–6). (Consider, e.g., how holiday traditions spread easily though their spiritual meaning is often lost.) God patiently calls sinners to repentance, sending messengers and granting them ample time to turn back to Him in faith. • Father, make us ready servants, faithful to Your Word and will, through Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 36 Third in a series of incidents documenting Israel's impenitence, which provokes the wrath of the Lord against them (v 7; cf chs 34–35).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:1 fourth year of Jehoiakim. 605 BC.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:2 scroll. Thin leather or papyrus that could be rolled up for storage. days of Josiah. Because Jeremiah could no longer appear in the precincts of the house of the Lord (v 5), God instructed him to write on a scroll all he had spoken for 23 years since the reign of Josiah.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:4 Baruch. See note, 32:12.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:5 banned. Jeremiah was not in prison at this time. It appears he was prevented by the temple authorities from appearing there after his clash with them (20:1–3; 26:1–11).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:6 day of fasting. Likely observed in view of the threat of Nebuchadnezzar's advance toward Jerusalem after he defeated the Egyptian army at Carchemish. See notes, 25:9, 34–38; cf 46:2. See also p 189. Lord's house. The temple.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:7 mercy. See pp 842–43. turn. See p 1080.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:8 Actual writing was done by his secretary, Baruch, at Jeremiah's dictation. After several months, when the manuscript was completed, Baruch was ordered to read the scroll to a large audience assembled in the temple to observe a fast day (vv 1–10).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:9 fifth year … ninth month. Nov/Dec 604 BC. fast. See note, v 6.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:10 chamber. See note, 35:4. Gemariah the son of Shaphan. Father of Micaiah (v 11). A seal bearing these names was found in Jerusalem. Gemariah was a supporter of Jeremiah. secretary. Hbr sopher, from the verb for counting or recounting (in speaking/writing). Also translated "scribe" (v 32; 8:8). Five such men are mentioned in Jer. They were officials who served at the palace, temple, and military posts. upper court … New Gate. See note, 26:10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:11–19 A temple official named Micaiah reported what he heard there to the officials assembled for a cabinet meeting in the chamber of the secretary of state.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:12 secretary. See note, v 10. Elnathan. See note, 26:22. Gemariah. See note, v 10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:14 Jehudi. Cf vv 21, 23.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:16 Anxious to hear the contents of the scroll, they had Baruch read the entire document to them. They were so perturbed by what they heard, they impounded the scroll in order to bring it to the attention of the king.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:17 The officials sought to discover who was responsible for the message.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:18 with ink. Omitted by LXX (see "State of the LXX Text," p 1204); perhaps regarded as unnecessary. Ink was made from plant galls and soot.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:20–26 At Jehoiakim's command, the scroll was taken into the court and read to him by Jehudi, one of his counselors. The king cut and burned the scroll until every hated word was destroyed. No doubt Jeremiah and Baruch would have shared the fate of Uriah (26:20–23), but the Lord hid them.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:22 winter house. A separate palace or special area within the palace that was easier to heat. a fire. Needed for warmth in the ninth month (Dec).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:24 neither … was afraid. They were concerned about the political significance of the document, but not its message from God. tear their garments. See p 1277.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:26 Jerahmeel. Son of King Jehoiakim. the LORD hid them. Normally such well-known citizens were easily found.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:27–32 The king's foolish attempt to silence the Word of God failed. At Jeremiah's dictation, Baruch rewrote the scroll, including also the prophecy of disaster pronounced for their iniquity on Jehoiakim, his servants, and Jerusalem.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:30 none … on the throne. See notes, 22:15, 24–30.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 36:32 many similar words were added. Completing the Book of Jeremiah that by divine providence lies before us.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Ch 36 Jehoiakim of Judah destroys the written prophecies of Jeremiah, rejecting God's mercy and the chance to repent of his sins. In doing so, he seals his fate and the fate of the nation. Persistent unbelief rejects forgiveness and grace, guaranteeing eternal condemnation for sin. Even at this late stage in Judah's history, God wants to spare the people and forgive their sins—if only they would repent and turn back to Him. So also is God's desire for every person in every age, that they might turn and repent and believe in the Savior. • Father, keep me from stubbornly insisting on my way. Teach me to trust You and live as Your child through Jesus Christ. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON Chs 37–38 Jeremiah is firm in proclaiming the inspired Word during the last two years before the fall of Jerusalem. In three private interviews with Zedekiah, he did not hesitate to announce the fearful fate awaiting the king, the city, and its inhabitants. Nor did scourging, jailing, and threat of death by the princes cower him into deviating from the truth.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:1–10 He was called to his first discussion with the king when Nebuchadnezzar lifted the siege of Jerusalem to engage an army under Pharaoh Hophra (44:30; cf 32:1–15). Asked to pray that the Babylonians be forced to stay away permanently, Jeremiah announced their inevitable return to burn the city with fire.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:1 Zedekiah. 597–587 BC. Coniah. See note, 22:24–30.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:2 people of the land. See p 228.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:3 Zephaniah. See note, 21:1. Maaseiah. See note, 35:4. pray. Jeremiah was forbidden to intercede for people intent on opposing God's will (cf 7:16; 11:14; 14:11; 15:1).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:4 put in prison. Cf v 15.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:7 See note, vv 1–10.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:1–10 Jeremiah assures King Zedekiah and the city residents that the withdrawal of the Babylonians is only temporary. The Babylonians would certainly return and destroy the city, as God had ordained because of people's sin. Sin brings terrible consequences. They are sometimes delayed, but they are inevitable. God never entirely abandons His people, but continues to call them to repentance with the promise of forgiveness and hope for the future. • Help us to understand sin and its fruit, Lord, that we may wisely follow Your way instead of the world's way. Amen.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:12 Taking advantage of a lull in fighting, the prophet of Anathoth traveled home in order to claim his share of some family property. portion. See p 7.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:13 Benjamin Gate. See note, 20:2. sentry … Irijah. A guard in Jerusalem. Jeremiah got as far as one of the city gates, where this sentry arrested him on charges of deserting to the enemy.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:15 the secretary. See note, 36:10. made a prison. Underground cell, located in the house of a certain Jonathan.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:16 dungeon cells. Apparently a further description of prison from v 15; may refer to a room below ground.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:17 questioned him secretly. During the siege, Zedekiah called for a secret consultation with Jeremiah at the palace.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:19 Predictions of popular prophets had proved false. Jeremiah spoke the true Word of God; therefore, he pleaded not to be sent back to the dungeon, where he would surely die. Afraid to expose him to possible harm by the princes, the king placed him into protective custody in the court of the guard and ordered provisions for him (vv 20–21).
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:21 court of the guard. See note, 32:2. bakers' street. Each trade and craft usually occupied the same street.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 37:11–21 Jeremiah continues to suffer for doing God's will and speaking the truth. The world hates God and His Word and opposes those who proclaim its truth. However, God does not ignore the plight of His persecuted people, and He will not neglect you. Though you enter the kingdom of heaven through tribulation, your future is assured through the Gospel of God's beloved Son. • Grant us strength, Lord, when we face trials and persecution. Keep us faithful to Jesus and focused on the prize of eternal life. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:1 Gedaliah. After the fall of the city, a man with the same name was made governor by Nebuchadnezzar (39:14; 40:5). Jucal. Aka Jehucal. Pashhur. Cf 21:1.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:2 pestilence. See note, Ps 91:3. goes out to the Chaldeans. The number of those who followed Jeremiah's advice apparently was large enough to make the king afraid of them. The king feared that if he, too, deserted to the enemy, Jeremiah's supporters would abuse him for having brought on the city's destruction (v 19; 39:9). prize of war. See note, 21:9.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:4 weakening the hands. Same type of accusation is found in a letter (ostracon) from Lachish, in which the writer complains about the words of the princes undermining morale. This letter was written just before the Babylonian siege (c 589 BC).

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:6 cistern. See note, 2:13.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:1–6 Jeremiah's enemies secure permission from King Zedekiah to kill him for treason since he advised the city's soldiers to desert and predicted their defeat at the hand of the Chaldeans. Rather than risk outright murder, they confine Jeremiah to a dry cistern with the expectation that he will die of thirst or starvation. God's people often face death for their faithful proclamation of His Word. God rescues His people, even when they die, and gives them eternal life (cf Rm 8:31–39). • Lord Jesus, help us to love You more than earthly life so that we do not lose eternal life. Amen.

JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:7–10 When Ebed-melech appealed to Zedekiah's conscience not to let an innocent man suffer a lingering death, the weak but well-intentioned king not only agreed to the rescue operation but also ordered a contingent of men to carry out the project.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:7 Ebed-melech. Lit, "the king's servant." Significance of his nondescript name is not known. Cf 39:15–18. Ethiopian. From the region of Cush or Nubia, south of Egypt. See color map 3. eunuch. See p 228.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:10 thirty men. Large contingent may have been necessary to prevent interference with the mission.
JEREMIAH—NOTE ON 38:12–13 Suction and weight caused by deep mud made it impossible to escape.
